But Shy from Public Backing

War Critics Wishing McCarthy Does Well

WASHINGTON (AP) — might run as "favorite son" presidential candidates to provide a focus for antiwar sentiment in their states. Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy well in his challenge of President Johnson but most are shy away from publicly supporting the Minnesota senator's effort. Nearly two weeks after McCarthy announced he would run against Johnson in at least four presidential primaries next year, only one member of Congress, Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., has announced he will support Johnson after that. In the Senate, several fellow war critics made it known they have taken the public stance that while they regard McCarthy's candidacy as healthy for the Democratic party, they plan to stay neutral. They give at least three reasons for this position. "Ultimately," says Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., "the President has to be judged on his total record—not only Vietnam—and overall I think the President has a tremendously impressive record." But one of these, Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., quickly backed off and, with an eye to his own expected tough re-election fight, announced he would stay out of the presidential picture. Another, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, said he was seriously thinking of becoming a "favorite son" but only for one convention ballot. He said he expected his state's delegation to support Johnson after that. One prominent House Vietnam critic, asking that he not be quoted by name, said recently that pressure on Kennedy to spring primaries and the 1968 run is increasing sharply. "If Kennedy gets in," he said, "it would obviously be a different ball game." Kennedy has said he would campaign for Johnson next year. But at about the same time, McCarthy entered the race and Kennedy loosed his sharpest attack yet on administration Vietnam policy. The third and perhaps most pressing reason for the neutrality of the "doves" is that all concede McCarthy faces a distinct uphill fight with minimal prospects of success. "Most of us will wait and see if he gets off the ground," said Rep. Brook Adams, D-Wash., adding he expected to be supporting the President next November. Congressmen and senators running in 1968 will have to calculate what effect opposition to the President would have on their own candidacies, both in

Johnson Finds Wedding Scene Now Christmas

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson returned to the White House to find a Christmas theme replacing the wedding scene he left and a towering 16½-foot-high blue spruce tree in the Blue Room. There's everything from gingerbread-plus 6,000 ornaments and 4,000 glittering lights—on the tree. It was grown by Howard M. Cowan of Portage County, Ohio, winner in a competition of the National Christmas Tree Growers Association. "Tourists will see it, too, with the White House opening today for the first time after a four-day wedding shutdown to the public. The Johnsons are expected to

Leaf-Sweeping Resumed Today

Town highway crews, working with one sweeper and a Vacuum, today resumed leaf-sweeping operations on Manchester streets. Ernest Tursek, superintendent of highways, reported. He said that the operations began on streets scheduled for leaf-pickup last Monday and that, weather permitting, they will continue tomorrow and Friday. Tursek said his crews will attempt to clean up as many streets as possible of this week's advertised schedule. However, he added, the town's leaf-sweeping program definitely will end Friday, finished or not, has done for the four years the Johnsons have been in the White House. The Rocky Mountains of Canada are more rugged than in the United States.

Winters' Comedy Record Good Choice for Gift

BY MARY CAMPBELL, AF Newsfeatures Writer If you like a comedy record under the tree for a little post-Christmas humor, we can recommend Jonathan Winters' "Movies Are Better Than Ever," which contains excerpts from three other Jonathan Winters records. Winters does the horror picture to a T—Karlhoff voice, squeaking door, electricity of the fear and all. He does Galen Drake, the famous person's voice answering what had obviously been a different question, the juxtaposition making it funny. Now, they've got Westbrook Van Dyke and John Cameron Swayze to come up with, "How much mail do you receive as an average?" Sen. Dickason answers, "I received a postcard from three and a half years ago." It's fun with Johnson, Reagan, Robert Kennedy, Humphrey, Nixon, etc. None of it slices deeply enough to be uncomfortable; it just tickles. But political humor ala "The First Family" just isn't up to the LBJ Ranch," with an interviewer asking questions and Bobby's Christmas Party" is at best a sometime funny thing. The Columbia LP starts with a not very amusing description of the talent competition in the Kennedy Manor, perking up with a father's trouble putting together a bicycle which definitely for "the girls." Getting ethnic, we have "Cowboys and Colored People" by Flip Wilson on Atlantic. This isn't overwhelming, but it's nice. Wilson assumes you know that he's a Negro; he doesn't keep talking about it. Chet Dowling and Bill Minkins wrote this one. "Rally Round the Flag" gets humorously political at times since RCA's Fannie Flagg does a telling "Mrs. Johnson" giving the First Family" just isn't up to her beautification speech. She also does Susie Sweetwater, society reporter on a bright, gossipy hometown radio station. She parodies the meeting of two old girl friends, takes off on a well-known TV cook and describes the talent competition in a beauty contest. It's a very funny record, but definitely for "the girls."

With a few Yiddish words and a good many clichés, celebrations, cards, trees and Santa are mixed for a medium of mirth by TV writers Ray Brenner and Barry E. Blitzer. HESTATION FATAL LA JOLLA, Calif.—Tunas prefer warm waters near the surface of the ocean and when cold waters are not far below they hesitate to take this route of escape from nats, according to the U. In the robbery, they got about $200. The two men tied up the hands of the night clerk, Herbert Peterson of East Hartford, after getting the money. They were leading Peterson to an upstairs apartment when a dog barked and the men became excited and fled.

South Windsor

Bus Project Aide Explains Report 'Misunderstanding'

In a letter to the South Windsor Board of Education, Dr. Thomas Mahon of Project Concern has expressed his regret "for a sequence of events that resulted in a misunderstanding" on an interim report on the project that was published before participating towns reviewed it. The letter, read at last night's meeting, was in reply to one written by the town board earlier this month expressing dissatisfaction with the incident.

Following a brief discussion, the board moved to invite Dr. Mahon to a board meeting scheduled for Jan. 30. It was noted that a supplemental report on the interim report is due on Jan. 15.

Letter to UConn

The board decided to write a letter to the board of directors of the University of Connecticut Evening Law School asking for specific reasons for the anticipated closing of the evening division of the school and expressing opposition to the closing.

Board member W. Lindsay Booth said that the school's general public.

The access road to the Timothy Edward Middle School will be placed on the agenda for discussion at a joint meeting of the public building commission, the town council and the board set for Dec. 27.

The road does not meet with the specifications of the board and the building commission has informed the board that it feels no responsibility for the road since school roads are under the jurisdiction of the board.

Board member Ronald Primavera suggested that signs be installed on the road designating it as entrance to the school only and not a through way.

Primavera noted that this would also be for the protection of students using the walking path between the Oak Ridge Estates area and the Orchard Hill Elementary School since the path crosses the roadway at one point.

School Building Cited

In a tour of the Hill Terry School, Marvin Eisenberg, principal, said that the building is in excellent condition.

However, Eisenberg called the board's attention to a recommendation made by the fire marshal that door stops be installed on the inside of the front doors of the school for use during fire drills.

Other recommendations included that outside lights be installed to illuminate the parking lot and outside grounds of the school. It was noted that more and more civic and private groups are using the school during evening hours now that it is in its second year of operation.

The board approved a motion to incorporate the "Youth and the Law" into the program for seventh grade students this year.

The request for the item was made by the South Windsor Women's Club and will be under the club's direction and auspices. In line with the motion it will be suggested to the club that Arthur Holten, principal of the middle school, to arrange details for the program.

In a report by the public information subcommittee of the board, discussion centered around a proposed newsletter from the board to town residents.

Newsletter Proposed

The Board of Education several years ago published a newsletter, "Notes and Quotes," aimed at informing the public of board policies and actions. The publication was dropped because of budget cuts.

In discussion of reinstating the newsletter, Primavera outlined a proposal calling for the publication of one issue in February at about the time the board budget will be under consideration.

Citing benefits to be derived from such a publication, Primavera said a report should be cultivated between the general public and the board. He said that this was not always possible in the daily or weekly press because of the

Svetlana Visiting Princeton N.J. For Holidays

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Svetlana Alluyeva, daughter of the late Joseph Stalin, is visiting here for the holidays and is reported to be considering this Ivy League college town as her permanent home.

She is staying with friends here for the holidays, presumably either George F. Kennan, former U.S. ambassador to Russia, and his wife, or Edward Greenbaum, lawyer for her publisher, and his wife. She has been seen several times walking Princeton streets.

Greenbaum confirmed that she is in the community where Princeton University is located, and is considering a permanent home here.

Mrs. Kennan would neither confirm nor deny that Mrs. Alluyeva is staying at their home.

"I have guests staying with me all the time," she said. "I never give out their names."

Asked about reports that Mrs. Alluyeva would settle here, Mrs. Kennan said: "Yes, I think that's true. She has peace and quiet and isn't pestered too much. You know, she might."

She has been living at the home of her translator in Locust Valley, N.Y.

There were 58.6 million refrigerators in use in this country last year, as well as $1.9 million electric ranges and 17.8 million room air conditioners.

Groucho Star Tonight On Kraft Music Hall

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "When everything in the old days," explained Groucho. "That's why I've got more offers of jobs than ever before!"

Such is the position of Groucho Marx, the irreverent elder statesman of American comedy who refused to act his age, which is 72. Among the offers which most appeal to him: 1. A series of interviews for Public Broadcast Laboratory; 2. A nightly news commentary on television with Goodman Ace and Groucho as a wacky Huntley-Brinkley; 3. A syndicated series of five-minute television tapes with Groucho grousing about contemporary customs.

These projects cast Groucho in his latter-day role as the artistic sage, the commentator with sharp aim at pomposity and human folly. That is how today's generation knows him. Those who hark back to the mad musical comedies of the Marx Brothers will be able to view the master in his fine old form tonight on NBC's Kraft Music Hall.

Groucho is host and performer on a special called "A Taste of Funny," and he will be performing in his classic role as Captain Spaulding and Dr. Hackenbush. He sings, he dances, he looms about the stage like a lecherous fox. His performance may prove a revelation to youngsters who know him only as the acid quizzmaster.

younger comies. He cited Buddy Hackett as a consistent offender. "He doesn't need it," Groucho declared. "Buddy is a brilliant monologist who can convulse an audience without using blue material. I've told him this and asked him why he does it. He says, 'I've got it inside me, and I have to let it out.' I don't understand that at all."

"To me the best of the new comedians is Sherry Green; he is a comedian's comedian. And except for an occasional line, he doesn't use dirty material. That shows it can be done."

Maps Nearly Double

WASHINGTON — The U. S. Geological Survey's distribution of topographic and geological maps to the American public has nearly doubled in the last five years — from just over 4.5 million in 1962 to more than 7.8 million in the last fiscal year.

WINE RECORD LIKELY

SAN FRANCISCO — American wineries may top 150 million gallons in shipments in 1967, according to the Wine Institute. The record shipping year was 1966, when 144.7 million gallons were shipped.

Move to Modern Methods In Offing for Post Office

By NOEL GROVE
WASHINGTON (HEA) — Machines that read handwriting, letters sent electronically within seconds, and a corporation to replace a government department. That's the talk in the United States Post Office these days, where a long-stirred revolution in the mails is toddling in its infancy. Everyone, including the postal people, concedes it's about time.
In a period when the air in- dustry has advanced from the Sped to the 707 and personal hygiene has progressed from Grandpa's Live Soap to five-day deodorant, the U.S. Post Office has gone from sorting mail by hand to sorting mail by hand.
And PO officials feel that neither rain nor sleet nor in- creased mail rates are likely to change things much, under the present structure. The present hopes lie in the proposal by Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien to turn the Post Office Department over to a government-owned corporation.
Though generally well-re- ceived, the proposal, now under study by a presidential commis- sion, has also been widely mis- interpreted by many who thought "corporation" meant private enterprise. There's no talk of an industry-owned post- al system, assure postal of- ficials. Forget the possibility of postmarks louting slogans such as "Better Mailing - Through Chemistry."
"We're speaking in terms of government-owned corpora- tion resembling TVA," said the postmaster general in an HEA interview, "but I really don't like to use TVA as an ex- ample because it's a much smaller operation."
One advantage of a corpora- tion, O'Brien suggested, would be the availability of funds not badly needed for moderniza- tion, through the issuance of bonds to provide a capital fund.
As it is now, Congress makes all appropriations to the de- partment, but revenues from postal rates go directly into the Treasury, not the Post Office. And in these times when the hue and cry for federal purse-tight- ening is at its loudest, extra funds for postal reform are hard to come by, although a record amount for research and development was allotted by Congress this year.
"Say we need $1 billion a year for modernization of fa- cilities across the country," O'Brien said.
"Congress isn't going to allot us an extra $1 billion when they have all the other departments to account for."
Some of O'Brien's strongest critics agree that managing the mails is one of the most frustrating jobs in the govern- ment. But many still oppose the corporation idea on the ba- sis of practicality and even sen- sibility.
"There are a number of laws which do not allow O'Brien to move the mail in the most ef- ficient manner," said a mail users' lobbyist. "But I doubt that Congress is going to divest itself of a constitutional author- ity it has held throughout the history of the Post Office."
Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.) says his main objection to the corporation is sentimental, al- though he questions the prac- ticity of it as well.
Painting a verbal picture of local Post Offices as lonely, community gathering places in America's hinterlands, the sen- ator said, "A corporation sounds like such a cold-blooded ed type of operation. There's such a feeling of warmth be- tween the local postmaster and the people under our present system that you just wouldn't have if he were working for a corporation."

Fulbright Says Military Plans Political Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — The military-industrial complex has become a major political force through such steps as locating defense installations and plants in the home districts of key congressmen, Sen. J. W. Fulbright said today.
Each new project creates "a constituency that will strive mightily to protect" it, he said, adding that a politician wants to preserve "the good will of his constituents by helping them to get what they want."

Bolton Pay Talk Set in Private; Rotating Classes Planned

At its lengthy meeting Monday the Board of Education voted to continue to hold salary negotiations with teachers in closed session, to adopt a rotating schedule at the high school on a trial basis, and to refer the question of the participation of seventh and eighth graders in senior high activities to the administration for a policy decision.

In deciding that salary negotiations with teachers and other staff members including secretaries and custodians should be conducted in closed meetings, the board is following previous policy.

Dr. Joseph Castagna, superintendent of schools, read a letter from William J. Sanders, commissioner of education, recommending the closed sessions as more effective in theory and experience. The town is to be informed if an agreement has been reached or not, and when the agreement is reached, this will be made public.

Dr. Castagna said that the Board of Finance should be "the first to know." He was appointed as the board's negotiating agent.

Rotating Classes The rotating class schedule will begin at the high school Jan. 2 with an evaluation after the February vacation.

Dr. Castagna told the board that the main reason the schedule is being adopted is to allow two activity periods during the week so that clubs and organizations can meet during the school day.

As the schedule is set up now, a class must be canceled or shortened to make room for a class meeting or a student council meeting.

Some clubs have been meeting after school, but both Dr. Castagna and Principal Norman Shaw have said that it is difficult to get students to remain after school.

Under the new proposal, a student would have a different schedule each day, with the first period class on Monday becoming the last period class on Tuesday, the next to last period class on Wednesday, and so on.

Dr. Castagna said that the schedule repeats itself every six weeks.

The schedule will also include a 1.30 closing of school on Friday, with the last period free for activities.

Churches Join For Concert

The choirs of Second Congregational Church and East Windsor Congregational Church will give a joint Christmas concert Sunday at 4 p.m. in the sanctuary of Second Church and at 8 p.m. at the East Windsor church. The concert is open to the public.

The program will include "The Carol of the Drums," "Gloria to God in the Highest" by Randall Thompson, a cantata "The Nativity" by Adam Gebel and three French noels. There also will be instrumental music by the chamber, Vernon, Ellington and Tolland but will also encompass the Capitol Region.

Frank Morgenson, chairman of the board, offered his thanks to all of those who helped organize and participated in the Christmas parade sponsored by the chamber.

Morgenson expressed regret for the confusion concerning the date the parade was to be held because of the inclement weather. He said this took some of the joy out of an otherwise happy event.

Rose also reported on the student work program co-sponsored by the chamber and held at Ellington High School.

Several of the proposals were favorably received at the Veron meeting, one of a hundred held throughout the country. Those attending expressed interest in technical and financial assistance in the development of income producing recreation areas; assistance in improving farm management practices; help in getting a better knowledge of existing programs and technical and financial assistance in making more effective use of forest resources, according to David Beckenholdt, agricultural editor for the University of Connecticut College of Agriculture.

Tedrow is interested in hearing new proposals from persons he had a child in junior high, interested in the "light of small farmers" and will forward all ideas received to the proper USDA officials in Washington, D.C.

William Grunke, who said he was treading carefully because he had a child in junior high, wondered if there weren't other activities besides dances that the students might have during the evening.

Dr. Castagna said that the schedule repeats itself every six weeks.

There will be also an activity period during the week.

Shaw said the plan has the added advantage of moving class times around so that a certain subject is not always held at a prime time, another at a time when students might be at a low ebb.

Manchester High School operates on a rotating schedule. The board voted to try it out, unanimously, at about 11:30 Monday night, when most of its audience of teachers had gone home. The teachers met in on the board meeting after having entertained members at a tea earlier in the evening.

Vernon Chamber Finds Credit Card Help to Small Businessmen

The issuance of solicited credit cards was sanctioned by the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce at yesterday's meeting. At the same time the directors went on record as opposing unsolicited credit cards.

A special committee, headed by Gerald Allen, was appointed to study complaints from businessmen and other residents concerning unsolicited credit cards received through the mail.

The committee, following its investigation, pointed out that many small shopkeepers use the credit card system to compete against the installment buying plans of large merchandisers.

"Credit cards encourage buying and help small businessmen move their goods and services in the face of competition from large operations," the committee noted.

However, it was pointed out by Allen, the illegal use of credit cards has mushroomed into a $20 to $30 million a year racket.

Suggestions for the handling of credit cards were made by the committee: Never lend your credit card; make sure it is returned after each purchase; destroy out of date cards; do not leave where they can be stolen; if lost immediately notify the issuer; keep a list of all credit cards owned; credit cards may be insured.

Richard Rose reported on the newly formed regional affairs committee which he termed as one of the most important of all. He said it not only will cover the three towns involved in the Chamber, Vernon, Ellington and Tolland but will also encompass the Capitol Region.

Frank Morgenson, chairman of the board, offered his thanks to all of those who helped organize and participated in the Christmas parade sponsored by the chamber.

Morgenson expressed regret for the confusion concerning the date the parade was to be held because of the inclement weather. He said this took some of the joy out of an otherwise happy event.

Since Rockwell's Death Fuehrer-less Nazis Lack Old Fury

By TOM TIEDE, NEA Staff Correspondent. ARLINGTON, Va. — (NEA) — The phone number for American Nazi party headquarters is 694-3476. There is one ring. The answering voice is sluggish and suspicious: "Who's calling?" "I'm a newspaper reporter."

There is, for another thing, a real sense of affairs as well-documented. There is, for one thing, no money in the vault. Public contributions are negligible and dim. And many of Rockwell's sugar wafers dried up with his death.

But the chief was at party headquarters these days in leadership. There is very little of it and what there is is vaporous. Rockwell, for all his sickness, had personal magnetism. There seems no one around to take his place.

At best, Koehl is unimpressive. His most noteworthy personal achievement is a high school diploma. He is married, owns no record of military experience and has what the FBI files call "a his-trical purpose" of deranged thinking.

Koehl is disliked by many party members, past and present. Some claim he is a self-seeking opportunist. Others claim he's a government-placard spy. Most, however, believe he hasn't the mentality to be a member. Now it's even less.

One ex-Nazi, Karl Allen of Alexandria, says that Koehl's nickname is "the Robot," that he's a "good follower," but no continue strapping up trouble leader from time to time. But it's reason he leads the party now

Pressure for Study Grows On 'Go-Go' Mutual Funds

By JOHN CUNIFF, AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Pressure has built up strongly in the past few weeks to study the impact on stock prices of institutional trading, especially by the performance of go-go mutual funds.

A belief exists that the enormous blocks of shares owned, bought and sold by these institutions—funds, banks, insurers, trusts—may bring disaster to the market, causing unusually sharp price changes.

Manuel F. Cohen, chairman of the Securities & Exchange Commission, has now suggested that a broad study be made of institutional trading. No such study now exists, although the cult of performance is spreading.

Not only has volume on the exchanges soared to records, but in some areas of the market volatility has increased sharply. Stocks have had sharp runs and sharper collapses, trapping many investors who have failed to recognize that conditions have changed.

UAW and GM Near Deadline

DETROIT (AP) — With a union deadline less than 48 hours away, bargainers for the United Auto Workers and General Motors Corp. worked today on a new contract covering 380,000 union members.

If national contract bargaining is not completed by Thursday, the union says it will set a combined national and local strike deadline for early January.

City Leaders in Kansas Win Decisive Vote

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas City's reform city government, in office since 1963 and re-elected this spring, won another decisive vote in a special election Tuesday.

Voters defeated by nearly three-to-one a proposal which would have shortened the terms of elected city officials from four to two years.

The unofficial vote against the proposal city charter amendment was 22,063 to 11,776. Only 23 per cent of the registered voters turned out.

Had it been approved, the charter amendment would have forced another municipal election of council members and municipal judges next spring.

Mayor M. Glenn, president of the local, said the aim was to "get rid of the people in city hall today—all of them."

Yemen's Capital Is Controlled By Republicans

SANA'A, Yemen (AP) — Yemen's gray mountain capital was firmly in Republican control today and its firmness was there any sound of Royalist gunfire.

Sana'a was under a curfew Tuesday night for the third night in a row and several gun shots were heard—but they signalled the end of Republican control.

The Royalists have been claiming for the past five years that they were about to capture Sana'a, said Col. Abdullah Barakat, 46, acting interior minister.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The town of 1,300, the nearest doctor was more than 20 miles distant before Brown moved into an abandoned clinic in July.

"I'm amazed by these people, by their faith in me and their desire to help," said Freddie Brown, alias Dr. Reid L. Brown.

He referred to the residents of Groveton, who have circulated a petition urging for leniency in prosecuting Brown on perjury charges.

Taxes in State Over Year Ago

HARTFORD (AP)—The State Tax Department reported today tax collections of $131.31 million for the first five months of the fiscal year—an increase of about $7.80 million over the comparable period a year ago.

The collection total includes $37.23 million from the sales and use tax, but only for the first three months of the July 1-Nov. 30 period. The sales and use tax figure for the first three months of the 1966 fiscal year was $34.70 million.

The next largest single source of revenue for the first five months of the fiscal year was the motor fuel tax—$31.78 million, up $4.62 million from the figure for the same period a year ago.

A drop in the cigarette tax, including license fees, was reported, from $14.07 million a year ago to $13.85 million in the first five months of the current fiscal year.

Genevieve Bujold: A Different Actress

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Genevieve Bujold looks in her mid-teens, but when she is musing about her fatalistic philosophy of life and art she could be a woman of the world, so mature and experienced she hasn't dared tell her age for a decade.

Genevieve Bujold at home in Canada

Unknown to U.S. audiences—except those seeing her in three critically-acclaimed French films—Genevieve Bujold should become a hot theatrical property after TV audiences see her portrayal of "Saint Joan" in the two-hour Hallmark Hall of Fame production of the G. B. Shaw play.

actor with whom she appeared in "The Thief": "He is certainly the actor I enjoyed working with most. He was serious about his work, but not about himself. He's a good actor and a real man—and that's harder and harder to find. We couldn't complete a take without breaking out in laughter. I would love to do a film with him not to... but he was always making jokes. I giggle a lot, out of nervousness, probably, but also because I enjoy laughing."

Her family: "I don't like to bring my family into interviews. It's not that we're estranged; my sister is my best girl friend. But if my husband weren't in the business I'd like him left out."

Janet Robinson, University of Connecticut junior, strikes "model" pose outside Union Building. Janet, daughter of a Stamford fireman, is associated with the Stewart Modeling Agency of New York, the same firm which lists the internationally famous "Twiggy" among its mannequins.

UConn Coed Doubles As Fashion Model

STORES — A University of a fashion model with a large Connecticut coed, who hopes some day to teach first grade, is featured in two national magazines this month, but not as a budding teacher.

Janet Robinson, 20-year-old junior from Stamford, is a full-fledged model—registered with the Stewart Modeling Agency of New York—the same outfit which includes "Twiggy" and "Veruschka," two of the world's top models.

The fall (she's 5'8") blonde is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Robinson, 46 Andover St., Stamford. Her father is a Stamford fireman.

Janet attended St. Mary's grammar school and Sacred Heart Academy in Stamford before enrolling at the UConn. She is working her way through the state university and has held such part-time and summer jobs as dietary aids in St. Joseph's Hospital, a receptionist and "kiddie pool" lifeguard at the Long Ridge Swim and Tennis Club and as a clerk in the UConn placement office under the "Work Study" program.

Recently she was awarded the Pan Hellenic Scholarship, an award based on academic achievement and leadership. Janet has a long list of extracurricular activities which have taken up much of her spare time. Last spring she was elected "Miss University of Connecticut" and earlier won a first-sponsored "Queen" crown.

A sister of Kappa Kappa Gamma society, Janet was coordinator of Winter Weekend last year and this semester is handling public relations for the Student Union Board of Governors.

Miss Robinson had a yen for modeling career as early as the spring of her freshman year at UConn. She tried for modeling jobs at several New York agencies, but was unable to land one. Later, however, she joined the Connecticut Modeling Agency of Stamford and worked as

GUM MARKET EXPANDS
CHICAGO — Market research shows that the biggest U.S. gum chewers are in the 15-to-35 age group—which has grown 17 per cent, to 55 million, since 1960.

What Fads
Will Come
To America?

NEW YORK (AP)—Worn and politics make up the dusty bones of any people's history. But to make a people come truly alive you have to know what "turned them on" when they were living flesh—what artistic pastimes pleased them, what folkways they followed, what fables led them to act as they did.

In an earlier day H. L. Menckel, the Baltimore sage, did much to sustain the view of the rest of the world that the United States is not only the richest but also the nuttiest TruFolks on earth. His mantle as the chief historian of our national wackiness seems to have fallen on another newspaperman—Paul Sann, executive editor of the New York Post.

A wiry, graying-haired man of 53 with impeccable personal culture, Sann has only one character defect, if it can be called a defect—a literary love for oddballs, screwballs, and congenial scalawags, and con men of all kinds who brighten the grit of the day's news. He collects them as lesser connoisseurs hoard rare coins, seashells or stamps.

He has put the results of 30 years of research in this field into a 370-page volume entitled "Fads, Follies and Delusions of the American People: A Pictorial History of Madness, Crime and Crowd Phenomena."

If Gen. Charles de Gaulle of France is on your Christmas list, you simply must send a copy to him—but you'll have even more fun reading it yourself.

Sann methodically and merrily traces student manias ranging from goldfish swallowing to panny raids and campus revolts, women's fashions from the Baugerie hat to the miniskirt, popular music from "Yes, We Have No Bananas" to Elvis Presley and the Beatles.

He recalls such idiosyncratic figures of the last half century as Flaggpole Kelly, Dr. Francis Townsend, Billy Sunday, Francis Dineen, and Gen. the Comptroller.

Remember Technocracy, the bunion derbies, bulk hoops, the outta board, chain letters, Dr. Emile Coue, raccoon coats and coonskin caps? Sann tells the story behind the story of how each managed to catch attention—and the story of how it died. It makes for sobering as well as vastly entertaining reading.

Take, for example, the sudden death of film star Rudolph Valentino in 1926, an event which led a crowd of 30,000 hysterical women to storm the funeral parlor where his body was on display.

Was it simply an outbreak of mass adoration for a screen idol? Hardly. Sann points out that the associates of Valentino, who died half a million dollars in debt, hired 40 press agents to stir up a crowd reaction. It was so successful, he says, that the release of Valentino's films brought in enough money to pay off all debts and leave $700,000 in profit.

Sann, who is also author of a history of the 1920's "The Lawless Decade," and coauthor of "The Pictorial History of the World," believes that property accounts for the fact that Americans succumb to more fads than other nations. "We have a lot more money to spend on them," he said. "This is an already affluent society. Things go into orbit here because the money's here."

Tolson, of most fads, he believes they do little real harm and serve as a kind of national safety valve. "I think they say as to why the masses of American people are so violently violent to buy or do the same thing at the same time."

What will the next big fad be? "I don't know," replied Sann, smiling. "I wouldn't tell anybody. I'd put it out myself and make a killing."

"Anybody who knows what it would be would be crazy not to patent it, then run with the loot. That's the history of most fads. Those who get in at the start make the money—the latecomers are left holding the bag."

Northwest's Many Dams Altering Run by Salmon

By MIKE DOAN Associated Press Writer PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — One of nature's most amazing rituals, already gone forever in most of the United States, has been drastically altered by the Northwest's many dams.

For thousands of centuries salmon made their voyages up the nation's rivers to lay their eggs and die. But when man built water wheels and dumped wastes into water the fish no longer were able to swim in most Eastern rivers and became practically extinct there.

In the less populous Northwest, salmon still are able to hatch in a mountain stream. Driven by some compelling force, they travel down the Columbia River to the ocean, often 1,000 miles away.

The salmon disappear into the vastness of the Pacific Ocean, but from two to six years later, in one of those mysteries that nature creates, they reappear, now full grown.

Desperately, compulsively, at least 1.5 million fish fight their way upstream each year, always seeking the ocean. They themselves were hatched. Biologists say they use a variety of sense to do so, including navigation by the stars. But they mostly use their sense of smell to find their place of origin.

There the female fish lays thousands of eggs. The male covers them with his sperm. Their job done, they wearily start back downstream. They do not complete the journey. They die. But thousands of their offspring make the trip later instead.

we care A&P What Quality Beef Does A&P Sell?

That's a fair question. But not an easy one to answer because we have our own quality standards, different from any other meat merchant. These standards don't fit exactly the familiar terms you know for grades of meat.

That doesn't mean we don't approve of such grading—not at all. It just means we're very fussy about the beef we label "Super-Right". It stands to reason we have to be or A&P wouldn't be America's number one meat merchant.

Take Pots, Not Head

Members of the Nanda Hills area of East Acton wear cooking pots on their heads at night. They do this out of fear of the Nanda Bear, a fictional bear that enjoys eating human heads. The Bearman reasons that the attacking Nanda Bear will grab the pot and run away, thinking it has a head.

U.S. Refugee Official in Viet Tells of VC Attack on Percy

SAIGON (AP) — It took three hours during an unscheduled, unannounced visit by Percy, his wife and two children to the deserted village of Dakson, 60 miles north of Saigon near the Cambodian border, which the Viet Cong devastated last week.

"It was a miracle. I don't understand why we weren't killed or at least wounded," said the two crewmen while the other five men inspected the village.

Smith, 26, a U.S. refugee official from Milton, Mass., who has been in South Vietnam for seven months.

The Communists opened up with mortars and small arms said Smith, "we all hit the ground. I was going to get up, but then the second one hit about 15 feet away.

"We were huddled all together. I got up and said 'Head to the river.' We were in a clear strip almost as big as a football field that had been burned out by the Viet Cong attack on the village. Obviously they were around in on us. Toward the river there were huts and trees that would offer some protection.

"As we started to run, they opened up with small arms fire and I hit the ground again. Everyone was flat on the ground. I started to crawl forward. I glanced back and saw the Viet Cong crawling in the opposite direction from where I was going. I would assume he was crawling into the line of fire, into Viet Cong territory. I passed a 38 revolver to the senator. I had a rifle. I said, 'Follow me.' We angled off to the right to pick up the rest and headed toward the river."

"Near the river there were huts and trees that offered protection. At the last hut before a clearing, I told him to cover the rear since he had only a 38 covered the front.

"I told him we could stay where we were and wait for the help to come. He understood. Everyone agreed. I went from the hut and saw four Army helicopter gunships and the chartered helicopter circling overhead.

"The last sweat was to figure out how to flag the chartered helicopter down. I didn't want to

STUDENT BODY SPORTS
WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Football at the U.S. Military Academy is one spectacular sport enjoyed by the student body of Army officers.

Each Cadet attended the Army home games at Michie Stadium last year. Half the Corps of Cadets went to the Boston College game; the other half made the trip to Pittsburgh. ### 1967 Seen Good Year To Save

NEW YORK (AP) — It now seems certain that for the entire year 1967 the American consumer will have saved more money than in any other year in his life.

The amazing total of $7.8 billion a year, based on the present savings rate, results not just from the growing number of consumers and constantly rising income, but also because the ratio of savings to income is sharply higher this year.

So far in 1967 the ratio is 7 per cent, the highest for any sustained period since 1953, when fewer consumers existed and much lower wages prevailed.

In 1966 the total was $2.6 billion. And in 1965, when the savings rate was a more normal 5.8 per cent of disposable income, the total of personal savings was only $2.7 billion.

Using the 7 per cent ratio it is quite easy for any individual to assess his comparative standing, simply by multiplying his after-tax income and inserting two decimal points.

If you, as an individual or as one of the nation's 50 million heads of family, had after-tax income of $5,000, for example, you would have had to save $350 to keep pace. If your disposable income was $8,000, your savings would be $560.

It remains for historians to analyze this unusually conservative behavior, which began to develop along with inflation, rising interest rates and tight money last year, and which has a corollary in the housewife's revolt against high food prices.

It requires no analysis, however, to uncover the consequences of this change. Retail sales have grown at a rate less than expected. Car sales have been sluggish. Installment credit has risen only slowly. Debt repayment has been swift.

The consumer has proved, in other words, that with his discretionary financial power—his choice to either spend or save—he can greatly influence the course and functions of the economy.

It is perhaps only partly a coincidence that after the housewife attacked the grocer last year food prices began to stabilize. Retail prices have risen 8 per cent since then, but food prices have gone up only one-tenth that percentage.

One of the more fundamental changes wrought by this conservatism has been in consumer credit, where a powerful long-term trend has been slowed.

The wide use of consumer credit has been one of the fuels energizing the post-World War II economy. The expansion in its use has, literally, amounted to a revolution in American attitudes and living habits.

Gone, for example, is the old ethic that said what is purchased must first be won with toil. The attitude now is quite opposite: buy now and pay later with income from your work.

Household indebtedness, therefore, has continued to rise almost inevitably, increasing in every year since 1946 and now approaching $400 billion. It was $25.1 billion in 1946.

During this same time consumer credit alone has risen from $4.4 billion to $26.9 billion September of this year. Such a huge increase means a powerful momentum has been built up for even further increases.

Nevertheless, the conservative pattern of recent months has made its dent even in this powerful trend. The expansion of installment credit continued this year, but its gain was the smallest since 1961.

Whereas it grew from $27.6 billion in 1965 to $4.4 billion at the end of 1966, the gain in the past year will amount to only a bit more than $1 billion, a tremendous slowdown.

Recent studies, especially by the University of Michigan in September, show consumers becoming a bit more liberal in their spending attitudes but still wary of the long-range outlook.

Without a doubt, consumers are being told something by their aggregate attitude. A deep, powerful current is running through the consumer mind.
