

Tolland 3-Town Ambulance System Backed by Ex-Head of TVAA

Participation in a tri-town ambulance communication system emanating from Rockville General Hospital would be beneficial to the Tolland Volunteer Ambulance Association, according to former TVAA President Jerome Smith.

The service should be in addition to the two-radio frequencies already used by the service, however, he noted last night.

Smith who was embroiled in the long running request for a new ambulance with the Board of Finance and Selectmen, network. Auxiliary radio communication would favor the concept if it would provide financial aid to the purchase of equipment and on the town communications systems.

He was wary of committing the Association in favor of the proposed tri-town program without further enlightenment from federal authorities.

Yeter Registration Six persons registered as voters during last night's session including two Democrats, four unaffiliated and no Republicans.

Selectmen's Meeting The Board of Selectmen confirmed its meeting to the signing of checks last night. Appointments to various commissions will be held up until after Friday night's round table meeting of all town boards and commissions.

Old Homes Marked Early Tolland homes will be marked with the dates of their construction, under a program instituted by the Tolland Historical Society.

Students in the high school Industrial Arts program will make the signs in the wood-working shop. Permission for the student participation was given by the Board of Education last week in answer to a request submitted by Stuart Danforth, a member of the historical society's house marking committee.

The board also appointed member Mrs. Barbara Kolas as representative to the March 22 meeting of the Connecticut Association of Boards of Education.

Bulletin Board The Decoration Committee for St. Matthew's Ladies Guild Fashion Show will meet tomorrow night at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. Vincent Lamo, Garnet Ridge Dr.

Grant Mallett, student intern campus minister at the University of Connecticut, will speak on "The Church as a Value Setter" at tomorrow night's Lenten program in the United Congregational Church Religious Education Building at 8.

The Board of Recreation sponsored baton lesson classes will meet tomorrow night at 6 at the Hicks Memorial School gym.

The first rehearsal for "Tolland Sing Out America" group of teenagers will be held tomorrow night at 7 at Tolland High School.

Father, 42, Tries To Replace Son Killed in Vietnam

DETROIT (AP) — An ex-Marine who was wounded in World War II and whose Marine son was killed in Vietnam is in a fighting temper because the corps says he is too old to reenlist.

Edward Tate, 42, wants to take the place of his son, Leonard, who is in the Army at Ft. Belvoir, Va.

"I got a promise from him—that he wouldn't put in for Vietnam," Tate said.

Mulholland based his complaint on the Supreme Court ruling barring prayers in public schools. The board approved the distribution on the basis that the Bibles would be taken on a voluntary basis.

Bolton Panels To Set Rt. 6 Path

The selection will call a combined meeting of their board and the Planning, Zoning and Conservation Commission to decide on an "acceptable" path for relocated Rt. 6 through Bolton, ignoring entirely any route through the notch or along existing Rt. 6.

At their meeting Monday night Selectman Joseph Licita, chairman of the Bolton Board of Selectmen, said that it would be desirable to have the route relocate through the notch, continuing with the spur now under construction, or follow the present Rt. 6 along the Hop River valley.

Bolton's two representatives are and have been for a number of years James Hazzard, Planning Commission chairman and Edmund Moroney, a member of that commission.

The selectmen will send a letter to the commission suggesting that if the representatives are busy with other duties perhaps they should resign and give the posts to those who have more time.

Furthermore, said Morra, "I've traveled 1,500 miles and have yet to see a highway paralleling another." The present Rt. 6 is needed for local traffic circulation, he said.

Morra added that a highway is never popular, especially an interstate, which is on its way somewhere and isn't particularly worried about serving the towns it passes through.

The date for the gathering of the commission has not yet been set. Licita, who suggested the gathering, had been somewhat annoyed that none of the boards had called the selectmen in to help them with their "homework" in the last pre-planning assignment. This had been to identify areas on a map which

Tollard Juniors Club Sets Test for 'Lazy Eyes'

The Tollard Junior Women's Club will again sponsor a screening program for the detection of amblyopia or "lazy eye" in pre-school children between the ages of three and four.

The program is offered free of charge by the Connecticut Society for the Prevention of Blindness. The testing will be administered by trained members of the Tollard Junior Women's Club, local sponsors of the testing program.

Registration slips are being mailed to parents of eligible children shown on the school enumeration census. Children who are eligible but who have not lived in town long enough to be included in last year's census are invited to bring their children to the screening.

The purpose of the testing program is to detect eye difficulties at an early stage to prevent permanent eye impairment as the youngsters grow older.

Amblyopia is not readily discernible without testing, and children are not aware they don't see correctly.

The Harris report, whose outline becomes known some time ago, calls for three major airports—Bradley, Bridgeport-Mohegan and Tolland Airport in the north, one in the south, and one in the west.

Buckley said he personally favored the state buyout of the Bradley Airport instead of trying to improve the facility under city ownership.

Without commitments, such an airport could be nothing but a "shuttle-board court," he said.

Program Slogan—'Don't Follow Me' Convicts Tell Boys, Girls Reality of Crime, Prison

By LOUDON KELLY
"DON'T FOLLOW ME" was the slogan of a program for boys and girls in the first three days of its run through about somebody else instead of ourselves.

The robber said, "We give people information they couldn't get anywhere else about what crime really is."

The long-term slayer said, "This gives an idea to help some kids that might need it."

And the warden said, "The luxury of locking people up, paying for their board and keeping them there for years is not making any significant contribution to the fight against crime."

All five were talking about the same thing—what officials at the Colorado Penitentiary call charges connected with his detention after prison guards on Dec. 19 were being taken back to the state prison in Somers after a court appearance in which he pleaded guilty to a number of charges.

The 22-year-old man and his mother, Mrs. Gladys R. Merrill, came yesterday when they both pleaded guilty to a number of charges connected with his detention after prison guards on Dec. 19 were being taken back to the state prison in Somers after a court appearance in which he pleaded guilty to a number of charges.

Without commitments, such an airport could be nothing but a "shuttle-board court," he said.

Politico Raps Officials Over Shut Drops Hearing Request

Acting on the advice of his attorney, former Middle School math teacher William Shutt, withdrew his request for a public hearing on his dismissal last night.

The announcement read by Board of Education chairman David Shutt at the start of scheduled hearing, raised still more questions in the minds of the 150 concerned parents and teachers crowding the high school library.

In a letter received yesterday afternoon by Cook, Shutt stated, "After due deliberation and upon the advice of my attorney, Frederick W. McKone, I withdraw my request for a public hearing before the Board of Education on March 19 at 8 p.m."

The situation relating to Shutt's dismissal by Superintendent of Schools Robert Brantzen remains unchanged. Shutt was fired as of 3 p.m. last Wednesday.

Shutt had held off making a replacement until last night's hearing.

The decision to withdraw his request for a public hearing of his case was made Monday by Shutt, Brantzen said.

The petition cited Shutt as "an effective teacher who has become a valuable member of the professional staff at Tolland Middle School. We would like to retain him on a permanent basis in the position he now holds."

The petitions were written by Timothy Jones of Gehring Rd., the father of one of Shutt's students.

On Wednesday, he was offered the choice of resigning on the spot or dismissal, according to Brantzen. Refusing to sign, he was fired.

Shutt had denied that he had been given the opportunity to resign.

Although the reason for his dismissal is not clear, Shutt's attorney, Frederick W. McKone, said that Shutt was a "valuable member of the professional staff at Tolland Middle School."

Tollard Hangs Self in Hotel Room Berserk Janitor Kills 3, Wounds 6 in Gun Spree

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A berserk janitor killed three persons and wounded six others in a shooting spree at the Embassy Hotel Tuesday night, then dived into a dingy hotel room to hide.

The janitor, who was later identified as a 30-year-old man, was shot in the chest and arm.

Defendant 25 Today Second Defense Expert Says Sirhan's Best Is Not Stable

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"You're going to be an old man," came the whisper across the courtroom where Sirhan Bishara Sirhan is on trial for the murder of Robert F. Kennedy.

The whisper was Sirhan's older brother, Adel, in a joking reference to the defendant's 25th birthday today.

Sirhan didn't quite catch it and, struggling to hear, got up from his seat Tuesday and took a tentative step in Adel's direction. Deputy sheriff gently restrained him.

"You're going to be an old man—your birthday," Adel said, looking this time. Sirhan smiled and nodded and then refocused his attention on the witness, Orville Frederick Richardson, a psychologist.

"That was about as much birthday observation as Sirhan would have. His attorney said if he could get permission they would give him some cheese and Greek olives which he favors and, perhaps, a piece of cake."

Richardson, the second psychologist called by the defense, described Sirhan as paranoid and in acute states of his illness. Sirhan's ordinary ability to think, discriminate, comprehend and react with appropriate social control is pathologically reduced.

Richardson examined Sirhan last July 20—six weeks after the young Jordanian Arab killed Kennedy while the New York senator was celebrating victory in the California Democratic presidential primary.

The psychologist said he found "a very severe emotional and mental disturbance in a man of bright-normal to superior intellectual potential." Sirhan, he said, has a highly fragile personality structure "so that his best and most adequate level of functioning is not stable or reliable."

Paranoia destroys or severely impairs "the ability to know

South Windsor Democrats Cite Myrtle Oldum as Woman of Year

South Windsor, Conn., Mrs. Myrtle R. Oldum has been chosen Democratic Woman of the Year by the South Windsor Women's Democratic Club.

A lifelong resident of South Windsor, she has been very active in the Democratic Party. She started in politics as an organizer and a member of the Young Democratic Club and League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Oldum has served on town as a member of the Library Board, Historical Society and for four years as tax collector. She has acted as chief moderator at national, State and town elections.

During election time she has compiled the Democratic and Independent lists as well as other duties to aid the Democratic Party.

She is married to Harry J. Oldum, a former town chairman. They have a daughter, Barbara.

Sole Flight

Naval Aviation Officer, Ronald R. Moriarty, 453 Oakland St., has completed his first solo flight. Moriarty will continue on his flight training for 18 months before receiving his pilot's "Wings of Gold."

Vernon Family Life Class Delayed Until 1971

Last April, the Board of Education voted to institute the Health and Family Life Education program in the school system in 1970. Last night, the board, on recommendation of the Curriculum Committee, voted to delay the program another year.

Albert Smith, chairman of the curriculum committee said following a meeting last week, that the committee agreed it should proceed slowly and attempt to write a curriculum or course of study this coming summer.

The Rev. Joseph Szabo, executive director of the Christian Activities Council in Hartford, will give a presentation, "Discipline Beyond the Four Walls," to be followed by an appointed advisory panel.

The actual Health and Family Life Committee has been in existence about four years. Over this period a series of panel discussions for parents and teachers has been held. It proved to be a need for such a program in the schools.

Also last April, the State Board of Education declared that public schools throughout Connecticut should have sex education courses from kindergarten through high school.

The state's agencies contend that most schools in Connecticut do not offer specific health instruction courses or give evidence of having a planned program.

Educators are generally in agreement that family life and sex education has a place in public education and that it should be essentially an interdisciplinary course.

Three Face Charges in Fur Theft

After an eight-month investigation, detectives from the Detective Bureau of the Manchester Police Department have arrested three men in connection with the June 22, 1968 fur theft at Manchester Modes on Pine St.

Brian McCarter, 15, of 60 Central Ave., was arrested this morning. Charged with conspiracy in the theft. Arrested yesterday was Donald F. Trombley, 26, of 43 Brimfield St., and Robert Kleman, 26, of 8 Keeley St. Trombley and Kleman are charged with breaking and entering with criminal intent and larceny over $2,000.

Det. Sgt. John Krinjak, of the Detective Bureau, said one more arrest is expected soon.

Krinjak said about $4,000 worth of furs were stolen from the Manchester Modes last June. All of the stolen goods have been recovered, Krinjak said.

The three arrested men were presented before the Circuit Court this morning where their $5,000 bond was reduced to $2,500 for each man. They will be put to pass at Monday's court session.

Fire Causes Slight Damage At Apartment

The Weldon Apartments on Wellman Rd. was lightly damaged by fire yesterday afternoon. No one was injured and the interior of the structure was not touched by flames as firefighters quickly doused the blaze.

The cause of the fire is under investigation this morning by Fire Chief W. Clifford Mason. Mason refused to say that the fire was set, but he said, "I'm not so sure it was a gas fire."

Mason explained that the first alarm received was for a grass fire near the old house.

The fire apparently started in a cellar hatchway of the three-story structure, and went up the back corner of the house. Firefighters removed some outside stoves to make sure the fire had not spread to the framing underneath.

No flames touched the inside of the house, but a considerable amount of smoke collected in the third story attic, firemen say.

The fire was not severe enough to evict anyone.

Leisure Age Seen

LONDON (AP)—Edward Short, Britain's Secretary of State for Education, predicts that by the end of the 1980s most people will be working a four-day week, with three-day week in the last few years of their middle-ages and retire in their middle-ages.

He joined the Santa Clara Valley Audubon Society and served two years as its president. He has written and published several natural history magazines, and is an authority on California birds of prey.

For the past several years he has been producing motion pictures about wild creatures, and is dedicated to spreading his knowledge of birds and animals, proving to his audience the value of wildlife, especially in relation to ranching.

Youth Movement in Politics Gains in New Hampshire

By PHILIP W. CANNADY Associated Press Writer

The Youth Movement in politics is taking hold slowly in New England states except New Hampshire, where the state chairman of the Young People's Party, Eugene McCarthy, said today.

An Associated Press survey reflected a universal recognition of the young party leaders in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

A Republican campaign in New Hampshire increased five-fold the number of organized young Republicans.

Meanwhile, the Democrats in New Hampshire were made sharply aware of "youth power" by the surprising showing of Sen. Eugene McCarthy in the 1968 presidential primary.

State campaign leaders of the young party groups are young men. David C. Hoeh, director of McCarthy's thrust, said McCarthy's program will be provided in Richmond.

Underground Railroad

A firm depicting the life of Harriet Tubman, a conductor of the underground railroad during the Civil War, will be shown at the Rockville Public Junior High Saturday at 10 a.m.

On Tuesday at 10 a.m. the pre-school story hour for children whose last names begin with A through H, will offer a program of stories, poetry and activities about Easter eggs and rabbits.

On display in the library for the Easter season is a rare rabbit named "The Bunny."

A number of new large-type print books have been added to the collection in the junior division. These books are to be enjoyed by both young and old who may have difficulty with normal print.

Young Worker Sharply Critical Of Penn Cent

NEW YORK (AP)—Hearings by the Public Service Commission into suburban service of the Penn Central Railroad have taken an unexpected turn.

A 22-year-old Penn Central control tower operator, who said he had gone to the Tuesday hearing only to watch, changed his mind and asked permission to testify.

What resulted was a wide-ranging indictment of the railroad, citing "everything from faulty equipment to bad operating procedures."

The testimony of the towerman, Mark Shipp, drew a star-burst rebuke from the Penn Central's general attorney, Thomas J. Smith, who told the slightly built, bespectacled youth that he had made "some awfully serious" charges.

Shipp said "morale is shot among most of the men that work" on the railroad. "They know that when those food-ups occur, the company doesn't really care whether the train goes out of a bind that it's supposed to be made."

Extra effort by railroad employees is not "appreciated," he said.

Calling some track work "a big farce," Shipp said the railroad had put down "ribbons" which quickly deteriorated because "you can't lay good rail on a bad roadbed, and that's what they do."

The towerman, who said he expected to be called up for active duty in the Navy in a month or so, explained his decision to testify because he was "tired of turned on to the whole thing."

Other testimony included complaints by commuters and commuter organizations. They criticized the train's tardiness on scheduled service, and rudeness on the part of railroad employees.

The PSC has filed a suit seeking $40,000 in penalties for alleged violations of an agreement on scheduled service standards which the railroad filed with the commission.

Pravda Reports 12 Soviets Killed In Border Clash

MOSCOW (AP)—At least 12 Soviet soldiers were killed in Saturday's border clash with Chinese troops, reports in the Soviet press revealed yesterday.

A comprehensive report on casualties still has not been released, but various articles have named 13 deaths.

In addition, Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, said six others "blocked the path of the Maoist provocateurs with their chests and hearts." This was taken to mean they were wounded and possibly killed.

Earlier clashes occurred on March 2, apparently continuing from the Chinese side. Called Chempo by the Chinese, the clash in the border river of Ussuriysk.

Pravda, in a report from the front, said at twilight Monday night Chinese mortars and machine guns could be heard firing across the border. There was no mention of any answering fire from the Soviet side.

Experts say there is no such thing as a "cooling veto." They contend that while which is not agreed with the drivers and now enough good to drink is not good enough for cooling.

"This is not the first time the defeated Chinese are not resting peacefully," he added. "But the Soviet border guards are vigilantly carrying out their duty. They will decisively halt any new provocative violation of our sacred boundaries."

The scale of Saturday's border battle, in which the Russians reported a Chinese regiment, or an estimated 2,500 men, had attacked, suggested that the final death count will be considerably higher.

Sporadic shelling of uninhabited Damsnansky island, where clashes occurred there and March 2, apparently continues from the Chinese side. Called Chempo by the Chinese, the clash in the border river of Ussuriysk.

One of Pravda's chief correspondents, Sergei Borzomb, said "a watchful silence" now dominates the border scene.

Feeling across the bleak frontier at night, Borzomb said he could see headlights of Chinese vehicles "far, far away."

Chinese troops are not resting peacefully, he added. "But the Soviet border guards are vigilantly carrying out their duty. They will decisively halt any new provocative violation of our sacred boundaries."

Quiet for Cabbies

LONDON (AP)—London's famous upright taxis are going to be silent, but not in a way the passenger will notice. For years cabbies have complained about the noise in the driving area. Acoustics engineers who checked into the complaints about the noise in the driving area, found that the noise was not as bad as they thought. They found that the noise was not as bad as they thought. Nixon's Vote Reform Proposals. President Nixon's proposals for reform in the business of electing our President are proposals located in a middle ground.

It is easier to believe in such a simple, dramatic thing as this, that the candidate who receives the largest popular vote should be elected President.

Second, the President would move toward the popular vote principle by having the electoral vote of each individual state distributed, among the various Presidential candidates, in proportion to the number of electors.

Third, President Nixon suggests, in order to avoid the possibility which loomed so large part way through the returns last November, that a 40 per cent plurality of the electoral vote be made, in any contest between three or more candidates, sufficient for election of a President.

Fourth, President Nixon suggests, in order to avoid the possibility which loomed so large part way through the returns last November, that a 40 per cent plurality of the electoral vote be made, in any contest between three or more candidates, sufficient for election of a President.

Whether people driving is the result of circumstances or of simple neglect on the part of the driver, the effect is the same. A driver who drives in substantially restricted for whatever reason is a menace, and if he does not or will not stay off the road until the condition is cleared, he deserves to be penalized.

"Hopefully," More "Options"

We weren't aware, until we read a news item that President Nixon had asked the British Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain for the moment, still "keeping his options open" with regard to the problem of Anglo-American relations.

We had thought that the word "options" had just entered upon its special heavy duty role in American public life, that it was fated, for at least some time, to be a word of respect as a special property of the new administration now in the White House.

Previous use of the word by people in high places has usually made it sound as if an option were a desperation bid to ditch lesser of two evils, which is explanation enough of why there has never been, up to the present moment, any question of a faddist over-popularity for the word.

But President Nixon has given the word wings which enable it to soar high into the communal vocabulary, where, we fancy, it is about to join another great common usage already established for over a year now—that of the word "hopefully."

It is not our knowledge, but we are sure that the word "hopefully" cannot, in our opinion, be credited with any distinguished origin, although research might surprise us and discover that one Lyndon Baines Johnson gave it to us.

At any rate, it has, for more than a year now, been a word everybody could stick in front of everything they were going to say, thereby giving their statement a strange atmosphere of miraculous prospective rhythm, over odds, realities, the laws of physics, and the laws of human nature.

It was not only used to do when a word takes over as "hopefully" has taken over all our public discourses for the past year, as "options" is now about to leap from every lip. All one can do is wish, that, hopefully, everyone's opinion of a faddist over-popularity for the word increase.

NEW YORK — Mayor John V. Lindsay would be defeated for re-election today by any fairly viable Democratic candidate for one basic reason: This city's white voters believe he has cast his vote to the black man.

That is the conclusion reached from in-depth interviews we conducted throughout the city last Saturday in cooperation with the Oliver Quayle polling organization. Simultaneously, the survey indicated Lindsay's overall image in the minds of white New York voters is surprisingly good and he might yet win — if he can convince them he is no special pleader for the Negro.

It wasn't too long ago that Lindsay was a liberal, a progressive, a man who was not afraid to take a stand for the underdog.

But the extent to which this image of the West should be reduced by a study of the extent to which it falls to please the East.

The situation was that the Communist victory in Bengal was shared by two Communist and one fellow-traveler parties. Russia couldn't manage much spontaneous joy in the victory because the party which labeled itself pro-Soviet was the Communist Party of India.

Agnew A Hit

By MARY WIGBERS

WASHINGTON — At the 84th annual Gridiron Dinner Saturday night, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was the surprise hit of the evening.

He had plenty of competition from former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, former Governor George Wallace, and, in a different vein, President Nixon.

That still Agnew came through, in what was judged by many as the best of the off-the-record after-dinner speeches.

It wasn't too long ago that Lindsay was a liberal, a progressive, a man who was not afraid to take a stand for the underdog.

Book Review

By The Associated Press

This might be called an "emotional documentary" report about the invasion of Czechoslovakia on the night of last August 20.

Wiesenberg, an American writer, was born in Czechoslovakia and spent the first 12 years of his life there. He visited Prague several times in the spring and summer of last year, and was in Vienna when the Russians and their Warsaw Pact allies conducted the occupation.

This book was written in Vienna while the author monitored the "free, legitimate" but chaotic broadcasts of a hastily organized Czechoslovak station that for a week—hastily slipping from one location to another—reported to the whole nation what was happening.

The "voices" of the book's title were those broadcasts. Wiesenberg supplements his reports with background information of his own, and a few stories from refugees who fled from their homes.

At first the broadcasts brought sound of actual shooting. Then came messages of moral support, followed by instructions for passive resistance, or—depending on the circumstances—withdrawal and guerrilla warfare.

There were warnings about where the occupation troops were located, and a few stories from refugees who fled from their homes.

Next he considers the rising pressure against First Secretary Novotny in the first months of 1967, and the actual crisis of 1968, including the "confessions" and show trials that shook Czechoslovakia in 1968-69.

The 200 days between Novotny's fall and the arrival of the Russian tanks are reconstructed painstakingly from every available scrap of evidence.

Schwartz characterizes the rapid strides made under Dubcek toward a liberalization of the government—"a milestone in the history of human freedom and particularly in the realization of the Communist parties and ideologues toward greater humanism."

The author interprets Russia's miscalculations over Czechoslovakia as due in part to confusion between Khrushchev and Brezhnev—a hawk. He also points out that this was the second time the Kremlin had made a bad blunder—the first being the Soviet position in the Arab-Israeli war of June 1967.

"The leaders who have shown among the nations such gross inability to understand the psychology and motivation of other nations command more than enough nuclear weapons to devastate the earth," he writes. "The thought is not reassuring."

This is an important book for all serious students of the Revolution.

GRANT TAKES COMMAND. By Bruce Catton. Little, Brown, $10.

In this third volume of biography of U.S. Grant, a work again begun by the late Lloyd Lewis and again carried forward by Bruce Catton, the unprecedented commander of federal armies in the Civil War emerges in full stature.

Here, in the months from Vicksburg to Appomattox, was Grant at his best, pursuing relentlessly his victory while he had shed so many other generals.

He was not impressive in appearance or behavior on the battlefield. He was neither the dash of George B. McClellan nor the dignity of Robert E. Lee, nor the ebullience of Joe Hooker nor the flamboyance of John Stuart. In a crowd, he seemed to stand from sight; correspondent Richard Henry Dana Jr. described him as a "scurvy-looking man with a slightly seedy look, as if he was out of office on half pay."

But he also had honesty, tenacity, a singleness of purpose, a talent for simple direct thinking and action. George G. Meade, who as commander of the Army of the Potomac, was associated with Grant through the critical months of 1862-63, acknowledged that he was not "naturally reckless" but still pronounced him, "in my judgment, the best man the war has yet produced."

Federal Law Aimed At 'Gator Poachers

EDITOR'S NOTE—Before rabbit, hang it on a big book on a wall which would a pole, and stuck the pole in the bottom of the lake near the federal crime. His passage could be hole.

"He'll take it," he said, "when it's good and rank."

Three nights later, we went out and the rabbit was gone.

"He's on the boat," Charlie said. "Ease him up real slow and as soon as I shoot him let him go."

By A SWAMP OUTLAW

As Told to BEN FURBY
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI (AP)—I'll never forget the time I first saw the eyes of the alligator, glowing like the red fire of hell through the April mist swirling over the lake.

In the eerie darkness of that warm Florida night, I could feel the hairs crawl across the back of my neck.

Fighting an urge to get out of there, I raved my boat slowly toward the gator. He had his head and eyes burning holes through the gray blanket of fog, until I was almost on top of him.

With a trembling hand, I fired a bullet at his head and all at once he was gone and there was nothing on the surface of the water but the drifting vapors.

As my shot rang out, the frog died abruptly and for two or three minutes not a sound came to me out of the night.

Then the lake erupted with startling fury, as though a depth charge had exploded below. Blood and chunks of mud and grass spouted to the surface.

It seemed like the alligator stayed down there 15 minutes. Then, suddenly, the big, musky, moss-covered thing popped up not two feet from my boat.

Somewhere I managed to fire another bullet into his head and he went under again, beating the lake into a froth with his long, powerful tail.

He was gone only a minute, then he surfaced and swam slowly to the bank. I beached my boat, followed him into the cattails, and drew my knife into the back of his neck.

I am a member of the arm of poachers which has slaughtered the alligator and all about to go the way of the buffalo. Ten years ago, you could draw the Turnpike Trail and see a hundred alligators. Now you'd be lucky if you saw two.

Demand for alligator in the world of fashion means there is big money in alligator hides. While down Fifth Avenue in New York, you'll see stylish women carrying handbags made from hides once clutched in the bloody hands of poachers like me.

Working three or four nights in the swamps, I've made as much as $400 a week selling prime hides at $20 or $4 a foot. I've known of two hunters working together killing 100 gators in a night and making $1,500 and more.

A million dollars worth of hides a year goes through the Miami market alone.

Two big Florida wholesale buyers, one in Miami and another in northwest Florida, send out runners to pick up hides from poachers.

Some hides are flown north in private planes. Others are shipped in refrigerated trucks along with fish and beef. In New York, there are no laws or regulations, so it becomes a legitimate business for the factories. Handbags sell for $200 and shoes for $70.

The Florida laws that are supposed to protect alligators are so weak the poachers laugh at them. Even when a poacher is caught, his fine is so small a night's bill will cover it.

It's nearly impossible to get a jury conviction. It just doesn't make sense to most people to send a man to jail for shooting an ugly old alligator. Three friends of mine who were caught in a swamp at 3 a.m. with 18 hides were acquitted.

The jury said it believed their story that they were birdwatching.

I was a caretaker for an orange grove in central Florida when I met and killed my first alligator. I came across him while I was out on a lake on the property trying to get some frogs for dinner.

I began learning about the world of the gator poacher when a poacher named Charlie I had met gave me $5 for my hide, a prime eight-footer that brought him at least $40.

Charlie told me to spot the alligators all over the property and he would clean them out. I found one lake with four gators in it and we went after them.

We had just put our boat into the water when we saw the first one. His eyes looked like two red fireballs running across the water and he was fast as a shark. I guessed the motor pulled up on him, and Charlie shot him between the eyes.

When the bullet hit him, he came out of the water and walked on his tail like a great game fish for maybe 30 yards. Then he tumbled back in the water. When he came up again he was right under the boat, but he was dead.

We killed the next two easily, but the fourth one ran to his hole at one end of the lake.

Christmas tree. It was a poucher's paradise.

My first night out in the Glades, a friend and I killed 21 alligators along one canal. The danger and excitement have kept me at gator-poaching for nine years.

Sure, I've worried some. There were narrow escapes with alligators and cottonmouths, mosquitoes and rattlesnakes that are always around trying to get a piece of you.

The wardens were the least of my worries. There are 5,000 square miles of the Everglades and the Florida Game Commission has a 21-man force. The wardens have to find you in that vast, wild swamp, and they have to find you with the goods. A pro seldom gets caught that we were able to pull him into my boat.

One night, after I had killed a few alligators, I heard a commotion on the canal bank. I pulled my boat into the saw grass, crawled down the bank, and saw two wardens beside my car.

"He's out there," one said in a low voice. "Let's go get him quick."

"They put a boat in the water and roared away. I waited until they were about five miles downstream. Then I hurriedly pulled my boat into the water and saw two wardens beside my car.

"He's out there," one said in a low voice. "Let's go get him quick."

Projects and Field Trips At Grande School Agenda

Teachers do more than teach, and students do more than learn in the classroom. The proof is in the long list of activities which have taken place, or soon will, at the Grande Grammar School, as detailed earlier this week by Principal Oliver J. Chaffield. Included are in-service training projects, kindergarten field trips, unique classroom lectures and a scheduled program by some members of the Stratford Symphony.

While most students and teachers were enjoying the mid-winter vacation last month, two OGS teachers, Mrs. Irene Gale and Mrs. Peery Fable, together with Chaffield, were attending a workshop in music on school readiness and placement.

The program, jointly sponsored by Project ASK and Eastern Connecticut State College, was conducted by Dr. Clyde Gillette, chief clinical examiner of the Genell Institute for Child Development.

The purpose of the workshop was to help teachers understand behavior patterns of children with a view toward incorporating into the local curriculum and philosophy the developmental needs of students.

The Genell Institute proposes that school entrance requirements be changed from the traditional birthdate requirement to level of behavior. In other words, substitute a behavior test for "birthday age" as a means of determining when a child should start school.

The Institute further proposes that such a substitute might reduce, by as much as 50 percent, the academic learning difficulties now experienced by children.

In-service day

Audio-visual equipment was the subject of a recent in-service training day program at OGS. These are held every other Monday afternoon, and account for those "early closing" days the entire faculty of OGS attended the workshop, under the direction of audio-visual director Robert Marzarian. The purpose of the program was to gain a better understanding of the audio-visual equipment and to seek ways of incorporating these aids into the learning process.

Faculty members learned something about technical use of the equipment, and also about recent innovations and materials available in the general area of audio-visual aids.

Another in-service day was devoted to a mathematics workshop, presented by consultants from Houghton-Mifflin Co., publishers of mathematics texts used in the grammar schools, and by Mrs. Jean Totterault, former mathematics curriculum chairman at OGS, now teaching at Capt. Nathan Hale School.

The purpose of this in-service program was to make a wide-year evaluation of the newly-revised program that was started following a curriculum study last year by teachers. Teachers were given an opportunity at the workshop to discuss questions

Assembling the News

By Sol R. Cohen

It was St. Patrick's Day a 1941 term as a state representative in the Hall of the House of Representatives yesterday, and everyone got into the act.

Everything was green, including two huge loads of green beer brought to the speaker's rostrum and consumed later with green beer in a buffet in the fifth floor Assembly Room.

The bread was donated by the dean of the state representatives, Rubin Cohen of Colchester. Cohen was elected Keeper of the Shillelagh.

A green sign behind the speaker's platform read "The Sons of Aaron Salute the Sons of Erin," and the celebration was endorsed also by The Sons of Italy and the Sons of Romania.

Second District Cong. William St. Onge paid a surprise visit to the legislature yesterday and received a standing ovation in the House.

In a short speech to the legislators, he reminisced about his librarian Mrs. Margaret Robinson. There will be an explanation of some of the better books and illustrators for each age group, and discussion of the importance of stories and pictures in the reading process.

Brass Quartet

On April 8, the Educational Department of the Hartford Symphony Orchestra will present a program on the brass quartet, with a demonstration of each of the four main brass instruments. The musical group will also play selections representing all periods, and the narration will offer explanations of the development of brass instruments from pre-historic times to the present.

Children will have an opportunity to sing along with nursery tunes, and most likely the program will be offered in all grades at the grammar school.

Assisting in plans for this program is Mrs. Dorothy Gilliam, music teacher in the school system.

Chaffield said that further details on the U.S. Post Office in Storrs. Both the morning and afternoon classes of Mrs. Gale will be making a trip to the open house to be held at the children's interest in the post office system, sponsored by their Valentine's Day parties. The trip will be under the supervision of Mrs. Harrison, whose student teacher, Miss Joyce Walker, worked out many of the details of the field trip.

Children will be bused to and from Storrs and will arrive home at their usual time.

Through the interest and cooperation of two first grade teachers, Mrs. Karen Pitt and Mrs. Sharon Porto, a special program open to parents and OGS students will be held in early April. This project will be to assist parents in aiding their children in the proper selection of library books and materials, and to become better acquainted with authors and types of children's books available.

This open house will also be the subject of a recent in-service training day program at OGS. These are held every other Monday afternoon, and account for those "early closing" days the entire faculty of OGS attended the workshop, under the direction of audio-visual director Robert Marzarian. The purpose of the program was to gain a better understanding of the audio-visual equipment and to seek ways of incorporating these aids into the learning process.

Conservation Unit Opposed to C-DAP

The three members of the Conservation Commission who were on hand for last night's meeting at the Eighth District Airhouse, went on record as being opposed to C-DAP for the present time.

C-DAP is a proposed comprehensive plan of community development, which would be financed largely by state funds, and which would be a prerequisite to getting state grants to carry out action projects.

The Conservation Commission was asked for its opinion on C-DAP by Town Manager Robert B. Weis who favors seeking a $200,000 state grant for the study. The commission was reluctant to go along with C-DAP now for several reasons.

They feel that nothing substantive will come from the proposed study; one commission member said, "All we'll have is another study that will be put away in the closet and forgotten."

The commission also said the town already has a master plan, and a survey of the water situation in Manchester has been completed, they added. In addition, the commission

Columbia Teachers Propose Pay Plan

The Columbia Teachers' Association Monday night presented the Board of Education with a proposed salary schedule for 1969-70 which amounts to a $2,500 overall increase over the present schedule.

The cost of the proposed schedule is $200,150 as compared to last year's schedule which amounted to $273,800.

For four-year preparation, the minimum would be $8,900 to step 13 at $10,400 with $800 increases at each step; five-year preparation, $7,300 to $10,900 with $800 increases, and six-year preparation, $7,600 to $11,400 with $800 increases at each step.

The committee is asking for full Connecticut Blue Cross coverage under extended plan, plus semi-private room credit in executive homes to avoid rider with additional "rider benefits" currently in effect for subscribers; members and dependents; full Connecticut Medical Service under preferred contract plan for subscribing members and dependents, and full major medical insurance coverage plus a $5,000 life insurance policy for subscribing members only.

The group proposed teacher aides for kindergarten, and Grades 1, 2 and 3 and art and library rooms to relieve them of clerical and non-instructional duties in order to allow more time for attention to individual students and groups. They also requested personal days, three days leave with pay, non-accumulative, for personal reasons.

In addition to these proposals the salary committee recommended that the board give consideration to a $200 allocation for films, and asked that teachers be reimbursed for expenses incurred in the attendance of professional conferences and conventions approved by the administration and lunchroom aides be stationed in the hallways while students proceed to the lunchroom to allow teachers to have a duty-free lunch period.

The board will meet March 21 in executive session to discuss the proposals.

The salary committee included Joseph Markoff, chairman; Mrs. Linda Molvar, Alan Howland, Mrs. Jean Rand, Dennis Harvey and John Courtois.

Flanked by an honor guard from the Knights of Columbus, the procession prepared to enter the cathedral. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Archbishop Whealon Installed

conator installed some 40 bishops, among them Archbishop Ambrose Sanyal (Ukrainian rite) of Philadelphia, Bishop Fulton J. Sheen of Rochester and Bishop John J. Wright of Pittsburgh. They moved into the cathedral and took reserved places beneath the 50-foot terra cotta mural of the risen Christ. The procession of participants in the installation halted at the Blessed Sacrament Chapel on the right of the main altar, where Archbishop Whealon ofered a short prayer.

Mgr. Joseph Lacy read to the congregation the letter appointing Archbishop Whealon as archbishop of Hartford.

After a prayer for the new archbishop, led by Mgr. John Kennedy at the sacristy altar, Archbishop O'Brien and Archbishop Raimondi, and O'Brien led the new prelate to the episcopal throne. All three were wearing the gold mitre of their office.

Archbishop Whealon was greeted with the gold-plated crozier, which symbolizes the authority of the bishop. The prelate then gave his first solemn blessing as archbishop of Hartford.

Laird also mentioned the ability of enemy forces "to take refuge in sanctuaries across the border of Laos, Cambodia and North Vietnam."

He traced this to what he called "certain intractable factors" such as Soviet and Communist Chinese 122 millimeter rockets and other sophisticated weapons and equipment supplied to Hanoi and the Viet Cong.

Laird also mentioned the ability of enemy forces "to take refuge in sanctuaries across the border of Laos, Cambodia and North Vietnam."

Laird Gloomy on Outlook For U.S. Viet Troops Cut

stive documentation of steady political growth" by the Saigon government. Laird said, "This progress is difficult to translate into nationwide security."

In an apparent nod to the South Vietnamese, the defense secretary called for "even greater national exertion" which he said will be necessary to bring government administration and political structures into the country's villages and hamlets.

Laird seemed to try to play down the impact of the more than three-week-old enemy offensive, perhaps to ease any pressure on President Nixon for some kind of counter-action. He gave no hint as to what kinds of responses are under discussion.

Assessing the North Vietnamese-Viet Cong offensive, Laird said:

"From the military standpoint, our military commanders believe the current enemy offensive is destined for failure."

"The recently initiated enemy action has had surprisingly little impact on the morale of the South Vietnamese people and their government."

"The indiscriminate enemy rocket attacks on Saigon, Da Nang and Hue are not militarily significant. As of this time, the attacks have added to the degree, but not the type, of risk to which U.S. forces have for some time been subjected."

"There can be no doubt that the rocket attacks in Saigon, Da Nang and Hue are completely inconsistent with the understandings that underlie the bomb halt."

Where Laird made observations on the course of the fighting, he mostly attributed them to military officers.

"Allied military efforts are reported to be making steady progress," he said.

For example, Laird told the committee Martin L. Gen. Robert Cushman and Army Lt. Gen. Richard Silwell cited significant advances in the north-ermost I Corps in eliminating enemy influence.

But he added Cushman told him "an additional two years would be required before he could see the situation as being satisfactory in hand."

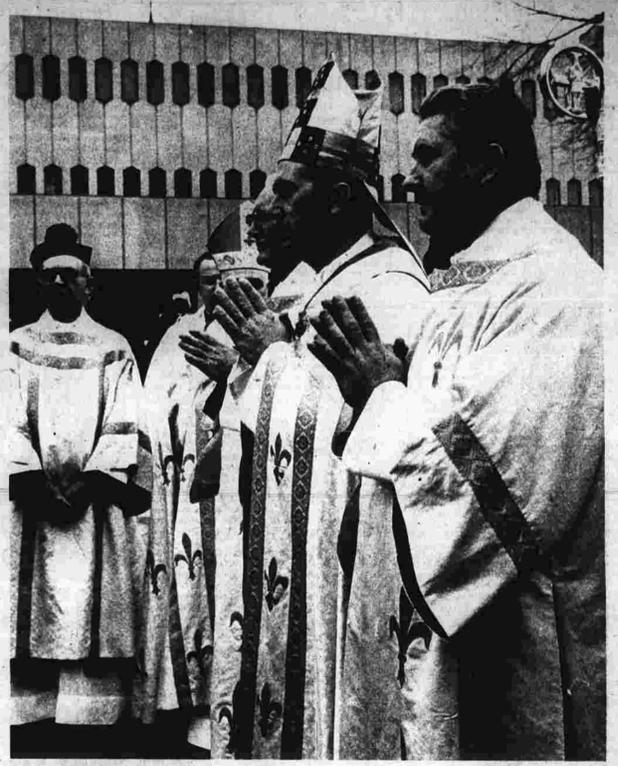

It is apparent, Laird said, that a successful effort to root out Viet Cong agents "will thus require a substantially higher enemy rate of attrition than has yet been realized militarily."

He said U.S. military commanders are not in the situation in the III Corps around Saigon "under control."

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, "believes his tactics and procedures have greatly reduced the risks of significant enemy incursion into the capital city of Saigon," Laird said.

In the key rice-growing Delta region, he reported, "the military situation is steadily moving in a direction favorable to the government of the Republic of Vietnam and the United States."

But Laird said the senior U.S. military adviser in that area recognizes that the pacification effort is proceeding slowly in this traditional VC stronghold.

Archbishop Whealon, center, and dignitaries leave the chancery en route to the cathedral.

State Dentist Charges AMA Causes Shortage of Doctors

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—A state dentist who is a member of a legislative committee studying the high cost of medical care today charged the American Medical Association (AMA) with causing a shortage of doctors.

Rep. Morris N. Cohen, D-Bloomfield, made the remarks in a speech prepared for delivery to the legislature's public health committee. Cohen noted that doctors have consumers' groups to the state's public health committee, Cohen noted that doctors have consumers' groups to the state's public health committee, Cohen noted that doctors have consumers' groups to the state's public health committee.

Ohio Parents Get Medal of Honor Awarded to Son
 WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon presented the Medal of Honor yesterday to the tearful mother of a young Marine who was killed in Vietnam while attacking a machine gunner's position. The citation relates that Newlin was making an important perimeter outpost when the enemy launched a savage mortar and infantry assault, seriously wounding him and killing four of his comrades. It added: "Though repeatedly hit by enemy mortar shells, he refused to leave his position until he had killed the enemy." This was Nixon's first posthumous presentation of the award, and the ceremonies were held in the privacy of his office rather than the White House East Room. Secretary of the Navy John H. Chafee read the formal citation and Nixon gave Mrs. Newlin the medal. "This kind of remarkable courage never occurs as an accident," Nixon said, "but only when a young man has a fine family behind him."

Yanks Team To Beat, Houk Predicts Race

LAKELAND, Fla. — Team to beat in the American League for the pennant?

"I've always felt that the team to beat was the Yankees," he answered.

"I feel that it will be a toss-up in our division between Detroit, Baltimore, Boston, Cleveland and our club of Washington."

Washington has had its problem getting started this spring but I expect them to give a lot of trouble to some teams. I know they have always given us more trouble than we bargained for."

Looking at the other division of the American League in the new setup for the 1969 season, Houk said:

"I like Oakland. I feel that last year they showed the biggest improvement. Minnesota could get in there if everything broke right and California has a pretty good chance, too."

The other three entries are Seattle, Kansas City and Chicago.

"I like the teams in both divisions, anything that will bring out more fan interest. It's been proven that a team in first place, basketball and hockey and I'm sure it will give a lift to New York."

"If we are going to win our division, we'll have to beat all the teams in both. I hope to start and use the same rotation as long as I can, all season I hope," he added with a wide grin.

Included in the impressive New York Yankee press book, edited by Jim Boutwell, is a small graph that showed the Yankees led the American League in road attendance against last season.

"We're pretty proud of that," Houk said. "Last year we had a 23rd straight time that we've done that better."

"Sure, I know the reasons. The name New York and Mickey Mantle had a lot to do with it."

"Lots of fans in the town come out hoping to see New York get beat," he added.

It's money in the bank for visiting teams that draw as they get a percentage of each ticket sold, thus the Yankees were a big moneymaker away from Yankee Stadium.

But this is another year and many, I'll try and work the same starters, if I can find them. I have three established starters, Jim Boutwell, Stan in Mel Stottlemyre, Stan Balmora and Fritz Peterson. I'm sure I'll be able to get back to New York."

"If we are going to win our division, we'll have to beat all the teams in both. I hope to start and use the same rotation as long as I can, all season I hope," he added with a wide grin.

"I like the teams in both divisions, anything that will bring out more fan interest. It's been proven that a team in first place, basketball and hockey and I'm sure it will give a lift to New York."

"If we are going to win our division, we'll have to beat all the teams in both. I hope to start and use the same rotation as long as I can, all season I hope," he added with a wide grin.

Included in the impressive New York Yankee press book, edited by Jim Boutwell, is a small graph that showed the Yankees led the American League in road attendance against last season.

"We're pretty proud of that," Houk said. "Last year we had a 23rd straight time that we've done that better."

"Sure, I know the reasons. The name New York and Mickey Mantle had a lot to do with it."

"Lots of fans in the town come out hoping to see New York get beat," he added.

It's money in the bank for visiting teams that draw as they get a percentage of each ticket sold, thus the Yankees were a big moneymaker away from Yankee Stadium.

But this is another year and many, I'll try and work the same starters, if I can find them. I have three established starters, Jim Boutwell, Stan in Mel Stottlemyre, Stan Balmora and Fritz Peterson. I'm sure I'll be able to get back to New York."

Cleveland Defeats Oakland A's

NEW YORK (AP) — Ten little Indians ran circles around Jim Nash in the Arizona desert—and left the Oakland pitcher with a fair idea of what Ouster went through at the Little Big Horn.

The Cleveland Indians tagged Nash for 10 runs on 11 hits—seven on extra bases—in the second inning Thursday night at the Athletics 10-3 at Mesa, Ariz., for their ninth consecutive victory.

Nash, a 13-game winner for the A's last season and the club ERA leader at 2.28, was raked for four singles, five doubles and two home runs—by Tony Horton and Duke Sims—before Manager Hank Bauer finally lifted him with two out in the second.

Detroit's Denny McLain, the American League MVP and Cy Young Award winner, also took his lumps on the mound, yielding six runs in four innings.

Four of them on homers by Bill White and Richie Allen—as the Tigers bowed to the Philadelphia Phillies 8-2.

While McLain and the world champion Tigers floundered, White and Richie Allen—as the Tigers bowed to the Philadelphia Phillies 8-2.

White McLain and the world champion Tigers floundered, while Dick Gibson pitched three scoreless innings, helping St. Louis National League kings defeat Baltimore 8-3 to snap the Orioles' seven-game winning streak.

Gibson, MVP and Cy Young winner in the NL last year, scored four of the Cardinals pitchers' 14 strikeouts. Paul Blair hammered twice for the Orioles.

The Washington Senators, beaten in 10 of their previous 11 spring starts, turned on Monday for a 5-0 victory, with Joe Coleman scattering three hits in the Chicago White Sox.

Rookies Rafael Robles and Dick Gibson each struck out three batters, powering San Diego to a 5-0 victory over California.

Robles had two singles, a double and a sacrifice fly; Gibson a single, double and triple-measure sacrifice.

Bobby Murcer drilled a three-run pinch homer in the eighth inning, carrying the New York Yankees from behind to a 3-1 win over Cincinnati, and Minnesota downed Atlanta 4-1 in a night game, scoring four runs.

George Mitterwald's double in the fifth with the help of Chuck Merson's triple and George Mitterwald's double.

The Kansas City-Pittsburgh game was washed out by rain.

Day Ted Williams Didn't Care to Play

FLORIDA (AP)—The time was high noon on a warm Sunday in March and the place was Plant Field in Tampa where the Cincinnati Reds were to play an exhibition game with the Boston Red Sox.

And since Ted Williams was scheduled to make his annual appearance there this day the idea was to get on the premises early.

The Red Sox pro circuit came in from Sarasota via bus by what he knows but he didn't like these trips. "I'll play every game we can get," he said.

Ted Williams didn't like being cramped in a bus for slightly more than the 90 minutes it used to take to go from Sarasota to Tampa.

So Williams dressed in Sarasota's old wooden dressing room with the rest of the Red Sox. But when it came time to depart for Tampa he got in his grey Cadillac and drove alone.

He was too busy thinking of the best place to wait for Williams in Tampa when he was in the special parking lot between the Cincinnati dressing room and the playing field.

Williams wasted no time before the Red Sox took the field and Williams went into the clubhouse to get ready.

After the Reds took the field, Williams went into the clubhouse to get ready. He took off his driving slipper and put on his spiked shoe.

Coach Shue Predicts, 'We'll Win Everything'

Baltimore Nears Eastern Title

Coach Gene Shue of the Baltimore Bullets isn't conceding a thing—to the Baltimore Bullets, he is.

Not even after the Bullets whipped Seattle 120-102 Tuesday night and clinched at least a tie for the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division championship.

"When we win one more game I'll predict we're going to win the title," Shue said.

By winning Baltimore's 120-102 victory over Seattle Tuesday night, the Bullets have four games left in Philadelphia three.

Kevin Loughery paced the Bullets with 22 points and scored 11 of their last 22 after Seattle had pulled to within 100-92 in the fourth quarter.

The Superstars were eliminated from the Western Division playoff scramble despite 30 points by Len Wilkens, 22 by John Travant and 21 by Art Harris.

Los Angeles' triumph over Chicago just about killed the Bulls in the playoff hopes, dropping its total game scoring honors with 34 points. Jim McIllochin netted 20 for the losing Bucks.

Atlanta New 12-point lead but pulled away from San Francisco with a 35-21 lead in the fourth quarter.

The Bulls led by five points with four minutes left but Jerry West and Bill Hewitt shot the Bulls collected 24 apiece for 40 points.

He recalled the period when the NFL was restructuring its 18 teams into divisions of four.

"I took us three days of about 16 hours each day to break the two eight into four four," he noted.
