Crash Kills Two Women From Town

Two educational secretaries in the Manchester school system were killed and two others were seriously injured Saturday afternoon in a head-on, three-car accident on U.S. Rt. 1 in Edgcomb, Maine.

The driver of one of the other cars, a Maine woman, was also hospitalized in critical condition.

Dead are Mrs. Edith H. Longfellow, 53, of 19B Knox St., and Miss Marjorie C. Paton, 53, of 169 W. Center St., driver of the Manchester car.

Miss Paton reportedly was killed instantly and Mrs. Longfellow was pronounced dead shortly after being taken to Miles Memorial Hospital in Danvers, Maine.

Mrs. Ethel M. Tangerone, 51, of 29 Harvard Rd., and Mrs. Mary Tierney, 62, of 102 Glenwood St., passengers in the Manchester car, were hospitalized at Miles Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Tangerone, the less seriously injured was to be transported today by ambulance to Manchester. She reportedly is suffering from a deep forehead cut and a broken nose and is in satisfactory condition.

Mrs. Tierney's son, Robert who returned this morning from Maine, said his mother sustained severe multiple lacerations to the throat and face, a broken nose and a broken left hip.

He said doctors report she is off the critical list, but that she remains in serious condition and will be unable to be moved for an extended period.

Phillip Tangerone and James Tierney, husbands of the injured women, were in Maine yesterday and today, staying at the home of Chester Robinson, retired Manchester High School vice principal and a close friend whom the women had been visiting over the Memorial Day weekend.

The secretaries, who were close friends of Robinson, for many years have been in the habit of spending vacation periods at his home in Cushing, Maine, where he and his wife moved after his retirement.

Mrs. Margaret McMullen, another secretary at the high school, had also been scheduled to make the trip but at the last minute canceled her plans because she was not feeling well. The women had gone to Maine

The three Manchester High School secretaries involved in Saturday's fatality in Maine are pictured in this photograph taken from the 1966 yearbook, Somanhia. From left, they are, Miss Marjorie C. after school dismissal for the four-day holiday Wednesday and were returning home when the accident occurred Saturday about 3:30 p.m. near the west approach to a bridge connecting Edgcomb and Wisconsin.

A witness at the scene moments after impact was Mrs. Anita Murphy, a member of the Manchester Board of Education, who was vacationing in the area and drove by on her way to shop in a nearby town.

The accident scene was in a state of confusion, Mrs. Murphy said, and she continued on without stopping, unaware that four of the victims were Manchester residents employed by the school.

Vietnam Rocket Mishap Probed

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command launched a full-scale investigation today into the misfiring of a rocket by an American helicopter gunship that killed six key South Vietnamese officials and seemed likely to place new strains on U.S.-Vietnamese relations.

American officials were visibly shaken and appeared concerned about repercussions from the incident. An editorial, anti-American in tone, appeared in the Saigon Daily News, under the heading, "An Accident Too Many."

As the latest wave of fighting in the capital area went into its 10th day, South Vietnamese military headquarters reported that 600 to 800 fresh Viet Cong troops had slipped into the northern suburb of Gia Dinh, 2 1/2 miles from the center of Saigon.

This coincided with an allied communique stating that 1,019 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed in and around the capital during the week ending last Saturday. South Vietnamese troops, who were said to have done most of the fighting, reported their own casualties as light. U.S. forces listed six Americans killed and 32 wounded for the period.

The rocket explosion Sunday also wounded four other officials, including Saigon's mayor. The Vietnamese were hit while observing operations against Viet Cong soldiers holding out in buildings in Cholon, the Chinese district in southwestern Saigon.

The rocket decimated the top echelon of the Saigon city administration.

Those killed were Col. Pho Quoc Chu, the director of the port of Saigon and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky's brother-in-law, Col. Nguyen Van Luan, the Saigon police chief, Col. Ngoc Tru, commander of Saigon's 5th Police Precinct, Maj. Nguyen Ngoc Xinh, chief of staff of joint operations for the national police, Maj. Nguyen Bao Thuy, chief of the Saigon mayor's cabinet and brother of the former minister of revolutionary development, and Lt. Col. Dao Ba Phuoc, commander of the 5th Ranger Group.

The wounded were Saigon's mayor, Col. Van Van Cua; Col. Tran Van Phan, chief of staff of the national police director; Col. Nguyen Van Giam, deputy chief of the capital military district; and Maj. Le Ngoc Tu, commander of the 5th Combat Police Battalion.

U.S. Ambassador Samuel D. Berger sent his "deepest regrets and condolences" to the South Vietnamese government and to the families of the officers.

Hanoi Aid Says U. S. 'Obstinate'

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER AP Special Correspondent

PARIS (AP) — A high-ranking member of North Vietnam's Communist leadership arrived to join the peace talks in Paris today and said the second phase of the conferences "can begin without delay" if the United States will drop what he called its "obstinate attitude" and halt the rest of the bombing of his country.

Le Duc Tho arrived here from Hanoi by way of Moscow where he conferred with Soviet leaders Sunday.

The talks here are scheduled to resume Wednesday.

U.S. officials are studying the possibility of a compromise with North Vietnam over broadening the scope of the Paris talks in spite of the deadlock on de-escalating the war.

Tho recalled in an airport statement that the talks have been going on for three weeks and he said they are blocked from making progress by the "dilatatory means" of the United States which has refused to halt the bombing and other attacks against North Vietnam.

His attack on the United States was not surprising and ran according to form. His words, however, seemed to be milder than those which have ordinarily been used by Ambassador Xuan Thuy in his talks with Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

Tho claimed that U.S. and world opinion had supported his country's demand that the United States stop attacking North Vietnam unconditionally.

"I am persuaded," he added, "that if the American side renounces its obstinate attitude, the conversations on other problems of interest to the two sides can begin without delay, as our government said in its declaration of May 3, 1968."

He declined to answer questions after issuing his airport statement. His call on the United States to "renounce its obstinate attitude" appeared to be a much milder form of demand than the earlier insistence that the United States must promptly put an end to the bombing. His statement seemed to be in line with an editorial in the North Vietnamese Communist Party newspaper Nhan Dan, coincident with his departure from Hanoi, that the United States "must acknowledge its responsibility" to put an end to all attacks. Nhan Dan said other subjects could then be discussed.

It has been understood from the beginning that the U.S.-North Vietnamese talks—if any progress at all could be made—would be held in two stages. By specification of North Vietnam the first stage had to focus on the issue of ending "definitely and unconditionally" the bombing and "all other acts of war" by the United States against North Vietnam.

The second phase would be concerned with other questions—so far unspecified—of common interest to Washington and Hanoi. Actually some questions, such as respect for the general records of 1964, have already been raised—but in connection with the argument about ending the bombing.

This argument has been deadlocked almost from the first day. For the U.S. side has refused to end the bombing and shelling of the southern panhandle of North Vietnam—all the rest ended March 31—until

'National Duty'

Pompidou Presses Strikers' Return

PARIS (AP) — Premier Georges Pompidou declared today "it is a national duty" of French strikers to return to their jobs. He added that a back-to-work tendency is being noted almost everywhere in the nation.

Pompidou, meeting newsmen at his Matignon residence, gave no figures on the returning groups, so far largely limited to smaller businesses and administration agencies. The mass of the 10 million strikers showed no signs of budging.

The premier said the strikes, now nearly three weeks old, are costing France two per cent of its gross national product a week, or the equivalent of about $2 billion.

"Work must resume as quickly as possible," Pompidou said.

"Peace and tranquility of the country are involved. The paralysis that has lasted several weeks is now beginning to affect everyone."

"We must try to pick up the lag before the end of the year. Today it is a national duty to get back to work."

Pompidou confirmed that the government will hold to its May 27 agreement to increase refunds of the price of medicines. The refunds were cut down by the government in its revision of the social security system last fall, and this has been one of the sore points with the unions.

Referring to students whose riotous demonstrations in early May touched off the crisis, Pompidou said: "There seems

Supreme Court Rulings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The death sentence cannot be imposed by a jury from which persons with conscientious or religious scruples against capital punishment were automatically excluded, the Supreme Court ruled 5 to 4 today.

"No defendant can constitutionally be put to death at the hands of a tribunal so selected," Justice Potter Stewart said for the divided court.

"Whatever else might be said of capital punishment, it is at least clear that its imposition by a hanging jury cannot be squared with the Constitution," he added.

Mulling in an Illinois case, the majority found the state "stuck the deck" against William C. Witherspoon when he was sentenced to death by a jury from which 39 veniremen were excluded "without any effort to find out whether their scruples would invariably compel them to vote against capital punishment."

One of the dissenters, Hugo L. Black, said from the bench that the majority "is making new law."

The court did not deal with the constitutionality of the death penalty itself. Nor did it disturb

McCarthy, RFK Stage Final Search For Votes in California Primary

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rival Democrats Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy, more vigorous debaters at a distance than face-to-face, staged their final search for votes today in California's climactic presidential primary.

Kennedy ranked as the favorite in a three-sided race for 14 nominating votes at the Democratic National Convention—and for the political propulsion of an endorsement from the nation's most populous state.

The third entry: An uncommitted slate of delegates headed by Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch. That line on the Democratic ballot is as close as a Californian can come to voting for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, for write-in votes are not permitted.

The whole show was on the Democratic side. Gov. Ronald Reagan, cast as a favorite son, was alone on the Republican ballot, which will award him 86 GOP convention votes.

Two-thirds of the more than 7.6 million voters in California were expected to cast ballots. McCarthy concentrated on the Los Angeles area today in winding up a campaign in which he seemed determined to sharpen the differences between his views and Kennedy's.

He chose terms far stronger than those he used Saturday night in the feature show of the campaign—a nationally televised McCarthy-Kennedy confrontation in San Francisco.

For his part, Kennedy said he wanted to avoid bitterness in the California campaign, forecast victory and proposed anew that he and McCarthy join forces after the final primary ballots are cast. His winding campaign rounds included both San Francisco and Los Angeles.

McCarthy tells campaign crowds that he has no intention of quitting the presidential race or forming an alliance with anyone.

McCarthy got the edge over Kennedy in Saturday night's meeting in the view of most Californians interviewed in a cross-section sampling.

But the trend toward McCarthy, in comments on the confrontation was based more on image than on debating points.

Few of those sampled thought the session was really a debate. Most said they saw little difference in the positions taken by the rivals.

The American Broadcasting Co. estimated that 32 million people watched the nationally televised, hour-long program.

McCarthy strove to escalate the differences he found at the San Francisco session.

The Minnesota senator bore down on what he said were two points of difference, Vietnam policy and ghetto problems, as he campaigned Sunday.

He said Kennedy apparently is ready to continue U.S. support for the Saigon government if it will undertake reforms. McCarthy said he believes the government must be changed.

"I believe negotiations cannot succeed unless we are willing to accept in some form coalition government in South Vietnam," McCarthy said.

Kennedy said during the Saturday night session the McCarthy position seemed one of "forcing a coalition government on the government of Saigon."

In an ABC interview Sunday, Kennedy said South Vietnam and the United States should recognize that the Communists "will play some role in the political process of South Vietnam."

"But it shouldn't be suddenly our coming in and saying 'you are going to put these five Communists in the government' and then go to the negotiating table with a partially Communist government to negotiate with the

Abby Becomes Hurricane; Aims Wind, Rain at Tampa

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) —Tropical storm Abby grew into a hurricane today in the Gulf of Mexico and aimed her torrential rains and screaming winds at west Florida's heavily populated Tampa Bay area. The weather bureau said the storm would hit at Tampa and cross Florida, emerging near Daytona Beach.

"We are now calling the storm a hurricane," said forecaster Nell Frank at the National Hurricane Center in Miami. "Her top winds are reaching 75 miles per hour in gusts. The storm should reach the Tampa Bay area by late afternoon."

The noon advisory by the center said:

"Abby is forecast to cross the Florida peninsula tonight and early Tuesday and should emerge into the Atlantic near Daytona Beach at noon. Strongest winds will probably be 75 to 80 m.p.h. in squalls as the storm approaches the coast. As it moves overland, however, wind will diminish and may not exceed 60 m.p.h."

At noon, Abby was centered 170 miles south-southwest of Tampa at Latitude 25.6 north and Longitude 83.3 west. The storm was moving northward at about 15 miles per hour.

The weather bureau ordered hurricane warnings along a 200-mile strip of west coast, from Marco Island northward to Tarpon Springs, north of Tampa.

Abby whipped up early Sunday, the second day of the six-month hurricane season, near Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula. Dr. Robert H. Simpson, director of the hurricane center, described development of the storm as a "screwball situation" caused by the merging of a cold front with a low pressure system.

Moving about 15 m.p.h., Abby crossed the western tip of Cuba where she dumped about a foot of rain in 36 hours. Reports from the Communist island said

Fears Negative National Mood

Weary Congress Eager to Adjourn

WASHINGTON (AP) — A jority Democrats. This was clear from numerous private conversations with members.

Although appropriations and other legislative business are far behind schedule, leaders are determined to wind up the session before the start of the national political conventions in August.

Some members are already campaigning.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy showed up in the Senate to vote for a milk protection measure the week before the Wisconsin primary. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has been away since mid-March.

Republican Whip Thomas Kuchel, seeking re-election, has been in California since April preparing for Tuesday's primary and Democratic Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon was here only twice in May as he fought the contest that last week gave him a slim margin for nomination to a fifth term.

The arrival of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference's Poor People's Campaign in Washington was accompanied by some congressional action on anti-poverty proposals.

The Senate acted last week in two areas emphasized by the Poor People's Campaign—housing and food.

It passed and sent to the House $5 billion housing measure that had been scheduled weeks ago, then moved to eliminate restrictions that have prevented increased federal food shipments to poverty areas.

But both measures face an uncertain fate in the House, and there seems little likelihood of major legislation in other areas such as employment.

Although much of President Johnson's legislative program appears fated for oblivion, such bills as open housing and interest disclosure have already been passed. Action also is likely on the tax increase, anti-crime bill, fish and poultry inspection, higher education extension and manpower training program.

But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has said ad-journment depends on the progress of the appropriations bills.

Only 5 of the 13 money bills for the year starting July 1 have cleared the House, one has passed the Senate and none have reached the White House.

The last time Congress adjourned in August was in 1958. The 1960 and 1964 presidential years featured post-convention sessions of the sort leaders hope to avoid this year.

Chairman William M. Colmer, D-Miss., of the House Rules Committee has set a July 9 deadline for his panel to clear bills for the House.

If Congress has to reconvene after the conventions, he said, "We will be harangued with political speeches for the rest of the year."

his home area. He said he's going to put in new wheel bearings but hasn't had time lately to get at the job. Humphrey refers to the Model T and another relic, a Model A, as his "jewels." (AP Photo-fax).

Loyzism Asks 'Massive' Rise In State Aid to Education

Stephen Loyzism, former fourth legislator, has submitted a list of proposals to the Democratic Platform Committee which includes Loyzism's suggestion of "massive increase in amount of state aid to education."

Appearing before the committee last week, Loyzism submitted the proposal for "serious consideration" and urged that he be included in the Democratic State Platform this year.

Loyzism is seeking the Democratic nomination for representative to the state legislature from the 1st Assembly District (Andover, Bolton and Coventry) for the year 1970.

He also proposes that laws on uniform assessment of property for taxation purposes be amended "to provide for equalized grand list which would accurately reflect the resources of each town; such laws should be enforced."

He also suggests, "Memorialize Congress to amend the U.S. Constitution to abolish the electoral college and to provide for the direct election of the president by popular vote, election to be determined by plurality of votes cast."

Finally, Loyzism advocates amendment of lottery laws to abolish games of chance in connection with sale of any commercial enterprise.

Loyzism would also like abolition of the state school fund. He also favors reduction of the state school fund from 15 to 10 percent of the state's gross product.

Changes in Nomination. He continues his proposal to the Platform Committee stating, "We should strengthen our democratic processes by amending and revising the state income tax based on a percentage of the federal income tax."

Under the short range plan, Loyzism suggests amendment of the General Statutes that permits registrars of voters to hold discretionary enrollment sessions.

Under the long range phase, Loyzism says, "Legislative reform should be integrated into the state court system, judges, who should be lawyers, should be appointed instead of elected."

In the field of human and civil rights, he notes, "The latest vestiges of racial or any other form of discrimination must be abolished. Loyzism suggests complete advocacy of open housing and integration of schools."

He also suggests, "Memorialize Congress to amend the U.S. Constitution to abolish the electoral college and to provide for the direct election of the president by popular vote, election to be determined by plurality of votes cast."

In Rome Riot Police Cut Chain On Campus Barricade

ROME (AP) - Riot police cut through the barricaded gate of the embattled University of Rome today and moved into the leftist-occupied campus to break up fighting between rival student groups.

The police action was grimly formal. First an official domed tricolor mast that signified the University of Rome for the third day. They seized control of the school Friday and beat back an attempt by students to enter the campus.

The French Embassy in the Vatican and the residence of the two ambassadors were under similar guard. The surprise of unrest could not have come at a worse time for the government.

Since it's never in, it's never out. Each year the new cars come rolling out with the latest frills. Wow. And each year the old Volkswagen rolls out looking just the same. Ho-hum. But when the year goes by, new lads soon outdate the old lads. And the hottest-looking car last year is just the hottest-looking car last year. It's still just a VW. Not looking up-to-date, but not looking out-of-date either. So you'll never have a Has-Been on your hands when you want to sell it. Instead of wasting time making the VW look better, we spend our time making it work better. And this year there are dozens of ways it works better. After The Debate

The chief thing demonstrated by the Kennedy-McCarthy "debate" of last Saturday evening was the somewhat frantic eagerness of both to be able to cite experience, connection and past deeds or near-deeds which might add up to eligibility for the immense office of President of the United States.

If, like other meetings between the two Senators, this one too produced possible benefit only for their joint rival, Vice President Humphrey, that was mainly because Humphrey himself was not present. For his recital of his qualifications for the office he seeks, although it begins with his present holding of an office higher than any previously held by either McCarthy or Kennedy, falls into the same category of wishful pretense.

He, too, would like desperately to convince us all that he is a man of such experience and stature that the office of President could slip over him like a glove. He, too, is a nice kind of fellow who has his points—but hardly Presidential points.

It has to be conceded, of course, that each or any one of them, if he ever did land in the White House, might then be inspired and forged and drawn out into stature. That was, for instance, the myth we indulged ourselves in about Harry Truman.

But, at this point in the 1968 Presidential campaign, the result of all this exposure to the leading Democratic trio is, let's face it, an impressive instinct to judge that all three of them are quite properly ranked by their present offices.

The Propaganda War Has Turned

One significant and very important thing has already become clear during the negotiations at Paris. That is that the collecting world is no longer in its pre-March 31 mood of being ever willing and even eager to criticize the American role in Vietnam as if it were demonstrably the more guilty role there.

The United States is no longer the world's favorite whipping boy on the issue of Vietnam. Prospects are that we shall be able to stay out from under the cloud of world disapproval of our policy there for so long as we succeed in maintaining what seems some kind of an open-ended peace.

Whatever the world thought of all our original conduct in Vietnam, it was all put aside and judgment reserved for the moment, we, for the first time, did make one obviously real and meaningful gesture toward ending the conflict. This we did in the President's March 31 speech.

That speech put the propaganda burden, for the first time since we began the bombing of North Vietnam in 1966, on the North Vietnamese.

Because it was a policy reality as well as a speech, it made more of an impression on the world than all the years of attempted argument and persuasion on our part had done. It quieted our critics both at home and abroad.

And it was probably the power of our March 31 position which brought Hanoi to the setting of a date and time for actual negotiations.

It would seem obvious that Hanoi, coming to Paris, entertained hopes of diplomatic and propaganda tactics which might revive the previous world approach to the United States. But it already seems very clear that the world is not watching or buying Hanoi's attempts to put the United States back in the role of the villain again.

If Hanoi wants to put the United States back in the propaganda defense position it formula is very simple. All it has to do is to make some concession bigger than we have made, or order some de-escalation more important than ours and then it can have the world directing its moral and political pressure at us again to see how we respond. But the world's very much interested in hearing Hanoi expound any longer on how wicked we are until Hanoi has offered some concrete sample of its own virtue.

And Now The Fabric?

The more we indulge in half-serious prophecy about the speed with which our science of clothing ourselves may now be evolving, the swifter the appearance of new corroborative evidence.

It is like to be on the verge of doing away with the sewing of seams and buttons, within reach of the capacity simply to step into a fold of material and come out with an instant design. There comes news, from Britain, of "tetraform," which is a new kind of yarn which isn't really a yarn at all, in the traditional sense, since it requires no spinning or weaving or knitting anywhere along its road to serving humans. Unlike previous nonwoven fabrics, this new British development is expected to be suitable for widely diversified uses, and it may prove to be the ideal fabric for that man of the future to step into, thereby molding it into his own unique-looking stylish all-purpose, all-climate, one-piece apparel.

We are surprised by the speed with which all this is happening, but happy and delighted about it too. We saw Frank Sinatra and some other characters of the other night wearing some of the alternatives proposed for clothing of the future, and some of it is a little too gorgeous for us. The goal, again, is a one-piece garment, and no jewels.

Sportspeak Without Tears

Early in the Presidential pennant races, it was noted that the major candidates were often slipping sports metaphors into their public statements. At the time, the practice was dismissed by usually incompetent political sources as mere affectation. The use of sports metaphors, they said, heightened citizen-fan involvement, obscured real meanings, and took the country's mind off such grim and complex subjects as baseball and the Olympics. But that was several months ago, when only New Hampshire was in the league. Yesterday, with the results of the Oregon primary posted and locked into the scoreboard, what had been a harmless diversion gave ground to becoming a numbing battle royal.

Hardly had his victory been announced in the Republican primary Tuesday night when Richard Nixon agreed that a loan at this stage of the season was a heavy "body blow" to a contender's chances. Senator Eugene McCarthy, who has emerged as a kind of champion in the use of political sportspeak, found his great victory in the Democratic primary even more impressive since he had begun "40 yards behind the starting position." And Larry O'Brien, pinch-hitting for Senator Robert Kennedy, waved away his leader's Oregon defeat by staunchly reminding an interviewer of past triumphs. "Let's look at the batting average," said O'Brien.

Historians of sportspeak claim that it is neither new nor particularly American, having been a European tradition long before Charles de Gaulle, a rugby fan, derided a recent attempt by Prime Minister Harold Wilson to push Britain into the Common Market by saying of Wilson: "He's a lineam who thinks he's an offensive back."

The current epidemic of sportspeak is usually traced to a statement made by President Johnson himself. He said: "They booed Ted Williams, too, remember? They'll say about me I knocked the ball over the fence, but they don't like the way he hit it."

That statement infuriated baseball fans, who pointed out that Williams had a beautiful stance. He was booted, they said, because he was rude, inflexible and unyielding in the clubhouse. It is not unthinkable that this reaction helped President Johnson to decide to hang up his spikes.

When he did, Senator McCarthy, in Wisconsin, said: "I feel as if I'm in a glove. He, too, is a nice kind of fellow who has his points—but hardly Presidential points."

The Senator was not to run alone, and a few days later when asked if one of his new speech writers, Richard M. Goodwin, might now jump back in the McCarthy camp whenever he had company, McCarthy said: "He's a kind of a professional. I mean he can pitch for either side, whether his favorite won or lost the last primary. Nor does it make the slightest bit of difference to him whether his favorite is backed by Senator A or Congressman B."

This, however, is not the important political fact of the issue. It has been noted that McCarthy has often professed most fully in the Kennedy camp and particularly by his former aide, Secretary of State Frederick G. Dutton, who has been traveling with Kennedy as his personal aide. Dutton repeatedly makes the point that the people, not the professionals, will select the Democratic nominee of the future.

It was a wise decision. For the first time, McCarthy has outorganized Kennedy. Crowds larger than Kennedy's often turned up for McCarthy's rallies. Instead of the wasteful door-to-door canvassing used elsewhere, the Oregon campaign used the more efficient tele- phone canvass.

Yet, this question remains: how could such enthusiasm be mounted for McCarthy after two months of his performance?

It is a curiosity of 1968 that the probable nominee now seem to be Hubert Humphrey and Richard Nixon, neither of whose politics is very new at all. But the strength Gene McCarthy showed in Oregon, when supposedly down and out, points to what can be accomplished in a few years by those who understand the New Politics and the new America.

There will be room for their energy, their questioning, their willingness to act, their fair play for parody, their scorn for demagogues (except their own), their distaste for hypocrisy, bigotry and war. Most of all, there will be room for the wisdom they may have acquired from living through the Vietnam experience.

That's when they'll first be gin to feel the heat.

Inside Report

Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON — The strength shown by Sen. Eugene McCarthy in Tuesday's Oregon primary is still another sign that his, not Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's, is the campaign of the New Politics.

Once again in Oregon, the McCarthy campaign broke all the rules of the old politics. Coming off successive losses by wide margins to Kennedy in Indiana and Nebraska, McCarthy should have been at death's door, according to the old political rules—losing supporters and money and benefit of momentum.

The opposite happened in Oregon. This was the best managed and best financed of all the McCarthy primary campaigns. In no previous primary state had McCarthy enjoyed such a broad base of support.

Here then is a clear manifestation of the New Politics so long heralded by political scientists. McCarthy's basic support is in the middle-class, middle-income suburbanite who couldn't care less, as politicians do, whether his favorite won or lost the last primary. Nor does it make the slightest bit of difference to him whether his favorite is backed by Senator A or Congressman B.

It was a wise decision. For the first time, McCarthy has outorganized Kennedy. Crowds larger than Kennedy's often turned up for McCarthy's rallies. Instead of the wasteful door-to-door canvassing used elsewhere, the Oregon campaign used the more efficient tele- phone canvass.

Yet, this question remains: how could such enthusiasm be mounted for McCarthy after two months of his performance?

New Building Designed For Ex-Swingers

By JACK SMITH The Los Angeles Times

There was an omen for the swinging generation in the paper the other day. It was a brief story in the real estate section, under the heading—Apartments designed for ex-swingers.

It said a new apartment building in South Pasadena has been designed to appeal for "former young swingers." The builder explained: "We realize these young people were attracted to the swingers of only a short time ago. But now we feel they are getting more involved in their careers and marriage and are looking for a more stable kind of home."

There you are, swingers. That old "ex" is creeping up on you. It may never occur to an swinger that he will soon be an ex-swinger. But that little Latin prefix overtakes us all. For most Americans, life is easy and long. We rarely die in harness.

There may be a built-in hi-fi set, too; but it doesn't have to take up part of the living room. Any good little phonograph will do, as long as it can handle these great old groups of the past like The Grateful Dead, The Animals and The Moby Grape. Kees love nostalgia.

The new apartment building in South Pasadena is only the beginning. What we have now is the first wave of ex-swingers. More and more will follow as the generation spawned in the World War baby boom moves up through the seven ages of man. "Shakespeare's seven ages must be revised for our times to include the teen- hopper, the protester and the swinger."

My guess is that all these young people will make solid ex-swingers when involvement in careers and marriage makes them give up swinging. They are a vital, spunky generation, with an appetite for joy and justice and a sense of humor. They have the over- large promise, the glib and charm, and the maddening awkwardness and intractability of puppies. Some of them will never be housebroken.

We outlive not only our youth, but also our toys, our careers and our images of ourselves. Our society is thick with exes—ex-movie queens, ex-priestfighters, ex-killers, ex-strippers, ex-wives. We even have ex-presidents. Surely ex is the cruelest two-letter word in the language, except—sometimes—"no."

I wonder what features these new apartments have that are designed to appeal to ex-swingers? I haven't been to see one. It's already too late for me to be an ex-swinger. I got started too soon in this century. I never really swung.

What would appeal to an ex-swinger, anyway? A nursery of course; a laundry; an automatic dishwasher. There would still be a liquor closet. I imagine, like the one in the old pad, but smaller, not larger, than the refrigerator.

A couple of ex-swingers also ought to have a built-in strongbox for vital documents such as wedding certificate, birth certificate, life endorsement policy, lease, pink slip and U. S. Savings Bonds.

Storm Abby Hits Cuba, Begins Churn to Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Eerie reports from the government-controlled radio stations dumped torrential rains on Western Cuba, forcing more than 2,000 Cubans from their homes Sunday, before heading toward Florida today, gaining strength over the open seas.

The National Hurricane Center warned of indications the storm would build its 50-mile-an-hour winds to full hurricane force—more than 74 m.p.h.—as it intensified over the open waters of the Gulf of Mexico.

Radio Havana reported the evacuation of 2,367 persons from homes in low-lying sections of Pinar del Rio Province in extreme western Cuba. The broadcast, monitored by Cuban doctors and nurses were rushed into the area, but did not indicate how many injuries had been reported.

There were reports of a ton of rain from the torrential downpours. The Cuban Institute of Meteorology said 36 hours of rainfall in some areas equalled the normal precipitation expected during a month.

There will be a dinner at 6:30, and the meeting of the lodge will open at 7:30. Marshall Lodge, 121 Falkner Dr., junior warden, in general chairman, and dinner reservations must be made with him by tonight.

Dorothy Hull Library Dedicated in South Windsor

Portrait of Mrs. Dorothy Hull, in library of Timothy Edwards School in South Windsor, drawn attention of Brenda Gordon, left, of Wapping and Mary Bain of East Hartford. The painting was unveiled during dedication ceremonies yesterday for the library, named after Mrs. Hull, a teacher and school board member who died two years ago. Formal dedication of the middle school itself was also held. (Herald Photo by Buevicius).

Hanoi Aid Says U. S. 'Obstinate'

North Vietnam scolded down its own military operations. North Vietnam has not only refused to let the peace talks here over-look that it argued that the United States has no right as an "aggressor" to demand it.

The Communists don't use words lightly in a situation like this," one diplomat said. "And obviously Le Duc Tho isn't comminatory all this distance just for the ride."

His arrival here follows the return from Washington of Ambassador Cyrus R. Vance, Harriman's deputy, who reported to President Johnson last week on the state of the discussions. Vance said he told Johnson the road ahead looked long and difficult but that he was not discouraged.

He said he brought no new instructions to the delegation here, and he said the President was not discouraged by the difficulties ahead.

The talks are going into their fourth week and six meetings have been held. The sessions have averaged about four hours a day and the only progress so far noted by the Americans is that the atmosphere is a little more cordial.

At the last session Friday tea and soft drinks were served during a 15-minute break. It was the first moment of social relaxation in the conference.

France Withdraws Millions

PARIS (AP)—France is withdrawing $745 million today from the International Monetary Fund following a slump in its gold and foreign currency reserves due to the strike wave that has paralyzed the country since mid-May.

French reserves had dropped $28.6 million to $3,720,800 on May 31, the Finance Ministry said.

Government officials seemed confident that Paris had averted a crisis by the withdrawal of the money.

The Paris stock exchange, which had been closed since the strike, opened today.

'Doublebluff' Game in France

PARIS—The two main political forces in France, President Charles De Gaulle and the Communist Party, are now trying to extricate themselves from a dangerous game of double bluff which threatened the country with civil war.

They have agreed to take part in the elections and promised to do nothing to impede them.

But an "accident," as French officials put it, could still lead to violence.

The Communists and the Gaullist regime, while not trying to block this retreat, were bluffing for the gallery.

De Gaulle did not want a showdown with the Communists, though he talks of a "totalitarian dictatorship."

'Doublebluff' Game in France

PARIS—The two main political forces in France, President Charles De Gaulle and the Communist Party, are now trying to extricate themselves from a dangerous game of double bluff which threatened the country with civil war.

They have agreed to take part in the elections and promised to do nothing to impede them.

But an "accident," as French officials put it, could still lead to violence.

The Communists and the Gaullist regime, while not trying to block this retreat, were bluffing for the gallery.

De Gaulle did not want a showdown with the Communists, though he talks of a "totalitarian dictatorship."

France Withdraws Millions

PARIS (AP)—France is withdrawing $745 million today from the International Monetary Fund following a slump in its gold and foreign currency reserves due to the strike wave that has paralyzed the country since mid-May.

French reserves had dropped $28.6 million to $3,720,800 on May 31, the Finance Ministry said.

Government officials seemed confident that Paris had averted a crisis by the withdrawal of the money.
