Party Tackles Disputes Over Who to Seat

CHICAGO (AP) — Settlement of one civil rights dispute appeared near today as the Democratic National Convention's Credentials Committee tackled challenges involving nearly one-fifth of the convention's delegates and alternates.

The 110-member committee, after a closed morning meeting, planned to hear in public session—and perhaps dispose of—a contest over the Mississippi delegation. Indications mounted that the panel headed by Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey would recommend seating of a biracial group rather than the regular Mississippi party delegation.

But there seemed to be little movement toward solving any of the 18 other contests involving all or part of delegations from 15 states—the largest number of challenges at any modern day national political convention.

The Credentials Committee hearings are providing a forum for sparring between supporters of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and his chief challenger for the Democratic presidential nomination, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota.

But beyond the propaganda battle lies the possibility that the seating contests could spill over onto the floor after the convention opens next week.

Challenges to be heard by the Credentials Committee before Saturday involve, besides Mississippi, delegates from Tennessee, Washington, Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Connecticut, Oklahoma, Texas, Georgia, Alabama, Wisconsin, Louisiana, North Carolina, New York, Michigan and Indiana.

In most of the Southern states, challenges center on charges of racial discrimination in selection of delegates. In several other states McCarthy's backers complain they weren't given a fair share of the convention seats. Still other challenges involve party loyalty. All three points have been raised in some state challenges.

The biracial Mississippi group, including civil rights leader Charles Evers and journalist Hodding Carter, claims that there is inadequate Negro representation in the regular party delegation headed by Gov. John Bell Williams. Both Humphrey and McCarthy support its contention.

The group's challenge received a boost Sunday when Hughes disclosed that a special ad hoc committee has found "there has not been a bona fide effort" by the regular party organization in Mississippi to comply with the national party's antidiscrimination rules.

The guidelines were issued following a dispute in 1964 over the seating of Mississippi's all-

Humphrey

CHICAGO (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, in an old-fashioned political appeal for labor support, said today America needs more than ever before a labor-Democratic Party coalition to fight for "full and equal opportunity for all."

Speaking to the United Steelworkers Union in the giant amphitheatre where he hopes to win the Democratic presidential nomination next week Humphrey blasted the Republican convention as "the Grand Old Politics" and promised the Democrats would "be a lot more interesting, a lot more productive."

Humphrey already has been endorsed by the steelworker's executive board and he expects to get the solid backing of 3,500 delegates who represent 1.2 million members before their 14th Constitutional Conven-

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, plunging into the first national tour of his presidential campaign, has offered his endorsement to all Republican candidates.

But the GOP presidential candidate adds at the same time that he will respect the wishes of Republican office-seekers who may want to stand apart, separating their campaigns from his.

Nixon outlined his approach to the old problem of national candidates trying to get along with local ones in a briefing with newsmen in San Diego Sunday. After talking at length about campaign problems Nixon left on a three-day tour of Illinois, Ohio, Michigan and New York.

The first stop was Springfield, Ill., capital of a state he lost narrowly when he ran for president eight years ago.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic Platform Committee opened hearings today with a plea by its chairman, Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, for harmony — a harmony already threatened by discord over the plank on Vietnam.

Although Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has made a compromise move toward acceptance of a U.S. halt to bombing of North Vietnam, he balked at another key point of a seven-step peace plan proposed by his chief rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

The issue involves McCarthy's insistence that the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong, be included in any South Vietnamese coalition government.

If this point isn't settled in the platform hearings, and that seems unlikely, it probably will result in a floor fight when the party's national convention convenes in Chicago next week.

In a statement prepared for the opening hearing, Rep. Boggs urged the 110 platform drafters to "beware of flying to the extremes of controversy" and to seek reconciliation between the views of old and young, white and black, poor and affluent.

"I am . . . concerned about the new spirit of political incoherence that has been blowing hard of late against the face of American politics," the Louisiana congressman said.

"This attitude is so virulent in some quarters that it clearly defines our paramount task—which is to effect a reconciliation among the divided members of society."

But the lines of conflict between Humphrey and McCarthy hardened on Sunday when they took opposing views on the issue of inviting the Viet Cong into a new South Vietnamese government.

"The fundamental difference between myself and Sen. McCarthy is on the imposition of a coalition government . . . I cannot agree with that," Humphrey said.

McCarthy was equally firm. He said he could see hope for compromise in peace efforts "unless you have a willingness to include in a new government the forces that are fighting it." McCarthy went on:

"He (Humphrey) is rejecting . . . the heart of the proposal I have been asking . . . I don't see any evidence of compromise."

Humphrey appeared on the CBS "Face the Nation" panel, McCarthy on ABC's "Issues and Answers" program.

McCarthy unwrapped his proposed peace plank on Saturday. It called for an immediate halt to the bombing of North Vietnam, a curtailment of American operations in South Vietnam and the creation of a new coalition government in Saigon with "substantial participation" by the NLF.

Heavy Fight Ends Viet Cong Flees From Tay Ninh

By PETER ARNETT
Associated Press Writer
TAY NINH, Vietnam (AP) — Allied forces declared Tay Ninh a "clean city" today after determining that a large enemy force which had occupied a third of the 200,000-population city had withdrawn.

Violent fighting between an American armored column and entrenched enemy forces earlier indicated to senior allied officers that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong force of possibly 1,000 intended to stay and fight.

But by midday today patrols into the battle scarred alleys and fringe suburbs of the city indicated the enemy was withdrawing. Later sweeps by South Vietnamese troops and American armor failed to make any contact with the enemy.

Government casualties in the 30-hour fight for the city were moderate in some areas, light in others, U.S. officers said. American casualties were not disclosed, but it is known that they were considerable among two companies of the 3rd Squadron, 4th Armored Regiment that clashed with the entrenched enemy troops at nightfall Sunday.

Civilian casualties were given as 10 killed and 15 wounded. Casualties from areas hit by American artillery fire Sunday night and today had not been compiled.

Four city blocks of eastern Tay Ninh were razed by fire Sunday afternoon. Several other blocks came under allied heavy weapons fire during the night but the extent of damage was not known late today.

Casualties among the attackers were also uncounted but 20 bodies were reported south of the large Tay Ninh central market place. Official estimates put the total at more than 200.

Ike's Condition Still Very Bad

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower remains in "extremely critical" condition and has suffered numerous episodes of irregular heart action since Sunday night, Army doctors reported today.

Doctors at Walter Reed Army Hospital said an electrical pacemaker, inserted earlier into the heart of the five-star general, had been removed after it failed to stop the spasms.

The recurring irregularities, doctors said earlier, constitute a "constant and critical hazard" to Eisenhower's survival.

(See Page Ten)

The text of a morning medical bulletin:

"General Eisenhower's condition remains extremely critical. The electrical pacemaker was removed yesterday because of its demonstrated ineffectiveness after the initial few hours.

"Since last night's bulletin numerous episodes of ventricular irregularity have occurred, most of only a few seconds duration but two requiring electrical conversion.

"Despite this, the general remains alert, converses briefly, and enjoyed a small breakfast. He is visited briefly from time to time by members of the immediate family, at his request.

"Mrs. Eisenhower has remained calm during these past trying days, and has received comfort and support from her sister, Mrs. Gordon Moore, who together with Col. John Eisenhower and his family have been constantly with her."

The doctors said Eisenhower had received "immense messages of support from individuals in all walks of life" since he suffered his seventh heart attack last Friday.

Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the former president's brother, has visited Mrs. Eisenhower on several occasions, they said.

In a Sunday night bulletin, the doctors reported failure of the electrical pacemaker, which was threaded directly into the patient's heart by way of a vein, to relieve the spasms.

It was the latest of several efforts made to halt the irregular rhythms since the 77-year-old general suffered his latest attack.

Sniper Slays Man on Train

NEW YORK (AP) — A sniper fired into a moving Long Island Rail Road train early Sunday, killing one passenger and wounding another with a single shot.

Within a half-hour after the pre-dawn shooting police picked up 18-year-old John Whitmore, of Long Island City, Queens. The youth was quoted as saying he had fired at three LIRR trains "just for the whim of it."

Police said the fatal shot, from a .30-06-caliber sawed-off rifle, was fired from a sandy embankment near a railroad trestle. The bullet hit Vincent Maher in the neck and Gabriel Jansen in the elbow.

After the shooting the train sped on to Pennsylvania Station in Manhattan. Maher, 31, an elevator operator and father of three children, was dead when the train pulled in.

Jansen, 48, who had worked overtime at a dredging job at Jones Beach the night before, was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital.

He said he was dozing when the shot was fired. "I woke up to a big bang," he said. "I thought it was someone playing a joke." Jansen lives in Point Pleasant, N.J.

Whitmore, a vocational school student, wore a light blue shirt with a civil defense patch on one shoulder and dark blue trousers when arrested. Friends said he liked to dress up like a fireman.

Whitmore was picked up near the scene of the shooting. Maher's body was identified (See Page Two)

Jerusalem Violence Called Criminal Acts

JERUSALEM (AP) — Defense Minister Moshe Dayan toured the Arab quarter of Jerusalem today and said that Jews who rioted against Arabs in the Old City Sunday night "were collaborating with the enemy."

The Holy City was wracked by a wave of violence Sunday night touched off by three grenade explosions that wounded nine Israelis, two seriously.

Gangs of Israelis, mainly teenagers, swept into the Arab quarter, seeking revenge. They smashed store and car windows and set one car ablaze, and attacked Arabs. Several Arabs were injured one seriously, informed sources said. Riot police dispersed the Israelis after an hour's rampage.

Child Rallies with New Heart

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Within hours after her heart transplant, Maria Giannaris, 5, was awake, alert and able to visit with her parents.

The Hagerstown, Md., girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nick A. Giannaris, was reported in satisfactory condition at Texas Children's Hospital today.

She became the second child recipient in history Sunday when surgeons transferred the heart of another youngster who had suffered brain hemorrhage.

The girl was the world's 31st heart recipient.

The donor was James Dudley Herron II, 11-year-old son of James Dudley Herron, a chemistry professor at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind.

Young Herron suffered a brain hemorrhage Friday and lapsed into a coma. When Dr. Robert Carpenter, the family physician, told the parents the boy was a potential heart donor, they agreed to his transfer to Houston.

The boy was flown here early Sunday and died several hours later without regaining consciousness.

Maria was referred to the Texas Heart Institute by the cardiac clinic at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, where her case was diagnosed as severe heart failure.

Her father, who owns a restaurant at the Hagerstown Airport, said Maria was 5½ months old when doctors discovered she had heart disease.

Dr. Alex Haller of Johns Hopkins "told me the heart transplant was our only hope," Giannaris said.

"He told me his hospital wouldn't be prepared for transplant operations for at least another six months and he couldn't answer whether my daughter could live another six months."

Giannaris said a young patient dying last Wednesday at Texas Children's Hospital could have provided the heart, but the parents would not allow the operation.

"On Thursday my baby got so sick the doctors didn't think she would live," he said. "And on Saturday they told us just to pray."

Giannaris said he met the donor's father, James Dudley Herron, at the hospital Sunday.

"When I saw the boy's father at the door, it seemed like I had known him all my life," Giannaris said. "He said 'we have three boys and we've always wanted a little girl, so now we are going to have one and we can share her with you'."

Mr. and Mrs. Giannaris have another daughter, Tessie.

A surgical team led by Dr. Denton A. Cooley performed the operation in 105 minutes, a spokesman said. The implanted heart started without electrical stimulation.

"The hearts were the same size," the spokesman said. "The little girl's heart was overworked because it was diseased. Like any overworked muscle it was enlarged."

The first child to receive a transplanted heart died 8½ hours after the operation at Maimonides Medical Center in Brooklyn N.Y., last December. The recipient was a 3½-week-old boy who received the heart of a 2-day-old infant.

Cooley, who was vacationing in Mexico with his family, flew back to Houston for the latest transplant.

Four other heart transplant recipients are recuperating in St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital, which adjoins the children's hospital. Two other persons with new hearts have been released and are working in Houston. Two recipients here died.

Child Rallies With New Heart

(Continued from Page One) Then a little later in the same letter (dated July 27, 1962 by the way) he wrote the words which are most significant to me: "I am a twelve-note COMPOSER, not a TWELVE-NOTE composer." This was true; he had assessed himself correctly. Shortly afterward he came to the United States, in 1954 or 1955, and he had been a thoroughly controversial and often detested European composer over a quarter of a century. In America he found ready acceptance, and I believe he was feeling that he more or less decided to rest on his laurels. Who can blame him? Still, he never developed any newer technique, although I know he was searching for one only a few years before. The serial technique became an end, not a means. His most promising pupil, Alban Berg, was dead; in Europe he had two disciples, Webern and Dallapiccola; in the United States he never turned out a truly great talent, Dallapiccola, in Italy, became obsessed with the technique which is extremely rigid. Personally, I find the technique arid and confining, even though it is most certainly logical. Furthermore, far from enriching musical expression by demanding that all twelve tones be used instead of eight, it actually demigrates music. An art is always great for what it leaves out, just as much as for what it includes.

Boyd said New York, Chicago and Washington would be designated "high-density terminal areas" by the Federal Aviation Administration under the proposal. Bolton Full Bombing Halt Urged By Democratic Committee

The Bolton Democratic Town Committee last week sent a resolution to the State Democratic Resolutions Committee asking for a cessation of the bombing in North Vietnam.

The resolution reads, "It is resolved that the U.S. completely cease bombing of North Vietnam in order that peace negotiations in Paris be encouraged to proceed to a successful conclusion."

In the discussion that followed the motion, it was asked if the intent of the motion was to initiate a unilateral withdrawal, or whether it was to test the sincerity of the North Vietnamese.

It was pointed out that President Johnson had already accepted a partial cessation of bombing, and that the adoption of this resolution, in meeting a long-time demand of the North Vietnamese, would then put the pressure on the enemy to negotiate more fruitfully.

The committee agreed that if the North Vietnamese did not respond significantly to this gesture of American good will, then the U.S. would be in a stronger position in the negotiations of its present policy.

The resolution was forwarded to the Democratic Resolutions Committee in Hartford where it will be considered for inclusion in the national platform to be presented at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

Ronald Harris named the committee, at the same meeting, unanimously recommended Ronald Harris of Vernon Rd. to fill the school board vacancy left by the resignation of Mrs. H. Virginia Butterfield.

Farris, a resident of Bolton since 1961, is employed as a representative for the John Hancock Insurance Co. He is chairman of the Board of Deacons of the Bolton Congregational Church. He is also chairman of Boy Scout Troop 72.

Born in New Brunswick, Canada, Farris served in World War II as a bomber pilot with the Royal Canadian Air Force. After the war, he received a degree from the University of New Brunswick.

A member of the Democratic Town Committee in Bolton since 1961, Farris is the second term of the "Hobby for State Senator" committee. He and his wife Julia have three children: Donna, Ronald, and David.

Lathrop Gets Gift Charles Lathrop, Democratic Town Committee Chairman who had worked long and hard for the Democratic Party over the years, was presented the gift to Lathrop and his family. Wedding Suit He Never Wore

My wife and I were invited to a wedding and, a few weeks before the wedding date, we were told that our ten-year-old son was to be the best man.

That's when it started—the search for adequate wedding clothes for him, to double as school clothes, which was never any easier.

My wife insisted that he should wear a suit to the wedding—it was to be his first suit ever — he always had worn slacks and jackets.

He thought he should have a "youth jacket" or, at the very least, a tweed jacket with contrasting slacks.

So, my wife compromised. She went shopping for a suit. Would you believe it? They just don't make suits any more for teenagers his age.

To prepare for the suit, my wife bought him a pair of slacks which proved too large, and exchanged it for the next lower size, which proved too small.

She next bought him a pair of shoes (loafers), which hurt his feet—any wear he put on them, they hurt.

Then she bought a tie, too dull, and then another, too bright. It was decided that it would be a last minute decision on which one he would wear.

Then came the shopping for a suit. She found a store with a suit just right. The jacket could be altered to fit his shoulders. The trousers could be used with a contrasting jacket, which he doesn't have.

It was ten days before the wedding and the suit needed extensive alterations. My son was to be on the suit in the store, three days before the wedding, to make certain the alterations were correct.

Instead, the store delivered the suit to our door. All kind of excitement followed—the suit didn't fit.

The next day two days before the wedding, I drove my son and the suit to the store, told the personnel our problem, and the wedding was in two days and the suit didn't fit and suited for a 10-year-old.

The fitter drove some chalk marks all over the jacket and trousers, and we were promised the re-altered suit at five-thirty the next afternoon—the day before the wedding.

Well, everything turned out alright. My son found the suit waiting for him in a suitcase, he brought it home and, we all breathed easier—it fit.

But he didn't go to the wedding! He woke up that morning with a bad cold—cough, running nose, the whole bit.

The suit, shoes, shirt and tie never got to be worn.

And, my son was happy. He didn't want to go in the first place.

Democrats Open Platform Hearings

Platform support would be with Democrats. Humphrey obviously was hunting for a compromise. He said Saturday he sought many proposals of "the peace Democrats" including a qualified agreement to a ceasefire.

But the vice president said that a cessation of bombing should be in response to some restraint by Hanoi. And he declared he could not accept a plank which repudiated "the policies and sacrifices of the past."

Platform Chairman Boggs has taken no public position on the plank. He role-like the one successfully played by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois as Republican platform chairman at the 1964 convention—to seek a compromise in the committee on this most divisive of issues.

A convention floor fight over Vietnam, staged under the eyes of the press and in the glare of TV lights, would highlight Democratic disunity as the party heads into a crucial election battle.

McCarthy backers claimed they had more than enough opposition on the Platform Committee to bring a dissenting plank to the convention floor. More than 300 witnesses were heard before Boggs' committee, which meets in Washington until Monday to Chicago committee.

Four assemblies were set up to hear the witnesses on issues ranging from race riots to pensions for World War I veterans.

Boggs told the opening session in a hall of the Statler Hilton hotel that "no one has hand picked this committee." He also underscored legislation banning over-the-counter sales of rifles and shotguns to out-of-state residents.

Dodd, saying a "trend of gun violence" was being reversed, called on the party to endorse legislation banning the mail order sale of rifles and shotguns.

Dodd said the party should also endorse legislation banning over-the-counter sales of rifles and shotguns to out-of-state residents.

He combined his appeal for unity with a plea for law and order. "In his last of reconciliation, let us by all means insist on the rule of law," he said.

"Let us by all means strengthen the authority and fabric of law by enforcing it with justice, equity and compassion."

Antibiotics Cure

ANTHONYVILLE, Md. — Agricultural researchers have found that antibiotics which cure a type of pneumonia in human beings will also cure a serious disease of vegetables. Tetracycline, chlorotetracycline and chlorthalidone are very effective in combating aster yellows, a serious disease of many plants, including tomatoes, potatoes, cut-roses, celery and onions.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length, modified A-line gown of shaded orange silk organza designed with scooped neckline. Her bouffant shoulder-length veil of silk illusion was arranged from a satin formal headpiece, and she carried a cascade bouquet of orchids, feathered carnations, and lily.

Czechs Need One More Miracle

To be sure, in a better kind of world, there would be no such such satellite arrangement or condition in the first place.

But in the world as it is it is a good news that Czechoslovakia has succeeded in making it through the long period of its satellite captivity by the great power, liberated it from that Germany, and has now emerged into the sunlight of its own freedom again.

That freedom is not, as complete as it might be. There is still the ominous presence of the great power to the north, the sagging little satellites to the west.

There is still the suspicion of the democratic world, which is sometimes unkind enough, in such situations, to doubt the degree of freedom that has been won.

There is still the worry of Czechoslovakia's own people, who keep questioning themselves why they want to be sold over and over and over again that they, it is true, they have won their battle and they are beginning to live their own free national life.

All these considerations add their influence to a natural inclination on the part of anybody to attend to and celebrate the winning of a victory that has been won.

But the Czechoslovakians, who have succeeded in winning their freedom by the force of their own arms, need one more miracle before they are safe—the miracle of being able to refrain from too much celebration, too much jubilation, too much exuberance of those freedoms which they think they have now won.

As we say, in a better world, they should be totally free. In this world, this is a very important moment for some voluntary censorship of their own exuberance. They are out from under the Russian yoke. It would be public not to yield to the temptation to break the hero's nose.

The Doom of Dialects

It seems to be in Germany — perhaps because regional dialects there were most individually charming — that what may conceivably be the most important of all influences by television is being given its first prominent public notice.

What is being noticed in Germany is that there is a growing instinct in all sections of that country, high and low, to speak with a standard German which approximates the German being spoken by the announcers on television.

The announcer, wishing a welcome in all homes in all regions of Germany, goes to school to learn a language which will be on such a pure standard he himself can't be traced, by his speech, to any particular locality.

In response, members of the TV audience are deciding that they don't want to keep announcing their own localities and origins by continuing to employ their own native regional dialects. Once these dialects were a colorful, pleasant contribution to the varied richness of German national life and culture. Now, held up against the mirror of television's ecclesiastical precision, they are beginning to be considered the symbol of backwardness, or lack of proper education.

So there is a day ahead, apparently, when all Germans will speak with the same accent, the same single words succeeding varied local names for the same thing, and the same surprising monotony, with every conversational word as perfect and as artificial as the enunciation of the announcers.

What has begun to happen in a many-dialect country such as Germany is also pushing its way into the speaking practices of our own country.

practices of our own country. The drift toward the standard of pronunciation is not by the television announcers inasmuch as open and obvious; we ourselves do not realize or notice, yet, how much we are beginning to sound just like the announcer. But any national compass of our talk would find that there have already begun to be slight changes in the case of the New Englander, the one who speaks the wide Texas drawl which used to tell us all where we came from. Soon we shall find ourselves with no more knowledge of where we came from than we have of where we are going to.

Of Men And Mice
There is really not very much mystery about how and why our world gets to be the kind of world it is. There is a kind of irresistible fascination in the way we are heading. We would rather do what we do than try something different and possibly better. The things we most naturally and naturally happen to be the things that lead us continually in one direction and not the other.

We take, for instance, two stories in the news about mice. One story concerns what we do with mice. The other concerns what mice do to us.

The latest thing we have been doing with mice in the laboratory, which is a kind of irresistible fascination in the way we are heading. We would rather do what we do than try something different and possibly better.

Notice, please, that we did not expose the mouse to any demonstration of a peaceful kingdom, from which they might emerge pleasant and docile and friendly little creatures.

When we had the chance to choose a potential influence upon them, we set the mice, those vicious mice, to do to us what we do to them. We have discovered that if we compel some mice to spend 75 minutes watching other mice fighting, the observer mice will emerge from that experience with violent instincts of their own, like clawing at their cages.

Inside Report

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON—Behind the bloody curtain of Ohio's Democratic delegates last Monday (Aug. 12) was an iron past. It was a battle between Vice President Hubert Humphrey and organized labor for the purpose of winning the Democratic nomination.

High pressure tactics used in Ohio illustrate a central fact of politics today: labor is subordinating all other political considerations to the election of Hubert Humphrey. More important, Humphrey showed in Ohio he is willing to cooperate with labor's masterclass at the risk of devaluing his own nomination.

Ironically, the most prominent victim of the masterclass in Ohio is John J. Gilligan, the Democratic nominee for the U.S. Senate from Ohio. Gilligan is a rare case of professional expertise, who has been working over a long period of time.

COPE has a cherished need to state its case to the voters. It is a still more conservative candidate, not alone in the Deep South, but in a host of Northern states as well. In short, the appeal of George Wallace.

Late last month Gilligan received letters from Sen. Walter (Pete) Monahan of Minnesota, a Humphrey campaign manager, and from the Vice President himself urging Gilligan's support of Humphrey. In reply, Gilligan wrote Monahan that he was a Democrat and would support the nominee of his party.

Whether or not the Vice President himself is a Democrat, it is clear that Gilligan is not. Gilligan is a Republican and would support the nominee of his party.

Tolland County Politics Schools, Tax, 'Americanism' Top Area Issues for Mariani

By BETTE QUATRALE

One of the original backers of Richard Nixon for the Republican nomination for President in Tolland County and the state of Connecticut, Mariani is pleased with the Nixon selection of Spiro Agnew for vice president. "Agnew has official survey taken by Republican Congressional candidate Peter Mariani of Groton.

"Agnew is for open housing, education, taxes and 'Americanism' are the three top issues in Tolland County and the state of Connecticut," Mariani said yesterday. "The survey consisted of a questionnaire sent to Republican Party members in Tolland County and the district prior to the nominating convention.

Mariani, meeting yesterday with reporters at his Groton home, spoke in favor of increased federal aid to education "without strings attached."

"The local property tax has been stretched to its utmost. We must keep our eye on it to continue obtaining defense contracts needed to support the naval and boat yards and the aircraft industry here," he said.

Calling for a return of "respect for Americanism," he pointed to the need for increased police and fire protection, coupled with respect for their positions and authority.

Mariani's attractive daughter, Lenore, serves as scheduling officer for the campaign, filling her father in on the day's schedule over breakfast coffee.

Honley Headquarters

The official opening of the "Honley for State Senator" headquarters will be held tomorrow night at 9:30 at Tri-City Plaza in Vernon. Democratic incumbent Congressional candidate William St. Onge and his wife will officiate at the opening ceremonies to be followed by a reception.

"If Senator McCarthy were nominated it would mean a new Democratic party," he added.

Evaluating his opponent, incumbent Congressman William St. Onge, Mariani predicted he "will ride or fall with the administration."

The Republican Congressional candidate met with the Vernon
