The Castro Vaccine This is not an editorial saying it is a good thing that Fidel Castro, nine years ago, took over Cuba.

It is going to be an editorial advancig the theory that the fact that Castro as been in Cuba these nine years constitutes just about the best anti-Communist vaccination this hemisphere could ossibly have received.

The possibility is that the existence of Castro in Cubs, plus his record there, plus his attempted activities elsewhere the hemisphere, have constituted about as powerful an antidote against the further rooting or spread of Communism in this hemisphere as could be antidote can be imagined, and it would actually have been much more difficult to achieve, although infinitely more deirable in itself.

That one more potent antidote against Communism would have been to have a emocratic style revolution take place and succeed in Cuba. Such a thing is possible, as witness Mexico and Venezuela, but also tremendously difficult, as witness instances where it does not succeed, as in Guatemala or the Dominican Or, to make a cynical summation at this point in our argument: it is easier to let Communism demonstrate its liabilities, shortcomings and mistakes than it is to produce the perfect sample of Cubs needed revolution of one kind or another. And even the polsoned revolution of Communism has accomplished some of the things that needed to be accomplished. But, on balance, it has become the non-showcase for Communism in this hemisphere. It has become the chief reason Communism has developed no sharp mounting appeal for other peoples of this hemisphere, even during a time when the Chinese Communists, for one branch of the Communist international family, had high hopes and designs for subverting parts of Monroe

Not because it is almost true that the automobile has become the chief real god worshipped by our hemisphere civilization, but because the failure involved in Cuba is typical of other deficiencies of the Communist - style experiment there, it was important that Castro's ninth anniversary parade should have been a parade practically devoid of motorized units, because, after nine years, a shortage of oil makes it necessary for Cuba to do much of its traveling on foot. This is not, we repeat, an editorial saying it is a good thing the hemisphere has a Castro in Cuba, to help it in its appraisal of the value and success of lar supposition, imagine what the situahad been "brainwashed." tion would have been if the United .States, with its overwhelming military power, had gone into Cuba early in the Castro game, and wiped out the Communist experiment there. Then the present demonstration of how Communism really works out would never have been allowed to occur; we would be to blame for whatever imperfections remained in the life of Cuba; Castro would have been washing statement. what he was perhaps really cut out to be, the martyr of future revolutions, ra-Eisenhower's subsequent statement that ther than the unsuccessful manager of his own revolution. This negative sort of victory for us in Cuba cannot have any happiness or real satisfaction in it. What it really does for parently have begun to feel a growing us is to provide us with time and oppordissatisfaction with the Michigander's tunity to play our own discreetly positive role in the encouragement and support of democratic style revolution elsewhere in the hemisphere. Unfortunately, there is not much indication that the Johnson administration is being very adept at exploiting the positive opportunities being created for it by the negative aspects of the Castro record in

"Peace Has Need Of Courage" The fact that the editor of a Vatican faceted excellence. publication has now penned the sharpest criticism of American policy in Vietnam yet to come from the Vatican seems testimony enough that the Vatican, as an institution, was disturbed by President Johnson's obvious attempt to use his self-invitation to Rome to pose as a SCIENCE MONITOR

champion of peace, just like Pope Paul

If that may have been the lever which slipped the acid into the pen of the Vatican editor, the editor's comment seems to have been fairly accurate diagnosis of the United States position in Vietnam. Quite accurately, in our opinion, the Vatican editorial locates the crucial decision—the first decision to bomb North letnam-which sent the United States down a "blind alley" in which we have been trapped ever since, not getting the results we hoped for from the bombing, alienating even our own best friends who question both the moral and political standards we are following, and denying to ourselves that freedom of choice and policy a great nation ought to possess. Only when it comes to the question of solution does the Vatican editorial come down to the same kind of helplessness which afflicts all who try to devise some practical way out of the ragedy in Vietnam.

What the Vatican editor came down in the end was a true verdict like his: "Peace has need of courage pernaps even more than does war. This is the teaching that comes from the sad facts of which we are witnesses."

Pope Paul has demonstrated that kind of courage, in his historic and unprece dented pilgrimage to the United Nations, n his repeated positive challenges to the peace protestations of the American President. But, as the impressive recent statement by the group of 14 distinguished "moderates" pointed out, the United States still has to demonstrate that it ossesses the courage to deescalate as well as escalate in Vietnam. Perhaps, by all the mounting diplo matic signs, such an opportunity is now at hand. Let us hope that the Johnson administration can develop, for the pos sibility of negotiation, some of the courage it has hitherto reserved for fronting up to the possibilities of war down a blind alley.

Good Things Come In Herds . one bright and cheerful solution of our refuse problem-pulp up our old newspapers, magazines, wrappings and packagings and feed them to bossy, who will rive us back milk and more of that natural fertilizer we need to avoid overnitrating our agriculture—than we have n alternative solution. We can take the same wastes, includ-

ng quite a few other things, including our garbage, and by the use of a new Japanese process turn them into building blocks. The process involves the joint application of pressure and heat and its inventor has another proces called "carbecue" because it has proved capable of reducing an old automobile body into one solid lump. The variation of the process which makes building blocks takes refuse, compacts it to solids, and then encases the resultant solid material with asphalt, cement, vinyl or iron sheeting. The process creates no smoke or fumes itself, is guaranteed germ-free, and is cheaper, too, than other methods of refuse disposal. There is no such thing as a superflu ity of such inventions. The discovery of this process of converting refuse into building blocks, coming almost simultaneously with the discovery that we can feed our old newspapers to the dairy cow, is no duplication at all, but merely an answer to the worry of where we were going to get the barns for all the new cows we are going to need.

Falling Romney Barometer Warning bells are ringing with increasing insistence in Gov. George Romney's camp. They should be heeded. Former President Eisenhower's reported criticism of the Governor, coupled with the reported reluctance of the Marine commander in Vietnam to see Mr. Romney are symptomatic of the Michigan Governor's weakened position in the public eye. Eisenhower is quoted as saying that Governor Romney "has been on so many sides of so many questions that one begins to wonder just where he does stand. He sounds like a man in a panic. And a man who panics is not the best candidate for president." General Cushing's reported wish to avoid seeing the Republican presidential contender is traced to the former's objection to Governor Romney's statement last summer that, on an earlier trip to Vietnam, he

These are serious blows to a man seeking the highest public office in the United States. Churchill, Aiken Following In Famed Fathers' Footsteps

European Staff Correspondent LONDON (NEA)—Sir Win-Churchill and Lord Beaerbrook were not only close friends but an unbeatable war-time team. Beaverbrook built the planes with which Churchill won the Battle of Britain. Were they alive today, these wo British leaders would rejoice to see that their descendants are not only following in their footsteps but that they are he best of friends as well. Winston S. Churchill II, 27, rendson of the late prime minster, first met Jonathon Aitken, 5, great-nephew of Lord Beaerbrook, when they were both

Warns of Another Riot

Detroit Negro Head Rejects Ford Grant

has been rejected by a militant Negro leader with a warning that Detroit may face another devastating riot in the summer.

The money was turned down by the Rev. Albert Cleage, a Black Power advocate who heads the Federation for Self-Determination, a group established to help rebuild Detroit's Negro community.

Cleage, who preaches separatism, said there will be another riot if white leaders fail to allow the black community to run its own affairs.

"If the white community is intelligent enough to transfer power to the black community so that self-determination can be a reality, then there will be no necessity for a rebellion," he de-

Cleage told newsmen Friday that the offer of $100,000 in matching funds had too many strings attached. The offer was made through the New Detroit Committee a blue ribbon group appointed by Gov. George Romney and Mayor Jerome Cavanagh, to coordinate rehabilitation efforts following last summer's costly riot.

reality, then there will be no necessity for a rebellion," he declared.

"But if the white community does not do that, there will be another rebellion. That will be my fault, that will be your-fault."

Dual grants of $100,000 each were offered to Cleage's federation and another Negro group, the Detroit Council of Organizations, which advocates an inte-
