SAIGON (AP)—The Viet Cong resumed their rocket attack on central Saigon today, killing another 10 civilians and wounding 35. Fifteen 100-pound Russian rockets landed on the capital.

The missiles set several houses afire and narrowly missed the Buddhist pagoda which once was the headquarters for Saigon's militant Buddhist faction.

The attack early today raised the civilian death toll from more than five weeks of rocket and mortar barrages on Saigon past 100.

In 22 days of shelling since the preliminary peace talks opened in Paris May 5, at least 100 civilians have been killed in Saigon and 413 wounded.

U.S. officers say the aim of the enemy attack is to undermine the South Vietnamese government of President Nguyen Van Thieu by spreading fear among the 3 million inhabitants of Greater Saigon.

—To disrupt the capital. —To give the impression of an army that can strike anywhere, any time, and that the Communists are bargaining in Paris from a position of military strength.

South Vietnamese military headquarters also reported three Viet Cong mortar attacks within a 20-mile radius of Saigon.

One 35-round barrage hit the big U.S. air base at Bien Hoa 15 miles north of the capital. No casualties were reported and only minor damage to aircraft.

A second barrage of about 40 shells struck a South Vietnamese military training center 20 miles northwest of the capital. Fifteen soldiers were reported wounded.

Another 22 rounds struck a government military sub-sector four miles southwest of Saigon but caused no casualties and only minor damage.

—In fighting elsewhere: More than 200 North Vietnamese soldiers attacked U.S. Marines in night defensive positions eight miles south of the Khe Sanh combat base at the western end of the demilitarized zone. Twelve of the enemy and seven Marines were killed and 41 Marines wounded in the 90-minute fight.

The enemy troops were driven off by helicopter gunships and dive-bombers.

Similarly, White said for the court, police and fire protection, sewage facilities and other public functions are of some value to religious schools but do not constitute a religious function.

Bystander Killed in Argument

BRIDGEPORT (AP)—An argument on a Bridgeport street erupted into gunfire Sunday night, and a woman bystander was killed in her nearby apartment.

Police said that Mrs. Mary Fisher, 44, was killed when one of the two men involved in the argument ran into her apartment—and the man with the gun followed.

Mrs. Fisher was carrying a baby when she was "shot by accident," police said. The shooting was witnessed by her husband.

Police later arrested a man identified as Delcarmen Quinones, 40, of 187 West Liberty St. He was held without bond on a murder charge.

The other man involved in the case, Pedro Ayala, 33, of the Bronx, N.Y., was reported in fair condition at Bridgeport Hospital. He suffered two bullet wounds in his shoulders.

Police said they did not know what caused the argument on the street outside 530 E. Washington Ave., where the Fisher couple lived.

Mrs. Fisher was caring for the child of a friend when she was shot. The couple had left the door of their apartment open to get some air when Ayala, already wounded once, ran inside seeking shelter from the gunfire.

The gunman ran from the house and ran through nearby Washington Park and disappeared. Police said information from an undisclosed source led to the arrest of Quinones at his home three hours later.

The shooting occurred about 7 p.m.

Stated for Arraignment On Narcotic Charges

STAMFORD (AP)—Three women and four men were slated for arraignment today on narcotics charges.

Arrested Sunday by local policemen on charges of possession and sale of narcotics were Severiana Martinez, 42, Jose Luis Martinez, 20, and Sergio Gomez, 32, all of Stamford.

Bond for each was set at $7,500. Charges of possession of narcotics were filed against Alfredo Colon Najarez, 24, Johnny Ortiz, 27, and Pablo Soto, all of Stamford, and Victoria Rosario, 35, of New York City. A bond of $2,500 was required of each suspect.

Trinity Cites Alumnus

HARTFORD (AP)—Trinity College awarded its Eigenbrodt Trophy for "unusual and significant service" to the college to Glover Johnson, a New York City attorney, and a 1932 Trinity College graduate.

Johnson is a law partner in the New York law firm of White and Chase.

Pistol Permit Report

HARTFORD (AP)—A total of 15,000 permits to buy pistols and revolvers have been issued so far this year—more than were doled out in all of 1967—says a state police official.

In 1967, 14,530 permits were issued compared with 12,850 during the previous year, according to Capt. Albert H. Pettibone, director of the Bureau of Identification.

The total number of guns in Connecticut cannot be determined, he said, because of the resale of hand guns and the influx of long guns, which require no purchase permit.

Two weeks after Kennedy announced he was running for president, Johnson said he was not.

Johnson and his wife joined in a private religious service conducted by evangelist Billy Graham at the White House.

With her eldest son, Joseph, 15, the widow knelt at the grave, bowed her head and closed her eyes. Young Joseph fixed his eyes on the white cross and the fingers of his clasped hands worked nervously.

Ray Hints at Extradition Fight

LONDON (AP)—James Earl Ray made a two-minute appearance in Bow Street Court today and indicated he would fight the U.S. government's attempt to seek his extradition in connection with the charge that he killed Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

London's chief magistrate ordered Ray held without bail for another court appearance on June 18.

There was no mention during the brief preliminary hearing of extradition. But Ray asked the court to appoint an attorney for him, and this was taken as an indication that he would fight being returned to America.

American legal officials said they were going ahead with the extradition process and hoped to return Ray to the United States "very soon."

The 40-year-old escaped convict, who had been on the run since the Negro civil rights leader was killed April 4 in Memphis, Tenn., was arraigned under the alias of Ramon George Sneyd and was charged with carrying a false passport and a loaded revolver without a license.

A heavy police escort brought Ray secretly to the court three hours before the preliminary hearing was to begin. A crowd of about 300 laid siege to the courtroom later, and everyone entering it was searched for weapons.

Ray had been under heavy guard since his arrest Saturday. Wearing a dark blue suit with dark brown checks and a blue shirt, Ray stood quietly with his hands clasped behind him as Chief Magistrate Frank Milton told him that under British criminal procedure press coverage of the details of the hearing would be limited unless he asked that the restriction be lifted.

Asked if he wanted the restriction lifted, he replied: "No sir."

Ray's dark hair was flecked with gray at the temples, and his face was tanned.

A government prosecutor asked that Ray be held in custody, and the judge granted Ray's application request that the court appoint a lawyer for him. Then he was taken away by a large force of plainclothesmen and uniformed police.

It was believed that he was taken to Brixton Prison, considered one of London's most secure jails.

American legal officials in London said the "process toward extradition is already in motion and we hope to get him back to the United States very soon."

Ray came into the court through a side door, flanked by two policemen. He looked calm and spoke in a firm voice.

The atmosphere in the courtroom was tense.

Two benches were occupied by about 35 reporters. Another 20 were outside the courtroom, and about 50 persons jammed the enclosure set aside for the public.

Plain clothes men and uniformed police lined the courtroom, and five of them stood at the back of the dock, facing the press and public.

Ray had been in Canada, Portugal and Britain before the two-month hunt ended with his arrest at London airport. Informed sources gave credence to reports that he had been hiding out in London since mid-May.

"It's been like a caged man sensing the trap was closing in on him and looking desperately for an escape," one informant said.

One report was that when picked up he was bound for Brussels, hoping to contact re-

Kennedy's Death Expected To Assure Humphrey's Win

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey stands to inherit such a large share of the national convention delegates left unattached by the death of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy that his nomination for the presidency seems assured.

The Washington story said, was the major conclusion of a survey of the effect of the Kennedy assassination on the Democratic party's choice of a nominee conducted by correspondents of the Times over the weekend.

The story also said in part: The state-by-state inquiry indicated that more than 400 delegates who had been pledged or were leaning toward the New York senator or available to his cause are now expected to support Humphrey at the Chicago convention, which starts Aug. 28.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, the only remaining contender in the field, has the allegiance of only about 75 delegates who had previously been considered in the Kennedy camp.

The addition of more than 400 delegates to his existing convention strength would give Humphrey more than 1,600 delegates, by a generally conservative count. The majority needed for nomination is 1,512.

Comparable estimates of McCarthy's delegate strength, not including any results from New York, were less than 450.

This left about 600 delegates listed as undecided.

On the Republican side, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller praised Kennedy today in the first public speech by a presidential candidate since the senator's death last Thursday.

Rockefeller, under Secret Service guard, said in prepared remarks at an Allegheny College commencement in Mendocino, Pa., that Kennedy was "someone special to young people" who seek new leadership.

Political activity, its fanfare muted by Kennedy's assassination, resumes Tuesday with these developments:

—Interest in the Illinois primary centers on a four-way race for the GOP gubernatorial nomination between Cook County chairman Richard B. Ogilvie, Peoria industrialist John Henry Atorfer, former Gov. William G. Stratton and S. Thomas Sutton of Elmhurst. Democrats elect 48 of their 118 convention delegates and Republicans 48 of their 58 delegates.

—In Texas state conventions, Gov. John Connally—considered a Humphrey backer—is expected to take command of the 104-member Democratic delegation and Sen. John G. Tower is expected to control 56 GOP delegate votes at least for the first national convention ballot.

—Further Alabama Gov. George Wallace resumes his third party presidential campaign.

High Court Upholds Textbook Lending

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court upheld today a New York law that requires public school systems to lend textbooks to children in parochial and other private schools.

The 6-3 decision, given by Justice Byron R. White, said: "We hold that the law is not in violation of the Constitution."

Justices Hugo L. Black, William O. Douglas and Abe Fortas dissented. Chief Justice Earl Warren and Associate Justices John M. Harlan, William J. Brennan Jr., Potter Stewart, Thurgood Marshall and White made up the majority.

The decision rested heavily on the view that parochial schools serve a secular educational function as well as a religious educational function.

And, said White, "we cannot agree... that all teaching in a sectarian school is religious or that the processes of secular and religious training are so intertwined that secular textbooks furnished to students by the public are in fact instrumental in the teaching of religion."

The majority relied heavily, too, on a 1947 Supreme Court decision that upheld reimbursement of parents for bus transportation in sending their children to parochial and other private schools.

Similarly, White said for the court, police and fire protection, sewage facilities and other public functions are of some value to religious schools but do not constitute a religious function.

Only a Small Cross Marks Grave

60,000 Come to Mourn Kennedy

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—In life, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy went where the crowds were. Now his last campaign is done and they come to him, to stand for a moment before a newly sodded grave on a grassy slope of Arlington National Cemetery.

Nearly 60,000 people made that pilgrimage Sunday, amid steamy heat and afternoon rain.

Ethel Kennedy, expecting her 15th child, came to kneel at the foot of her husband's grave.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy came with her two children, to pray at the grave of her assassinated husband, then to walk the few steps to the resting place of her assassinated brother-in-law.

They stood six abreast and waited in a burning June sun. And when they had climbed the cemetery hill, many did not know where to look for the grave. They had to ask the soldiers who stood guard there.

For only a small, white cross marks the grave of the New York senator, shot down by an assassin in Los Angeles early Wednesday as he celebrated a California primary victory in his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The walkway leading toward Robert's grave goes to that of John Kennedy, assassinated in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963. And the crowds were drawn automatically toward that memorial with its everburning flame.

The new grave is outside the low hedge which borders the memorial to the slain President and is shielded by the broad, low branches of a magnolia tree.

The graves of the brothers who lived in politics and died in gunfire are a scant 50 feet apart.

A family spokesman said Robert's grave is buried temporarily but the permanent burial place will be in the same general area.

A simple memorial will be designed later.

From dawn until dusk Sunday people came. An evening cloud burst drove many to shelter, but many others ignored the rain to continue their procession past the grave.

It was the day President Johnson had proclaimed a national day of mourning for the 42-year-old senator who challenged him for the White House.

Two weeks after Kennedy announced he was running for president, Johnson said he was not.

Johnson and his wife joined in a private religious service conducted by evangelist Billy Graham at the White House.

With her eldest son, Joseph, 15, the widow knelt at the grave, bowed her head and closed her eyes. Young Joseph fixed his eyes on the white cross and the fingers of his clasped hands worked nervously.

Mrs. Kennedy added her flower to the single bouquet of spring blossoms marking the grave.

A massive array of flowers sent to the cemetery Saturday formed an arc on the hillside above the grave.

Singer Andy Williams drove the widow to the cemetery. Roosevelt Grier, the giant professional football player, and former Olympic decathlete champion Rafer Johnson were with them.

Grier and Johnson were with Kennedy when he was shot, and seized Sirhan Blahara Sirhan, the man accused of assassinating Kennedy in a kitchen passageway of the Ambassador Hotel.

Jacqueline Kennedy came in early afternoon. Mrs. Kennedy's

U.S. Violence, Assassination Weigh Graduation Talks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
American violence and the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy weighed heavily in commencement speeches at Connecticut colleges during the weekend.

Yale University president Kingman Brewster Jr. said the nation is afflicted with a "pall of negativity," which the recent killing is but one symptom.

There are a lot of Lee Harvey Oswalds, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff told graduates of West- ern Connecticut State College Sunday, adding that Americans must "make sure that we give care to the Lee Harvey Os-

Ribicoff said that "in this nation 500,000 youngsters need psychiatric care," adding, "and yet, in our state and in all the 50 states, there are facilities to take care of only 10,000."

"We are at a moment when that old-fashioned revolution called human progress is in danger of being derailed by greed, subversion, and an inordinate concentration on the placed power," Leonard Bernstein, who received an honorary doctor of the arts degree from Wesleyan, told an audience of 2,000 Sunday.

"We stumble, we fall ill; this week we are on the emergency list, and in this critical and prayerful moment our generation turns imploringly to yours," he told the group.

Wesleyan granted 270 bachelor's degrees, 130 graduate degrees, and eight honorary degrees.

Bernstein collaborated with Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy in selecting music for the funeral of slain Sen. Robert Kennedy. At the Wesleyan commencement and faculty members didn't wear their brightly-colored gowns in respect to a national day of mourning.

Yale President Brewster remarked Sunday at baccalaureate services that "a special lesson" is being taught in the streets of this country.

He criticized the war in Vietnam and a large and important federal government for not allowing the current college generation to "demonstrate—eventually—that the rejection of 'my country right or wrong' is, in fact, superseded by humanity, right or wrong."

Yale University chaplain William Hoopes Coffin Jr. on trial with Dr. Benjamin Spock and three others for conspiring to aid and counsel young men to resist the draft, was also praised in Brewster's address for "making a contribution to the Yale community similar to that made by Sen. Eugene McCarthy to the national community."

Edward Bennett Williams, a Washington, D.C. defense attorney, told the graduating class Sunday at Fairfield University that a framework for creating international peace through law is to be found in the International Court of Justice, formed in 1946.

Graduates of Southern Connecticut State College were told Saturday that they must meet the challenge of an urban college by participating in the problems that surround it, by Education Samuel M. Brownell.

"The venter of civilization is fragile and perishable," Fred M. Hechinger, education editor of the New York Times said Sunday at the University of Bridgeport graduation.

Hechinger said he agreed with the notion that American society has a very violent and oppressive "history," but added that student demonstrations had the potential of creating good.

John Paonessa of East Hampton was also endorsed by the Hebron committee. He is the only public nominee for Congress from the district.

John Hibbard Named
Applications for the Ecumenical Bible School to be held June 24 to 28 at the Gilead Congregational Church have been mailed headed for the next year by John Hibbard of Gilead.

Some projects that were suggested by members of the committee are conservation education for children and adults; mapping of existing open space lands, and survey of shade trees in the town.

The commission has appointed a committee to meet with Thornton Secor Jr. and school officials to attempt to build a nature area around the schools.

The Arrest in London

It is now clear enough that what was going on in the interval between April 4 and June 8 was hard, persistent, unrelenting police search for the chief suspect in the murder of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King.

It is good to have this now made clear, by the apprehension of this period of no news, and by his being held for the processes of justice, because there was indeed a long period of no news with regard to the case, and because, in this instance, a condition of no news was subject to specially slanted interpretation.

Many people, white and Negro, were tempted, during this period of no news, to notice that there seemed a lack of hot pursuit fervor, a lack of general public clamor, in this particular case of public murder.

This, obviously, was never a result of any lack of official zeal and determination to trace and capture the suspect. It was merely the result of the fact that in this assassination the suspect succeeded in making his original getaway, whereas in the two Kennedy assassinations the capture of a suspect was almost immediate.

Now, fortunately, the false but tempting theory that there might be something different about the speed and seal for catching the murderers of white men and that for catching the murderer of a black man has been put out of existence and out of possibility by the arrest in London. This is a factual, tangible reminder, at a time when it is sorely needed, that this can still be one country and one people.

Win The War Drives?

When the real military history of these first few weeks of truce talks is written, it seems likely that the picture which emerges is actually one of both sides in Vietnam straining rather desperately for some quick military gain to have an influence on the negotiations at Paris.

The only real formal evidence we have now of what is going on in Vietnam is the weekly casualty figures, which have been abnormally high ever since the truce talks opened in Paris.

This evidence points toward offensive action and strategy on our part. American forces would not be likely to be sustaining such high casualties merely from the amount of enemy offensive action which has been reported. Instead, our casualty figures tend to lend credence to the report of the Chicago Daily News, that there went out to our commanders in Vietnam, three days after the announcement that negotiations would open in Paris on May 10, special secret orders to do everything possible to try to achieve a military victory in the war inside the next three months.

This is no more reprehensible on our part than it has been for the Vietcong, during the same period, to be making a great and spectacular display of their own ability to penetrate any given section of Saigon at any moment they themselves select, and there taunt American firepower into destroying another section of the city.

It is no more reprehensible — we are no more guilty of partial betrayal of our supposed good intentions at Paris than the enemy. But — and this is the real point — it is just as reprehensible, and we are apparently doing ourselves exactly what we have been accusing the enemy of doing.

What we have been doing militarily in Vietnam during these past four weeks has been left unusually vague, for what was once the most closely reported war in all history. There was, in actual report of military actions, no valid explanation of why last week's casualty figures should, with 438 Americans killed and 3,870 wounded, have reached the highest combined total of the whole war.

But the casualty figures insist there must have been considerable action, in which both sides were trying to act, for influence on the negotiations, as if they were just beginning to fight.

A Winner!

In Maryland, after this July 1, neither gas station operators nor their motorist customers can be forced into playing any of those gas station games of chance. Maryland has come into effect on that date a new law outlawing the games.

Both the station operators and their customers should find their escape a pleasant relief. For both, it should be like a new start in life, suddenly to be free of a clutter which, so far, has profited nobody except the game companies, who make up the games and sell them to the gasoline companies who sell them to their dealers.

There may be, of course, some patrons who are impressed by some success story like one of the Wall Street Journal news staff dug up the other day. They located a traveling salesman who, after buying a lot of gas and playing games for two years, found himself the big time winner of the sum of 14 cents.

Every now and then some report like this comes along, to light up the gambling instinct among those of us who have been playing for years without scoring any kind of a win. It proves, that 14 cents, that after all something can and does win. It would be too bad, wouldn't it, to have our Legislature spoil such fun?

Scrap This For Anarchy? All men are endowed with certain unalienable rights, and the founding fathers when they declared themselves an independent nation. And when they wrote the fundamental law that has governed their new land, they spelled some of these out in a Bill of Rights.

They knew also that no citizen is an island. None knew better than they that man is a social animal. Rights, to them, were clearly understood as operable in the context of an organized society.

Our Constitution isn't static. It was designed for adaptation to changing needs, allowing the people to so adjust its weights that it can continue to ring true each present hour.

Some of us argue that the Bill of Rights which allows each man to be as nearly as possible his own sovereign, was written into the context of a social document intended to govern society. The founding fathers were establishing a government, not anarchy.

They attempted, therefore, to balance the widest individual liberty with the framework of a government designed to govern with limited powers. Because they did not want government to be absolute, they limited it with many checks. But no sane man can say they did not want it to govern. It was because the earlier Confederation did not actually govern that they created a Constitution that could.

But if they took great care that the powers of government should not be absolute, implicit in this work was the recognition of citizen rights and powers and those of his government. They were quite aware that the society they were ordering was a human society, and therefore subject to human error. That's why they wrote into the Constitution not one but two methods of changing that fundamental law.

Political struggle in America, except for one civil war has been waged within the concepts of a government of limited sovereignty viable for the changing needs of its citizens whose personal sovereignty must also be limited by their union, their sense of justice, their elementary social need for domestic tranquility, and their general welfare.

The American concept of free government has never been that of an irrevocable social compact of its citizens with no means of altering it later other than violence. The American people have amended their Constitution twenty five times by the orderly methods it provides, and can do so again.

There is room within this for the consciences of the individuals to assert itself, but not for anarchy. The citizen is bound by free to govern himself but one man's conviction that he is right in a particular point does not confer on him the moral authority to destroy the general welfare.

Each of us have campaigned for Kennedy in the District of Columbia and in California. Although the vote in the primary here has been all but forgotten, it is worth examining how important the blacks were as a major component in the margin of Kennedy's victory.

The average voter turnout in Los Angeles County was 72 per cent here, and one per cent higher — 83 per cent here, 85 per cent there, and one per cent higher — 90 per cent the total registered Democratic vote. They voted Kennedy in staggering proportions despite sensational newspaper carried over local radio stations, that Kennedy had ordered the FBI to tap the late Dr. Martin Luther King's telephone in 1962.

In the Negro ghetto of Watts last week, at a rally for Senator Eugene McCarthy a young Negro laughed off that charge: "If Kennedy did anything to Dr. King, Dr. King would have told us himself."

The point is not the relevance of the charge. The point is the depth of the commitments that the Negroes have to Kennedy, and what the future may hold, in a nation grown accustomed to violence, if that commitment cannot be politically exercised. The Negro himself could not answer that question today, but there was much evidence of how he felt.

Inside Report

By Rowland Evans Jr. Robert D. Novak

LOS ANGELES — They left California in ones and twos, the skilled political men whom Senator Robert F. Kennedy brought together in his quest for the Presidency — silently, without visible tears.

The blacks remained, knots of them huddled together in front of the Good Samaritan Hospital. They waited patiently and hopefully and their presence was the symbol of a special relationship between Bobby Kennedy and the American Negro.

For obvious reasons, Kennedy's opponents in the California primary tried hard to break the link between Kennedy and the blacks. They found in the Fillmore St. ghetto of San Francisco that their literature was simply unacceptable. They could not get it into black homes. They hit upon an ingenious scheme. They bought thousands of plastic phonograph records of Dr. King's speech to the California Democratic Council last March, granting Senator McCarthy for having challenged President Johnson. With that as bait, wrapped inside the usual political pamphlets, they reached into 2,000 Negro homes in a single evening last weekend. As the vote turned out, it was a futile gesture.

It would be easy, but quite wrong, to judge this unique relationship between Kennedy and the American Negro as nothing more than the quintessence of a Negro politician. And it would be more wrong to underestimate the impact of Kennedy's tragedy on the American Negro.

Because even when full allowance is made for the obvious political advantage to Kennedy, the union rests on something more substantial, a unique relationship that, as of this very day, is quite irreplaceable.

And so the blacks stood quietly outside the Good Samaritan Hospital on Shatto Street and they watched their TV screens down in Watts and up in San Francisco on Fillmore Street and they wondered what they would do.

On This Date In 1776, the Continental Congress in Philadelphia appointed a committee to draft the American Declaration of Independence. In 1822, a Republican convention in Minneapolis renominated Benjamin Harrison for president. In 1898, U.S. Marines began the invasion of Cuba in the Spanish-American War. In 1940, Italy declared war on France and Britain.

A Thought for Today

Sponsored by the Manchester Council of Churches

What Christ Asks

The best definition of faith that I know is that it is reason grown courageous. Moreover, that is all that Christ ever asked us for, and the reason that he asked us for that was because he wants to use us. He needs our help. It is almost impossible to believe it, but God Almighty wants our help, so Christ tells us. Theoretically or mathematically this is unimagineable, that God should want human help. But this is the bottom of all Christ's teaching. The faith he asks for is not to understand him but to follow him. By that and that alone can man convert the tragedy of human life, full of disappointments, disillusionments, and with so-called death ever looming ahead, into the most glorious field of honor, worthy of the dignity of a son of God.

Quotations

I must admit that when I see the beneficent revolution which America has patronized in Formosa, I look a little more sympathetically on its struggle in Vietnam.

In 1898, U.S. Marines began the invasion of Cuba in the Spanish-American War. In 1940, Italy declared war on France and Britain.

"An Unanswerable Prayer" To the Editor, I think that I express the feelings of many, especially students at the high school.

Dear God, Why have you deserted us in this time of great peril? Why have you left us to face face chaos? For what can we do without leaders? They have been victimized by half crazed maniacs, and you do nothing. Help us and help the families of those struck by tragedy. But God, most of all, help those persons so biased and so hateful, who might have wished that these people die. Cleanse their hearts so that John Kennedy, Dr. Martin Luther King, and Robert Kennedy have not died in vain.

Jan Bonham '68, An Arden Road, Manchester, Conn.

"One Lesson" To the Editor, One lesson that we can learn from this situation (the assassination of Robert Kennedy) is to raise our children without hate.

Sincerely, Nancy Solomon.

In Wake of Assassination Turn-in-Your-Gun Drive Starts Throughout Nation

NEW YORK (AP)—A turn-in-your-guns movement has started in the nation in the wake of the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Volpe, chairman of the National Governors' Conference, plans to propose tighter gun laws when that group meets next month in Cincinnati. A Gallup Poll report, released Sunday in Princeton, N.J., said that a special survey conducted on the day that Sen. Kennedy was shot found that the public advocates registration of all firearms as the best way to curb such violence.

In New York City, two state senators urged Gov. Rockefeller to call for a "national gun control law." They urged that such a law be enacted as soon as possible. The president of the New York State Rifle and Pistol Association, calling the present regulation of weapons "a national disgrace," urged that such a law be enacted as soon as possible.

The president of the New York State Rifle and Pistol Association, calling the present regulation of weapons "a national disgrace," urged that such a law be enacted as soon as possible.

John J. Heffernan, president of the 18,000-member organization, said Congress had "ditched its responsibility" by failing to enact such a law. Heffernan said that the crime-control bill which the U.S. House of Representatives passed Thursday includes a ban on mail-order sales of handguns, but President Johnson has asked for even stronger legislation.

In Dallas, state owner E. Crawford discontinued the sale of toy guns to a Dallas police officer. John E. Fletcher of Denver said that the gun owners in his possession to the steps of the state capitol building on Sunday (Father's Day) to be destroyed and disposed of. He said the gesture would be a sign of their intention to kill no more. . . and as a fitting remembrance to a fallen martyr.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Another assassination has brought another request by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., for stiffer gun-control laws. He introduced the bill in the Senate today. One would restrict the mail sale of rifles and shotguns. The other calls for compulsory registration of all firearms.

Dodd said his aim was to disarm the countless thousands, perhaps millions, of criminals and drug addicts and alcoholics and mentally unstable elements who are able to secure guns during the last 30 years of inadequate and ineffective gun-control laws. "The opponent of long-gun control is a man who identifies himself as a member of the commission of crimes," Dodd said.
