

Tolland County State Senator Repko To Seek Re-election

State Senator Andrew Repko of West Willington announced his candidacy today for re-election in the 14th State Senate District. The Republican will seek re-election at the party's Senatorial District Convention on June 28.

The 35th District includes Tolland, Vernon, Ellington, Somers, Stafford Springs, Bolton, Union, Mansfield, Coventry, Hebron, Andover and Colchester and Willington.

Repko has served in the General Assembly since 1965, and was elected to his first term as state senator in 1966.

Repko, who said he was seeking re-election at the urging of many friends and supporters in both parties, declared that "I personally feel there is a lot of work remaining to be done in the legislature."

A resident of Willington for 29 years, Repko is head of the Repko Real Estate and Insurance Co. of Willington and is also a member of the Connecticut State Employees Association.

Repko is a member of the Tolland County, Italian Benevolent Society of Stafford Springs, the Willington Club and Game Club and the National Society of Public Administrators. He is also a Scout leader.

In the legislature, Repko has been a member of committees on Agriculture, Corrections, Federal and Intergovernmental Relations, Liquor Control, Public Personnel and Rules Committee. He is a member of the legislative interim committees on Human Rights and Development.

In 1964, Repko received the Silver Apple Award

Hart Group Does Well With Mozart

By JOHN GRUBER

Mozart's "Abduction From the Seraglio" was seen in the form of four presentations by the opera department of Hart Center at the Middletown Auditorium last evening. There will be further performances tonight, Friday and Saturday evenings. Rarely presented, these works are well attended, if you can get seats.

"Seraglio" is an early Mozart opera, and technically is not an opera but what the Germans call a "Singspiel," since it includes spoken dialogue. The music has a youthful spontaneity and sort of naive charm which is lost in the composer's later operas like "Don Giovanni," and "Marriage of Figaro."

Many rate "Seraglio" lower than the two last masterpieces, yet there is an appeal to the work which is undeniable.

Hart's production is, as usual, a very good one though it is not the best I have encountered. Despite the fact that a student production with national technical schools and the Connecticut State Employees Association.

Repko is a member of the Tolland County, Italian Benevolent Society of Stafford Springs, the Willington Club and Game Club and the National Society of Public Administrators. He is also a Scout leader.

In the legislature, Repko has been a member of committees on Agriculture, Corrections, Federal and Intergovernmental Relations, Liquor Control, Public Personnel and Rules Committee. He is a member of the legislative interim committees on Human Rights and Development.

OCCASIONAL SUCCESS MAY BE GOOD ENOUGH

By ALBERT SHEINWOLD

"You can fool some of the people some of the time," Abraham Lincoln once said, meaning that this was nothing to be proud of. If Lincoln had been a bridge player he would have classified occasional success in the fooling business as a very sizable accomplishment.

Open lead—9 of hearts.

East won the first trick with the jack of hearts and continued with the ace and king. South ruffed the third heart with the queen of spades, and West casually discarded the deuce of clubs.

As you see, West was a bridge player, not a President. He knew that fooling some of the people some of the time was pretty good for a bridge player.

No Problem to be solved. If so, he will go down since he will lose the spade finesse and will later lose a diamond as well.

Mind you, South may try the diamond finesse instead of the ace of spades. It is better than no success at all.

Incidentally, don't write that letter about leading a low spade from dummy for the finesse. West would refuse to take his king, and South would be no better off.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: Spades, K-8-3; Hearts, 8-3; Diamonds, 5-3-2; Clubs, 7-6-5-4.

What do you say?

Answer: Pass or bid two spades. This is a borderline decision. Raise with a good partner pass with an unreliable partner.

Vernon Art Council Incorporates To Run Programs in Area

The Rockville Area Art Council has been incorporated to coordinate both outdoor and indoor programs in the Ellington, Tolland and Vernon areas.

The corporation was formed to coordinate both outdoor and indoor programs in the Ellington, Tolland and Vernon areas. It intends to make its equipment available to groups running their own programs and will run some programs directly.

The corporation has purchased 18 music shell sections with over $6,000 donated by the Rockville Rotary Club. The corporation hopes to expand this to 24 sections and to add sound equipment and permanent platforms in suitable places in each of the three towns.

The first use of the shell was for the Easter Sunrise Service at Fox Hill where its value was illustrated in directing the sound.

In last night's performance, the male singers were notably better than the female performers. Belmonts was excellent and Pedrito was not far behind. The music was the most of an extremely rewarding role, even though in his biggest aria he was unable to negotiate the low "D" with great conviction. Many other arias have failed here, too.

Both the ladies sang consistently sharp in absolute pitch, but with good relative pitch, although Constance was more accurate even here than Blonde.

This comes from not listening to themselves, and will not be cured until they do learn to listen instead of merely hearing.

The vocal training has obviously been good but the singers in question have not yet learned to listen carefully to the orchestra and the other singers while they are singing themselves. This frequently happens with inexperienced, young artists. Still, they must learn to listen to themselves; the audience certainly does.

Moshe Paronov did a good job of musical directing and the orchestra played the difficult task with real excellence. The scenery designed by Elmer Nagy, was most effective, and convincing was first rate. Choral work is rather minimal in this opera and at times it sounded as though it had been treated minimally in rehearsal.

A first rate but not extraordinary production, taken by all judges.

Registration Set In Kindergarten

Parents who have not already registered their children will be attending kindergarten in Vernon next year are urged to do so as soon as possible.

Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent of schools, said that it is important that children be registered soon so classes can be planned and scheduled for next September.

In order to be eligible for kindergarten, a child must be five on or before September 1. Birth certificates and proof of vaccination and polio shots must also be submitted.

Dr. Ramsdell also cautions that getting in any form is not permitted on any of the town school grounds. He said several windows have been broken by golf balls.

Additional file and annual membership are being collected and may be sent to the Rockville Area Art Council Corporation, John Carter Memorial Building, P.O. Box 80, Rockville.

Robert Velardi will report on the progress of the program planned for the corporation at Monday's luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club. At the meeting Rotary's contribution of over $6,000 which has been raised for the purchase of the music shell will be presented to the arts council.

Where Car Crossed Lawn Striking Three Trees

Four tire tracks sweep across a lawn on the south side of Bolton Center Rd. near Ellington, showing the path of the car wrapped around the vertebrae which carried a Manchester youth to his death early this morning. Three trees in a row on the lawn of several which the car crossed sideways stopped the car. The trunk of the first tree was wrenched from the ground, the second tree was snapped off higher up and the rear of the car wrapped around the third tree. The front of the car continued on to the next lawn. The youth was thrown to the ground. (Story on Page 1.) (Herald Photo by Pinto)

No Collision Danger Maverick Asteroid Icarus Starts Hurling Earthward

By FRANK CAREY

183 million at its farthest. Icarus whisks around the sun once every 409 days.

Navy astronomers said Icarus will make its closest solar approach in its present orbit today and then start its stretch-tornard earthward today at 20,000 miles per hour.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The maverick asteroid Icarus, a plumpish planet about a half-mile in diameter, starts hurtling earthward today at 20,000 miles per hour.

Navy astronomers say it will come within four million miles of earth on June 14, a close approach since its discovery in 1949. It won't be visible to the naked eye.

The Navy assured there is "no danger of a collision" with earth.

There have been similar reassuring words in recent years about the high eccentricity of the astronomy—all aimed at counteracting reports that rocky Icarus just might be on a collision course with the earth. Such a catastrophe would be equivalent to dropping 100 hydrogen bombs at one time.

As recently as last November a member of the British House of Commons asked the government for official reassurance that two celestial objects would not collide. He got it.

But one American astronomer, Dr. Robert S. Richardson, while conceding there's no apparent chance of a collision during Icarus' upcoming visit, has said this might not always hold as the asteroid keeps returning every 18 years.

Richardson, of Alameda, Calif., has theorized Icarus might eventually be pulled off course by the combined gravity influences of the planets Earth and Mercury, with which it also has relatively close brushes.

He has suggested a possible defense if danger ever appears imminent—blasting Icarus out of the heavens with a nuclear-armed space vehicle.

It has been known since at least 1867 that Icarus was due to make a close approach to the earth June 14 or 15 of this year.

This forecast has been based on a computation of its strongly elliptical orbit around the sun—ranging from 18 million miles at its closest point to the sun, and

Boy Missing In Stamford Found Dead

STAMFORD (AP)—A seven-year-old boy missing since Wednesday evening was found dead today in the Rippowam River.

Police recovered the body of Curtis Dumore from the water beneath the Paluhai Street bridge. He apparently drowned. Two eight-year-old friends of the missing boy had seen him fall into the river at about 6 o'clock Wednesday evening, but apparently ran home and did not tell anyone about the incident, police said.

Curtis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Dumore of Stamford, notified police at about 9 p.m. that their son was missing.

But it was not until early today that police learned from Curtis' two friends what had happened.

Registration Set In Kindergarten

Parents who have not already registered their children will be attending kindergarten in Vernon next year are urged to do so as soon as possible.

Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent of schools, said that it is important that children be registered soon so classes can be planned and scheduled for next September.

In order to be eligible for kindergarten, a child must be five on or before September 1. Birth certificates and proof of vaccination and polio shots must also be submitted.

Dr. Ramsdell also cautions that getting in any form is not permitted on any of the town school grounds. He said several windows have been broken by golf balls.

Additional file and annual membership are being collected and may be sent to the Rockville Area Art Council Corporation, John Carter Memorial Building, P.O. Box 80, Rockville.

Robert Velardi will report on the progress of the program planned for the corporation at Monday's luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club. At the meeting Rotary's contribution of over $6,000 which has been raised for the purchase of the music shell will be presented to the arts council.

South Windsor Town Voter Canvass to Run From Monday Until May 20

Mrs. Joseph Grizer, Democratic registrar of voters, and Mrs. Wayne Gordon, Republican registrar of voters, have announced that the annual voters canvass of South Windsor will be conducted this year from Monday through May 20. The canvass is required by the state law within six months before a regular election.

The door-to-door canvass helps in the preparation of the town's voting list. The purpose of the canvass is to determine who should be removed from the voting list either because of moving from town or because of death since the last election.

At the time of the canvass, all residents will be contacted, and those who do not register are eligible to join. Applications for registration must be made before the canvass. The canvass is required by the state law within six months before a regular election.

Hebron $230,900 Budget Hike Hit at Hearing

By MARJORIE POSTER
The annual budget hearing of the Hebron Board of Selectmen was held last night with many meetings all over the state that the head of the board was expected to attend. Most of these meetings involved meals and he felt that these expenses should come from a special fund, not from his salary.

With pointed out that this amount included 100 per cent verification of tax bills this year as required by law.

Nationhood Celebrated By Israel

Israeli paraded Soviet tanks, self-propelled artillery, surface-to-air missiles, and other equipment captured from the Arabs in the six-day war last June.

The parade was covered by the Israeli state television station and could be seen on TV sets in neighboring Arab countries. In other Israeli cities, there was singing and dancing in the streets.

When asked why he was requesting an increase, in all cases, this was to bring the clerks to a more realistic salary for the time they put in and increased duties due to growth of the town.

Those in attendance were annoyed in the beginning of the meeting that First Selectman John Perham was not present to answer questions on the items and he wanted to replace them with mercury lighting for the front and parking areas.

Several questions arose on the town office building. Perham said this was to take care of a leak that had existed in the building since it was built. The leak had damaged the walls and ceilings of the basement meeting room.

Someone asked why the bond contractor until the leak was repaired, and Taylor, who was involved with the building of the town offices, said that the contractor had repaired what he thought was causing the trouble but it had not proved correct. Several people were opposed to putting this money in the budget, saying it would be for nothing.

Clark Post questioned Perham also said that the item was not working and he wanted to replace them with mercury lighting for the front and parking areas.

It was questioned how much time the assessor puts in for the $2,000. Wirth said he did not know but he knew that there was a lot of new machinery being done by the assessor this year at no additional cost, including a new computer for his work load.

Under the town clerk item, questions arose on the amount in the budget for microfilming and duplicating machines. Why was this money being used on so small an amount.

This question opened the whole public health nursing question with people trying to repeat their feelings for and against the program. Harvey Desrosiers, chairman of the Board of Finance and a representative on the tri-town agency, reported that the Health Finance Committee and said that the nurse would be in the community for working day 82 weeks a year.

When the Health services portion of the Board of Education budget was reviewed, the public health question arose again.

Emery Taylor of Amston was in favor of the Board of Finance. The $2,600 in the budget for additional services was considered by Taylor and others in attendance as non-essential.

Board asked Wirth how the Board of Finance felt on this item and Wirth replied, "The Board of Finance is in agreement with $4,000 for other services." He said that the town had accepted public health nursing services and this is what should be used for the school's.

"If this service was not come back to the town for more money," he continued, "we can come back to the town for more money."

Great interest was shown in the various clerk positions on the town boards, how much time was involved, what duties were entailed and why each was requesting an increase. In all cases, this was to bring the clerks to a more realistic salary for the time they put in and increased duties due to growth of the town.

In position to make a contest if one can be made.

More important than making a contest, perhaps, is the business of making a decision about Republican policy. Nothing unopposed, former Vice President Richard Nixon has been in the process of trying to create something that could be called a party synthesis and consensus. He has been doing this by a deft tailoring and weaving of his own personal views with the more easily acceptable principles dear to both left and right. He has been, in other words, setting about the creation of a party position—on party unifying positions—with himself in the position of master chemist or mixer.

There is now going to be, for a time, more emphasis on some of the differences between Republicans, and more of a debate on the potentially divisive issues than Mr. Nixon would ever have chosen to hold with himself. This carries its risk of danger and division to the party; but it also offers the promise of ultimate decision which has meaning and health. Discussion, debate and contest Governor Rockefeller has now assured himself and the party.

How much of a chance he has at gaining the nomination is another question. We would say it is not too late for a real fighting chance. And we would say that it is probably in his favor that the five week period in which the Republican party has been allowed to set itself with Mr. Nixon as its assured candidate have not been weeks of unusual Republican confidence and happiness, an, perhaps, the almost instant response of the surprise Rockefeller victory in the Massachusetts primary has solidified.

Britain's Race With Time On Race

The new Race Relations Bill is the Government's second attempt at legislation in this field within three years. No one suggests that the law alone can change the people's behavior. The changes of the other week in Memphis make it abundantly clear that in the American South the passage of laws against segregation has not eliminated the violence and second-class citizenship which Negroes still have to suffer. But equally that week's events are yet another reminder of the chaos which inevitably results when a community fails to take constructive steps to improve race relations in time.

The moral of the American experience is that the authorities, after centuries of slavery and exploitation, have been too little too late. Britain is fortunate to catch this problem from an earlier stage, before the people have had time to learn from Canada and the United States and other countries. Attitudes and habits in this country have not been here in significant numbers for long. Patterns of behavior toward Negroes are not here, and they are not automatically excluded from whole areas of housing or from particular types of employment. These attitudes are likely to harden if steps are not taken to prevent it. It is the responsibility of the Government, through education and vigorous public leadership, to mould habits in the right direction.

Because race relations are a new issue to Britain, and because the law must play an educative as well as a deterrent role in this field, the drafting of a different culture or color. Many things of which "human beings" are capable. And some of the most important things of which "human beings" are capable are not acts of commission or visible or defensible wrongdoing, or inflicting or wrong, but things of omission, of not moving or acting in one way or another.

Dr. Grayson Kirk no more deserves to have the heritage of all this come down and settle heavily at his particular academic office than any individual Negro deserves to be born into a world of lingering discrimination and denial of race and equal opportunity.

We live, on one side of our living, by a blind exchange of injustices.

We are trying to learn and put in practice a more positive, mutually helpful, kindly demonstration of what human beings can do for and to one another, for instance in our program, some Manchester people know something about, in "Project Concern."

But there is no easy path forward and upward, and this is why. The fact that came a referendum revelation of how some of the people of Manchester felt about Project Concern, Dr. Kirk's message anguished question is in order here, not about black violence in a academic office, but about white violence in a voting machine.

What "Human Beings" Can Do

"My God, how could human beings do a thing like this?"

This anguished question came from the haggard lips of Dr. Grayson Kirk, president of one of the world's greatest and most enlightened universities, as he finally stood back in the office of the president after the passage of the new week by students interested in changing certain Columbia policies.

Back in his own office, he was, as he spoke, looking over the water at his uninvited guests had left behind them. It was, of course, a room which had once held all the dignity, prestige, and authority of one of the highest positions in the educational world. Now it was an intentional shambles.

"My God," asked Dr. Kirk, "how could human beings do a thing like this?"

It is impossible not to understand and share the pathos and shock of such a question.

Unfortunately, there is also a terrible answer—an answer of terrible parallels and explanations.

There are other things that "human beings" do that are equally shocking and weighed in the rightly sensitive mind of each.

"Human beings," for instance, have maintained the social and economic order which has prevailed in this country for the last hundred years. "Human beings" have perpetrated the shames and litters and the callous misery of certain living conditions in this country. They have stood fiercely and unreasonably against the natural rights of other human beings who happened to be of a different culture or color. Many things of which "human beings" are capable. And some of the most important things of which "human beings" are capable are not acts of commission or visible or defensible wrongdoing, or inflicting or wrong, but things of omission, of not moving or acting in one way or another.

Dr. Grayson Kirk no more deserves to have the heritage of all this come down and settle heavily at his particular academic office than any individual Negro deserves to be born into a world of lingering discrimination and denial of race and equal opportunity.

No Draft, But A Need

It would be nonsense to pretend that there was a draft for Governor Nelson Rockefeller, which he has now answered by changing his mind, after changed events, and deciding to fight for the Republican nomination for the Presidency.

There was no draft blowing hard, or tugging at him. But there was a need. The party obviously needed its opportunity for a choice, just as badly as the Democratic party had needed its opportunity for a choice when Senator Eugene McCarthy first decided on his supposedly bold venture into the arena.

And if there was a need, in the party and in the nation, for Republicans to have at least some illusion of a choice this year, then there was a need for Governor Rockefeller to come forward and provide it, simply because, in the party circumstances, there was no one else who could make the role of an alternative sense serious.

Governor Rockefeller does stand as the one possibility who, with all the routine apparatus of modern campaigning in reserve—the money, the brand trust for "position papers," the sound home political base in New York State and its Republican organization, and the nucleus organization of hard-hitting experienced organization professionals—is

Inside Report
 By Rowland Evans Jr. Connecticut Yankee
 Robert D. Novak By A.H.O.

There is obviously now in order and prospect a beautiful scene of accommodations between Democratic State Chairman John Bailey and that rather nondescript crew of intellectual amateurs who came up with their surprising defeat of organization former in the recent primary battle.

Disparaging with the unit rule, which was labeled heresy, but Senator Rockefeller dared suggest, it before the primaries were held, had now become a respectable courtesy to the political realities of the day.

The naughty insurgents who were beyond the pale while they were daring to campaign against the organization have now been made respectable because they have displayed the practical muscle of a few victories at the primary poll.

And those presumptuous amateurs who dared enter politics as if it were a game anybody could play are about to be invited into the working fold, and given a taste of what it means to take the game seriously instead of a one-time lark.

In fact, now that the primary battle is over, and other developments relieved State Chairman Bailey of any sharp responsibility to keep any particular presidential preference in the front spot in Connecticut, one can almost see Bailey congratulating himself on the audacious influx, after all these boring, monotonous years in which his own organization seemed to grow old and tired, of the new fresh blood of the 1968 McCarthyites.

Imagine, he must be telling his own jaded mental reserves, just imagine a group of people so fervent they just want to work for somebody for nothing!

Imagine, he must be marveling in Berlin, he must be amazed to find himself possessed of some practical political power, like the ability to claim seats on the inner sanctum Democratic State Central Committee, and not really knowing

A Thought for Today

"Everyone should carefully observe what his heart draws him to, and then choose this way with all his strength." — Martin Luther

Another fact of our existence as human beings is that we all choose a commitment. It may be that our commitment is to mediocrity, but if a man will follow the instincts of his heart and commit himself utterly to the best that he knows, he will find this is his religious dedication. This is what will sustain in the dark night of the soul.

Columbia Town Post Office Takes Over Chestnut Hill Rural Route

Local residents who have been receiving mail through the Chestnut Hill rural route will be served by the Columbia Post Office beginning Saturday, Mrs. Mrs. Sorechi, postmaster, said yesterday.

Mrs. Sorechi added that Mrs. Olive Lester of Cherry Valley will be the auxiliary rural mail carrier to assist Roy Simpson.

Mrs. Lester will have 277 patrons to serve in the South end of town, Doubleday Rd. and the route east of Rt. 17 from Rt. 66 to the Willimantic line on Rt. 4. This was Simpson's afternoon route.

Simpson will continue his morning route and add the 80 families affected by the mail change. He will serve 478 patrons.

Mrs. Sorechi asks that the new patrons mark their mailboxes for identification and notify magazine publishers and correspondents of the change in mailing address.

The postmaster said there is a need for a second substitute carrier and she welcomes applications.

New Haven Strike Action Called Off By Teachers

NEW HAVEN (AP) — The New Haven Federation of Teachers called off its strike action against the city's public schools.

The teachers struck briefly at the scheduled start of classes, setting up picket lines at the schools. The union's "retreat" of its strike action was called off by a new contract. Classes at Sheridani Junior High School were suspended for the day when some pupils became unruly and smashed about 10 to 15 door windows.

Principal Abraham A. Fisher said that without the proper supervision of youngsters by teachers, it was deemed to shut the school for the day.

No one was reported hurt.

Anthony Annunzio, executive vice president of the teachers' federation said the union and the Board of Education "reached an agreement on a new contract, which will be presented to the teachers."

"In view of this fact," he said, "we ask that all teachers report to their respective schools immediately." He said no reprisals would be taken against any of the teachers who participated in the strike.

After an all-night mediation session in Hartford between the federation and the State Board of Education, Superintendent of Schools John A. Santini announced that the schools would be open today and that if too many teachers stayed out, the schools would be dismissed at 1 p.m.

The schools were not immediately dismissed, but the number of the 1,200 teachers in the school system took part in the morning strike.

Asked why pickets were at the school's this morning, said the action by the teachers was not for more money, he said, it was for recognition of the union's negotiating committee to the school board. He said the teachers' action was not a "fact sheet" and that he would not be more money, he said, it was for recognition of the union's negotiating committee to the school board.

The union, he said, changed its mind when the school board decided to negotiate.

The talks in Hartford began at 10 a.m. Wednesday and continued until 10:30 a.m. Thursday.

An earlier proposed contract had been rejected previously by the teachers.

Robert Satter, lawyer for the federation, said the talks left both sides "far apart."

About 500 teachers took part Wednesday night in a federation-sponsored rally to reconfirm their support of the strike. Picket signs and assignments were distributed at the rally.

The picket session at Hartford's Otis, listed by the national tax agency as having a net income of $2,000, said today that "Life was a constant race against the other fellow." The regular meeting of the group will be held Monday afternoon at 8 p.m. in the town hall.

Otis, 36, had an income of $1,700.50 last year.

State Seeks Park Land

HARTFORD (AP)—The state is huddling with towns along the Connecticut River over the possible purchase of 22-miles of abandoned New Haven Railroad land for eventual recreational use.

Commissioner Joseph N. Gill of the State Department of Agriculture said Wednesday that an ideal place for "big" fishing and hunting — maybe even a scenic railway. The state will submit a bid to the New Haven Railroad trustees by May 24 for the entire 300-acre strip. Owners of adjacent land in the involved town and between Middletown and Old Saybrook are also expected to complete in the bidding.

Fund Shifts To Be Made By Directors

The Board of Directors, when it meets Tuesday night for its regular monthly meeting, will be asked to approve two financial matters pertaining to the Police Department's current budget—

The additional appropriation of $10,000 for special services and overtime, to be financed by an increase in the estimated income from current services.

The $5,000 decrease is part of a $24,822 total, to be transferred from seven town departments to nine others.

The $24,822 transfer, in addition to the $5,000 from the Police Department, includes $9,922 from the Highway Department; $2,900 from the Water Department; $2,900 from the Municipal Building Account.

The sum would be distributed as follows: Police Department, $12,000; Water Department, $2,900; Municipal Building Account, $2,900; Collector of Revenue, $4,100; Town Clerk, $1,000; Planning and Zoning, $1,000; General Services, $2,000; Building Inspector, $1,500; Engineering, $4,500; and Parks, $5,000.

In other financial business Tuesday the board will be asked to approve a $7,000 transfer from the Water Department Reserve Fund to reactivate Charter Oak Well 3.

The board will amend its April 2 section relative to West Side Sewer assessment. Its motion then omitted reference to acreage assessments.

And, the board will be asked for its routine approval for an election matter, already required by state statute. It is for designating party affiliation on registry lists.

Reductions Ordered on CMS Rates

HARTFORD (AP)—Subscribers to the Connecticut Medical Service (CMS) will save an annual total of $400,000 as the result of rate reductions ordered by the state for Aug. 1.

The state's CMS, Commissioner, William R. Cotter, ordered the non-profit corporation Wednesday to trim rates in 9 of its 12 contracts.

Cotter noted that CMS had a net operating profit of $1.5 million according to its March 1 statement. That amount, he said, in addition to CMS fees which amount to $12 million, is well above the level needed to meet contingencies.

The commissioner said the present rate schedule became excessive when rates were cut into effect in July, 1966, and began diverting a number of claims previously paid with CMS.

The new rates, outlined in a letter from Cotter to CMS, cover contracts through which subscribers make direct payment. The commissioner said a separate letter to Connecticut Blue Cross, another non-profit medical plan, and the Stamford Construction Co., Newington.

Cotter said the $22 million reserve fund maintained by Blue Cross is "more than adequate" for meeting contingencies. More study is needed, he added, because of the current increase in hospital costs.

Vernon CAP Cadets Promoted

Five cadets of the Rockville Area Cadet Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol have received promotions.

These include: Michael Narvese to cadet first lieutenant; John Pozzato to cadet third class; Jacques Desauteraux to cadet second class; William James to cadet staff sergeant; and William Duprey to cadet sergeant.

Staff positions awarded included Michael Landman and William Duprey to flight sergeants; John Pozzato and Jeffrey Mack to first squad leaders; and Benjamin Scriven, Wesley Duprey to squad leaders.

Three new senior members appointed to the squadron are: Wenhorth Jr., adjutant; Arthur Kelly, training officer; and Benjamin Scriven, supply officer.

The Civil Air Patrol is the only official civilian auxiliary of the United States Air Force. Boys and girls from 12 to 18 and adults participate in CAP activities such as search and rescue missions, international air cadet exchanges and encampments at air force bases.

The Rockville squadron meets every Tuesday night at the Rockville High School, Room 18 from 7 to 9 p.m.

At OES Farley the 9th annual session of the Grand Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, entitled "The Key to the Kingdom Session" was held this past week at the Plaza Hotel in New Haven. Among those attending from Hope Chapter 91 were Mrs. and Mrs. Edgar Taber, Mrs. George Poirer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robinson, Miss Patricia Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Leonard.

Mrs. Betty Munroe accompanied her daughter Donna to the informal opening. As junior past matron and junior past patron Mrs. Robinson served as a page while Robinson presented the Christian flag, and both served as part of the escort for the grand officers.

MRS. AUGUSTUS BUMFORD

From Your Neighbor's Kitchen

By DORIS BELDING

English Chop Suey is a simple-to-prepare main dish which has become a favorite in the home of Mrs. Augustus Bumford, 58 Summit St., The Ridge, also said, was passed on to her by a sister-in-law, when Mrs. Bumford was a bride originally, it came from a cook at a small New Hampshire inn who improvised one day when an influx of patrons caused a shortage of food at the popular eating place. The dish received such favorable comment, Mrs. Bumford said, that it remained on the menu thereafter as a specialty of the house.

Two other favorites of Mrs. Bumford's are Spiced Pickled Beets and Shrimp Potato Pancakes.

English Chop Suey
1 pound lean hamburger
3 tablespoons shortening, oil
1/2 cup soybean meal
1/2 cup salt and pepper to taste
1 teaspoon chopped onion, optional
1 teaspoon chopped green pepper, optional

ing to package directions. Saute celery and onion in butter until golden brown. Add shrimp to mashed potatoes, then add vegetables, including parsley flakes, and blend thoroughly. Add flour and well beaten egg and mix. Let mixture stand for about 15 minutes to permit flavors to blend. Bake pancakes on grill. Hot hors d'oeuvres may be made by dropping small teaspoonful and making on grill. These may be served with sour cream or butter.

Mrs. Bumford is a member and current secretary of the Sunset Club, formerly called the Senior Citizen's Club. She is also a member of the Chamblade Musical Club and a former troop committee member of Girl Scout troop intermediates. Her hobbies are music, crocheting, bowling, reading, cooking and theater.

Her husband is a night watchman at the Windsor Shade Tobacco Co., Hartford, and is also employed by the L. F. DeMars Builders of Coventry.

The couple has three daughters, Mrs. Raymond Poutre and Miss Betty Bumford, both of Manchester, and Mrs. Brian J. King of Bethany, and six grandchildren.

Water Company Asks Town To Abandon Road Near Lake

The Rockville Water and Sewerage Co. has requested the town of Rockville to abandon a portion of a town-owned road bordering Shennepet Lake. The lake, which serves as the water company's reservoir, has had cans and other rubbish thrown into it, according to the water company's letter to the town.

The Board of Selectmen agreed Tuesday night to invite representatives of the company to attend the next meeting of the Board. They also noted, however, that the road is a through-way to Ellington, and for this reason did not feel it could be abandoned.

Selectmen Eugene Wanst suggested the water company build a fence between the road and the lake.

In other business the board voted to carry over a $40,289 appropriation for the Town School Building Committee into the next fiscal year, to pre-empt its ending use as surplus.

Negotiations Resume
Negotiations over teacher salaries for the coming year resumed Tuesday night, this time between the board's negotiator Dr. Daniel Dietrich and the TEA negotiator Ray Edwards, and lasted until about 10:30 p.m. Complete PFD Requirements
