The bank where people go to work for people

A bank's annual statement shows its assets in terms of dollars and cents. That's important, of course. But Hartford National has an even more vital asset... the people who work here. They're second to none when it comes to helping their neighbors and contributing to their communities. Chances are, your banker is involved in activities like Red Cross, Junior Achievement, YMCA, Scouts, The Salvation Army, Community Chest. You'll also find him in local government, community renewal programs, and just about every civic, church and cultural activity. We're extremely proud of the human assets we have at Hartford National, where both people and money go to work for people.

Parties Vie In Denmark

OSLO (AP)—The Danish Socialist government in national elections opened a period of intense maneuvering today with the key position held by a party opposed to Danish membership in NATO. Premier Jens Otto Krag announced his minority government would resign after his Social Democratic party lost seats in Parliament in Tuesday's election and the allied Peoples Socialists lost three. Krag had called the election to seek approval of an austerity program to check inflation.

clear he would try to remain in the post he has occupied since 1962. He said his party, still the largest in Parliament with 63 seats, would seek an alliance with the pacifist Radical Liberals, whose increase from 15 to 28 seats was the biggest gain in the election and gave them the balance of power in the 178-seat Parliament. Pre-election soundings indicated the Radical Liberals were unlikely to join forces with Krag. There was much talk of a coalition made up of the Conservatives, the Moderate Liberal Party and the Social Democrats.

In St. Louis, Mo., the fathers of three Pueblo crew members said they felt Washington should avoid any precipitate approach to the problem of retrieving the vessel and its personnel. "Let's keep cool," said Oliver M. Langenberg, father of FO

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Vincenzo Strano was hit by a double tragedy today—one son was believed captured aboard the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo and another was reported killed in combat in Vietnam. Communists Escalate Battle

SAIGON (AP)—Communist gunners escalated the battle of the South today with a heavy shelling of the U.S. Marine regional command center of South Vietnam. It was their first attack with big guns on the base, or a red clay bluff three miles north of the town of Khe Sanh. A Marine spokesman in Da Nang said 150 shells of tube artillery ranging up to Russian-made guns of 102mm—about six inches in diameter—and rockets and mortar fire rained on the base in a 30-minute barrage. There was no immediate word of casualties or damage. About 2,000 of the 5,000 Marines deployed in the full country around Khe Sanh division told allied interrogators the Communist objective was to launch an offensive against South Vietnam's two northernmost provinces which would "destroy American forces." A "victory would be followed by negotiations," the defector said. A number of high officials in the U.S. Embassy in Saigon believe that North Vietnam is about to launch a massive military campaign in an attempt to wipe out American forces there to pave the way for negotiations. The American officer said the North Vietnamese 304th Division has infiltrated into western Quang Tri Province, where the U.S. Marines have been under heavy pressure this week. The U.S. source said a lieutenant who defected from the new

WASHINGTON (AP)—The commander of the private U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo ordered top secret codes and electronic gear destroyed as North Koreans boarded his ship Monday night, sources said today. The disclosure came as a four-ship Navy task force including the carrier Enterprise cruised toward North Korea and the United States applied diplomatic leverage in a bid to recover its captured vessel and her 83 men. The Pentagon knows the elaborate destruct procedures designed to prevent critical information from falling into enemy hands—were initiated, sources disclosed. It was not determined whether all the classified gear was burned or dumped overboard as the ship's plan called for. The Pentagon assumes that most of the valuable material was destroyed. The procedure included the firing of explosive destruct devices around the communications paraphernalia. There were reports the Pueblo's four wounded men were injured by the explosives but sources said, "We really don't know what happened" to them. North Korea, in a monitored broadcast, claimed killing and wounding some of the Pueblo's crewmen. Sources here said American authorities know that the North Koreans fired on the Pueblo when approaching or boarding the ship. They said they did not know just when the firing came, or what the circumstances were. Tuesday night the Pentagon said a message from the Pueblo captain did not refer to any enemy force. The four-ship American force moved in high readiness through the Sea of Japan while the United States asked the Soviet Union to persuade North Korea to give up the 83-ton craft, which had 83 men aboard. The White House called North Korea's capture of the lightly armed vessel "a very serious situation." The State Department viewed it "with utmost gravity." President Johnson was to prepare a message to be described as a regular meeting of the National Security Council. The ship incident was likely to be the No. 1 topic. Garrison Subpoenas Lee Oswald's Widow

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The widow of Lee Harvey Oswald was subpoenaed for grand jury testimony today by Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison, who doubts Warren Commission findings that Oswald alone assassinated President John F. Kennedy. Garrison's office issued the subpoena for Marina Oswald Porter, now of Richardson, Tex., a Dallas suburb, to appear here Feb. 9 as part of Garrison's controversial probe into the assassination. Asst. Dist. Atty. James L. Alcock said investigators want to ask her what she knew about Oswald's activities in New Orleans during the summer of 1963. Kennedy was killed Nov. 22, 1963, in Dallas, Tex. Oswald was shot to death during a jail transfer two days later by Jack Ruby, who has since died from cancer. Alcock said a copy would be mailed to Dallas County Dist. Attorney. Garrison has subpoenaed nearly a dozen persons and material witnesses in his probe, but has had little success thus far getting them into Louisiana to testify. The subpoena for Mrs. Porter guarantees her immunity from prosecution. Alcock said a copy would be mailed to Dallas County Dist. Attorney. (See Page Eighteen)

Critics Show Impatience Thieu's Friends Say Reforms Coming Soon

AN AP News Analysis By BARRY KRAMER In far Thieu has chosen to go slowly. In addition, personal differences between Thieu and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, a former air marshal, have hampered executive decision-making. Both men deny they are feudish, but people close to them say that animus and imagined similarities cause the two men to avoid each other. Thieu and Ky appear together in public only occasionally. Rumors persisting that Ky has been terminating an anti-American program in the newspapers to discredit Thieu. Ky denies this. He has told associates that Thieu has given him little to do in the government. The House of Representatives and the Senate, elected in September and October, only recently completed setting up their rules and electing officers. They still have not acted on any legislation, although committees are looking into several problems. Thieu met with President Johnson in Australia last month. He could be if he chose to go ahead with his inauguration speech plans to eliminate cor-

British Deplores Seizure of Pueblo

LONDON (AP)—The British government today officially deplored North Korea's seizure of the U.S. ship Pueblo and expressed concern over the details of the position of the Pueblo at the time of interception. Officials said the British government was convinced on the basis of American and other information—which they did not disclose—that the vessel was in fact on the high seas when she was boarded by the North Koreans. The British authorities made clear they are in no way directly involved in the incident. However, in answer to questions, informants said the British government still recognizes the validity of its commitment of August, 1953, relating to the defense of South Korea. At that time, the 16 nations which fought under the U.N. "We deplore the seizure of the vessel, which was in international waters," the spokesman said. "This was a provocative act. The United States has a right to freedom of navigation in international waters." Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., charged: "This administration has developed a strange new doctrine—that Soviet stranglehold of U.S. air and sea power."

Washington (AP)—The GOP banner on the Congressional floor today carried the message of "military success in Vietnam." The Texas Republican accused the Johnson administration of following what he termed "a self-defeating policy of gradualism" which he said "caused superiority" and for "quarantines to pull our punches; it prolonged the fighting; it cost American lives unnecessarily. This war could be over today if the Johnson Administration had acted with determination instead of with vacillation," he added. (See Page Eighteen)

Regionalism: Resisted but Growing

Low Cost Housing Sought in Suburbs

The Greater Hartford Housing Development Fund is negotiating with Manchester organizations to provide low and moderate income housing in town.

Bierce declined further elaboration of the plan, because "I don't want to arm the opposition."

The Housing Fund organization is also negotiating with groups in Bloomfield and Farmington.

Asked if his organization used "blind names" when purchasing property in the suburbs, Bierce replied, "No, we work with church groups, and are content playing low income apartments."

Describing the housing needs of the region, Bierce explained that 1,800 units of moderate income housing are needed "east of the Connecticut River."

The MISAC Corp., formed by seven local churches, had sought the four-acre parcel in the North East development area which the Manchester Redevelopment Agency has agreed to sell to the Greater Hartford Housing Fund.

The MISAC Corp., formed by seven local churches, had sought the four-acre parcel for low income families to live in comfortably. This would create a need for six to eight-room apartments or houses, it was noted.

Bierce advised the purchase of the two-family houses in Hartford by private groups and their conversion back to single family residences to meet this need.

The Greater Hartford Housing Development Fund, Inc. is a step-child of the Greater Hartford Chamber of Commerce and groups largely through church groups.

Bierce noted the city of Hartford presently has 3,713 public housing units of which only 50 are of recent construction. The 50 units are housing for the elderly, he stated.

The State Department of Community Affairs programs are in danger of becoming "governmental pots to be dipped into by the politicians," according to Dr. Frederick Adams, co-chairman of the Governor's Conference on Human Rights and Opportunities.

The department was originally set up to meet the "human needs" of the state, he told those attending last night's Symposium.

"A major hang-up exists in the area of human needs," he stated. "Human needs are interpreted as black needs."

"When we get to human needs on a regional basis, all kinds of mythical monsters raise their heads," he said. A development program is needed to get to the problem, "which is the people themselves."

"The creation of a regional housing authority would create a furor in this region. We are quietly and efficiently going in to individual suburban public housing. This can be done by following "creative thinking" he noted.

The legislative intent of the Mrs. Duke Falls Auxiliary Post Mrs. Martin Duke of 15 Scarborough Rd., former first vice president of the Women's Auxiliary of Manchester Memorial Hospital, will fill the post of president for the unexpired term of Mrs. Janet Vernier. Mrs. Vernier's resignation was accepted Monday at a meeting of the Auxiliary at Susannah Wesley Hall of South Methodist Church.

Concept Called Suspect

"Regionalism is an emotional word," St. Rep. Nicholas Leng, minority leader of the House of Representatives, told those attending last night's regional symposium at the University of Hartford.

"The regional concept is not fully understood, it is suspect, the subject of widespread misunderstanding," he added.

"This misunderstanding increases as we move away from the urban areas, and also meets resistance in the urban core," he noted.

Regionalism is "not political" or "populist," he said. It will progress, however, as the city centers complain about rising problems with which they feel unable to cope.

"If we don't cooperate, the state will step in and say we will cooperate next year," the superintendent stated.

Asked what the delay in Hartford living outside the city limits was attributed to, Bair stated, "The Democratic politicians in the area, Lengra, are offering a carrot" to get them to accept regional cooperation.

The suburbs will have to be "offered a carrot" to get them to accept regional cooperation, he noted. This has been done in Project Concern, where every town involved "makes money" Hartford pays the tuition for each child enrolled in suburban schools, provides a teacher and an aide for every child, and for all administrative and transportation costs, he stated.

Study results of Project Concern, of which Manchester and South Windsor are participants, show the children bused to the suburban schools "show greater progress" than in the Hartford schools, and that "no harm is done to the children in the suburbs," the educator related.

Bair spoke of the need to break the Hartford school district into smaller, self-sufficient autonomous districts to bring the school system closer to the students and their parents.

The district would be broken down into districts of about 10,000. Each district would have its own elementary, middle and high schools.

The proposed Educational Park which would tap the facilities of the University of Hartford would be one of the districts, according to Bair. A student would receive education from the "dispenser to doctrine" stages if he wished. The facilities would include pre-kindergarten through graduate facilities. Its location on the borders of West Hartford, Bloomfield and Hartford "would encourage regional co-operation in the field of education," he added.

Bair foresees the possibility of the annexing of the Hartford school district to surrounding areas for the benefit of students.

Since then, considerable strides have been made in the area of regional co-operation in the field of education, he noted. This is true despite strong public fears and belief that education will be the last field to be brought into regional co-operation, he noted.

Bair pointed to Project Concern, METRO, and the formation of the Connecticut Association for Board of Education (CABE) as examples of this regional co-operation.

"If we don't cooperate, the state will step in and say we will cooperate next year," the superintendent stated.

Asked what the delay in Hartford living outside the city limits was attributed to, Bair stated, "The Democratic politicians in the area, Lengra, are offering a carrot" to get them to accept regional cooperation.

Despite Fears, Schools Joining

Educational regionalism started out of necessity in the "boomtowns," when the towns of Hebron, Andover and Marlborough formed the Eham District High School, Hartford Superintendent of Schools Merrill Bair told those attending last night's symposium.

Since then, considerable strides have been made in the area of regional co-operation in the field of education, he noted. This is true despite strong public fears and belief that education will be the last field to be brought into regional co-operation, he noted.

Critics Show Impatience Thieu's Friends Say Reforms Coming Soon

(Continued From Page One) Vietnamese sources say John Thieu was disturbed by reports that Ky had formed his own "government." "This is the way Thieu would like to see the government," said one observer. "It's all beneath the surface and very unglamorous. But don't forget, Thieu is a man of action."

Unless Thieu consolidated his power as president, Johnson likely would have to do more than make empty promises if it is to make up for years of neglect in winning over the nation's 17 million people.

The military will represent the only nationally organized force besides the Communists, and as such Thieu needs its support.

So although he is known to want to get rid of some generals and province chiefs, he is bidding time. Some army officers have been tried for corruption or removed for inefficiency, but their ranks are low and their numbers small.

Thieu presented bold plans for reforming Vietnamese society. In his inaugural speech, he spoke of improving and reforming the armed forces, imposing austerity on the relatively affluent cities, and eradicating corruption.

Later he told the Senate: "All the measures to raise the people's living and intellectual level can only be realized when all corruption and social injustice has been eliminated."

But Thieu has been telling friends that he must feel strong enough to make several moves at a time.

Thieu becomes obviously angry at critics of his administration, accusing them of "selling too much in too short a time. He points out that he also has had to cope with the war with labor disputes, with dissident Buddhists, the problems of whether to negotiate with the National Liberation Front, the political maneuvering of other government figures, and round of meetings, and official

By Then They're Oldtimers Takes Chickens Long Time To Roast in the Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — It takes chickens a long time to roost in the Senate. But by then they're oldtimers.
They're not chickens any more. They're oldtimers. Three oldtimers are leaving this year. But the man who would then take their place is not a chicken either.

That's taken care of by the seniority system, religiously observed. That's the rule. English it means: Take your time and wait your turn. It goes like this: A newcomer has to wait in line behind all the party's other senators who have been there longer. He starts out as the low man on the committee.

Then as the years pass and one by one those ahead of him disappear because of death, resignation (which seldom happens), retirement or failure to be re-elected, he moves up until finally the chairman disappears and he becomes chairman.

Harry S. Truman was a typical example of the newcomer, but not of how any senator usually winds up. In his first 10 Senate years back in the 1930s, Truman was practically invisible, he talked so little.
Re-elected in 1940 he got himself named chairman of a special committee—not one of those 60 or 70 committees—and made a name for himself investigating American defense.

From there he went to the vice-presidency and presidential campaign. Robert F. Kennedy is a non-typical senator. He had a lot to say right from the start. But he had something working for him: He came from an unusual family and was elected under unusual circumstances.

As an example of what seniority means: In the Senate there are 16 standing committees. All the chairmen are Democrats because Democrats are in a majority in the Senate.
Waiting in their seniority line for the day when the Democrats lose their majority are the Republicans.

Of the 18 Democratic chairmen, one, Sen. Carl Hayden of Arizona, is 80. He's been in Congress 56 years. Six others are in their 70s. Six are in their 80s. Two are in their 90s. Only one, Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, is under 60. He's 61.

If the Democrats lose Senate control the top-ranking Republicans on those committees will be the new chairmen. As a group they are even older than the Democratic chairmen.
Seven are over 70, eight are in their 60s, and only one, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, is under 60. He's 57.

Sweden Grants Asylum To 100

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The number of U.S. military deserters in Sweden grew to 100 Tuesday night when the Swedish Veterans Committee said a soldier based in Italy had come in to protest over the Vietnam war.

The next Democrat in line to succeed Hill is no chicken, either. He's Wayne Morse of Oregon. But whether Morse takes over from Hill depends upon the Democrats' ability to become chairman of one of the Senate's standing committees.

British Quill Riots

SINGAPORE (AP) — Reports from Mauritius said the situation was fairly calm today after the arrival of British troops to quell rioting that has killed 17 persons, but a British destroyer is making her first visit home in a year and a half.

The British fleet 138 destroyers and the king would join the colony in the Indian Ocean. A military spokesman said 500 more men were standing by in the colony.

The rioting stemmed from racial animosity, unrest over employment and opposition to a military spokesman said 500 more men were standing by in the colony.

Manchester in Days Gone By

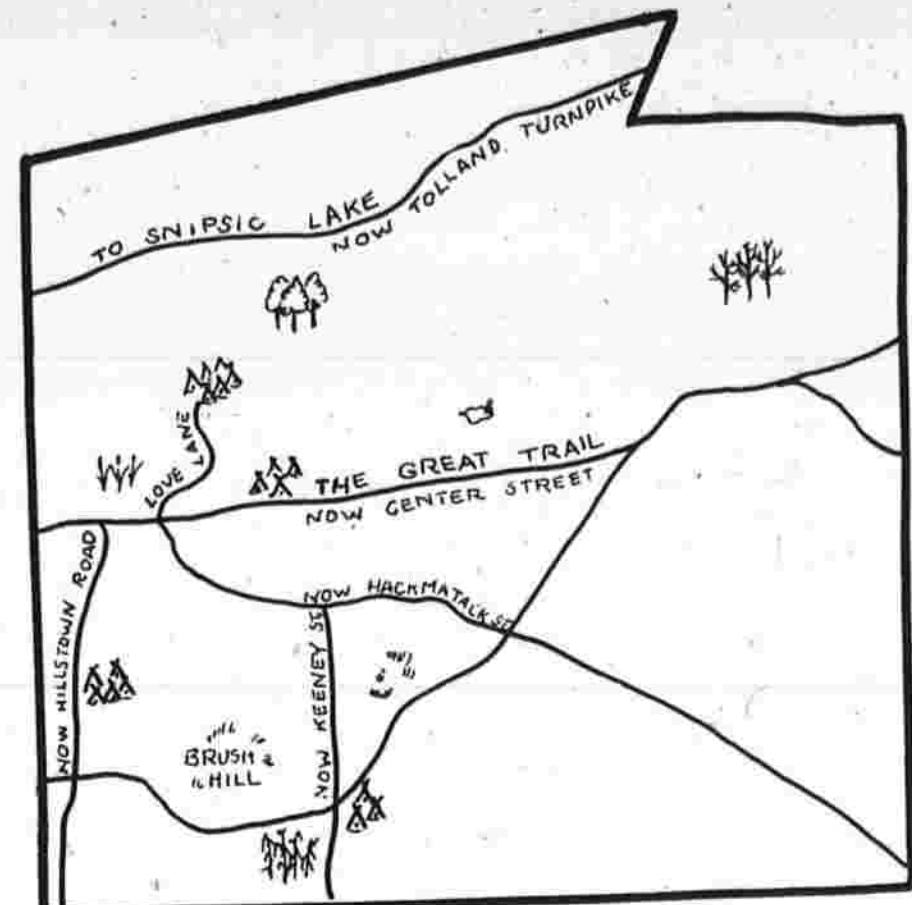

THE INDIANS OF THE MANCHESTER AREA

The late Matthias Spiess gave many years to the study of the Indians of Connecticut, and became a recognized authority on the subject. Some of the material for this article was found in the first part of the Spiess-Bellows History of Manchester for use in the schools. This book, entitled "This is Manchester," supplied the illustrations used here.

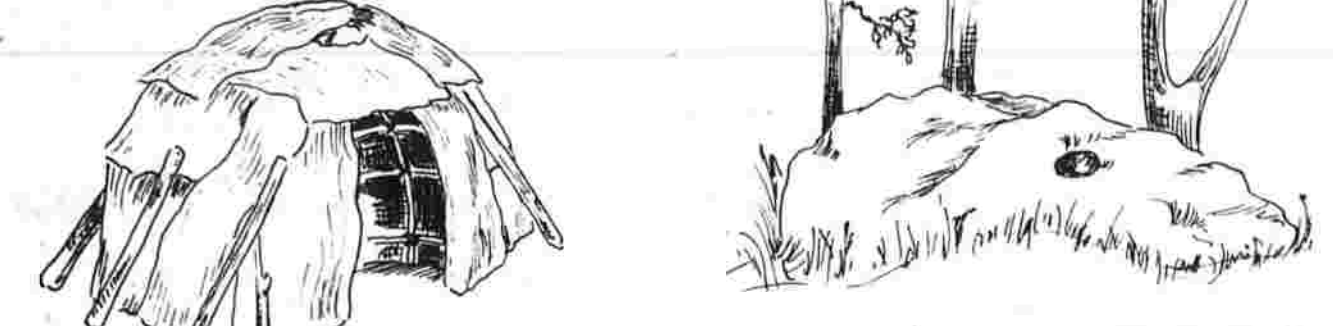

Several years ago a committee of retired teachers prepared a brief history of Manchester for use in the schools. This booklet, entitled "This is Manchester," supplied the illustrations used here.

The Indians of Connecticut belonged to the great Algonquin or Algonquin group, which inhabited a large part of eastern Canada and the northern United States from the Great Lakes to the eastern coast and as far south as Virginia and Texas. A large part of what is now the state of New York, lived the Iroquois of Five Nations, who were not Algonquin but the best organized large group of American Indians.

Physically, the Algonquians were among the tallest of the American aborigines, tall and strong, with somewhat finer features than most Indians, and with brown skins which had a slight coppery hue. They were woodland people, living largely by hunting and fishing, though they raised small crops of corn, beans and squash. The Virginia tribes of the Algonquians also grew tobacco. Their dwellings were small huts made of saplings set firmly into the ground and bent together at the top. This framework was interwoven with split poles and flexible branches to form a sort of wickerwork, which was then covered by bark, reeds or brush. A village was sometimes surrounded by a palisade of poles driven into the ground. Summer dwellings or camps were rough shelters made of brush.

- = Swamp where the Podunks hid from their enemies, the Pequots.
- = Corn fields which they planted on high ground where the frosts did not come as soon as in the valleys.
- = Osage orange trees whose wood the Podunks used for bows.
- = Hickory groves where the Podunks set up camp during the nutting season.
- = Center Springs Falls where the Podunks fished for lamprey eels.

WIGWAM OF THE PODUNK INDIANS

Estimates of Indian population vary widely. For Connecticut, some authorities give a figure as low as two thousand. Dr. Van Dusen, in his recent history of Connecticut, states that the Indians of this area probably numbered between six and seven thousand, and that Connecticut probably had a greater number of Indians in proportion to its area than most of the rest of the eastern United States. They were more numerous toward the mouth of the Connecticut River, and along the Sound, where fishing helped greatly in providing a food supply. The Indian tribe living in the region which became Manchester was called the Podunk. Their territory included our town and considerable land to the west, north and south. Within the present town limits were several Podunk villages, the largest located near Otis St., about where the Verplanck School now stands. However, Indian villages were not permanent. They had winter villages and summer camps. When the land around a village began to produce very poor crops, the Indians moved to a new location. Roger Williams says that they also moved when the fleas in the wigwams became intolerable. As a result, conditions around their living places were, from the Connecticut River to the country east of the Bolton Hills. Tolland Tumpie began an Indian Trail from a large Podunk Village in East Hartford to Shippee Lake, Hilltown Road, Keeney and Hackmatack streets also developed from Indian trails.

Another inheritance from the Indians is a small group of farm-plant names. Hackmatack comes from the Indian word meaning crooked tree. Hackmatack derives from the Indian word meaning crooked tree. Hackmatack derives from the Indian word meaning crooked tree.

What seems to have been the last chapter of the history of the Podunks in Manchester developed into roads after the town was settled in 1783, when our town was the Orford Parish of East Hartford. A small Indian village on the banks of the Hooksett River was ruled by a chief calling himself, Tobias, or Toby, who had been urging the whites not to sell liquor to his people. One day the chief's wife and a male companion managed to buy a jug of rum and, when drunk, staggered into Omas Bidwell's barn. Tobias found them there, killed the man, and fatally wounded his own wife. Later the town of East Hartford paid bills incurred in the care of the Indian woman and the burial of the two bodies. Included were the fee of Dr. George Griswold, charges for "two sheets of rum" (pillow), three amounts of "rum" (rum), "keeping two watches" 11 nights, "roding the ingon to berry him" and finally for a "coffin." The total cost to the town seems to have been rather large.

Mr. Spiess believed that the surviving inhabitants of the village on the Hooksett moved (as Indians sometimes did after a death) to Erush Hill, where they lived for a few years. Evicted by the white purchaser of the land on which they were living, they moved to Hilltown Road, then to Minnehog Mountain. After a stay of several years at this last location, they disappeared from history, the last of the Podunks. A melancholy end, but one shared by most of the American Indians. The hunting and fishing life simply could not be continued in settled agricultural country, and the weaker race was ruthlessly pushed out by the white settlers.

PZC, Selectmen Consider Ways to Ease Tax Burden

Planning and zoning commission chairman Robert Gantzer termed "unnecessary" an executive session held Monday night at a joint meeting of the PZC and the board of selectmen. The closed meeting was requested by the selectmen who had stated that they wanted an opportunity for "informal discussion in areas of mutual concern."

Following the executive session, the first in many years for the PZC, Gantzer said the subject of the two-hour session was that "town taxes are too high." He said that the selectmen and assessor Samuel P. Allen felt that zoning regulations in town are "tough for apartments and easy for subdivisions."

Allen was present at the meeting on request of the two selectmen, Michael Pease and Richard Nicola, who attended. Third selectman William Steeper did not attend.

Selectmen apparently felt that one way to equalize the town tax situation would be to allow for a development of more garden-type apartments in town. The present regulations call for a development of the kind to be built on no less than 50 acres of land.

Allen said that five or six prospective apartment developments have appeared at his office concerning projects. But he has in each case referred these developments to the PZC. Gantzer noted, however, that the PZC has never heard from the way of these prospective developers.

"The only application now in force for an apartment complex is for 'Bo-Cov'," Gantzer said. One other had been withdrawn some time ago, he said. Gantzer also stated that the developer neither case did the developer PZC meeting, obtained in the requirement. Past discussions on the lot requirement for the fact that such a development has extensive sewage facilities to install since there is no town-wide sewage disposal. Fifty acres (or more) would be needed to assure adequate space for this. In addition, there are many areas in town that are "unbuildable" because of ledge rock or other conditions. A 50-acre parcel might include 20 acres of this type of land anyway.

During discussion Monday night of the subdivision regulations, Pease said that by "too easy" he meant only in relation to the apartment regulations. Allen said the town "has a wonderful set of subdivision regulations."

Gantzer, in discussing the executive session, said that selectmen felt that industry to ease the tax burden was not immediate, but forthcoming in the town. Gantzer pointed out to the selectmen that in studying the industrial development commission minutes book, he noted that the group "has met only once in December 1967, since 1962. This is unusual since the group could attempt in the way of an investigation to ease the tax load."

Gantzer said he would request the town clerk's office so that they will be a matter of public record.

The vote to go into executive session was by the required majority vote, with Gantzer voting in the affirmative. Alternate Leonard Benjamin, attending his first PZC meeting, abstained in the vote.

Town Wants More Study On Littering, Burning Bans

It was the consensus of the Board of Directors last night that preliminary drafts of anti-litter and anti-burning ordinances need more study and modification before they will be scheduled for public hearings and possible adoption.

In commenting on the proposed anti-litter ordinance, John Shea said that, before the town night, said, "I have drafted them at your suggestion but I don't necessarily endorse them."

The two ordinances, recommended by the Citizens Advisory Committee and the City Beautification Committee of the Board of Commerce, are patterned after model ordinances of the Municipal Managers Association.

Commenting on the anti-litter ordinance, Shea said, "True enforcement would require litter guards on every street corner, because it covers every possible method of littering."

He added, "Although the ordinance could not be enforced, it is literally and completely, it would, however, provide for its enforcement against reported scofflaws."

Shea said that the major need for an anti-litter ordinance is to provide regulations for "eliminating the eyesore of junk cars and street auto parts in the back yards."

Director William Schaller, alternate to the Regional Council of Elected Officials, said he is considering cooperative plans for disposing of junked and unscheduled for public hearings and possible adoption.

do pennies make a difference in your food bill?

You bet they do. And we should know. We built our business by saving pennies for generations of folks like you.

For instance, take our policy on multiple-priced items. If an item is priced 3 for 25¢, the price for one is obviously 9¢. But what happens if you want two? Do you pay 2 times 9¢ or 18¢? Not at A&P. We sell it at 2 for 17¢. That's the fair way—the A&P way.

Yes, in the food business... in food budgeting, pennies make a difference. We watch them for you and for us.

Is this a good reason for shopping A&P? It's one of many.

Eighth Grade Graduations Dropped by School Board

The South Windsor Board of Education voted last night to eliminate eighth grade graduations, effective starting next June.

In passing the resolution, the board said an awards assembly would be held at the description of the school principal to honor such students as deemed worthy by the appropriate awards.

The board canceled its Project Concern meeting scheduled for the 30th of this month until the interim report on the statistical findings due Jan. 30 is available. Once this report is in the hands of the board members, Dr. Thomas Mahon will be contacted to reschedule his appearance before the board.

Only Officials Attend Hearing On Housing Site

The Manchester Housing Authority's public hearing last night on buying land in the North End Redevelopment area for housing for the elderly was not attended by any individual citizens.

Victor Swanson, district president, spoke in favor of purchasing the land. Swanson said, "We heartily support acquisition of the land in the North End, and we will assist you in any way we can to help move the project along more quickly."

John Cronin, chairman of the authority's board of directors, thanked the members of the district for their concern and said that he wished more interested parties to be present at the hearing.

The hearing was held on the proposed acquisition of the site at the intersection of North Main and M. School streets. The Manchester Redevelopment Agency, which controls the North End site, has agreed to sell the land to the housing authority.

The authority is now awaiting word from the Housing Assistance Administration, department of Housing and Urban Development, in New York as to what priority this project will have. In general, conventional housing such as this is considered low priority and priority is being given to the leasing of housing for the elderly.

The morning hours are from 9:15 to 11:45 a.m.; the afternoon hours are from 12:45 to 3:15 p.m.

Water Company Ends Testimony On Hike in Rate

The Connecticut Water Company yesterday completed its testimony, defending its proposed rate increases, before the State Public Utilities Commission in Hartford.

PUC Commissioners recessed the hearing until Feb. 26, which time they reserved the right to question the ten exhibits submitted by the water company and permit cross examination by those opposing the rate increases.

The Connecticut Water Company based its rate increase generally on rising taxes, cost of production, purification and distribution.

Residential and commercial rates would be increased from 20 to 30 per cent; industrial rates from 30 to 50 per cent and fire protection from 40 to 70 per cent.

Many of those testifying Monday against the price increases cited poor quality water, poor service and excessive increases.

South Windsor has a separate case before the PUC, on complaints of poor quality water, which Mayor Howard E. FitzGerald and Democrat William FitzGerald to the subcommittee

Mayor Acts On Problem Of Refuse

Mayor Nathan Agostinelli, calling refuse disposal, "the number one problem facing Manchester in the near future," last night asked a three-member subcommittee of directors to complete its studies, leading to a possible solution, within a year.

He appointed Republicans Wayne Manta and William Schaller and Democrat William FitzGerald to the subcommittee and instructed them, further, to submit monthly progress reports.

Agostinelli, in addition, asked Town Manager Robert Welles to assist the committee, by supplying it with statistical data, to include estimates on the life of the town's disposal area.

Other data he will furnish concerns Manchester's estimated refuse disposal tonnage in the future, and estimated size and costs of potential incineration or composting plants.

Agostinelli said that participation in solving the problem will not be limited to the committee. He said that all nine directors must become involved in the quest for a permanent solution.

The brothers requested the zone change over a much wider area to permit the dump to dump refuse in the lake which is adjacent to the town dump.

Dumping in the lake would have eventually created dry land suitable for sale to industries. Fighting the dumping plan are the Capitol Region Planning Agency, the Hockanum River Resources Development Commission and Town Planner Joseph Tansky.

The CRPA includes the lake in a park plan for the Hockanum River.

Appeal Reported Imminent In Laurel Lake Zone Case

An appeal by the Denison brothers against the recent Laurel Lake rezoning decision is reportedly imminent, but at present time only four legal papers had been served on the Town Planning Commission chairman, Adler Dobbin.

The TPC decision Jan. 9 allowed only four acres of lake land owned by Robert and Wells Denison in a rezoned industrial area. In all, about 30 acres were rezoned.

The brothers requested the zone change over a much wider area to permit the dump to dump refuse in the lake which is adjacent to the town dump.

Pianist, 71, Liked Work In Burlesque

BOSTON (AP)—Walter Jacobson, 71, who made a living for 33 years playing piano for strippers, dives and ballrooms, says his constant contact with young women has kept him young.

"When you're around young women like that all the time, it keeps you on your toes," Jacobson is a "business piano player." Since 1914 he's played piano around Boston for anybody who wanted him—ballroom, grand opera companies, hotels, burlesque.

One of his first jobs was in the pit at the Old Howard in Boston's seedy, tawdry Scollay Square, pounding out the music for the strippers' bumps and grinds.

"There was nothing wrong with burlesque," he says. "Nothing was shown that shouldn't be shown. The mini-skirts are a darn sight more disgraceful than the old burlesque shows."

"The shows were always the same," he recalls. "First there would be the stripper, then the comic and the straight man, then the stripper and the comic again. They'd alternate between the two. And that was the show."

"For the past 22 years his main job has been playing piano for Boston ballet schools. He also takes an occasional club date in Portland, Maine, his home town."

"I learned piano when I was a young boy by playing with my father," Jacobson says. "He was a dentist but a very good violinist, too. Then my brother became a dentist I went to work for him making plates. I hated it."

Jacobson continued to keep up his piano playing. "I was born for music and just didn't know it."

Jacobson attended the New England Conservatory of Music from 1925 to 1929 but he says, "As far as my technique is concerned, I'm far from a wizard."

"The most important talent for a business piano player, he noted, is speed. 'You have to be able to read music quickly and at night,' he says. 'You don't have time to rehearse.'"

Jacobson, who never married, doesn't plan to ever retire from music either. "The essential thing in my life is to know that 'God, I wish I didn't have to do this.' I never watched the clock."

Man Shoots Wife, And Son, Four, Kills Himself

IRVINGTON, N.Y. (AP)—A 26-year-old executive fatally wounded his pregnant wife and their 4-year-old son Tuesday and then killed himself with his .22 caliber rifle.

Neighbors found the bodies of Diane R. Dagnall, his wife, Barbara, 25, and Dana Dagnall Jr., the woman and child were shot in the head as they slept.

Dagnall's body lay at the bedroom door, the rifle by his side. A police investigator said Dagnall wrote a note addressed to his parents, apparently just before the shootings, saying he felt depressed.

Dagnall was a credit analyst with the Geigy Chemical Co., Ardley, N.Y.

'Right' Hues Are the Ones You Prefer

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Do colors frustrate you? Do you have the feeling that you like to paint your home a wild color or put offbeat colors on your walls or furniture?

If you are afraid to put your ideas into practice, you are like millions of other people who are perplexed by color, says Harold Schwartz, Pittsburgh-born designer of interior furnishings who has studied art, sculpture, architecture and interior design here and abroad.

You can get over color fear by using only the colors you like, he explains.

"No one can ever go wrong, if he lets himself go in selecting colors that appeal to him, no matter how many. You go wrong only when you try to use colors that you think should be used."

"Sit down with swatches of colors and say I like this... this... as many as you like." Now—they should look good, he says, unless you are color-blind.

"One should never say, 'I like this color but it isn't fashionable.' Use it if you like it."

People are becoming braver about colors every day, he points out. Color combinations are accepted that one would have thought hideous a decade or so ago. Pink and red has become almost commonplace. Orange combined with shocking pink is a striking combination. Yellow, pink and orange are used together. Bright blues and vivid greens are popular. Brown and black are considered chic.

Schwartz has been surprised by color preferences in some areas of the world. In Paris, he was startled to find that home furnishings buyers prefer muddy colors.

He showed designs in rugs and matching bedspreads that he has made in Spain—vivid shocking pink and white in the striking design for which he is known. The Parisians chose bronzes, purples and other deep tones.

Further north, they could not get the colors too brilliant. Sweden often is associated with pastels but Stockholm buyers selected the brightest colors he had to offer.

"Countries that do not have much sunlight want to bring it into their homes. They like all the color you can give them. Brussels and Amsterdam enjoy color and in Brussels they use rugs as table coverings, he explains.

Spain, unlike colorful travel posters advertising flamenco dancers and bullfighters, prefers pastels and other soft colors and 18th century design.

Schwartz has designed fabrics, lighting fixtures and is a well-known designer of furniture, credited with introducing the sculptured look, engineered storage and multipurpose furniture.

While on a sabbatical in Spain more than a decade ago, he became interested in Spanish design, concentrating on bedspreads and rugs made on the Jacquard loom. His new interest sparked a trend to the Mediterranean look in the United States. But that had had its effect in his opinion.

His new designs are inspired by periods ranging from early Egypt to space age avant-garde. Design tricks with the Jacquard loom give his spreads a sculptured-to-the-bed look. Schwartz worked on one design for more than two years.

He doesn't feel that he is going out on a limb with strong colors and bold designs. On the contrary, they are snapped up so fast that he has difficulty keeping the supply equal to the demand.

STUDENTS TURN IN WEAPONS

INDIANOLA, Iowa (AP) — The shooting of a Simpson College student in a dormitory room led a number of other students to turn in weapons to authorities Monday.

"They were carrying them down the hall by the armholes," said Sheriff William Matthews.

Charles C. Cooley of Chicago, a freshman, was shot in the chin and neck when a pistol held by another student apparently discharged accidentally, Matthews said. No charges have been filed.

Questioning of dormitory residents indicated "a great deal of shooting had been going on out of the windows, into furniture and mattresses," the sheriff said.

Road Plan Reshuffle

HARTFORD (AP)—The State Highway Department is going to have to reshuffle its priorities if road projects as a result of the cutback in federal funds, according to a department spokesman. A complete review of plans and projects will be undertaken when Connecticut is notified just how much federal money it will get this year, the spokesman said Tuesday. The $600 million cut in the national highway program was announced Monday by Transportation Secretary Alan S. Boyd. It was explained as an anti-inflation move.

Diamonds may be a girl's best friend now, but the gems were strictly a male adornment until a few centuries ago. Prior to the 15th century, only kings' and exalted churchmen wore diamonds.

Meek Leaves Army For Utah Grid Job

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Meek is leaving Army to become head football coach at the University of Utah. The assistant to Tom Cahill, head coach at West Point, was named to his new post Tuesday by the Utah board of regents. He was given a three-year contract at $180,000 a year and permission to appoint five assistants.

Meek's appointment to succeed the resigned Mike Gidycz was one of several changes in the coaching ranks Tuesday.

In others, Eddie Krivicki became head coach at Wichita State succeeding Boyd Converse and Jerry Lyons resigned as head coach at Portland State. Among the new, Bill Krivicki of the Cleveland Browns was given a new three-year contract as head coach of the National Football League club.

Dub Jones resigned as offensive coach and will be replaced by Nick Skoricz, defensive coach last season. Dick Modzelewski will take over as defensive coach.

"I've enjoyed my two years at West Point," said Meek at the announcement. "But the Utah offer was a real fine and I think it's an opportunity with a lot of potential." Cahill declared, "Bill's done a fine job for us. We wish him well at Utah."

Krivicki, a former player at West Point, moves up from an assistant to a three-year contract at a reported $140,000 per year.

Dub Jones resigned as offensive coach and will be replaced by Nick Skoricz, defensive coach last season. Dick Modzelewski will take over as defensive coach.

Sam Williams, one of the best college basketball players in the country, came up with one of his outstanding performances for Iowa against Michigan Kabaugh helped by stealing the ball eight times from Detroit.

Louisville almost had a 15-point lead in the last 10 minutes, but the Cardinals hung on to beat Dayton. Don MacKay of Dayton was his highest scorer with 27 points while Dan O'Brien, a 6-foot-10 sophomore, scored all 17 points in the second-half Dayton game at Ohio State.

Westley Unreled topped Louisville with 20 points in the extra period, to pace Canisius over Louisville and Canisius won overtime to don Cornell 83-79 at Ithaca.

Also Oklahoma City scored over Southern Methodist 82-62 at Oklahoma City, Vermont upset Massachusetts 82-62 at Burlington, Vt., and Oregon scored on the road over Portland hand 84-66.

Iowa was down by six points at halftime but Williams cut losses for a 16-point lead. Don Keitz added two free-throw performances that brought victory to the Hawkeyes.

Michigan State used three different players to defend against Williams, but they couldn't stop the former Detroit high school player.

Labor, Industry Back Plan for Unemployed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's enactment of private enterprise in a drive against hard-core unemployment has won guarded endorsement from labor and industry.

The National Association of Manufacturers, saying industry has achieved good results in this area, questioned the need for a federal program.

Johnson's goal, stated Monday, is to create 200,000 jobs for hard-core unemployed in the nation's 15 biggest cities.

Under the program, the government will work with the private sector to create jobs. The program will be financed by a major new federal program involving further regulations.

Dowling Honored

BOSTON (AP)—Brian Dowling, who has received plenty of recognition for his ability to come up with the big plays and lead the winning spirit in his teammates, now has a new trophy honoring him for his leadership.

Following a four week vacation in Lugano, she'll do "Carmen" in the United States and the hard-core unemployed rather than to create public jobs through government fiat.
