Statement from an Electric Heating Expert

"I think it's amazing how this system works. We've had our first winter when we could sit around in comfort, the same first winter everywhere."

"ELECTRIC HEAT IS AMAZING..."

That's what Mr. and Mrs. Leslie W. Dotchin of Woodland Street, Wethersfield, say.

"We never knew when our old heating system would break down," Mr. Dotchin recalls, "and we were not comfortable. We had to put on sweaters to answer the phone in the hall, and our daughter couldn't study in her freezing bedroom."

"My wife and I both work," he continues, "and we used to spend our weekends housecleaning, because everything got smeared with soot. Then we converted to baseboard electric heat."

"Now everything's perfect. We've had our first winter when we could sit around in comfort, the same first winter everywhere. For the size of the house, it's amazing how this system heats!"

"What I like is the cleanliness of electric heat," Mrs. Dotchin adds. "We can relax and enjoy the weekends, now."

There are many different electric heating systems. Check with your plumber or electric heating contractor or HECO for the one to fit your home.

Viet War Escalates As Issue

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey drove a standing ovation from a crowd of 5,000 Friday night as he pledged to do everything possible to find an honorable peace, to end this war.

His Republican rival, Richard M. Nixon, cautioned against a settlement that would bring home troops' 18 and 20-year-old soldiers but would mean "their 14 and 16-year-old brothers will be fighting someone else again."

Nixon said if a coalition government were imposed on South Vietnam, the Communists would only be encouraged to try aggression elsewhere.

Humphrey, speaking in Louisville, Ky., made what may have been an allusion to his role as vice president in the Johnson administration when he noted the eagle on his seal of office holds only a single olive branch, compared to the cluster on the presidential seal.

The Democratic candidate said, "How can you expect me to be the No. 1 peace man when one little olive branch. You let me see your olive branch."

SAIGON (AP) — A task force of 2,000 U.S. Marines swept through the demilitarized zone placed an embargo on news drive to seize the enemy's weapons stockpiles and destroy its infiltration trails.

Heavy fighting also raged near the Cambodian border, where government troops holding an emboldened outpost reported killing 173 enemy.

Helicopters carried the Macan and South Vietnamese forces have made five major thrusts into the zone's eastern flank over the last 16 months, including one last Friday.

The zone, which extends three miles on each side of the North-South Vietnamese border, is supposed to be neutral territory, but enemy troops have broken it and 10 wounded.

It is reported the first time an allied outpost reported killing 173 enemy.

Headquarters said the operation had two aims, to destroy hidden war supplies and to disrupt a newly discovered network of "spies trails" enabling North Vietnamese to move swiftly through the DMZ to Marine outposts.

A British trawler said it is "approaching earth," he said. "I've an earth orbit trip next month and I couldn't see him off."

There was a hint of regret in his voice when a 46-year-old pull. With the Mercury and Gemini preparations, he's been one of the best of his lot.

Last week my son left for college and I couldn't see him off."

Schirra, who once declared a trip to the moon was his major mission, and we don't have that much coming up, if you recall our budget."

Associated Press correspondent John Wheeler reported from Marine headquarters that the DMZ sweep had seized 400 Russian assault rifles and 300,000 rounds of ammunition in addition to other booty.

In search operations just behind the DMZ over the past three weeks, the Marines uncovered about 400 enemy weapons, 15,000 mortar and rocket warheads and mounds of other supplies.

The stockpiles could have been intended for an attack against the Hook Pile, a Marine outpost just below the central part of the DMZ, or to re-supply enemy forces that have been harassing other allied outposts in South Vietnam's northern provinces.

The Marines reported killing 23 North Vietnamese troops on the first day of the DMZ operation and have since had only scattered contacts in the heavily jungled terrain.

In several instances, food and ammunition were dropped by the U.S. troops by parachute, but there have been no jumps in combat.

No helicopters were lost in the assault landings, headquarters said, but one big supply chopper went down, presumably because of mechanical failure. There were no casualties.

Further details were not revealed.

Headquarters would not say how long the Marines would stay in the DMZ, but they were expected to withdraw once the arms stockpiles and infiltration trails are taken.

The heavy flying northeast of the base is being reported.

Sheinwold on Bridge

YOUTHFUL EXPERTS TWIST LION'S TAIL

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Steve Altman and Mike Becker, 24, were the youngest bridge experts ever to reach the finals of the national team championship of the American Contract Bridge League. They lost their final match last month in Minneapolis, but they had the pleasure of bringing the lion's tail with the hand shown today.

Opening lead—three of hearts. Young Becker (on of veteran champion El Jay Becker) made a light opening bid of one heart on the West hand, and Sidney Lazard doubled with the North hand. "I wasn't Lazard's favorite hand for a takeout double since it contained only three spades, and some experts would prefer a simple overcall of two clubs.

The double gave young Altman his opportunity. His jump to four hearts robbed South of bidding room and made his guess at his best move.

The South player was George Rappee, who won his first world championship in 1966, when his Rappee couldn't be quite sure of beating four hearts, but felt confident he could make nine or 10 tricks at spades if his partner held four-card spade support for the takeout double of one heart.

Side Four Spades

Since it usually pays to bid one spade when both sides have good trump suits and good distribution, Rappee bid four spades. Becker doubled, and the veterans were in the soup.

East won the first trick with the ace of hearts; Altman actually collected a penalty of 500 points if he had returned the ten of spades. Altman actually shifted to the nine of diamonds, and Rappee managed to get out for 500 points. This was no triumph, since the veterans could have beaten four hearts.

Try this kind of jump raise the next time you have five trumps following a takeout

United Fund $$$ Work For— Association for the Help of Retarded Children

When a small group of parents of mentally retarded children banded together in 1962 to form the Manchester Association for the Help of Retarded Children, they pledged themselves to the task of increasing opportunities for Manchester's mentally retarded children. Today, 14 years after its formation, scores of this community's retarded children and adults are benefiting from a number of different programs designed to provide training and education, social awareness, recreation and leisure activities developed by the association.

In 1968 the association turned its efforts toward the establishment of a sheltered workshop. Starting in on room at the Bunces Center, it has now expanded to facilities on School St. in the basement of the old Howell Cheney Technical School. The optimum aim is for placement in industry and next to provide paid employment in the sheltered workshop on industrial work provided by subcontractors. Training is provided in the following areas: Bench work, wrapping, food service, maintenance, receiving, shipping, salvage operations and freight handling.

The staff at the workshop consists of a director, a supervisor, an assistant to the supervisor and the shop manager. Volunteer staff on a daily basis assist the staff. For the past year there have been 20 steady clients in the shop, and top enrollment at the store. George has continuously had the benefit of following in from outlying communities for 8-month training periods. Four clients have been placed in jobs in the community in the past year.

George, 23 years old, is presently working at King's Department Store in Manchester in the stock room. He operates a machine which affixes price tags to all merchandise. George spent 18 months at the Sheltered Workshop. His production record, good attitude and work habits made him a highly qualified potential for employment. When King's approached the shop manager about their need for a young man to fill the job in the stock room, George was immediately considered for placement. The shop manager was shown the job, and he in turn handled the training of George in the use of the machine on the scene of the shop, and top enrollment at the store. George has continuously had the benefit of following in from outlying communities for 8-month training periods. Four clients have been placed in jobs in the community in the past year.

Tolland Last Voter-making Session Spurs Patriotic Observance

Tolland's final voter registration session prior to the November election has prompted a Patriotic Day observance sponsored by the Tolland Junior Women's Club.

The event to be held Oct. 12, beginning at 10 a.m. at the Helena Memorial School gym, will feature Glasbury's Sing Out America group, various displays of local community groups and activities, and a bicycle and doll carriage parade for the children.

Adding to the atmosphere will be the sale of popcorn, candy apples and cotton candy. Baby-sitting services will be available on the premises.

Participating groups include the Tolland Volunteer Ambulance Association, Civil Defense, Tolland Volunteer Fire Department, 4-H Clubs, Boy and Girl Scouts, the Tollanders Square Dance Club, the Republican Women's Club and the Young Dems.

Each group will set up displays and have representatives present to answer questions about their activities and work in the community.

Children between the ages of five and 12 are eligible to compete in the decorated bicycle and doll carriage parades and contests.

The voter registration session will be held in the Town Hall on the Green from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Obituary

William Brainard Dies, Former Athlete, Umpire

William H. Brainard Jr., 72, of 71K Bluefield Dr., past commander of Manchester Barracks of World War I Veterans and well known baseball umpire in Manchester for many years, died suddenly yesterday at his home after suffering a heart attack.

Mr. Brainard was born June 1, 1896 in Manchester, son of William H. and Cora Thompson Brainard, and had lived here all of his life. He and his wife, Mrs. Minnie Freeman Brainard, observed their 47th wedding anniversary on July 8.

He was a member of the Second Congregational Church and the church choir. He also was a member of the First Church of Divine Light in Hartford where he held the title of Reverend.

An Army veteran of World War I, he was elected commander of Manchester Barracks of World War I Veterans in 1964. He also was a member of the American Legion in Hartford and the Hartford Old Timers Club. He was employed as a shipping clerk at the former Bon Ami Orford Soap Co. before he retired.

Mr. Brainard was an outstanding athlete during his youth, playing the outfield with several fine Bon Ami baseball teams and football with the North End Majors. Later he turned to umpiring and worked hundreds of baseball and softball games for over 25 years. He also was a regular volunteer on Thanksgiving morning as a timer for the annual Five Mile Road Race of the Tall Cedars.

Survivors, besides his wife,

include 5 sons, William H. Brainard III, Edgar S. Brainard, John J. Brainard, Harold S. Brainard, all of Hartford, and Arthur F. Hospital Cost Hearing Topic

A 12-member Connecticut Legislative Committee, involved in a year-long study of hospital costs, health insurance, and other matters relating to the operation and expansion of hospitals, will conduct a public hearing Oct. 21 at 8 p.m. in the Judiciary Room of the State Capitol.

The committee was established by an act of the 1967 Legislature and will report its findings to the 1969 Legislature. It is named "The Committee to Provide Study of Possible Means of Increasing Hospital Efficiency."

Its chairman, State Sen. Gloria Scaffer of Woodbridge, has urged the public to attend the Oct. 21 hearing. She said, "We are most anxious to learn from the consumers of hospitals and other health facilities what their experiences, both negative and positive, have been. It is vital to the work of the committee that public opinion be presented."

Czechs Draw Russia's Ire

The prayers recited in the Synagogue on this holiday speak of God as King and Judge who determines the life and destiny of man and Nations. This is symbolized by the concept of the Book of Life with God as the Great Recorder of the human destinies, and it is the fervent prayer of the worshippers that they and all mankind be inscribed for life, for blessing and for peace.

Parade by Tall Cedars To Begin at 5 O'Clock

The Tall Cedars of Lebanon District 15 Fall Ceremonial parade hosted in Manchester by the Nutmeg Forest will begin at 5 p.m. at the corner of Main and Charter Oak Sts.

The parade will go up Main St. to Center St. and pass before the reviewing stand on the steps of the Masonic Temple before dispersing.

In the first division by order of appearance will be: Police escort, Nutmeg Forest Color Guard, Parade Marshal Nash Rowlett, Mayor Nate Agostinelli and Town Manager Robert Weiss, the Manchester Masonic Lodge officers, the Supreme Forest officers, the Past Grand Tall Cedars, the Nutmeg Forest Band, the John Mather Chapter of the Demolay, the New Britain Charms and the Nutmeg Forest Muscular Dystrophy Float.

In the second division will be Assistant Marshal Leroy Norris, the Quinebaugh Forest officers, the Laurel Forest officers, the Manchester Pipe Band, the Order of the Rainbow for Girls, the Manchester Assembly No. 15, the Gaelic School of Irish Dancing, the Army-Navy Club and the Silver City Valley Club.

The third division will be the Tuxedo Forest color guard, its officers, File and Drum Corps, Forest Rangers and the Tuxedo Forest Cedarettes, VFW Post No. 2046 and its auxiliary, the Bellview Square Drill Team, the Tolland Twirlers, the Manchester Composite Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol, the Wilson Volunteer Fire Dept., the O.V. Bond Issues Get Support Of Chamber

The Board of Directors of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce has announced its endorsement and support of the three school bond issues totaling $2.6 million. The items face the voters Nov. 5 during national elections.

The Chamber leaders explained their decision. There is an evident need for the $1,965,000 new Lincoln School with 22 classrooms due to the state of the present Lincoln School at the Center. The site on the north side of Center Springs Park is the best available, they said.

The heating systems at the Bennett Junior High School and the Nathan Hale School are the original systems installed over 50 years ago. The $568,000 to renovate them has been needed for years, they said.

Columbia Late Bus to Windham High Voted by Education Board

The Herald's substitute correspondent in Columbia is Adeline G. Urban, tel. 228-2861.

The Columbia Board of Education approved the running of a late bus to Windham High School for Columbia students at a special meeting held this week.

From a poll taken of the 220 students attending Windham from Columbia, it indicated that over 100 are involved in extra-curricular activities. Parents of the students were anxiously awaiting the outcome of the board meeting, as up until now, the youngsters have had to seek their own transportation. It is reported that several parents contacted board members urging passage of the late bus proposal. Only one parent appeared at the special meeting, however.

Even though 100 or so signed up for extra-curricular activities, some are not involved year-round which indicates that those working on the set-up feel it is necessary to have only one bus. The bus will be provided only for those students who will participate in curricular or extra-curricular activities. The student will be issued a pass and he must present it in order to board the bus. Anyone abusing the privilege will not be able to use the pass again.

It was agreed by the board that due to darkness approaching early and with cold weather around the corner a loose bus route should be established to deliver students within a reasonable walking distance of their homes.

Schedule Approved Wallace Lehr, board member and chairman of school transportation, has met with Herbert Engliert, bus contractor, and the following schedule has been approved by the board: The late bus from Windham High School for the local pupils will start Monday at 5:30 p.m. The bus will leave at 5:30 p.m. and proceed to Cards Mill Rd., to Old Willimantic Rd., to the center, turn left on Rt. 87 to Doubleday Rd. to Pine St. to Hunt Rd.

The bus will then cross Rt. 86 to West St. to Lake Rd. turning left on Rt. 87 to Rt. 8 at Lindholm's Corner, proceeding right on Rt. 6 to Edgerton Rd. to Rt. 88 and return to Herb's Garage at the junction of Rt. 6 and 88. It is requested that pupils leave the bus at the point nearest their home.

Representative Named Other business occurring at the special meeting included the re-appointment of Miss Edith Hayer, board member, as Columbia's representative to the Library Service Center in Willimantic.

Mrs. Morgan Hills, board member, was named to represent the local board on the supervisory committee to Project ASK.

Chairman of the board, Donald Tuttle, reported that the $15,000 tuition bill received from the Windham board was to cover the usual 10 per cent charge, over and above tuition fees for 1967, which had inadvertently been omitted on the original bill. The board voted to send a check in the amount of $12,500 which was the sum left in their budget, and the remainder to be submitted out of next year's budget.

The board authorized payment of advertising bills in the amount of $43.50 in connection with the proposed athletic field. Bills submitted for the project were turned down by the board earlier this month.

Miss Collins on TV Linda Collins of Columbia will appear as vocalist with "Some Dead Bears," a folk-rock musical group selected from the University of Hartford as contestants on the "All-American College Talent Show." It will be shown on Channel 8 at 10:30.

Rosh Hashanah Services Rosh Hashanah services for the new year 5729 will be held at Congregation Agudath Achim, Rt. 87, on Sunday at 6:45 p.m. Morning services Monday are scheduled for 9 a.m.; evening 6:45, and Tuesday morning at 9 a.m.

Horowitz Makes His Debut

Vladimir Horowitz is on Sunday night at 9 on CBS.

By LAWRENCE LAURENT
The Washington Post
NEW YORK—Vladimir Horowitz made his American debut 40 years ago and has long been acclaimed one of the finest pianists in the world. But in 40 years, he never appeared on any screen—motion picture or television.

This is one of many reasons that Sunday night's telecast, "Vladimir Horowitz: A Television Concert at Carnegie Hall" on CBS is considered one of the most important events of this season.

Horowitz confessed the other day that he had carefully avoided mass media throughout his career. He didn't explain, except to add: "There was a little radio. They used to broadcast concerts from Carnegie Hall."

Beyond its historic importance, the program is memorable for the sheer artistry that producer-director Roger Englander has captured for television. He has developed a restful camera technique that will show even the most passionate Horowitz admirer many things that can never be seen in the concert hall.

Horowitz, himself, was afraid of the gimmickry and visual tricks that many directors play on musicians. But here one will find no mirrored keyboard. Nor will he see the familiar super-imposition of the pianist's fingers on the piano's sounding board. Englander has managed to achieve the necessary visual variety, but none will ever be confused about the most important elements: Vladimir Horowitz and his artistry at the piano.

No commercial interruptions are permitted and the sponsoring General Telephone and Electronics Corp. has grouped its messages at the beginning and at the end of the recital.

Missing, also is the usual cascade of introductory explanations. The entire verbal content of the concert consists of five words: "Ladies and gentlemen: Vladimir Horowitz."

In choosing a program, Horowitz insisted that "for television, one needs mainly short pieces." With help from executive producer Howard Taubman, he selected the following program: Chopin's "Ballade in G Minor," Opus 23, "Nocturne in F Minor," Opus 55, No. 1 and "Polonaise in F-Sharp Minor," Opus 55, No. 1; Scarlatti's Sonatas in E Major and G Major; Schumann's "Arabesque," Opus 18 and "Traumerei"; Scriabin's "Etude in D-Sharp Minor," Opus 8, No. 12; and his own "Variations on a Gypsy Song from Bizet's 'Carmen.'"

Horowitz decided this program was neither "playing down" to the TV audience; nor is it "too esoteric. Everything is in the middle."

He added: "I didn't want to play long pieces and tax the public. They should enjoy."

Horowitz wasn't the least concerned over the number of complaints about the program's having been scheduled on Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish holiday.

"Rosh Hashanah," he said, "is not Yom Kippur. The service at the temple is rather brief and time is left for going home and watching my program."

Horowitz, with a chuckle, added: "And don't let anyone tell me that I am violating a holiday by working. The program was taped last February."

The conversation ended with a small wager. Horowitz had told one interviewer that the concert would probably never be repeated. I had seen a closed circuit preview of the concert that had the small audience literally applauding the performance.

I suggested that the program might be repeated at regular intervals, befitting its classic worth. "I am always a pessimist where I am concerned," said Horowitz. The wager was set and I am fully expecting that I shall one day possess a one dollar bill that once belonged to Vladimir Horowitz.

They Love Lucy, Too

By JOAN CROSBY

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — The boy is 15½, very handsome and serious. The girl is 17, pretty and a natural comedienne. They are a pair of nice kids having lunch in their mother's office and mother is just not a good enough actress to keep the maternal glow of pride of her blue eyes.

Spend some time with them and you hear mother-children conversations such as go on all over the world. The boy sneezed. The mother rose from her chair, walked around the table and felt his forehead.

"Are you getting a cold?" she asked. He said he wasn't. "Are you telling me the truth?" she wondered. "I don't think he is, mom," the girl said. "I'm all right, really," the boy said.

Temporarily the concern was eased, but you know the next time the boy sneezed, mother would worry again.

And that is the kind of mother Lucille Ball is, a good one, a careful one, a protective one and a very proud one. Her children, Lucie and Desi Arnaz, are joining her in a new format, "Here's Lucy."

The change was necessitated when Lucy sold Desilu Studios and its programs to Gulf and Western Industries. Rather than work for another producer, Lucille Ball Productions created "Here's Lucy," retained Gale Gordon and added Lucy's own youngsters to the cast.

Lucie, who acted in high school plays and who appeared in a small role with her mother last season, and Desi, who performs with the Dino, Desi and Billy trio, were basically unknown talents.

"At first we were not sure we were doing the right thing," Lucy said. "They didn't want to discourage me or I them, so we all worried quietly. I didn't want to put any unfounded worries in their minds. I didn't have to worry. I am delighted to say they have both gotten every laugh we wrote into the script, plus about 18 or 20 others. And the audience which watches us do the show has caught their enthusiasm."

Both youngsters are being privately tutored while appearing on their mother's show, because Lucy thinks this is a good chance for them to learn about

The Hippie Scene Is Like Through

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hippies don't know it yet, but they are going out of style—out of television style, anyway.

The girls with the tangled hair and the boys with the beards are still much in evidence here, peddling their publications to tourists on the Sunset Strip. But to many executives of the nearby Hollywood studios, hippies, flowers, beads and bare feet have had it. They are old-hat and, worse, boring.

"Hippies and all that psychedelic stuff are out," said producer Aaron Spelling with a sweeping gesture. "Television covered that scene thoroughly last year, and it's over."

Spelling is the boss of ABC's new "Mod Squad" series built around youth and its problems.

"We're not going with hippie stories," said Sid Sheinberg of NBC's "Name of the Game" series. "They've been overdone. Our stories will be modern, involve youth, but will have a different thrust."

Entertainment series, to meet television's needs, are always looking for new angles and timely plots. Writers snapped up the hippie movement with enthusiasm. Scarcely a series failed to treat of the younger generation's lost members—the acid-heads, the trippers in particular—in shocking, colorful backgrounds spun out of Haight-Asbury.

Like too much of anything hippie stories, inevitably began to lose impact. Producers of television shows must be especially sensitive to public reaction in order to survive. By some sort of mysterious community antenna, it seems, hippies have joined hula hoops and the frug on the TV shelf.

"The hippie scene is over," said Spelling, "but youth problems remain. We'll take up high school dropouts, a new twist in adoption rackets, and a scary new way to set up a car-stealing ring. We'll be concerned with seldous things like teen-age suicide, vandalism by kids from well-to-do homes, and the drug problem. But we'll keep away from the cliches, like pot smoking."

Keeping away from cliches is pretty hard in television. A look over the action-adventure field indicates that they will stick close to familiar themes—urban unrest, syndicated crime, psychiatric cases on which to build their stories.

What seems new is that producers insist that somewhere along the line these stories will be "making a statement."

show business. "They don't need schools for social life or to see what is out there in the great world. I think it's a good idea for all kids to get a chance to try careers while they are young."

Lucie, whose natural sense of comedy and delivery is reminiscent not of her mother, but of Carol Burnett, is pretty certain she wants to remain an actress.

"I would love to win an Academy Award," she said. "An Emmy would be nice, too."

"I want to be a dramatic actor," Deel added. "At 15 1/2, I'm getting laughs, but wait until I'm 20. I'd like a western movie, too, but everybody wants to do a western."

Lucy interrupted. "This is letter-to-Santa-Claus time."

Ask Lucie and Deel if anything surprised them about their new careers and they are pretty
