Andover Cub Banquet Set Tonight

Tonight Cub Scout Pack 134 will celebrate the birthday of the pack at the annual blue and gold banquet. About 170 persons are expected to attend. The pack party will be presided over by Cubmaster Gary Coleman and assisted by Pack Leader Warren Potter of Bolton.

A member of ranks will be made to cub scouts who are advancing to rank. In Den 1 Art Coleman will get the wolf badge and golden arrow; Ed Lavoie, bear badge; Mike Lavoie, gold and silver arrow for his wolf badge. Ed Croust gets the wolf and gold arrow awards. In Den 2 Phillip MacVane will get the wolf badge and golden arrow; Ray Bradley the bear badge. In Den 3 two silver arrows for his wolf badge go to Ty Peters. Den 3 recipients of awards will be Jim Gaudin, wolf badge and gold and silver arrow; Rod Landry, gold and silver arrow for wolf badge; Russell Collin and Wayne Palmer, wolf and gold arrow.

Webelos to receive awards are Leon Palmer, sportsman, showman, and citizenship badges, and Gary Copan, naturalist activity badge.

Boy Scout troop 124, at a recent meeting, presented the presentation of awards to four of the members. Bruce Hamilton became second class scout, and Richard Oliver was advanced to Tom O'Leary Scout.

The Manchester Chapter is sponsoring a series of four consecutive-term restriction.

The group, last night, approved the recommendation for choosing local members of the state's Delegate Assembly, but not before the group had a long session of "large town" versus "small town" representation.

Delegates are allocated on the basis of one for the required 10 members, plus one for every 50 members in a chapter.

LEARN TRUMP LESSON IN CRUISE TO ORIENT

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

"What leads the queen of hearts?" I had a class of 40 bridge enthusiasts just a couple of hours out of Hong Kong harbor. "The defenders take three hearts and then switch to diamonds. How do you plan to play the hand?"

North-South vulnerable. Opening lead - Queen of hearts.

The class studied their lesson sheets, which gave them the North and South hands. "Take the ace of diamonds," a lady from Washington suggested.

I congratulated her, and the class laughed. It wasn't very funny, but as long as they laughed they didn't have to admit that they didn't know what to do.

"Do the trumps break well?" a lady from Winnipeg asked. I assured her that they did. "Then draw three rounds of trumps," she offered.

"You're down one," I reported. "You trump one diamond in the dummy, but that used up dummy's last trump, and you can't eat your other 'low diamond'."

Discovery

My pupils had cruised half-way around the world to discover that it doesn't always pay to draw all the trumps. South must ruff both low diamonds in the dummy and must have two trumps there for that purpose.

"After taking the ace of diamonds, declarer should use a dummy's ace and queen of trumps to draw precisely two rounds of trumps. Then he takes the king of diamonds, clubs to lead to his hand with a ruff to lead his diamond. Fortunately for South, the defender with the last diamond also has the only missing trump. South therefore manages to ruff his last diamond safely in dummy and can return to his hand with the king of clubs to draw the last trump with the king of spades. See what you've learned without going to China!"

100 Fathoms Deep Sealab 3 Tasks To Teach Navy How To Wage War

BY RALPH DIGNTON
AP Science Writer

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) - To landlubbers, some aspects of Sealab 3 may seem like a horse play—but when the experiment is over the Navy will know a lot more about how to wage war 100 fathoms deep, among other things.

The project calls for five teams of eight or nine men to spend 12 days each in a 57-by-12-foot habitat on the ocean floor off nearby San Clemente Island.

Their work tasks will include tomping with porpoises and sea lions, scavenging on noisy fish, building a radio antenna bigger than a child's playhouse, and a game of hide-and-seek using objects painted in Eastern egg colors.

"This all sounds innocent enough but:

—Porpoises and sea lions hopefully can be trained to destroy ships, using their water missile pods and oil well killing sites.

—Sounders (noise-making) marine creatures often mimic the sounds of engines and the hissing of torpedoes, and are detecting and filtering out this underwater "static" can a submarine skipper know what's really going on in his not-so-quiet world.

The shelter which Sealab 3 aquanauts plan to build is designed of sections of steel pipe, set one atop the other. A heavy version of the same construction could serve as a missile-launching site.

—Multicolored objects to be thrown outside the habitat will help determine what hue of able buoyancy and how to place objects to be used on tanks that might be lost. The same study also will show what colors are best for deep-water camouflage.

—L. Robert A. Borchardt, 30-year-old New Yorker in charge of a team that will train two porpoises and two sea lions during Sealab 3's two-month stay at the bottom, said the primary goal is to train them to carry messages and tools.

"These mammals are intelligent and very inquisitive," he said in an interview. "We expect to have our hand full of bellows breathing mixture. A breath of fresh air would be too-keeping them interested in the work with the ones we're trying to train."

The porpoises and sea lions already domesticated in shallow sea-water pens at Point Mugu, Calif., will be taught first to do mirror images from the surface to divers on the bottom and even to the Sealab itself. Later they may learn to find a diver some distance away by homing in on "pinger"—an inaudible, low-frequency radio beeper he can sound in case of trouble or when he wants to send the mammal back to the Sealab for a tool.

"Borchardt said both types of underwater messengers have been conditioned to wear harnesses with a pouch for messages and tools, and to respond to signals from at least 300 yards away. The SEAL now will see if they function as well in greater depths and in the confusion of lights and machinery on the ocean floor.

He would not talk about future

Verplanck PTA Has Fun Night

Tonight at 7:30 in the Verplanck School gymnasium, the PTA will sponsor Family Fun Night. The proceeds from the small admission charge will benefit the school. Highlighting the evening will be a basketball game between fathers, coached by Donald Perham and playing under the name of "Donald's Daddies," and sons, who have assumed the title of the Verplanck All Stars. The latter abjectly refused to be called "Adam's Eves," which seemed to be a natural outgrowth of their coach, Mrs. Constance Adams.

The PTA promises a number of surprises will be sprung during the evening.

Open Member Rule Opposed by Caucus

The Manchester Chapter of the Caucus of Connecticut Democrats (CCD) is at odds with several provisions of the proposed state bylaws, particularly those pertaining to membership eligibility.

The provisional state bylaws, to be acted upon tomorrow at a statewide assembly in New Haven, state that registered Democrats and a certain number of unaffiliated persons may become associate members of the CCD.

The Manchester Chapter, after electing two delegates last night to the state meeting, instructed them to vote against the associate member clause.

It instructed them to vote approval of the clause defining "regular members" as those who are registered Democrats, and those of 16 and 21 who intend to register as Democrats when they become eligible.

Manchester delegates to the State Caucus are Alfano, Spierler and Dominic Squatrito. Chris Powell, who lost out to Squatrito by one vote, was named an alternate delegate.

Spierler, a member of the Caucus' state steering committee, was chairman of the Manchester McCarthy for President Committee. Squatrito is temporary chairman of the Manchester Chapter of the Caucus.

Non-officers of the Manchester CCD were elected last night. The membership agreed to continue with its temporary officers until some time in the future, when the members learn more about each other's potential.

Spierler announced last night that the Manchester Chapter has 51 eligible, dues-paying ($2 a year) members, and that it is eligible for two delegates to the statewide Assembly — one for having the required 10 minimum membership, and one for each 50 of the entire membership.

Among the 51 members of the Manchester CCD are seven members of the state CCD.

They are Spierler, Squatrito, Pascal Matrangola, Jay Spierler, Jack Goldberg, Robert Valer and Leonard Sieder.

Democratic Town Chairman Ted Cummings said today, "We welcome their (the Manchester CCD) help. We always can use some more hands, energy and good sense among Democrats."

"The Democratic Town committee has a pretty good record on issues and candidates over the last several years. I look on this group as a sort of ADA (Americans for Democratic Action), concerned with the issues I am well aware that its leaders are also members of our town committee."

In going on record for recommending removal of the clause providing for membership by Republicans and unaffiliated, the Manchester group agreed with the position expressed by Robert Valer.

He said, "Accepting non-Democrats would dissipate the strength of the organization. It would weaken it and I couldn't be called Caucus of Connecticut Democrats. And besides, what could they contribute to us?"

The Manchester Chapter instructed its delegates to vote against the proposed bylaws clause which would provide for membership on the state CCD executive board by representatives of "special interest groups."

Such groups, Spierler explained, might be the Connecticut Labor Council, the Connecticut Grange, and others "backing a state income tax."

Spierler acknowledged that the provision was poorly worded. The vote to strike out the clause followed.

Another change recommended for change is the one dealing with the terms for one-year officers. The bylaws recommend that the terms be for one-year

ORIGIN OF RX

The symbol Rx found in the upper left-hand corner of every prescription, originated more than 5,000 years ago. The Egyptians used the magic eye of Horus as an amulet to guard them against disease and suffering.

The eye has two jabs hanging from the center, and centuries later it resurfaced in a form resembling our numeral 4. Physicians scribbled on their prescriptions to invoke the assistance of the magic eye of Horus as an amulet to guard them against disease and suffering.

Today's physician relies upon a community pharmacist and improved drug products to help you overcome illness. Thus, Rx continues to symbolize man's weapons against disease.

Today's prescription is the biggest bargain in history.

Awards for Service Given by Auxiliary

Awards for 100 or more hours of service to Manchester Memorial Hospital were presented to 114 members of the Women's Auxiliary to the hospital, at the sixth annual Awards Tea of MMH women held yesterday.

Mrs. Marvin Duke, president of the auxiliary, presented the awards in the doctors' dining room.

Mrs. David Warren, chairman of volunteers, introduced Edward Kenney, the hospital administrator, who lauded the efforts of so many in serving their hospital and community.

Kenney gave a brief progress report on the new hospital construction, adding that the contract is on schedule. He also voiced the approval of the administration in discontinuing the sale of cigarettes in the Gift Shop and gift cart after tomorrow.

Volunteers receive a pin for 100 or more hours service, and a star is awarded for 2,000 hours. This year, for the first time, chevrons pins were awarded for 1,000 hours or more of service. Receiving the chevrons were Mrs. Donald Morrison, 1,819 hours; Mrs. Charles Burr, 1,191 hours; and Mrs. Thomas Ferguson with 1,104 hours.

Rail Group Asks U.S. To Share Costs

The railroad plan, he said, would not affect those passenger runs now paying their own way.

But those money-losing trains that the government deems it necessary to subsidize to maintain in operation with the government making up any deficits incurred, he said, would not be affected.

The government support would be determined by cost procedures formulated by the Interstate Commerce Commission within the framework of necessary legislation, he said.

Also in the industry plan is a provision for the Department of Transportation to purchase new passenger equipment to rent to railroads to replace worn-out equipment.

"The plan would be similar to a contractual arrangement except that the railroads wouldn't make any profit on it," Goodfellow said. "They'd simply be engaged against losses."

The AAR president said the railroads were seeking only a break-even operation and that the industry would still provide the larger part of the costs of running the trains through its own revenues.

The proposal is based, Goodfellow said, on experiences of railroads in working with local and state governments to preserve local train services.

He cited as an example the Northeast Corridor Project now proceeding high speed passenger service between Washington and New York and scheduled to be extended south to Philadelphia. On that project, the government is spending $11 million with the Penn Central Railroad providing another $40 million.

Goodfellow said the industry is in no financial position to continue operating alone with its inter-city passenger services that are used, he said, "by not more than 1.5 per cent of the traveling public."

He claimed passenger train deficits are largely responsible for bankrupting some railroads.

Man made itself so many marriages as it does. This advantage, without which the conglomerate would not even exist, may also, in time, prove to be its flaw, and every Wall Street discussion of the conglomerate's weakness, sooner or later, will pose the question of just how big a conglomerate can get to be and still be a safe venture for its own managers and investors.

The experts can't make up their minds as to how sound the future of the conglomerates may be.

But if a layman wants to step outside the lingo and the expertise of the world of high finance, he may find some fundamental principle likely to apply to the conglomerate.

It is possible and probable, for instance, that the conglomerate depends, for its continued health, upon a continual succession of new acquisitions. A conglomerate which has not done this in the past year or so is in a precarious position. It is possible and probable, for instance, that the conglomerate depends, for its continued health, upon a continual succession of new acquisitions.

There has already, even in the relatively short life of all the conglomerates to date, been demonstration of how something quite beyond their own control can affect their ability to bargain successfully for acquisitions only in a rising stock market, when the stock they are about to offer for sale is worth a little more tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow. But few mergers are consummated in any period of sustained decline in the stock market.

The New York Times produces a long editorial in which it bemoans the "weakness" in its city and suburban snow removal programs, finds the railroads woefully deficient in the elemental task of keeping themselves running, and attacks the "grossly inadequate" preparations the airports make for any such emergency.

The public sense of outrage, and the pontifical allotment of blame, and the urgent declarations that there must now be investigation and planning so that nothing like this can ever happen again—these, as they show themselves in New York City, are in some degree present everywhere the storm hits.

There is nothing quite like the American people when we set out full bore and cry after somebody to hold responsible for some act of nature which involves inconvenience and discomfort and danger to ourselves personally.

When the act of nature has dared do something to us, as individuals, then we demand the ultimate in wisdom, foresight, planning, and emergency reaction from those public agencies and officials which have the responsibility of doing front line battle with the act of nature.

We do not mean to imply by the mood of our comment that there is nothing to be gained by study of our experiences, by looking into the performance of men and equipment, by giving public officials the stimulation of a few public lashes, by trying to plan something that could be done, next time, to improve the record.

But we do think there ought to be a shade more realization that it is really nature which retains the power to make itself boss of everything now and then, and that when nature does assert itself there could be some degree of reverence for the forces of nature, men to deal with the consequences.

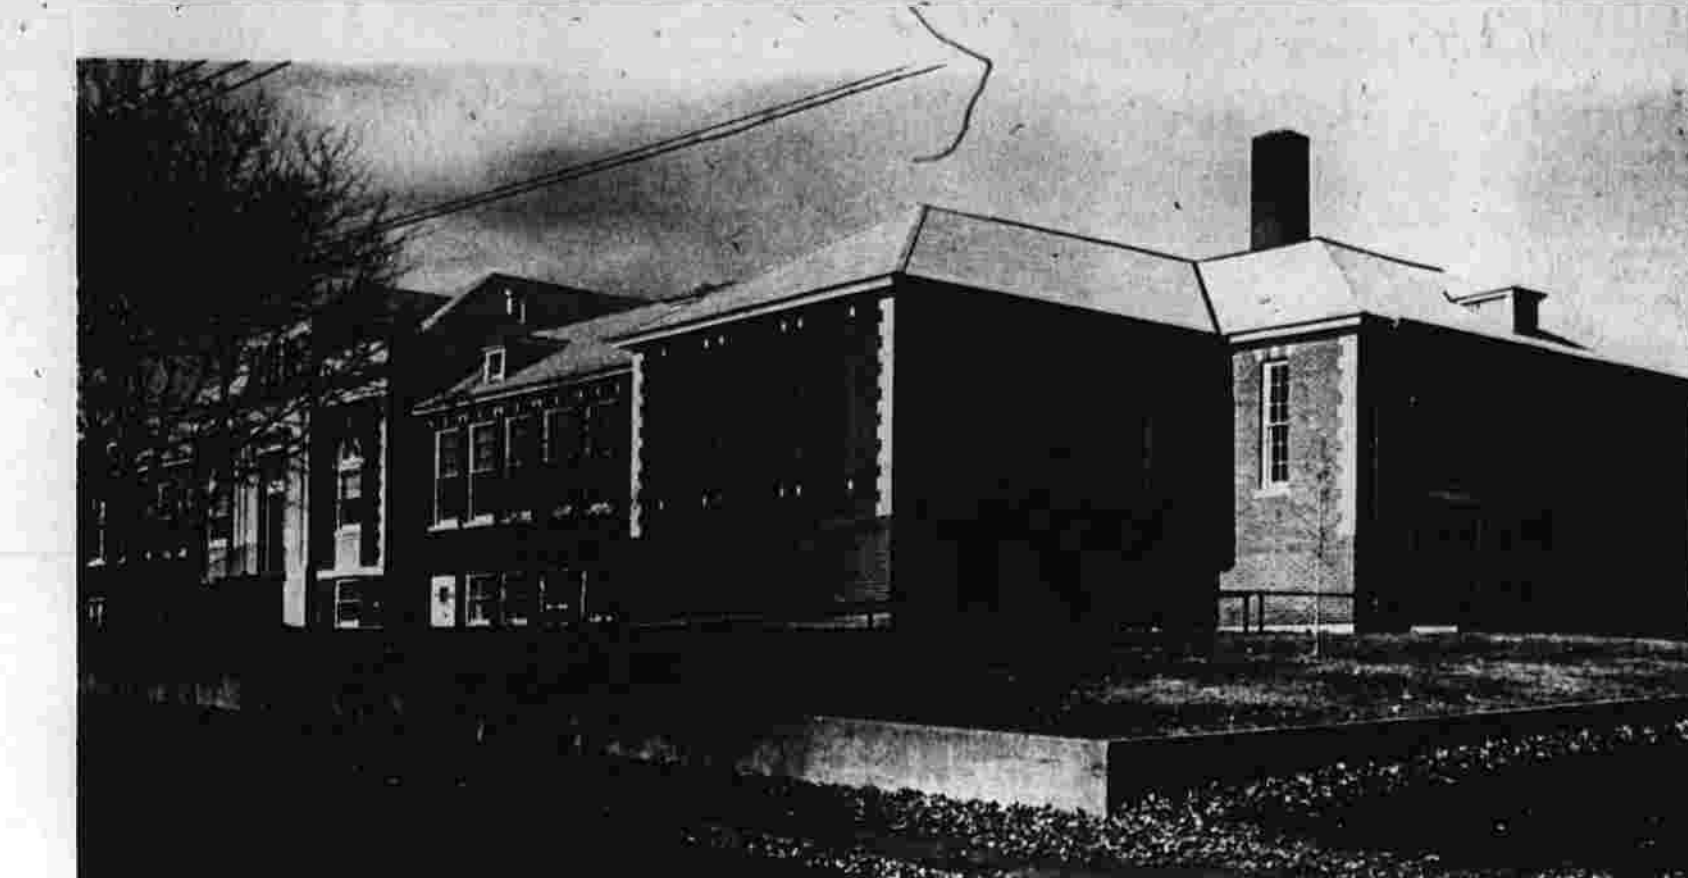

This last near-blizzard of ours could have been handled much more easily if it had come without its wind. It could have been a thousand times more terrible, and have resulted in a tragic toll of life if it had come with temperature 20 or 30 degrees colder. In one way, it was kind of this storm to arrive on a Sunday, when most people were home anyway. On the other hand, the public works crews destined to fight the storm might have got a better start if the storm had arrived on one of their normal work days.

The point we are trying to make is that nature has unlimited options in the timing, wind-factor, temperature, and duration which decide what kind of storm is going to be. Nature seldom has to repeat itself. It has more potential variations than man can make perfect plans for.

We suppose some communities, and some public works departments—Manchester's, for instance—do better than some others. But there ought to be some general tolerance for the way in which people everywhere meet a condition and an experience they had never precisely encountered before and are not likely to encounter in precise duplicate again. If they insist on letting Mayor Lind say into that snowbank, let it at least be first.

A Good Times Frequency? As has been stated frequently, the charm of the new industrial organization is that the conglomerate is that it unites, under one overall management, individual enterprises which are so diversified they do not compete with one another.

The advantage of side-stepping the anti-trust laws is that the conglomerate is freed from any legal limitation on its own size. So long as it doesn't make skate factories with skate factories, it

Atheneum Reopening Lists Special Events

The inauguration of new facilities and reopening of the Atheneum will continue through March 1.

Mrs. James Lippincott Goodwin, widow of late James Goodwin, Atheneum trustee and president from 1964 to 1967, will cut the ribbon at noon Tuesday, allowing the public to enter the museum for the first time since it was completely closed on March 10, 1964.

Hartford Mayor Alan Ucciello and Secretary of State Elihu G. Grasso will be present to discuss the contribution the Atheneum has made to both community and state through the years.

The Atheneum, America's oldest public art museum, was founded in 1842 and occupies Atheneum Square in downtown Hartford. Because of inadequate funds and deteriorating conditions of the building, the director of trustees undertook to redevelop the museum in keeping with the Hartford Urban Renewal Program.

A development program launched in 1965 has netted more than $2.3 million. Next week's reopening celebrated the five-year anniversary of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co. and Charles C. Cunningham, former director of the three-year building program.

The 103,183 usable square footage in previously existing buildings has been added to 87,000 square feet of new square footage.

The 103,183 usable square footage in previously existing buildings has been added to 87,000 square feet of new square footage.

The other additions are administrative offices, graphics and photographic laboratory, conservation studio, library, sculpture court, balconies and main-level auditorium, mechanical rooms, storage, and work space.

The added rooms occupy the second and third floors.

Inaugural events will climax the reopening of the Atheneum. The Metropolitan Museum of Art and former commissioner of parks for the City of New York will give the opening dinner honoring donors to the building fund, museum professionals from across the country, and other invited guests.

Also speaking tonight will be High S. Campbell, president of the Atheneum's board of trustees and vice president of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co.; and Charles C. Cunningham, former director of the three-year building program.

School Fives Play Tonight

By DEAN YOST

The curtain is starting to fall on the regular 1968-69 school basketball season. A limited schedule of games were played this week due to the latest snow storm. Action tonight finds all teams involved on the hardwood courts.

East Catholic meets one of the state's better teams, St. Thomas Aquinas in New Britain, Manchester from CCLC leader Conard in West Hartford, Somers plays at Ellington, Coventry takes on Unadilla, Cromwell, Cheney Tech ends its regular season against Stratford, South Windsor meets rival East Windsor, a perfect 14-0 mark holds Coventry (2-11) in COOC play, Cromwell on the season points a fine 15-1 mark with both losses coming at the expense of Middletown, Coventry has lost nine of its last 19 games.

North Central Connecticut meets East Windsor (11-0) in a game which will be the last of the season. The game will be played at the home of East Windsor. The Indians have made the tournament in seven of the last nine years.

Roundout to its most proper season since 1957. Cheney Tech has changed to a new date due to the weather conditions.

Ellington (12-2) can wrap up a tourney best tonight with a win over Somers (24). The Knights need one victory in their next three games to qualify. The last two games Ellington has played are school points records for the last nine years.

Tulsa Bubble Burst? Win Streak Snapped

NEW YORK (AP)—Has the bubble burst for the Tulsa Golden Hurricane, the surprise college basketball team of the season?

New York overwhelmed Niagara, 97-60 in one of the most surprising upsets in college basketball history.

It was the first defeat for Tulsa in the tough Missouri Valley Conference. It left the Hurricane still on top at 10-1 to 9-2 for runner-up Louisville.

The Hurricane, ignored in preseason polls, has won 12 of its last 13 games, including a 30-point victory over Cincinnati.

Maravich's 50-Point Effort Broke Big O's College Mark

NEW YORK (AP)—Pinpoint Pete Maravich's 50-point burst against Florida last Wednesday night, now has a career total of 1,970 points, according to figures released today by the National Collegiate Sports Service.

Maravich scores 30 or more points against Auburn Saturday, which would break the 1,900 mark set by the late Oscar Robertson.

Ski Notes

By BILL SACHEREK

It was a ski paradise last weekend all over New England. All areas that looked at did a snowflake business, not only on the slopes but also in the cafeterias.

Up at Round Top the lines were big and the snow great. The Bulls have dropped out of their four games.

Front runner Cromwell will play a perfect 14-0 mark holds Coventry (2-11) in COOC play, Cromwell on the season points a fine 15-1 mark with both losses coming at the expense of Middletown, Coventry has lost nine of its last 19 games.

Brought of 28 Years at Cheney Between Tournament Appearances

By EARL YOST

Biggest sports accomplishment in nearly three decades at Cheney Tech occurred last Wednesday afternoon when this basketball team notched its ninth victory in 16 starts and thus qualified for the Class C CIAC Basketball Tournament.

Perhaps the most amazing part of the season to date has been the fact that seven boys made up the varsity squad. Cheney has never been known for getting up numbers, either in playing personnel or in fan support, for a variety of reasons.

Several more runs into the gymnasium for the first time in 28 years at Cheney Tech occurred last Wednesday afternoon when this basketball team notched its ninth victory in 16 starts and thus qualified for the Class C CIAC Basketball Tournament.

Jottings from the Racing World

Plenty of snow covers the ground and the super speedways of New England but in five weeks the master-minded mechanics and auto enthusiasts will be out in the snow.

Riverdale Raceway in Agawam, Mass. has the curtain opener set for March 29, with a 20-lapper scheduled.

Wood Brothers' pit crew was the fastest around during the race.

Cart 'Bump' Stevens was the Connecticut State Modified Champion.

Daytona 500 can be seen at the Bushnell Memorial in Hartford Feb. 23 at 12 A.M.

Paul Young of East Hartford, holds middle races at the Connecticut State Modified.

Dennis Zimmerman of Glastonbury drives the Indy type car.

WEST SIDE FEE ACTION

WEST SIDE FEE ACTION saw first place Norman's clip the flag.

NEW YORK (AP)—It took Bob Booser, Jimmy Washington and Clem Haskins a little while to warm up—but when they did, the trio quickly cooled off Detroit.

The Floridian's Freeman, who slammed in seven baskets during the first quarter, broke open a tight game and help the Bulls to a 120-100 victory over the Pistons in Thursday night's National Basketball Association game.

Over in the American Basketball Association, Miami cut down Minnesota 121-123 in a game that was a close contest.

Nats Counter-Act, Hire Ted Williams

By EARL YOST

WASHINGTON (AP)—The lowly Washington Senators, seeking to counteract the magic name of football's Vince Lombardi, have come up with a storybook name of their own and hired headline-making slugger Ted Williams as manager.

Williams retired for the first time after the 1964 season but came back a month into the 1965 season and played most of his time in the physical condition. And we can use his winning attitude more than anything else."

Williams replaced Jim Lenz in Boston, where he was a star pitcher. He was a member of the all-NFL team in 1954 and 1955.

Ex-Giant Returns to 'Violent World' Huff Active Again

By EARL YOST

WASHINGTON (AP)—The day Sam Huff hung up his jersey and retired, he sat in front of his locker and sobbed for 15 minutes.

Today the fabled Sam Huff has come back to his world of violence, mulling and ready to return his fiercest warfare as a Redskin after only a year in retirement.

"It was the worst year I've ever spent in my life," said the restless Huff.

Vince Lombardi, the new coach and part-owner of the Washington Redskins, lured the 34-year-old Huff out of his retirement to return as a player or assistant coach on defense.

Lombardi hailed Huff's winning drive. He said "every team needs leadership ability and he's got that quality."

In his dozen years in the National Football League, Huff helped lead the New York Giants to six conference titles, the NFL championship and the Vince Lombardi Award.

The jersey he hung up, No. 70, was the highest number ever worn by a player in the NFL.

Huff was the seventh assistant coach chosen by Lombardi. It was a position of honor, but also a job of a coach.

The business movie featured Lombardi in a talk about winning determination.

Vacation Hurts Red Wings

By EARL YOST

NEW YORK (AP)—A while to get back in the groove.

Delvecchio needed a goal or an assist to become the NHL's first 1,000-point scorer behind Montreal's Jean Beliveau. He got neither.

Montreal dropped the flat Red Wings 3-1 Thursday night, and their was general agreement that four days off hurt Detroit more than the Canadiens did.

Montreal's Jacques Plante held the Canadiens, who cut Boston's first-place lead in the East Division to four points. Plante had 21 saves and 14 goals.

McDonald and Jean Guy Talbot scored second period goals and Jacques Plante held the Canadiens, who cut Boston's first-place lead in the East Division to four points.

MCC Bows to Mitchell, Playing at Home Tonight

By EARL YOST

Playing without two starters, high-scoring Don Chafin and Armore, Manchester College couldn't cope with a revenge-bent Mitchell College in New London last night.

Due to junior college eligibility rules, Chafin and Armore were not in the starting lineup. Tonight's full squad will be out again against Concordia of New York at 8 at the Clark Center.

Earlier this season Mitchell College trimmed Mitchell here, 37-30.

Henry Weaver scored 30 points in pacing Mitchell last night. He added 20 rebounds in a fine performance. The winner also had three points in double figures.

The home crew led 46-28 at halftime.

Best for Manchester were:

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Jets of the American Football League have traded forward Mulets to Dallas for a fourth-round choice in the league's upcoming draft of college players.

The trade was completed just before the Jets' season-opening game against the Colts. The Jets had not announced until later in the day Thursday.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Five University of Notre Dame Negro basketball players were named to the friendly Arizona Country Club course and 82 had been the par 71. Another 29 had matched it.

The Negro players had said they wouldn't practice or play until they got the apology for an incident during the game Notre Dame last Tuesday at Michigan State Tuesday night.

PERU RELEASES US TUNA BOAT

Peru Releases US Tuna Boat

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The Peruvian government has released an American tuna boat captured in the Pacific Friday, but Washington sources said the incident could precipitate a cutoff of U.S. aid to Peru.

The American vessel, Mariner, was captured by a Peruvian navy gunboat which attacked the small fishing fleet more than 23 miles off the coast.

The Peruvian Navy Ministry said Friday the Mariner was released at the port of Talara after the skipper, Joseph Lewis of San Diego, Calif., paid an unspecified fine.

Shipper John Vestalino of the San Juan, one of the American fishing boats, said the Peruvian gunboat put five men aboard the Mariner.

"They came after us," he said. "They fired more than 50 shots at us. They tried to board us from the stern, but I outmaneuvered them."

The owner of both the San Juan and the Mariner, Ed Gann of San Diego, said he received reports that two other U.S. fishing boats went to the San Juan's rescue.

"They figured the only way to help the San Juan would be to ram the patrol boat," Gann said. "Then the patrol boat turned seaward."

August Pelano, manager of the North American Association of Tuna Fishermen, said it was the second time this year that U.S. fishing boats were seized by Peru and the 70th time since 1961 that a U.S. fishing boat has been seized by a South American country.

U.S. State Department spokesmen said the seizure of the Mariner falls under a law that calls for termination of military aid when any country illegally seizes American fishing vessels. Another provision says U.S. aid may be reduced by the amount of a fine imposed by a country against American vessels.

Nixon Said Wooing Top Labor Units

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon, spurred by organized labor in his election campaign, appears to be quietly trying to woo major union elements with some results.

Leaders of two major groups of the 15.4 million members AFL-CIO already have stated that they see more to be gained under Nixon than labor won in return for its almost total political support of former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

"They really laid down heavy bargains on us," said President Paul Hall of the 80-union IMA.

Earlier, President C. J. Haggerty of the 17-union Building and Construction Trades Department criticized the Johnson administration, saying it charged his group as "a block army" in fights over wages and charges of racial discrimination in job training.

Both Hall and Haggerty, who are a minority among the 122 union presidents in the politically powerful labor federation, said they expected a better deal from Nixon's Republican administration on labor matters.

While obviously too early to tell, such a trend could support Nixon's substantial labor support if he runs for reelection in 1972.

The AFL-CIO in the past eight years had delivered almost nonmonolithic support to Democratic presidential candidates.

Police at Wisconsin U Quell Protest March

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Police broke up a protest march by 2,000 University of Wisconsin students Friday night, part of the current wave of unrest on a number of the nation's college campuses.

Wisconsin's Chancellor H. Edwin Young had earlier withdrawn 6,000 guardsmen from the campus and promised they would remain on standby unless serious campus disturbances occurred.

A. J. was going to make a left turn to go to the Ambassador hotel but someone said, "No, he's going to the press room!"

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Commission pored over it and reached one conclusion, Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison reached another.

"You will be able to see the President fall backwards as the fatal shot strikes him from the front—the back," Garrison told the jury in his opening statement.

FBI photographic expert Lyndal L. Shaneyfelt of Alexandria, Va., testified Friday that the study of the film confirmed that, though the President's head jerked backward, the source of blood and tissue from the bullet's impact went "forward and up."

"On the third shot his head exploded and went back," testified Mrs. Philip W. Miller, who took the stand after Shaneyfelt.

"What was the direction of the movie?" The Warren Commission pored over it and reached one conclusion, Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison reached another.

"What was the direction of the movie?" The Warren Commission pored over it and reached one conclusion, Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison reached another.

"You will be able to see the President fall backwards as the fatal shot strikes him from the front—the back," Garrison told the jury in his opening statement.

FBI photographic expert Lyndal L. Shaneyfelt of Alexandria, Va., testified Friday that the study of the film confirmed that, though the President's head jerked backward, the source of blood and tissue from the bullet's impact went "forward and up."

"On the third shot his head exploded and went back," testified Mrs. Philip W. Miller, who took the stand after Shaneyfelt.
