Most Rev. John F. Whealon, Archbishop of Hartford

Erie, Pa. Man Named Hartford Archbishop

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—The new Roman Catholic Archbishop of Hartford, succeeding former Archbishop Henry J. O'Brien, is a 47-year-old native of Ohio who has been serving as Bishop of Erie, Pa.

The appointment of the Most Rev. John F. Whealon by Pope Paul VI was announced today by the Vatican.

In his new post, Archbishop Whealon will be the ranking prelate in Connecticut and Rhode Island, although the archdiocese itself includes only Hartford, New Haven and Litchfield Counties in Connecticut.

As Metropolitan of the district, the Archbishop has titular jurisdiction over the dioceses of Bridgeport and Norwich, Conn., and Providence, R.I., as well as the Archdiocese of Hartford.

"I am heartened by the choice of Archbishop Whealon," said Archbishop O'Brien in a statement. "He comes to us admirably fitted by nature, education and experience for leadership of the Archdiocese."

Greek Jet Hijacked To Cairo

ATHENS (AP)—A Greek government spokesman said a lone Greek gunman hijacked an Olympic Airways DC8 plane en route to Athens from Crete today and forced it to land in Cairo.

Earlier, an Athens airport source said the pilot of the plane had reported two Arab gunmen were forcing him to fly to Cairo. But a government spokesman said an unidentified Greek had entered the plane's cockpit brandishing a pistol and ordered the pilot to fly to the Egyptian capital.

The plane carried 102 persons. Cairo radio announced that the 97 passengers and 5 crew members were being given accommodations by Egyptian authorities until they return.

The broadcast identified the hijacker as George Lamorets, 29-year-old Greek who had been sentenced to a year's imprisonment for opposing the Greek military regime in 1967.

The broadcast said Lamorets fired a shot over the pilot's head when the latter tried to contact Athens airport after being ordered to land at Cairo.

Ioannis Georgakis, chairman of the airline, took a Boeing 707 jet to Cairo to bring the passengers back to Athens.

The airline is owned by Aristotle Onassis, who interrupted a New Year's holiday with his wife, the former Jacqueline Kennedy, and her children on

Snow, Cold Grip Most Of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Bone-chilling cold gripped nearly two-thirds of the nation today, its bite compounded by gale-force winds and heavy snows in parts of the Northeast.

The cold wave which broke out of the northwest, early in the week and drove temperatures to their lowest marks of the season throughout the midcontinent, completed a cross-country sweep and dropped the mercury near or below zero in the Northeast.

In Connecticut, New England's warm, corner right now, temperatures were expected to drop tonight to a low of zero, with readings in the teens expected along the coast. The mercury was unlikely to poke above the freezing mark around the clock for several days.

Very cold air will continue to flow over Connecticut from Canada today, the U.S. Weather Bureau reports.

The air flow is in the form of west to northwest winds created by a very intense storm centered near the mouth of the Saint Lawrence River which is moving slowly north northeastward. It is also affected by an area of high pressure over the Tennessee Valley.

Winds will diminish tonight, and temperatures will tumble to near zero in many interior places while the skies remain clear. Fair and not so cold will

But Saigon's Hit Peak

GI Deaths Lowest Since Bombing Halt

SAIGON (AP)—The year 1968 ended with the lowest weekly American death toll since the bombing of North Vietnam ended, the U.S. Command reported today. But the number of South Vietnamese dead was the highest in three months, indicating an increasing part in the war by the Saigon government's troops.

The reported toll of enemy dead was as usual, above 2,000 and five times the allied total. Communiques today reflected the recent changed nature of the war—small, widely scattered ground actions, the uncovering of more enemy supply dumps and the shelling of allied posts coupled with enemy hit-and-run attacks.

The death of 113 American servicemen Christmas week was the lowest in 10 weeks. South Vietnamese losses in the same week were 279 dead, the highest in 13 weeks, while 2,155 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were reported killed.

The casualty report covered the Christmas truce period, and the figures indicated the ceasefire was only nominally observed.

The cease-fire declared by the Viet Cong command for New Year's ended early today, and shortly after two American bases and one South Vietnamese post were shelled.

No significant ground action was reported, although American and South Vietnamese troops were patrolling up and stole a jeep from a service station and began a flight into the rough country of the Adirondack mountains that sit just above Westerville.

Early today the blue jeep was spotted by state troopers Dominick DePaola Jr., and Thomas Buck and they gave chase. MacLachlan fired three shots through the windshield of the troopers' automobile, then retreated inside a tractor sales house in the hamlet of Remsen, 10 miles east of Westerville.

DePaola and Buck were reinforced and volleys of shots were exchanged before MacLachlan shot himself to death.

No motive was established immediately, but officers said MacLachlan and his wife had been separated for about two weeks. MacLachlan, 37, was a 6-foot-2 outdoorsman. He worked in Oneida, N.Y.

An alert went out for his arrest shortly after the shootings, which happened after 10 p.m. A young girl called Oneida County Sheriff's Deputy James Campbell at 10:24 p.m. Wednesday and screamed: "Three peo-

Man Slays Four, Takes Own Life

WESTERNVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—Ralph MacLachlan, a meat cutter who shot and killed his estranged wife and three other persons in a Wednesday night rampage, put a bullet through his head today as officers closed in, police reported.

Mrs. MacLachlan, 33, was shot as she and members of her family sat in their home in this central New York village. Her sister, Mrs. Jane Turke Rigrose, 35, and Mrs. Ringrose's 12-year-old daughter, Barbara, were killed at the same time. The other four occupants of the house were wounded before MacLachlan left.

Police said he then ran to the next-door home of Mrs. James Pepper, apparently to try to get the Pepper automobile. Mrs. Pepper's 10-year-old son, James Jr., was fatally wounded.

Mrs. Pepper was critically wounded, as were three other persons. Mrs. Pepper was shot in the head and spine.

Two other of her children saved their lives by hiding in a closet.

High School, College Grads Enrolled in Poverty Program

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal investigators have discovered that hundreds of high school graduates—and even some college students—have collected government paychecks under Detroit anti-poverty programs set up to provide jobs and training for high school dropouts.

In a report to Congress, the General Accounting Office cited this as one of "a number of discrepancies" it found in examining Neighborhood Youth Corps programs in Detroit, where slums were scarred by a major riot in 1967.

The 82-page report also disclosed that:

their families did not meet the anti-poverty program's low-income criteria.

Anti-poverty officials made little or no attempt to follow up on the progress of youths who completed training, and thus had no way to gauge the programs' effectiveness.

Sponsoring organizations indirectly used federal funds to help pay the local share of the program's cost, and local sponsors paid only half their required 10 per cent.

The "weaknesses" cited went undetected for months because federal officials assigned to insure compliance with anti-poverty program requirements "were performing very little monitoring of the NYC sponsor activities in Detroit."

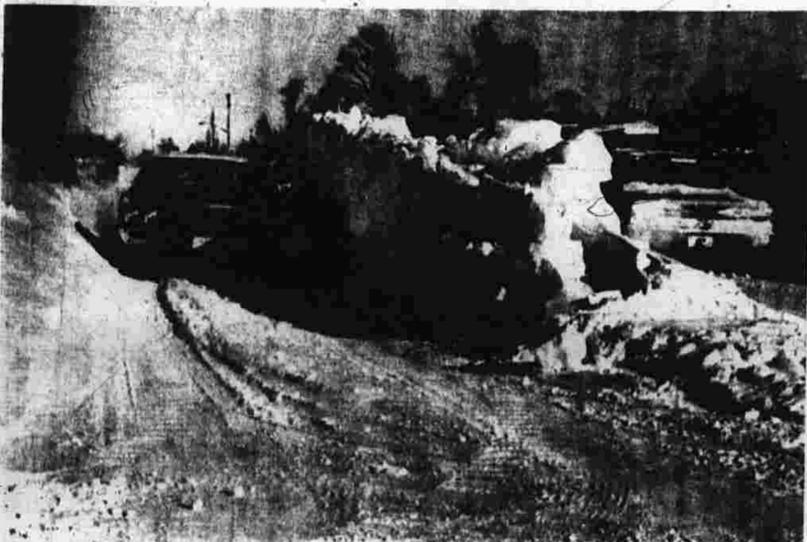

The Associated Press reported last April 10 that GAO investigators were delving into operations of the poverty fighting efforts in Detroit, one of two cities in the nation whose central anti-poverty agency is an arm of city government, rather than an independent nonprofit corporation. The other is Chicago.

The GAO report centered on 18 neighborhood Youth Corps programs sponsored in fiscal 1966 and 1967 by one of three organizations—the Mayor's Committee for Human Resources Development, the city Board of Education and the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit. More than half the $15.7 million in federal funds involved went to the first group, headed by Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh.

The 16 projects fell into three categories. One type was set up 800 and auto theft — are crimes against property. One — robbery — is both. Here, too, the FBI can report only of crimes known to the police. The Crime Commission estimates that three to 10 times as many offenses go unreported as are reported, especially crimes against property.

Another highly significant thing about UCR figures, says Robert Rice, who served as a staff member of the commission, is that violent crimes, including robberies, were only 13 per cent of all offenses known to the police between 1960 and 1968.

And of these crimes of violence, he writes in "The Challenge of Crime," a Public Affairs Pamphlet, most involved a prior victim-offender relationship. In almost three-quarters of all reported murders in 1968, the victims and the offenders knew each other. In more than a quarter of the cases, they were within families.

In another category entirely are non-lethal crimes, a veritable grab bag of offenses, some of which might be called "crimes by definition." For instance, of nearly five million arrests in 1968, almost a million and a half were for drunkenness. Disorderly conduct accounted for 520,000 arrests and vagrancy for 104,000.

It is also necessary to analyze crime, not just from the standpoint of numbers and types, but from the angles of environment, the efficiency of our police, the quality of justice in our courts, the shortcomings of our correctional institutions and, indeed, the moral tone of society itself before we can begin to understand what crime is, why it is so prevalent and how it can be combated.

Blacks in College, Future Investment

By WILLIAM THOMBLEY The Los Angeles Times

The debate about admitting more minority students to colleges and universities raises a vital question about America's future—to what extent is the white man willing to move over and make room for the black man and the brown man?

The nation's institutions of higher learning finally have gone beyond tokenism in admitting Negroes and have taken the first steps toward increasing the numbers of Puerto Rican, Mexican-American and other minority students. From Harvard to Stanford, from the City College of New York to San Francisco State, new white faces have begun to appear on campus in significant numbers.

Admissions officers have found ghetto high schools, trying to find students who are good college material but who have never thought seriously of college. Larger numbers of "high risk" students are being accepted — those whose grades, test scores or finances seem to disqualify them for higher education.

But, at the same time, a wave of confrontations between militant black students and college and civil authorities is creating a serious white backlash.

This white antagonism, combined with the crumbling of the L.A., which has about 20,000 students. "There isn't a day goes by that I don't get at least one angry letter from a student about some petty bureaucratic thing that happened, like a check slamming the window in his face after he stood in line for an hour," he said.

This is no more a problem for nonwhite students than for whites, but a Negro or Mexican-American student, who is already preoccupied with academic and financial demands finds such treatment especially galling.

Some administrators who stand firm on student protest have been burned by "some white radicals and some black students who don't want change but want to show that the institutions don't care," as one official put it.

Charges that campus disorders are largely communist-inspired are silly, but it is clear that there are some student radicals and some black students who are eager to turn student discontent to their own purposes.

Among those who are quick to follow this kind of irreverent and even under the rug for years.

Another administrator blamed "faculty power" for part of the trouble. "The faculty has pushed hard for academic freedom and by and large that's a good thing," he said, "but academic freedom has been abused lately in the classroom to the point where it is almost impossible to teach."

Thus, it is interesting that Allen's entry in the country's 1967 essay contest (which was bankrolled by Frawley) is studied with great interest by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Beyond that, Allen is on close personal terms with several college students — particularly Col. Raymond B. Sleeper, a retired Air Force man and booster of high military hardware spending. Both Allen and Sleeper have addressed the National Strategy Information Center in New York with hard-line speeches. Another right-of-center group — the Philadelphia Society — has been addressed by Allen in company with Frank Johnson, editor of the American Security Council's Washington Report.

Apart from Allen's associations are his views which are outlined in part in his 1967 essay. Advocating "a continuing program of counterattack against Communist propaganda," Allen writes: "Specific attention must be given to intellectual and university groups in this country and abroad for these are groups at which Communist propaganda is already aimed and in which considerable gains have been recorded."

In contrast to the prevailing Nixon theme of limited global commitments, Allen's essay calls on the government to guarantee private investment abroad with a meaningful fiscal that those guarantees must be more than strictly financial: "Government must be motivated to protect with the appropriate means American foreign investments."

Allen was responsible for the one major blunder of the Nixon pre-convention campaign. When the Soviets sent an airplane carrying U.S. troops to Vietnam June 30, Allen wrote a statement for Mr. Nixon describing the plane as a "flying bomb" and threatening drastic retribution for Mr. Nixon's failure to return the Russians returned the airplane.

Since then, Allen has been under wraps. Moreover, Nixon said ideologically pure on that Allen is not the President's assistant but was specifically named as an assistant to the mature Dr. Kissinger.

For his part, it is inconceivable that Kissinger will make much use of Allen. His personal aide will be not Allen but an outstanding young diplomat (Daniel Davidson, currently an aide to Ambassador Averell Harriman). Still, the question persists: Why did the President-elect, generally so cautious during the transition, make such a curious appointment to a post of such high sensitivity?

A Thought for Today

"Faith divorced from deeds is as lifeless as a corpse."

When history turns against himself to have and to know a world that is non-threatening and hospitable.

And his religion turns inward so that he defines his own deductions and then worships them.

Faith becomes solely trust in those predetermined ideals and objects, and religion becomes faith in one's self, for one's self, to one's self.

The person is now self-sufficient by an iron curtain to protect self from the reality of the world and of the mysterious Presence.

Emotion and deed are disconnected and the real man, because of no outward reach has become unattached and estranged.

Faith cannot express its depth unless it has works to convey it.

The $25,000 first prize in the $100,000 essay contest (subject: The Role of American Business in the Cold War) conducted by the American Security Council was won by Dr. James P. Lader, a contributor of racialist literature to the John Birch Society magazine and a staff assistant of Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina.

What's important from the standpoint of national policy is the identity of one of the honorable mentions: Dr. Richard V. Allen of the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace.

Allen's essay is heavy going and never transcends tired cold war rhetoric (example: "We are faced with an implacable and self-declared enemy whose aims are unlimited... who seeks the destruction of the American way of life"). Indeed, the essay would not be worth a second glance if it were not for the fact that Mr. Nixon has named Richard V. Allen as a "senior staff assistant" to the highly respected Dr. Henry Kissinger, Mr. Nixon's assistant for national security affairs.

The gap between Kissinger's sophisticated, adult anti-communism and Allen's simplistic version in a column. Allen among the President-elect's high-level appointments, Allen is a member of what more thoughtful conservatives regard as the "blackbox right."

Allen, 32, has been an activist in two major right-wing youth groups: Young Americans for Freedom and the Intercollegiate Studies Institute. But more significant are his links with the American Security Council, which go beyond his participation in the 1967 essay contest.

The American Security Council, which started as a private service to employers to check the loyalty of job applicants, has blossomed into a hard-line anti-Communist propaganda instrument with a newsletter and a syndicated radio program. The council's slogan: Pat Frawley, school razor magnate and benefactor of manifold rightist causes.

Thus, it is interesting that Allen's entry in the country's 1967 essay contest (which was bankrolled by Frawley) is studied with great interest by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Beyond that, Allen is on close personal terms with several college students — particularly Col. Raymond B. Sleeper, a re-

Again The Lenky Roof

It might seem hardly necessary to remind Americans again to get on with the business of Electoral College reform. But it is necessary. Otherwise, before some constitutional amendment is adopted, 1972 will have set in. And when 1972 rolls around, the same scary constitutional crisis may again threaten the nation.

It takes a lot of time to put through an amendment to the Constitution. Congress will not act until after the third vote in each House. Three-quarters of the states must ratify it. This can take months or years. There is no time to waste.

Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, whose subcommittee on constitutional amendments held extensive hearings in 1966-67, has promised new hearings "late in January" in the House of Representatives. Judiciary Committee chairman Emanuel Celler of New York has pledged hearings "early in the session." So there is reasonable assurance that Congress will be able to familiarize themselves with the various proposals and resolutions for reforming the antiquated system by which the United States chooses its president.

Advocates of the direct election of the president by popular vote — which means abolishing the Electoral College and its method of tallying the results — appear to have the largest support of the moment. A recent Gallup Poll showed that 81 per cent of those questioned favored the direct-election method. A Harris survey put this at 79 per cent.

In 1968, direct election by popular vote was endorsed by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and the American Bar Association.

Another proposal calls for allocating the electoral votes in proportion to the popular vote received by each candidate in each state. Under still another proposal, electoral votes would be allocated on a one-vote-to-each-congressional-district basis, plus throwing in two extra votes to the statewide winner. There are still other plans.

Under the direct vote proposal, Mr. Nixon would have won in November by a bare 0.5 percent. It would have been a close but viable win. Senator Bayh stipulates in his proposal that the nationwide ticket should receive at least 50 percent of the popular vote, or face a runoff requirement.

What is needed is a simple, easily understood amendment to the Constitution. The rise of third-party movements in recent years has made the Electoral College method increasingly risky with its requirement that somebody get 270 electoral votes or the election is dumped in the House of Representatives. There is a time for action is now, and now, and now, until the lenky roof is really repaired. —CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

Humphrey's New Job Vice President Humphrey's acceptance of a faculty position in Minnesota presents an occasion to consider the use that America makes of those who retire (or are retired) from high public office. Generally speaking, too little advantage is taken of such men's capabilities and extraordinary experience.

In a sense, Humphrey will be something of an exception. He is not simply being absorbed, as he might have been, in some enterprise which, though rewarding in a monetary sense, permits little impact on the general welfare. As a professor on the faculty of the University of Minnesota and Macalester College, he will have both contact with the generative intellectual world and opportunity to make his voice heard on great concerns of the day.

Politically oriented observers would hasten to point out that Humphrey has thus also provided himself with a base for future political involvement should he so inclined. It seems likely that he will indeed feel so inclined; there is a good chance that he will run for the Senate in 1970. The world is a happy outcome.

The idea of former vice presidents—even presidents, for that matter—devoting themselves to congressional service has great appeal.

Whether it works out thus with Humphrey's role as a professor and a public official is not only a matter of "come back to learn and to have your mind stretched out like a platform from which he can speak out on vital issues. It would be good if all high officials were thus, or in some comparable way, enabled to play a significant role in public life on leaving office. —WILLIAM-TIC CHRONICLE

Fuzzy Crime Statistics

Crime seems to have displaced the weather as the subject everyone talks about but which no one really knows what to do about. One difficulty is the fact that the word "crime" literally covers a multitude of sins, signifying different things to different people.

As the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration (the National Crime Commission) noted in its report early in 1967: "A kid-row drunk bing in a gutter is crime. So is the killing of an unfaithful wife. A One, Nixon conspiracy to bribe public officials is crime. So is a strong-arm robbery by a 19-year-old boy. The embezzlement of a corporation's funds by an executive is crime. So is the possession of marijuana cigarettes by a student. These crimes can no more be lumped together for purposes of analysis than can measles and schizophrenia, or lung cancer and a broken ankle."

However it is defined or analyzed, the public knows only that crime has reached alarming proportions in the United States. According to the FBI's latest Uniform Crime Reports, crime increased by 19 per cent in the first nine months of 1968.

But it is imperative that we know just what is being reported. The UCR, a compilation of statistics from local and state police agencies, does not attempt to record the incidence of every kind of crime. It deals mainly with "index" crimes, seven serious offenses that the FBI believes are reliable indicators of the crime situation as a whole.

These are the seven non-negligent homicide, forcible rape and aggravated assault — are crimes against person. Three others — burglary, larceny of over

Which bank? CBT". Below the main text is a smaller section: "Starting January 1st, The Connecticut Bank and Trust Company's Investment Passbook Accounts will carry an interest rate of 5%, guaranteed for three years from the date of your most recent deposit. Don't misunderstand. This isn't just a guarantee on your deposits. All banks will give you that. Including CBT. It's a guarantee that you'll still be getting 5% interest three years from now. And only one bank will give you that. Only CBT. Whether you're a present Investment Passbook holder or you're starting a new account, you'll be guaranteed that 5% rate. And the minimum balance has been lowered, too. It's now only fifty dollars, with no minimum on additional deposits, each of which extends the guarantee period. Funds on deposit for 90 days may be withdrawn without notice in the first ten days of each quarter, too. So, why not bank where the interest rate on your passbook is guaranteed? Navy Claims Action 'Routine' Responsibility for Fuel Said Taken from Navy

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON Associated Press Writer. WASHINGTON (AP) - The Navy has been relieved of all responsibility for the amount and quality of fuel intended for vital US military operations in Southeast Asia, a Defense Department spokesman said today. But the Navy says only operations in South Vietnam and Formosa are involved in what is described as long-planned switch of inspection responsibilities. Hijacked Jet Returns From Havana with 14

MIAMI (AP) - The crew of an Eastern Air Lines stretch-jet hijacked to Cuba Thursday fled the big plane back to Miami today with 14 of the 140 passengers, including several children. Two Eastern baggage handlers were sent to the airport at Varadero, Cuba, to retrieve the remainder of the hijacked passengers, according to John Graf, the acting area manager for the Federal Aviation Administration. On previous hijackings, Cuba has required all passengers to remain at Varadero until smaller planes were sent from Miami for them, saying

Nixon Set To Fill Out Top Posts

LOS ANGELES (AP) - President-elect Nixon is expected to fill out the top jobs in his administration. Nixon plans to announce Saturday the selection of William French Ryan, former director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, as attorney general of Massachusetts, to be undersecretary of state, the No. 2 position in that department. U. Alexis Johnson, now U.S. ambassador to Japan, is to be named undersecretary for political affairs, Washington sources reported. These appointments, to be announced formally by the President-elect and Secretary of State-designate William F. Rogers, lead off a series of sub-Cabinet selections to be made before the Jan. 20 inauguration. Soon to follow: Nominations to top jobs in the Agriculture Department and the Pentagon. Nixon aides would not confirm the State Department choices. But Nixon seemed to do so obliquely in a bantering exchange with Robert H. Finch, who is to be secretary of health, education and welfare. He said Finch had tried to visit Richardson as a top deputy for his department, but isn't going to get him. The President-elect also said there will be six, perhaps as many as 10 Californians in the ranks of assistants and undersecretaries yet to be named.
