A Tolland County Superior Court case brought by Lipman Realty Co. against the Planning and Zoning Commission has been withdrawn.

The court action called for the setting aside of the town's one-acre minimum lot size requirement, with 200-foot road frontage.

"Since this was to have been the major challenge to the zoning regulations' amendment increasing lot size, it is now evident that all present efforts to invalidate the amendment have failed," town counsel Robert King stated yesterday.

The withdrawal action, this week occurred after one day's testimony last week and the roughed out for future roads and for construction of a central water to service homes to be constructed in the area.

End of a Series

PCZ Chairman Walter Weston and James Thompson of Buck and Buck appeared for the town, during the day-long case. Weston was called to testify by a public hearing September 6, Lipman's counsel, according to Atty. King.

"As the case progressed it became apparent that the plaintiff (Lipman) had not proved its allegations," King said.

"When the plaintiff finished its case, we declined to offer further testimony or evidence. Briefs were assigned and due three weeks from the date of the trial," according to town counsel.

Lipman's withdrawal of the case marks the end to a series of court cases which have been coming before the PCZ at a rapid rate before the increase in the lot size regulations in court.

This phase has now passed with the courts upholding the new regulation. New subdivisions will be required to comply with the one-acre rule.

Engaged

The engagement of Miss Cheryl Ann Moser of Manchester to Andrew G. Davis of Vernon was announced yesterday by her father, Edward F. Moser of 138 Avery St. She is also the daughter of the late Mrs. Eleanor Moser.

Her fiancé is the son of Mr. PZC Chairman Walter Weston and James Thompson of Buck and Buck appeared for the town, during the day-long case. Weston was called to testify by a public hearing September 6, Lipman's counsel, according to Atty. King.

New Premier Named
PINOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk today named his private counselor, Penh Nouth, as premier.

The new cabinet headed by Penh Nouth will replace an emergency government, headed by the prince, which resigned in December. The emergency government was set up last year in deal with several pressing internal problems.

The government change is not expected to have major political repercussions. Effective power in Cambodia is in the hands of Prince Sihanouk.

READ SITUATION DESPITE SIGNAL
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD
It isn't always necessary for your partner to signal what he thinks of your opening lead. Sometimes you can tell by the way declarer plays.

Opening lead — king of spades and declarer played the ace from dummy. East followed suit with the four, and South with the deuce. West concluded that his partner had played his lowest spade to discourage a spade continuation.

With this added motion in mind, West shifted to the eight of diamonds. South hopefully played low from dummy, and East had to play the king to win the trick. Now South could eventually get rid of a spade on dummy's queen of diamonds.

First Choice Was Good One

Story By DORIS BELDING
A. R. BUCURVICIUS

A little more than a year ago Dr. and Mrs. John Nordby began searching the area for an "old house with plenty of elbow room for ourselves and two teenage sons." A friend informed them that the house they eventually purchased at 524 Rowland Rd., Vernon, was going on the market. Being familiar (so they thought) with the house, they rode out to look it over.

When they arrived at the address they were confused as they did not recognize the house at all. It seems that its former owner had given it a complete "face-lifting" and instead of a house covered with novelty siding and with an enclosed front porch the new found it was a classic colonial home. They were charmed with the look of the house and its location and, after a cursory inspection, decided to buy it. They were looking for "with some alterations, of course," Mr. Nordby said.

Since they moved in a year ago the major alterations have been completed but, the Nordbys agreed, "in a house of this size there is always some project being completed."

In comparing the architecture of their home with other in the area the Nordbys believe it to be about 200 years old. "The style of our house," they said, "is very similar to the Nathan Hills house in Coventry, which is circa 1700."

As in many homes of this of its colonial charm. Cabineare all done in dark, walnut-stained wood, and a center island with dining space is built around two central supporting pillars on the front stairs. "I'd never suspected when this entailed," she said, "I never would have attempted it."

Future plans call for enlarging the master bedroom on the second floor by opening up a rear wall to a smaller room and making the two rooms into one.

Just about all the woodwork in the house, excepting the kitchen, and much of the furniture has been "antiqued" by Mrs. Nordby. The antique green wall unit in the study was one of her projects, but her most recent one was antiquing the spindles on the front stairs. "I'd never suspected when this entailed," she said, "I never would have attempted it."

cabaret, who will have any combination of instinct and daring to question the President's leadership in Vietnam. The ship of state is clear, as far as the White House is concerned, of all potential disasters. The President is now surrounded by the beaming approval and joy so heartily symbolized, yesterday, by the Vice President leading the applause for the President before Congress.

What Defense Secretary Clifford may be expected to do is to help give this state of affairs a better public image and reputation than it deserves. The lifelong political tactician can inevitably do better dealing with Congress and the public than the computer-minded Detroit executive.

And, since Mr. Clifford is famed as the political doctor who prescribed precisely the right kind of medicine to the ailing Harry Truman back in the year 1948, the presumption is he may soon alter the recipe for compromise, to make it a little less offensive to the normal American appetite.

In short, for his own purposes, the President needs to have chosen well, gaining cabinet unity and political savvy for an election year.

As for what is good for the nation, who pretends to hope, these days, that any development will fit into such a happy calculation?

Should Speak Facing Mirrors
 Hipples, said Dr. Joel L. Schwartz, Hartford psychologist of the other night, are somebody's children.

He said he said "the children of a permissive generation" who are being brought up in the theory that they have a natural right to an "instant society."

The weird antics of the hippies, their reach for dangerous experiences with themselves are condemned and frowned upon by the older generation which, as Dr. Schwartz describes it, looks for instant relief from aches and pains from one kind of pill or syrup or another, or to get into the mood for what it thinks it would like to do, takes sleeping pills in order to go to sleep, or to get into a mood to go down, and pop pills to speed it up.

Dr. Schwartz then asked the pertinent question: what right does such an older generation have "to appear to scold when their children are taking drugs?"

Such an argument, of course, constitutes no blessing upon the behavior of the young hippies.

Nor does it lend validity to the clever claim of some of the hippies, who will tell you that their own behavior is deliberately intended to be a rebuke to a self-indulgent hypocrisy of the older generation.

But what it does suggest is that: that this age and this condition of the human experiment are something that the generations are to be together with, and not to be separated from, either as analyst or reformer, with the aberrations of the young generation might well and logically address himself equally to the fights from reality, from responsibility, from pain and obligation, which the older generation has come to assume almost its automatic privilege.

Their youth and their love to proclaim their age, both customs being about the ceaselessly revolving cycle of the fashions, about equal in morality, and about equal in effectiveness. The generations should speak to one another face to face.

U.S. Conduct in Crisis
 We know very well—or at least realistic policy dictates that we know—that the Pueblo incident, together with the recent increase in North Korea guerrilla activity across the border in Korea, is a part of a larger challenge to us, the United States, to widen the war we are already fighting in Asia. Should we accept the invitation to fight in Korea, we can expect that our other diversionary involvements would also be offered to us. The way in which this invitation to a new front in the Pacific will be met will depend on the result of the American power and the American flag. It is no less haunting because it is so delicate, so subtle, and so calculated, that because of our existing involvement in Vietnam, our response to the situation in Korea may be something we ourselves will keep measured and restrained.

So what do we do?

Our opening response, at least, have seemed in the right mood and the right direction.

We have not, this time, as we previously have, been so unhesitatingly engaged with an instant clobber of the country which has dared do such a thing to us.

We have, far too, managed to act as if we were no big target to look over the shoulder insult part of the situation, having given some thought to the fact that North Korea should proceed to close out the incident on some reasonable basis.

We have reached for several possible arenas of resolution of the incident, through the United Nations. We probably expected little immediately from Panmunjom, though Moscow, which has previously seemed so cold-shoulder its own differing willingness to help toward negotiations in Vietnam, had small immediate response to help us now with Korea. And outside the possibility that everybody always hopes the United Nations may be able to do something for peace in any situation, there was little reason for judging that the Pueblo incident belonged with the United Nations.

But the United States at least moved in these directions before it did anything else, and somewhat without giving such moves time, if not to wait, at least to offer other actions more final in character.

What else should the United States do, when, as seems quite likely, all these talk and diplomacy measures should seem to have failed?

There is probably no one in the whole world, hawk, dove, jingoist or pacifist, who would try to sustain the position that the United States could do absolutely nothing.

The ideal action would be something which was a response and retaliation which could be classified as an act of the same kind and of the same degree of seriousness as that of North Korea. It would be an act which would carry the same weight as that of North Korea, and which would be staged under circumstances, or under pre-arranged circumstances, which would permit it to be classified as a single act, not a war. The result of the action would give us something to hold against North Korea while it held our men and ship against us. This might seem to be an easier of our pride without requiring us to open a full new front for the war.

If the Johnson administration can come up with such a measured, tailored action, it should get high marks for conduct in crisis, and one could even begin to believe it may have learned something, after all, from its mistakes in Vietnam.

 one, a bathroom may be included, which would bring the total of baths in the house to three.

A guest room at the right front of the house, which is a hard-core New Englander will tell you, one usually Saturday won't dispose of the week-end problem, and one Saturday is a long way from being spring.

Snowstorms are surely still on the rocks for the high school and high school predicted by the Old Farmer's Almanac for the end of January, and another of blizzard proportions for March. The biggest of them all, the Blizzard of '88, was a spring snowstorm. In between, and before the wind-up, we can expect assorted accumulations, interspersed with cold, sleet, and freezing rain that will add up to at least a normal complement of winter weather.

But through it all we can watch the sun climb higher and last longer and more more heat and comfort to us, and we can begin to look for the buds on the forsythia bushes and the smell of fresh, live mud, or better yet, we can listen for the gurgle of the brook under the ice and remember that winter is not a season that arrives by increasing its tempo.

From the time of the January thaw, we can expect a respite from the snow. All we've got to do now is stand fast and wait out the arrival of spring. — MEREDITH RECORD

 The trouble and turmoil in the realm of Connecticut Higher Education is not, of course, merely a matter of dramatic personalities, like President Homer Habbidge of the University of Connecticut, Chairman Donald McLennan of the Commission on Higher Education, or some of the lesser melons who have managed to make themselves controversial seekers of power in the dawn of the new era.

Much of the trouble is inescapable, because it is rooted in human and bureaucratic nature, because there is an inevitable clash between collective pride and individual ambition, and because there has to be an inevitable clash between the system as it is and the system as it is going to work, during which the various power structures learn by test and practice, as well as by law and by edict, what their own prime function should be.

One of the inescapable troubles within a system of higher education which includes several divisions of higher education is that of branch is ever willing to concede that another branch should be higher than itself. Everybody wants to be the highest. Nobody wants to be out-ranked.

The layman might, for instance, make himself an easy target for the higher education, but the higher education tries to establish its own prestige, or its own authority, or its own identity. It would put the University at the top of the State College next, the Connecticut College next, and the State Technical College next. But in order to make this ranking, he would indeed have to be either a layman or a University man. Should he be associated with any of the other three divisions, he would have to be out-ranked.

Weather in The Nation

 Freezing drizzle led the Central weather bureau to issue a forecast of a fresh wave of Arctic cold spilled out from the Rockies to the Atlantic coast.

Hazardous driving warnings were in effect from Western Montana to Southern Wisconsin. The icing developed as fringes of the new cold snap clashed with warm, moist air from the south, sending temperatures into the 50s and 60s in the lower half of the Plains Friday.

The mercury tumbled below zero throughout the northern tier of states from Montana to Minnesota. Cit. Bank, Mont., reported 13 below.

Westward across the Rockies a storm in the Pacific North Coast is expected to bring heavy rain and strong winds to the San Francisco Bay area.

Interstate 90 was closed for about 24 hours by heavy snow between Ellensburg and Vantage, in central Washington. At the same time, a state highway along the Columbia River in southeastern Washington was closed temporarily by a dust storm.

Clear skies prevailed in the east, and there was a slight moderation from the chill which scattered frost as far south as Miami early Friday.

A guest room at the right front of the house, which is a hard-core New Englander will tell you, one usually Saturday won't dispose of the week-end problem, and one Saturday is a long way from being spring.

Deaths in The Nation
 Brig. Gen. Ray W. Ireland HENDERSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Brig. Gen. Ray W. Ireland, 76, pioneer in aviation and a retired vice president of United National Air Transport, died of cancer here Friday.

He was born in Hendersonville, N.C., and served in the U.S. Army during World War I. He was a member of the National Air Transport Association and the National Aeronautics Association.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ireland, and two children.

Book Sells for $475
 MUNICH, Germany (AP) — A book priced at $475, one of the most expensive ever published, recently in Munich, is a 760-page color photograph album of Peter von Klotz, a German aviator and pilot.

The album, "Astronautical Memories," first printed in Ingolstadt, Germany, in 1949, contains 2,800 man-hours into the hand coloring of the initial text. It is a hardcover book, 10 1/2 inches high, 7 1/2 inches wide, and 1 1/2 inches thick.

The book is now being sold in Munich for $475, a price which is considered high for a book of this size and content.

Pueblo, Tax Factors in Stock Loss
 AP Business Writer
 NEW YORK (AP) — Buffetted by the Korean crisis and bewildered by the continued income tax, the stock market this week took another jolting loss.

It was the third straight week of declines of the Dow Jones industrial in the New Year.

Investors also were confused early in the week by the start of a new series of shortened sessions on the major stock exchanges, ordered so that brokerage houses could catch up on a vast backlog of paperwork in their back offices.

Wednesday marked the last of a record series of 12 straight days of declines of the Dow Jones industrial average.

Since dire warnings against speculative speculation, especially in low-priced issues, coincided with the start of the abbreviated trading days, the atmosphere seemed charged with worry and tension to many investors. Actually, the exchanges were merely doing what they did for a nine-day period last August when they cut the trading day to four hours from the regular 9 1/2 hours so that member firms could catch abreast of their clerical work.

Because of the reduction in trading hours, volume for the week fell to 54,625,200 shares from the near-record 67.7 million shares of the previous week of five full-length trading days.

The Dow Jones industrial average dropped 15.26 to 856.00, quite a fall from the close of 904.84 on Jan. 2, the first trading day of 1968.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 4.1 to 218.74, a fall from the close of 224.84 on Jan. 2, the first trading day of 1968.

Although both averages fell sharply, their losses were not quite so bad as in the previous week.

Of 1,600 issues traded this week, 1,118 declined and 410 advanced.

The week began with a nervous retreat on Monday the first of the indefinitely long series of shortened sessions. No official statement was made at the time, although some observers believed they might go on until April.

The Monday market had to reckon with the start of tax hearings before the House Ways and Means Committee. A prominent witness was Board Chairman William McCauley, who warned of "inordinate" tax increases in the budget for the past two years. Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler said the market rises in the case of the business boom gets out of hand because no tax increase is enacted.

"But the ship was on a peaceful mission and providing it with one or more warship escorts would not have been wise," he said.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said in a statement the capture of the ship was an avoidable accident. He said it could have been prevented if the navy had been prepared to take speedy protective action.

"I send poorly armed surface reconnaissance ships into dangerous waters without air cover, and I am surprised that you plan for adequate support in a serious error in judgment," he said.

Plans are being formulated by the Action Commission for the elderly to provide information and registration for Senior Citizens eligible to receive benefits from the Social Security Administration.

Within the next few days a qualified speaker will come to the center to explain all the details of the program.

Transportation for this affair will be provided for those needing it. More information as to the date and time of this meeting will be forthcoming. Meanwhile, anyone interested in this program should contact Wally Fortin at either the Senior Center or Recreation Department by phone or post card.

We also have had calls for people looking for Senior Citizens to do baby sitting or caretaker work on a part-time occasional basis, and anyone interested in this type of work should contact the Senior Center.

Things to look forward to during the next few days in the way of programs will be a project to help the Visting Nurses in Manchester. A card game will be held during the week of Feb. 1-7, and a card game will be held during the week of Feb. 14-20. Anyone interested in this type of work should contact the Senior Center.

Bonds Mixed In The Wake Of Tensions
 NEW YORK (AP) — Bond prices were mixed this past week in the wake of growing international tensions, but the corporate bond calendar remains moderate through February. The Treasury market, however, has passed the $1 billion mark, with the February calendar in sight.

The corporate bond calendar remains moderate through February. The Treasury market, however, has passed the $1 billion mark, with the February calendar in sight.

Government bonds advanced but made a net advance for the week. Long-term Treasury yields remain at a point below their high of January. Intermediate Treasury yields in the five-to-eight year range advanced slightly less and are about three-quarters of a point below their high of the month.

Corporate prices generally were sluggish to start, said Salomon Brothers & Hutzler, a Wall Street investment firm. Issuances in the first week of the month.

Obituary

Mrs. Robert Armstrong
Mrs. Florence Armstrong, 67, of 84 Hemlock St., wife of Robert Armstrong, died suddenly yesterday at her home.

Mrs. Armstrong was born May 14, 1899 in Manchester, a daughter of William H. and Sarah Taggart Dowd, and lived here all of her life. She was a member of St. Mary's Episcopal Church and Manchester Grange. She was a past noble grand of Sunset Rebekah Lodge.

Survivors, besides her husband, include a brother, John Dowd of Manchester; two sisters, Mrs. Erle Daly and Mrs. Leo Wehr, both of Manchester; and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 11 a.m. at St. Mary's Episcopal Church. Burial will be in East Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St. tomorrow from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

The family suggests that those wishing to do so make memorial contributions to the Book of Remembrance at St. Mary's Church.

Mrs. William H. Britt
Mrs. Charlotte Peretto Britt, 51, of East Hartford, formerly of Manchester, died yesterday at New England Deaconess Hospital, Boston, Mass. She was the wife of William H. Britt.

Mrs. Britt was born Feb. 21, 1916 in Windber, Pa., daughter of Michael and Anetta Vesco Peretto, and lived in Manchester most of her life. She moved to East Hartford a few months ago.

Survivors, besides her husband, include a daughter, Miss Marie Britt at home; and a brother, James Peretto of Latrobe, Pa.

The funeral will be held Monday at 8:30 a.m. from the John F. Tierney Funeral Home, 219 W. Center St., with a Mass of Requiem at the Church of the Assumption at 9. Burial will be in St. James Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 9 and tomorrow from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Richard J. Wall Sr.
WAPPING—Richard James Wall Sr., 72, of 496 Oakland Rd., husband of Mrs. Viola Koochen Wall, died yesterday in East Hartford.

Mr. Wall was born in Bristol, and lived in Wapping for the past 25 years. He was employed in the programming department of the Travelers Insurance Co., Hartford, retiring in 1960 after 42 years service. He was an Army Air Corps veteran of World War I, and was a member of the 60th Aero Squadron during the war, and a member of the Power Squadron.

Survivors, besides his wife, include a son, Richard J. Wall Jr. of East Hartford; 2 daughters, Mrs. Jean E. Smith of Vernon and Mrs. Carl A. Young of East Hartford; 3 sisters, Mrs. Loretta Dismann and Mrs. Doris Suppe, both of Norfolk, and Mrs. Mary Ray of Haddensfield, N.J.; 12 grandchildren, and a great-grandchild.

The Benjamin J. Callahan Funeral Home, 1602 Main St., East Hartford, is in charge of arrangements which are incomplete.

Mrs. Pauline Majka
COVENTRY — Mrs. Pauline Wrobel Majka, 47, of New Britain, sister of Frank Wrobel of Coventry, died yesterday at her home a week after the death of her husband, Matthew J. Majka.

Survivors also include an only brother, and four sisters. The funeral will be held Monday at 8:15 a.m. from the Borawski-Dukas Funeral Home, 332 Burrill St., New Britain.

Vocation Courses Attract One Fourth of MHS Students
Approximately one-fourth of Manchester High School's Class of 1967-1968 of the 682 students who graduated last June—participated in one or more of the school's new vocational programs.

These statistics were revealed in the first follow-up study of graduates from the programs, started in 1966.

The study, made by Sidney Cohen, Manchester's occupational coordinator, was mandatory because MHS receives state and federal reimbursements for the programs under the Vocational Act of 1963.

Church Merger Meeting Topic For Committee
A planning committee for an open meeting April 4 of the Consultation on Church Union (COCU) will have a potluck Tuesday at 6 p.m. at Susannah Wesley Hall of South Methodist Church.

Members of the clergy participating in COCU will attend the supper.

Planning committee members and participating clergy are: The Rev. Kenneth W. Steere, Mrs. James E. Elliott and Mrs. Leon Bradley, all of Center Congregational Church; The Rev. Felix M. Davis, Mrs. Donald E. Anderson and Mrs. Edward H. Cavin, all of Second Congregational Church; The Rev. Earl E. Custer, Mrs. David A. Witham and Mrs. William E. Dow Jr., all of North Methodist Church; The Rev. Dr. J. Manley Shaw, Mrs. Richard Sperry and Mrs. David H. Holcomb, all of South Methodist Church; and The Rev. George F. Nostrand, Mrs. Elmer Odell and Mrs. John T. Garopolo, all of St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

The Consultation on Church Union proposes a merger of 10 Protestant denominations. Manchester churches involved are Center and Second Congregational, North and South Methodist and St. Mary's Episcopal.

The women's groups of the five churches are planning the open meeting April 4 at St. Mary's Church to explain the function of COCU and explore its possibilities. Dr. Paul Minear, professor of theology at the Yale Divinity School, will be the guest speaker. He has been a state observer to COCU since its inception in 1960.

These statistics were revealed in the first follow-up study of graduates from the programs, started in 1966.

The study, made by Sidney Cohen, Manchester's occupational coordinator, was mandatory because MHS receives state and federal reimbursements for the programs under the Vocational Act of 1963.

Of those furthering their education, three are students at four-year colleges, 20 are attending Manchester Community College, and the remainder are at a variety of specialized training schools.

Two of the graduates are out of the labor market because of marriage, and two are not working because of health or home conditions, it was reported. Four are in the armed forces.

"Although many graduates have taken jobs not directly related to their studies," Cohen said, "it is evident... that the courses of study at Manchester High School did contribute to their occupational choices."

"Sometimes the educational experience negatively influenced choice of occupation, for study and working in the fields convinced the students that their school choice was not the occupation they wanted for their life's work."

Average hourly wages for the working graduates ranged from $1.78 per hour for the food services worker to $2.50 per hour for those in occupations related to mechanical inspection.

Results of the study have been reported to MHS teachers, administrators, and the Board of Education.

Shrine Club To Be Led By Sheldon

Frank P. Sheldon of 25 Meadwood Lane last night was elected president of Omar Shrine Club, succeeding Russell Prentice of 21 Lynch Dr.

The Shrine club's annual meeting was held at Willie's Steak House, and in attendance were four of the newly elected officers of Sphinx Temple, including Potentate Herbert Schick of Litchfield.

Elected to serve with Sheldon are Willard Dickerson, first vice president; Raymond E. Bogue, second vice president; Herbert Kingsbury, secretary; Stanley N. Baldwin, treasurer; Norma Nurni and Robert Murdoch, board of directors for three-year terms; and Richard Rothwell, to the one-year vacancy on the board created when Bogue was elected a vice president.

Sheldon is a special agent with Phoenix Mutual, a former member of the Manchester Board of Education, a former president of Ellington Ridge Country Club, a past president of Manchester Rotary Club, past officer of the Insurance Agents Association, and is an active member of the Chamber of Commerce.

In his final president's message, Prentice pointed out the two major events of Omar's year—the Spring Ceremonial held in Manchester on June 3, and the testimonial for Dr. Arthur L. Wasserman, past potentate of Sphinx Temple, who was general chairman for the Ceremonial, said Omar could be proud of the work it did in presenting one of the finest Ceremonials in the history of Sphinx Temple.

Prentice said final returns for the testimonial to Dr. Diskan would soon be made and that an additional check would be donated to the HOPE in the doctor's name. A preliminary check of $1,000 was presented last Friday at the dinner-dance sponsored with Manchester Rotary Club.

A life membership in Omar was presented to Harold Barnsley of 206 Porter St. by Prentice. Barnsley is a charter member and former president of the club, and has been its chaplain for many years.

Sheldon announced some of his plans for the year, starting with a Feb. 18 meeting at Willie's Steak House when Irving E. Partridge, past Grand Master of Masons in Connecticut, will be the speaker.

He re-appointed Barnsley as chaplain, and named Rothwell chairman for the annual Ladies-Divian Night, a dinner-dance on March 15 at Ellington Ridge Country Club.

Potentate Schick appointed Sphinx Treasurer William Coates as his representative to Omar. Coates announced plans for the Potentate's Reception March 9 at the Hilton Hotel in Hartford. Other Divan officers were on the alert along the 151-mile demilitarized zone separating North and South Korea.

State Department officials gathered diplomatic representatives of the 16 countries which fought North Korea in the Korean War and briefed them on the crisis.

The State Department said any move by North Korea to try the Pueblo crew would be considered "a deliberate aggravation of an already serious situation of an already serious situation."

A broadcast from Pyongyang, North Korea's capital, had called the crewmen "criminals" who must be dealt with by law.

The International Red Cross was asked by the U.S. government to intercede for the freedom of the men. In Geneva, the agency said it had contacted the North Korean Red Cross after receiving the request.

At the Senate, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, after appearing before the Foreign Relations Committee, called the seizure an "outrageous act of piracy on the high seas." Once more he rejected as baseless the North Korean charge that the ship had penetrated its territorial waters.

Johnson's other military preparation moves followed the Pueblo's capture have included dispatching the Enterprise and its accompanying task force off the Korean coast. The Enterprise has about 90 fighters and bombers.

Other ships in the task force are the nuclear frigate Truxtun and four destroyers.

Additionally, two squadrons of jet fighters are reported to have been moved into South Korea from bases in Japan and Okinawa.

In his Friday broadcast, Johnson denounced the seizure of the Pueblo as "yet another wanton and aggressive act" and said it had taken place beyond North Korean territory in international waters.

"Clearly, this cannot be accepted," Johnson said.

MSLA Reports: Savings Increase By $1.5 Million

"There is little doubt that 1967 was a good year for the association," stated Robert Boyce, president of the Manchester Savings and Loan Association, at the group's annual meeting yesterday, which included the re-election of officers and three directors.

At the close of 1967, Boyce reported, savings balances amounted to $10,783,196, an increase during the year of more than $1.5 million, as compared to an increase for 1966 of only $173,763.

As a result of the savings increase, there was a corresponding increase in the supply of funds available to make mortgage loans, Boyce said.

He reported 142 mortgage loans, totaling $3,068,785, were made by the association during the year. Mortgage loan balances increased by $931,302, compared to an increase of $34,827 the previous year.

Dividends of $53,350 were paid on savings accounts in 1967, the largest dollar amount in the association's history. Additions to reserves during the year totaled $42,889; and reserve and undivided profit totals at year-end were reported at $1,790,467. Liquid assets, cash and government securities at the close of 1967 amounted to 11.1 per cent of the association's total savings, Boyce said. During the year, the association made further advances in automation and is currently "on line" with both savings and mortgage loans, resulting both in increased record-keeping efficiency and savings in time required for customer transactions, the president reported.

"This association was the first association to be on line for both savings and mortgages in Connecticut, and perhaps in all New England," Boyce noted. Officers re-elected for the year are:

John H. Hyde, chairman of the board; Boyce, president; Miss Dorothea E. Slavitsky, secretary; Henry B. Agnew, treasurer; and Harold C. Norton and John Hedlund, assistant treasurers.

Directors re-elected to four-year terms are Andrew Analdi Sr., Dr. Thomas M. Healy, and Hayden L. Griswold.

Ally Vessel Fired at in Viet Rescue
Navy aircraft were sent to the scene to attack the shore batteries.

One of the aircraft was hit and the pilot ejected about 11 miles from the ships.

Rescue aircraft arrived quickly on the scene as the destroyers moved toward the downed pilot. The ships shelled enemy shore batteries to discourage action against the pilot in the water about five miles offshore.

Youth Sunday will be observed tomorrow at Center Congregational Church. The young people of the church will participate in the 9:15 and 11 a.m. services. Miss Elizabeth Twombly and Robert Taylor will conduct the worship services, and Miss Roberta Upping and James Campbell will give sermons on "A Faith for Today." Miss Upping will also sing two selections, and Miss Lauren Rivera will be the organist.

Friendship Circle of the Salvation Army will have a work and service meeting Monday at 7:45 p.m. at the church. Hostesses are Mrs. William Spatig and Mrs. Thomas Blevins.

The Perennial Planters Garden Club will meet Monday at 6:15 p.m. for a potluck at the home of Mrs. Bernice Manning, 61 Marion Dr. Plans for the coming season will be discussed.

Dr. and Mrs. Barney Wichman of 54 Brookfield St. have recently returned from Jamaica, West Indies, where Dr. Wichman attended a scientific conference of the American College of Podiatric Medicine.

Manchester Rotary Club will meet Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at Manchester Country Club. Donald Genovese will show a film on the U.S. Navy.

Duplicate Bridge
Results in a master's point duplicate bridge game last night at the Italian American Club are: North-South, Mitchell Bala and Edward Bala, first; Paul Barton and Douglas Barton, second; and Joseph Marcellio and William Radzewicz, third.

Also, East-West, Mr. and Mrs. Albert LaPlant, first; Dr. Saul Cohen and Mrs. Kathryn Corrigan, second; and William Hartwright and Bert Ross, third.

The game is sponsored by the Manchester Bridge Club and played each Friday at 8 p.m. and Wednesday at 7:30 at the club at 135 Eldridge St. Play is open to the public.

Three Items Before Board Dennisons Appealing Laurel Lake Zoning

The Board of Directors will consider an agenda of only three items when it meets Tuesday for its fourth informal meeting of the month. The meeting is at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

The first item is a review, with 8th Utilities District directors participating, of the latest cost and design report for a Secondary Treatment Plant, proposed to be constructed adjacent to the Olcott St. Disposal Area.

The report is by James S. Minges and Associates, consulting engineers for the project. The Secondary Treatment Plant is designed to take sewage from town and district lines. It would be constructed in conjunction with a Northeast Sewer Interceptor and a cross-town relief trunk.

District president Victor Swanson has complained that Minges and Associates, in almost a year of planning, has ignored and has never consulted with District officials.

The second item on Tuesday night's agenda is a workshop session on proposed new personnel rules for town employees. In reviewing the rules earlier this month, the directors asked Town Manager Robert Weiss to eliminate a controversial "gag" proposal.

The rule would forbid town employees from discussing with the directors, the press or the public any problem dealing with their employment, prior to discussing it first with the town manager.

The third item to be discussed Tuesday is a proposal by Mayor Nathan Agostinelli for developing indoor and outdoor recreational facilities on about 100 acres of Globe Hollow land.

His proposed site is in the 115-acre area which had been considered as a future campus for Manchester Community College. It extends from east of the Nike Site to west of S. Main St.

College officials have abandoned the plan for a campus there in favor of one on a 160-acre site off Wetherell St.

Agostinelli's plan includes a ski slope, already recommended for the Globe Hollow site by the Advisory Rec and Park Board.

The mayor's plan, developed by him and Town Director William Schaller, is designed to include in one area most of the recreational needs of Manchester residents, of all ages.

Druggist Convicted
HARTFORD (AP)—Nathan M. Zuboff, an East Hartford druggist, has been found guilty by the State Commission of Pharmacy of overcharging patients at the State Welfare Department pharmacies.

For this and two other violations his pharmacist's license was suspended for 10 days and his pharmacy license for the Brewer Pharmacy in East Hartford for 10 days. The suspensions are scheduled to begin Feb. 7.

Reds Again Shell Marine Combat Base

Enemy artillery, rockets and mortars wounded 20 Leathernecks at Khe Sanh Friday.

Elsewhere in South Vietnam, fighting was expected to continue throughout the Viet Cong standdown period, which began at 1 a.m.—noon Friday EST. The Communists had declared that any violation of this truce by the allies "will be punished severely," leaving the way open for them to keep shooting.

Communist forces staged an attack near Saigon just after 1 a.m. and, in one of three assaults just before that hour, turned the tables on government police who were trying to ambush them on the southwestern edge of the capital.

About 30 South Vietnamese combat policemen were lying in ambush when the guerrillas blasted their positions with bazooka-type rockets, killing five policemen and wounding five and badly damaging a nearby police station.

It was one of the rare instances in which the Viet Cong used the rockets inside the city. The attack was not far from the main American communications center for all of South Vietnam, with direct links to Washington.

The attack just after the Viet Cong cease-fire was on a district headquarters about 25 miles west of Saigon. A Vietnamese military spokesman said a mortar and ground attack by perhaps 200 guerrillas, starting at 1:30 a.m., killed two civilians and wounded 35 and wounded 22 of the 350 militiamen defending the post. Six Viet Cong were reported killed.

Enemy gunners fired 70 rounds of 140mm rockets into a new U.S. airfield near Quang Tri City, 19 miles south of the demilitarized zone, killing three Americans, wounding seven and cratering one end of the field. U.S. helicopter gunships swooped down and raked the suspected Communist rocket po-

Dennisons Appealing Laurel Lake Zoning

Robert and Wells Dennison are appealing the Jan. 9 action of the Town Planning Commission (TPC) in denying an application to rezone to industrial the Laurel Lake area consisting of about 118 acres.

The TPC rezoned to industrial 80 acres of the land involved in the proposed Laurel Lake zone change which is adjacent to and now zoned industrial where the town sewage treatment plant, the disposal area, and the dog pound are located.

The plaintiffs claim that because of the abutting character of the action on the grounds that the action of the commission was illegal, arbitrary, and in abuse of the discretion vested in it, according to the appeal which was filed yesterday.

The plaintiffs claim that because of the land of the lake area and state highway plans for Interstates 84 and 491, and U.S. 6, the residential use of the area is not desirable or practical.

The granting of the petition would have been in accord with present and proposed character of the district and would have encouraged the most appropriate use of the land, state the Dennisons.

Under a verbal agreement between Case Bros., former owners of the Laurel Lake area, and Town Manager Robert Weiss, the town started dumping operations in Laurel Lake last summer.

The town apparently had been in violation of its zoning regulations which forbid dumping of refuse in a Rural Zone. It is allowed in an industrial zone.

The zone change was requested by the Dennisons over an extensive area of the lake to permit the town to dump refuse in the lake which is adjacent to the town dump.

Dumping in the drained lake bed would eventually have created land suitable for sale to industries. Fighting the dumping plan are the Capitol Region Planning Agency, the Hookanum River Resources Development Commission, and Town Planner Joseph Tamsky.

The TPC, in approving the zone change for 80 acres, said that it felt that the zone change is a natural extension of industrial zoned property owned by the town.

The 30 acres includes 21.9 acres owned by the town, 6.4 acres owned by the state, and about 4 acres owned by the Dennisons. The zone change will enable the town to use the area for garbage and refuse disposal in its sanitary and landfill operations to a height of 30 feet for four to six years.

A public hearing was held Jan. 2 on the proposed zone change to industrial of property located north of the Hartford Electric Light Co. right-way and included property owned by Dennisons, Charles Treat, and the Laurel Lake property. The application was extended to include land bounded by the town line, a parcel owned by the State of Connecticut.

Kohn Bros. property, and Leone family property. The TPC, in rejecting the change for the entire Laurel-Lake area, said it felt that remainder of the Laurel Lake land should be studied further to determine the best use of the land before changing of the land before changing contemplated.

Tamsky is now making a study of the Laurel Lake area in conjunction with the CRPA. Tamsky has said that it would be important for the town to acquire Laurel Lake if it is not expensive. If the lake was acquired by the town, the town would use part of it for a park and part for sanitary landfill operations if necessary. The CRPA includes the lake in a park plan for the Hockanum river.

The action is returnable in Hartford County Court of Common Pleas in March. The Defendants are represented by the Hartford law firm of Gilman and Marks.

Censors Lose to Brothers

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Those battling brothers, the Smothers, appear to have reached an agreement for peaceful coexistence with their television network.

Tom and Dick Smothers fight each other only on their Sunday night variety show. There off-screen combativeness has lately been directed at CBS, which they believed was taking a stiff-necked attitude about some of the topical humor the boys were attempting.

CBS censors applied a heavy pencil, the Smothers claimed, to jokes about President Johnson, the Vietnam war, dope, protest and other topics. "The worst came when they eliminated an 11-minute routine on censorship by Elaine May," said Tom, adding gleefully: "The whole thing was later printed in the New York Times."

The climax of the Smothers' winter of discontent came last month when they went to England for the beginning of the show on television there. In interviews they said flatly that network interference had made the show intolerable and they intended to quit.

"We meant it," declared Dick, the bass-playing straight man of the act. "We were going to finish out the season so CBS wouldn't lose money on sponsorship and would have time to line up another show. But we had definitely decided not to continue."

"Absolutely," added Tom, the comical brother. "Why should we absorb that kind of punishment? Here we were trying to do a show that said something about what is happening today, and they were thwarting us at every turn. Who needs it?"

Both surmise that the London declarations convinced CBS of the seriousness of their intentions.

Robert Shaw, Henry VIII in "A Man for All Seasons," is the rebellious Martin Luther in John Osborne's prize-winning drama, "Luther," Monday at 8:30 p.m. on ABC. Yootha Joyce plays his wife.

They report that the censorship situation has greatly improved since they returned to the show early this month.

"Let's face it: CBS had a lot to lose," observed Dick. "We were the first show that could make any headway against 'Bonanza'."

"We also have been able to get the young crowd; our biggest audience is between 16 and 18," added Tom. "That's an important segment, and it shows that we are speaking their language."

The brothers admitted that their own attitudes and approaches have changed since the recent wrangles.

"I don't feel the political situation as strongly as Tommy does," said Dick, whose interest lies in car racing. "I exert a calming influence on him, and I try to seek a middle course be-

Again, People Are Talking

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — The single thing that has been troubling television executives for the past few seasons—troubling them more than bad ratings—has been the fact that people seem to have stopped talking much about television.

The viewers groan a lot and say that days go by when they don't even bother to turn on the darned set—and one suspects that they exaggerate. But television's current offerings just don't seem to bring on the violent reactions of those good old days.

But during the past week television has—somewhat unexpectedly—moved back into the mainstream of viewers' conversation.

On Monday night the premier of NBC's "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In," a midseason replacement, arrived with a pace and verve that was stimulating. It took some impudent funny siddeswipes on subjects ranging from government policy and Charles de Gaulle to rock n' roll and pot. And the networks, which have been afflicted with a desire to please all the people all of the time, have suddenly decided that controversial material isn't all bad.

The day after the premiere show viewers talked, with delight, about seeing a really funny show.

The television debut of Lee Bouvier on Wednesday night also caused excited ripples on a TV lake too long placid. Her first starring vehicle drew some deadly critical shafts, but the audience turned out to see the show.

A preliminary count by A. C. Nielsen, the audience research company, found that in the New York metropolitan area alone, "Laura" had as many viewers as the other two network stations combined.

The only thing now to fear is that controversy and satire may suddenly become very popular and like other TV fads run its course fast. And also that off-beat casting to attract audiences will become more important than the kind of plays presented.

CBS, which in the past couple of seasons has been the first to announce its plans for the next September, plans so few changes that there are really no cliffhangers.
It is likely that Doris Day's new half-hour situation comedy series will replace "Good Morning World" on Tuesday nights, and that a 90-minute whodunit action series, "Hawaii-Five-O" will take over Thursday night's "Cimarron Strip."

Batman and Robin Finally Get Zapped

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — And now a final adventure for Batman: He is going off to that Balthala in the sky.

That's the way producer William Dozier describes the end of the "Batman" series on ABC. This week the word was handed down that the show will not be renewed for a fourth year.

"Well, we had a good three-year run," Dozier philosophized. "That's not bad for what was essentially a novelty show. You've got to be realistic about such series; they can't last too long. In fact, I was surprised that it went a third season."

When "Batman" arrived on the television scene in 1965, it was a rip-roaring sensation. Critics were confused as to whether to denounce it as child's play or praise it as camp. Adults were amused by the straight-faced heroics and the stylized manner of the series, as evidenced in the comic strip "zaps" and "pows" that appeared on the screen during fistfights.

There was never any question of how the youngsters felt about "Batman"; they loved it.

The youthful audience remained loyal into the third season, but the adults defected, and that can be fatal for a television series. It is still the adults who buy the sponsors' products, and if they aren't watching, they won't buy.

"In the last rating, the show was still leading in its time period," Dozier observed. "But the adults had wearied of the series, and the audience had become more and more juvenile. If I were running the network, I would have taken 'Batman' off, too. The kids are just as happy to watch the old shows; they don't care if it's a repeat. So why go on spending $87,000 for new ones?"

The quality of "Batman" was maintained to the end; coming up are such guests as Zsa Zsa Gabor, Howard Duff and Ida Lupino. The new shows will run out at the end of March, then repeats will play on the network, probably through the summer.

"Then we'll go into syndication, and I expect 'Batman' will go on playing forever," said the producer. "We'll have 120 negatives to sell, and there will be a whole new generation of kids coming along who will have never seen the show."

Dozier also has a feature film
