

Turkey Hit By Quake

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—An earthquake ripped across a wide path along Turkey's northwest Black Sea coast today, and at least 10 persons were reported killed and 200 injured.

Officials feared the toll of dead and injured would mount as contacts with the area improved.

The epicenter of the quake was the town of Bartin, according to preliminary reports received by the Ministry of the Interior in Ankara. Bartin is 200 miles northeast of Istanbul.

Turkish armed forces were rushed to the Bartin area for relief work. The Turkish radio said many homes in Bartin had collapsed, trapping victims under the debris.

The tremor was felt at 10:20 a.m. in a wide arc extending from Sivras in the east, 560 miles southeast of Istanbul, to Edirne

Iran Quake Toll Now Set at 11,000

KAKHK, Iran (AP)—Wrapped in bloodstained clothing, the dazed survivors of this shattered village wander aimlessly through the rubble.

At least 8,000 of the 7,000 people of this once prosperous village are dead or missing following the earthquake Saturday that devastated some 750 square miles in northeastern Iran. Officials estimate the death toll at about 11,000.

In Kakhk, little remains of the attractive little township that once had two broad-tree-lined streets with a pool at the crossroads and a mosaic-domed mosque overlooking it.

Weekend Toll Of Accidents Reaches 666

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic accidents during the Labor Day weekend claimed a record number of lives for that three-day holiday period.

The toll of 666 was more than 10 times as high as the number of Americans who died in combat during the weekend.

The previous highway death record for Labor Day was set in 1966 when 636 persons were killed. The 1967 traffic toll for the same weekend was 608.

VC Grenades Strike Saigon; Enemy Raids District Town

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong terrorists launched two grenade attacks inside Saigon today and enemy troops struck a district town only 20 miles from the capital, killing civilians and burning down homes.

The grenade attacks came as U.S. and South Vietnamese forces in Saigon were on full alert for such incidents.

The first grenade exploded in front of the main headquarters of the U.S. Agency for International Development. Witnesses said the grenade was thrown from a motorcycle on which two persons were riding. The terrorists appeared to have escaped.

Seven South Vietnamese civilians, six of them AID employees, were wounded by the exploding grenade. No Americans were hurt, although hundreds of Americans were at work inside the eight-story concrete building.

Initial U.S. reports had said two South Vietnamese were killed and eight wounded, but this was revised downward.

The second grenade attack came about four hours later in front of a bar in the Saigon dock area. Four Vietnamese men, two women and two children were wounded there, police said.

Viet Cong forces attacked Long Thanh, a government district town 20 miles east of the capital, killing 20 civilians, wounding another 50 and burning down 80 houses with a heavy mortar attack followed by a ground assault.

A government spokesman said the town was defended by about 140 militiamen and policemen. Their casualties were put at one dead and eight wounded. Most of the casualties and damage apparently were inflicted by the heavy mortar barrage on civilian homes.

Another 16 civilians were killed and 12 wounded when a bus triggered a Viet Cong land mine near Phan Thiet, a provincial capital 100 miles northeast of the capital.

The terrorism came at a time when South Vietnamese police were on a special alert in Saigon because of the 23rd anniversary Monday of the proclamation of a republic by Ho Chi Minh, now president of North Vietnam. The anniversary is being observed by North Vietnam through midnight Thursday.

American military personnel have been warned to stay off the streets except on official business and to carry their weapons with them at all times. While military authorities discounted the threat of a major ground attack against Saigon now, there were fears that the capital would be the target of terrorism and rocket and mortar attacks during the enemy's anniversary observance.

For the fourth straight day, the U.S. Command reported only "light and scattered" ground action across the country. But U.S. B52 bombers kept up their protective attacks on the approaches to Saigon to blunt that expected big enemy offensive if the Viet Cong is preparing for one.

The eight-engine bombers struck eight times Monday night and today at suspected enemy positions west and northwest of Saigon.

Youth, Troops Argue In Center of Prague

PRAGUE (AP) — If you want a grass roots discussion of the issues between Soviet communism and the more liberal varieties, there's nothing like a debate between a Soviet soldier and a Czech student, furious at the invasion of his country.

You can hear such a debate any night in Wenceslas Square, in the center of Prague.

The participants: For Moscow—the crew of a Soviet armored car on guard outside the office of a newspaper appropriately called Svobodno Slovo, Free Speech.

For Prague—a variety of youths, most of them wearing blue jeans and sports shirts, and a few of their elders, too.

It's a fairly primitive stuff, but nobody can be accused of dodging the issues.

"Why did you come here?" asks a long-haired Czech boy aggressively.

"There's a counterrevolution here," replies a Soviet private of about the same age. "We came to save you from capitalism."

"Have you seen any counter-revolutionaries or capitalists around?" We're all Socialists here. We want our own kind of socialism. We didn't ask you to come."

"You Czechs shoot at us. There are 40,000 counter-revolutionaries in Czechoslovakia."

"How do you know?"

"It says so in Pravda."

"Do you believe what you read in Pravda or what you see with your own eyes?"

It goes on for hours. Finally the Soviet officer in charge says good night and it's time for everyone to go to bed.

Similar scenes take place at a half a dozen spots in Prague where Soviet troops are on guard or camped. At Chrchlicko Park, near the railway station, the debaters, sometimes stretch out on the grass, relaxed and friendly.

Girls show up, too. They seem sharper tongued than the boys. The argument can get heated. Monday night a Czechoslovak police sedan stopped in the square and took away an earnest, hairy young man with a gold chain around his neck.

"Why did you come here?" he had shouted repeatedly at a stolid young Russian soldier, waving his arms. "Why? Why?"

A team of experienced debaters, what the Soviets call an agitprop-agitation and propaganda team, occasionally created by elevating Fortas from associate justice to chief justice.

The Judiciary committee, however, has shelved action on Thornberry until the Senate either confirms or denies Fortas.

Two bills that would ban the mail order sale of rifles and shotguns reached the Senate just before Congress adjourned for the national political conventions Aug. 2. One was reported out of the Senate Judiciary Committee and the other came over from the House.

Backers of even stricter legislation have threatened to battle on the floor for inclusion of registration and licensing provisions which were soundly defeated by the House and by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

A third measure that could erupt into controversy is the nuclear nonproliferation treaty, still in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Since the Russians invaded Czechoslovakia,

Abandon Honor Guard

Czech Youth Bow To Soviet Threat

PRAGUE (AP) — The last stronghold of Czechoslovak public protest against the Soviet occupation crumbled today as liberal leaders charted a careful course aimed at an early withdrawal of foreign troops.

Bowing to a one-hour Soviet ultimatum, youths abandoned an honor guard at the St. Wenceslas monument which had become a national shrine when a 14-year-old boy was killed there by Russian bullets on the first day of the invasion.

The crowd which usually surrounded the flower-decked statue quickly dispersed after Czechoslovak police warned that the Russians threatened to "send a tank to clear the place."

Informed sources said Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek told the party's central committee not enough attention had been paid to "the opinions of other states in the Warsaw Pact as a limiting factor in the speed and form of our own political development."

The new, predominantly liberal 21-man Communist party presidium—elected Sunday—met Monday with instructions from the central committee to work for both speedy withdrawal of the 650,000 occupation troops and implementation of the reform program begun in January.

Dubcek's speech was interpreted as a warning to the reformers to go slow. It also appeared to be traditional Communist self-criticism for not anticipating the Soviet intervention.

Vecerni Praha, the only newspaper published in Prague Monday, said the central committee also voted to:

—Support the party leaders who negotiated the agreement in Moscow accepting the Soviet occupation and reimposing press censorship while allowing the liberals to remain in office.

—Restate Czechoslovak allegiance to the Warsaw Pact and repudiate the idea of neutrality.

—Indefinitely postpone the party congress that had been scheduled Sept. 9 to purge or

Legislators Reconvene Wednesday

Hot Session Facing Congress?

WASHINGTON (AP) — With one ear tuned to the presidential candidates and the other to the voters back home, congressmen return Wednesday to face some hot political topics and the possibility of a long session.

Thorniest matters before the Congress are stricter gun controls and President Johnson's nomination of Abe Fortas to succeed Earl Warren as chief justice of the United States.

The nomination is still in the Senate Judiciary Committee and it's anybody's guess when—and if—it will reach the floor.

Warren himself said two weeks ago in a speech that he expects to be around to open the court's fall session next month. If Republicans carry through with a threat to filibuster, Warren may have to keep his pledge to President Johnson to stay on indefinitely.

Johnson has nominated federal Judge Homer Thornberry to fill the vacancy that would be there have been suggestions that Senate ratification be put off for a year.

Foreign aid, already battered down to a million dollars less than President Johnson asked, may run into some additional flak because it is a controversial issue that becomes even more so in an election season. A bill authorizing $1.96 billion in foreign aid for the current fiscal year is now before House-Senate conferees. The authorization is likely to survive but appropriations could be much lower.

The Senate returns to face an appropriations bill for the Health, Education and Welfare and Labor departments as its immediate order of business. The House has four relatively minor bills on the docket for this holiday week.

But something may develop on the political front Sept. 11, when the House Committee has scheduled a meeting for consideration.

Parliamentary Brutality Too

One part of the bad image the Democrats picked up in Chicago came from what went on in the downtown streets of Chicago. One good thing about it was that there were enough police and troops on hand to control any conceivable situation.

Those who follow the maneuvers of the political game, there was another kind of brutality exhibited at Chicago which was almost as reprehensible as anything that happened in the streets.

There, as in the streets, the conflict was between something that might be called the "establishment" and those who wished to cause trouble for it and bring disrepute upon it.

There were individual delegates who had ideas they wished to express, or motions they wished to make.

It is true that, in the past, the role of presiding officer over a national political convention has proved controversial and sometimes decisive, by the way it could determine who got the floor for what purpose.

But at Chicago the Democratic party, which whenever anybody asks it would respond with the claim to be the greatest party in the world in its respect for the individual and his right of free speech, went totalitarian in its handling of its gavel.

Perhaps, the Vice President's most flawless decision was to pick one of New England's most distinguished former governors and present senators, Ed Muskie as his replacement.

The Humphrey speech of acceptance was a good deal more carefully constructed than the average Humphrey address, was shorter, and as usual, he had a greater felicity of phrase than former Vice President Nixon is normally capable of producing.

Both impeccable intangible barriers to freedom of motion and speech, as imposed by the convention chairman, were a much greater offense than all the more physical barriers thrown around the entrance to the hall.

One of the defenses of the national conventions as an institution against the claims of those who label it unmoderated, is that it is a place which allows the members of the party freedom of speech and maneuver and choice.

Indeed, the great moment of emotion during the convention was the film tribute to Robert Kennedy, the young man who saw wrong and tried to right it, saw suffering and tried to heal it, saw war and tried to stop it.

Integration Or Equality First?

A group of Negro and Puerto Rican in Newark, under the leadership of the local chapter of CORE, the Congress of Racial Equality, has filed legal suit trying to compel the Newark Board of Education to reopen a school the Board had closed as part of its racial segregation policy.

The Negro children who used to attend the school in question are now being bused to mixed-race schools elsewhere in the city. And part of the Newark Negro community - perhaps much the larger part - approves of this.

But the other part, which has now brought suit against the Board of Education, has adopted for itself that same advocacy of the "neighborhood school" concept which, when it first began desegregating among Negro groups, seemed almost a strange mockery of the raising of the "neighborhood school" issue in white suburban communities by people who didn't want to have Negro children bused out from the city ghettos.

Some of the spokesmen for CORE in Newark argue that it should be the right of Negro parents to have as much control over their own school as white parents can have.

The board, they argue, has established a double standard, based solely on race and color, which provides a "neighborhood school" system in white neighborhoods only.

So now, even in the same community, we have Negroes who are both for and against busing, both for and against the neighborhood school concept.

And this difference seems to reflect the deep philosophical difference between those Negroes who want integration in order to have equality, and those who want equality to be established first and separately, leaving such a minor detail as integration optional in the future.

Such a division must inevitably complicate this nation's effort of trying to deal with its racial problem. But one has a strange idea that it need not necessarily make that task basically any more difficult, for what is going on actually happens in and to American society, if it does find its way toward its own survival, is much more likely to be something like the eventual coalescing and quieting down of some many, diversified, many-currented maelstrom than it is to be the emergency damming up of some Niagara.

Those who hold that integration is the only way toward equality, and those who hold that equality must be the prelude to true integration are like, some day, to meet each other and their white counterparts at some four-cornered intersection where the lines of the map of America which has finally learned how to live with itself.

Inside Report

Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

CHICAGO Vice President Humphrey's failure to reconcile the Democratic party's doves had its roots not only in the White House but in outnumbers.

Southern delegations who cleverly elected maximum influence at the convention.

The tip-off, almost unnoticed in the convention hubbub, came Monday when Sen. George Smathers of Florida announced he would withdraw as a favorite delegate and support Humphrey.

What he did not announce was a private conversation that day with Humphrey, who pledged he would not disown the LBJ war policy.

Smathers was the key that unbridled the great gap, an ideological chasm, the Vietnam issue, and the division over law and order. He was only partially successful.

In terms of Vietnam he could only offer a heart felt promise that he would try to bring peace, in terms of law and order he pledged to support the president.

Perhaps, the Vice President's most flawless decision was to pick one of New England's most distinguished former governors and present senators, Ed Muskie as his replacement.

South Windsor Town Council to Resume Regular Meetings Tonight

Tonight at the Town Council meeting, the commission runs until Nov. 1971.

Brown is resigning his position on the commission because he cannot devote the time needed session, although one regular meeting was called by Mayor Edward E. Fitch.

The meeting will be held in the library of the high school.

Among items on the agenda for tonight's meeting is the appointment of a five- or seven-member Salary Study Committee to review and make recommendations regarding the salaries of town employees.

The council will also accept the resignation of Frank E. Brown from the Industrial Development Commission. His term on the commission runs until Nov. 1971.

The meeting will be held in the library of the high school.

Among items on the agenda for tonight's meeting is the appointment of a five- or seven-member Salary Study Committee to review and make recommendations regarding the salaries of town employees.

The council will also accept the resignation of Frank E. Brown from the Industrial Development Commission. His term on the commission runs until Nov. 1971.

Brown is resigning his position on the commission because he cannot devote the time needed session, although one regular meeting was called by Mayor Edward E. Fitch.

Parliamentary Brutality Too

One part of the bad image the Democrats picked up in Chicago came from what went on in the downtown streets of Chicago.

There, as in the streets, the conflict was between something that might be called the "establishment" and those who wished to cause trouble for it and bring disrepute upon it.

Tolland County 3 at Convention Differ on Events

By BETTE QUAYRALE
Tolland County's three returning veterans of the Democratic National Convention in Chicago came back with unanimous praise for the handling of the convention by Governor John Dempsey, but with differing views on the security precautions and demonstrations.

The three participants, delegate Ronald Calchiera of Hartford, and alternates Mrs. Naomi Hammer of Vernon and Gerald Anderson of Andover, all claim the actual convention differed considerably from what was seen on television.

The security precautions taken by Chicago Mayor Richard Daley were termed "unpleasantly opposing" by Anderson, "necessary" by Calchiera, and "possibly overdone, but for our benefit" by Mrs. Hammer and her husband, Harry, who attended the convention as a guest.

"Connecticut's delegation was run very fairly," according to Anderson, a member of the delegation who served as a "hard job" as the days wore on, according to Mrs. Hammer. "Everything mattered, we reached good decisions."

Calchiera described the experience as "awful strenuous and exhausting. You could feel the tension prevailing throughout the hall."

All three cheered the defeat of unit rule. "I have been a strong opponent of unit rule for many years," Calchiera stated yesterday.

The decision to drop unit rule was one of the prime objectives of the McCarthy supporters and the regular organization delegates, she explained. "We grew to understand each other."

"Governor Dempsey was impressive," according to Mrs. Hammer, who serves as state central committee-woman from the 8th District (Tolland County). "Elev. Joseph Duffley (leader of the state McCarthy forces) was in a difficult position," she added. "Although he was in competition with us, he was impressive in a political sense as well as being a gentleman."

Calchiera was pleased with the strong security measures at the convention, "otherwise I wouldn't have taken my wife."

Hammer, stating the security "may have been overdone," told of the difficulties experienced by House Speaker John McCormack in his attempt to escort Vice President Hubert Humphrey to the podium. McCormack didn't have his credentials with him, and guards would not let him onto the podium.

The atmosphere created by the heavy security "placed an extra burden on the convention," according to Atty. Hammer. "The oppressed feeling of security was unnecessary," according to Anderson.

The convention business created a serious mood among the delegates, who paid strict attention to the proceedings, according to both Mrs. Hammer and Calchiera.

"It was a tumultuous convention," Calchiera reported. "I've never seen anything like it before."

Although all three county participants were happy, Calchiera had attended two previous conventions as a guest.

Only one delegate cheered. Serving as a member of the delegation was a "hard job" as the days wore on, according to Mrs. Hammer. "Everything mattered, we reached good decisions."

Bolton Rosedale Beach Group Ends Season with Picnic Sunday

The Rosedale Beach Association will hold a picnic for all residents of the Rosedale area at 9:30 a.m. on Sunday, Sept. 1. The picnic will be held at the beach on Lynnwood Dr. beginning at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Alfred Ahearn, president of the association, reports that the picnic will give the members of the area the chance to get together to take in the fall and look for the winter.

Labels in charge of the food preparation will be Mrs. Billie Taylor, Mrs. Marilyn Giddens and Mrs. Dorothy Dusharme. They have requested that members volunteer various dishes such as salads, breads and casseroles, by telephone.

The Rosedale area is located between Tolland Rd. and Bolton Lake. It is made up of approximately 60 families, most of whom belong to the beach association, a voluntary organization whose primary purpose is the maintenance of the beach property and the development of neighborhood spirit, according to Ahearn.

Firearm Get 1st Prize
The Bolton fire department wins first overall in the second Tolland County Muster held yesterday in Ellington.

The department placed first in five events and third in four events.

Bob Morris, spokesman for the Bolton contingent, reported that he won the pole-ritch, with Ray Koma giving him the job.

The other first was in the bucket brigade, an event Bob also won last year. Morris listed team prizes, with appropriate nicknames: "Spidey" for Morris, "Waterboy" Fred Egan, "Hilltopper" Leon Rivers, "Cohop" Ross, "Bunny Rabbit" Tom Label and "Blind-my-shimmy" Morris Nassel.

Board to Fill Posts Tonight

The Board of Directors tonight will appoint State Rep. Robert Stavitsky to be an alternate on the Town Planning Commission. He will fill the unexpired term to November of this year, vacated when Joseph Swenson was appointed a regular member of the commission. Swenson replaced William B. Koppert, who had resigned.

Stavitsky, a Republican, as are Swenson and Koppert, represents Manchester's 19th Assembly District. He is running for reelection.

In other appointments tonight, the board will name Bernard Givone of 78 Woodhill Rd. to be the new Planning Commission member and the Action Commission for the Aging.

Givone, a Republican, is manager of the Parkside Lanes. He will fill the unexpired term to November 1969, vacated by the Rev. Paul Kaiser, also a Republican, who is moving from Manchester.

Court Continues Conspiracy Case

Two Manchester men charged with conspiring to rob United States Trust Co.'s branch on Elm, Hartford, last month appeared in Federal Court in Hartford this morning. One asked for a continuance because his lawyer could not be in court, and the other pleaded not guilty.

McAlmont is the town planer for Vernon. He is married and has two daughters and a son. He formerly served in the U.S. Air Force and is a member of the American Society of Planning Officials, the Vernon, Conn., 41 of 112 Walnut St., and Ronald F. Trombley, 24, of no certain address. Martin asked for the two-week continuance which was granted. Trombley pleaded not guilty and his case was continued indefinitely under variable winds, mostly south-west at 10 to 20 m.p.h. through Wednesday. Fair weather, with visibility one to three miles in fog this morning improving to five miles by afternoon.

Fires Quelled At Three Areas

Firemen from the Eighth District put out a fire in the dump on Mill St. yesterday at 5 p.m. The burning refuse caused no damage and firemen suspect the fire started in a pile of shrubbery someone left there.

Firemen from the Town Fire Department extinguished flames under the hood of a car on Center St. yesterday at 10:26 a.m. The flames are believed to have started around the carburetor.

Town firemen answered a call this morning at 448 W. Middle St., when a fire started in a furnace in an apartment building there. No damage was reported, but some smoke had to be removed from the building.

Hebron Nurse Unit Reports 67 July Visits

During July the Public Health Nursing Service made a total of 67 home visits in Hebron. Of this number 41 were nursing care visits. At the end of the month 21 active cases remained on the list of the nursing agency. Of the total number of visits made it was to patients receiving Medicare.

The agency which serves the three towns of Columbia, Hebron and Andover began providing service on July 1. During the first months of operation, patient records were transferred from the Northeastern Regional Office of the State Department of Health, physical and community agencies were notified by letter of the newly formed agency, and standing orders were developed and signed by the physicians and the Medical Advisory Committee.

Several clinics were conducted in July. In Hebron a vision-testing clinic was attended by 67 preschool children who are kindergarten through first grade. A dental fluoride and cleaning clinic was held the last week of July with a good attendance.

Mrs. Margaret Mohler is the public health nurse assigned to the Hebron and Gilead Hill Schools and to the Hebron area. Podium Players rehearsal. The Podium Players will hold a rehearsal preparatory to tryouts today at 7:30 p.m. at the home of William Lindsey, Johnson Rd., Manchester. The players will present Gilbert and Sullivan's "H.M.S. Pinafore" this fall under the direction of Mrs. June Nygren. John M. Bell and Horace Sellers will direct the music.

It was decided to rehearse the music prior to tryouts so that those wishing to take part might become somewhat familiar with the music. All those interested in taking part are invited to attend.

Red Barn Open
The Red Barn will be open Wednesday from 6:30 to 9 p.m. for the convenience of those wishing to leave articles for the auction. Men of the Hebron Congregational Church are asked to report to the barn to help ready it for the auction, Sept. 7.

Cong Shell Nha Trang

HAZARD (AP)—Viet Cong gunners shelled another major South Vietnamese city today, and the U.S. Command reported three American helicopters and a light-bomber shot down in the South. But a general lull in sustained fighting continued into a fifth day.

Two of the aircraft, a $2 million Air Force F4 Phantom and an Army helicopter, were downed three miles from the Cambodian border Tuesday, but all six crewmen were rescued.

The Phantom was supporting allied infantrymen northwest of Tay Ninh, and the helicopter was shot down as it tried to rescue the Phantom's two crewmen. Two other helicopters completed the rescue.

Ground fire brought down another helicopter in the central highlands, near An Khe. One crewman was injured and the helicopter was destroyed.

The third helicopter was shot down in a combat assault mission 18 miles northwest of Saigon. Three crewmen were killed and a fourth wounded. This was the same general area where American infantrymen clashed Tuesday with an enemy force of the 20th fighter-bomber and four other units.

A total of 83 American helicopters were shot down during the war, the Phantom was the major city shelled by the Viet Cong last week.

Communications Slip Omaha, Neb. (AP)—A requirement that some new pupils carry special transfer slips caused some confusion at a school as classes began here Tuesday.

A teacher told a fifth grade girl, "I haven't seen your slip yet." The girl lifted her dress and said, "See, I've got it on."

Gunmen Hit Bronx Bank, Elude Police in Speedboat

NEW YORK (AP)—Using a speedboat called Chetab, three gunmen eluded a small armada of police boats and aircraft on Long Island Sound Tuesday after taking possibly as much as $70,000 from a City Island bank, police said.

The unusual getaway vehicle was found abandoned almost five hours later but police did not capture a man they said had helped plan the spectacular robbery.

Police said that two armed men invaded the bank about 10 p.m., and one forced bank personnel and customers to lie on the floor while the other cleaned out $70,000 from the bank's vaults.

A spokesman for the Manufacturers' Hanover Trust Co. said "We went right down on the branch and the men disarmed a guard but a teller, seeing the rifle carried by one robber, activated the alarm system and alerted the police."

The bank officials put the amount of the robbery at $70,000 pending an audit. The two men, one wearing a black mask and the other carrying a bolt action shotgun, fled from the bank to the waiting outdoor motorboat in yellow panel truck which was reported stolen last month in Putnam Valley, N.Y.

The gunmen transferred to the boat at a nearby mooring. Witnesses reported they saw the boat's name as it churned away from the pier. They incorrectly reported the boat was blue and white, police said.

A police helicopter, nine police launchers, a Coast Guard cutter and a Coast Guard cutter searched blue and white pleasure boats in the area before the boat's description was corrected. It was red and white, police said.

US Will Pledge Troops To Meet Soviet Threat

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is willing to pledge along with the NATO allies to maintain current troop levels in Europe as one way to meet the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, which points like a dagger at the heart of free Europe.

The sources say the issuing of such a pledge probably would be done in a joint statement. They said this was among all members of the NATO Security Council at a meeting today called to chart policy toward the Soviet presence in Czechoslovakia, which points like a dagger at the heart of free Europe.

President Johnson called the late afternoon session with his top military, defense and diplomatic aides earlier in the week while winding up a long stay at his ranch in Texas. He returned to Washington today.

The session parallels a similar review now going on in the lower chambers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization at Brussels.

Decisions made here will be transmitted to the U.S. congress. The U.S. military and diplomatic moves to meet the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia and what some consider threatening gestures toward Romania.

Czechoslovakia now harbors an estimated 200,000 elite Red Army troops and is expected to be causing the most concern. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the country does not plan to invade Romania.

However, prompted President Johnson last week to beam straight at Moscow over the matter it "not to unleash the dogs of war." And the subject was on the table before the NSC.

Although officials are reluctant to predict what the council will decide, they acknowledged that the United States would be agreeing to sending a statement with its allies pledging no further reductions of forces in Europe.

Regarding American forces in Europe it is now clear that congressional requests for troop reductions can be shelved, the officials said.

Most of the 34,000 men in the redeployed and stationed in the United States, though committed to NATO, under terms of a 1967 agreement, are back in this country by the end of the year. The Defense Department might announce soon when in 1969 the men would be sent back for maneuvers in West Germany.

NATO also must take a new look like a revival of the post-World War II Little Entente. "I've never seen a more determined man in the history of the world," said the foreign minister of the Czech Republic, Frantisek Vlasak and State Control Minister Stefan Gasparik.

Vlasak and Gasparik returned to Prague from Yugoslavia Tuesday, but Sk remained in Belgrade and Havel is in Switzerland. Sk and Havel have been abroad since before Soviet, Bulgarian, and Polish troops invaded Czechoslovakia on Aug. 20.

Havel came to New York for the U.N. Security Council debate on the invasion, but on orders from Prague asked the council to drop the matter after Soviet and Czechoslovak leaders accused him of seeking foreign policy changes which Moscow opposes, including closer ties with the West.

Havel also urged the Soviet government to support the Communist Yugoslav and Romanian—both rebels against Khrushchev domination—in what

They find, for example, that her senses are so keenly developed she can tell when a child is misbehaving several feet away and often can tell exactly who it is before walking closer to him.

And when a child writes on the blackboard, Mrs. Mowbray can even tell when he makes a mistake by the sound of the chalk against the board.

Nigeria OK's Accelerated Biafran Aid

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—The Red Cross begins an accelerated airlift of food and medicine into besieged Biafra Thursday following an agreement with the Nigerian government permitting daytime flights for a 10-day period.

Meanwhile, Lagos said its troops were battling for control of two of the rebel's three remaining towns. The federal Ministry of Information announced the airlift agreement with the International Red Cross Committee Tuesday.

Up to now, the Lagos government said, it would shoot down any planes flying into the besieged Biafra, claiming the rebels' flights were carrying arms into the breakaway republic.

The Red Cross had announced Monday that it would begin daytime mercy flights despite the Nigerian blockade. The Red Cross and other private groups have been flying emergency supplies to two Biafran airstrips at night, but the amount of food they have been able to deliver is negligible compared to the needs of the millions threatened with starvation.

Agreement for the expanded airlift came during a meeting in Lagos between August Lindt, International Red Cross director, and Nigerian officials.

The child, Sabrina Crider, was unborn as Winthrop Mitchell, 27-year-old former convict, walked trembling from the windowless room where he had held police at bay for eight hours with his threat to kill the girl.

The breakthrough came when Dr. Jesse Pons, a 69-year-old internist, heard about the incident on his car radio while driving home from a Massachusetts vacation and raced here to help.

"I had pretty good rapport with him in the past but thought I could help," said Pons, who arrived about 10 p.m. He walked Mitchell several times over the past five years.

Police said the incident began when Mitchell argued with Mary Ellen Crider, 22, the girl's mother. Mitchell was in the room when the girl was born, but she was not with her brother, James Crider, when she was shot.

Mitchell then retreated to the 10-by-10 square bathroom room where Pons went to talk with him when he arrived.
