

Assailants Wound Two Others

Boston Negro Leader, Two Aides Shot Dead

BOSTON (AP) — Five Negro men burst into the headquarters of a civil rights group today, shot the Negro founder and two other men dead, then escaped, police said.

BOSTON (AP)—Five Negro men burst into the headquarters of a civil rights group today, shot the Negro founder and two other men dead, then escaped, police said.

Two others wounded were hospitalized. All the victims and all the assailants were Negro, officers said.

One victim was identified as Guido St. Laurent, the blind founder and executive director of the New England Grass Roots Organization (NEGRO). St. Laurent was characterized by a city official as "a responsible militant."

St. Laurent's seeing eye dog, a black Belgian shepherd, remained at the victim's side as police closed off the three-story brick building on Blue Hill Avenue in the Roxbury section, a predominantly Negro area.

The others killed tentatively were identified as Cornell Eaton of Boston and Ronald King, Fred Rose, 41, the black self-help organization's public relations director, and Ronald Hicks, 31, were wounded in the gunfire. They were taken to City Hospital.

Rose told police the five intruders burst into the organization's first-floor storefront office before dawn, 7:11 a. m. "Where's the money? Where's the money?"

Referring to Rose's description of the shootings, Lt. Edward Sherry of the Boston police department's Homicide Squad told a mid-morning news conference, "We'd say (the motive) was robbery."

"We've got to stick to the facts and let the evidence lead the way," Sherry said. There were no signs of struggle in the office, he said.

"We hope Rose can give us the information we need. We are fortunate to have two eyewitnesses to three murders."

Sherry said it was possible that the intruders were known to the men inside the office. He said the office has an electric eye focused on the door outside, so that anyone stepping in front of the door would trip an electric buzzer alerting those inside.

Rose and Hicks both were described by hospital officials as on the danger list, but in fair condition. Rose had wounds in the neck and shoulder. Hicks was shot in the chest and abdomen.

New Appointee Announces

Nixon Will Pare White House Staff

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon plans a thorough overhaul of the White House staff and will abolish such time-honored posts as press secretary and appointments secretary, aides announced today.

Word of the "restructuring" of the White House inner circle was disclosed by H. R. "Bob" Staldeman, a 42-year-old Los Angeles advertising executive who was named today as one of Nixon's White House assistants.

Staldeman said the White House hierarchy in the Nixon administration probably will include no more than three or four assistants at the highest level. He said these appointees would not more or less as chiefs of staff to the President.

On the next rung down the ladder, there will be a number of special assistants who will handle such matters as press relations and presidential appointments.

A vice president of J. Walter Thompson Co., Staldeman will involve himself primarily with general administrative matters, including management of the White House staff. He will have supervision over presidential appointments—in other words, the daily schedule—but the detail work will be carried out by a subordinate.

Staldeman predicted Nixon's staff would be smaller than those of recent presidents and will certainly be one of the youngest in point of age.

Nixon also has appointed Bryce N. Harlow as a presidential assistant. Nixon announced Tuesday that he was naming Harlow, 32, to be one of several presidential assistants. Harlow, an in-and-out government man since World War II, will specialize in management of legislation and Congressional affairs.

In the administrations of the late John F. Kennedy and President Johnson, the highest ranking White House staffers have carried the title of special assistants along with the maximum authorized salary of $20,000 a year.

Because Harlow, once a top aide to former President

Rose told police all the intruders wore hats and dark glasses. The gunmen began firing as they entered, Rose said.

Rose told officers he crawled under a desk after being shot once and was fired at again by one assailant who pointed a gun under the desk at him.

One of the dead men was found in a chair, and the others were sprawled on the floor when police arrived.

NEGRO is one of several black self-help groups which have sprung up in Boston in recent years. Under St. Laurent's leadership, the group coordinated a 250-man Security Patrol of

California Vote Gold For Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — California, the state that denied Richard M. Nixon its governorship in 1962, gave him the presidency in 1968 by an average margin of just 10 votes per precinct.

The unofficial margin that made the Golden state just that for Nixon was 222,150 votes.

Without California's 40 electoral votes, Nixon would have had only 282—eight short of the 270 necessary to elect him president and avoid throwing the outcome of last Tuesday's election into the Electoral College or the House.

Although combinations of other states where the race was close could have denied Nixon the presidency, it turned out California was the one state he had to win after New York's 26 electoral votes went to Hubert H. Humphrey.

Loss of New Jersey's 17 electoral votes or Missouri's 12, with either Ohio's or Illinois' 26, would have dropped Nixon below the 270 mark.

Nixon carried California and Illinois by 3 per cent each, Ohio by 2 per cent and Missouri and New Jersey by about 1 per cent.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, on the other hand, won Texas' 26 electoral votes and Maryland's 10 by only about 1 per cent.

The why of California's vote remains clouded by George C. Wallace's third party candidacy.

Wallace polled 482,182 votes, in the state, 7 per cent of the total and it is impossible to say with certainty whom he took more California votes away from.

By comparison, Nixon won the state by only 35,623 votes in his losing 1960 presidential battle with the late John F. Ken-

Pentagon Indicates Saigon Will Drop Boycott of Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials say they believe that Saigon, faced with the prospect of having to settle its political differences with the Viet Cong alone, will drop its boycott of the broadened Paris peace talks.

This prospect appeared implicit in Tuesday's declaration by Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford that the United States intends to go ahead with negotiations with Hanoi whether Saigon joins in or not.

Clifford said the United States and Hanoi could make big strides on the most immediate issues—military de-escalation, including steps toward withdrawal of troops. Pentagon officials said such an arrangement would leave Saigon to face the Viet Cong alone in the political struggle.

The view that South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu would end his boycott, was disputed in Paris and Saigon.

In Saigon, South Vietnamese Information Minister Ton Thien Thien said if there are to be peace talks, then all parties must agree to Thieu's formula calling for his government to head the anti-Communist negotiators while the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front is subordinate to the North Vietnamese on the other side of the table.

Thieu also said unless his government participates in the negotiations, it won't recognize a cease-fire or anything else agreed on that affects its vital interests.

Pham Dang Lam, head of Saigon's observers in Paris, said he does not think his government will change its mind and join the talks under the four-party formula that would bring the Viet Cong to the bargaining table on Hanoi's side.

Although Pentagon authorities said Clifford spoke for himself, the defense chief generally reflects the views of President Johnson. He long has been one of Johnson's closest advisors on the war.

Big Storm Leaves Eight Area Dead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — A severe northeaster struck New England today after battering the mid-Atlantic states with heavy snow, rain and near hurricane force winds in an icy foretaste of winter.

The blustering storm, New England's third northeaster in six days, roared toward Nova Scotia, leaving in its wake a path of death and destruction. Winds as high as 81 miles per hour were clocked atop New Hampshire's 6,388-foot Mt. Washington.

At least eight storm-related deaths were reported in New England and several more fatalities were attributed to the weather further south.

Southern New England was drenched by wave after wave of gale-driven rain and as much as a foot of new snow fell in the north.

Gale driven seas crashing over a seawall caused damage at Kenebunk Beach, Maine. Breakers 20 to 30 feet high tossed boulders and other debris onto King's Highway and onto the lawns of summer cottages.

The winds also threatened the lives of thousands of small dogulls of Mexico, roared up the coast from the Carolinas Monday night to lash the seacoast areas with wind and rain which turned to snow further inland.

Power lines were downed, commuters delayed, bridges closed, streets flooded, schools closed, ferries stranded, boats swamped, trees felled, windows shattered and umbrellas broken.

Hundreds of families in coastal homes in New Jersey, Long Island and Connecticut were temporarily evacuated as the storm's height Tuesday but most were able to return by night.

In eastern Tennessee two 19-year-old boys died of exposure after being lost for 30 hours while on a hunting trip near Great Smoky Mountain National Park. A third youth in the party managed to walk to safety.

Officials said the dead boys were a quarter mile from help when they collapsed in a meadow. John Cushman, the survival instructor, said rain and snow had made it almost impossible to see.

Snow accumulation of up to a foot were reported in the Tennessee Smokies and up to 15 inches in West Virginia's eastern mountains. There were 17 inches at State College, Pa. 14 inches in Flat Rock, N.C. and 18

Many Areas Evacuated Flood Tides Lash Connecticut Coast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — The water came up from the sea as well as down from the sky in Tuesday's storm, and the sea water accounted for most of the damage.

Low-lying shore areas had to be evacuated in Old Saybrook, Groton, East Haven, Fairfield, Stratford, Milford, Norwalk and other towns on Long Island Sound and many an automobile received a salt-water soaking.

Some neighborhoods were unreachable except by boat during high tide in the afternoon, when the water rose up to nine feet above normal levels. Meanwhile, snow fell in northern sections of the state, amounting to eight to ten inches in Norfolk and Canaan in the northwest corner of Connecticut.

Schools in Winsted remained closed today as the job of snow removal continued.

Winds gusted up to 70 miles per hour on the Sound and were strong enough inland to topple trees. Falling branches caused power failure in many communities.

Stamford was grateful for its new hurricane barrier, which prevented damage that could have totaled $750,000, according to the Army Corps of Engineers.

At the Niantic Bay Yacht Club on the eastern shore, boats were torn loose from their moorings and battered by the

For Nixon Administration Outlook on Foreign Affairs

Ed. Note: This is the fifth and final article in the Herald's current series on the outlook for Richard Nixon's administration.

By ROBERT J. DONOVAN The Los Angeles Times

Troubles around the world pose a fine challenge to Nixon's conduct of foreign affairs.

Basically, he will continue long-standing American policies of resistance to Soviet and Chinese expansion; of close ties with Western Europe; of defense of West Berlin; of support to the non-Communist nations of Asia, and of seeking reduced tensions between the United States and the Soviet Union.

In foreign policy, therefore, the outlook for the Nixon administration is this:

—Within the first 100 days an announcement of preparations for talks with the Western allies to pave the way for a series of summit meetings with Soviet leaders.

—Regardless of the final peace terms in Vietnam, a formidable U.S. military presence in the Western Pacific.

—A turning away, however, from new commitments and alliances, especially in Asia, Africa and Latin America, that might involve the United States in minor wars. "Other nations must recognize that the role of the United States as a world policeman is likely to be limited in the future," Nixon says.

—U.S. assistance to nations such as Japan, India, Thailand, South Vietnam, South Korea, Taiwan, Malaysia, Australia and New Zealand, which individually and collectively could exert a restraining influence against Chinese expansion.

Sufficient U.S. aid to Israel, including the sale of Phantom F-4 jets, if necessary, to enable the Israelis to maintain military superiority over the Arabs. This is essential, Nixon believes, lest Arab states be tempted to seek revenge for their defeat in the Six-Day War in 1967 and thereby plunge the Middle East into flames.

A recommendation by Nixon to the new Senate that it ratify the treaty banning the spread of nuclear weapons. As a gesture of disapproval of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, Nixon opposed favorable action in the treaty last September. His stand was influential in getting the Senate to lay the treaty aside. In principle, however, he favored it, and now that U.S. disapproval has been registered, he will seek its ratification.

Reflecting Dulles' influence, as he has over the years, Nixon is ready to foot the bill—no small one either—for increased strategic military power so that he can, as he repeatedly says, "negotiate from strength."

As Nixon sees it, the Soviet Union and China have inherently aggressive tendencies, whereas the United States is completely "defensive" and without ambitions of conquest.

But this is all the more reason, he insists, why the United States must retain over-all military superiority.

Nixon is ready for hard bargaining with the Kremlin. Men who sent their armed forces into Czechoslovakia will be no slouches to bargain with either. U.S. military strength will not scare them since it is inconceivable that this country would

Vernon School Board Committees Selected by Miss Casati

Miss Edith Casati, recently re-elected chairman of the Board of Education, named her standing committees at Monday's meeting of the board.

Albert Smith, was named chairman of the curriculum committee, and those to serve with him are Mrs. Mary Herold, Charles O'Flinn, the Rev. Paul Bowman and Robert Menard.

Other committee chairmen and members: Transportation, Mrs. M. Bowman with Joseph Powers and Thomas Dooley; budget, Mrs. Herold, with Smith and Arthur Callahan, Dooley and Menard; personnel, O'Flinn, with Powers and Dooley.

The board was told by superintendent Raymond Ramsdell that the State Board of Education has scheduled a hearing on Nov. 18 at its office.

Grounded Barge In Focus of Salvage Claims

REHOBOTH BEACH, Del. (AP) — A grounded barge was the focus of salvage claims today, as leakage from its cargo of oil stained the beaches of this Delaware Bay resort community.

Ownership of the barge may be subject to the final interpretation of maritime law.

Two purveyors of a local market and restaurant tied a line to the stranded barge Tuesday evening and claimed salvage rights.

Interpretation of the word "abandonment" may be the issue.

The U.S. Coast Guard station at Cape May, N.J., said the oil one of those tugs and let them worry about it.

It was referring to four or five tugs standing off shore during the early morning hours, to pump the remaining oil out of the barge. The other—to cap the damaged wreck pipe.

Dave Emert and his partner, Dick Herman, waded out to put a fire on the barge and claim ownership. Upon return, Her Emert said as we've had our eyes on the barge from the time we rescued the wreck.

Patrolman Rand Tells His Story and Wins Praise

Manchester Patrolman Richard (Randy) Rand, hero in last Thursday's bank robbery case, received the individual praise last night of each of the town's nine directors.

Each of the nine commended and thanked Rand on behalf of the town and the board.

The directors expressed pride in Rand's courageous actions in shooting it out with the men who robbed the W. Middle Type branch of the Hartford National Bank and Trust Co., escaping with just under $100,000.

In the shooting fray, one of the robbers was wounded. Later that night, a man was admitted to Hartford Hospital with wounds. He was served a warrant, charging him with participation in the robbery. And, still later that night, the man's girl friend was taken into custody and charged with being an accessory. Approximately $100,000, believed to be part of the robbery haul, was found as a result of questioning by police.

Warrants have been issued for two other suspects in the robbery, both wanted also in connection with a Massachusetts armed bank robbery.

Rand spoke briefly to members of the Hundred Club at the Hotel Americana in Hartford and that it was not from his dinner meeting last night and related his account of the robbery, receiving a large ovation at the end of his talk. Followed by Hartford dinner, he again appeared before the Board of Directors and again explained his part in last Thursday's robbery.

In the shooting fray, one of the robbers was wounded. Later that night, a man was admitted to Hartford Hospital with wounds. He was served a warrant, charging him with participation in the robbery. And, still later that night, the man's girl friend was taken into custody and charged with being an accessory. Approximately $100,000, believed to be part of the robbery haul, was found as a result of questioning by police.

Warrants have been issued for two other suspects in the robbery, both wanted also in connection with a Massachusetts armed bank robbery.

Rand spoke briefly to members of the Hundred Club at the Hotel Americana in Hartford and that it was not from his dinner meeting last night and related his account of the robbery, receiving a large ovation at the end of his talk. 84,000 Positions Found Businessmen's Alliance Success with Jobless

By JOHN GURNEY
NEW YORK (AP) — Most American businessmen are not only willing to help the jobless but also are doing so, according to a survey by the National Alliance of Businessmen.

Although nearly 24,000 of these jobs later were lost, the net gain of 81,000 indicates that the alliance is going to reach its goal of 100,000 by next June 30.

The finding among many people is that there is a program for social good whose development has gone beyond the state of hope and experiment that of practical results.

The key to the alliance's success, small as it is, seems to be training. But even with training, workers and job skills might have remained apart unless alliance members had stepped in and turned the key for jobs and unemployment have a curious relationship.

It has been a continuing mystery to many people, for example, why nearly 9 million Americans are jobless while the classified advertising pages of newspapers are filled with openings for business help.

Other major factors are involved: Many of the best jobs, for instance, are in business where most of the unemployed, where most of the unemployed.

Burmese Launch Plan to Combat Leprosy, Stigma
By HEALING MATING U RANGON, Burma (AP) — The Burmese government has launched a five-year leprosy eradication scheme to combat not only the disease but the prejudice and social stigma attached to it.

Burma has 200,000 known cases of leprosy in a population of 25 million. Only a small fraction of these are receiving modern, scientific treatment at health-care centers run by Burmese leprologists.

There are thousands of other hidden cases, unreported and untreated. Leprosy in Burma is rampant in rural areas, where family social life, village rights and medical facilities are treated of other ailments.

Many Burmese, who are ill per cent Buddhist, consider leprosy a divine curse. Consequently leprosy try to hide their symptoms until the disease shows up in advanced form, when treatment is likely to be prolonged.

To combat this before it becomes a national problem, the Ministry of Health has budgeted considerable funds for its five-year plan.

In the first two years emphasis will be on organizing and training leprosy survey teams, which will be sent to be opened in Rangoon and Mandalay. At the end of the second year, entire villages in infected areas will be examined and statistics compiled.

In the third year about a million suspected leprosy will be examined in Central Burma. In the fourth and fifth years, the work will be reassessed, more survey centers will be opened across the country and, hopefully, all leprosy will be receiving treatment.

Throughout the five-year period, the government will try to change public opinion about leprosy, assuring that it is only slightly contagious, curable and caused by germs, not heredity or any divine curse.

SOME TEACHER OFFICERS IDLE
NEW YORK (AP) — The city's 200 transient officers haven't had too much to do during the long teachers' strike. Most of the officers joined the walkout by the United Federation of Teachers. But the ones remaining on duty have been conducting interviews with dropouts and encouraging children to attend the few schools which remain open, the Board of Education said.

servant. Mobility is a factor also, for many job workers are unwilling to accept their families down depressed rural communities.

Racial and age discrimination have played obvious roles, too, but lack of training and a failure to understand the mechanics of job seeking have always been near the top of the list.

Ten-agers entering the work force have been inadequately trained, and so the technique of job seeking is also a factor.

order that clearly has resulted from unemployment—in terms, that is, of the despair and sense of futility from which victims emerge.

Leo C. Beebe, vice chairman of the alliance, said "Numbers do not tell the whole story. The real potential for success... is visible more importantly in the positive and constructive reaction to the experience by employers and the hard-core allies."

There is the gap into which the alliance stepped as a catalyst. Ford II as chairman, its immediate results now indicate that a goal of 100,000 jobs by mid-year will be achieved.

The importance of such achievements should be measured in terms of the social discipline that clearly has resulted from unemployment—in terms, that is, of the despair and sense of futility from which victims emerge.

Wildlife Again Thrives in Everglades

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The beautiful "River of Grass" flows once again down the flatlands of South Florida, and Everglades National Park—a vast prehistoric wilderness that just a year ago was dying of thirst—has won a new lease on life.

In the spring of 1967, robbed of water by years of drought and man's greed for water, wildlife in the park fought a desperate battle against extinction.

Starving alligators thrashed the waters of fast-rising ponds, fighting over the last of the water. Thousands of birds were abandoned, wading and struggling in the shallow, sun-scoured water. Masses of dead fish floated on oxygen-depleted pools, casting a heavy stench of death over America's only great subtropical water park.

Today the picture is bright and hopes are high that the park never again will be forced to the brink of destruction.

The wide, shallow river that for centuries poured over the south rim of Lake Okechobee and drifted slowly down through the swamps to the sea runs as it did before. It nourishes thousands of ponds, swales and sloughs filled with fish and crabs. On the rich flood plain, birds, animals and reptiles thrive.

"There is plenty of food now for everything out there," says Francis Rex, the park's hydroelectric engineer.

The reconstruction of the park was brought about by two months of record-breaking rains, and a discovery that Florida has water enough, if properly controlled, for both man and beast.

In May and June, double the normal amount of rain deluged the Everglades. And since June, rains from the reservoirs of the Central and South Florida Flood Control District have been wide open, pouring excess water southward into the park.

Wetland between Tibet and India has suffered from drought and man's interference with the natural course of nature. When there is plenty of water, wildlife is abundant on the park's 1.5 million acres.

Have birds like the roseate spoonbill and white heron, which once inhabited the park in large numbers, are making a comeback? It is estimated that 50,000 birds now occupy the mainland area. And, with plenty of food, a good nesting season is in prospect this winter.

The alligator, one of the park's most prized denizens, has been badly hurt, but more by poachers than by drought. The population has been slashed 50 per cent since the 1950s.

Pressure on Congress led to recent approval of a construction program that will improve storage and distribution facilities of the flood control district.

If possible, the park's minimum of 215,000-acre-foot of water a year through the flood-gates. In this wet year, the park already has received 700,000-acre-foot.

It is known that human demands of the future could revive again the crisis. "Water for alligators or people?" "Birds can't vote." These words were heard in 1966 when the National Audubon Society and other conservation groups—fighting to save off a monumental tragedy in the park—argued that enough water could be spared from the reservoir to save the wildlife.

But the park was created to give pleasure to people, not alligators. Each year, a million tourists enjoy its attractions and its sports fishing.

Fast-growing agricultural interests in the marshlands north of the park demand more and more of the stored water. Land developments march across the park's boundaries. A proposed superhighway to Jupiter 50 miles west of Miami could spark a building boom just north of the park and lead to a (AP Photo/John) Water will be elevated four feet more than the low water level of the river of the Everglades. The flood control program that canalized the park was itself born in catastrophe.

Without the River of Grass, a serious blow would be struck to both sport and commercial fisheries. The river pours off the mangrove coast into Florida Bay, it mingles with the salt water to create a huge brackish sea, in which conditions are ideal for breeding of shrimp, snook, tarpon and other fish.

CENTRATED PAY — TIMIBU, Bhutan (AP) — King Jigme Dorji Wangchuk of Bhutan is perhaps the world's lowest paid monarch.

The Bhutan national assembly has fixed the king's petty pay at 2,000 rupees (400¢) a month or only 500 rupees (100¢) more than what his ministers get.

In 1962, the flow from Lake Okechobee into the park was cut off entirely pending a fill-up of conservation areas. The Trans-lake Trail, running along the north boundary of the park, became a sharply-etched dividing line between swamp and desert.

The crisis finally came to a head in 1962 during a severe drought that threatened a total wipeout of all life in the park. The public raised a great outcry.

Engineers said the canal system was built so that water could not be sent directly from the lake into the park without flooding the farmlands in between.

At the same time, to lower the lake level in advance of the tropical storm season, enough water to spread two inches over 2,700 square miles of land cascaded from the lake down spillways into the sea. Public outrage led to an interim agreement giving the park enough water to stay alive and a study led to a $70 million revision and expansion of the canal system.

Embarkments now are under construction will permit raising the lake level two feet. Later, it

Tolland Bids for a New Ambulance Sought by Finance Board

The Board of Finance agreed last night to set for bids on a new ambulance after meeting with officials of the Tolland Ambulance Association.

The finance board was unaware of the problems being experienced with the existing ambulance despite the expenditure of the $1,000 for repairs.

TVA's president Jerome Smith explained the problems and the extent of services provided the town by the service.

Mayor Ed of the ambulance failure during a call yesterday. The vehicle had failed to start in the garage but had started under way after a push. It failed to start again, however, after the victim of a fall from the roof of the Burroughs plant had been placed on the stretcher in the ambulance.

The ambulance failed on a wet day, likely not while on a call, they reported. The TVA is presently using operating funds to maintain the vehicle.

Smith reported the TVA has been credited with saving two lives, and has served over 800 calls in its three-year existence. This does not include calls to TVA members which do not require use of the ambulance.

About 20 to 25 per cent of the calls answered by the TVA involve automobile accidents, of which less than 10 per cent are out-of-town residents on state roads, he explained.

The TVA has raised about $1,000 for equipment, almost the same amount which

Pope Scores 'Haste' in Unity Move

MANCHESTER (AP) — Pope Paul VI denounced today what he called "cosmetic haste" in the move for Christian unity.

The pontiff warned that Roman Catholics who hasten to engage in unauthorized religious services with non-Catholics will only serve to slow down the program aimed at one day bringing all Christians together.

He predicted that eventually unity would come with the efforts of all Christians, but through God and not what he called "the hasty misunderstanding" of trying to achieve better Christian relations by "wrong relationships."

The Pope spoke to a plenary session of his Secretariat for Christian Unity. It was yet another of the growing number of

Ray's New Lawyer Prepares Defense

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — court Tuesday, insisted that he was still ready to go to trial.

The prosecution objected that the switch of lawyers was a maneuver designed merely to delay the trial.

Prosecution attorneys after the court proceeding that Ray was hopeful of doing better if his trial was postponed until after the new Republican administration takes office in January. He said he did not know on what day he would be tried.

Judge W. Preston Battle granted the postponement and agreed to enter Foreman as Ray's attorney.

Foreman, a former Birmingham, Ala., Mayor Arthur J. Hanes, who was hired through the same night Foreman was hired.

Foreman said he planned to stay in here for a few days to confer with local bar association leaders to get help in associating a Tennessee lawyer as associate counsel.

In a letter in which Ray declared his intention to fire Hanes and retain Foreman, Ray had said he had "decided to employ a Tennessee attorney."

Hanes had been assisted by his son, also of Birmingham.

Foreman said he did not know whether he would request that the trial be moved to another location.

Book Review

THE BOBBY MAN, By George Plimpton. Harper, $4.95.

What would happen if "The Younger People" were to overtake America? On this theme Miss Mame has constructed a challenging examination of the basic values of present day society. The narrative takes a look backward from newspapers around the 1930s. An American President has gotten elected on "law and order" platform and nearly plunged the nation into war. In the younger generation revolts and the government, under the guise of "protecting" their children, they set up various compulsory retirement at 50, then 60, then 70, then 80, then 90, then 100. The idea of "communitarianism" is at its height. At no later than 16 (earlier, if they develop serious ailments) they were given the choice of suicide or extermination. This story is about a little group of exiles who have been given special permission to live in old houses on the north side of America. The exiles include one former painter, two musicians (serious and pop), a woman-writer (who reports their story) and an ex-military type. The little group tries to figure out what really happened to their former world; tries to evaluate the aims of the young "barbarians"; and argues about the wisdom of faith that they would like to leave behind.

The framework of the present book is his experience as a columnist in three previous tournaments of the PGA Tour. He had a handicap of 18 and finished out (that's golf slang) at 18. On this framework he builds a book full of getting anecdotes of the 19th hole type. There are sections on the "crazed and burned" means a golfer had a bad round, hence temper, the "crazy" means among the pros (Clayton Kopp, for example), betting, superstitions, the way the galleries act, odd incidents on a driving range and what it is like to play in a celebrity tournament (Sandy Kousser has a handicap of 18 too). Plimpton also gets into such topics as the nervous ailment that settles in a golfer's wrist and hands, the carry knowledge of the touring caddies and some of the fresh events that have taken place on golf courses. This volume may not turn out to be as popular as the author's "Paper Lion"—the chronicle of his humbling efforts to learn quarterbacking with the Detroit Lions—but it should entertain a lot of readers.

A MARRIED MAN, By Benjamin Hoffert. Harcourt, $3.95.

The married man, not quite so young any more, has an affair with a single woman. It is a well-worn theme, but in this case the author is concentrating on the psychological aspects of the rise and fall of a love affair. The protagonist is Dr. Gordon Flax, whose occupation is the teaching of filmstrips about seduction and other subjects. Working on a film project in California, he meets Jean Wolfe. Gordon and Jean fall in love quickly, and so completely as to seem a possibility under the circumstances. Of course, Gordon is married by a woman of 20 over his wife and their two small sons. By the time the California project has ended, he and Jean are reduced to furtive meetings in New York.

And how does an affair disintegrate? DeMott's depiction of this one makes it a painful process in which the principals gradually find themselves unable to register with each other. The author is an accomplished writer and in this short novel demonstrates his narrative skill.

MISS FARRINGTON'S LAW By C. Northcote Parkinson. Houghton Mifflin, $4.95.

Parkinson now turns his attention to the domestic scene. His wit is of the type described by the word satirist, but it also carries with it some human insights that illuminate. Parkinson is concentrating on the hazards of the marital state, under such themes as romance, marriage, child rearing, social contacts, status and escape mechanisms. He has a very funny chapter on the most arrangements of the usual home-body planned and stuffed with supposedly mandatory appliances. The chapter "Helen and Gosh" contains a detailed analysis of how to manage a cocktail party, and it is a demagogically humorous classic full of bright observations of human nature. There are two chapters that parents shouldn't be without. One on "The children" reminds us that not too many decades ago parents of even toddlers were able to take serious notes on the child's behavior, with a minimum of parental contact—and the sky didn't fall on "The other," "Technology," is a slowly nasty examination of the contrast between the old days, when children were sent out to work at a tender age, and the present-day practice of cooking the kids into their own

There are no wild, rambling flights of purple prose with all the substance of cotton candy in any of these 18 stories. Each word follows in logical progression and when the words stop something important has been said. A deceptively simple style—the style of a master writer. "The Slaughterer," for example, begins: "Yolnah Meir should have become the Kibbutz, but he has given the sociologists a pointer by making that the social emancipation of women has destroyed the parents' authority over their children. Let's say that Parkinson is in fact born as an interesting wit.

TALK ABOUT AMERICA, By Albert Cohen. Knopf, $4.95.

Most Americans know Alastair Cooke as the man who presides for nine years over television's Omnibus. Readers in England know him as The Guardian's chief American correspondent. The BBC's radio listeners have enjoyed his words for many years in a broadcast series called "Letter from America."

This book is a collection of his broadcasts, and its chapters present a highly discerning picture of some of the things that made America in the last 25 years, and in some cases still do. He deals with such personal titles as Robert Frost, George C. Marshall, H. L. Mencken, Robert R. McCormick and Lyndon attack the Soviet Union unless attacked. And that is our aim. We're not talking about a return to isolationism," Nixon says.

If there is to be bargaining, Nixon must be ready to give as well as take. It may require all of his patented and Communist to make sense of the concessions palatable at home.

A highly responsible and experienced person among his advisers recently gave this report on his own opinion about the kind of concessions Nixon might offer in return for Soviet co-operation.

He mentioned abandoning the goal of German reunification, recognition of the Communist East German government, agreeing to some of the post-war border changes in Eastern Europe and offering new guarantees against giving aid clear weapons to West Germany.

This is high-voltage stuff. Nixon is thinking in terms of concessions of this magnitude, even though not of these particular ones.

State Finds Dump Adequate to 1970

Tolland's present dump can be used for an additional two years, according to a report issued by the State Department of Health. The report was read by First Selectman Ernest Vix during last night's meeting of the Board of Selectmen.

"They don't approve of our dump, but are not condemning it," he explained. Some of the Department's suggestions will be carried out such as fencing the dump.

The Board of Selectmen approved the town's participation in a regional refuse study by the Connecticut State Department of Health, conducted by the Capitol Region Council of Selected Officials (CRSCO).

Vix noted all the area towns are experiencing refuse disposal problems, or will be shortly. The town is operating its dump at "the last foot" near neighboring towns such as Stafford and Coventry.

Elliot suggested that a commission such as the Conservation Commission or an ad hoc group of women canvass the various locations in town, keep the roads clear of parked cars during winter snow storms. This would include cars parked along the side of the road.

Billie Auto Parts on Rt. 74 accepts junk cars which are brought in and left in the yard. The cars are subsequently abandoned there until a street number are available for crushing.

Connecticut Mobile Auto Crushers then moves in its equipment, crushes the cars, loads them on a flatbed truck for transporting to a metal processing plant in Massachusetts.

The State Traffic Commission will conduct a traffic count survey at various locations in town, Selectmen Charles Lane said.

The study will determine the need for either traffic lights, additional traffic signs or double painted lines in those spots.

The survey will be made at the junction of Rt. 100 and Goose Lane at the Rhoads Rd. intersection; at Tolland St. and Old Post Rd. at the Hitch Memorial School, and at the Kingfisher place on Rt. 30 when it is completed.

Traffic signs will be installed at Old Canfield Rd. and Rt. 74 at the high school entrance. Traffic lights to be activated by the Department of Transportation — it's a 10-page study at both the Leonard's pamphlet.

Declines Job Offer With $4,500 Raise. NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—John P. Cavaliero Jr., director of New Haven's Department of Traffic and Parking, has turned down an offer to become traffic director of Baltimore, Md. It was learned Tuesday.

Cavaliero returned March 18 to New Haven, his birthplace, after serving as deputy commissioner in Baltimore for about 1 1/2 years.

The job offer from Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro included a $4,500 raise over his current annual salary here which ranges from $15,600 to $22,800.

Cavaliero said Tuesday night he had spoken with D'Alesandro last week and declined the offer because "I just started (here) in March, and I couldn't think of leaving without doing a job for the mayor."

47 Negro Youths Arrested for Blocking Traffic

SWANQUARTER, N.C. (AP) — Negro teenagers who have been boycotting classes for six weeks have added the chant, "We Want to be Arrested!" to their protest of a Hyde County school integration plan. The three schools are the only ones in the county and each operates grade one through 12. The first step in the three-year integration plan—integration of grades 1-3—was taken this year. They should continue to operate all three schools and put white students into what had been the black schools. Toppling was the main tactic. About 400 of the county's 800 school age Negro children started a boycott of classes in September to protest the desegregation plan. The county's total school-age population is about 1,400. The North Carolina highway patrol boosted its force from 10 to 20 after a demonstration during which tear gas to desegregate Negro students was used by pro-segregationists in the lower house. They said they would not return to school until the school board announced the withdrawal of desegregation plans. The school board employees who went on strike Sept. 18, Mrs. Gandhi refused.

Principal at Hale School Hits Grouping by Ability

The Chapl. Nathan Hale School has been open for just over two months now, and "seems to be functioning fairly well," according to Principal Edward Mahoney. In a report to the Board of Education, Mahoney said he finds the staff of the school "extremely professional and very cooperative," and added that they have helped him "renewed" in getting the school year under way. The school houses Grades 9 through 12. The only equipment in the new building that is causing any difficulty is the intercom system, which, Mahoney said, "is being rustled." Then Dave's heterogeneity in every subject except reading. Grades 7 and 8 are grouped homogeneously, giving all different ability levels. Mahoney's own feeling on this is that "next year, we will do away with mixed homogeneous grouping and go to class grouping." He has indicated quite positively in the report that he is an advocate of the heterogeneous set-up. Mahoney outlined his plan for a new "flexible" arrangement next year: "We will place the year with the students placed randomly in various grouping groups. The staff will then set up six six-week units in each subject area. Four weeks of this time the children in heterogeneous grouping will all be given the same subject matter. "After testing at the end of the four-week period, children will be regrouped for two weeks according to how well or how poorly they did on the test. This four-week period will be used for enrichment, remediation or remedial work, according to student need. After that, the students will be regrouped for the next unit throughout the year." Mahoney feels that "there is no educational remedy that proves definitely that one kind of grouping is better than another for educational needs. A more important question, that of social adjustment, is the reason why I should like to go into this. He cited the example of several students who have been moved into higher ability groups this year for various reasons. "These students have amazed their teachers by doing very well, and in some cases, making for extra work to make up for what they have missed. This indicates, Mahoney

Stamps In the News

By SYD KROKORIS

Articles from Ireland and other countries throughout the world participated in an international competition to design the latest definitive set of postage stamps. The winner was Heinrich Gert of Munich, West Germany.

The half penny to 6 penny values show a dog in stylized form from a decorative of an ancient Irish brooch. The 7 penny to 1 shilling 5 penny values depict a stamp inspired by an Irish art decoration, which can be traced to a manuscript, now in the British Museum. The 2 shilling 6 penny and 5 penny values illustrate the Evangelist, based on a sketch in the Gospel Book of Lichfield in Lichfield Cathedral. The eagle symbol of St. John the Evangelist, taken from an ancient Irish manuscript adorns the 10 shilling.

Collectors in this country desiring information and costs of first-day covers may write directly to Irish Stamp Co., 967 E. 33rd St., Brooklyn, N.Y. 11220.

To honor the 1968 Wheelchair Olympics—the 17th Stoke-Mandeville Games—Israel has issued a new stamp, reports the Israel Philatelic Agency in America.

The games for the paralyzed were originally set up in the hospital for paraplegics at Stoke-Mandeville in Britain in 1946. Concluding in years with the International Olympic Games, the Wheelchair Games were held from 1952 to 1966 in England but in 1968 and 1964 they were conducted elsewhere.

This year, the Mexican government announced it could not host the Wheelchair Olympics. The site of the games is the Israel Sports Center and the Municipal Stadium in Ramat Gan. Visitors representing 20 nations will participate. Competition for wheelchair athletes is in basketball, swimming, fencing, weightlifting, table tennis, bowling, soccer and archery.

The illustrations on the new Israeli stamp feature a wheelchair basketball game in action. The stamp is available at your local dealer.

India has issued a set of four new stamps to mark Gandhi Centenary Year. One design shows Gandhi at his spinning wheel. The other depicts a profile of Gandhi with a statue of Buddha in the background. Each design has two values. Also issued by India were a stamp honoring Gopabandhu and a postage meter and cancellation. The inscriptions are in English and Hindi.

MAKE YOUR OWN PONCHO
NEW YORK — (AP) South American ponchos are all the rage among the teen set. Here's how to make your own, instantly and inexpensively:

Buy a length of material equal to the width of the material, this making a square. Lightweight wool or tweed is perfect for fall and winter. Fold material in half. From the center of the material cut a straight slash seven inches in length.

Fold a strip on Bondex in half lengthwise and bind all edges with a dry iron set at wet temperature and preheated.

That's all there is to it. And the poncho can be turned into a cape, a robe or a top with slits.
