

How the Campaigns Shape Up

Humphrey

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey's campaign is showing smoke if not fire. With his quest for the presidency in its second week, the vice president drew in Toledo what appeared to be the biggest crowds of his campaign—and he was as obviously delighted as a boy with a double dip ice cream cone.

"Thank you, thank you very much," he said beamingly, pumping hands as a hundred or more persons crowded around his car Sunday outside an ice cream parlor.

Humphrey is behind and knows it. He started late and slow. Even the money, he says, is in short supply, thus his television advertising was late. He also feels the turbulence surrounding the Chicago convention hurt him in the polls.

But Humphrey, the cheerful exponent of the politics of hope, (See Page Eight)

Nixon

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, confident but cautious, is campaigning for the White House from a script which emphasizes television and devotes little public attention to his two presidential opponents.

Nixon's standard campaign speech includes a set series of taunts at Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic nominee.

Nixon tells the crowd—generally big ones—that a nation in trouble should not turn for leadership to a member of the administration that got it there.

George C. Wallace, the third party candidate, gets not a word from Nixon on the campaign platform. The Republican nominee contends that would only build up Wallace, so he never mentions the man.

Nevertheless, Wallace is a (See Page Eight)

Wallace

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — "My campaign," said a grinning George C. Wallace to an audience in Dallas the other day, "reminds me of the old joke that begins, 'They laughed when I sat down to play...'"

"Well," he said to the boom of applause and the scream of rebel yells, "not many Democrats or Republicans are laughing now."

Wallace has said that even he, whose political antennae are probably as sensitive as anybody's, did not anticipate when he announced his third-party candidacy in January the degree of success it would achieve by late September.

Wallace, for example, expected his "mission impossible" task force of Alabama lawyers to win for him a place on the ballots of 40 states at most.

Last week, when he met the qualifications of the 50th state (See Page Eight)

Soviet Lunar Spaceship Lands in Indian Ocean

Expert Sees Manned Shot Coming Soon

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russians forged ahead in the space race again over the weekend by recovering an unmanned spaceship that splashed down in the Indian Ocean after circling the moon.

Sir Bernard Lovell, Britain's top space expert, predicted that the Soviets within months will make a manned shot around the moon. James E. Webb, outgoing head of the U.S. space program, said the latest Russian feat "shows a capability that could change the basic structure and balance of power in the world."

The spaceship, Zond 5, was launched on Sept. 14. It went into a holding orbit around the earth, then took off for the moon. It circled the moon on Wednesday, landed in the Indian Ocean Saturday night, and was picked up by a Russian recovery ship Sunday.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said scientific instruments aboard the space ship had been recovered with "a vast body of scientific information."

Lovell, director of Britain's Jodrell Bank Observatory and an authority on the Soviet space program, called the Soviet shot "a considerable achievement... It probably means that a manned round-the-moon flight will occur in the coming months as a direct challenge to America's Apollo project."

Webb, who a week ago predicted the United States would remain second in the space race for years because of heavy cuts in its space budget, said the Zond 5 flight demonstrated that the Russians have "an able-bodied rocket" bigger than any operational U.S. rocket.

Webb said the flight was "the most significant demonstration of its time," comparable to Sputnik 1, the first satellite to orbit the earth.

He also predicted that the next Soviet feat would be a manned flight around the moon.

West Germany's Bochum Institute for Satellites and Space Exploration predicted that such a flight would be accomplished with a three-man spacecraft "this year or at latest in the first quarter of 1969."

"With his fantastic success, the U.S.S.R. is on the way to being the victor and being the first to reach the moon," said (See Page Ten)

William Willis, 75, U.S. navigator, is shown as he took off from Montauk, N. Y., in June 1967, in an 11-foot sailboat in unsuccessful attempt to cross the Atlantic. Tass, the Soviet agency, reported Sunday the finding of a demasted and deserted yacht apparently belonging to Willis.

Leathernecks Probe DMZ; Action Light

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marines over the weekend found two heavily fortified camps just below the North Vietnamese frontier. The bases evidently were intended to sustain the Communist thrust through the center of the demilitarized zone that intelligence reports indicate is planned in the next six weeks.

While the Marines were uncovering hundreds of bunkers and huge stocks of munitions, South Vietnamese soldiers reported killing 98 North Vietnamese in a pitched battle on the eastern flank of the DMZ.

Most of the significant action reported today occurred in a northern province. Elsewhere another lull in the war appeared to be lengthening, with enemy forces avoiding contact and making a few attacks.

Upwards of 2,000 American Marines were probing the wooded foothills north of their Republic base, sitting abetw the central infiltration route from the 17th parallel.

Inside the demilitarized zone above the Rockpile the Marines on Saturday found a complex of 300 log bunkers, some reinforced with steel beams, and a huge stockpile of shells, rockets, rifle and machine-gun ammunition, mines and grenades and rice.

On Sunday, men of the 26th Marine Regiment a few miles to the south located a second underground fortress of some 300 bunkers, along with 1,200 more (See Page Ten)

Soviets Find Empty Boat

Lone U.S. Sailor, 75, Believed Lost at Sea

MOSCOW (AP) — William Willis, the 75-year-old American who floated across the Pacific Ocean alone on a raft four years ago, is believed lost on his third attempt to cross the Atlantic.

A Soviet fishery ship came upon a de-masted, deserted sailboat on which Willis' passport, medical card, other documents and a diary were found, Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported Sunday.

The boat was found in the Atlantic about 400 miles west of Ireland by a fisheries ship from the Latvian town of Leļņpāja. Tass said it was hoisted aboard the Soviet ship after a futile search for Willis. But the report did not indicate where the boat and the papers were taken.

Tass said the passport was numbered 22757 and had been issued in New York City on March 18, 1968. It gave Willis' birth place, Germany, and his date of birth, Aug. 19, 1893.

The diary indicated Willis had set out on a round-the-world voyage alone May 3, 1968. Tass said the last entry in the diary was July 18.

In New York, Willis' wife said, "I still have hopes until the Coast Guard lets me know officially."

The Coast Guard in New York said it had not been informed by the Russians. It added it was difficult to check the passport number given by Tass since it contained five instead of the usual six digits and did not have a letter preceding it.

Willis, who was born in Hamburg, Germany, in 1893, had always been drawn to the sea. He told a reporter that when he was 4 he wandered down into the harbors of Hamburg and was always "getting into the boats and being chased out."

He went to sea at 15 as a deck boy on a four-masted bark, sailing from Hamburg to the Gulf of California with a cargo of Ruhr coke.

At the age of 61 Willis set out from Peru and sailed alone to Pago Pago, in Samoa, aboard a banana raft with only a cat and a parrot for company. A decade later, he completed the second part of the 9,800-mile voyage across the Pacific, arriving in Tully, Australia, in September 1964.

Parishioners Leaving St. Matthew's

200 Stage Walkout At Catholic Mass

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bitter dispute within the Washington Roman Catholic archdiocese has intensified in the wake of an unprecedented walk-out protest against Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle, archbishop of the diocese.

About 200 persons walked out of St. Matthew's cathedral during masses Sunday as the cardinal rose to urge obedience to Pope Paul VI's latest edict banning use of artificial birth control.

The cardinal, who has been challenged on his interpretation of the Pope's encyclical by 44 area priests, had ordered a pastoral letter criticizing the dissenters read in all Roman Catholic churches in his jurisdiction.

Cardinal O'Boyle himself read the letter at three masses at St. Matthew's, and watched without apparent emotion as the people walked from the crowded cathedral Most returned after the finished reading the message.

It was estimated that at least another 200 persons left other churches when the letter was read.

The protest had been urged by two lay organizations supporting the dissenting priests.

The cardinal said after the services that it was the first time he had encountered such a protest in his 20 years as archbishop of Washington. "It is a very emotional matter," he said. Other church officials said it was probably the first time parishioners had taken such action in any Catholic church.

The dispute arose following issuance of the Pope's edict July 29 prohibiting the use of all forms of artificial contraceptive devices, leaving only the (See Page Ten)

Czech Hopes Rising For Troops' Pullout

PRAGUE (AP) — Hopes for early withdrawal of most of the Soviet Bloc troops which occupied Czechoslovakia last month were strengthened today by a report in the newspaper of the ruling Communist party, Rude Pravo.

The paper, silent Sunday on the subject, told its readers today that Premier Oldrich Cernik announced in Ostrava on Saturday, that "the withdrawal of troops will begin in the next few days. The majority of them will withdraw and it will not take a long time. But certain troops will remain. How many and for how long we will tell you public in due time."

So far, however, there were no definite signs of the partial troop withdrawal.

Informed sources reported Soviet authorities have requested more than 600 apartments in Prague for Soviet civilians.

The request was reported to have been made two weeks ago by Vasily Kuznetsov, the Soviet deputy foreign minister, to Prague city authorities.

The civilians will presumably act as advisers in Czechoslovak government ministries.

Some are reported to have already started to move into apartments formerly belonging to Czechoslovakia army officers.

Prague's Rubene district. The army officers are being given civilian flats in apartment-tight Prague, the sources said.

Russia in Space: The Box Score

MOSCOW (AP) — The successful recovery of the Zond 5 spaceship after circling the moon was the latest in a series of Soviet space triumphs.

In the 11 years of the space age, the Soviet Union has pioneered almost every major development. Not far behind, the United States has matched and sometimes surpassed Soviet feats.

In at least one field—the docking in orbit of manned spaceships—Moscow has not yet matched the U.S. performance.

But in most other steps of space exploration the Soviets have led the way.

Beginning in October 1957 with the world's first orbiting man-made object, Sputnik 1, Moscow has gone on to score these triumphs:

First man in space, Yuri V. Gagarin, in 1961.

First group flight, three-man Voskhod Sunrise spaceship, in 1964.

First space walk, by Alexei A. Leonov, in March 1965.

First soft landing of an unmanned craft on the moon, Luna 9, which sent back television pictures of the moon's surface, in January 1966.

First soft landing of an instrument package on Venus, last Oct. 18.

Leonov's space walk 5½ years ago was the last successful Soviet manned mission. The only other attempted manned flight, since then ended in tragedy when Vladimir M. Komarov was killed in the crash of his Soyuz spaceship in April 1967.

Washington Pressure Denied GM's Price Increases Nearly Halve Chrysler's

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors, giant of the auto industry, today announced price increases which averaged $49, or nearly 50 per cent under figures announced by Chrysler last week.

GM Board Chairman James M. Roche denied there had been any pressure from Washington source to get General Motors to come in with a smaller figure than Chrysler had done as the 1969 cars headed toward the market.

"There were frank discussions in Washington, but I assure you General Motors' decision as usual was made by General Motors people before we even went to Washington," Roche told a news conference.

General Motors, in figuring out its $49, or 1.6 per cent per car price boost, used list price figures, those which the compa-

Two Colombian Airliners Are Hijacked to Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — Two Colombian airliners that took off two hours apart from the same airport in Colombia were hijacked Sunday and flown to Cuba with 139 persons aboard.

A Boeing 727 jet with 72 passengers and a crew of six landed in Camagney, 300 miles southeast of Havana, shortly after noon. An Avianca Airlines spokesman in New York said the plane was released Sunday night and returned to Barranquilla, Colombia, with all its passengers and crew.

The airline spokesman said there were no Americans on either plane.

The other plane, a DC4 with 87 passengers and a crew of four, landed in Santiago de Cuba.

The airline said the plane and passengers were still in Cuba this morning, but the Swiss Embassy which handles Colombian affairs there said the plane and all aboard would be allowed to return to Colombia later in the day.

Cuban officials would not say, and Colombian officials had not determined yet if the twin hijackings were coincidental or part of a plot. Both hijackers apparently were Colombians, and both presumably were given asylum in Cuba.

Colombian Defense Minister Gerardo Ayerbe Chaux said he believe the double piracy was a Castro plot directed from Havana. He said it seemed improbable that the two incidents could have been a coincidence. But the pilot of the jetliner said he thought his hijacker might have been a smuggler in trouble with the government, which is cracking down on illegal imports.

The planes, both owned by Avianca Airlines, had taken off from Barranquilla, the country's main port on the Caribbean, for hops to other towns in Colombia.

Capt. Alfonso Lopez of the 727 jet said a short man in his 30s, armed with a knife and grenade, entered the cabin of his plane and "said we had to go to Cuba." The airline said all the passengers were Colombians except Roy Haag and Peter Vaska, whose nationality was not known.

The DC4 took off from Barranquilla two hours and 11 minutes after the jet. Its pilot, Alfredo Crisman, said a youth of 18 or 20 knocked on the door to the cockpit, entered holding a pistol and spoke just one word—"Cuba." The airline said all the passengers on that plane were Colombians except Marty Bowman, whose nationality also could not be learned immediately.

The two air pirates somehow got around government orders that everyone boarding planes be searched for arms. Three other Colombian planes had been hijacked to Cuba in the past 14 months, and police guards are placed aboard some Colombian airliners on "strategic flights" over or near the Caribbean.

On Friday, an Eastern Air Lines jet bound from San Juan to Miami was diverted to Cuba. The plane's 40 passengers were flown to Miami Saturday.

Kingfisher to Open by Nov. 1

The Kingfisher-Garcia Corp. expects to begin operations in its new plant here by Nov. 1 according to Kingfisher president Frank Gregory.

Construction progress at the new plant in the town industrial park is proceeding on schedule, Gregory said, with the installation of the windows expected sometime this week.

Each of the various departments to be located in the building will be separated by sound-dampening walls, Gregory said, to reduce the noise factors of the machinery.

Plans for the construction of the John O'Shea Construction Co. Building were approved last week by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Construction of Zahner's Woodworking Shop, across the street from Kingfisher-Garcia, has also begun, with the erection of the building's concrete block shell.

A Mission for Women is being held each night this week at St. Matthew's Church in Tolland. The special services begin nightly at 7:30 in the church, for members and guests.

Greg Thibault has been elected president of St. Matthew's CIO. Other officers include Paul Palmucci, vice president; Louise Loehr, secretary, and Francine Blouin, treasurer.

Tickets for St. Matthew's Anniversary Ball Saturday night will be available at the door. The dance will be held from 8 to midnight, in the church Parish Center.

The Rev. Daniel Johnson, Arch diocesan director of social action for the Norwich Diocese, will speak at the next meeting of St. Matthew's Holy Name Society on Oct. 1, at 8 p.m.

Men wishing to join St. Matthew's Men's Bowling League may call August Loehr Jr., of Loehr Rd.

Mrs. Simone LaBelle and Mrs. Eileen Murphy will serve as co-chairmen of St. Matthew's Ladies Guild Annual Christmas Bazaar, slated for Dec. 7.

Chairmen of the various booths to be represented at the bazaar are Mrs. Mary LaFollette and Mrs. Shirley Brennan, tailor shop; Mrs. Dolores Wells, book shop; Mrs. Carol Harding, boutique (artist nook) and Mrs. Lucy Doherty and Mrs. Maureen Jendrysek, country store and penny candy.

Also, Mrs. Barbara Zablanzky, sweet shop; Mrs. Dorothy Zablanzky, cafe; Miss Ursula Wohlshie, post office; Mrs. Helen Roper, white elephant; and Mrs. Cecile Roberts, flower booth, and Christmas decorations.

Also, Mrs. Jackie Philibert, plants; Mrs. Donna Galichant, hot dog stand; Mrs. Carol White, religious articles; Mrs. Jeanne Hoss, children's booth; and Mrs. Kathy Hull, transportation.

Thought On Czechoslovakia

We in this country, who sometimes show the impatience and obstinacy of the United Nations Secretary General when he discusses some of our international actions publicly, will probably have more trouble in understanding what he had to say about the Russian treatment of Czechoslovakia the other day.

The Secretary General described recent events in Czechoslovakia as a grave blow to the concepts of international order and morality set forth in the United Nations Charter, and as a "serious setback to the détente between East and West which was showing some signs of vigor in recent months notwithstanding the Vietnam conflict."

The "disquiet and insecurity" which had been produced in the world by Russian actions in Czechoslovakia threatened, Secretary General Thant said, to expand into a new cold war. We have a "serious setback to the détente between East and West which was showing some signs of vigor in recent months notwithstanding the Vietnam conflict."

Secretary General Thant was able to present, but obviously without too much real flesh and muscle, his hope that such a thing would happen, the one big and proper remedy for such a situation.

What he hoped for was some concerted pressure from the "third tier" nations of the world to impress upon all member states the imperative of solving more and more on the machinery of the United Nations if we are to keep the peace of the world.

But, failing the basic cure of more allegiance to the principles, the morality, and the fledgling laws of the United Nations, Secretary General Thant, like everybody else, seemed reduced to hoping for moderation in the conduct of the very big powers, and in the case of Czechoslovakia, from Russia.

Unhappily the picture from Czechoslovakia does not improve, with the passage of time or with the achievement of one Russian objective after another.

To the contrary, the slaughter of the innocents, the ruthless perseverance against the unworship thought, the regular work, the previous atmosphere of partial freedom—such Russian businessmen of spirit begin to seem just as horrible and evil as any mass shooting of bodies in some town square might be.

The less willing the Russians seem to be to leave some small trace of rational dignity and individuality to the people of Czechoslovakia, the more reprehensible their crime becomes to the analysis and to the emotions of the outside world.

What is being tested is a principle and an idea, very precious and necessary to any concept of a world which can survive itself. For if the Russians have now decided that they cannot tolerate some degree of ideological and political evolution in a country just outside their own borders, then they must also be getting ready to clamp down the chains on their own people again and halt that internal evolution which has, ever since the death of Stalin, been moving Russia at least slightly toward the comparative ease of a life and the live attitude toward the rest of the world.

During this period Russia seemed to be learning for itself the same lesson the United States began to learn under the Presidency of Dwight Eisenhower—that coexistence is no longer the option, but the necessity for survival, and that it has become war, not peace, which has to be classified as the impossibility.

The lesson is no less valid today than it was when the United Nations was founded because of it, or when Eisenhower began preaching it in the particular context of the cold war which had erupted in spite of the United Nations.

But instead of coming to and under the United Nations, instead of acting as if coexistence were more important than party regularity, Russia is acting the old power politics role in Czechoslovakia in a way which even threatens to frighten new life and importance into NATO, the power politics regional alliance which never belonged in a world of the United Nations. Secretary General Thant has reason for calling the world's present outlook bleak and gloomy.

A University For Rebels?

Somewhere, among the ranks of those who have so much money they can afford the grand philanthropic or ideological gesture, there is somebody who is missing a great opportunity.

It is the opportunity to establish one special college or university to be run and operated by all those students, graduates and faculty who are restless to Paris, have recently been claiming they know how to run a university and should be granted the privilege of running the particular university of their choice.

One persistent trouble with their ambition is that their effort to run any of the established universities would inevitably clash with the desire of the more normal majorities enrolled at the same universities. Some of our youth are still dull enough and unimaginative enough to want to go to college instead of operate it. They see, at every institution, in the vast majority, they must be conceded certain rights. These conflict with what may be the much more interesting ideas of the rebel who are always a minority.

Why not, then, have some philanthropist buy some handsome estate somewhere and set up on it a University for Rebels, to which all the dissidents from existing campuses would be given automatic admission with full authority to take into their own hands the setting up of curricula, the employment of professors, the disciplines if any, and the establishment of goals and methods?

We would all be interested, would we not, in seeing what all these hippies and Yippies and "bright bearded ones" would produce if they ever had the free hand and the authority they claim should be theirs. What would they actually do, if somebody provided them with the opportunity they say they desire so passionately? Could they stand one another? Or would they produce big, and finally concluded on Thursday with an amusing $1,000,000 agreed to by McCall's Magazine.

After the assassination, the Kennedy family turned the manuscript over to Theodore Sorensen, who edited it and proceeded to offer publication rights at prices that have astounded the publishing world.

I have a list of subjects that annoy me and where I have very pronounced views. I would be very happy if you would complain about them as much as I, if you were to pass resolutions in their behalf in the United Nations. Secretary General Thant, like everybody else, seemed reduced to hoping for moderation in the conduct of the very big powers, and in the case of Czechoslovakia, from Russia.

I charge that the paper industry has an obligation to review its practices and develop manufacturing techniques that will permit it to reuse waste paper and make it into a quality product. I hold that their complaint that this "cannot be done" is a lie.

I charge that the steel industry has an obligation to develop manufacturing processes that will use scrap metal, and thus reduce the drain on iron-ore resources, and help check the ugly growth of automobile graveyards.

I know that there are those in the steel industry who are messy about the present "modernized" plants designed to make no use of scrap steel, and I know that they would like to have an opportunity to find a way to reuse this accumulating mound of scrap metal. I know that they need your support.

I charge that the auto industry has an obligation to produce cars that last at least five years of use.

I charge that the beverage industry has a responsibility to develop a reclaimable container. I hold that the handy six-pack or twelve-pack bottle has done more to despoil the landscape than any single object other than the neon sign, and that they have robbed the taxpayer of so much money through the cost of picking up and disposing of empty bottles that it is time they look like Calvin Coolidge.

I charge that the fashion industry is culpably antiseptic when it turns out paper dresses and paper shirts, to be worn once and thrown away, thus adding an unnecessary burden to the already excessively large volume of refuse that all cities must collect and find a way to dispose of.

I charge that Agriculture has shrugged off its responsibility in the field of water pollution. I hold that if the cities purify their liquid wastes so that they bubble clear and sparkling like a mountain spring, the rivers still will be polluted from fertilizers and agricultural wastes.

These are areas where work badly needs doing. Let responsibility lie where it belongs. —CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR.

Colonists fire at British in mock battle' on Nathan Hale Homestead grounds in Coventry during weekend observance.

Battle, Bands Mark Hale Weekend

By HOLLY GANTNER
 Townspeople, their guests and a cooperative high pressure weather system all contributed to a highly successful tribute to Nathan Hale over the weekend. The whole list of activities took place, with only minor delays, with Saturday's parade and mock battle drawing a crowd of about 3,000.

More than 800 turned out Sunday for dedication ceremonies of the new Capt. Nathan Hale School, then stayed on to tour the building, meet the teachers and watch an instant replay, on the closed circuit TV set-up, of the outdoor portion of the program, which has just taken place.

The highlight of the weekend for many was the British-American battle, which took place in a field adjoining the Hale Homestead property. A company of the Governor's Foot Guard, in their red coats, portrayed the British, and several members of the Second Company, Governor's Foot Guard orchestra, played in competition with some fife and drums offering an impromptu concert at the Hale Homestead.

Many corporamen attended the Hale Homestead grounds during parade.

The school advisory committee started the school, the work was carried on by the building committee, and now it is staffed and functioning. O'Connor thanked all these people, saying that there were thousands of details that had to be attended to in putting the school together.

The whole idea for Nathan Hale Weekend began early in the year when Nathan Hale Fife and Drum Corps members told the selection that Sept. 22 this year fell on a Sunday, and it might be appropriate to do something more than just the traditional wreath-laying ceremony.

The selection agreed, appointed a committee, and from then on the ball kept rolling with more and more events being added to the list.

Sept. 22 is the 192nd anniversary of the Hale Homestead grounds during parade.

A company of the Governor's Foot Guard, in their red coats, portrayed the British, and several members of the Second Company, Governor's Foot Guard orchestra, played in competition with some fife and drums offering an impromptu concert at the Hale Homestead.

Many corporamen attended the Hale Homestead grounds during parade.

The school advisory committee started the school, the work was carried on by the building committee, and now it is staffed and functioning. O'Connor thanked all these people, saying that there were thousands of details that had to be attended to in putting the school together.

The whole idea for Nathan Hale Weekend began early in the year when Nathan Hale Fife and Drum Corps members told the selection that Sept. 22 this year fell on a Sunday, and it might be appropriate to do something more than just the traditional wreath-laying ceremony.

The selection agreed, appointed a committee, and from then on the ball kept rolling with more and more events being added to the list.

Sept. 22 is the 192nd anniversary of the Hale Homestead grounds during parade.

Bolton Last Voter Registration Is Saturday and Oct. 12

The town clerk advises that non-registered voters have two more opportunities to become registered in order to vote in the state and national elections Nov. 5.

Registration for the election Saturday at the Community Hall from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and a second registration period from Oct. 12 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

All persons who are qualified or will become qualified to become voters must register by Oct. 12 except for those whose right, because of residency or age, matures after Oct. 12. There will be a special limited registration period for persons Monday Nov. 4 from 3 to 5 p.m.

The Oct. 12 deadline also applies to persons registering at the town clerk's office.

In order to become an elector, a person must be citizen 21 years old or over and have completed six months residency in Bolton.

Any person who moved to Bolton from another Connecticut town after May 3 who was at the time of removal an elector in his former town, can return to his former town to vote. This right can only be accomplished by writing to the registrars in the former town and requesting that his name be continued on such town's voting list for the coming election. This notice must be received by Oct. 28.

Any person who was not an elector in a former Connecticut town who moved to Bolton after May 3 may either return to his former town for admission as an elector by Oct. 12 and request continuance through the registrars of voters, or he may apply in Bolton to vote by special ballot for the present election and vice-president only.

These ballots may be obtained in the town clerk's office between Oct. 7 and Nov. 4. These ballots apply not only to those moving from another town in the state after May 3 and to those who were not electors in that town, but also to those who have moved from another town to Bolton since the election of Oct. 7 and Nov. 4.

Second Renewal Project Gets Started

The second project in North End Renewal got started this morning, with groundbreaking ceremonies for the 4,000 sq. ft. building on Hilliard St. that will be the new home for Manchester Caribbe Co., now at Manchester Green.

Empaneled pleas for unity Hartford, when Ribicoff spoke. The senator has been well received in his Tolland County appearances, however, and has received the backing of the state Democratic Party.

"We are working for a whole team," St. Onge told the "east of the river Democrats" Saturday night.

The involvement of young people in politics was termed "the best thing to happen in the country in the past 10 years or longer" by St. Onge. "They have got to have the vote," he added.

The election will be decided by discussion of the issues, not leadership," he said.

The involvement of young people in politics was termed "the best thing to happen in the country in the past 10 years or longer" by St. Onge. "They have got to have the vote," he added.

St. Onge was described by Putnam Mayor Leo Tetraut as a man "who spans the generations and who plays it straight."

He urged a more forceful campaign, according to many party regulars. He speaks out directly and contemporaneously on the various issues.

Law, Order and Justice

His recipe for the key political issue of "law and order" requires that it be saved along with justice.

"If we don't combine justice with law and order we are in for desperate trouble," he predicted. He asked voters not to be fooled by this issue. "It's 99 percent to remove a non-malignant tumor from his vocal chords, the Daily Express reported today.

The newspaper said Davis was made for all men to be equal. "This is not a fear-mongering thing, don't let anyone frighten you," he said.

He also warned against fear and blind reaction to accusations. Explaining the Bill of Rights was made for all men to be equal. "This is not a fear-mongering thing, don't let anyone frighten you," he said.

Balley advocated getting out and voting "by pulling the top lever." "The name of the game is to win," he told the capacity crowd attending the dinner. "I don't come from the line who advise selective voting. I've been in this business for 25 years."

Although the Democrats did not project the confidence in the election, as exemplified by top Republicans attempting last week's county sheriff's plea in Ellington, they made up for it in determination.

Balley cited a surprising increase in Democratic voter registration as indications of a Democratic victory in November. Democrats statewide now outnumber Republicans by 80,000 compared to the last election when they lagged behind the Republicans by 25,000, he said.

"These people are going to vote with the party they're registered with," Balley predicted.

Gov. Dempsey issued an emancipation plan for the re-election of Senator Abraham Ribicoff. "Connecticut needs an Abe Ribicoff, the nation needs Abe Ribicoff. I'm asking you to send him back to the Senate," Dempsey stated.

Party dividers has tended to center around Ribicoff since his Chicago speech charging Mayor Richard Daley with "Gestapo tactics." Scattered boos were reported at a $100 a plate dinner last Thursday in

How Campaigns Shape Up

Wallace (Continued from Page One) — although Ohio remains in doubt—he began referring to the Democrats and Republicans as "the other two national parties."

He says his campaign treasury is in good condition, "but don't get the idea we're swimming in money," and he plans to eliminate many of the fund-raising dinners that have been a staple of his campaign appearances. There also is a rumor that he soon will replace his prop-driven DCI airplane with a speedier prop-jet model.

He also plans to slow the pace of his campaign. Last Friday he completed a fatiguing swing through the Southwest, Midwest and South, and will not resume again until next Friday, when he will embark on a trip through the Northeast, Midwest and Far West.

Humphrey (Continued from Page One) — matter of real concern to Nixon's strategists. They believe Nixon can maintain his current lead in the opinion polls, and translate it into victory over Humphrey. But they share a "fear" that Wallace might win enough electoral votes to deny a majority to either of the major party candidates, thus sending the election to the House of Representatives.

Robert Ellsworth, Nixon's national political director, charged the front-runner, he came out of the convention without much trepidation. And Humphrey was disappointed in the first week of his campaign.

He sprang from coast to coast and back—with a tailwind in the form of disappointing crowds, backlogs and snafus from Texas Gov. John Connally and California's Jesse Urruh, as well as some well-publicized oratorical misfires on the part of a Vietnam plank and the withdrawal of troops from Vietnam.

College Selection Guide List Is Long and Complicated

By ELLA MAZEL
NEA Publications

DECEMBER 1: Academic level. Colleges, like people, prefer to be judged on the basis of their special qualities.

They do not like to be weighed, measured, and put into slots in terms of statistical data alone any more than you do—and they should not be.

But, just as you expect them to sift through the records of all college-bound students in the country in order to make a freshman class, you cannot be expected to read through the information on all the colleges in the country to find the few to which you have a reasonable chance of admission.

There are many ways that colleges can be sorted out to indicate their comparative degree of selectivity, academic quality or to put them, roughly, into categories.

Some relate to the attributes of the colleges themselves—for example, the caliber of the faculty as shown by the proportion holding Ph.D. Others relate to the nature of the student body, using such measures as the grade point average of entering students.

Whatever the measure, however, it stands to reason that the colleges will fall into broad and roughly parallel categories that can be labeled in such terms as "extremely selective," "highly competitive" or "non-competitive," or "toughest" to "easiest."

Yet you can search high and low through the literature of hundreds of colleges and get a clue as to these differences.

For example, here are two statements on admissions policies taken from "The College Handbook," official publication of the College Entrance Examination Board, for which the colleges supply their own writeups:

College A: "The test scores are not regarded by the college as the sole criterion for admission, but are carefully interpreted in the light of the applicant's total academic achievement and personal credentials—scholastic ability, good moral character, seriousness of purpose, social adjustment and high potential for service to the community, state and nation."

College B: "Selection is based on both evidence of intellectual ability and on the applicant's total academic achievement and personal credentials—scholastic ability, good moral character, seriousness of purpose, social adjustment and high potential for service to the community, state and nation."

Andover Biennial Town Elections Set First Monday in May

Friday night's special town meeting convened at 8 at the school and, with Andrew Gasper as moderator, quickly took favorable action on the four items in the agenda, warranting which called for a vote.

The meeting voted to set the date of the biennial town election to the first Monday in May of the odd numbered years. It also voted to appropriate $7,000 for the purchase of a new truck for the purchase will come out of the reserve for the replacement of town-owned equipment.

The meeting also voted to authorize the Board of Selectmen to enter into a contract for the truck purchase.

The vote taken on adding the item of a nurse's aide to the school budget was favorable. This does not require adding a new appropriation as funds are now available within the budget to cover the cost. It was brought out that the use of a nurse's aide would free the nurse and other school people for work more in keeping with their training.
