

Kennedy Hits War Policies

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Sen. Eugene M. McCarthy, D-Minn. Robert F. Kennedy today launched his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination today with a point-by-point denunciation of President Johnson's Vietnam war strategy.

He charged that the administration's "only response to failure is to repeat it on a larger scale."

Kennedy's first campaign speech was prepared for a youthful audience at Kansas State University in a contest in which many of the nation's youth have shifted their support to another dissent Democrat.

KENNEDY NOT INVITED
BRUNSWICK, Maine (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy said today he would not invite Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, his fellow challenger of President Johnson for the Democratic presidential nomination, to campaign for him in Wisconsin. "I have asked his people not to schedule him in," the Minnesota Democrat told a news conference at Bowdoin College, McCarthy said. "He might change his mind later but he wanted the opportunity to show that he could win on his own in Wisconsin as he had campaigned in New Hampshire."

Johnson Calls on Americans For National Austerity Plan

Urges Effort To Win War And Peace

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — President Johnson called on the American people today for "a program of national austerity" and an all-out effort to win the Vietnam war, win the peace and "complete the job at home."

Making an unannounced trip here from his Texas ranch to address the National Farmers' Union convention, Johnson said the tasks ahead will require "a program of national austerity to insure that our economy will prosper and our fiscal position will be sound."

Speaking more forcefully than ever before on the subject, Johnson declared:

"The time has come when your President must ask you to join in a total national effort to win the war, to win the peace, and to complete the job at home."

Johnson announced what reliable sources reported Saturday—that he is working with Congress to make major budget cuts in an effort to gain enactment of a 10 per cent income tax increase.

If such cuts are made—and they could slash $3 billion to $4 billion of federal spending in the next fiscal year—Johnson acknowledged the result would be to "postpone many needed actions."

With the dollar under new assault in international money markets, Johnson also promised an intensified program to curb nonessential travel outside the hemisphere and to reduce business spending and investment in Western Europe. He did not go into detail.

Johnson said that "most of all I ask your help and your patriotic support of our men who are bearing the burden of battle in Vietnam." He said:

"We seek not the victory of conquest, but the triumph of justice. We will win."

Accompanying the President and Mrs. Johnson to Minneapolis was Chairman W. R. Pogue, D-Tex., of the House Agriculture Committee.

Discussing the farm program, Johnson said, "I know what the farmer wants—and I want you to have it."

Declaring that farmers want fair prices, protection against inflation, parity, justice, decency and opportunity, he added, "and you will have them."

Reviewing the farm program he submitted to Congress last month, the President asserted:

"During the months to come, you will hear these programs cussed and discussed. It won't be easier to pass them. It will be even harder this session because this is—as I remember—an election year."

Brown Tells Why He Quit

LONDON (AP) — Former Foreign Secretary George Brown told the House of Commons today he resigned in an effort to maintain democratic rule in Britain.

Without any direct name calling Brown thus stopped short of accusing Prime Minister Harold Wilson of dictatorial tactics.

Brown made it abundantly clear that his resignation Friday resulted from annoyance that he was not consulted properly by Wilson on the gold crisis and on other issues.

The indirect attack on Wilson's methods of running the government was certain to provide ammunition for the Conservative opposition at a time when Wilson needs all the support he can get for the tough budget expected to be announced Tuesday.

As Brown rose to speak he was clearly under emotional strain. His face was pale, his hands trembled and his voice was hoarse.

Brown centered his grievance on the way the gold crisis was handled last Thursday night. Wilson conferred with President Johnson by telephone, then ordered the London gold market closed before consulting Brown and some other Cabinet members.

London Riot Ends Police File Charges Against 220 Britons

LONDON (AP) — Police filed criminal charges against 220 rioters today after battling an estimated 10,000 screaming marchers in a big anti-American demonstration.

More than 80 policemen were injured and 28 hospitalized Sunday as 1,000 unarmed hooligans fought off demonstrators against the Vietnam war trying to storm the U.S. Embassy on Grosvenor Square.

In Nuernberg, 500 leftwingers protesting the war jeered West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt and for 10 minutes kept him out of his political party's national convention.

7th Victim Killed in Gun Spree

IRONWOOD, Mich. (AP) — A seventh victim of a rifleman's two-hour shooting spree died Sunday and two persons remained in "very serious" condition.

Six persons were killed in the rampage Saturday through this western upper peninsula community.

Charged in the slayings is Eric Pearson, 56, a muscular outdoorsman described as "a skillful hunter and a loner" who worked as a janitor in a nearby ski lodge.

Pearson was scheduled to be arraigned today.

Mrs. Helen Faluto, 47, of Ironwood, died Sunday night in Grand View Hospital.

The victims all were shot with a high-powered hunting rifle.

Gogebic County Sheriff Chester J. Perblish said Pearson had been drinking heavily and was incoherent when captured by

State News Robber Shot And Killed By Grocer

WEST HARTFORD (AP)—An attempted holdup was foiled Sunday night when a grocer shot the robber dead, police said.

The bandit was shot in the back as he was about to flee with $70 by Donald Arcari, manager of Prospect Market here, according to Asst. Chief Richard E. O'Mara of the local police force.

Arcari told investigators that a man entered his small grocery store at 8 p.m. and asked for a bottle of milk after waiting for several customers to leave, O'Mara said.

After taking a drink from the bottle and complaining of an upset stomach, the robber pulled a gun on another employee, 17-year-old Michael Jacques, and demanded money.

Arcari said Jacques turned over $70. Meanwhile, the 32-year-old manager slipped behind a counter and got a gun he had bought last month. Arcari told the police he fired at the gunman as he turned to leave with the money.

A medical examiner said the robber died instantly.

Investigators tentatively identified the man from papers he carried as Charles Beckno, about 35, of Philadelphia.

Ninth Fire 'Suspicious'
STAMFORD (AP) — Smoke and water caused extensive damage to 39 office spaces Sunday night after a fire, which investigators termed "suspicious," broke out in a modern, three-story building here.

Fire Captain Albert Kelly said the blaze in the Summer Street building was the ninth such "suspicious" fire in the vicinity in 10 days.

Damage-cost figures will not be known until an investigation of the fire has been completed, authorities said.

Two-Level Gold Price System Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — A two-level gold pricing system took effect today as the gold pool governments halted the flow of metal from their treasuries into the fevered speculative markets.

Cablegrams sped to all capitals reporting Sunday night's decision by the seven central bankers at their weekend meeting in Washington—and inviting all countries to join in maintaining the established $35 an ounce price for all transactions between governments.

But the rest of the world's gold was set free to find its own price.

The London gold pool was, in effect, dissolved. The London gold market—biggest of all, and the one which supplied most of the gold to other markets—was ordered to stay closed until April 1.

U.S. officials radiated confidence that the frenzied speculative attacks on the dollar would die away. Most Congressmen were pleased and relieved. London was dubious. Paris saw the action as a stopgap, not a solution.

And no official ventured a public guess on where the free market price would go when the Paris, Zurich, Hong Kong and other markets reopened. Some guessed: Up for a time, then hard-pressed Britain. Their previous commitments were not disclosed, but the increase is known to be substantial.

Others expected a sharp break from the speculative highs, if enough speculators decided to disgorge gold in the belief that the two-tier plan has hurt their prospects of fat profits.

Among all the uncertainties, these results were assured:

1. The rate of exchange between dollars and other currencies will stay put. Those American travelers who suddenly could not spend dollar bills or cash travelers checks overseas should have no more trouble.

2. The pound sterling has been bolstered further. The six other countries which have supplied gold to the London pool are increasing to $4 billion the total of currency credits available to hard-pressed Britain. Their previous commitments were not disclosed, but the increase is known to be substantial.

3. On the home front, jewelers and other licensed users of gold can no longer buy from the Treasury. The Treasury will continue to issue licenses to legitimate users, however, and the holders can buy on the free market here or overseas.

None of the governments, the seven bank governors said, will henceforth sell to private buyers or buy from private sellers. They seemed confident the rule would be followed by all free world governments, not just the seven signers.

Speculators and legitimate users alike thus will have to buy from those who mine the metal—in South Africa, the Soviet Union or Canada—or those who may be ready to sell from private hoards.

The question that hung heavily over the two-day conference in Washington's marble Federal Reserve Board building—and still remains unanswered—is whether the $35 official price can stand up if the free price is much higher.

Not even Washington expects the plan to endure unless solid

South Viet Repulse Khe Sanh Attack

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese rangers fought off another attack on Khe Sanh today and allied troops sweeping around Saigon claimed an enemy death toll exceeding 800 in the first week of their big drive.

About 600 North Vietnamese soldiers charged from their trenches, some as close as 20 yards from the outer barbed wire, in their second attack this month on the South Vietnamese position at Khe Sanh.

A sheet of machine-gun fire from the rangers' trenches and U.S. Marine mortars drove the enemy away after about an hour. There was no report of casualties on either side, but the North Vietnamese could be seen dragging away dead and wounded men.

U.S. spokesman said the attack was a "strong probe" against the northwest frontier combat base, where the 400 rangers and some 6,000 U.S. Marines have been braced for several months for a major assault by an estimated 40,000 enemy troops around the fortress.

Enemy gunners fired about 500 shells at the Khe Sanh base Sunday, the heaviest barrage in more than a week. U.S. B52 bombers flew three raids against enemy positions.

In the 50,000-man operation Quiet Thang-Resolve To Win—around Saigon, South Vietnamese infantrymen came under fire from guerrillas dug in at the village of Tram Lak, 17 miles northwest of Saigon.

Associated Press photographer Al Chang, with the troops, said the infantrymen held their line while two tanks and 20 armored personnel carriers of the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry moved up and began blasting the enemy positions from within 50 yards.

Air strikes also were called in. At dusk, the allied troops secured the area and reported 84 guerrillas killed but only one American and one South Vietnamese wounded.

After two earlier battles Sunday, the U.S. Command had reported an enemy toll of 780 dead in the allied offensive that began last Monday in five provinces north, west and south of Saigon. U.S. losses so far were put at 30 killed and 249 wounded. Government casualties were reported light.

In the earlier clashes, government troops said they killed 55 Viet Cong about 20 miles west of

"For those of you with a practical sense of mind, think of it this way. Neither human evolution nor the physical resources of earth will permit indefinitely a composite economy whose foundation is essentially wasteful machinery plus the production of non-essential things. Eventually, something must be substituted for these—at least in part. And that substitute, I suggest, is learning... when and if we can make it as attractive as sports cars, electric carving knives, guitar-strumming folk singer and the like, so, mentholated, filter cigarette."

"Think how many of the tensions and on the land today stem from our technological hand. The Al-Bary must have found Congressman Daddario's speech a stimulating and significant experience, including those more detailed descriptions of projects which we are doing to clean air, land, water for which we have not had space here. So eloquent a call to arms in 'the hidden war' deserves not to be hidden itself."

When Honour is Led Astray
The folly and bankruptcy of President Johnson's policy are so obvious that even the most sympathetic member of his entourage must be asking themselves whether there can be any other outcome than a humiliating American defeat. But although American policy in South-east Asia has been disastrously kept, there is something faintly nauseating about the self-righteous anti-Americanism which the spectacle of successive American blunders has evoked on this side of the Atlantic. The Vietnam war is a tragedy, not a scandal. The American people have been misled, not by wicked men pursuing wicked designs but by honourable men led astray by a fatally overinflated picture of the world and of America's place in it. If similar tragedies are to be avoided in future, it is more profitable to analyze the reasons for their folly than to denounce them for evil intentions which they do not, in fact, possess.

The essence of their overinflation is brilliantly described in Professor Draper's new book. After pointing out that American policy in Vietnam cannot be understood in terms of the aims alone, but only in terms of the disproportionate military and political investment which has been made there, he goes on to ask why such an investment was decided upon in the first place. His answer is as follows: "From the President down, leading officials have spread the glad tidings that power has given us global responsibilities which seem to be the function not of our infinite wisdom or boundless altruism but mainly of our incomparable power. In his speech to Congress in April, 1965, for example, President Johnson exhorted that we have the power and the resources to make nations stop struggling with one another. That is such a large and noble aim that the end of all struggles may also be the end of mankind."

Since the Cuba crisis of 1962 the Soviet Union and the U.S. have had a healthy respect for each other's capacity to blow the world to pieces. Dulles' brinkmanship has been replaced by the State Department as thoroughly as Khrushchev's from the Kremlin. In his relations with the Soviet Union, President Johnson has been at least as restrained as his predecessor. Then why the fresh anxiety in Vietnam? Why the terrible series of miscalculations and failures so acutely recorded by Professor Draper's book? The answer lies in the passage I quoted earlier. The official doctrine it sets out contains the seeds of its own destruction. The concept of the world's policeman: the notion that in the absence of a world peacekeeping machinery, the U.S. is to be the trustee of humanity. The second is the concept of the struggle to end struggle. The notion that to be reached with one last effort of will, there lies a happy ending of complete peace and security. These notions are dangerous only by themselves, and they are even more dangerous when combined. In a civilized society the police do not have unlimited power, and they are not allowed to make the laws they enforce. When they use their power without restraint, or make the law to suit themselves, it is a sure sign that ordered society is breaking down. But in the world community this cannot apply. The reason is simple. Thus, the U.S. cannot be the world's policeman without at the same time being the world's magistrate. But no one in his right mind would entrust his destiny to a combination of policeman and magistrate rolled into one—particularly not if the policeman concerned appeared to believe that he could one day stamp out crime altogether.

But if the U.S. cannot be the world's policeman, then who can? This question is, of course, the nub of the argument; and it is a major weakness of Professor Draper's otherwise excellent book that he does not seriously try to answer it. In an answer, it is not a good deal more uncomfortable that most opponents of American policy in Vietnam have suggested a replacement is that until the United Nations has developed a degree of authority which we are unable to see in the foreseeable future, there can be no policeman at all; that the happy ending of complete peace and security is not within our grasp, or even our grandchildren's. Even if the Americans could be brought to realize this, it would not guarantee them against a repetition of their original involvement in Vietnam. It would, however, make it a good deal easier for them to drop out of it now. — DAVID MARQUAND DISCUSSING 'THEODORE DRAPER'S BOOK 'AFTER THE POWER' IN THE MANCHESTER (ENGLAND) GUARDIAN

Inside Report

by Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON—The dimensions of the defeat suffered by President Johnson in New Hampshire can easily be measured by the immediate and intense reaction of Democratic leaders in the two most important primary states: Wisconsin and California. In Wisconsin, important Democrats who had never seriously considered Sen. Eugene McCarthy's challenge against Mr. Johnson in the April 2 primary now view McCarthy as a favorite. In California, hard-pressed LBJ loyalists were thrown into immediate despair in the early hours Wednesday morning, when the returns were in. A leading Johnson supporter telephoned the White House to warn that California would definitely be lost to McCarthy. In Washington, aides of the President were in a state of panic. Beyond the primary states, there was more of the same. In New York City, regular Democratic voters who had previously committed to the President and his war policy were telling each other privately that the party would lose the State Assembly and a bundle of Congressional seats unless the President bowed out (nearly conceivably) or changed his war policy. Overriding all this internal ferment ripping aside the facade of party unity was the conviction that McCarthy, though now a national figure overnight, cannot be nominated even if he wins Wisconsin, California, and other remaining primaries. Thus, concurrent with the breast-beatings about Mr. Johnson's "revealed unpopularity," was a rise in sentiment for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. Even before McCarthy's spectacular showing in New Hampshire and Kennedy's statement Wednesday that he was "actively reconsidering" running for President, a process of reconsideration had been under way in the Kennedy camp. On Monday, for example, Kennedy's administrative assistant, Joe Dolan, was pointing through election laws of Presidential primary states. Until New Hampshire, however, both Kennedy and his most important political lieutenants were convinced that a candidacy would be both futile and bloody. As for Mr. Johnson, his closest political advisors were in a state of near shock at the late New Hampshire polls having given McCarthy an absolute high of 32 per cent. Many LBJ loyalists are now convinced he must soften his war policy—at least for now, to cut his losses. — DAVID MARQUAND DISCUSSING 'THEODORE DRAPER'S BOOK 'AFTER THE POWER' IN THE MANCHESTER (ENGLAND) GUARDIAN

Town Board Tonight to Get Report on Consolidation

Consolidation, past, present and future, is the theme of the report issued by a special study committee that will be presented to the Board of Representatives tonight at the Administration building.

Although the 20-page detailed report has not been made available before being presented to the board, Mayor John Grant, who appointed the special study committee, said the consensus of the committee is that consolidation has been the town's best hope for the future.

Two members of the committee, Mayor Grant and Councilman Arthur Bryant, have filed minority reports which are not a part of the committee document but will be included with tonight's report.

The majority report covers the town as before consolidation, how it is now and what should be done in the future. The committee is headed by George Forsey and includes, besides Lavitt and Bryant, W. Allen Roberts and John Driscoll.

Mayor Grant pointed out it was not his purpose, in appointing the committee, to rehash the question of whether or not to consolidate, but to study consolidation and the unified town government as proposed in the charter and recommend wherever possible areas which can improve the working of the town.

History Unit To Hear Talk By Weaver

Mrs. Margaret Obberg of Colchester, one of the nation's foremost orators in the art of weaving, will be guest speaker at the March meeting of the Manchester Historical Society

The program is open without charge to members of the historical society and their guests, and the public is also invited.

The speaker, a widely known designer-craftsman, lecturer and teacher who learned the art of spinning and weaving as a girl in her native Sweden.

As a child, she helped raise and shear sheep and learned the wool, learned rudiments of the craft from her grandmother and aunt, and later became a weaver's apprentice, receiving additional training at the Stockholm Technical School, the Royal Academy of Art, and at other schools both in Sweden and Norway.

A few years after coming to America in 1924, Mrs. Obberg and her late husband purchased and restored a pre-Revolutionary colonial home and 200-acre farm in Colchester, where she established and still operates her weaving studio.

Fabric and tapestries she creates on some 30 looms at her farm-studio are all made from handspun yarn "dyed in the wool" from native plants grown in her own garden and fields at Berkeley Farm, her home near the Colchester-Lebanon line.

Mrs. Obberg's work has won numerous awards, has been shown in traveling exhibits of the Smithsonian Institution, and has included commissions for historical restorations and ecclesiastical tapestries.

Among her many unusual commissions was one to weave upholstery fabric for chairs in the historic Webb House in Waterbury. This she created from yarn spun from flax and dyed in "holerback red," a favorite Colonial color.

Bolton School Band Impressive in Concert

A good-sized crowd turned out for the concert Friday night at the school and were well rewarded for the effort.

The band performed a variety of numbers, from Mozart to a Herb Albert arrangement, ably demonstrating how far it has come since the slow marches of only four years ago. Both band and chorus are under the direction of Keith Crocker.

The chorus, with 42 blending voices, was even more impressive than in a concert earlier this year.

A clarinet trio played with nice tone the Minuet and Trio from Mozart's Sonatina in C. Angela Zeppa played first clarinet; Diane White, second, and Michele Flano, third.

Amunda Giglio played "Raindrop Prelude" by Chopin. She is a piano student of Crocker.

The program ended with The Children's Prayer from Humperdink's Hansel and Gretel, with band and chorus joining forces.

The entire program was taped professionally and orders for 1968-69 recently elected include Mrs. Margaret Kingsbury, president; Mrs. Andrea Cooper, secretary; Mrs. Donna Linderson, recording secretary; Mrs. Nancy McConnell, treasurer; Mrs. Jane Maynard, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Elina H. A Squareback can get as much as 27 miles on a gallon of gas. It takes 5 pints of oil instead of 5 quarts. It never needs an ounce of anti-freeze, because it's cooled by air. And it avoids repair bills like a... well, like a Volkswagen. So before you go out and buy some station wagon that has twice as much space as you really need, ask yourself this question: Will all that extra space be worth an extra grand?'
