Murphy Cows Visit Their New Neighbors

This lone young cow stuck behind a wire fence is looking for its seven cohorts who escaped early yesterday morning from the barnyard of Thomas Murphy III on Birch Mountain Rd.

The cows ended up in three different pastures and they drifted together against the fence wires where the pasture met. Later the Murphys got all the cows together again and back in the barn. The adventure was over. (Herald photo by Bruce Tilton)

Patrolman Gerald Calve, his name is pronounced cal-vee and not calf, was dispatched to the scene.

"I couldn't do much more than keep an eye on them," Officer Calve said. "I kept my car's red blinker going and followed them up Carter St. into Bolton in order to protect them from cars."

In Bolton, they turned around and started back to Manchester. By this time their owner, Thomas P. Murphy Jr. of 44 Highland St., left work at Case Bros. The cows knew him and he took them down a gas line through the woods and back toward their barn," he said.

"They didn't do any damage, but were just wandering around," he added.

Lee Fracchia, dog warden, came to the scene to help. When he saw another member of the Murphy family going after the cows with a dog to round them up, he said that would be all the help they needed.

But the Murphys must have had some trouble anyway because six of the cows came through the woods at scattered points near the barn. They were all moving directions to each other in the woods, but their directions must have been wrong.

NATION SPANNED IN 1935 NEW YORK—The first pavilion on the Atlantic coast was the Lincoln Highway, begun in 1913 and other in the woods, but their directions must have been wrong.

Tolland Preston Harding Quits School Board

The Board of Education last night accepted the resignation of board member Andy Preston Harding, and decided against entering into a "mini-METRO" arrangement with three neighboring towns.

Harding, a Democrat, cited heavy business demands as his reason for leaving. The appointment to fill the vacancy may be filled by the remaining school board members, according to state statutes. Harding had about one-and-a-half years remaining of a six-year term.

"It is with much regret that due to heavy business commitments, the lessening of which is not in the foreseeable future that I must resign from the Tolland Board of Education," he said in a letter.

"I have enjoyed four-and-a-half years as a member of the board, and I leave it with full confidence that the present members of the board will continue their deep personal commitments to a high standard of quality education in Tolland."

"I have enjoyed working with each of you very much, and I truly miss serving on the school board in the future."

The vacancy will be filled by a Democrat to maintain the three-party political balance on the board. No action was taken last night by the board members to solicit names for the vacancy.

School board chairman David Cook noted the board had for some time been studying the Town Committee to suggest three names for the position, after the last vacancy about three years ago.

The Democrats submitted one, and the board subsequently delayed the appointment a month until after the party caucus, before approving the suggested program would appear in the school board budget. The registration fee and state grants do not cover the entire costs of the program according to the Superintendent.

The school board, which is attempting to decide whether it wishes to continue as a member of the Capitol Region Education Council and its sponsored METRO program, last night heard a report from Cook, who is the town's representative to the organization.

The board was also presented with a proposal to join a mini-METRO, composed of the neighboring towns of Vernon, Ellington, Tolland, Somers, Hebron, and Marlborough.

METRO is a media resource center for audio visual equipment. An assessment of ten cents per student is charged to finance the program, in conjunction with federal funds.

"Either we should go into both CREE and METRO, or we should get out of the whole thing," Cook recommended.

CREE is primarily a sponsoring agency for METRO and does little else, he explained.

The school board instructed Superintendent of Schools Robert Brantion to have a representative of METRO attend the next board meeting June 26, to briefly describe the program and its benefits.

The local schools presently obtain the bulk of their films and audio-visual materials from Coventry High School graduation is set for Tuesday at 8:30 p.m., according to Principal Milton Wilds. The ceremonies will be held out-of-doors, weather permitting but will be moved indoors to the gymnasium if the weather is inclement. Wilds also said that the decision on whether the graduation is indoors or outdoors will be made by 4 p.m. Tuesday. Announcement of the decision will be carried on all local radio stations, Wilds said, if a change of indoors is necessary.

Following the graduation ceremonies, a reception sponsored by the parents of the Junior class will be held in the cafeteria, for graduates and their parents.

Previously unregistered voters who are now eligible to register may do so also, at this session. Regardless of voting district, those individuals should report to the registrars office in the town hall. These new voters will then be eligible to vote in summer caucuses and primaries, if tentat.

Some Creditors Seen Violating Laws in Lending

HARTFORD (AP) — Some creditors in the state, particularly retail businessmen, are violating the Connecticut truth-in-lending law, according to State Banking Commissioner Philip Heves.

Heves said Wednesday he would initiate court action if these violations continue.

He said that examiners from the State Banking Department have made about 100 announced spot checks in each county. The examiners checked to see whether purchasers are told the precise time limits on loans and the complete interest charges.

"Examinations made thus far show creditors, usually retailers, who are not disclosing finance charges as required by law," Heves said. He cited cases where a person was unaware he was paying annual interest charges as high as 18 per cent.

Commissioner Heves said the creditors are indifferent to the law despite the severe penalties for continued violations.

Under the law, the commissioner can ask the state attorney general to prosecute violators. First offenders can be

Heads Workshop

Robert Gordon of 46 Litchfield last night was elected president of the Manchester Gilbert and Sullivan Workshop, at its annual banquet at Manchester Country Club. He succeeds Robert Thulin.

Other officers elected are W. Godfrey Courty, vice president; Miss Patricia Greiner, secretary; and Henry Polier, treasurer.

John Lombardo was elected to a three-year term on the board of governors. Mrs. Kedy Donahue was elected to the board to fill the remaining year of the term of Roland Charest who resigned. The third member of the board is Mrs. Mary Kalbfleisch.

The group also decided that the 1968 workshop production would be "The Mikado," which was last performed by the group in 1961. The date of the production was not announced.

The group is scheduled to be fined up to $100, second offenders up to $500 and third offenders up to $1,000 or six months in jail.

Heves would not disclose the specific number of violations. He said that they occurred mostly in urban areas, and not necessarily in ghettoes.

State GOP Platform Calls for Transit Unit

HARTFORD (AP)—A Transportation Department bill would coordinate all public transit facilities in Connecticut, a Republican party platform proposed today as a plank in the party's platform for the coming election.

A subcommittee of the GOP Platform Research Committee also called for modernization of the New Haven Railroad's commuter and passenger service, and for elimination of what is called "highway death traps."

The Transportation and Safety Subcommittee also proposed an experimental driver retraining program to determine whether chronic traffic law violators can be rehabilitated. It called for mandatory jail terms for motorists convicted a second time for driving while their licenses were under suspension.

The subcommittee suggested that steps be taken to evaluate and use to best advantage state-owned roads as part of our strong effort to remedy the long-standing lack of a state-wide airport policy.

It said the state presently is "deprived of the benefits of an interested, coordinated and balanced use of its various public transportation facilities."

Long-range planning is necessary to "develop and integrate highway, rail, air and water transportation into a unified system," it said.

Many States Fear Spread Of Weapons

clear arms race.

There is no doubt that the treaty draft, approved by the U.N. General Assembly Wednesday and now open for signature and ratification, falls far short of what most countries wanted. But it appears to be the best that could be arrived at after 10 years of debate and negotiation.

Its worth will be determined by the number of countries that adhere to it and the effect it has in creating a favorable atmosphere for future disarmament negotiations. It is generally agreed that its value may be mainly in this latter direction.

Almost everyone at the U.N. General Assembly, which opened today, agreed that any agreement by the United States and the Soviet Union on a disarmament treaty was significant at a time when the international atmosphere was poisoned by the Vietnam war.

Generally, however, the U.N. diplomats are not so sure about the value of the treaty as a barrier to the spread of nuclear weapons to countries that don't have them.

There are two obvious weaknesses to the treaty: Two of the five nuclear powers—France and Red China—won't adhere to it, and perhaps as many as 10 non-nuclear countries also will refuse to sign.

South Africa, for example, is not expected to sign the pact, and several black African countries fear that the white regime in South Africa may become a nuclear power and dominate all of Africa. India fears Peking's nuclear power despite a general pledge of protection from the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain.

One cheering note in the discussions was the insistence of all near-nuclear countries that they have no intention of acquiring such weapons.

Several countries have strongly objected to the absence of any restrictions on the production of nuclear weapons by the five nuclear powers.

Sponsors of the treaty have compared it to earlier three-nuclear powers and the Soviet Union notably the partial ban on nuclear weapons and the ban on the orbiting of nuclear weapons into outer space, but critics have noted one important difference.

In the previous treaties, the black to slip back into France recently, said he may try to visit the United States.

Although coming to Britain with 10 other students to take part in the BBC program to be shown tonight, his main activity likely will center on a three-day seminar on student protests at the London School of Economics, long the cradle of leftist movements.

The seminar is intended to coordinate and crystallize the aims of various student protest movements now active in British universities.

Cohn-Bendit told students Wednesday night he will seek to set up a "Free French" resistance movement against the "Free French" movement in France—organized the first U.N. General Assembly.

"We shall not allow what happens in Greece, where a military regime is in power, to happen in France," he said. "We shall form an underground resistance. We shall ask the Regime to resign. We shall ask the Regime to resign. We shall ask the Regime to resign."

The other student leaders invited to appear on the BBC program, all active in student protests in their own country, include Lewis Cole of Columbia University.

Demonstrations Resume as Poor Protest Hunger

WASHINGTON (AP)—In their first demonstration in more than a week, Poor People's Campaign leaders prepared to try Wednesday to get their sometimes wandering protests back on target.

About 200 persons, buoyed by pep talks, marched on the Department of Agriculture to begin a round-the-clock vigil protesting hunger in America.

Discipline wasn't perfect. Park police said they arrested two youths who broke away from the march and tried to haul down an American flag near the Washington Monument.

But there were many indications of the sharper focus The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, campaign leader, said he would try to work into demonstrations. Speeches were few and stuck closely to the point at issue—food.

Cricket signs made their first appearance in the entire campaign. "Those must be the poor people," said a woman tourist, reading signs like "Hunger Hits" and "Up the Ante, Aggie, We All Gotta Eat."

Homes Williams and the Rev. Jesse Jackson, rival demonstrators in their own country, were both on hand to help order.

Tolland Ambulance Group to Start Direct Service Plan July 1

The Tolland Volunteer Ambulance Association will officially begin its Direct Service Plan on July 1. Under the new plan each of the 36 members will have his own first aid kit and portable ambulance (resuscitator).

The volunteer on duty, living closest to the emergency, will report directly to the scene, while the other volunteer on duty will go for the ambulance. The new practice is expected to save many valuable minutes in an emergency.

The July meeting of the TVAA, has been advanced to June 30, when the 18 new ambulance will be distributed to members who have not yet received any. The new equipment was purchased with the funds raised from the Trinkets and Treasures Sale held by the TVAA members and their wives.

In addition to the direct service plan, the equipping of each member provides the town with 38 fully equipped first aid stations located throughout the town.

The Executive Board of the TVAA met Monday to complete plans for the new service.

The TVAA recently heard William McQuaid of the Tolland County newspaper explain about the proper use of the ambulance radio during emergencies.

Richard Symonds, secretary of the Tolland Volunteer Firemen, produces consistent portable radio in the temporary ambulance, borrowed while the regular one is being repaired.

Nixon Rejects Rocky's Offer Of TV Debate

The Nixon aides said his rejection of debates with potential rivals for the GOP nomination this year was sincerely based on his feeling that it would further divide the Republican party.

Nixon, who has made no public appearance since the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, spent three days at an isolated fishing camp in the Bahamas, resting and working.

His next scheduled appearance is Friday when he will give the commencement address at his daughter Tricia's graduation from Fifth College here.

From Your Neighbor's Kitchen

Whenever there is an event that calls for food at Mary Kay Library, or at library-sponsored events, the first name on everyone's lips is Mrs. Chester G. (Ann) Kosak of 42 Birch St. A full-time librarian at the library, she still finds time to help with luncheons, make birthday cakes, and do the "cooking and baking for a crowd" in most of the library's events.

Tolland Hearing Set On New Gas Station Bid

An application to permit the location of another gas station at the East 99 interchange of the Wilbur Cross Highway and Merrow Rd. will be heard at a public hearing June 24 at the Town Hall at 4 p.m.

The station is being proposed for the spot presently housing the Gutter fuel tanks and is located in a commercial zone. The application for the gas station is submitted by Warren and Nelson Gutter of Rockville.

The proposed station would be located in the only remaining portion of the commercial zone bordering the highway interchange.

The area was zoned commercial last December when Atty. Hart Hensbury, representing the Gutter family, filed the Planning and Zoning Commission the Town and Zoning Commission the Planning and Zoning Commission has a prospect for the property which would be "very valuable to the town."

Hensbury stressed the lack of commercial activity in the town at the time of the zoning change request which sought the change from light industrial to commercial.

The zone change was granted to permit the IDC maximum leverage in handling its client. It would not have been granted to permit construction of a gas station, since it is the last remaining parcel. Planning of the town's growth had earmarked it for a shopping center, based on the easy highway accessibility.

GD Faloutsos Survey

A Civil Defense fallout protection survey of the town is beginning today, according to First Selectman Charles V. Faloutsos.

The survey is being conducted by the U.S. Department of Defense, Office of Civil Defense.

Questionnaires will provide the Defense Department with fall-out protection answers for each household in the town. The report is analyzed.

Persons making the survey will carry proper identification according to the First Selectman.

The Saigon Rockets

"Everything is at once so peaceful and ugly. I just played on tennis court 11 and both sides of the court were hit last night by rockets. It's rather strange."

That was an American embassy official, quoted in the New York Times, on life in Saigon, now the Vietnam rocket attack into the center of that city of nearly 3,000,000 people a regular business.

The "ugly" side of present day life in Saigon, under the daily rocket raids, is represented by the innocent children or civilians hit — as innocent, surely, as any children who may have been killed and injured in our own bombings of North Vietnam.

In there, then, any difference between the American bombing of the North, which has now been pulled back from Hanoi, and the Vietnam rocket attacks in the South, which have now been moved toward the very center of Saigon?

There seems no real difference. The Vietnam, deciding to do what it can to disrupt normal life in Saigon, discredit the government there, and score propaganda points at Paris, has also decided to risk the possible resentment of the South Vietnamese people and of world opinion over such willingness to lob its rockets into areas where civilian elements are inevitably mixed with every conceivable target of any military conviction.

If there is any difference in the two situations, it is that almost automatic difference which has plagued the atmosphere for the United States in Vietnam from the beginning. Our bombing of cities, when we undertake it, is the mass operation of a massive technological world giant, capable of dropping unlimited attacks of bombs at will. The rocket attacks on Saigon are the improvised tactics carried out by groups of two or three men who handle the parts and the mortars in one night and bury them and then come back the next night and set them up and then when they complete the firing. The fact that it is this struggling, almost amateurish kind of operation is also the explanation why it is almost impossible to stop, which would demand the constant saturation of every square rod of territory within 10 miles of the center of Saigon. The rockets, to sum up, are the technological, sentimental difference, are the weapons of the underdog; the bombs those of the established giant. There is, therefore, somewhat less world condemnation of the scattered rocketing of Saigon than there would be of the mass bombing of Hanoi.

Nonetheless, it seems likely that the Vietnam found, with its indiscriminate rocketing into Saigon, a tactic as self-defeating for them, by all combined judgments, as our own much greater bombing of the cities of North Vietnam proved to be for us.

We notice, for instance, the ease with which former Water Commissioner James L. Marcus, whose chief charm and eligibility for his position may have been his ability to move with games and ease in very League social set, has, on the stand, and in a mood to tell all after having pleaded guilty for himself, been able to lapse conveniently into the lingo of modern day municipal corruption. The other day, on the stand, he managed a nonchalant reference to "vig" which would have warmed the hearts of any present day Damon Runyon. "Vig," it seems, stands for "vigilante," which stands for illegally unscrupulous interest on a loan of money.

Then there is the sweet and almost unbelievable character of one Herbert Ikin, a lawyer who claims not to be guilty for any of the illegal things he may have done because he sometimes reported some of these illegal things to the FBI, for whom he was an unpaid informer. He didn't always report everything he did, and he didn't always report what he did report right away, but his heart was in the right place, as when he gave the FBI the newspaper ad bundles which were part of a deal he was managing, or the deal FBI could have at least that much evidence. There have been veiled hints, during the trial, that the talented Mr. Ikin was not entirely limited to domestic affairs, and that he may have served as a sort of double agent in half for himself, half for a government agency — the CIA as well as the FBI. It will take a revival of the preposterous rhyming toolmaking of Keats & Sullivan ever to do justice, we imagine, to Ikin and crew.

That would be, we mean, literary and musical justice.

As for the other kind of justice that ought to be done, the testimony has unfolded a far-ranging tale of bold corruption which would seem to be going to demand some new grand juries, investigations, indictments, and trials involving a group of politicians and neo-politicians to whom the identity of a way or a change of administration apparently meant very little, merely that occasionally somebody new had to be cut in on a continuing game.

Youth Power
This lively activity of youth today worldwide, testifies to the increasingly widespread feeling that the young people are drawn by the tides of compassionate concern — and some few by the desire to see the world as it should be. Some of them have the most well-developed, carefully honed idealism the world has seen, and expect we should be grateful for this. Young people can spot (or imagine) a new injustice while middle-agers are simply reacting to that peace talks have at last opened in Paris. They seem especially anxious to feel the urethra of this age.

Now if young people would just learn that which we elders still make heavy weather about — that freedom and deriding-do and smart tactics are not the best and end-all, and that self-discipline is extremely vital, and that each of us must be very discerning about the so-called facts — the input — which he "programs" into his over computer-consciousness, because this will determine his motives and acts!

Why such widespread youth protest? There is a lot of cross-fertilization of concepts but no secret conspiracy. Vietnam supplies a common irritant. The doubling of the world's student population in less than 10 years, has strained the capacity of the world's educational institutions, and seating capacities.

Then, too, apparently nothing succeeds like excess. Students have consciously requested a voice in campus customs, and three men who handle the parts and the mortars in one night and bury them and then come back the next night and set them up and then when they complete the firing. The fact that it is this struggling, almost amateurish kind of operation is also the explanation why it is almost impossible to stop, which would demand the constant saturation of every square rod of territory within 10 miles of the center of Saigon. The rockets, to sum up, are the technological, sentimental difference, are the weapons of the underdog; the bombs those of the established giant. There is, therefore, somewhat less world condemnation of the scattered rocketing of Saigon than there would be of the mass bombing of Hanoi.

Nonetheless, it seems likely that the Vietnam found, with its indiscriminate rocketing into Saigon, a tactic as self-defeating for them, by all combined judgments, as our own much greater bombing of the cities of North Vietnam proved to be for us.

Needs Gilbert And Sullivan Touch
When Fiorella La Guardia became a reform mayor for New York City, one of the things he flourished on was the use of the word "corruption" which is turn became the colorful motif for a highly successful Broadway musical titled, appropriately enough, "Fiorella". We don't have any "crisis" but which tells us whether the entertainment of the future is going to include a musical called "Fiorella" with a motif based on the colorful kind of corruption New York City's latest reform mayor had the poor luck to bring into office with himself, but we think we have recognized someone rather appealing raw material in the testimony which has been given in the bribery conspiracy trial now going on in Gotham.

Inside Report

By Rowland Evans Jr.
Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON — The inner circle of powerful men who made Richard Reagan Governor of California met privately last night (Wednesday) in Pasadena, Calif., with Gen. Curtis LeMay, one for Rockefeller. Four years ago, these same ten split nine for Rockefeller, one for Barry Goldwater.

Even before Kennedy's death, Rockefeller's strongest backers admitted that only a stroke of fortune — a major Nixon blunder or dramatic polls showing Nixon losing to Vice President Humphrey — could reverse the Nixon tide.

At the Republican National Committee meeting in Portland on that fateful June 4, the day the delegates, in an Eastern hotel, men from Connecticut proudly showed us a new state poll giving Rockefeller 52 percent to 48 percent of the vote over Humphrey (with George Wallace picking up the balance).

But the poll also showed Nixon edging out Humphrey, 49 percent to 47 percent. The fact Nixon wins that industrialized, liberal Democratic state is far more important to the hard-core professionals in the Republican party than the fact that Rockefeller would do better.

Rockefeller himself came to Portland to chat with key National Committee men, but he set no fire. He confided to intimates that he was desperately hoping for a "Kennedy surge" in the California primary that would give Rockefeller the lead in the California race. Rockefeller's last hope against overwhelming odds is that Nixon's impending nomination excites little joy among even the professionals. The 13 Far Western states, hoping for an open convention with no first-ballot Nixon nomination, called on all 282 Far West delegates to remain uncommitted (unless already committed by primaries or to favorite sons).

Connecticut Yankee

By A.H.O.

There have been closed convention and free convention, boisterous and open, high drama conventions and conventional ones, but all of them have managed the common denominator of being potentially at least, a live and meaningful process.

One went to a convention with expectations of drama or excitement, of boredom or calm, which varied from year to year.

But one never went without the feeling that one was going to touch base, going to come in contact, once again, with one of the fundamental sources of our national life — the life and force of democracy.

We go to another convention tomorrow with no quite that normal feeling, or perhaps, it might be said, with a certain absence of feeling and expectation.

That absence of feeling and expectation, that lack of appearance of innocent confidence in the power and significance of the national party of the democratic process, is a sad and dangerous thing to have happen, in anybody, in any degree.

We would like to recover the naive but good, the innocent but powerful respect we had for the potential vitality of other conventions.

Our trouble is that we, along with some other perhaps too naive Americans and students who happen in company with many Americans who feel the result without assigning its cause, have been moved toward the status of the fate-based character in a Greek drama.

We have been shocked and brutalized by the presence of political murder in our society, into a feeling that we no longer have very much sovereignty over our own affairs.

We have begun to fear that we have become a mere tool, that we have become a mere instrument of the will of others, that we have become a mere pawn in a game played by others.

Rham District Band Instruments Display Set in Auditorium Tonight

Robert Clowes, music director at Rham, has announced that an instrument display will be held in the high school auditorium tonight at 7:30 p.m. The display is being held in conjunction with the current enrollment of beginning instrumental students into the band program in the district.

During the course of the evening, all students in grade four and older who are interested in learning to play an instrument and their parents will have the opportunity to see and try the band instruments. A full explanation of the program will be given and an opportunity to enroll in the program will be open to all.

This year during the summer music school at Rham, beginning lessons will be provided free of charge in two sections. The section will meet in the morning, the other in the afternoon. Each section will meet twice a week for the limited duration of the summer school.

Columbia Blood Drive Nets 65 Pints

The Red Cross Bloodmobile visit has garnered 65 pints — some 33 less than hoped for — what the chapter called a "crucial time."

There were 31 donors from Columbia, 24 from Hebron, where the chapter had set up facilities at Phelps Hall, and 11 from Andover, plus one from Canterbury and one from Lebanon.

One of the donors was Mrs. Dorothy Ellis from Hebron; two-gallon donor was Lawrence Brown from Hebron. Other donors included Cathy Gosline, Columbia and Beverly Bart, Hebron.

Three persons were rejected. The luncheon was served to the workers by the Episcopal Church women who were Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. Franklin Gadamski, Mrs. Harry Magson, Mrs. Clarence Porter, Mrs. Her- bert, Mrs. Warren Solbrook, Mrs. Thomas Colro and Miss Silababushon. Vernon Expansion at Hospital Endorsed by State Panel

The Connecticut Hospital Planning Commission today endorsed the building expansion program at Rockville General Hospital and urged future expansion in many areas of the facility.

The endorsement of the program was announced today by Charles T. Treadway Jr., president of the Commission, which is composed of top community leaders from throughout the state. It established two years ago to help assure orderly, statewide hospital development and to safeguard against duplication of facilities.

In a 40-page report of Rockville General's four-phase plan to replace its present obsolete building and to increase available beds from 62 to 234, the commission endorsed Phase 2 program as "a real effort to become a first class hospital."

The commission also sees the hospital's tax-free bonding program and its endowment holdings of some $4,000,000 as offering a "favorable financial situation" for anticipating the early outlay of future construction. Of primary concern to the commission is the demonstrated need for added facilities to serve Rockville area residents. Suggestions made by the commission for future expansion plans include the establishment of beds for detoxification and care of alcoholic, psychiatric and other emotional problems at whatever level is appropriate to the needs of the community.

Later Phases Unified

Stressing the need for the proposed expansion, the commission report noted the hospital's handicap in trying to offer modern care in a former mansion, built in 1905, to which only a small wing was added in 1965.

The hospital, located on Union St., was the former George Maxwell home. The commission report stressed that the patient demand for medical surgical beds and for pediatric beds are both well above the recommended levels.

Only the first two phases of development are involved in the commission's approval action. The hospital is not concerned as yet over the succeeding two phases.

Analyzing the expected climb in patient care, the commission noted that in 1967, 13,842 days of care were provided to 2,864 patients.

The commission further estimates that as a result of the climbing population trends and the availability of attractive, added facilities, admissions will move up to 3,146 by 1975; 3,489

Receives MD

Dr. Bertrand E. Feingold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold I. Feingold of 19 Crosby Rd., was graduated from the University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry with the degree of doctor of medicine at commencement exercises on June 2.

Dr. Feingold has been the recipient of scholarship awards during his four years at medical school, and was awarded a Cancer Training Fellowship in 1967 from the Monroe County Cancer and Leukemia Association. He graduated from Trinity College, Hartford, in 1964, with a B.S. degree in biology. While at Trinity, he was a Capitol Area Scholar for four years. In 1960 he was graduated with honors from Manchester High School.

Dr. Feingold will intern in medicine and surgery at the Rochester General Hospital, Rochester, N.Y., for one year. Thereafter he plans to take a surgical residency training program at the University of Rochester. He is married to the former Betty Ann Foster of Manchester, and they are now residing in Rochester.

no one was underestimating the possibility of new trouble.

Rochester's campaign began on the government radio and television networks Wednesday night with Premier Georges Pompidou and Communist Secretary-General Waldeck Rochet the lead-off speakers.

Pompidou claimed again that a Communist takeover of France threatened and would only be dispelled if a strong Gaullist majority was voted into the National Assembly. He said the Communists had taken advantage of the student rioting to halt economic activity, paralyze the life of the country and finally to seek power openly.

Rochet disagreed, saying the Communists had preached disunity among the strikers and had avoided provoking "ultra-leftist" groups. He laid the blame for the crisis on the Gaullist government, saying "it was their policies which directly caused the present disorders."

Night Quiet For Paris

Two days of mounting violence in which two workers were killed.

The Latin Quarter was relatively calm Wednesday night with small groups of students straggling about under the eye of reinforced police.

Negotiations continued in an effort to secure the return to work of about a million workers on strike, mainly in the metalurgical and automobile industries.

No violence was reported on the labor front.

The government appeared to have won a breathing spell but

Tolland County Politics GOP Delegates to Attend State Convention Undecided

By BETTE QUATRALE

Tolland County's 42 delegates to tomorrow's Republican State Convention will attend as uncommitted delegates. They are not expected to reach a decision in the May-Sibal senate race, or the Nixon-Rockefeller delegate contest, until they caucus at the convention Saturday.

The county Republican leaders have not reached a decision on their position, although some privately admit they feel they have been put in the middle of the Eastern Connecticut-Fairfield County fight with Republican organization leaders.

Earlier this year, the chairman and vice chairman of the 15 Tolland County towns comprising the 35th District drafted a resolution urging Peter Mariani to run for Congress, opposing the re-election of Democratic Congressman William St. Onge of the 2nd District.

The majority of local town committees also urged Mariani to run. Mariani is former State Senate minority leader, and was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

After announcing his intention to seek the nomination, Mariani came out in support of Richard Nixon for president and created an Eastern Connecticut alliance with the Fairfield County Republicans.

Commitment Qualified

Most area Republicans insist they are not committed to Mariani except in his capacity as a Congressional nominee, although strong Nixon support is evident in many of the towns.

The Eastern Connecticut-Fairfield County coalition has also become involved in a contest over the U.S. Senate seat, with its backing of Abernethy to Tolland County voters, and area Republican leaders are keeping in mind the need to elect their state representatives and state senators with as large a margin as possible.

The Sibal forces are not expected to vote the nomination at the caucus but are threatening a primary if they obtain the necessary 20 per cent of the delegate vote at the convention.

Area Republican delegates do not want to see a primary over the Senate nomination, and would rather concentrate their efforts on the election of their state senator and representatives.

The coalition strength is expected to be tested on a resolution seeking convention support of Nixon for the presidency. Organization Republicans are expected to first try to table the

Player Set for Comeback, Playing Best Golf of Life

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Gary Player, who hasn't really been away, is ready to make a comeback. "I'm playing the best golf of my life," the tough little South African said today before teeing off in the first round of the United States Open Golf Championship.

"Even more importantly, my attitude has changed. I want to win again. I've got that positive attitude that desire, that charge, call it what you will."

The muscular little man who has won all the world's major titles, was among the last in the field of 150 to get away today on the demanding 6,000-yard, par-70 Oak Hill Country Club course, a course that previously favored Billy Casper said is tailor-made for Player.

"It isn't exceptionally long but it's very exciting. It places a premium on accuracy, and that's Gary's forte," said Casper.

Player, once considered a member of the Big Three along with Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, defending champion of this tournament, hasn't won a tournament in this country since he captured the Open title at St. Louis in 1965.

"That made him only the third man to win all four of the major titles in this country since the U.S. and British Opens, the Masters and the PGA—and admittedly took an edge off his desire."

He made only token appearances on the tour, spending most of his time with his family on their ranch near Johannesburg.

But this year he's back.

Heads Umpires

Alton Cowles, above, a 20-year member of the Manchester Chapter of the Approved Baseball Umpires, Tuesday night was elected 1968 president for the 1969 season. He succeeds Leo Diana, Ray Bianco was elected vice president and Earl Yost re-elected secretary-treasurer. The annual meeting and banquet was held at Willie's Steak House with 21 of the 24 members attending.

STAFFORD SPEEDWAY

Stafford Speedway has its own "dynamic duo" in Southington's Eddie Flemke and Carl "Bugsy" Stevens, the defending National NASCAR modified champion, are marked men at the half-mile oval. Between them, they have taken six Stafford features, four for Flemke.

Stafford presents another 30-lap feature Friday at 8 p.m. along with qualifying heats and a Tiger Division show, and the entire field will be out to clip the wings of the low-flying duo, a pair of Bay Staters fast to the best chance to accomplish the feat. Hanover's Lee Cleary has been impressive in his last three outings while Worcester's Tom Bourget, a newcomer to Stafford this summer, has been a constant money finisher.

Drivers have noted that the track's speed is increasing each week.

"The biggest problem on an asphalt track is dampness," explained veteran Bill Slater, the defending Stafford champion. "We have had some real warm weather—drying the track out both high and low. It enables the drivers to go all out."

Slater, incidentally, is expected to join the fuel-injected boys Friday.

A former national sportsman champion, Don MacFadden, speaks the clubbed-for the powerful M 6. The Walker Motors car, driven last year by Gene Bergin, won a handful full of features, as well as setting the track speed record.

"Somebody's going to get it," Flemke says. "Everybody is getting faster. The season is still laterally going back instead of turning, resulting in a away instead of a win, which is probably what's going to happen. These things have to be checked individually. Basically, it's from taking the club back improperly. The amateur has an inner fear he won't get the ball airborne, which makes him want to cut the ball to help it up. When they have a tight lie, even your good players cut at the ball to lift it."

"The hook, on the other hand, is both an endorsement and a deduction of golf ability. Most of the playing pros fight a hook rather than a slice. Being a hooker denotes some proficiency in the club, but it's not a sign of a good player. The hook generally results to improper grip. The left hand gets stronger and moves over to the right side of the club."

I say generally, because my own brand of duck hook comes also from improper body movement. I'll come back through my swing on the right side, which lets the hands fly through the ball too quickly.

SHAVING STROKES

Minnesota acquired Wayne Hillman and two rookies, Joe Johnson and Dan Siquin, from New York in exchange for Dave Balon.

Plante, after nine star-studded seasons with Montreal, played two years for the Rangers and then retired in 1965. He won the Vezina Trophy as the league's top goalie six times including a record five straight.

Oakland made Montreal defenseman Carol Vadnais the first choice of the draft and exposed another defenseman, Larry Hillman to New York, who was promptly picked up by the Canadiens.

Toronto drafted Larry Mickey from New York, Bill Sullivan from Minnesota and Gary Marsh from Detroit. The Leafs lost Brian Conacher to Detroit, Larry Hillman to New York and Duane Ruppel to Minnesota.

Eckert Decision Made on Own

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert did not leave it up to the individual clubs whether to play their weekend games and did not consult with the owners before making his decision, Joseph L. Reichler, director of public relations for the commission, said Monday night.

Joseph L. Reichler, director of public relations for the commission, said Monday night that all weekend games be played but that on Saturday contests start only after the funeral of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, which originally was scheduled for 4:30 p.m., EDT, but delayed more than five hours.

REVERSIDER PARK

Things are looking better for Buddy Krebs every day, despite the fact he still hasn't captured a first place in a modified stock car race at Riverside, Park Speedway. The South Windsor veteran has widened his point margin to 58 in the latest standings released by the United Stock Car Racing Club.

Krebs, who placed fourth in last week's feature, now has 221 points as he maintains the top spot for the fourth straight week. Second is defending champion Bill Groce with 283 points.

A pair of Westfield pilots, Bobby Beard and Ed Patnode, race second and third. Beard has 188 points and Patnode has 150. The point battle resumes Sunday night, with the 75-lap feature worth 45 points to the winner. Krebs can't be caught for the present, but several challenges will be hoped to gain some valuable ground.

Fights for Life

COLOGNE, Germany (AP)—Jupp Elze fought for his life today after a gallant, but losing bid to win the European middleweight boxing championship.

The 38-year-old West German champ was hit in the head by a devastating right-hand punch by Italy's Carlo Duran in the 12th and last round of their title fight Wednesday night.

Elze sagged to the canvas, heaved himself to his feet with a hand signal that he had had enough, then staggered to his corner. There he collapsed unconscious.

"His life is in danger," said a doctor at Cologne University Hospital where Elze was taken with an oxygen mask clamped over his face. "I cannot say at this stage whether he will pull through. The next day or two will be decisive."

Gary Lindgren Seeking First Of Triple Leg

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Gerry Lindgren who may be the U.S. best runner at long distances, tries for the first leg on a third straight double victory at the NCAA Track Championships tonight.

The three-day meet began with most of the day's activities given over to qualifying rounds for final events Friday and Saturday.

But the final event on the program is the 10,000 meters in which Lindgren, a 5-foot-8 1/2 pounder, originally forecast an occasion when he would win the 10,000-meter crown.

In his two previous championship meets, Lindgren won the five-mile and six-mile (10K) events at the 1967 U.S. Olympic trials in Los Angeles. He also won the 10,000-meter crown at the expected withdrawal of Kansas' Jim Ryan in the 1,500 meters and six-mile (10K) events at the 1967 U.S. Olympic trials in Los Angeles. Day of Craftsmanship Gone

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—"These boys are not craftsmen, they're just hitters," old Fred McLeod said sadly. "I'm afraid the day of craftsmanship is gone in golf."

"You buy your clubs when you buy your clubs," McLeod, a dapper little Scot with snow-white hair and twinkling eyes, said in a small room at the Oak Hill Country Club today and watched golf's tough young capitalists tee off in the first round of the 68th U.S. Open Golf Championship.

As boy and man, Freddie right club. The club does the work. The new boys are on hand for almost most of them and he even won one 60 years ago.

Freddie paused and his eyes swept down a twisting highway of memories.

"Hogan—it would have to be Ben Hogan—the old man said, 'Now there's a man who knew how to dissect a golf course.'"

Weather Cuts Play In Brookline Tennis

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—The 42nd U.S. Pro Tennis Championships, with more money than ever at stake, attempted to get under way once again today after running afoul of the weather at Longwood.

Officials delayed the scheduled start an hour and then gave up Wednesday as a heavy downpour, originally forecast an occasion when he would win the 10,000-meter crown.

Don Drysdale Not Quick Enough To Fight Off Mets' Finishing Kick

NEW YORK (AP)—Pat Jarvis dazzled the St. Louis Cardinals with wire-to-wire speed but Don Drysdale wasn't quick enough to fight off the New York Mets' finishing kick.

Hank Aaron clubbed a two-run homer, Tito Francona laced a base-emphasis homer and Jim Bouton pitched a no-hitter as the Mets' assault against Don Drysdale and reliever Tom Seaver won the game for the Mets.

Jarvis, Atlanta's hard-throwing right-hander, hurled a three-hitter Wednesday night as the Braves ended a long standstill by driving in three runs in the eighth inning.

Drysdale, who set an all-time record of 58 2/3 scoreless innings in his last season, pitched a no-hitter for the Mets in a 1-0 win over the Cardinals.

Had Lot of Things Planned Drysdale Foiled By Upstart Mets

LOS ANGELES (AP)—When the Los Angeles Dodgers' Don Drysdale took the mound to face the New York Mets, he had a lot of things planned.

It came in the fourth inning when Nolan Ryan, the Mets' 23-year-old rookie uncorked a wild pitch which allowed Len Gabrielson to score from third.
