RFK Denounces Negro Violence As Self-Defeating

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, whose campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination has been aimed largely at minority groups, has denounced Negro violence and said it "must be met with the full force of the law."

Editors Praise Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon has won warm praise from the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

The candidate explained later he was not advocating that the United States pay the North Koreans to release the Pueblo and her company.

But there have been similar exchanges before, he said, noting the United States paid for the release of a large number of Cuban prisoners.

Nixon made a much better impression here than Gov. Rockefeller, said Vermont Royce, editor of the Wall Street Journal.

"Nixon stood behind a lone microphone on a short, red-carpeted runway raised above the luncheon tables. The setting had the air of a night club performance—and in show business parlance, he wowed them."

The editors interrupted with solid applause more than a dozen times. They laughed frequently at his jests above the end they accorded Nixon a lusty and lengthy standing ovation.

In contrast, Rockefeller's luncheon address was digested in silence. The audience rose at the start, but not the finish.

Pressure Builds for Tax Hike. WASHINGTON (AP) — Pressure is building on Congress to break a logjam and enact President Johnson's proposed income tax hike amid some signs it may be moving—although not so fast as the administration would like.

Chairman William McCleskey Martin Jr. of the Federal Reserve Board applied new pressure Friday by outlining a plan for immediate action on the tax boost with a warning that "we are in the midst of the worst financial crisis we have had since 1931."

Martin spoke to the American Society of Newspaper Editors on the effects of a one-half percent raise, to 9 1/2 percent, in the discount rate were spreading over the country in the form of increased interest costs for bank loans.

The stock market, already shaken by the discount rate increase, which tends to slow business and private spending, reacted to Martin's speech with a sharp drop.

U.S. Jets Set 1968 Record For Missions

BAKONG (AP) — U.S. warplanes set a 1968 record for the second straight day Friday as they flew 160 missions to blast supply targets in North Vietnam.

American fighters had set a record for the year Thursday when they flew 145 missions, the largest number in nearly four months.

The Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots on Friday's raids struck 100,000 allied troops in Operation Complete Victory, the biggest allied campaign of the U.S. air force since the Vietnam war began.

Along the northern frontier, North Vietnamese troops struck at the newly reopened overland supply road to Khe Sanh Friday, ambushing a U.S. Marine truck convoy while firing down Leathernecks on a road clearing operation nearby.

They hit bridges, roads, trucks and supply points in the area left open to them under President Johnson's bombing curtailment order, designed to draw Hanoi into peace talks.

The northeast monsoon over North Vietnam is almost over and with the rapidly improving weather, the number of American air strikes is expected to increase unless the President orders a further curtailment.

Although Friday's 160 missions set a record for 1968, the number is well below the all-time Vietnam war record of 206 set last Aug. 19 before the monsoon season began.

The U.S. Command said the deepest penetration Friday was about 165 miles above the demilitarized zone against a railroad spur near Vinh. This was below the 1957 Parallel, a boundary line that has been observed even though American public statements gave the northern limit as the 20th Parallel.

No American planes were reported shot down, but in a week-long report the U.S. Command said 1,070 American warplanes had been lost in combat as of Tuesday—823 over North Vietnam and 247 in the South.

Strike in Third Day. WASHINGTON (AP) — Telephone company and union officials have expressed hope they can get wage negotiations going again as a nationwide strike of nearly 200,000 AFL-CIO Communications Workers enters its third day.

"We are ready to meet with them," Ben S. Gilmer, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., said Friday. "We are hopeful the parties can get back together," said a spokesman for union President Joseph A. Beirne.

Most telephone service was little affected by the first nationwide strike in 21 years. Picketing in about 40 states was reported generally good-natured and peaceful, but the company reported scattered cable-cutting incidents in Ohio, Indiana, New Jersey and Florida.

"Vandalism of telephone plant equipment" has not been widely reported and where it has occurred, repairs have been made promptly, Gilmer said. "We know our people are not doing this," Beirne said of the reported sabotage, and added in a message to his union members: "The union warns that it is not only wrong—but that no such act ever should be done by one minute."

The company said direct-dial phone calls, both local and long distance, were unaffected by the strike and that services requiring an operator were slowed only in a few areas. "Telephone service remains normal in most of the country and is getting better where it has been affected," Gilmer said. The company reported full service on overseas calls was being maintained from New York facilities with supervisors filling in for strikers. Management personnel also manned switchboards and other jobs in other areas. Gilmer said a subsidiary of the Bell Telephone System company was ready to discuss the union's proposal to junk the current 15-cent contract and write a new three-year agreement.

Close Pitches Order For Day at Fenway

BOSTON (AP)—Four batters were hit by pitched balls and others were ducking for cover all through Friday's Cleveland Boston game at Fenway Park as baseball's early season epidemic of beanball incidents continued unabated.

Nobody on either side would make any charges, but Red Sox manager Tom Yawkey said yesterday afternoon that he was not "blaming" back on this season.

"I'm not saying they're trying to hit me," he said, "but it seems I've been jumping over the fence a lot lately."

After hitting Smith, Siebert was struck by a Gary Westervelt pitch when he came to bat in the second inning. Umpire Bill Haller immediately called both managers to the plate for a conference.

"I just told them I didn't want to get out of hand," Haller said. "I didn't want to see these guys getting into a fight. I just told them to get out of hand."

Despite the discussions, Westervelt hit Cleveland catcher Duke Sims and Indian reliever Hal Kubit hit Mike Anton. In addition, Yastrzemski and Joe Foy were forced to hit the dirt and numerous other batters had to pull away from tight pitches.

Cleveland Manager Al Dark had no comment on the incident and Red Sox shortstop Dick Williams played it down.

"I didn't complain," Dark said. "I just said to say, 'Let's get on with the game.'"

Williams said, "Dark said, 'We're not going to complain. We're going to play the game.'"

Strategy by Yaz Worked

BOSTON (AP)—Carl Yastrzemski says his injured left thumb makes it harder to get home runs so he's just trying to get on base. The strategy worked well Friday as he collected three hits and scored twice in Boston's 9-2 victory over Cleveland.

The slugger left fielder suffered a bruised left thumb on a hit by a Gary Peters that was a big inning.

Two days ago White Sox manager Eddie Stanky walked Yastrzemski in the first inning, doubled to drive in a run in the third, then came up in the fifth with a man on third and one out. The Indians pitched to him and he drilled a deep center field shot and a walk. Shak Start, Good Finish

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Britton, warming up for his first major league start, hurt his arm. And then things got worse.

The young Atlanta right-hander surrounded by his Cincinnati first two hitters Friday night and second reliever Dick Simon. But the first batter, Atlanta's Dick Simon, hit Britton for an extra base hit in the first inning.

Britton rode consecutive third inning homers by Hank Aaron and Sandy Valdespino and three more Atlanta DP's to the Braves.

In other National League action, Chris Short hurled a three-hitter as Philadelphia nipped Houston, 2-1. Jim Haney and Willie Mays led San Francisco to a 5-2 victory over Pittsburgh. Orlando Cepeda and Dick Simon smashed two home runs as the Cardinals crushed the Braves.

For one thing, there is an official rule, 8.02 (c): "The pitcher shall not intentionally pitch to a batter to injure him." The umpire's judgment, such violation occurs, the umpire shall warn the pitcher and the manager of the defense that another such pitch will mean immediate ejection of the pitcher. If such pitch is repeated during the game, the umpire shall eject the pitcher from the game.

What is of consequence, however, is the ever-present danger involved when a baseball, banister a toy, can be an instrument of bodily destruction, or even death. There has been countless serious injuries from baseball batters or whatever had been struck twice in one at-bat.

Some batters are more fearless in the majors. More and more batters are also using the ear and temple that faces the pitcher.

Yankee outfielder Joe Pepitone covered to the flap this spring. It's not that I'm chicken up there. I'm now standing on the plate, and it's helped me to really start tagging the ball.

In the end, though, the hitter's best means for survival are his reflexes, and his ability to do things that are not taught by the coaching staff.

Another form of self-protection is the built-down first-base line. When a pitcher batters will "run up his back," as the saying goes, a batter will also let the ball slip through his fingers.

Mickey Mantle Speaks Out Pitches Better Today Than 10-15 Years Ago

It's a lot tougher to hit now than when I first came up. I don't have the bat around as fast. I don't have the left center and right center.

I used to be able to check my swing. But I mean I'd look for the fast ball and if it was a fast ball, I'd swing. I mean I'd look for the fast ball and if it was a fast ball, I'd swing. I mean I'd look for the fast ball and if it was a fast ball, I'd swing.

An estimated 135 enemy troops, hiding along Highway 9 about eight miles northeast of the Khe Sanh combat base, opened fire simultaneously on the slow-moving 12-truck convoy and the road-clearing patrol about 200 yards away. The U.S. Command said the patrol called in artillery and air strikes and tried to encircle the attackers, but when the eight-hour fight ended at dusk the enemy had faded away, dragging their dead and wounded with them. Four Marines were killed and 20 wounded, spokesmen said, and the convoy suffered moderate damage. Highway 9, closed since November, was opened in the allies' Operation Pegasus, which broke the 77-day North Vietnamese siege of Khe Sanh two weeks ago. During the siege, the Marines at the northwest frontier outpost had to be supplied by air. Scattered clashes have continued around Khe Sanh as Marine engineers worked to repair the heavily scarred highway. Enemy gunners also have been shelling Khe Sanh since the siege ended, although not as heavily as during the siege. U.S. troops sweeping around Khe Sanh Thursday and Friday turned up the bodies of 22 more enemy soldiers killed in sporadic action since Tuesday, U.S. spokesmen said. They said the latest count put casualties for the last four days in the area at 29 enemy and 19 U.S. Marines killed and 66 Marines wounded. Other sharp firefights were reported in widely scattered areas of South Vietnam Friday.

RFK Blasts Violence by Negro Groups

Richard M. Nixon, conferred Friday evening with Michigan Gov. George Romney, who had been an active contender himself until he decided Feb. 29 his campaign wasn't succeeding. Nixon told newsmen afterward they talked "issues, not politics." Romney said the discussion gave him a better understanding of Nixon's positions on various issues, adding: "I have no commitment." In other political developments: Former congressman Adam Clayton Powell announced from his retreat in the Bahamas that he has decided to try to regain his seat in Congress. Powell charged that racial strife is drifting to the point where "we shoot niggers for just being niggers" and said he wanted to be back in Congress to give his Harlem constituents a voice and a vote. Gov. John Connally of Texas, often mentioned as a Democratic vice president possibility, conceded to a newsmen in Austin, Tex., that the nomination "would be difficult to turn down," but that he is not seeking it.

Swearing-in Slated Today For Trudeau

before Parliament reconvenes Tuesday. Trudeau said Friday he sees arguments both for and against an early general election, and added: "Everything is possible in the spring—this or next." One argument for an early election is that Trudeau could capitalize on the surge of popularity that won him the Liberal leadership. In addition, although they are the largest party in the House of Commons, the Liberals do not have a majority and depend on minority party support in key votes. Calling an election would mean dissolving Parliament, avoiding the risk of the new Trudeau government running into trouble over controversial legislation. Edwin A. Goodman, organization chairman for the opposition Conservative party, told a newsmen it would be "highly irresponsible" for Trudeau to call an election without presenting a budget or legislative program to Parliament. But he said the Conservatives were ready to fight an election campaign. If a general election is called, it would be Canada's fourth since 1962. Under the Canadian system, Trudeau does not have to call an election before 1970. Trudeau, a 46-year-old bachelor with a reputation as a swinger, is an unorthodox personality. But his policies are not expected, in the near future at least, to be much different from Pearson's. He is expected to elevate Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp to the foreign ministry and name the present foreign minister, Paul Martin, government leader in the Senate. Trade Minister Robert Winter, runner-up to Trudeau in the Liberals' voting on a new leader, is leaving the Cabinet and observers say this could harm Liberal party unity. Trudeau, French-Canadian, faces other problems with Canada's French-speaking province, Quebec, which seeks increased independence. Some Quebecers have doubts about his strong views in support of federalism. Trudeau fought the separatist movement in Quebec, and his feeling that he could do something about it brought him into politics in 1965.

Editors Praise Nixon

When the editors accorded him lukewarm applause. "Most editors with whom I've talked found it disappointing," said John S. Knight, publisher of the Miami Herald. "Rockefeller's address fell completely flat," said Sam Raggs, executive news editor of the Raleigh News and Observer and Raleigh Times. Robert A. Brown, editor of the Albuquerque Journal, said he thought Rockefeller's speech was meant to be low-keyed and thought-provoking, but added, "Nixon very definitely gained today." Nixon called for a moratorium on Vietnam criticism to give President Johnson a free hand while trying to settle the war. He criticized what he termed unrealistic promises on urban problems. And he called for budget cuts to protect the dollar. But it was at such what he said as he said it. "Nixon seemed to be a new personality," said Robert P. Early, managing editor of the Indianapolis Star. "He's even developed a sense of humor. Nixon swept the audience." "I've never seen him quite so effectively," added Robert M. White II, editor and publisher of the Mexico (Mo.) Ledger. "Nixon was terrifically improved. I think he was much more warm and human," said Dow Richardson, editor of the Kokomo (Ind.) Tribune. Rogers, one of the four editors who panel that quizzed Nixon, compared the candidate of 1968 to the nominee of eight years ago and said: "His manner has become easier. He still uses the debating devices, but in a smoother, better polished way. He is more mature, less abrasive." Nixon was asked to describe "the new Nixon." He began: "The new Nixon is older. He perhaps has acquired—I would hope—some more wisdom." Then he swept into a series of anecdotes, telling of a teenage girl who asked him to autograph his picture and bursted out, "That's a wonderful picture of you, Mr. Nixon. It doesn't look like you at all." In a two-minute reply to the question, Nixon had the editors laughing and applauding seven times.

men, linemen, installers and other workers. AT&T said that the biggest telephone cable cut was one carrying nearly 2,000 circuits between Cleveland and Toledo, Ohio. The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. said the FBI had been asked to investigate because the cut line affected a Federal Aviation Agency center near Oberlin, Ohio. A company spokesman said three other lines carrying from 25 to 225 circuits were damaged in Ohio—one cut, one hit by shotgun fire and one with a rifle bullet. He said there were 63 cases of cable cuts in New Jersey and 4 in Indiana, affecting from a few to several hundred home phone lines each. In Detroit, two picketing strikers claimed they were brushed by cars by an auto entering a company parking lot, but police said they had no report of the alleged incidents.

JUDGE'S STATEMENT WAS SUGGESTION

STAMFORD (AP)—A Circuit Court judge's action aimed at limiting the information about arrested persons police give out to newsmen was a "suggestion" and not an order, the chief judge of Circuit Court said Friday. Judge John J. Daly said "no such order" was given that police restrict information to what was written on the police blotter. Stamford news media found early Friday that police, acting on a "directive" from Circuit Court Judge Robert L. LeVetter, were limiting the amount of information given to newsmen. LeVetter was asked why he took the action, and he said he had become annoyed with recent reports in local newspapers about persons arrested on morals charges. LeVetter said the stories contained details which prejudiced the defendants' rights.

day. A Jordanian army spokesman said in Amman Friday night that Jordanian forces "intercepted another Israeli patrol" trying to cross the Jordan River near the Hussein, or Allenby, bridge. He said there were no Jordanian casualties and Israeli casualties were unknown. In Cairo, the newspaper Al-Ahram said U.N. special envoy Gunnar Jarring will fly to Tehran next week to report personally to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant on the state of his peace mission in the Middle East. That is due to arrive in the Iranian capital Monday for a meeting of the U.N. Human Rights Commission. His meeting with Jarring will be for a briefing in advance of a U.N. General Assembly meeting Wednesday, Al-Ahram said. The newspaper Al-Moharrir in Beirut said the United States has formulated a new Middle East peace plan which will be forwarded soon to Jarring. Al-Moharrir said it had learned from informed sources in Beirut that the program calls for Arab-Israeli negotiations for a permanent peace; re-examination of Arab-Israeli borders, not specified so far; withdrawal of Israeli troops from occupied territory on the basis of the new borders; and internationalization of Jerusalem and its separation from both Jordan and Israel.

ELLIS ISLAND, N.Y. —(NEA) —In 1912, a boy of 14, speaking no English, arrived at Ellis Island from Russia to begin a new life in the United States.

He didn't know his name and the immigration officials gave him one, Alpert.

Now his son, Herb Alpert, stands in the same room, walks past an overturned chair, past walls curled with peeling paint, looks at the balcony running around the room and the tiled, vaulted ceiling. He strolls to a dirty window covered with chicken wire and looks out at the dramatic outline of lower Manhattan Island.

The scene is a public one, as cameras record it for the second of Herb's specials. "The Best of the Brass," to be seen on CBS-TV Monday. But Herb's thoughts as he walks through the emotion-filled room, once the registration hall where thousands of immigrants poured through, are private.

It's the opening scene of the show, and will last about four minutes as Herb wanders over the island, closed as an immigration center in 1954, while he and the Tijuana Brass provide background music. They have filmed at the Mardi Gras, on a Mississippi riverboat, with the Chicago Cubs in spring training, at a rodeo, in Chicago and on Broadway. This shot at Ellis Island is the most expensive. One estimate of its cost: $20,000 minimum.

A generator weighing nearly 20 tons was transported to the island by barge from Manhattan. Because it was impossible to determine the needed amount of cable in advance of filming, 300 pieces of it were carted along. Sixty were used.

Later, during a pause in the filming, Herb said he had not been sure of doing a second special, after the resounding success of his first one. "The first was 85 per cent of what I thought it should be," he said in his soft voice, adding that he is very critical of his work. "Then we hit on the idea of traveling across the country."

Giving the show a more immediate look is the fact that it is being shot on 16mm film. Equipment is so compact that Herb and the Brass did one number in the engine room of the Delta Queen, the old riverboat. They play as the engine chugs, and Herb says the two rhythms blended perfectly.

"I guess our music is very mechanical," he laughs.

He's a shy man who lets his trumpet do most of the talking, although he has a strong sense of humor. He is beginning to shake his reticence but it appears in flashes as he talks. When he was complimented on the album cover for his latest A and M recording, Herb Alpert's Ninth (it showed a bust of Beethoven wearing a Herb Alpert sweatshirt, he says, "I hesitated about that for a long time. I didn't want anyone to think I was comparing myself to Beethoven.")

He looks around the room and says, "This would make a great discotheque."

The talk gets back to his father, who is now retired and living in California.

"Listening to the radio." Herb, who has traveled extensively in Europe and the Orient to great acclaim, was asked if he had ever been to the country of his father's birth, Russia.

"No, but I would like to go. I wonder if they would dig our music over there. They would either dig me — or I guess they would dig me," he says, making a shoveling gesture.

TV Awards Still Grow

NEW YORK (AP) —It is ironic that in a year marked generally by lackluster entertainment programs, the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences has come up with more categories and more nominations for its Emmy award for achievement and excellence.

Some 250 programs and individuals have been nominated for industry honor. There are now 31 formal categories for awards plus a number of other broad areas for citation. In the news, documentary and actuality categories alone there are a total of almost 80 nominations.

As usual, some of the nominations in the entertainment categories involve programs dropped for next season —both NBC's "I Spy" and "Run For Your Life" and their stars are up for awards.

Five series, none less than two seasons old, are rivals for an Emmy in the "outstanding comedy series" category, but not one new series made the list. And the way the categories are set up permits one actor to be nominated for two Emmies for playing the same role.

Raymond Burr is up for his performance "by an actor in a leading role in a drama" in "Ironside," a two-hour made-for-TV feature, which was actually a pilot for the series "Ironside" that followed it. He is up for another Emmy for playing the same character in the series.

With such a raft of nominations, it is almost impossible to single out any programs or performers for special mention. And many of the nominated programs were not particularly impressive.

It may be that the large number of nominations is the result of the rather simple method of nominating. It may be done by an academy member, a producer or even some of the craftsmen of the business. However, winners will be chosen by experts named by the academy.

The awards will come May 19 on an NBC program scheduled for 90 minutes. But with so many categories, it may be difficult to crowd the awards, the envelope-opening and the thank-you speeches into the time period.

"NBC Experiment in Television" mixes its media this Sunday to find out where today's youth is at. The program, titled "Youth '68" and subtitled "Everything's Changing . . . Or Maybe It Isn't," will be a montage of interviews, rock music, quotations and dance. NBC will broadcast it 4:30 to 5:30 p.m.

No Envelopes On Tony Awards

NEW YORK — (NEA) — There's a lot that can be said for Alexander Cohen, a flamboyant, yet tasteful Broadway producer with plenty of imagination.

But the thing that may earn him a place in some history book one day is the fact that he is producing an awards show, and not once during the course of the show will anyone say, "The envelope, please."

Cohen's production is "Broadway '68: The Tony Awards," set for NBC-TV Sunday. Angela Lansbury and Peter Ustinov are co-hosts. Presenters include Audrey Hepburn, Robert Goulet, Paul Newman, Joanne Woodward, Eydie Gorme, Steve Lawrence, Carol Channing, Pearl Bailey and Leslie Uggams. Not one of them will get to ask for an envelope.

"Every awards show goes like this," Cohen said. "The presenter reads a list of nominees, says 'The winner is — may I have the envelope please? Where are my glasses? Oh, God, I can't get the envelope open. I'm so excited!' Every actor is up there trying to make a three-act play out of his one line."

On the Tony telecast, an electronic theater marquee will light up with the names of the nominees, a button will be pushed, and the winner's name will appear.

Cohen, who rescued the Tony Awards from deteriorating into complete obscurity, did such a good job that last year's show has been nominated for an Emmy Award. The show even got a rave review from the New York Times.

Telecast this year on NBC-

TV for the first time, from 10-11:30 on a Sunday night, opposite reruns on CBS and ABC, the show is expected to have an audience of 50 million people. Last season, on another network with fewer stations, and opposite healthier competition, the show played to 25 million. Cohen, who has produced such Broadway SRO hits as Richard Burton's "Hamlet" and "Black Comedy," says he is seriously thinking of packaging Broadway productions for TV.

"The entire New York legitimate theater, in a good year, plays to 12 million people at its peak. Here in one night we'll play to nearly five times that.

'The Wizard of Oz' Is Still Wizardly

NEW YORK—Many of us think of the 1939 MGM classic, "The Wizard of Oz," as still incredible.

The two-hour film which stars Judy Garland as the little girl who finds happiness "Somewhere Over the Rainbow," will be broadcast on NBC today, 7 to 9 p.m.

A city of great green bubbles which serve as houses, a forest of flexible trees which reach out with their branches as though they were human arms, and fields with giant flowers which move like humans are among the remarkable scenes which taxed the ingenuity of skilled Hollywood technicians in "The Wizard of Oz."

One of the most elaborate sets represents the Emerald City, home of the famed Wizard in the picture based on L. Frank Baum's fantasy. It represents great hollow emeralds and tall emerald spires. A glass-like compound was worked out by studio chemists, colored emerald green, and under the play of lighting effects presented dazzling and iridescent surfaces for the Technicolor in which the picture was made.

Also marvels of ingenuity are the almost human trees which grasp at Miss Garland, Ray Bolger, Jack Haley and Bert Lahr. Constructed of rubber, each of 50 trees in the central group was governed by 12 separate wire controls operated by technicians off-stage.

One of the baffling mechanical problems was that of the "flying monkeys" large enough to pick up actors and fly with them. Men in fantastically colored monkey suits played the monkeys and with aid of wires could fly as easily as modern astronauts.

The giant flowers appear in the Land of the Munchkins. They are played by midgets in colorful make-up.

In other scenes, six husky men, at least six feet tall, were given jobs as "human elevators" during the filming. They were the midget-lifters, who raised the small people portraying the gnome-like Munchkins in the musical. Because of their stature the midgets (116 were employed) had to be lifted to platforms and parallels for scenes over the rim of the sets.

"The Wizard of Oz" tells the story of little Dorothy, the farm girl who is blown away by a cyclone and finds adventure in the Land of Oz. It was produced by Mervyn LeRoy and directed by Victor Fleming. The musical score is by E. Y. Harburg and Harold Arlen.
