

Task Force Study Given Area Towns

Concrete actions by the Hartford City Council concerning Hartford's own problems will be required before the Capitol Region's suburban towns willingly assume responsibility toward helping solve urban problems. That was the primary reaction to today's release of a Regional Advisory Committee's Task Force report on urban problems.

The report was prepared at the request of the Hartford City Council and was received this morning by town officials from Capitol Region's 28 member towns, meeting in the Hartford Hilton Hotel.

The report calls for increased urban responsibility in the areas of welfare, housing, recreation, transportation, employment and police protection.

Sixteen general recommendations were included in the report, with particular emphasis placed on the one which calls upon Hartford to assume initiative and leadership for solving its own problems.

The coincidental release of a regional tax study report by the Regional Advisory Committee (RAC) of the Capitol Region proposes a method of making the proposed suburban participation more palatable to the towns.

The tax study advocates a revised tax structure, which includes a state income tax proposal for alleviating the welfare cost burden in the cities; and the educational cost burdens in the suburbs.

1 in 8 New Yorkers On Welfare by '69

NEW YORK (AP)— One out of every eight New York City residents will be receiving welfare by the end of the year, says Jack R. Goldberg, city commissioner of social services.

Goldberg said Sunday that 875,000 residents now receive public assistance.

He urged that the federal government pay at least 50 per cent of the cost. The present 50 per cent reimbursement, he added, is not enough.

Goldberg spoke on the WOR-TV program "New York Report."

Political Roundup

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey humped exploiters of racial prejudice, violent protest demonstrations and Negro rioters together today as a threat to the nation and said they must be stopped.

"All share a basic disdain for the Democratic process," the Democratic presidential candidate said in prepared remarks in Salt Lake City. "No democracy can, or should, stand for it."

Presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon, declaring meanwhile that "crime and violence have skyrocketed" under the Johnson administration, spelled out proposals for a National Law Enforcement Council and an academy to train local police.

And third party presidential candidate George C. Wallace resumed his campaign today with a scheduled parade through Chicago's Loop area. He said he will announce his platform in a few days.

Humphrey said the presidential campaign "will decide whether the extremists will succeed, whether the voices of hate, of prejudice and division will drive out the forces of opportunity, progress and justice."

He concluded: "America will prevail."

Repeating words he has used to describe Wallace's campaign, Humphrey said one threat is from those "who make their basic appeal to the baser instincts—to fear, to racial prejudice, to escapism, to the darker side of the human character. They are dangerous."

Also threatening, he said, are students who preach the doctrine of disorder and anarchy and use "the same totalitarian tactics of the street that brought Adolf Hitler to power."

Finally, said Humphrey, there are those "who would destroy homes, businesses and lives, in their supposed zeal to correct injustices—the Negroes who seem to believe that rioting and burning will help solve racial problems."

Humphrey has scheduled a major television address on

Nixon Starts Spelling Out His Planks

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP)— Richard M. Nixon has entered a new phase of his presidential campaign, spelling out the details of his programs for the first time and intensifying the attack on his foe.

The Republican nominee announced Sunday his crime fighting proposals, calling for creation of a national academy of law enforcement to train local police and a high-level national crime fighting council.

The day before, he dealt with the problems of the aged, pledging cost-of-living increases in Social Security pensions.

In both statements, Nixon hit hard at his Democratic opponent, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. And he is now dealing openly in speeches with his other foe, George C. Wallace, the American Independent party candidate.

"We are picking up in both fire and substance," said an aide. "We are now filling out the programs. You'll also notice the tempo of the attack picking up."

In the future, he said, Nixon will be announcing the details of his proposals on taxes, inflation, veterans problems and other issues.

On Vietnam, the aide said, Nixon's plans "depend on what happens in the negotiations."

Nixon has criticized the conduct of the war but has declined to propose specific alternatives because he said it would hurt the peace talks in Paris.

The aide said Nixon, concerned about the dangers of "peaking" his political campaign too early, had talked purposely in general terms since he was nominated.

"If you look at any campaign, it's foolish to lay out all your programs in the first week," the aide said.

Nixon released a statement saying the United States must do all possible "for preeminence in space."

The candidate said: "There are those who would hold back our space effort—contending that we must solve our problems on earth before we reach for the moon. They forget one of the basic lessons of history: that any nation, to remain great, must lead in exploration of the unknown and the discovery of new worlds."

Rusk Setting Meetings with Eban, Thant

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)— Secretary of State Dean Rusk was in New York today for 10 days of diplomatic talks that include a meeting with Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban, on hand with a new peace plan for the Middle East.

Rusk also had on his agenda talks with Secretary-General U Thant and General Assembly President Emilio Arenales of Guatemala.

Rusk and Eban both arrived Sunday to take part in the U.N. General Assembly policy debate, and in other diplomatic conferences.

Eban told reporters that Israel was "exploring all possibilities for a lasting peace" and that he would give his ideas on the subject in a speech Oct. 3.

Diplomatic sources here said Eban told officials in Rome, Paris and London that he had a package deal for the Arabs. But the sources said they knew none of the details.

Other sources said they doubted reports that the Israeli plan would return Sinai to Egypt and most of the West Bank of the Jordan River to Jordan.

For the second time in three days, Eban rejected a Soviet peace plan reported to call for Israeli withdrawal to pre-1967 boundaries in return for a U.N. presence there, an Arab declaration of nonbelligerency and a Big Four guarantee against new hostilities.

Washington officials said Wednesday that the Soviet Union had presented such a plan to the United States. Eban said it was not new, could not be called a peace plan and in any case should have been presented directly to the countries concerned. He also objected that it did not call for "recognized boundaries" for Israel.

Eban will present the new Israeli plan at a new round of talks aimed at settling the Arab-Israeli war of June 1967 gets under way.

Battleship New Jersey Shells Enemy in DMZ

SAIGON (AP)— The New Jersey, the first American battleship to see action since the Korean War, entered the Vietnam conflict today by bombarding North Vietnamese positions in the northern half of the demilitarized zone.

The 56,000-ton vessel, three times as long as a football field, turned her 16-inch guns on enemy gun positions and bunkers seven miles north-northwest of the U.S. outpost of Con Thien.

The battleship hurled her 2,700-pound missiles into the enemy positions from its battle station in the Tonkin Gulf.

During her first mission, an aerial spotter reported that four automatic weapons sites that were firing at his aircraft were destroyed. Thirty yards of trenchline were collapsed and a road was cut in two places as the huge projectiles, which can penetrate 30 feet of reinforced concrete, slammed into the positions.

A Navy spokesman said that on her second mission of the day, the New Jersey destroyed an enemy artillery position and three bunkers and scattered supplies.

The spotter pilot said he was unable to fly low enough to identify the supplies, the spokesman reported.

A third mission was suspended because monsoon clouds moved over the area and the spotter aircraft were unable to see targets.

Apparently the New Jersey's chief mission will be to try to knock out heavily fortified North Vietnamese gun emplacements along the demilitarized zone that have withstood counterattacks by the allies and aerial attacks.

These emplacements, some dug deep into hillsides, contain big Soviet-built artillery pieces which have been harassing allied camps along the frontier, including Con Thien, Gio Linh, and Dong Ha, headquarters of the U.S. 3rd Marine Division and a vital operational base for the DMZ.

The DMZ is 21 miles long, but most of the enemy's artillery emplacements fall within the 25-mile range of the New Jersey's nine 16-inch guns.

Within minutes the New Jersey can lay down a nine-gun broadside roughly equivalent to half the bomb load of a B52 bomber.

On her first day in action the New Jersey fired 39 rounds of 2,700-pound shells from her 16-inch guns and 45 rounds of smaller shells from her 5-inch guns into targets eight miles inland. The Navy declined to disclose how far out at sea she was at the time.

The battleship was ordered taken out of mothballs in August 1967, when the United States was escalating the air war and naval bombardment of North Vietnam.

It was believed that the vessel's heavy guns could be effective against a number of targets along the North Vietnamese coast. But while the battleship

Addresses World Bank-IMF Parley

Resist Cutback in Aid, Johnson Urges Nations

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Johnson urged the world's developed nations today to resist the temptation to cut back their assistance to the have-nots of the globe.

"This would be a tragic end to two decades of commitment, of trial and error, and, I think, magnificent achievement," the President said.

Johnson was a surprise speaker at the opening session of the combined annual meetings of the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank.

The meetings have assembled finance ministers from the majority of the non-Communist nations.

"We simply cannot turn our backs on the majority of our fellow human beings," Johnson said.

By sensible cooperation, the President said, it will be possible to increase world income five per cent per year over the next five years. The alternative, he said, is to allow uncontrolled forces to determine the progress with the likely result that growth would sink to three per cent.

"Let us not fail to be wise," Johnson said.

The President's remarks, while addressed directly to finance ministers and central bank heads from scores of other nations, seemed indirectly aimed at Congress, which this year is cutting foreign aid funds to the lowest point since World War II.

"The more we move together," he said, "the more each of us will be able to advance the economy of our own people."

Johnson addressed the joint gathering before a speech by bank's president, Robert S. McNamara.

McNamara proposed a five-year plan of increased lending in Africa, Latin America and Asia. He said the bank's loans should double during the plan.

McNamara said the new plan would include a broadening of the bank's past emphasis on South Asia—India and Pakistan—to the other underdeveloped areas of the world.

In his first speech prepared for the board of governors of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the former secretary of defense singled out Indonesia and the United Arab Republic (Egypt) as countries with great need for help, but where little has been done in the past.

Governors of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund—interlocking groups involving many of the same men—convened today for week-long annual meetings. Many joint sessions are scheduled.

Greeks Give New Regime Strong Vote

ATHENS (AP)— Complete returns from Sunday's referendum gave the military-backed regime today a 92.3 per cent majority approval for its constitution. The charter reduces the power of the monarchy and establishes a powerful executive.

Despite whispered skepticism here and open doubts abroad about the fairness of the referendum, the regime hailed the outcome as an overwhelming vote of confidence from the Greek people. Government spokesman Byron Stamoulopoulos called it "unreserved support of the government and the revolution."

It was the first vote permitted in Greece since the coup d'etat in nearly 18 months ago. No opposition was permitted.

In a statement today Premier George Papadopoulos said the democracy "would be strengthened" in this Atlantic Alliance nation.

The constitution drastically reduces the power of absent King Constantine, and reduces the amount of financial support provided the royal family. At his residence outside Rome, the self-exiled king was informed of the vote result. He had no comment.

Not A Victory

"When you deal with a money problem, you get money solutions."

That was the somewhat frank and realistic statement which came from Albert Shanker in New York yesterday...

But particularly it ought to be taken seriously enough to move somebody to devise some kind of hope that the same kind of dispute, the same kind of strike, will not happen again.

The most consistent today's news may show that it continues even in New York City, for there is no guarantee that the ratification of the strike settlement...

It is fitting that Union President Shanker should have predicted the statement that "is not a victory."

Nothing that deprives a million school children of nearly a month of their school year ought to be described as a victory, no matter how satisfactory or generous the terms might be.

Anything that makes such cold and deliberate pawns of school children has to be scored as something much less than a victory. For the sorry chances are that it is teaching the children of America a routinized mode of conduct...

Resignations That Might Help. One suggestion is that Vice President Hubert Humphrey, desperate to get some traction in his campaign toward November, should resign as Vice President...

At the moment, the Vice President seems to be mired in a lukewarm defense of the Johnson Administration record. In return for this, he seems to be getting only the most perfunctory campaign assistance from President Johnson.

There are other resignation possibilities which might help the party. Mr. Johnson could stay in the Presidency and Mr. Humphrey could stay in party's candidate. This would allow the party to move Senator Muskie up into the Presidential spot.

Toward The Pill. Sooner or later there has to come, in all refinement and improvement of the process of civilization, an area of diminishing proportionate return.

ment in the management of citrus trees we are tempted to cry out that this has gone far enough, and that it is about time we went all the way forward to full scientific creation of our food in capsule form...

On a tree which has been properly sprayed, the amount of gull to free the citrus from the stem has been decreased from 20 pounds to 1 pound.

At the 1 pound level, a mere whiff sprayed, the amount of gull to free the citrus from the stem has been decreased from 20 pounds to 1 pound.

But somehow, instead of seeing a miraculous piece of progress, this latest development seems to be the thing that is too much. It is one more process added to the previous business of plowing and planting and cultivating and pruning and fertilizing and spraying and weeding and processing of packaging and marketing.

At the 1 pound level, a mere whiff sprayed, the amount of gull to free the citrus from the stem has been decreased from 20 pounds to 1 pound.

It has appeared, in the magazines and newspapers included in the survey, a total of 11,214 times more than its nearest competitor.

It was, of course, no such guarantee, but such a slight hope.

Secondly, it seems likely that the situation itself appeals to the cartoonist and the artist, even before any theme or quip has been introduced.

There is a third possibility. It may be that the pain tree is a very easy thing to draw.

Three current topics directly related to debate between Washington and Moscow are:

The possibility of President Johnson's pursuing his initiative to arrange a meeting between himself and Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Moscow or perhaps in Geneva.

The proposal for talks between Moscow and Washington on limiting anti-ballistic missile (ABM) systems - from which cannot be divorced Defense Secretary Clifford's announcement last week that despite Congressional cutbacks on money, he was expressly directing that there be no cutbacks in the United States Sentinel ABM program.

Let us deal with each in turn. Arguments can be advanced both for and against a Johnson-Khrushchev meeting before the present incumbent vacates the White House next January.

Another potential resignation might do much better for the Democratic campaign. If President Johnson really cares for Hubert, and for the party, why doesn't he resign, let Hubert advance to the Presidency, show and do precisely what he would do differently with regard to Vietnam, and go to the polls as a direct departure from the President's record.

Our attitude on anti-ballistic missiles is somewhat the same. The proposed talks should still take place. But let not the United States now approach them with an impugning eyebrow. The Russians should feel the weight of world disapproval of their boorishness over Czechoslovakia - and the United States has a continuing part to play in this.

Sooner or later there has to come, in all refinement and improvement of the process of civilization, an area of diminishing proportionate return.

Aronists Hit Navy-Marine Training Unit

RUSSIAN, Ore. (AP) — Aronists who tried to destroy the Naval and Marine Corps training center in Eugene caused $100,000 damage Sunday. No one was hurt, but at least three explosions about 1 a.m. wrecked a 10-story crane with a 20-foot boom, two large bulldozers, four dump trucks and a truck used to carry personnel. Investigators would not speculate on who attacked the equipment, but said more than one person was involved. Capt. Terry Harris, commanding officer of B Company, 10th Engineer Battalion, Marine Corps Reserve, said dynamite or some other high explosive was used. A heavy crane door was thrown 50 feet over a storage garage. Two unexploded gasoline bombs were found in the main building. Investigators said the aronists hooked power fuses to plastic sandwich bags filled with gasoline. These devices were placed near diesel fuel and gasoline that was spread in a hallway of one wing of the main building. The investigators found the same type of bombs attached to a one-story storage garage behind the main building. The equipment was parked in a compound surrounded by an eight-foot wire fence.

'Moratorium' Sought In Waterbury Schools
WATERBURY, Conn. (AP) — The local school superintendent has called for a one-week moratorium to orient department heads and teachers and students to the reasons for adding Negro history to the American history course. Superintendent Michael Wallace explained Saturday that the school board had approved a boycott by some 1,000 high school students, both whites and blacks. Wallace said students who took part in the boycott would not be penalized. And he said he would call for more student participation in the school by asking the school board to help set up student councils. Assistant Supt. James Moran is scheduled to meet today with heads of the social studies departments. Wallace said he would draw guidelines for the Negro history course.

College Selection Guide

Selecting Major Narrows Field
By ELLA MAZEL, NEA Publications Director
It may seem strange to have gotten this far without hearing a word about curriculum. Surely the very first thing you should have been thinking of is which college offers the courses you are most interested in. But—had you started from curriculum—you would still be floundering in a vast sea of possibilities. Just about every liberal arts college offers majors in English, history, mathematics, and the like. If you are one of the 50 per cent of high school students who don't know yet "what you want to be when you grow up," any school providing a fairly broad selection of courses in humanities (English, philosophy, languages), social sciences (economics, psychology, sociology), and natural sciences (biology, chemistry, physics) will give you a solid educational foundation on which to build a future specialization. Career-oriented majors in fields such as teacher education, music, business, nursing, home economics, and engineering are offered by hundreds of colleges and universities. For the fields of law, dentistry, medicine, social work, and veterinary medicine, the ideal preprofessional preparation is considered important. There are any number of chattering majors who have gone into law, and economics majors who have become doctors. Most colleges have preprofessional advisers who will help you work out a combination of liberal arts courses that will qualify you for any graduate professional school that is of the subject. If you are seeking a career specialization that is of the subject, you would first (Next: Religious Orientation.)

Torrance Says Work For ARC Rewarding

By JOHN A. JOHNSTON
"I'm glad to be back, but the work was very rewarding." That was George Y. Torrance Jr.'s reaction the other day. He returned on Sept. 11 after being stationed for a year as an assistant field director with the American Red Cross Service attached to the 1st Infantry Division at Phu Loi, 40 miles west of Saigon.

This was his second foreign service in five years. In 1965-66 he was in Liberia, West Africa, where he worked in the mission of the Episcopal Order of the Holy Cross. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Y. Torrance of 863 N. James St. Friday he flew to San Francisco en route to Clark Field in the Philippines for a year assignment with the ARC.

"The American GI is a great guy. I have a great admiration for him," Torrance said. "Wherever you find a crutch, a child, or injured Vietnamese kid, you find a GI. I have often seen doctors of duty offering their services at orphanages and old people's homes, and veterinarians going into the country to inoculate water buffalo. That's a big thing because to a Vietnamese farmer a buffalo is wealth."

Asked about the condition of Saigon when he left, he said, "The city is not the devastated, near-total place American media sometimes picture. It was tense around Tet, but now it's relaxed. Cholon, the Chinese section, is wrecked from the shelling, but that's all. There is no food shortage in Saigon, and I saw no evidence of it in the countryside. Just recently the Vietnam government bought up huge quantities of rice because a crop surplus threatened the price. In Saigon you can go into any hotel or restaurant and get a good meal, good even by our standards. If there is any real hunger, it's among the refugees."

Torrance had several personal comments about the power structure. "President Thieu is apparently a capable person," he said. "Premier Ky seems to have accepted his position as premier. But who knows? Tomorrow he might overthrow the whole regime. Ky's name never appears in the English news."
