French Police Quell Rioting At Auto Plant

PARIS (AP)—Batting with tear gas against a shower of stones, riot police broke up a demonstration by thousands of striking auto workers and sympathizers at the Renault auto plant at Flins.

Elsewhere the French strike was subsiding rapidly and was being replaced by a more orderly demonstration in the main square of the village.

The demonstrators began hurling paving stones and other debris from both sides were injured in the first clash.

Despite a general settlement of the 20-day strike wave, workers in the automobile, aviation and metallurgical industries were still holding out.

De Gaulle is to be interviewed by Michael Droll, editor of the government magazine L'Espresso. The president has been working on his script since

Thousands Pass Grand Jury Meets

NEW YORK (AP)—Tens of thousands of persons from all walks of life filed mournfully past Robert F. Kennedy's body as it lay in state today before the main altar beneath the towering twin Gothic spires of St. Patrick's Cathedral on Fifth Avenue.

Six abreast, in a line stretching about 10 blocks to Grand Central Station, many thousands waited in a 90-degree temperature to pass the casket in the church.

Family, friends and associates stood right over the body of the fallen senator. Among them were Robert S. McNamara, former secretary of defense and now president of the World Bank, Douglas Dillon, former secretary of the treasury, Burke Marshall and John D. Foster, his associates in the Justice Department, and Joseph Patrick Kennedy, his 16-year-old son.

At one time an honor guard of four master sergeants in green berets from the John F. Kennedy Center at Fort Belvoir, Ill., relieved the family and the casket.

Church officials said that the brother of the assassin cause of the size of the church would remain open all night if necessary so that all who wished to pay their respects could do so.

A crowd of about 1,000 persons, many of them teenagers, was waiting in the gray dawn light when the massive doors of the cathedral swung open at 7:41 a.m. Some had been waiting through the night.

In solemn and somber mood they filed by the dark red wood closed casket in final tribute to the 42-year-old Democratic senator who had inspired to be the record of his family to occupy the White House.

Many in the line were Negroes. There were also a young couple who had attended a prom among the early crowd. Kennedy's death, many felt, was a triumph for the California Democratic presidential primary election.

The grand jury was composed of 13 members and 8 men. One juror member was absent due to illness.

LBJ Pleads For Tough Gun Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, speaking in the wake of a new Kennedy assassination, has called Congress to "do long months after the murder of President John F. Kennedy."

He served notice Thursday that a measure passed by both Senate and House and sent to his desk doesn't go far enough because it bans the mail-order sale of only pistols.

When it was in the Senate, such proponents of the tougher provision as Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., urged the bill to include rifles and shotguns.

Two of Dodd's staunchest allies and most vocal critics were Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, whose brother was assassinated with a pistol two days ago.

"So, I call upon the Congress in the name of safety—and in the name of a free America, the gun-control law it needs," Johnson said.

The bill passed the presidentially proposed Thursday and Johnson issued his statement shortly afterward. He said he would sign it if it passed.

Two congressmen urged him to propose next week a House vote on a measure to ban mail-order rifles and shotguns.

British Predict It Will Edward Kennedy Ever Seek Top Post?

LONDON (AP)—British newspaper commentators predicted today that Sen. Edward Kennedy will set his sights on the American presidency.

"He is more popular than any other politician ever established by his two assassinations."

"Today is the long-term future of the Kennedy family," wrote Peter Youngblood, editor of the Daily Telegraph.

"He has evoked none of the personal animosities which Bobby did," said Scott. "Whether he possesses Bobby's political acumen is perhaps not yet proven."

"By now he has made a solid reputation for himself in the newspaper world and extremely well informed."

Saigon Heavily Bombed, Worst in Five Weeks

SAIGON (AP)—Saigon took its worst enemy bombardment of the last five weeks early today. The Viet Cong slammed in 18 rockets which killed 26 Vietnamese civilians and wounded another 43, military officers reported.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland predicted the Viet Cong would continue its bombardment of the city for several days.

The barrage poured in a few minutes after 10 p.m. and returned and some of the rockets landed close to his residence.

White noise of the command center in a Buddhist temple, said that his body, accompanied by his mourning family, was flown to await his burial in Arlington National Cemetery.

A South Vietnamese spokesman said government troops guarding the center, and slight damage, it was the worst enemy

Dan Duryea Dies at 61 In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Mid-manned Dan Duryea, famed for his movie and television portrayals of a heel with sex appeal, died today following a long illness. He was 61.

His long career began on Broadway and continued for more than 25 years in Hollywood, during which he appeared in more than 75 TV shows.

Duryea was pronounced dead with the victory he had over his illness by his personal physician. He had collapsed in the bathroom while dressing, a fire department spokesman said.

A servant who heard a thud found the actor on the floor and summoned a fire department rescue squad, but the physician arrived first.

A soft spoken man who loved children, flowers and sailing craft, Duryea, as an actor was typed almost immediately as a menace. His fans fought the few efforts he made to change his acting image.

Tragedy of 4 1/2 Years Ago Reflected

By JEAN HELLER, Associated Press Writer NEW YORK (AP)—It was a different time. A different place. A different woman. A different man.

Her pose was reflected in her two eldest sons, Joseph, 15, and Robert, 14, who showed no signs of faltering as they helped lift their father's coffin gently from Los Angeles, moved quickly and surely from the aircraft behind Ebel. And Jean's husband, Stephen Smith, campaign manager for the dead senator, also was entirely calm.

And then finally, there was Jacqueline, left to leave the aircraft. The great self-control of November 1963 when her husband, President John F. Kennedy, was slain, did not fall her in June 1968.

Light and flood lights hit her. She looked out at the crowds gathered below and smiled momentarily. It was a response to the photographers, a reflex of years of campaign.

Violence Study to Be Unlike JFK Assassination Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—The view on the new probe but said discovered.

"It has been like an iceberg and now is surfacing and causing trouble that is visible in America."

Across the country another member of the panel, Eric Hoffer, met with newsmen and cautioned the nation against wallowing in self-congratulation.

YOUNG BRIDGE TEAM ORGANIZED IN TEXAS
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Keep your eyes on the Dallas Aces, a young bridge team recently organized by Ira Oren and James Jacoby, well-known Dallas experts. They recruited Bobby Wolf of San Antonio and reached out to Oakland, Calif., for Mike Lawrence; to New York for Billy Eisenberg; and to Philadelphia for Bob Gold. The skill of the team is shown in a hand played recently by Eisenberg in a Los Angeles match.

Opening lead queen of clubs. After winning the first trick in dummy with the king of clubs, Eisenberg asked himself the traditional expert's question: "What can best me?"

Answer: Bid one spade. This is a borderline opening bid, but you vote to bid rather than to pass because of the excellent high-card and suit values. The strong five-card spade suit.

Heralding Politics
By SOL K. COHEN

Tonight's scheduled meeting of the 4th Senatorial District Democrats has been called off, out of respect to the memory of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

It will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Buckboard Restaurant, Glastonbury.

The district delegates to the June 21-22 Democratic State Convention will meet to nominate a state central committee and committee members, to choose an honorary vice chairman and an honorary secretary for the convention, and to designate representatives on the convention committee.

The 4th Senatorial District is comprised of the towns of Manchester, Glastonbury, Marlborough and East Hampton.

Manchester Town Chairman Ted Cummings, being proposed for the post of committee member, may decline the honor. He says that the important thing is to re-elect Atty. David East and also of Manchester, to the post of state senator.

Manchester Democrats are allocated 13 delegates to the state convention. The other three towns of the district combined have 11 delegates.

The Los Angeles Times Automobile occupants have found many good reasons why they should not wear seatbelts and shoulder harnesses. Survival, of course, is not one of them.

For instance, there is the important cosmetic effect. Restraints are not only unattractive, but they are untidy... especially in the minds of upper-class-conscious men and women. Shoulder harnesses, for one thing, tend to wear.

And, there's the matter of discomfort. Again, women find them most objectionable. They express some fear of possible injury due to the belt strap across the body. A woman, perhaps rightly so, feels her figure is less compatible to restraints than a man's.

Perhaps the most valid excuse... er, reason... is inconvenience. They're troublesome to get into.

There are other reasons... entrapment (an unmentionable, but people who normally wear belts leave them off when they have passengers in their cars), confinement (the feeling of being trapped) and confidence (that assurance that careful drivers don't have accidents).

It's really a shame, then, that with these attitudes new car buyers this year will invest more than twice the amount of money for mandatory shoulder harness restraints than is allocated by the government to the Highway Safety Agency. That agency's budget, incidentally, is $46 million, reduced 65 per cent over 1967... a rather paltry "five bucks" in defense of a problem (the auto accident) that last year cost Americans $12 billion.

Next month the National Safety Council is going to launch a campaign against the "excuses" for not using restraints. Its ammunition will be impressive. For example:

— With limited use of seatbelts last year, 2,000 lives were saved.

— One in four of us can expect to be involved in an accident this year.

— But, as effective as the campaign might be, it faces one major hangup. It is encouraging the use of a badly designed safety device which makes it a "tough sell." The automobile industry hasn't found a better combination that incorporates the inertia reel.

One of the major suppliers of seatbelt and shoulder harness components for the automobile industry, the American Safety Equipment Corp., has designed "tough sell." The automobile industry hasn't found a better combination that incorporates the inertia reel.

At present, his company provides such system for fleet and municipal applications, such as police cars.

The three-point restraint includes a lap belt that is used independently, plus a diagonal belt that is anchored to the ceiling of the car.

The upper torso restraint attaches to the lap belt outside the car, which provides for a single release. Detroit systems are separate and require two buckles.

Also, American Safety's belts have automatic locking retractors, either for storage or an adjustment-free belt which eliminates the danger factor of a slack belt.

The sensitivity of the inertia reel is designed at a load of between 2-8 G's. Later, they were redesigned to be sensitive to the occupant's movement at lower G forces.

In a recent report on traffic injury causes, a team at the University of California at Los Angeles... Alan M. Fishum and Arnold W. Siegel... rather ironically that parents sometimes use adequate restraints but leave their small children unprotected. And children, it was pointed out, are more likely to be seriously or even fatally injured in minor accidents. Their report pointed out that children have a higher center of gravity than adults and in collisions they tend to become airborne, usually head first.

Statistics show that one out of nine deaths, including children under 5 years old in the United States each year are the result of motor vehicle accidents—well over 2,000 fatalities per year.

The problem, according to Dr. Richard E. Marland of the Public Health Service in Cincinnati, can be traced chiefly to the fact that standard seat belts are unsuitable for very small children.

The problem... being neglected.

Many children's seats advertised as safety devices are not satisfactory, he said, because they merely hook over the front head.

It is recommended that such restraints be secured either to the car structure or to a seat belt which is anchored, many such devices have been introduced to the market recently which will safely restrain children over 6 months of age. A car bed in the back seat is described as the best protection for infants.

Many Delegates Now Unsure of Choice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy led in death row by 200 Democratic National Convention delegates, many of them unsure now of their choice for the presidential nomination.

These elected delegates had been bound to Kennedy by primary results, chosen on a pledge to back him or willing to stand first-ballot intentions in an Associated Press poll. Kennedy and party leaders Thursday proposed no case where these bonds were considered extant.

A Democratic National Committee spokesman said there is no headquarters rule on the point.

The first vote bloc declared free of Kennedy commitment was the biggest—174 from California where the senator's victory celebration.

Another quirk of the law apparently would have left the Indiana free even if a post-death bond had been ruled valid. The tie is effective only if the candidate's name is placed in nomination at the convention, a contingency cut off by gunfire.

In South Dakota, where Kennedy won 26 votes by primary, there never was any real leg hand. Atty. Gen. Frank Forman said. The delegates were only nominally bound by running on a Kennedy slate, he said.

In Iowa, where Kennedy had at least 18 and probably 25 pledged votes out of the total of 48 at a state convention, a poll was being conducted on where they will jump.

Party headquarters, in response to inquiries, checked with California officials and said death severed the tie.

Indiana, Kennedy's second biggest bloc, is a special case due to a unique primary system.

The primary outcome governs the first-ballot vote from Indiana, but they are disembodied at that point, involving no actual persons who will cast them. The delegates who will do whatever is decided on will not be selected until the state convention June 21.

Another big delegation that stands officially uncommitted is Michigan's 96, which was known to include Kennedy strength. The known Kennedy people who could be reached and would talk said they would have to do some thinking before taking a stand. They were bound by no rule.

In other states where there was a scattering of Kennedy pledges there are no formal ties.

Indiana, Kennedy's second biggest bloc, is a special case due to a unique primary system.

The primary outcome governs the first-ballot vote from Indiana, but they are disembodied at that point, involving no actual persons who will cast them. The delegates who will do whatever is decided on will not be selected until the state convention June 21.

Another big delegation that stands officially uncommitted is Michigan's 96, which was known to include Kennedy strength. The known Kennedy people who could be reached and would talk said they would have to do some thinking before taking a stand. They were bound by no rule.

In other states where there was a scattering of Kennedy pledges there are no formal ties.

Party headquarters, in response to inquiries, checked with California officials and said death severed the tie.

John Charles Daly, above, former newsmen and panel show moderator, resigned as head of the Voice of America yesterday. Daly charged "executive undercutting" in a letter of resignation to United States Information Agency chief Leonard Marks.

Tollard Town Passes 40-Day Limit Without Naming Road Aide

The Board of Finance is still advertising for applicants for the position of road supervisor at a salary of $2,300, although the statutory time limit for action on the appointment has elapsed.

The position of a supervisor of roads has been vacant since the retirement of former First Selectman Charles Zanghi the beginning of May.

The state statutes give the Board of Finance 30 days to submit its recommendations to the Board of Selectmen.

French Again Look To 'Mister France'

By TOM A. CULLEN
PARIS — (NEA) — With President de Gaulle and the unions hopelessly deadlocked, more and more Frenchmen are turning to Pierre Mendès-France as the only man who can pull the nation out of chaos. Once before the nation turned to "Mister France," as he is affectionately known, in an hour of desperation. This was in 1964, when Mendès-France ended the Indochina war and came close to averting war in Algeria in the seven months he was premier. Frenchmen have never forgotten his political courage and now look upon him more as a statesman than a politician.

Mendès-France is also regarded as the only personality who can command the support of both the non-Communist left and center and who is independent enough to deal with the Communists themselves.

Pierre Mendès-France, Francoist Mitterand, the leftist political leader, the only other contender for the leadership in the succession struggle with De Gaulle, is regarded as too weak to stand up to the Communists. De Gaulle, students distrust Mitterand. They regard him as a political turncoat.

Mitterand's critics delight in reminding him that as a student he was a rightwinger opposed to fighting Hitler in the 1930s. Again, at the outbreak of the Algerian rebellion Mitterand was fiercely nationalistic, planning for "Algeria free or France free" and declaring that "war is the only way to negotiate," views which he later repudiated.

Mendès-France, on the other hand, is the darling of the student rebels. Now 61, he is the premier of the Fourth Republic and his share of demonstrating as a student in fact his nose was broken in a brawl with rightwing commandos. That broken nose which men think him look like an aging middle-weight boxer, is a political asset today. During the student riots, Mendès-France was the only politician to visit the Latin Quarter as an observer.

He has also attended student strike meetings as an expression of solidarity.

Altogether, Mendès-France is a much more colorful personality than Mitterand. As premier, he was never out of headlines, whether exhorting the French to drink milk instead of wine or to pay income taxes. Neither was a popular issue and some say they contributed to his government's defeat some 14 years ago.

Both Mitterand and Mendès-France come from humble backgrounds. Mitterand's father was a railroad worker, while Mendès-France is the son of a Jewish garment manufacturer. The family came from Portugal originally, but settled in France before the 1789 revolution. Both men are graduates of the School of Political Science in Paris.

After graduation, Mendès-France developed a prosperous law practice in Louviers. Normally, he became the youngest parliamentary deputy in France and then a minister in the Leon Blum government of 1936.

Mitterand, who is 10 years younger, also became first a lawyer and then a politician. Again, both leaders have distinguished war records. Captured by the Nazis, Mendès-France escaped through Spain to the Free French Air Force as a bomber navigator. Later, De Gaulle called him to Algiers as a financial adviser.

Mitterand likewise was captured by the Germans, but escaped to organize the underground resistance movement.

Ironically, Mitterand served as minister of interior in Mendès-France's 1964 government. The Left Federation which Mitterand heads claims 4.5 million voters and has elected 116 deputies to the assembly which De Gaulle has just dissolved.

In 1965, as the United Left candidate for president against De Gaulle, Mitterand polled 44.8 per cent of the vote and thus came within three million votes of defeating De Gaulle.

Columbia Study Slated On Pollution At The Lake

Consultants will be employed to study the possibility of water pollution, among other problems, at Columbia Lake, according to a selectmen meeting this week.

The cost is not to exceed $300 and a report will be made to selectmen as soon as possible, a seven-man board named to investigate the problem has announced.

The committee has also asked George Peterson of Woodland Vermont to take underwater pictures of the dam, which, according to gate tender Marshall Nutter is "102 years old and beat up."

Nutter said he had been having trouble sealing the dam tightly.

Peterson, who made sketches by feeling the timber making up the dam, said the timber is broken in the middle. The bottom, he found, was littered with rocks, bottles and other debris. Peterson felt the stands should be replaced in order to close the gate properly.

Theodore Brindman, an engineer, has been engaged to draw plans of the dam and will meet with selectmen June 15 for further discussion.

Decrease Noted In Idle Claims

A 5.6 per cent drop in unemployment compensation claims was reported for last week in the Manchester office of the State Labor Department.

The totals were 461 claims for the week ending June 1, compared to 478 for the week ending May 25, for a drop of 27.

Statewide claims decreased by 1,366 last week, to a 20,300 total. The figure was 18,927 for the corresponding week last year.

Bridgeport, with 2,773 claims, was the state leader last week. It was followed by New Haven with 2,077, Hartford with 2,029, Waterbury with 2,474, New Britain with 1,150, and Meriden with 1,004.

Manchester retained its 16th position among the state's 20 offices.

Spiller

Just when American civilization has begun adjusting itself fairly well to the concept of the seven, eight, nine or even 10 year minimum for higher education, along comes a presumed authority on graduate work, Dr. Gustave A. H. Head, of the Council of Graduate Schools in the U.S., and offers to upset everything.

His name, apparently, is a specialized one. It seems he is interested in the problem of producing more college teachers at a swifter rate. And it was in order to handle this particular specialized problem that he launched his discussion, at the University of Connecticut Commencement the other day, of the possibility of organizing what he calls a "five year doctoral program" in our universities.

His seal in a particular cause can be understood. That doesn't mean, however, that it can be approved or condoned.
If there can be a five year doctoral program for one purpose, sooner or later somebody else will want to shorten the time required for other degrees for other purposes.

If standards are allowed to be adjusted and lowered for one to achieve it will be increasingly difficult to keep them high elsewhere.
It seems especially important that the whole picture of the whole American life be kept in mind, and that the occasional development of a particular emergency in some particular field—like a temporary shortage of teachers on the college level—be balanced against the welfare and balance of the national life as a whole.

We have, by moving very swiftly in the past few years, now reached a state of educational affairs where we have as many young people in graduate schools, spending an average of seven years on higher education, as we have in our collegiate undergraduate classes two decades ago.

This gives our young people something to do with themselves, and something to revolt against, during those early formative years when they might otherwise be graduating into the ignominy of becoming wage slaves in competition with all the rest of us. Although there may be some experts who think that some of the time is being schooling may be wasted, especially when such long-term students take the lead in campaigns to shut down the very universities they attend, there is a little doubt that most of them are indeed learning, and learning well, the great lesson offered to the young people of today.

That is that they should regard the making of a living as much of a problem.
We are a bit sorry that Dr. Art should have said this. It is a bit of a burden of guilt, really, for the kind of neglect which has allowed the disruption to grow here in our own land, in part a reflection of violence which we have visited upon the rest of the world, or at least on one of the world.
The way we look at it, the way we diagnose it—200,000,000 Americans are or are not guilty—has something to do with an effort to answer the question of what we ought to try to do about our national situation. Naturally, those who we proclaim, like the President, that are not in a state of any national sickness, will look mainly for cheerful psychobabble.

And those who think there is a sickness in us will want to start turning all our values, all our fundamental assumptions, upside down and inside out, to see whether they are really valid in this day and in our kind of conditions.
This is something Senator McCarthy has been advocating, quite calmly, in those matter-of-fact-sounding little probes of his into our national smugness.

And we suppose it may be something of that nature that is behind the showing of that same instinct toward a total re-examination of our values, institutions and systems that expresses itself in the new violent revolutionary tendencies of some of our present day students.

Both schools of analysis, both schools of thought, will have some immediate impact on American life. And the showing of that same instinct toward a total re-
examination of our values, institutions
and systems that expresses itself in the new violent revolutionary tendencies of
some of our present day students.

Those who think there is no general guilt—merely the illegal acts of certain bad people—will press for what they consider a fundamental thing like a tighter control of the sale of guns.

Those who think there is a sickness in our whole society will consider the control of guns by law merely a superficial tactic. Their pressure will be toward a passionate interest in the other arm of President Johnson's post-assassination policy—the creation of a commission to study why we are so violent.

Where we end up depends upon how deep we are willing to go into our selves, into our own national assumptions, into the real picture of the values we really honor.

We will not go very deeply unless we are willing to follow the unpleasant indirectness of Senator McCarthy, unless we which, one feels, do not even penetrate the thinking of President Johnson, except to produce an angry and confused opposition and denial. It is not easy for a nation which, like all other nations, regards slaughter in war as a legal and legitimate exercise of its authority, to be told that it has finally come to the day when it cannot teach and require violence with one hand for one purpose while it restrains and controls violence on the other.

We will not get very deeply into the question of whether or not we have a sickness as a nation unless we make some effort to define and recognize as a kind of violence those injustices we ourselves did not originate or create but whose continued existence we do tolerate.
There are violence done to the living of human beings that are done by laws, and administration of laws, by customs, by consensus behavior, by inaction, as well as by guns and bombs and violent pressures or enticements.

But if we do manage to go deeply enough into the analytical, professional side of our urge to do something about our state, then we are likely to come up with concepts and evidence and conclusions which swing all of us away from any easy belief that all we have to do to make America beautiful again is design a new and tighter stratagem for a small bothersome minority.

Obituary

Paul E. Higgins, 65, of Brooklyn, formerly of Manchester, died Thursday at Day Kimball Memorial Hospital in Falmouth.

He was born June 14, 1904, in Dedham, Mass. He lived in Manchester for many years, and was employed at Cheney Bros. before moving to Brooklyn about 12 years ago.

He was plant manager of the Acme Cotton Products Co. in East Killingly, and was an Army veteran of World War II.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ruth G. Higgins of Brooklyn.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 at Trinity Episcopal Church, Brooklyn.

Burial will be private.

Friends may call at the Tillinghast Funeral Home, 203 Main St., Danbury, tomorrow from 7 to 9 p.m.

In lieu of flowers, contributions may be sent to the Heart of Cancer Fund.

Mrs. Charles Goulet ANDOVER—Mrs. Beatrice A. Goulet, 83, of Old Shoddy Mill Rd., wife of Charles Goulet, died early this morning at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Goulet was born Jan. 21, 1885, in Newport, Vt., and lived in Manchester before moving to Andover 20 years ago.

She is survived by her husband, Charles Goulet, 83, of Old Shoddy Mill Rd., Andover.

Grand Jury Meets

First details of Sirhan's imprisonment were disclosed Thursday by Sheriff Peter Pritchett.

Sirhan's grey-colored cell is on the second floor of the jail in a isolated wing with limited access.

But thanks to the efforts of some, concerned Manchester business and professional people, a plan has been devised that may, at least, remove some of the fears and had feelings which seem to go hand in hand with the mention of constructing multiple family dwellings in Manchester.

The new scheme is included in a new set of rules, being drafted by the Technical Advisory Committee, a group of local citizens who have been working hard on a complete revision of the town's regulations, governing construction of all multiple family dwellings, since late last year.

But Sirhan is under the care of Dr. Marcus Crahan, J.D., medical director and also a psychiatrist. Asked whether Sirhan underwent psychiatric examination, Pritchett said yes.

The accused man, he said, has behaved well and has not asked for any visits from his family. Pritchett repeated what other officers have reported.

But he has had very little of either food, the sheriff said. "All security has been beefed up at the concrete jail, mostly because of Sirhan's presence," he said.

The Group Dwelling Problem New Hearing System Geared To Easing Public's Chagrin

(Continued from Page One) Nothing could completely erase the angry frustrations felt by Manchester property owners who came storming into a crowded public hearing at the town hall whenever they hear an apartment complex may be built near their property.

Andover Bloodmobile Sets Visit On Tuesday

The Columbia chapter of the American Red Cross has three important dates coming up which are of much importance to many children and adults in the town.

One is for the bloodmobile visit to Hebron on Tuesday and the other is when the boys and girls in town register for the summer swimming program.

The program is sponsored by the Andover Lake Property Owners Association and directed by Red Cross trained personnel.

The bloodmobile will be at Phelps Hall in Hebron on Tuesday from 1:45 to 6:30 p.m. As the vacation season is close at hand and the number of car accidents rise, the need for blood becomes greater.

Thirteen quarts have been raised from 75 to 100 pints.

Most donors are needed and will be most welcome. People wishing to be listed as a donor should call either Mrs. Henry Wroblewski or Mrs. John Young.

Walk-in donors will be welcomed as always.

Registration for the swimming classes which will start June 24 and continue for six weeks will take place at the Red Barn at Andover Lake tomorrow and the Saturday following during the hours of 9:30 to 11 a.m.

A child entering the first grade next fall is eligible to enroll. The fee to register is $1.50 per child with a maximum of $4.50 for all children in one family.

Property transfers in town during the month of May and recorded at the Town Clerk's office were only five in number.

Two were for real estate, two for houses, and one for a commercial building.

Heads MACFSC

Mrs. Alexander F. Mannella of 114 N. Lakeswood Circle was elected chairman of the Manchester Auxiliary of Child and Family Services of Connecticut, Inc. at its annual meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. Paul Martie, 179 W. Vernon St.

Other officers and committee chairmen are Mrs. Walter Schardt, vice chairman; Mrs. Norman Rieker, secretary; Mrs. Philip Holway, treasurer; Mrs. Edmund Gorman and Mrs. Charles Young, ways and means; Mrs. John Fletcher, program; Mrs. Clarence Rush, membership; Mrs. Hayden Dewald Jr., volunteers; Mrs. William Graf, telephone; Mrs. Robert Healy and Mrs. Eugene Montany, hospitality; Mrs. Gordon Wilson, publicity; and Mrs. Fred Gayer, Home Show.

The new elected chairman has been president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Manchester Memorial Hospital, the Manchester Garden Club, the Cosmoopolite Club, and the Manchester Public Health Nurses Association.

Miss Margaret Parker, director of the Northeast office of the Child and Family Services, Inc., Manchester, spoke briefly.

Now all items on plans approved by the commission are not included as requirements for the building permit, resulting in regulations without teeth.

Now, a builder who says he has a swimming pool next to his apartment and fails to do so after they have been built, might be able to get away with it. The new rule would not let him.

Of course the new regulations have not yet been implemented. They must first be presented to the commission by the committee and then come up for a public hearing before they can be adopted.

This process should be undertaken within the next 60 days.

Manchester Area Truck Flips, Driver Held

A Rockville man was arrested last night in Bolton by state police after his pick-up truck flipped over on North Rd.

Robert L. Ouellette, 61 West Rd., was charged with failure to drive in an established lane after his truck hit a family shoulder when he was driving on North Rd.

Sirhan is "totally noncommittal to our personnel," the sheriff said.

He says he is Christian, not a Muslim," said Pritchett.

Driver Avoids Serious Crash As Brakes Fail

A Manchester woman steering her car into a stop sign and utility pole on Broad St. and Oliver Rd. early this morning to prevent her brakes failed.

The woman, Lucille W. Martin, 5 Great Rd., said she was driving east on Oliver Rd., approaching the Broad St. intersection when she applied her brakes to slow down and found they were not working.

She then decided to steer the car into the stop sign and pole rather than allow it to cross the intersection, possibly creating a more serious accident.

Martin was alone at the time and was not injured in the crash.

Police later examined her 1961 Buick and found that there was a malfunction in the brake system, which prevented her from stopping.

The accident occurred at 12:45 a.m.

Selecting a New Home Can Be Exciting Job

Selecting a site for a new home can be an exciting family affair at Tallwood on the Manchester-Glastonbury town line. While Mom and Dad are discussing such aspects as paved streets, gas and city water, their pint-size "Indians" are apt to be scouting campfires and tracing rabbits and squirrels through the trees.

With handsomely wooded lots—each a full acre or more—this Stone & Goldberg new-home community is enjoying a growing demand of all-supply families who love the outdoors. The site is located on a wooded hillside, both conveniently located to the town of Manchester and the Connecticut Turnpike.

Four new models are nearing completion at the site and each will be ready for delivery by September. Directed to the buyer's taste.

Home consultants from the L. O. Greenough Company, exclusive sales agents for Tallwood, are on hand weekdays by appointment and weekends 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. at the model homesites with visitors and discuss the details of home styles offered.

The area is just a fifteen-minute drive south from Manchester Center on South Main Street.

She Watches Her Weight And Mine

By SOL M. COHEN

My wife is a weight watcher—mine, not hers. On it's true enough that she pays her two dollars each Tuesday, just to be weighed-in, after going without breakfast and lunch that day. And, it's true that she gloats when she loses those three ounces or when some other woman loses she gained four.

But, she doesn't really have to go there anymore. She did well enough to get a pin, and she still eats the fish—the fish that smells up the house, even more than my cigarettes.

It's sort of a coffee-kitch club, without the coffee. Continually, she wants to see how many men show up, so she can continue to nag me to attend, even though she knows I won't. So she keeps working on me—to lay off the sugar, to stop using butter, to cut out the mid-morning and mid-afternoon coffee breaks, and to make sure I eat either fish (ugh) or cottage cheese again just for lunch.

She's happy about my breakfast. I eat my oat, soft-boiled eggs, with lightly-browned toast, and coffee with artificial sweetening, and I go to work.

From then on I'm on my own. When I get home from work and she asks me what I had for lunch, I say, "Oh, nothing much," and I let it go at that. Neither she nor I understand why I haven't lost any weight. I speak in it the last several months.

I've got to change that statement. She doesn't understand. I know perfectly well, even if I hide it from myself. It's got to be those mid-morning and mid-afternoon coffee breaks, and I don't want to give up my money for coffee and doughnuts are happy that they're still alive.

But, my wife is happy that she has someone to impart her weight-watching knowledge to. The women she meets on Tuesday are happy, because my wife is a wit and keeps them laughing. And, the people who come to my money for coffee and doughnuts are happy that they're still alive.

Youth Will Face Narcotic Court

A 20-year-old Manchester youth was arraigned today in East Hartford Circuit Court, 12 after being served a warrant earlier this morning, charging him with the illegal possession of a narcotic pill believed to be heroin.

The youth, Raymond Greene Jr., of 17 Oakland St. was charged in connection with an incident that took place in the Greene residence March 19, when police were called to that address, as was a doctor.

As a result of the ensuing investigation, police discovered a quantity of the narcotic, believed to be heroin, in Greene's room. He was sent by his family to Norwich State Hospital, from which he was recently released.

Greene's case was continued to June 14 as a result of this morning's court adjournment and bond was set at $500. At present time he was being held in lieu of bond.

There are a wide variety of names for the narcotic heroin, which is regarded by law enforcement officers, doctors, federal drug officials and addicts themselves as the most powerful and dangerous of the narcotics. It is called "hard stuff," "acid," "snore," "happy," "joy powder" and "junk"; hence, the addict's nickname of "junkie."

It appears in a refined powdery form, like powder sugar, and is a strong depressant. It is used medically for pain relief under unusual circumstances, and its effects last an average four hours.

Vernon PTO's Planning to Attend Busing Meeting as a Body

Members of all the town PTO's are making plans to attend the October 10th Education meeting at which Project Concern will be studied in detail.

Plans for such a joint meeting were discussed at last night's meeting of the Vernon PTO Council. Twenty persons, presidents and representatives of five PTO's met at the Vernon Center Middle School to investigate areas of cooperation between the groups.

A committee to study the need for a Town Center was named, with this as the major area of concern. The group was present at last night's meeting.

In order that more parents may benefit from the better programs, a goal of at least two joint meetings during the year, which would be attended by members of all of the PTO's, was set up.

It was suggested by Mrs. Marie Herbe, representing the Board of Education, that a program of immediate concern to all parents was already scheduled by the board and could be the first of the "all-PTO" programs.

At the meeting proposed by Mrs. Herbe, it would be the opportunity to hear all of the facts pertaining to Project Concern, adding that school board members would be asking many of the same questions which would occur to parents.

It was suggested that an additional joint meeting could be scheduled later in the year so that the PTO members could also ask questions. Mrs. Kenneth Spivey representing the Skinner Hill School PTO, pointed out that individual meetings might accomplish more.

A meeting of the PTO Council at Vernon Elementary School Sept. 23 will make final plans for the first and possibly second joint meeting.

Albert Kerkin, assistant principal of the Middle School, suggested that an appropriate subject for a joint meeting would be the school budget. In the past the Board of Education has spent much time making known the facts concerning budget at individual PTO meetings.

He added there is also much information relating to long-range programs, especially those on the state level, that should be communicated to parents.

Those present were asked by the chairman, John Krikorian, "What had been the most successful attended programs?" Family life, Project Concern and narcotics were three subjects of obvious interest to parents, he said.

Named to Plan? Named to the Town Center committee were Peter Marson as chairman and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morin, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harris, Mrs. Louis Johnson, Mrs. Sam Justice, Mrs. Dominic Fedeschi and Mrs. David Fletcher. The committee is to meet on June 10.

The committee, which has at least one member from each PTO, will determine whether or not there is a need for a town center in town, by contacting groups from the better schools to obtain opinions. It also plans to look into neighboring Town Centers.

A Changing PTO image? was set up, with an aim of the council, with emphasis on shorter business meetings, more informal meetings and a demonstration on fund-raising activities.

By unanimous vote it was decided to continue the council as a functioning organization, with Krikorian as chairman.

Represented at the meeting last night were the Vernon Middle, Lake St., Vernon Elementary, Skinner Hill, and Northeast PTO's.

They'll Come In Handy This Summer at Camp

Miss Jill Winter of 647 Center St., a member of Junior Girl Scout Troop 897, presents Mrs. Norman Larson, vice president of the Connecticut Valley Girl Scout Council, with camping equipment to be used by girls needing the proper gear to enable them to attend a Girl Scout resident camp this summer. Profits from a recent bake sale made it possible for the troop to buy mess kits, canteens, jackknives, flashlights with batteries, silverware, compasses, ponchos, first aid kits and sewing kits.

The equipment will be stored at Girl Scout Headquarters. Mrs. Thomas Raimondo is leader of the troop. The presentation was made at Verplanck School. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Coventry Teachers, Board Reach Pay Pact

Final agreement on teacher salaries and conditions of employment has been reached between the Board of Education and the Coventry Federation of Teachers (CFT). This fall, a first year teacher in the Coventry school system will receive $6,000.

The Board of Education approved the agreement document last night, ending nearly six months of off-again, on-again negotiating sessions. The progress of the talks was hampered when disagreement arose as to who was the official bargaining agent for the teachers, the CFT or the Education Association of Coventry.

The question almost went to a court settlement, but was finally decided in a special CFT referendum, which gave the CFT a clear majority of votes.

The new salary schedule is in four sections, each with 12 steps. A teacher with a Bachelor's degree will receive $10,064 for a first year teacher with a Bachelor's degree plus 30 credits, or six-year certificate. Minimum salary here is $8,800, maximum is $10,894.

The current salary schedule in effect goes from an absolute minimum of $6,600 for a first year teacher with a Bachelor's degree to $10,064 for a teacher on step 11 with a master's degree.

Several town functions have been canceled out of respect for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. The town office building will be closed all day Saturday.

A Republican Town Committee has canceled its regular monthly meeting Tuesday. This Mancheater's housing code inspections last month made 19 new inspections and made 149 callbacks to dwellings previously inspected.

The callbacks resulted in 148 corrections made and the new inspections resulted in notices to make eight corrections.

Of the eight corrections ordered, three were for lavatories, two were electrical, and one each were for plumbing, maintenance and eaves.

Injuries Minor As Boy Darts In Car's Path

An eight-year-old Manchester boy suffering minor injuries this morning after being struck by a car while crossing the street to enter a school bus in front of his home.

The boy, Arthur Quimman Jr. of 417 N. Main St., was taken to Manchester Memorial Hospital where he was treated for an abrasion on the right side of the forehead, X-rayed to determine any possible fracture or broken bones, and was released.

The driver of the car was James P. Mulreedy Jr., 28, of 38 Elm St., Wapping. Police said Mulreedy was driving on N. Main St. at approximately 8:20 a.m. when he approached the school bus that was stopped, waiting for the boy to cross the street and get on.

Mulreedy told police that the flashing red warning lights on the bus were not in operation until his car drew very near the bus. He stated that at that time the lights went on and he slammed on his brakes, observing the boy dart out into the road.

Witnesses said that Mulreedy was left in an attempt to avoid striking the bus. Police said that the car could not have been traveling at a very high rate of speed since there were only 22 feet of skid marks; however, the accident is still under investigation pending statements from the bus driver and other witnesses.

Prof. David Gidman of the Manchester Community College faculty is the author of several major sections in the latest revised edition of "Problems in Western Civilization: The Challenge of History," published by Seribners.

Before joining the MCC faculty, Prof. Gidman taught eight years at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, summer sessions at the University of Pehawar, West Pakistan; University of Pittsburgh, and at Hampton Institute. He lives in Barshamsted.

New Zealand to Buy Planes in U.S. WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP)—Prime Minister Keith J. Holyoake announced today that New Zealand will spend $25.7 million in the United States to make McDonnell Douglas A4K Skyhawks its primary combat plane.

The purchase is being financed by Export-Import Bank of Washington. Skyhawks to be purchased will replace British Canberra, and the total cost includes spare parts and training of crews in the United States.

He wrote the chapter on "Imperialism: France, China and Vietnam" readings on "Individualism and the Artist—Benvenuto Cellini," and he co-authored "The Romans and the Christians" published in the new two-volume text.

A former Fulbright Scholar, China International Foundation Fellow and Ford Foundation Fellow, Prof. Gidman is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Wesleyan University. He has a degree plus considerable doctoral work completed at Columbia University.

His other credentials as a scholar-author-educator on Western and Eastern cultures include extensive study and travel abroad. Gidman studied privately in Japan, the Philippines, China, Vietnam and Hongkong. Other extended sojourns have taken him to the Philippines, Formosa and Pakistan, also.

In tribute to Senator Robert F. Kennedy all Stop & Shop Super Markets and Bradlees Department Stores will be closed tomorrow Saturday, June 8 10 A.M. 'til 11 A.M.

Being held in the slaying is Sirhan Bahara Sirhan, 24, a native of Jordan, said to have been inflamed by hatred of Israel.

Inside the cathedral, waiting also, was Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, voluntarily coming to bid farewell to the third of the four sons she bore.

The presidential jet with Kennedy's body left Los Angeles at 4:28 p.m. EDT. At 8:58 p.m. it landed at LaGuardia, in deep purple clouds, beneath a nearly full moon.

From across the majestic crescent of the land he aspires to lead, Robert Kennedy had come home, home to New York, his adopted state, where he found political haven in the aftermath of the starkly tragic death of his brother on Nov. 25, 1963.

Legislation authorizing Secret Service protection for all major presidential candidates was speeded through Congress, and the House completed action on a crime-control bill which includes a ban on the mail-order sale of handguns.

Johnson, speaking of the need for a complete gun-control law, said the measure just passed leaves the deadly commerce in lethal shotguns and rifles with "out effective control" even though President Kennedy felt "it unlawful to sell rifles and shotguns—as well as handguns—in one state to residents of another," the President said.

"I urge the Congress to make it unlawful to sell rifles and shotguns—as well as handguns—to persons who are too young to bear the responsibility that is placed in the hands of a gun owner," he said.

While jumper descends, another with pack on talks with friend. Hojes in chute aid maneuvering.

Parachute Club Holds Bolton Outing

By CLEMWELL YOUNG A mother returning along Rt. 86 in Bolton from taking her son to a baseball game Tuesday evening rubbed her eyes in disbelief, but it really was a red and green parachute descending into a field further up the road.

Jumper still attached to chute with admirers. Farm field was used.

One man, with only a few holes in his "sport" parachute landed quickly in the pasture. The other, with a chute more like a colored spider web, worked with what air currents he could find, hovered over the field at shooting heights for what he estimated was two minutes, finally descended with a whoosh and a thump.

The plane went back for three more jumpers, but the general opinion was that there weren't enough reserve chutes back at take-off, and it was getting too dark. Anyway, no more chutes bloomed in the sky and the on-lookers dispersed while the jumpers, their friends and family rolled up their chutes and waited for a ride home.

Home for many of the club is East Hartford, although at least two come from Hebron.

Bob Craig of Hebron was in charge of the jump Tuesday and it was through his efforts and the hospitality of George Negro that the Negro pasture was used for the first time.

Outing, Not Exhibition The jump was not advertised because that would have classed it as an "exhibition," and not all members have made the 100 "free falls" required to qualify as an exhibition jumper.

So the jump Tuesday was an outing. The club usually goes to Orange, Mass., where the cost per descent is $5.
