A Peak In Effrontery
 Seldom in the history of American politics has there been such a display of unbecoming effrontery and profound misjudgment as that offered by the reaction of Senator Robert Kennedy to the news by successor Eugene McCarthy in the New Hampshire primary.

The likelihood is that, by the very act in which he reached so eagerly for the Presidency in the wake of McCarthy's accomplishment, with such a presumptuous assumption that everybody would naturally welcome his challenge, McCarthy's prize out of McCarthy's hand, Senator Kennedy ended once and for all whatever ally chances he has had of either getting the nomination or becoming President.

McCarthy, seemingly without ambition, has created a cause which resists frustration and means to the American political process. Kennedy, with his clean-willed sense of personal destiny, will, if he persists, merely shatter it.

The spotlight in which public men operate these days is becoming increasingly sharp and pitiless. Occasionally it shows us men of fancied great stature unaccountably ruining themselves in one ten minute interview.

The Pleasure Of The Non-Meeting
 We have made not the slightest study of meetings and events which were of major importance last Tuesday morning, in honor of the "heavy crown" warning issued by the Weather Bureau for Tuesday afternoon and evening. All that we know is that, quite apart from the party and the best thing for the nation is to accomplish the nomination of Governor Rockefeller.

The probability is that their best chance of success is to be found in the party and the best thing for the nation is to accomplish the nomination of Governor Rockefeller.

1. Governor Rockefeller himself should cease all pretense of reluctance, be drafted, and make one clear decision to work and go all the way.

2. The nation's Republican governors, who played the key role in the party's 1962 national convention, by their own strategic unity behind Eisenhower against Fart as the candidate of the party's Congressional and organizational professionals, have a chance of being decisive again in the 1968 convention if they get together promptly.

3. Dwight Eisenhower, whose political dogma seemed to begin with his own decisions and irresolutions in the 1950s, could be of influence if he could make up his mind between two men (neither of whom he really cares for or admires, we suspect) and let his mind make up that one way. Anybody who did so much damage to his party pretending a nice indecision in 1964, then deciding in the end to reward from his too late decision, owes his party a gallant piece of forthrightness now.

4. Governor Rockefeller should prepare and present his own position on Vietnam, even if the result of doing so is to put the war in Vietnam into a kind of policy freeze on both sides while both Washington and Hanoi wait to see whether the people decide in November to take what the Governor offers.

5. Governor Rockefeller should, throwing normal political practice to the winds, attempt to negotiate at least some of his major Cabinet appointments, including any Democrats he would invite to serve their nation under his leadership.

Such suggestions are, perhaps, almost impossible. Certainly they are a great deal to ask. But there is some doubt whether anything less will work. If, as it should, the Republican party hopes to take into the campaign a choice rather than an echo of the philosophy and policy already in the White House.

Why We're Vulnerable On Gold
 In such a situation, the speculators in gold see us vulnerable, and they press in to try to make a killing at our expense.

To those who would normally defend our position against such unscrupulous attack are not moving to our support with any impressive positive fervor. They think, too, we are a nation a little bit off our normally responsible behavior and self control.

It is because of our present political and moral rating in the world that we are suddenly vulnerable in the mysteriously technical regions of the international gold market.

Wonders of the Universe New Venus Probe
 By DR. I. M. LEVITZ, DIRECTOR
 The Franklin Institute Scientists indicate that a new space probe to Venus will be 268 pounds, for Venus 4. It will enter the Venusian atmosphere with a radius of 36,000 feet per second. As the heat shield and back-up structure is 50 pounds, the descent weight of the 40-inch diameter probe will decrease to 212 pounds.

The arrival sequence dictates the 12 days before encounter the probe will be 268 pounds, for Venus 4. It will enter the Venusian atmosphere with a radius of 36,000 feet per second. As the heat shield and back-up structure is 50 pounds, the descent weight of the 40-inch diameter probe will decrease to 212 pounds.

What U. S. scientists would welcome is a probe which would again be activated to relay several minutes of engineering data about the moon, Mars, and Venus. Shortly before entry, capsule power will again be used to establish communications with Earth. The probe will be in a 100-mile orbit around Venus, where it will be in a 100-mile orbit around Venus, where it will be in a 100-mile orbit around Venus.

A group of scientists from NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Roger D. Bourke, Floyd Jean and William S. McDonald, said in a report that the probe, which is being developed by the Hughes Aircraft Co., will be in a 100-mile orbit around Venus, where it will be in a 100-mile orbit around Venus.

As a start, they have chosen six types of sensors and instruments to be carried by the probe. The Venus 4 probe will be in a 100-mile orbit around Venus, where it will be in a 100-mile orbit around Venus.

The sensors will measure temperature, accelerations in three co-ordinates and composition of the Venusian atmosphere through a mass spectrometer and a photometer. They will also measure the surface temperature and composition of the Venusian atmosphere through a mass spectrometer and a photometer.

CRPA to Put Stress on Social Plan
 The Capital Region Planning Agency will place a greater emphasis on social planning for the region's 30 member towns, according to the 1968-69 program and budget, approved Wednesday night at a joint meeting of the Executive Committee and Finance Committee in Hartford.

The proposed budget will be below the current budget and the program will be adopted by the town representatives at CRPA's next regular meeting, Thursday at 8 p.m. in the cafeteria of East Hartford High School.

New projects to be undertaken next year include preparation of a shadow graph which would show the location of housing; Address Coding for the 1970 census, and an investigation of CRPA's role in social planning.

The Regional Plan for Housing and Refuse Plan will also be prepared. The plan will be prepared by the Regional Plan for Housing and Refuse Plan, which will be prepared by the Regional Plan for Housing and Refuse Plan.

Penny Saver Thrift Shop Seeks Items
 Mrs. Jacob Miller, chairman of the Penny Saver Thrift Shop, sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of Manchester Memorial Hospital, read a recent newspaper article advising women, "If you haven't worn your pleasure within the past year, give it away."

This is exactly what Mrs. Miller hopes women in this area will do, not only when they "weed out their closets, but also when they do their spring cleaning." She suggests that they bring their articles to the Penny Saver at 616 Main St., where they will do the most good, first for the hospital, as proceeds of the shop benefit the institution, and second to the donor, who receives a tax deduction slip for all donations.

The Penny Saver is open Monday through Saturday and observes regular retail hours.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
by Eugene Brewer
Someone once bitterly remarked to Benjamin Franklin that the Constitution was a dehumanizing document. Where is all the happiness it is supposed to guarantee us? Look at the pickering, injustice, and poverty! The elder statesman smiled kindly at the critic and replied: "All the Constitution guarantees me is that I shall not be hanged for my sins. You have to catch up with yourself."
So much is said today about "human rights" but precious little is heard about "human responsibilities." A significant segment of our people have no voice in property, legislative out racial discrimination, and the vast majority of social welfare programs are worse than before. If one does not have himself himself the qualities for "catching up with happiness, all the political shenanigans in the world will not produce it. How different was the Christian philosophy of Paul: "I have learned, in whatsoever state I am, therein to be content. I know how to be abased and I know how to abound; in all things I have learned the secret of being content. I have learned to abound and to suffer need." Phil. 4:11, 12. The only right way we have to work for our goals, and people seldom are deprived of this right.

Tempers Sky-High

U.S. Plan Requires Tests For Nonprofessional Pilots

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are 400,000 private pilots in this country and none of them has to take periodic re-examination tests, and the proposal is raising the tempers sky-high.

"I don't think any private pilot has the nerve (guts) to stand up to the general aviation lobbyists like this... I would like to see this rule change," wrote J. R. Elford of Standwood, W. Va.

"It certainly would make me feel better to know that I was qualified in the eye of an instructor on a continuing basis, rather than just once in a lifetime," said Don C. Odom of Private Pilot, Ocala, Fla. "I received a private pilot's license in 1948, did not fly after that until 1965, and then to share the air with other pilots... I needed only to get a new physical examination, take a couple of hours of refresher training in a little trainer, and I was qualified to go about my merry way in the National Transportation Safety Board's 'insurance flying' accounted for 2,468 of the accidents and 712 of the fatalities.

"There is no conclusive proof as to the percentage of general aviation accidents that might have been prevented by periodic instruction, refresher training or proficiency checks," said a Federal Aviation Administration spokesman in proposing the new rule.

"However, a review of the accident records shows that many accidents can be traced to pilot error or to a pilot's failure to keep abreast of the developments and operational procedures."

The FAA proposes to require a specific number of hours of instruction and proficiency testing within a fixed period. It invited comments and got 400 almost immediately.

An advance look at the communications shows that when Gen. William F. McKeen, the FAA administrator, reviews the comments after the April 1 deadline, he will find most private pilots vehemently opposed to any new restrictions.

"Doctors, lawyers, electricians or any of the professional people who know how to save lives of people in their hands have to take examinations," asked Jim Greenough, Lake Crystal, Minn.

"If I were faced with an annual flight instruction program and flight checks as a condition of being able to do anything even if it's wrong type of regulation the aviation industry is being flooded with and you can't see it."

Donald C. Jordan, of Westport, N.Y., called the proposal "the dumbest thing I've ever seen if it's wrong type of regulation the aviation industry is being flooded with and you can't see it."

As J. W. Barnett, Worthington, Ohio: "If you attempt this regulation, you will make a mockery of the FAA and you will feel as I do. They will find ways of avoiding these costly and unnecessary regulations and unnecessary regulations don't cause people to seek this way out."

Said Warren E. Jordan Sr., of Corro Gordo, Ill.: "Why make business for the aviation instructors? Isn't this the reason for such a proposal?"

Heralding Politics

By SOL R. COHEN
The heir-apparent to succeed Francis DeLaFera as GOP town chairman appears to be M. Adler Dobson, District leader and chairman of the Town Planning Commission.

Others interested in the post are Town Director John G. Peck, and YR official Robert Von Deck.

The Democratic reportedly, Adler may have a contest for town chairman. Although the Council meetings show indication that he wants to relinquish the post, some committee members have been speaking of Frank Stamler as his successor.

Reports are that 4th Senatorial District leaders are looking to Manchester to furnish a Republican opponent to State Sen. David M. Barry in the November elections.

First Congressional District politicians, seeking an opponent for U.S. Cong. Emilio C. Dardario, have been talking to Hartford Mayor Ann Uccello and Elmwood Mayor Lewis Rome. Manchester Mayor Norman Agostinelli, who has gained political stature within the district, is being consulted. Hartford Councilman Colin Bennett is a new name being proposed for the GOP candidacy.

Newington and Rocky Hill Republicans are proposing veteran State Rep. Elmer Mortensen of Newington for the nomination.

Mortensen's candidacy is being pushed locally by Wilber Little.

Reports persist that state leaders of McCarthy-for-President are not happy with the local McCarthy Committee's decision to accept a deal for state convention delegates. State leaders are pressing for primaries to test sentiment among registered Democrats.

Klansman Convicted In Murder of Negro

Kennedy to Be Candidate; Won't 'Oppose Any Man'

(Continued from Page One) strong showing in Wisconsin April 2. His early soundings have indicated strong opposition to his plunge from many Democratic leaders who fear a party cleavage that could hand the presidency to the Republican candidate in November.

Kennedy made his decision late Thursday. The decision came after lengthy secret conferences with his intimates—many of whom were in on the John Kennedy strategy sessions in 1960. Firmly on his side from the beginning was his wife, Ethel.

Urging that the political realities dictated against this running was one of John Kennedy's closest associates, Theodore C. Sorensen. Ambivalent was his brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Once the decision was made, however, it was clear to Kennedy he would go the whole route—seeking popular support in the state primaries, as his brother did, and attempting to corral convention delegates in state meetings.

President Johnson's course in the Vietnam war, it is understood, will be the key issue in Kennedy's campaign. He is expected to speak in specific terms as he sets for alternatives, urging as before a gradual de-escalation of military force to the point where negotiations can be held, and allowing for a coalition government including representatives of the Viet Cong.

He has told friends, "The key issue is what can be done for the country." Thus his opening moves will carry the faint echo of President Kennedy's campaign cry to "get this country moving again."

Kennedy sees no immediate accommodation with Sen. McCarthy, who has suggested that Kennedy leave the primaries to him and see what a pooling of strength he might accomplish at Chicago's national convention in August.

Running the Kennedy machinery will be his brother-in-law, Stephen P. Smith of New York. Kennedy was his brother's campaign manager in 1960. One anomaly will be the position of Lawrence F. O'Brien, one of John Kennedy's key strategists. A close friend of the New York senator's, O'Brien is now Johnson's principal political planner and, as postmaster general, a member of the Cabinet.

fought his way to the front of his burning home and fought off attackers with a shotgun while his wife and three children escaped out of back windows. Arrington attacked Pitts as a "half-breed liar" who was "ready to sell his soul to LBJ and everybody else in Washington."

Pitts, who pleaded guilty of arson and murder in Dahmer's death and is scheduled for sentencing next Friday, testified that he received $1,600 from the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Jabbing the air with his eyes, glasses and sometimes raising his voice to a yell, Arrington told the jury it should vote for acquittal if "you want Washington, D.C., and the Justice Department to know how Forrest County feels about their own affairs."

The foreman read the verdict of guilty with no fixed penalty and Circuit Court Judge Stanton A. Hall called Sessum to the stand for the mandatory sentence of life imprisonment. Sessum, dressed in a dark suit and red tie, chewed gum as Hall read the sentence, then was led away.

Fire Destroys Old Cow Barn on Bell St.

The Glastonbury Fire Department could do little to put out this fierce barn blaze on Bell St., but they did save the silo to the rear and side (hidden by smoke) and the barns at the right near the fire engines. The barn was empty, and at one time was used for cows. It is located several hundred yards from the Manchester town line. The cause of the fire is unknown, and the Glastonbury fire marshal is still investigating it.

Movie Passes to Go To 21 Blood Donors

Theater passes to the UA Theater East will be mailed to 21 first-time donors who gave blood yesterday when the Red Cross Bloodmobile visited Manchester. The Bloodmobile had set up shop in the D & L Community Hall, from 1:45 to 6:30 p.m., under sponsorship of the Parkade Merchants' Association.

A total of 104 pints of blood were donated—49 by appointment and 55 by walk-ins. Actually, 69 walk-in donors appeared, but 14 of them were turned away for one reason or another. The Manchester quota for the monthly visit of the Bloodmobile is 150 pints.

The next visit will be Tuesday, April 16, from 1:45 to 6:30 p.m., at the Concordia Lutheran Church on Pitkin St. The following persons kept their appointments: Anthony Sartor, Everett J. Laracia Heads Musical Show Set April 5, 6 by K of C

The Knights of Columbus are now preparing for their 6th annual "Grand Night of Music" program, to be held April 5 and 6 at East Catholic High School. The money raised is used for the Manchester Scholarship Fund.

The "Grand Night of Music" is a musical variety show with local talent participating. Frank Laracia of 74 School St., Grand Knight of Campbell Council, will again be the master of ceremonies. He has directed many musical shows at St. James Church. Laracia has been a member of the Campbell Council for more than 10 years and was elected Grand Knight in June last year. For the past seven years he has been chairman of the council's family outing and has provided entertainment for its children's Christmas Party. He has served on many of the groups' committees and has been chairman of many of its social affairs. A native of New York, he is married, and the Laracias have seven children. He has lived in Manchester for seven years. In April last year, Laracia received a CYO medal, the "Pro Deo Et Juventute" (Love of God and Youth) medal, for his outstanding work with his parish and deamery group. The medal was given by the National Council of Catholic Youth.

Cuba Bars U.S. Post

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro affirmed Friday night that Cuba is barring all parcel post from the United States. Packages from the United States and some other countries have been kept from entering Cuba since a U.S. mail sack exploded in a government postal station here last January, injuring five Cubans.

Castro blamed the explosion for making the ban necessary. He said, however, the ban would affect only packages originating from the United States. Those coming from Mexico and other countries would be admitted, he said. The Cuban leader also announced the government plans to abolish its lottery, which is believed to earn the government about $300,000 a week. It appeared to be a move to eliminate a custom inherited from the pre Castro era.

On the free market, the price would fluctuate according to supply and demand. This could benefit Canadian gold mines, which depend on government subsidies to keep up production when the fixed $35 an ounce price of gold isn't enough to meet their increasing costs of operation. Canada is the world's third largest gold producer, behind South Africa and the Soviet Union.

Firms Get Accord On Copper

(Continued from Page One) the other two major producers, American Smelting & Refining Co. and Anaconda Co., was not clear although progress was reported in talks with American Smelting & Refining. The reported tentative agreements with Kennecott and Phelps Dodge cover about 15,000 of the 50,000 strikers, and even if ratified by the workers would not immediately end the walk-out. The unions have insisted all contracts with all unions be signed before work is resumed. The Steelworkers reportedly had turned down the Phelps Dodge offer, valued by the company at $1.13 per hour in higher wages and fringe benefits. But leaders of the other unions had agreed to recommend the proposal to their members, according to an industry source. Kennecott valued its proposal at 54 cents in higher wages as well as unspecified improvements in fringe benefits. Both proposals cover basically western mining and smelting operations. Settlements are to be reached on plants involved in copper fabricating and lead and zinc production. The tentative agreement does not mean an immediate return to work at any of the Kennecott properties," the company said. "Yet to be resolved are union demands at the local level at Kennecott plants in Utah, Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico, and at the Kennecott Refining Corp., near Baltimore, Md." An industry source said representatives of all the striking unions will attend a briefing in Tucson, Ariz., Sunday on the proposed Phelps Dodge settlement. In Utah, Gov. Calvin L. Bampton told newsmen he expected copper workers in that state to be back on the job "within a few days."

Bill Cosby Misses 'I Spy'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The apparent demise of "I Spy" should have made Bill Cosby a happy man. Freedom from the time-consuming chore of co-starring in a weekly television series means he will be able to earn millions in other enterprises.

Yes, millions. Recently the Negro comedian and his partners, Roy Silver and Bruce Campbell, announced a $12-million, five-picture deal with Warner-Seven Arts. With his March 18 NBC special, best-selling record albums, five-minute radio spots, music publishing, etc., the company expects to do $20 million in business this year.

Cosby also plays concerts here and there. One recent night in nearby Long Beach, he earned $33,150 for telling stories about his boyhood.

Why, then, is he not overjoyed with the dropping of "I Spy" from NBC's schedule for next season? As judged by the third-season ratings, the adventure series with Robert Culp appears to have burned out.

"Well, I'll tell you," said the onetime basketball star as he put his feet atop the desk of his Beverly Hills office. "Although the continuation of "I Spy" would stop me from making films and doing other things I want to do, I would like to finish it out. Another season would make it a more worthwhile venture for our producer, Sheldon Leonard.

"I feel a sense of duty to Sheldon. After all, he was the first man to hire a black American as costar of a television adventure series. He did so in full knowledge of the power of bigotry and racism in this country. Why did Nat King Cole fail as a weekly television performer? Because he was a Negro.

"We were picked to fail. The collapse of "I Spy" would have been another affirmation for the question of whether this country is as bigoted as it has seemed to be. Yet Sheldon was willing to take the chance.

"He did so knowing that on the show this black American would shoot and kill and would engage in fistfights with white men. Since he was the hero, he had to beat somebody. Would America accept such a portrayal? America did.

"It was Sheldon himself who pulled it off; No NAACP jumped up and joined in the fight. He was the one producer who said, 'to hell with it — I don't care whether this guy is green, black or white; I want him for the part.' And after he succeeded came the roles for Negroes in "Star Trek," "Mission Impossible" and other shows."

Besides allowing him to be the Jackie Robinson of television, Cosby observed that "I Spy" had prepared him for his next challenge: The movie world.

"I'm a lot better off than a guy like Jim Brown, who went into pictures cold," he remarked. "I didn't stick to the same character all the time; I left Alexander Scott on several of the shows and created a different characterization. Oh, it wasn't different enough that the audience would notice. But I knew."

Cosby isn't waiting for the studios to submit scripts. The Campbell-Silver-Cosby Corp. is preparing a comedy called "God Save the Mark" as his first starring film. He's also like to one with costar Culp — "but not for a couple of years, after "I Spy" has worn off."

The Cosby empire now employs 42 persons in its Beverly Hills headquarters. The place is decorated in the most modern style except for one feature in Cosby's office: a battered old trash can. That helps maintain his common touch.

Griffith Closes Up

By DON PAGE

The Los Angeles Times—HOLLYWOOD — In a few hours the director would yell "Print it!"—and eight years of laughter would fade into television history.

It was the last day on the set of The Andy Griffith Show, the day of the final program and everyone acted as if he had just finished running a thousand miles.

Andy Griffith slouched in a canvas chair and affectionately popped Ronny Howard on the shoulder. The boy had finished his last day's shooting earlier in the week.

"I couldn't look at you Monday, you hateful thing," Griffith drawled.

Ronny smiled and looked at the floor.

George Lindsay, who plays the hickish Goober in the series, joined the group. "Gosh, I feel funny," he said. "But it feels good to go out No. 1 in the ratings," he added.

"I felt strange this morning," Andy said. "It was the same when Don (Knotts) left three years ago."

Looking over a script, Ken Berry was silent. He'll continue RFD, sequel to the Griffith Show.

Ronny Howard had been with the show since he was 5 1/2 years old. He took his school work in a little red schoolhouse on the set; "Right over there," he pointed.

"I'm going back to public school on Monday," he said. "Jordan Junior High in Burbank. I'm looking forward to it—I like to play basketball."

"The whole thing's been like a second family here," Andy stressed. "I remember the last shot with Don Knotts. I spoke my part from off camera and I could hardly say it.

"The show's been good for all of us," Andy said. "I don't know what I'll do next week."

PIANIST ON TV
The pianist Vladimir Horowitz will appear in an hour-long recital on CBS, the network has announced. The program was recently taped before an audience at Carnegie Hall.

WEDNESDAY: "Harlow," story of the movie queen, with Carroll Baker, 8-30-11 p.m. on ABC . . . "Jack Benny's Carnival Nights," Benny's annual program, 10-11 p.m. on NBC.

Highlights

TODAY: "What a Way to Go!" (1964), comedy with music, with Paul Newman, Robert Mitchum and Dean Martin, 9-11:15 p.m. on NBC.

SUNDAY: "NBC Experiment in Television," showing "The New Voices of Watts," 3-4 p.m. "The Fish Story," the help-neighbor program, 7-7:30 p.m. on Channel 30. . . "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?" (1962) mayhem and whatnot, 9-11:15 p.m. on ABC. . . "Travels with Charley," based on John Steinbeck book, narrated by Henry Fonda, 10-11 p.m. on NBC.

MONDAY: "The Bill Cosby Special," 8-9 p.m. on NBC. . . "The Danny Thomas Hour," showing "The Wonderful World of Burlesque III," 9-10 p.m. on NBC.

TUESDAY: "The Strange Case of the English Language," public figures and the language, with Harry Reasoner, 10-10:30 p.m. on CBS.

Diana Rigg

Linda Thorson

Goodbye Emma Peel

NEW YORK (AP) — Wednesday was a night of farewell and goodbyes on the three networks.

It was the night of the final adventure of the team of Mrs. Emma Peel and John Steed of "The Avengers." The mod-dressed and daring character of Mrs. Peel is about to be shelved so that Diana Rigg can return to her career as a serious actress.

True, Miss Rigg will be back in next week's episode, but merely to help Mr. Steed—Patrick Macnee—meet a new girl in town who henceforth will chase villains with him in the British-made action series. Linda Thorson will have the role of Tara King. She will be less athletic than her predecessor and more conservative in dress.

The farewell adventure of the Steed-Peel combination was a pretty mixed up, busy affair involving some secret papers, a treasure hunt and a lot of automobiles racing through country roads.

It is a preposterous, jaunty and usually amusing series. ABC obviously believes the public will accept Miss Thorson since it has put the series in next season's schedule.

On the hall side there were a couple of previews of coming attractions.

Ed McMahon, most often seen laughing at Johnny Carson's jokes or reading commercials on the "Tonight Show," made his debut as a variety show host on NBC's "Music Hall."

The show was a series of vaudeville turns—comedians Shelley Berman and Joan Rivers; and singing by Ed Ames, Sonny and Cher and the Young Rascals. McMahon, who will be host on most of this summer's "Music Hall" shows, did not do much more than introduce the acts and set the scene for the commercial breaks. But he was gracious, exuded good will and looks very nice in a tuxedo.

Robert Morse was a guest star on CBS's "Jonathan Winters Show" where he sang a song, faked a little dancing and took part in a sketch with Winters and Abby Dalton.

Morse, who starred in the musical "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" on Broadway, has been chosen to play the lead in ABC's "That's Life" series next season. The programs will consist of musical comedies using recurring characters and carrying them through major crises in family life. It was created by one of the writers of Jackie Gleason's "The Honeymooners."

Morse, who has a mischievous, little-boy way about him, did not have much chance to demonstrate his talents on the Winters show particularly because the material was not very impressive.

Winters, of course, was up to all his familiar and funny tricks, playing everything from a fashion designer for the geriatrics crowd to a South American dictator.

A LOT OF VARIETY

NEW YORK (AP) — If the three networks stick with present plans, there will be 13 weekly prime time hours of variety next season, plus all sorts of specials. Since most of them stick to the same recipe of music and sketches, the competition for guest stars will be even hotter than it has been this season. Don Rickles, whose style of insult comedy is in high demand, counted up recently and found that he had appeared in spot shots 60 times this season. That is a lot of television exposure.
