Kennedy Dies, Burial to Be At Arlington

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, felled like his President brother by an assassin's bullet, died early today.
His mourning family prepared to take his body home to New York, across the nation Kennedy had hoped to lead as President. And on Saturday, the senator is to be buried in Arlington National Cemetery, probably at the hilltop plot which is the resting place of his brother, the late John F. Kennedy.
Other Stories on Page 11
Robert Kennedy, 42, never regained consciousness, never showed signs of recovery after a savage burst of revolver fire sent a bullet plunging into his brain at the pinnacle of his own campaign for the White House.
Kennedy's pregnant wife, Ethel, at his bedside, died at 1:44 a.m. P.D.T. little more than 24 hours after the assault at the Los Angeles airport.
Kennedy's body was to be flown from Los Angeles to New York later today on a plane provided by the White House.
Pierre Salinger, former presidential press secretary, said the body would be in state Friday at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City.
A requiem mass will be held there Saturday morning, Salinger said Kennedy would be buried late Saturday in Arlington, across the Potomac River from Washington, where an eternal flame flickers in memory of John Kennedy, slain four years and seven months ago.
In preparation for Kennedy's last journey, a post mortem was underway at Good Samaritan Hospital in downtown Los Angeles.
President Johnson, the man who succeeded President Kennedy, issued a proclamation calling for a national day of mourning for the senator next Sunday.
Gov. Ronald Reagan declared a state of mourning in California, for the period through the senator's funeral.
An Kennedy died, the man accused of shooting him was arrested heavy guard at a downtown prison hospital, held in $200,000 bail and taken to Los Angeles, which had been scheduled Monday.
Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the family's lone surviving senator, was at Robert's bedside at the end. Kennedy was surrounded by

Ten Members Named Group to Study Violence Causes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A "We must not permit men named a blue-ribbon committee of ten to seek the causes of violence in the land—violence that comes with fear."
Declaring that "I hope and pray that we can learn how to stop it," Johnson announced his shock and dismay over the creation of a 10-member commission to immediately examine the phenomenon of "violence and night that violence, murder and assassination."
He enjoined the commission to seek the help of medical and social scientists in searching for the way of violent men among us."

Randolph Churchill Dies at 57

LONDON (AP) Randolph Churchill, only son of the late Sir Winston Churchill, died early today. He was 57.
Randolph Churchill, who was engaged in writing a series of volumes about his father's life, had been reported not well for some time.
He was twice married but both marriages ended in divorce. He leaves one daughter, Arabella, and a son, Winston.
His mother, Lady Spencer Churchill, is serving as a member of the House of Lords, having been created a baroness after the death of Sir Winston.
Politically, Randolph Churchill was a failure, but a failure so complete that there was a magnificence about it.
Handsome, brilliant, well-talored, witty and owning the magical name of Churchill, he left Oxford as a young man amid confident predictions that he would one day become prime minister.
The closest he ever got to prime minister was his physical proximity to his father, British war-time leader.
Yet, he seemed eminently suited to politics.
"It was brought up on politics," he once said. "It took it with my mother's milk."
Something happened.
Everything he ran for office against was defeated, starting in 1936, he was defeated.
As an officer in the British Army and the son of Winston Churchill, he was adopted by the Conservative Party in 1940 and picked as candidate for the House of Commons in 1946.

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — His name is Sirhan Bishara Sirhan. He is a cool, close-mouthed Jordanian who fired a bullet from close range into the complex and very hairy head of Sen. Robert Kennedy.
Major Samuel W. Vorty says Sirhan apparently wrote in a 9-by-12 inch notebook about the necessity to assassinate Sen. Kennedy before June 5, 1968.
"It was violently pro-Jordan and anti-Lared," said John Shear, who worked with Sirhan during a televised campaign debate Saturday night, said a New York committee on American-Arab relations.

Andover Registrars Find 283 Persons Unregistered but Eligible

At a recent meeting of the Andover Democratic Town Committee it was announced by Registrar of Voters Beatrice E. Kowalski that the house-by-house canvass of potential new voters made by her and Registrar Elsie Stiles revealed that 283 people were eligible to be voters.

The large number of unregistered citizens was a surprising one as it had been estimated to be closer to 100 or so. As the voting list now numbers a little over 500 it suggests that one of every four adults in town is not entering into the decision making in elections or town questions.

The 283 unregistered individuals will have their names placed on the town office building from 6 to 8 p.m. when the Board of Admissions meet. However, it is no longer necessary to appear at such a session. The application for voting rights can appear at the town clerk's office during business hours, make the application, and his name will be placed on the voting list at the next meeting of the Board of Admissions. Six months residence in town is the main requirement for eligibility.

Commission members include Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, former president of Johns Hopkins University and brother of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower; Roman Catholic Archbishop Terence J. Cooke of New York; and veteran Congress members.

No chairman was named immediately. During his 11-minute address, the President spoke with considerable force and intensity. He deplored the Kennedy shooting and praised the senator's "brilliant career of public service," his "uncommon energy and dedication."

Johnson called on Congress to "pass laws to bring the insane traffic in guns to a halt." He voiced this personal appeal to individual citizens: "Let us put an end to violence dured sorrow enough, and we and the preaching of violence..."

But early today Kennedy died, from our hearts and let us practice moderation with our section between hatred and lawlessness.

APPLE FOR STUDENTS
PITTSBURG, Kan. (AP) — The Rev. Ralph Kelly, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, presided at a graduation ceremony in Pittsburg as teachers presented their students with apples.

The custom has been observed for 64 years and was started on March 8, 1904, to commemorate an historical series of events.

During a bitter, but subsequently successful legislative battle for $10,000 to buy the college's first land, R.S. Ryan, the first head of the school, was fined a barrel of apples by the bride.

Floyd Sumner of Groton was the first legislator.

Upon Ryan's return to Pittsburg, Harrower's brother buried the students' gift of the bride; and James Wag-tracted a similar penalty from Gordon Mc-the faculty and the reversed tradition continues to this day.

The Tragedies Of Camelot

He was 42 years old when he died this morning in the Los Angeles hospital. His brother was 46 years old when he died on Nov. 22, 1963.
 He was, as the saying goes, in the prime of life. He was, in his own generation, a member of a family clan — the happy, tumultuous, perhaps some- times quarrelsome but always fundamen- tally all for one and one for all relation- ship sometimes achieved by large fami- lies.
 He himself, in the role of father to the next generation, had another per- haps tumultuous, perhaps happy, per- haps fatal clan of his own on the way up. His spirited, gracious, life-zealous wife now carries still another child of his. One thinks of this brood, and of the thoughts and memories all its members are to carry through their own living.
 There is one more generation — the third, "building" generation — the mother and the father of the two victims of as- sassination. The father dreamed and plotted for power and distinction, with an iron will of his own. He is fat to be alive and to know what happens to all his dreams even though his famous will is no longer in control of his own body. None of his faults could possibly deserve the kind of anguish which has come to him.
 There is, in that older, founding gen- eration, the gaily indestructible little mother, fighting like a tigress, in the recent campaigning, for the good and kind- ly reputation of her son, whose enemies thought him cold and ruthless. But the country knows her best as the gentle, dig- nified defender of the right of another of her children — the retarded one — to as much of life as she could sense, with- out hindrance from the kind of narrow parental pride which might hesitate to admit that such abnormality could be her issue.
 If it was not a clan of perfection, it was one of genuineness. It did what it felt it had to do. It was not a happy quest Senator Robert F. Kennedy was on when his career came to its sudden end. It was not quite the right race at quite the right time against quite the right people. He was in it as he was per- haps because of an almost hopelessly tangled mixture of personal ambition, sense of mission for the Kennedy clan, and these principles he held which were deeper than any opportunism. He was doing what he somehow had to do, even though he himself could not, perhaps, give any single clear explanation of his compulsions.
 Like his brother before him, he was intelligent. Like him, too, he had a gentle, sophisticated kind of humor, which, every time it appeared, leached away a little of that reputation for polit- ical roughness. Like John F., too, he took into public life some of the guid- ance of philosophers and minds whose fruits he could enjoy and employ with- out posing as a super-intellectual him- self.
 He and his brother will now, it ap- pears, lie together. Some day, perhaps, some member of the clan will be able to serve more happily, and more safely, in a country full of sunshine and called not Camelot but America.

The Vituperation Of Non-Violence
 Our sympathy is with the poor, and our sympathy is also beginning to go toward those poor, ineffective Washing- ton officials — such as Attorney General Ramsey Clark — who have been forced to undergo the visitation formula of the Poor People's Campaign.
 Attorney General Clark, poor soul, had the illusion that, when he agreed to admit 100 of the demonstrators to his office for a confrontation, it might be a good idea for him to indulge in a little advance defense of himself, his depart- ment, and his government. This was, of course, a mistake, and he was promptly and frankly told by the spokesman of the day, that the purpose of the meeting was not for him to talk, but hear what his callers had to say.
 For some two hours, then, while he sat silent, Attorney General Clark had the experience of listening as his vis- itors took turns in accusing him of all the sins in their book. The more quietly he sat, the more violent and insult- ing the language and tone of the attack became.

 The main thing proved that day, we should say for our safe and perhaps inaccurate distance, was that Attorney General Clark is a very fine and a very patient gentleman. We do not think that it advanced any cause to take advantage of his civilized qualities by subjecting him to abuse which pretended he was some kind of arch villain wearing horns. When will the self-proclaimed apostles of non-violence apply their prin- ciples to their own language?

Not The First High Rise Dump

In the midst of Manchester's considera- tion of the supposedly novel possibilities of our proposed construction for our- selves of a high rise dump there comes news from Britain which sets us back on our lower Manxtonian modesties.
 We will not be the first.
 British scientists, including botanists and archeologists, are currently tunnel- ing into the wilderness of a high rise dump some 1,000 years older than any could ever be. It is called Silbury Hill, and it covers more than five acres in an area to a height of some 150 feet. In- stead of carting their rubble and refuse there by truck and lift and trailer the good Britons of the Bronze Age trans- ported it in primitive baskets. But their persistence over a period of time pro- duced a monument of the same general dimensions as that which would be cre- ated by the present engineering proposi- tion to give a few added years of life as a dump, plus perhaps centuries of immor- tality as a monument, to the area which, if it got raised high enough, could even- tually be called Hookmann Heights.
 So the British thought of it first, as they thought of so many other things it delights us Americans to imitate, some- times pretending we are originators, and the original designers of the first high rise dump are, if such surveillance is possible for them, chiseling among themselves and poking each other in their ghouly ribs to see the mystification of the present day scientists who are try- ing to determine why it was that they thought they were building, and why, Hookmann Heights, then, can never have quite the truly antiquated patina of a Silbury Hill. But that does not mean it can't have, in time, an emulion and a new world distinction of its own, and rank as a truly first class reproduction.

"Dear Old Broken Rule Days"

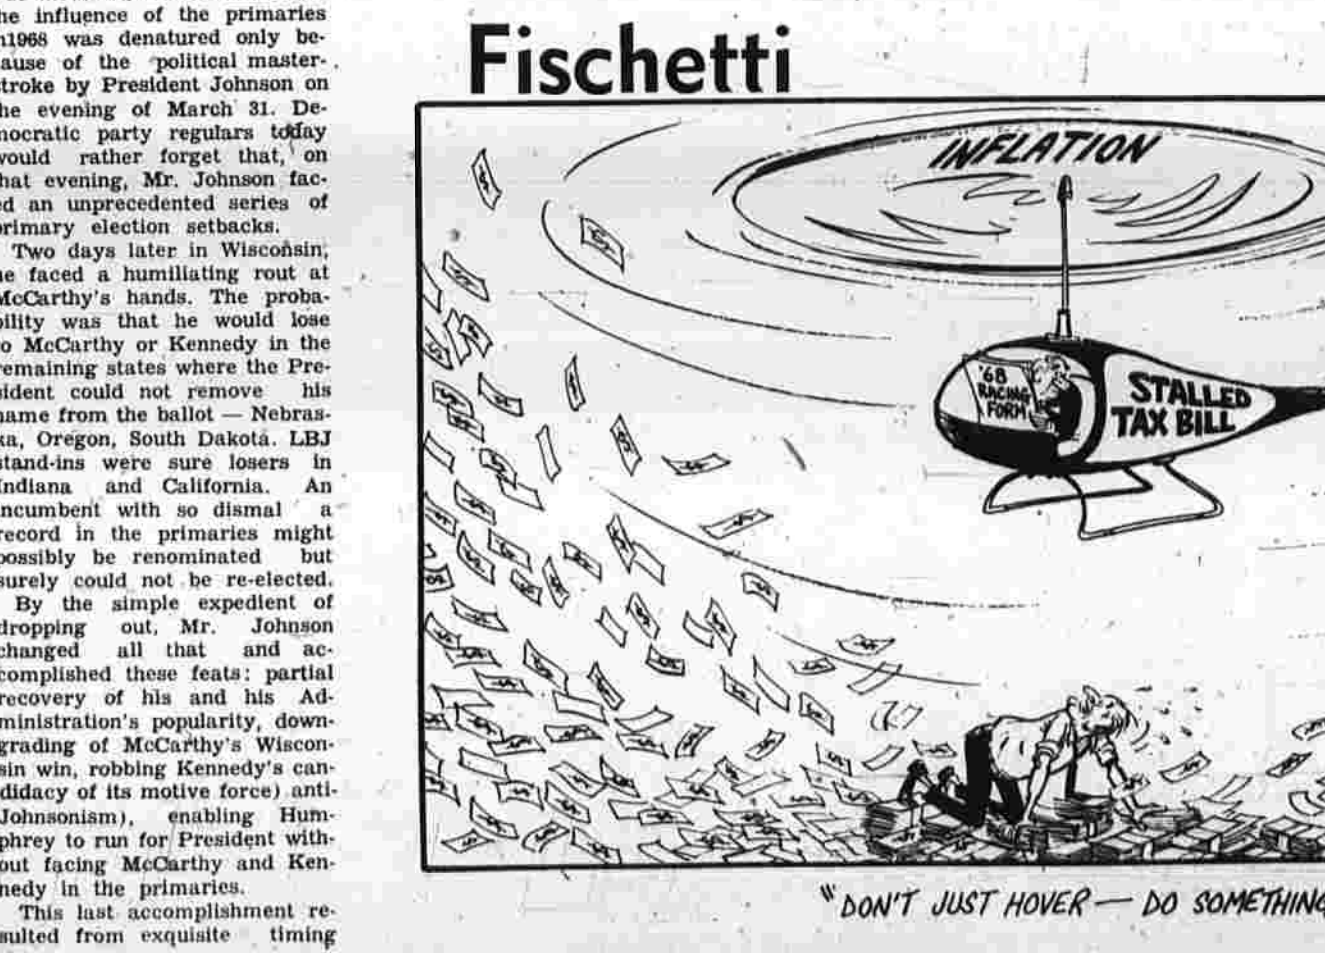

"School days, school days... Dear old broken rule days..."
 That's the way they're slinging it now in New Haven.
 And it isn't funny.
 In a year of turmoil and serious trouble in this city's schools, all kinds of pro- grams have been discussed, and solu- tions have been put forward — and the entire community has been pushed into a realization that school efforts and investments must be made — if the schools are to rise out of their present slump.
 As the school year closes nothing is so glaringly apparent as the fact that strong new measures have got to be taken to restore that old-fashioned, absolutely essential — classroom virtue: Dis- cipline.
 The evidences of a total breakdown of administrative discipline are every- where:
 Item — The Hillhouse pupil who was suspended 32 times and yet was there at the center of the last Hillhouse scuffle with police.
 Item — The long officially denied and now officially admitted fact that petty extortion is common at Sheridan Middle School, at Hillhouse and elsewhere; a quarter at knife-point in the washroom, an empty-pocket threat in the corridors, a lunch-money-or-else holdup in the canteen.
 Item — The false alarm epidemic, the familiar prelude to trouble at the high schools and four false alarms in 12 months at anti-climax but mov- ing out of Hillhouse close to moving up the nomination. But even if Kennedy had won all the primar- ies, these authorities and by school authori- ties, that classroom teachers, out of a fear of being "involved" or personally threatened, are reluctant even to provide the names of window breakers, alarm ringers, and other disorderly pupils un- der their care.
 All of these things add up to a totti- ly impossible educational atmosphere. No child, not even the most brilliant, can learn in such a climate of fear and force. No teacher, not even the most dedicated, can pursue a stable, effective flow of knowledge about any subject.
 In such an atmosphere as this it is al- most ridiculous for the Board of Educa- tion, the School Superintendent, and the general taxpaying community to become embroiled in intense argument about the difference between an $18 million and a $20 million school budget.
 Millions of dollars and sophisticated programs may be relevant issues in a school system that is working and pro- ductive. They are almost pointless ab- stractions in a school system where some children are frightened and others are out of control, where teachers back away from "trouble" and duck the de- mands of discipline, where the admini- stration is hostile to any exposure of dis- order and apparently unable to cope with habitual offenders or constantly re- peated offenses.
 It seems to us that all the earnest talk about guidance, and "enrichment" and the virtues or dangers of tracking, and the need for better courses in the Negro heritage are almost frivolous in terms of the mess in New Haven's schools to- day.
 What the Board of Education, and the Superintendent, and the small army of administrators, and the school teachers, and the parent groups — black and white had better spend this summer nailing down is some rational and workable ap- proach to the restoration of DISCIPLINE in the schools.
 At the moment order, respect and re- sponsibility are out the window — with the broken glass. The learning process can not be sought or productive until they are restored — and run-and-rage is re- placed by sit-and-study as the rule in every classroom and with every student. NEW HAVEN REGISTER

Connecticut Yankee

By A.H.O.

If there weren't some indis- tinguishable tint of griminess in it somewhere, the grimness, per- haps, of people being too seri- ous about a contrived issue, there would be some degree of humor in one of the spectacles on the state Republican scene.
 This is the spectacle — which finds former Congressman Amer Sibal, a moderate Republi- can who fought and died for the anti-Goldwater cause at San Francisco in 1964, now ac- cepting Richard Nixon as his own favorite for the party pre- sidential nomination in 1968, and then taunting former Con- gressman Edwin May, a moder- ate Republican who has demon- strated considerable capacity to live reasonably with the politi- cal ideological wing of his party, because May won't name his own presidential candidate.
 Sibal, in order to come out for Nixon, has made common cause with those same elements in Fairfield County who, four years ago, were positively enthu- siastic for Goldwater and who, therefore, after Sibal's role be- fore and during the San Fran- cisco election, were, in some ways, less than enthusiastic over Sibal's own candidacy for re- election to Congress.
 In that Congressional ses- sion, Sibal suffered first from the general Goldwater debate in Fairfield County, and second from a verbal assault by Don- ald Irwin, the Democratic candi- date who had begun trying to out- hawk wings of his own.
 But if the Sibal of 1964 to 1966 were to have been in the situation of 1968, the routine classification would have been to make back for almost any- body but Nixon, and to have put him in league with the more moderate elements of Connecti- cut Republicanism around the state.

What exists in 1968, however, is apparently another big season in the pragmatic politics of our time. The opportunity for an alliance is with the party's con- servatives, the presidential candi- date with which to challenge the party Connecticut hierarchy is Nixon; and Nixon is, more- over, a relatively easy time of it being friendly with the Elsen- hower and the Nixon slants and moods. He tells the truth, and he could, as United States Senator, function equally well with Rich- ard Nixon or Nelson Rockefeller. But his main position is that he wants to be the candi- date for Senator, and that he is, by a wide margin, the front runner for that nomination. So why should he put his chances for that nomination into any kind of jeopardy by naming a presidential choice just to please Sibal?

Our dab conclusion is that both May, with his indifference to the point of just why Humphrey is the strongest candidate for Presi- dent, and Humphrey, with his rule him out as a non-regular.
 In brief, the Democrats may be forgetting their old credo that it is not the point of just why Humphrey is the probable nominee. The party regulars and labor lead- ers who will control the national convention seem uninterested in who is the most electable Dem- ocrat for President. Since the primary elections are essential- ly tests of electability, endor- sements of these Democratic kingmakers is small comfort to himself and just late enough for Humphrey to miss the filing deadlines for the major primar- ies.

 This produces an unusual mood in the party today. In private, the regulars admit that Humphrey — under prevailing conditions — runs a very poor second to a resurgent Richard M. Nixon. They quickly add that Kennedy, having alienated the great middle class, looks like a loser. They then concede that McCarthy seems the strongest candidate for Presi- dent. But even if Kennedy had won all the primar- ies, these authorities and by school authori- ties, that classroom teachers, out of a fear of being "involved" or personally threatened, are reluctant even to provide the names of window breakers, alarm ringers, and other disorderly pupils un- der their care.
 All of these things add up to a totti- ly impossible educational atmosphere. No child, not even the most brilliant, can learn in such a climate of fear and force. No teacher, not even the most dedicated, can pursue a stable, effective flow of knowledge about any subject.
 In such an atmosphere as this it is al- most ridiculous for the Board of Educa- tion, the School Superintendent, and the general taxpaying community to become embroiled in intense argument about the difference between an $18 million and a $20 million school budget.

Memories of Hebron

The Tent Meeting

By SUSAN FENDELTON

It is certainly safe to say that there is no one now living in Hebron who can remember the Methodist camp meeting which took place here in 1823. Why even I can't, as it happened 45 years before I was born. But in a way we know all about it from an article that appeared in Zion's Herald after it was all over, printed June 15, 1823. We are lucky to have a copy, a re- print. Here's how it started as Rev. A. Lummus tells the story.
 "The brethren were chiefly employed through the day in building tents and seats, but while most of them were thus employed, some of them and a considerable number of the sis- ters, joined in singing, exhort- ing and praying."
 "In the evening there were meetings in the tents and in an- swer to prayer, one backslider was apparently restored to the enjoyment of divine love. At half past ten a. m. Brother Through the day and evening, McKee preached and the Lord everything was conducted in his harmony and order. Sixteen tents were erected. On Thurs- day, family prayers were held in every tent at the dawn of some- thing about disorder among the young day, and Brother Lummus people present who, (putting it in a more serious and at- tentive congregation. Brother McKee closed by prayer, after which the people required to go had a Brother Bledwells' tent for breakfast.
 "Spiritually increased We like to get these names preached and was followed by all in. They came from all around, remember, not local ed, but still stands the old Meth- odist Meetinghouse, only an old landmark now that Methodistism no longer remains in the town.

 Brother Lummus greatly craves in the polis, he would not praise the camp meeting stings now be the probably nominee. But the Democrats have anything to equal it for melody, made no demands on Humphrey harmony in the various parts. that he similarly demonstrate any strength. His party regulars, contrasted with the apostasy and perhaps others. The Lummus camp meeting days of the area are the Smiths, Frinks, Griffins, of McCarthy and Kennedy, is much can happen between spelled Loomis, lately living now and Nov. 5, and Hubert Humphrey may well become the first man in this century to be used low feat was held. More elected without winning at least than 30 souls found the part one primary election. But if he of great price. About 10 back- is not, it is a certainty that the sliders came back to the fold. Democrats will be back using a goody number found sancti- fying grace. The tents were erected and the people depart- ments for electricity in 1972.

Widow of Violence: New Type of Woman

NEW YORK (AP) — In five years of American history, the assassin's bullet has thrust upon the national scene a new type of woman—the Widow of Violence. The shooting of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, who lay in Los Angeles hospital, in critical condition in a Los Angeles hospital, is an example of the new type of woman who even as many Americans prayed that the assassin's wife would escape the same fate.

First, shortly after midnight on June 11, 1968, a bullet killed Kennedy in the doorway of his Jackson, Miss., home. Lying prone on the floor inside the house as they had been taught to do at the sound of gunfire were Mrs. Kennedy and her three children.

Two days later Lee Harvey Oswald, who had been indicted for the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, was shot down during a Dallas motorcade, with his wife Jacqueline at his side.

As for Marina Oswald, she had blossomed into a well-coiffed, smartly dressed beauty by the time the Warren Commission summoned her for questioning. On contributions from sympathizers, as well as some paid for exclusive interviews, she learned to speak English, married a Fort Worth salesman and left behind her husband's memory with various educational and cultural memorabilia.

When she was interviewed, she attended a university where she learned to speak English, married a Fort Worth salesman and left behind her husband's memory with various educational and cultural memorabilia.

Autopsy Begins On RFK

By RALPH DIGBON AP Science Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — An autopsy began soon after the death of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy early today as a coroner's procedure aimed at determining the extent of brain damage caused by an assassin's bullet.

Aides who announced the death said medical information would become available "at an appropriate time." A hospital spokesman later said "a post-mortem (after-death) examination" is under way.

The physicians making the autopsy hoped to determine the exact cause of death, whether it was due to a blood clot, hemorrhage, pressure on the brain tissue, destruction or whatever.

A New York neurosurgeon, Dr. Lawrence Fogel, said that Kennedy's surgeons as saying they had discovered "a sizeable blood clot in the lower part of the brain stem, was torn."

Most of the bullet, fragmented as it smashed through the head behind the right ear, was removed in a four-hour operation Wednesday morning. A small piece remained in the brain but a spokesman said this was not of great concern to doctors.

Medical sources earlier had speculated that if Kennedy survived he might face a life of limited usefulness, and there was one unconfirmed report that he had suffered partial paralysis on the left side.

Dr. John D. Fremantle, director of the Brain Research Institute at the University of California at Los Angeles, said "persons so injured have been known to live indefinitely without recovering usefulness—they become nobodies."

Five Bystanders Hurt in Shooting
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Five bystanders hurt in the shooting which killed Sen. Robert F. Kennedy were in improved condition today.

House Appears Ready to Pass Gun Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, heading appeals to approve legislation Sen. Robert F. Kennedy had fought for in the Senate, appeared ready today to pass a bill that would ban interstate mail-order sales of pistols.

Acting within hours of the Los Angeles shooting, the House voted Wednesday against sending the bill to a Senate-House conference committee where it would be possible to iron out differences and the Senate rifle killed his brother.

President John F. Kennedy, "If we set now, Robert Kennedy told the New York City Council last August. "We can save hundreds of lives in this country and spare thousands of families all across this land the grief and heartbreak that is come from the loss of a husband, a son, a brother or a friend."

But even if the proposed restrictions were already on the statute books, Orin said, it is doubtful they would have prevented the shooting.

LBJ Speaks Of Tragedy And 'Loss'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson issued this statement on learning of the death of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy: "This is a time of tragedy and loss. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy is dead. Robert Kennedy affirmed this country's essential decency of its people, their longing for peace, their desire to improve conditions of life for all."

During his life, he knew far more than his share of personal tragedy. Yet he never abandoned his faith in America. He never lost his confidence in the spiritual strength of ordinary men and women. He believed in the capacity of the young for excellence and in the right of the old and poor to a life of dignity.

Our public life is diminished by his loss. My sympathy and I extend our deepest sympathy to Mrs. Kennedy and his family. He never lost his confidence in the spiritual strength of ordinary men and women. He believed in the capacity of the young for excellence and in the right of the old and poor to a life of dignity.

Vernon
Hospital Sets Techniques to View Stomach

A new technique which allows doctors to see around the hidden corners of the stomach and into the intestines will be introduced at Rockville General Hospital with the arrival of a new specialist.
Dr. Benjamin Adams will join Dr. Michael R. Sharon for the practice of internal medicine and gastroenterology at the Rockville Medical Building on Union St.
Dr. Adams will expand the present G. I. diagnostic services at Rockville General Hospital by introducing fiberoptic gastroscopy, a procedure used to visualize the interior of the stomach when G. I. X-rays are not conclusive. Instead of a conventional lens the flexible telescope-like gastroscope employs a recently developed optical system composed of thousands of fiberoptic fibers which can actually "send light rays" and allow the gastroenterologist to see into hidden areas.
A 1962 graduate of the New Jersey College of Medicine, Dr. Adams served an internship at the Staten Island Hospital in 1963 and completed an assistant residency in internal medicine at the Brooklyn Veterans' Administration Hospital. He spent two years of duty as a medical officer in the U.S. Navy and since 1965 has served as a senior resident in internal medicine and a fellow in gastroenterology at the Brooklyn Veterans' Administration Hospital in Brooklyn, New York.
Dr. Adams will reside with his wife and two children at Hillside Manor Avenue in Vernon.

Tolland
Number of New Fall Pupils Will Be Same as Hartford's

Tolland will have as many children entering school for the first time in September as Hartford, Board of Education Chairman David Cook told about 180 local and area community leaders attending last night's open house at Tolland High School. About 630 new pupils are expected to enter the school's open house at the school.
He traced the increase in school population from 600 to over 2,000 in the seven years he has served on the school board.
"We have met this challenge fairly well," he told those gathered in the cafeteria.
"The Tolland school system has a very difficult problem," architect Richard Quinn stated. "The town can only afford to build sections of a school building at a time," he explained. "The schools must be built according to a master plan designed to meet the rapid population growth."
Scoreboard
The Braves will face the Pirates tomorrow night at 7:10 at the Hicks ballfield.
