A second 10-week session will be held beginning March 15, and interviewing will start March 1.

Another joint Manchester-State Police investigation has resulted in the arrests of two cashiers in connection with the breaking and entering of Manchester homes last November.

Arrested on warrants yesterday by Manchester detectives John Kierack and Raymond Mazzone were Dennis LaChapelle, 17, and James Dezzo, 17, both of Phoenix St.

Manchester detectives are also cooperating currently with State Police investigators in the case of a $20,000 robbery at Eastern Department Store in the Shopping Parkade Jan. 20.

LaChapelle is charged with breaking and entering with intent and larceny of more than $250 in incidents occurring at the home of John Larrabee, Elizabeth Dr., and Leslie Brownfield, Birch Mt. Rd. last November.

Dezzo is charged with breaking and entering with criminal intent and larceny of more than $250 in the Larrabee burglary. Both youths were released to the custody of their parents under the no-cash bail program with $150 bond set.

Among items taken in the breaks were weapons, television sets, auto parts, sporting goods, transistor radios and mechanical tools. Some of the stolen goods involved both the State Police and Manchester cases.

Manchester detectives under the direction of Det. Lt. Joseph Sartor and Chief of Police James Reason worked closely with the investigative staff of Lt. Wilfred Bellefour, head of the State Police Troop K in Manchester, as well as representatives of the Vermont Police Department in making the arrests.

Board Asks CREC Goals

An official from the Capital Region Education Council (CREC) will be invited by the Manchester Board of Education to discuss the group's aims and operating procedures at the board's next regular meeting, Feb. 20.

Richard Superintendent William Curtis was directed at this week's meeting to issue the invitation to several members of the board.

CREC, formed in 1966, is a regional association of school boards from 30 towns in the Greater Hartford area, including Manchester.

The board's concern was occasioned by a letter it received recently seeking its favorable opinion on a proposed amendment to CREC's constitution, relating to the appointment of council officers and employees.

One section of the amendment would permit CREC's board of directors to hire "such persons as deemed to be necessary and appropriate" for transacting council business.

All 12 CREC representatives attending a council meeting Jan. 25 were reported to have voted for the amendment. It could not be passed, however, because it failed to get the necessary two-thirds vote of the 30 members.

Atty. John Rotimer, chairman of the local board, said he was particularly upset over the fact that the local board never received notification of the Jan. 25 meeting.

Foss Scores In Dual Role At Symphony

Luke Foss, one of America's better-known musical figures, appeared as guest conductor with the Hartford Symphony Orchestra last evening, scoring a triumph both as a composer and as a conductor. It has been some years since anyone but the regular music director has conducted any regular subscription concert by the organization.

Foss heard Mr. Foss who was born in Germany in 1923. For 10 years, he seemed to have matured considerably during this time. Long considered one of the most "avant" among the "avant-garde," he offered a program that was curiously restrained, and interpretations which were almost classic in simplicity.

The "Variations on a Theme by Paganini" from the pen of Boris Blacher opened the program. The theme itself is thoroughly well known, but the resemblance between it and subsequent variations seemed purely coincidental. In fact, the eye could have discerned resemblances from the score, but to the ear there was only a faint similarity.

Since it was a work through composition which was logically worked out and carefully orchestrated, Blacher is noted for his mathematical penchant in music, and if nothing else this makes his work with logic, if not very great musical value.

The other modern work on the program came from the pen of Mr. Foss and was titled, "A Parable of Death." Scored for narrator, choir, and orchestra, the work is successful in many ways but disappointing in others. It was given a rough first performance and the conductor-composer seemed very pleased with the forces at his disposal here.

Mr. Foss wrote in the program notes, "Poetry can be made to serve music," but my impression in this case was that the music served the poetry. There was considerable enhancement of the symbolism inherent in the poetry by Rainer Maria Rilke which formed the text, but were the music removed from the verse it would scarcely stand on its own.

Mr. Foss seemed unable to present a style which might be called his own. The first section sounded vaguely reminiscent of Mahler, the next of Vaughan Williams, and so on through the work's seven sections. The conducting, which was excellent, lent a cohesive force to the composition which is actually lacking in its musical conception.

Foss's music was very effective as narrator, displaying understanding of the text and easily comprehended direction. Warren Hofter was the tenor and made the most of the voice which is essentially lyric, whereas the part is often very dramatic.

Schuber's Fourth Symphony completed the program. Here, Mr. Foss was less convincing than in the 20th century music. He used the full string section for a work that is scored rather lightly, and while he maintained a good balance between the large string band and the pairs of woodwinds, he was forced to produce a curiously veiled tone to obtain this balance. It didn't sound characteristic of Schubert.

Nor was the tone the only variant from customary Schuberian. He displayed considerable lyricism in the "Andante" however, and generally displayed himself throughout the evening as a conductor of very considerable merit.

South Windsor Town Council to Seek Bids For Bonds of $2.9 Million

The town manager Terry V. Close has been authorized by the town council to call for bids for the sale of bond issues in the amount of $2,900,000. This annual covers $2,500,000 for the Timothy Edwards School and $400,000 for the new town hall.

The town manager explains that there is an advantage in having the request into one issue as it is preferable not to make more than one visit a year to the bond market.

Deputy Mayor G. Warren Westbrook, who is chairman of the town council's committee on Public Health and Safety, has announced that there is an interest in a South Windsor project for a $14 million hospital for mentally retarded children, offering both aid and residential care.

According to Arthur Dubrow, deputy commissioner of Mental Health in Connecticut, the donation of a suitable site would be gratefully accepted. The town of Newington has already made such an offer to Dubrow.

Anyone owning suitable property who might like to donate it should contact the town of Westbrook. Qualifications for this site would be an area of 20 acres and accessibility to city water and public sewerage.

South Windsor Square Dance Club will hold a square dance on Wednesday evening from 8 to 11 p.m. at the Wapping Elementary School. Guest caller will be Audie Gaylord. All Club level dancers are invited.

Club Pack Banquet

Club Scout Pack 38 of Wapping will hold its annual Banquet and Gold Banquet at the Orchard Hill School cafeteria Saturday at 8 p.m. sharp. The evening activities will include presentation of the pack charter and a major show. Awards will be presented to Kevin Shney, Steven Whalen, Kevin Shney, Steven Whalen, William Gaskin, Michael Koenigs, John Finlay, Bruce Lassman, Scott Braslin, Matthew, James Duval, Gary Doyas, Brent Bishop, Randy Heckman, Fred Boing Jr., Larry Gerbo, Carl Lenket and Scott Bishop.

LWV Meeting

The League of Women Voters of South Windsor will hold membership meeting on Feb. 12 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Richard Lariviere. The Local Affairs Committee, directed by Mrs. Richard Stevens, will present the program.

Joseph Carino, chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission of South Windsor, and Robert Donald of Planning Services, Inc. will speak to the members.

The league has been actively studying and supporting partial planning and zoning regulations, which is the final stage of the "Andante" however, and generally displayed himself throughout the evening as a conductor of very considerable merit.

U.S. Program Probed for Sex, Bribery

The case brought a charge Wednesday from Sen. John J. Williams (R-De.) that the Johnson administration was trying to "break it under the proverbial political rug" until after the November election.

At least 40 aid employees, Williams told the Senate, were resigning to quit "with the public record indicating that they resign on a purely voluntary basis with no charges pending." He said information on the resignations has been classified by the Justice Department pending its investigation.

"Aid began examining its dealings with J. M. Adrianiens, the Belgian contractor, after a government operations subcommittee headed by Sen. Ernest Gruening (D-Alaska) turned up evidence of shoddy repair work performed for aid by Adrianiens and a Japanese company, Japan Aircraft Manufacturing Co. of Yokohama.

"AID had contracts whereby such of these firms repaired U.S. military aircraft, presumably for American shipment to Vietnam and other countries.

Your Dental Health

This is the fourth in a series of six articles on dental health published by The Herald, in cooperation with the Manchester Dental Society, in observance of National Children's Dental Health Week, Feb. 8-10.

Q. My twelve-year-old son recently chipped a front tooth when he fell off his skate board. When I took him to my dentist, I was told that my son would have to wait for a few years before the tooth could be capped. Why can't it be fixed now?

A. At your son's age, the pulp of the tooth—containing the nerves and blood vessels—is quite large. Preparing it for a crown might injure the pulp and could kill the tooth. However, as a tooth ages—or in response to an injury—dentin is deposited, thus sealing the pulp and the pulp starts to become smaller. Periodic X-ray of the tooth will enable your dentist to determine the proper time for preparation without injury to the tooth.

If a large portion of the tooth is missing, the dentist may decide to perform a root canal treatment. This type of procedure is shown by cutting away the pulp chamber of the tooth. The tentative age grouping for this site would be an area of 20 acres and accessibility to city water and public sewerage.

Sheinwold on Bridge

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

There's more than one way of taking a finesse in the trump suit, and the strongest way is not to take the finesse at all. This method was demonstrated in the Italian team championships a few months ago in the match between Rome and Florence.

Opening lead King of Clubs. South's bidding followed the "canapé" style popular in France and Italy, in which a player bids the shorter of two suits. South bid 1 NT, showing the longer suit later, and most standard systems South bid spades first. The final contract was ambitious, largely because North overbid.

West opened the king of clubs and shifted to a diamond on seeing dummy's club bid. Declarer took the ace of diamonds and rejected the idea of taking the king of clubs. He needed one of dummy's trumps to ruff a heart and a club. He had only one club, but he had something up his sleeve. He had a trump in the dummy which he had not immediately identified. The two bodies had been used up South could no longer take a trump finesse, but he had something up his sleeve. South ruffed a club for the third time, thus reducing his hand to two diamonds and two low diamonds. He then got out of his hand by leading a diamond.

South didn't care who took the diamond. South was not immediately identify the two bodies.

Viet Cong Claim Three-Point Victory

material strength to defeat the enemy.

While sources close to the communists privately admit that North Vietnamese troops are fighting in the South, Hanoi has consistently issued official denials that it supplies the Vietcong with manpower and materiel.

Referring repeatedly to "all sides" and "diversified" tactics, Wednesday's communique emphasized that the objective of the present Vietcong offensive are political as well as military.

It particularly emphasized, for example, the importance of the so-called "alliance of national and peace forces" in Saigon and Hue, which, it said, are "contributing to the cause of national liberation."

The communique seemed to imply that the Saigon and Hue groups are separate organizations and are not affiliated with the Vietcong. It also claimed to have prompted South Vietnamese troops and cross over to the revolutionary side.

The Vietcong also claimed to have attracted to its ranks government troops and civil servants who, the statement said, "saw this unique opportunity to return to the side of the people."

As a consequence, it went on, the Vietcong has been able to administer has been smashed or disintegrated by big chunks of many places, and it has been an efficient part of the United States.

Eagle Scouts Honor Maidment

Harry S. Maidment, scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop 25, last night was honored by the Eagle Scouts and their parents at a dinner at the Woodruff Hall Center Congregational Church, Paul Frankenberg and David Hickock received the Eagle badges at the ceremonies.

Mr. Roger Preston of Simsbury, the first Eagle Scout listed on the plaque, officiated at the surprise presentation. Preston was made an Eagle Scout December 1967.

Maidment has been scoutmaster of Troop 25 since June 1968. He actually led the troop from 1947 but was not enough at that time to be recognized as the first Eagle Scout. He was first took over leadership of the troop, he commuted from Yale University, to meetings each week.

The plaque was purchased with funds donated by the 100 Mothers' Auxiliary of the troop. The program was directed by Scoutmaster Harry S. Maidment and his staff.

A tenderfoot investiture was held for David Benson, 16, and Eric Nelson, Wayne Leitch and David Hickock.

Members of a plaque committee were Brian Rogers, Gary Peters, and Scott Thiel, all Eagle Scouts, and Norman Chotel, Scoutmaster of Troop 25.

Frankenberg and Hickock, the newly honored Eagle Scouts are serving as junior assistant scoutmasters of the troop. Both are 17 and seniors at Manchester High School, and both have previously served as patrol leader.

Hickock has also received the 40th anniversary award, the Boy Scout of the Year award. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Hickock of 83 Phelps Rd. Frankenberg is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Frankenberg of 33 Brent Rd.

Mr. Richard Knapp, Scoutmaster of Troop 25, was chairman of the podium. The presentation was assisted by members of the troop.

Vernon Hospital Changing Its Number

Starting Feb. 15 the telephone number at Rockville General Hospital will be changed from its present number of 872-0001.

The number change has been necessitated by the constantly increasing demands for telephone service at the hospital's switchboard. The change will make it possible to dial the number in every room of the new wing of the hospital under construction.

The hospital has phone jacks in most of its patient rooms and plans to have them installed in every room of the new wing. The phone jacks enable the use of portable phones for the bedside convenience of the patients.

The new number will appear in the next edition of the telephone company's directory scheduled to appear on April 3. Hospital Geis Trust gift.

A trust certificate gift representing a number of units of Massachusetts Fund valued at approximately $5,000, was received last week by the hospital's general hospital. This gift came from a trust created by the late Minnie A. Toop, a former member of the Rockville Hospital Women's Auxiliary who died on Dec. 28.

The gift will be placed in the hospital's endowment fund which is used each year to defray the operating loss sustained at Rockville Hospital. The hospital reported a net operating loss in excess of $50,000 for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1967.

From Your Neighbor's Kitchen

By DOBIE BELDING

Greek dishes are a specialty of Mrs. John (Dorothy) Savidakis of 129 Byron Dr., who uses family recipes given to her by her mother. Some of her favorites are Chicken with Orzo, "Tzazourti," or Yogurt Spiced Chicken, "Kourambithes" and "Margarites," both Greek cookies, and Greek Tossed Salad.

Chicken with Orzo (Macaroni Rice)
 3 pound chicken, cut in pieces salt and pepper
 1 small onion, chopped fine
 1 clove of garlic, chopped fine
 2 cans whole tomato (strained)
 5 cups water
 1 1/2 cups Orzo (macaroni rice)
 Season chicken pieces well with salt and pepper and place in roasting pan covered with onion and garlic. Mix tomato and water and pour over chicken. Bake in 375-degree oven until done. Remove chicken from pan, strain liquid and return it to pan with orzo (macaroni rice); bake orzo in liquid for 20 minutes, stirring constantly. Mrs. Savidakis says she likes to serve wine with this recipe.

MRS. SAVIDAKIS AND SONS

Tzazourti
 1 cup butter (one-half pound)
 8 eggs
 1 cup sugar
 1 cup finely ground walnuts
 1 cup yogurt
 1 teaspoon baking soda
 1/2 cup whiskey
 2 cups flour
 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 1 teaspoon cloves
 Have butter at room temperature and cream well. Add sugar gradually and cream well. Beat eggs and gradually add to creamed mixture. Sift together flour and spices. Dissolve baking soda in whiskey. Add all remaining ingredients to creamed mixture, beating slowly as you add. Pour batter into well greased 10 x 15-inch pan (or a little smaller) and bake in 350-degree oven about one hour, testing until done.
 Remove from oven and cool in pan. Cut into diamond-shaped pieces, still leaving in pan, and top with warm syrup.
 When serving, cake may be topped with whipped cream and cherries.

Syrup
 2 1/2 cups sugar
 1 tablespoon honey
 1 1/2 cups water
 few drops of lemon juice
 Boil sugar and water together until thickened slightly, about five minutes. Remove from heat and add honey and lemon juice.

Margarites
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/2 cup unsalted butter
 1 egg yolk
 1 egg white, beaten
 1/2 cup walnuts, chopped fine
 1/2 cup powdered sugar
 1/4 cup sifted flour

Kourambithes
 1 pound lightly salted butter
 1 egg yolk
 1/2 cup walnuts, chopped fine
 1/2 cup powdered sugar
 1/4 cup sifted flour

Half Moon Greek Cookies
 1 egg yolk
 1/2 cup walnuts, chopped fine
 1/2 cup powdered sugar
 1/4 cup sifted flour

Chopped almonds
 Sift three cups flour with baking powder. Mix softened butter with sugar and egg yolks and vanilla and gradually add flour. You must knead dough. If dough is easy to handle, dough should not be too dry. Easily available or liquid dough tops with beaten egg whites and sprinkle with sifted flour. Place cookies on ungreased cookie sheet and bake in 350-degree oven until lightly browned. This makes about five dozen cookies.

Greek Style Tossed Salad
 Cut up lettuce, tomatoes, celery, green peppers, cucumbers and red onions. Sprinkle with brown, roll cakes in sifted powdered sugar and place each in individual paper cups. This

Coventry State Aide Cites Work Of WRPA

Leroy Jones, commissioner of the Department of Community Affairs, told the Windham Regional Planning Agency Tuesday in Williamsville he is "happy to see the agency going, and functioning as it is. What you're up to is extremely important."

Jones was special speaker at a special dinner meeting of the WRPA, attended by about 50 representatives to the agency and their guests.

Introduced by agency director Robert Young, Jones explained that the Department of Community Affairs is structured on a district basis, so as not to be a "faceless bureaucracy." He said that Jude Brennan, director of District I, is "your man in court" for the municipalities in the 10-town agency region, which includes Coventry and Columbia.

Jones said that towns are eligible for assistance from the Department of Community Affairs, and that regional planning agencies play a role in this. "The eligible towns are a town must complete a comprehensive study, taking a good look at its social and educational services among other things. This comprehensive plan is then reviewed by the regional agency, before going on to the Department of Community Affairs for possible funding."

Jones went on to stress the importance of regional planning.

Coventry Gadapee Quits as EAC Head

Donald Gadapee has resigned his position as president of the Education Association of Coventry, although he will remain a member of the organization that has until this year represented the teachers in salary negotiations with the Board of Education.

Gadapee's action follows closely a possible "larger" between the EAC and the newly formed Coventry Federation of Teachers. The CFT was a close election in December between the two groups, to determine this year's bargaining agent for teachers. The election has been challenged by the EAC, apparently at the urging of the parent organization, the Connecticut Education Association.

The EAC is seeking an election against the CFT, the school board and acting superintendent David McKinley, to appear Friday to show cause why the injunction should not be served. Appearance is set for 2 p.m. in Tolland County Superior Court.

Gadapee said last night that the legal actions had nothing to do with his decision to resign, but added that the proceedings "may hurt the teachers." He said that he was "just too busy" with other activities to continue effectively in his EAC post. Gadapee is a math teacher at the high school and active in the driver's training course, as well as other extracurricular activities.

Negotiations between the CFT and the school board began two weeks ago, with presentation of the initial proposal of the CFT, but were halted immediately, when papers were served on the defendants last week.

Board members have expressed some concern over the slowdown in the negotiations, since teacher salaries form a large part of the total budget. The budget is scheduled to be heard before the Board of Finance early next month, leaving only a short time now for work on the document to be completed.

Investors Expect Super-Performance

Los Angeles Times Service
 NEW YORK, Feb. 8—David L. Babson, an investment counselor of reputation, recently sent out this letter, which he described as unqualified:

"The 50,000 dollars I started with 10 years ago has increased 152 per cent. I am not at all pleased with this result. I am looking for a 40 per cent to 60 per cent average annual growth until I retire 20 years from now."

Babson, who heads a concern appropriately named David L. Babson & Co., notes that if the letter writer achieved his goal of a 40 per cent a year growth, his stock portfolio would be worth 100 million dollars in 20 years. If the 60 per cent were achieved, the man would be worth 1.5 billion dollars.

"Nevertheless, when everyone is running around talking about how much X fund went up last year and what Y fund did last quarter, this unrealistic kind of thinking is the natural result," Babson says.

"Investors" these days are demanding super-performance and they expect it. One result is the wild stock market speculation that is so much talked about these days.

At a New York conference sponsored by the Institutional Investor Magazine that looked into the relationship of these professionals to the market, deep concern was expressed about it.

The concern was first voiced, in rather grim terms, by Manuel F. Cohen, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission. Fund managers and professional investment advisers, such as Babson, didn't disagree with Cohen. Some of them were warning in even stronger language.

The securities markets were described in terms ranging from "a national car game" to "a gigantic perimutual operation," said Robert A. Grimm, president of Endowment Management & Research Corp., which handles the Yale University account.

"What we used to call investors are looking for a new Aladdin's lamp. They've forgotten the old ways."

There were stinging suggestions put forth that the current speculative binge is every bit as dangerous as the 1929 one, when it led to the head-spinning stock smash of 1963. "It's very easy to say to each of us that in our own way we should try to correct it," said Grimm. "But history has shown us that we haven't done anything in the past."

Not everyone, it should be pointed out, believes the speculative binge will lead to a massive fall. Many mutual and other institutional investors who addressed the conference or spoke privately in the halls, watching the mini-skirted "go go" girls who collected questions for the speakers, vigorously defended speculation through institutional funds. Cohen, incidentally, had a phrase for this: "vicious speculation."

"It isn't dull," said John M. Hartwell, president of Hartwell & Co. Inc. and The Hartwell and Co. Fund. "Prior to the advent of the performance fund the securities industry was a dull and drab business."

The performance fund came into existence about 10 years ago, although 1967 was its busiest and best year.

Most of the current speculation binge, which can be measured by soaring prices of low-priced stocks and a skyrocketing volume in tradeable institutional investors, principally the "go go" mutual funds.

An institutional investor, technically, is a fund that represents public money in one way or another and is managed by a group of trustees. The best-known kind is the mutual fund. It solicits money from the public to purchase shares in a widely diversified group of securities.

Mutual funds have assets of about $6 billion dollars. Pension funds also are "institutional," and they're even larger than mutual funds, with assets of some $9 billion dollars. Such funds previously known for deadly conservatism, also have taken an avid interest in performance in recent years.

A performance fund is one that looks for rapid appreciation of capital. Often it churns stocks in its portfolio by rapidly selling and buying; often, too, it concentrates in certain hot groups, in hopes of a yield appreciation. Managers of the performance funds draw fast and shoot from the hip; the yield-conscious, safety-seeking fund managers will take careful aim and squeeze off their shots slowly.

Performance is also synonymous with speculation and speculation is almost synonymous risk. Yet a fund can perform well and not be speculative, some conference speakers pointed out. Said Hartwell: "Consistent gains over a period of years certainly is performance and not necessarily speculation."

How is "consistent gain" defined? Hartwell thinks it can be measured relative to the performance of the market averages in general. A fund that has a record of, say, 25 per cent better than the average for a decade or so certainly would qualify for the "performance" label, he says, and not necessarily be of the go-go type that is so discussed and "wilted" these days.

In Hartwell's opinion, performance by funds merely represents a new era in investment, and there's certainly nothing dangerous or wrong about it.

Attracting them, no doubt, were the lures of performance and excitement. Many of the young men who counsel for or operate the funds have become millionaires before they were 30.

"I don't deny there is speculation in the market," Hartwell said. "I deny that performance is the same thing. I think performance is going to last a long time and I think professional institutions will continue to include most of the securities industry. Volume in the markets will increase also and economics will be served through more capital institutions, which have been freed from the horse and buggy days."

Perhaps so. But many observers are very worried. Manuel Cohen is one. His SEC is asking congress for appropriations to make a giant study of the institutional investor and the effects of the phenomenon on the stock market. In the SEC's latest report on mutual funds, off-the-floor members for their own accounts.

Thus in a 10-million-share day, now uncommon on the big board, institutions would account for about 4 million shares; members trading for their own accounts about 2 million, and the nation's 24 million shareholders would account for about 4 million.

"Turnover" or in-and-out buying and selling, is done most actively by mutual funds. In the last three months of 1967, funds had a turnover of about 37.4 per cent, or some 16 billion in an annual basis, compared with 18.7 per cent in 1966.

How active is the institutional investor's stock market? Altogether, institutions own about 35 per cent of the stock listed on the New York stock exchange and account for some 50 per cent of the trading activity, exclusive of the trading done by "floor members of the stock exchange and trading done by were termed "outright gambling with other people's money" by Babson. He warned, in addition, that the performance fund curiously escaped criticism.

1—Securities markets aren't liquid enough to cope with the huge chunks of capital that are constantly moving around.

2—Today's "dice table" approach will force the government deeper into regulation of the markets.

3—Performance has within itself seeds of its own destruction. "As more and more investors get into the act, the more likely it becomes that performance will go the way of all investment fads," Babson said.

Also, funds apparently do not directly, for the speculative orgy which has been sweeping the country, particularly among unknowledgeable investors.

He further warned careless fund managers: "If you fall as a group, you won't win any brownie points for institutional investors in the long run."

Concentration in certain stocks, or "fad buying," or a high portfolio turnover—characteristics of the go-go fund—

Boards Discuss Referenda Items

A joint meeting of town directors with 8th District District directors, postponed last week because of illness, has been rescheduled for Wednesday, Feb. 14 at 8 p.m. At District offices, Main and Hilliard Sts.

The meeting is to discuss the latest planning reports for the cooperative Secondary Treatment Plant and North Street Interceptor.

The project, part of a $4.8 million sanitary-sewer improvement program, is scheduled for an April 30 referendum.

Next Wednesday's meeting will include a discussion of proposed taxes to the town and District.

DellaFera, Like Cummings, Surprised at Busing Vote

Similar reactions of "surprised" were expressed today by DellaFera and Cummings, Manchester's Republicans, and Democratic town chairmen, in commenting on Tuesday night's action by the GOP-controlled Board of Directors, in authorizing an April 30 advisory referendum on the busing question.

Republican Francis DellaFera and Democrat Ted Cummings both said that they had no idea that the action was to be considered Tuesday night.

DellaFera said, "I was as surprised as the next person when I picked up Wednesday's Herald and learned what had transpired. It was the first I knew that it was even scheduled for consideration."

Cummings said, "I was surprised to me and, no matter how you slice it, they (the Republicans) were not surprised through the back door."

Enemy Takes U.S. Camp, Combat Base Under Fire

The battle ended quickly, but eight of the Americans retreated to the North Vietnamese bunker under three feet of reinforced concrete and two feet of steel.

The North Vietnamese hurled small explosive satchel charges and tear gas and incendiary grenades down the air shafts.

The satchel charges did little damage, and the Americans opened their gas masks and put out the fire. Meanwhile, they called in air strikes after air strikes on the North Vietnamese above.

Fleming, Kidd Hopefuls For U.S. Medal Winners

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — Peggy Fleming's nontop charge toward a figure skating gold medal and skier Billy Kidd's rapid recovery from an alarming ankle injury were the big hopes soaring again today at the 10th Winter Olympics.

Skating world conditions, however, continued to plague the Games, forcing postponement of the men's downhill race and opening heats in men's and women's luge competition.

Mis Fleming, a 21-year-old beauty from Colorado Springs, Colo., took a runaway, 87-point lead over Gabriele Seyfert of East Germany with four of five compulsory figures completed in the Stade de Glace.

soft, and light snow further inhibited Fleming's progress in the downhill race today to decide whether the first two of four skiers could be staged to night. Two-man bobsled heats postponed Wednesday night because of bad weather, also were to be run tonight at Alpe d'Huez.

Mis Fleming, the favorite to give the U.S. its first gold medal in ladies' figure skating since the 1966 Games, built a 30-point lead over the second-place skater, East Germany's Seyfert, with four of five compulsory figures completed in the Stade de Glace.

Skating with easy assurance, she gained 18 points on Miss Fleming on the third figure, a double paragraph forward three, and still further ahead on the fourth, a "four step" paragraph loop, regarded as one of the most difficult in the sport.

"I feel okay. I will go in the race," Kidd said about an hour before the scheduled start of the initial Alpine test, which was washed out by snowfall, high winds and fog.

Mis Fleming had a total of 223.25 points. Miss Seyfert, 196.75. Miss Schuba, 178.8. Miss Gaudin, 175.85.

Mis Fleming received the top placement. Race officials will decide later today on a new date.

At Villard-de-Lans, unseasonably mild weather forced postponement of the first two heats in the luge singles. Temperatures hovering around 39 degrees made the ice track too soft for the luge. The race was scheduled for Feb. 10, but was postponed because of bad weather. The race will be run on Feb. 11.

At Innsbruck, Austria, the men's luge race was postponed because of bad weather. The race will be run on Feb. 11.

Hockey Prospects Fade After Losses

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — An Italian pulled off one of the biggest upsets in Olympic history in cross-country skiing, but any such prospects for the U.S. hockey team have faded after three losses—two in the standings and one in the hospital.

The U.S. team, which must meet heavily favored Russia on Friday, had nursed some hopes of winning a surprise medal in the attack before Bailey Howland and Steve Rasher (20), the defenseman who suffered a severe leg sprain and slight dislocation, and the Americans led Sweden 4-3 Wednesday with Back Court, Gary Costello (19) and Jerry Tjebk (12) scoring. Moffitt (12) was best for the Eagles.

Last night's opener saw Anzani's edged the Hawks, 90-82. This supposed Annals' leading streak of five victories. The Hawks, with sharp passing, won 10-7 on the fourth quarter mark, 25-20. With 1:30 left in the second quarter, the Hawks led 35-20. Leo Cyr, on the outside, and Pat Mairinda, inside, combined for 21 points in the first half to give the construction crew a 47-41 halftime lead.

Wofford edged nine points in the third quarter to give Annals' a 61-60 lead. In the last period, Bob Goehring sank 11 tallies to ease Annals' into the lead, 73-60. Mairinda (25), Goehring (19) and Wojcik (16) were the top guns for Annals.

virtually did the same against the Swedes," he said, "but now we realize we can only win by playing our own game—and that means heavy body checking. And the referee will have to like it or lump it."

Francis Jones, 27, did what the Americans have all but failed to do when he won 30 fumbles from country ski race. No one outside of Scandinavia and Russia had ever won the race before in the Games.

The referee sure had quick whistles around the creases," Jones led all the way, edging Odd Martinsson of Norway and defending champion Eero Miettinen of Finland.

Celts, 76ers Agree NBA Race Not Over

BOSTON (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers and the Boston Celtics agree that their perennial National Basketball Association dogfight is far from over this season, but it took some luck and a last gasp drop in two more to make it.

Andy Williams-San Diego Open Cast of Golfers Familiar As Play Begins in Tourney

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The cast of golf stars was familiar, led by Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper, but the setting and the name of the tournament were new as the $150,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open.

The scene is the 6,792-yard, par 36-36-72 Torrey Pines Golf Club course, overlooking the Pacific Ocean. It had never been used in the 15 years of this single-event Williams' name was pinned to the tourney in keeping with the trend toward entertainment personalities entering into golf sponsorship prominence.

Before it was always just the San Diego Open. Thanks to Williams' affluence, and a benefit angle aimed at the Balk Institute of biological studies, the prize was raised from last year's $65,000 to $150,000.

This does not include the $18,000 in prize money for the two-day pro-amateur competition which wound up Wednesday.

Tyke Steals Hearts, Baby of Competition
