Work halted two weeks ago on a sealing process for some town roads will continue. The Board of Representatives last night approved an appropriation of $6,128 which will be reimbursed in full from town aid funds.

The stop order on the road work was ordered by Richard Borden, director of administration, when it was discovered that funds for the project had never been authorized.

Carl Silver In Rec Post

Lester (Carl) Silver of 128 Cooper Hill St., a former Manchester policeman, has been named Manchester's assistant rec director.

In making the announcement today, Town Manager Robert Weiss said that the appointment was effective as of yesterday. He said that Silver finished on top in examinations given to four qualified applicants.

Silver was a policeman from December 1960 to December 1968. He resigned over a dispute concerning swapping of shifts. He said in his letter of resignation that "because he must work two jobs to support his large family, the inability to swap shifts would cause him financial hardship."

Sheinwald on Bridge

DO YOU REED WATCHING WHILE YOU BRIDGE? BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

It's fun to watch for unusual bridge hands as they are dealt. You sometimes see the Red Throated Gripe in action, and you are as likely to find the Uter Loon at the bridge table as in the forest. The most important bird to watch for at the bridge table is the common duck.

South Dealer: Both sides vulnerable. Opening lead: ♠ 7 of Hearts.

South won the first trick with the king of hearts and started off blithely with the ace and king of diamonds. East discarded a club, and the smile faded from South's face.

"It was you just that dealer could get only three diamond tricks. He made his best attempt to recover by leading the jack of spades from dummy. East covered with the ace of spades.

Not South led his last diamond to dummy's queen and led the other spade from dummy. It can make 20 of his high spades. South would have developed a trick with the ten of hearts if he had led it, however. West developed his hearts in time to defeat the contract.

South should make his contract by seeing a duck. He has spades, and he has five diamond tricks for his contract. He can make 20 of his high spades by letting the opponents win an early diamond trick. Taking the first time to lead with the king of hearts South should cash the ace of diamonds and play a low diamond from both hands. This play, which bridge players call "the duck," gives South a chance to take five diamond tricks but guarantees four children.

South won the heart return and leads his spade, capturing the rest of the suit with dummy's king and queen. Dummy's last diamond is in good.

Maneuvering in the Park

CHICAGO (AP) — Doctors and other professionals who organize corporations for income tax benefits are receiving judicial approval which has knocked down opposition by the Internal Revenue Service.

Recently, the New Orleans U.S. Appeals Court—joining Appeals Courts at Cincinnati and Denver and other U.S. District Courts—has said the IRS regulations are arbitrary, discriminatory and legislative in nature, resulting in invalidation.

It was the 11th judicial setback for the Service's position. But IRS may not take these rulings lightly. One approach may be a tax code section giving the Commissioner discretionary authority to act if the acquisition of control of a corporation is to secure tax benefits.

Miller Granted Hearing

BUDGETPORT (AP) — A federal judge here has granted a hearing on a motion for dismissal of the case against James J. Miller, Milford hairdresser, convicted three years ago of conspiring to smuggle heroin into the United States.

Miller's previous conviction was overturned by the U.S. Court of Appeals because a state's witness had been hypnotized without the knowledge of the defense.

Outlaw Pair's Story Told By Relatives

By PAUL LEBAR Associated Press Writer

KNOXVILLE, Iowa (AP) — James and Frank James, the two men who shot and killed U.S. Sen. Charles S. McNair, are being remembered by relatives of James and Frank James who have written what they call the "real story" of the notorious outlaw brothers.

Following the reported demise of Jesse, the real outlaw laid out under the name of Thomas Howard and Frank let one Sam Collins assume his name and accept amnesty from Missouri accept amnesty from Missouri.

Members of the old James gang were still alive at the time of Joe Vaughn's death and most of some 800 copies of his autobiography were stolen and the publishing company burned to the ground, Columbus Vaughn says.

Frank James did not die in Kearney, Mo., as legend has it, but instead spent the last 40 years of his life in the Ozarks at Wayton, Ark., according to the book.

Jesse James, instead of being shot from ambush by a cousin in St. Joseph, Mo., let a Texas middle tramp take the bullet for him and lived to be more than 100 years his 1961 death in Granbury, Tex., as J. Frank Dalton.

The authors say Frank James was first in blackhat, and then to stay following in the footsteps of Jesse in 1882. There he assumed the alias of Joe Vaughn, married Nancy Richardson and raised five children. He died in 1961 at age 80, spending the last five years completing an autobiography, The Only True Story of the James, the authors say.

Of his children, four still live in the 1966 gubernatorial election. The author is William Nelson Vaughn.

Investigate Before Donating, Director of Charity Advises

By ARLEEN ABRAHAM AP Newsfeatures Writer

The next time someone knocks on your door and asks for a donation to the XYZ charity, don't reach automatically for your checkbook, says the Executive Director of one of the nation's 10 largest charities.

Sammer G. Whittier, executive director of the National Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults, isn't implying that many charities are suspect. He believes, however, that it's everyone's responsibility to question any organization that asks for a contribution of money or volunteer services before making a donation. Americans probably will donate $15 billion this year to charity; $1.5 billion will come from individuals.

"Personally, if I were making a large donation or volunteering my services, and I had one question to ask about a charity it would be: 'What is the attendance' at 10 a.m. board meetings?" says the soft-spoken, gray-eyed, Mass., resident. "Of course, I'd make sure that the board meets regularly and serves without compensation."

Whittier advises that it's not practical to put such questions to a neighbor soliciting door to door. "But in any case," he explains, "I'd at least find out what the cause is and seek some local identification. If there is a local name on the letterhead, I wouldn't hesitate to phone that person."

And notes the man who served as administrator of Veterans Affairs (57-61) and director of Blue Shield of Michigan before joining Easter Seals six years ago, "The larger the amount you give, the more carefully you should investigate the cause."

Most people do seek a worth while cause for their charitable contributions, but too often they're really unaware of just what a particular charity does. For example, mentions Easter Seals and most people envision a crippled child. Many people aren't aware of the research projects we sponsor or even that the Easter Seal Society, now celebrating its 60th anniversary, aids crippled adults as well as children.

Having a good cause isn't enough, continues Whittier. The contributor should seek to find out not only the charity's goals, but whether it is accomplishing them.

"Too many people fail to realize that charity is a business and it should be run as such," he continues.

How does one judge how efficiently a charity is managed? One clue lies in the figure listing what per cent of each dollar received is spent on services and administration. Most of the national health agencies, Whittier explains, belong to the National Health Council. Through this council, a uniform method of accounting is being put into effect which will allow a direct comparison between agencies on the costs of fund-raising and administration as well as program costs.

"It's the responsibility of each citizen to spell these out clearly as that a housewife with no knowledge of financial statements can understand just where her dollar is going," Whittier comments.

He suggests that anyone contemplating doing volunteer

Vernon John McAlmont Will Leave His Post as Town Planner

Vernon will lose another town officer in the near future. John McAlmont, town planner for the past two years, said today he plans to leave his position. McAlmont said, however, that he will stay a reasonable amount of time for the town to get a replacement. He came to Vernon two years ago as the town's first professional planner. He had been associated with the planning department in East Providence, R.I., prior to coming to Vernon. McAlmont came highly recommended for the Vernon position by the state panel who gave the examination. He was also given the approval of the Board of Representatives and the Planning Commission.

Bid for Fast House Voting Began in 1921

Since his arrival in town, McAlmont has been involved in the C-DAP. He has also been actively involved in sub-dividing control, a program for readjusting and many other programs. The town is also looking in the Building Inspector, Francis McNulty, who announced his resignation last week. McNulty has also served as Zoning Officer and Deputy Health Officer. He has accepted a position with a contracting firm. His resignation is effective Sept. 2.

The Real Rio No Paradox

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Many an inhabitant of Brazil's largest city, which is set among lush tropical mountains, calls his home "the city marvelous." But beneath their boastful pride many will admit that they feel like nervous wreckers. For Rio de Janeiro, home to four million persons, is suffering from urban strangulation, caused by both rapid growth and by years of neglect. While the famed Copacabana and Ipanema beaches offer a heaven for the worshippers of sun and surf, and cool breezes waft down from the spectacular mountains, the skyline below is crowded and huge downtown traffic jams have become a way of life, the mail service is hazardous and the telephone work only occasionally.

A two-way radio has been in use between the home and the business which is located in South Windsor.

Pranaitis Dies; Aviation Pioneer

NEWINGTON, Conn. (AP)—Pioneer aviator George S. Pranaitis, who served as Connecticut's first state aviation inspector, died Tuesday at the age of 77. Pranaitis, a native of New Britain, helped out at what was reported to be the first powered aircraft in New England. It took place at New Britain in 1908. He built and flew a biplane himself in 1911 and made another one when the first one crashed. In 1913, Pranaitis made a dare-devil ride on the wing of an airplane over New Britain. During World War I, Pranaitis turned his attention to submarines, and helped design a tiny sub built in Connecticut. In 1915, he joined the First Reserve Aero Squadron of New York City and went to France, where he repaired damaged aircraft.

Most 'Stolen' Bikes Really Aren't Trapped by Storm Waters, Man Refused to Leave Wife

GILFORD, Miss. (AP)—Retired attorney Charles Crowley said he and his wife were trapped by Hurricane Camille's monstrous storm waters and she begged him to go on and leave her. "I sure didn't have anyplace to go without her," Crowley said as he related the near-drowning when the furious storm washed 30-foot waves over the Mississippi coast Sunday night. Crowley and his wife fled from their trailer home on the beach when the hurricane hit and several others got in a laundry room which was 21 feet high. We were all sure we had it figured out," Crowley said. "Then suddenly the water started coming under the door, and two Seabees who lived nearby and I held the door. Government Changes Irk Protestants

Insiders said the acceptance of British advisers and of British control of the security forces was an admission that the local government had done a poor job and couldn't guarantee order. Among the first to criticize were two leaders of Chichester-Clark's Unionist party, which dominates politics in Northern Ireland. "Unless the people of Ulster feel they have a government they can trust, it could escalate into violence," said William Craig, former home minister of the province. "I for one am sure a large number will call for their immediate resignation."

Harder words came from the Rev. Ian Paisley, the Protestant firebrand, who said Wilson "has capitulated to the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church... Ulster Protestants must now join themselves together as their fathers did in 1912, and the God of their fathers will not fall in this hour of crisis."

From the Catholic side, Frank Gogarty, chairman of the Northern Ireland Civil Rights Association, said the provincial government should be suspended. Bernadette Devlin, the 22-year-old Catholic girl elected to the British Parliament from mid-Ulster last spring, said the agreement gave hope "that new things are going to be for the better, but we must not assume that everything now will be perfect."

There was no immediate official comment from the Irish Republic, whose request for a peace force to keep order in Ulster was scheduled to go before the U.N. Security Council today. But Britain was reported within one vote of having enough to keep the council from debating the situation in Northern Ireland.

A British government declaration issued after Wilson and Chichester-Clark met, emphatically stated Northern Ireland will remain part of the United Kingdom until its voters decide otherwise. "The border is not in issue," it stated.

For the first time since the street fighting last week, it was possible Tuesday night to drive through much of Belfast's center. The sole army roadblocks were in Catholic Falls Road, and they were there only because a wall of a large building threatened to collapse. Mobile troop patrols took the place of the barbed wire.

Prerevolutionaries Unsure Of Their Role in Revolution

NEW YORK (AP) — "It became a producer by accident," said Stanley Kramer, whose work has been nominated 17 times for an Academy Award but never won an Oscar.

"After the second World War I met a man who had some money," Kramer said. "The remark is typical of the very realm of Kramer, who started his career as a bookie and who for nearly a quarter of a century has been one of the most controversial figures in an industry whose first motto is, 'Don't make waves.'"

Kramer, however, has been riding the waters since 1946, when he made "Hallelujah, I'm a Bum," Hollywood's first important film about anti-Negro prejudice.

But at 55, white-haired but trimly built a boxer, Kramer is not letting up on his campaign to grab a bigger share of the middle-price car field.

Other donations were a large check for 100 cars and parts from Mrs. Ray Fite of 115 Wadell Rd.; popovers from two Manchester retired teachers; cupcakes and soda from Mr. and Mrs. "Anonymous" of 42 Edinboro Rd.; and the loan of uniforms and caps from Albert (Yoshi) Vincek, for use in a softball game against a Green flag team.

Kramer is untroubled by the fact he has no Oscars to adorn his mantle. "They're a real help at the box office," he acknowledged. "But I can't visualize myself receiving an Oscar. I've won or lost anything."

Kramer takes no credit for courage in having gone against the Hollywood tide in his pioneering production of controversial films.

"I'm not a tired liberal because I still am too challenged to be tired," he said. "and I never really identified myself as a liberal, because I wasn't sure that it was."

"I'm not sure of anything, although," he smiled feebly. "I can talk very glibly about anything. You can't be sure, because you don't know how much things will change."

Applying Combat Tactics, Berserk Man Kills Two

PARKERSBURG, W.Va. (AP) — A former Marine applied combat tactics early today in a "berserk" shooting spree that left two persons dead and another three seriously injured along city streets, police said.

David L. Grimm, 28, Parkersburg, was arrested on a charge of murder after police from five agencies, armed with rifles and tear gas, dragged him from his home, Police Chief Gale Smith said.

The shooting spree began about 1:30 a.m. at Ada's Club, a downtown nightclub.

Police said the gunman apparently left the club, tossed a gas device—possibly a grenade—into the building and then killed and wounded two persons on the street outside the club.

Those killed were identified as Charles Hardman, the owner of the club, and William Plant, in his 20s, who may have worked at the club.

Smith said Grimm then fled the scene of the "re-ear" victims.

The Parkersburg National Bank was held in the Wood where "out of fright or some County jail.

Sweet Taste Of U.S. Funds Cut in Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — There's a moon-cake crisis this year. Usually Vietnamese eat the round delicacies at this season of the way that Christmas gobbler fructifies at Westerners.

Hundreds of thousands were bailed for sale from mid-August until late September, when a festival coincides with the half-year point in the lunar year.

But this year a government decree forbids their "grocery, transport, detention and sale."

Grimm then walked to his home, Smith said, where he brother, after alerting police, in with two officers. After talking for about 30 minutes, police dragged him out.

He was charged in the death of Plant.

The man wounded in front of the tavern was wounded in critical condition and taken to a Columbus, Ohio, hospital. He was not identified immediately.

Smith, who said details were meager, said that "in a sense it wouldn't have shot two innocent victims."

The shooting was held in the Wood where "out of fright or some County jail.

Court Learns FBI Keeps File On Wiretaps

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — The Justice Department has disclosed that it keeps a record known as the "June file" on wiretap and electronic surveillance evidence at FBI headquarters in Washington.

The disclosure came Tuesday at a U.S. District Court hearing in which Teamster Union President James Hoffa and three codefendants are attempting to have their jury tampering convictions overturned.

Attorneys for Hoffa say they hope to use government records to show that eavesdropping in 1964 violated Hoffa's Fourth Amendment rights and contributed to his conviction.

The hearing continues today. Disclosure of the file's existence came Tuesday as Harvey Sitka, lawyer for one of Hoffa's codefendants, cross-examined Hoffa's FBI chief of eavesdropping records, Sitka said.

"Yes," answered Hoffa. "What is it called?" the lawyer continued.

"The June file," Hoffa replied. In other testimony Tuesday, former U.S. Atty. James Neal of Nashville, who aided in the prosecution of Hoffa, said he did not believe the bagging of the car of a star witness against the Teamster boss should be classified as eavesdropping.

Neal said the witness-Boston Rouge Teamster official Edward G. Partin—agreed to have his car bagged. The bagging allowed the government to overhear a conversation between Partin and Edwin King of Nashville, one of Hoffa's codefendants, Neal said.

"To my mind, it wasn't eavesdropping," Neal testified. "I didn't bring it to the attention of the court then, and I wouldn't turn it over to the court now."

Nevertheless, Judge Frank W. Wilson ordered government attorneys to provide him with the original tape and transcript of the recorded conversation.

The Justice Department contends the conversation was not used in prosecuting Hoffa because it didn't contain anything.

Hoffa is currently serving an eight-year sentence. The other three have completed lesser terms.

Think Young NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Detective David Toma first tried to disguise himself with old clothes and a beard but was recognized. So he discarded the beard, changed hats and glasses and a newspaper to pose as a newspaper boy. Then, a police spokesman said, he arrested Hoffa, charged with bookmaking and possession of lottery tickets.

'Maggie' Finds 'Fat Farm' Isn't Quite a 'Funny Farm'

By MAGGIE SAVOY
The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES—Help! I'm a prisoner in a fat farm! Sentenced to seven days of hard labor by a cruel judge who found me guilty of being "Too Much Maggie," I have surrendered my bulky of being any other way.

Good thing I did. Like Ulysses who tied himself to the mast, I couldn't have done it any other way.

Right now I'm so sore I can't touch myself with a powderpuff, so weak I can hardly hit this typewriter, so hungry I'd stagger a mile through the woods to raid an apricot tree if it wouldn't trip the burglar alarm when I open the screen.

I'm in good, if good-looking company. There are 20 of us, in assorted sizes and shapes (four here get gain weight) in the melted and pampered in million-dollar luxury on 800 calories a day.

We're all very good girls. If we had (and the scales will rat on us), we get a gold-encrusted place at next mess hall with the message "one-half" on it.

Lunch today was one-eighth head lettuce, half-inch tuna, two halves boiled egg, one to bluenose Ricotta cheese, all without salt. That was the best course. Also the only course.

Half of that is not to be imagined.

Our days begin at 6:47 a.m. and end all the same (with notable exceptions).

Phone rings in our pink-and-purple luxury room. A voice yodels, "up, up, up!" and we report for duty—a two-mile walk through the halls to the Marine Corps Manual, spot reducing (your choice of half a dozen torture machines), gym (water-cooled Davinci, yoga (taught by a pencil-slim exotic who brings tears to your weary eyes just looking at her), volleyball (played in the pool) and dance (gym set to music).

After dinner (salmon, spinach leaves topped with bits of bacon, four steamed mushrooms, squash, air, flavored with raspberries and called "raspberry fluff"), another walk and then a movie.

You don't go to bed. Bed comes and gets you.

Sunday: I count 278 muscles, all bowing. The only things that don't hurt are my teeth. I recall only because it's forever etched on my mind. My weight in figure (classified information) and my chart, which is marked black where there's "Too Much Maggie."

Monday: I learn the most beautiful words in the English language. "One more time!" Do it once more and you can hit the mat.

On evening walk, spot the apricot tree. Owner, Crabby Dame, stands beside it with a hose aimed balefully at us.

Tuesday: Euphoric sets in. Scale one pound down (half-pot then three stacked).

On Davinci, my fingertips

Leader yells "Let 'em up!" and left leg isn't even there!

First aid from kitchen—two scrambled eggs.

Everybody go to the beach! Walk two miles, singing and yodeling with beloved dictator.

Friday: Venture into boutique—trying all the size 16s. Everything hangs loose! (Groovy!)

Hike past apricot tree, don't even look; hear a bird sing; sit next to weight-gauner at dinner, while she surfs her chocolate ice cream sundae and don't even think first-degree murder, look in mirror at night, really for the first time in years, and celebrate.

Saturday: Hair done, toes, nails, smoothskinned, tanned, all, we weak-go stragglers say goodbye as lifelong friends, even look; hear a bird sing; sit tensions and trials, defied charity horses and hunger pangs.

Most of all, we've gained empathy, not in great surges of other but—in a great surge of confidence with ourselves.

We got those pounds and fish through neglect and self-indulgence. And we lost them through "me-power."

Public Refuses to Believe Inflation Will Slow Down

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Economists of the Nixon administration are using their own brand of jawbone tactics in trying to destroy with words and forecasts an inflationary psychology that remains entrenched.

The jawbone is most readily identified with President Richard B. Johnson, who used it against price increases he felt were unwarranted. The beauty of the tactic was that the threat of action, rather than action itself, got the job done.

Now, a bit agitated by the persistence of inflation despite the relentless campaign against it, and fearful that business and consumers might assume that the slowdown is never coming, the jawbone is again in use.

An address this week by Paul McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, provides a good example.

Speaking to an audience at the University of Wisconsin, McCracken laid it on the line. The administration's restraining policies, he said, "will lead to weaker sales, lower production schedules, reduced employment and diminished profits."

But the increase projected in federal spending... will continue into fiscal 1971.

The surtax will expire or be cut on Jan. 1, 1970.

Wage increases will be larger in 1970 than in 1969.

Capital expenditures will increase in 1970 over 1969 by about 5 per cent.

About all the administration can do to defend its position is to make predictions, to use words, and the words aren't always listened to.

U.S. Business Eyes Peru Talks

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — American businessmen, wary of putting money in Peru after the government took over an oil company there, are expected to keep a close watch on talks in Lima next week.

U.S. officials report American investments in Peru have plunged since the uncompensated expropriation of International Petroleum Co. last October.

The State Department said Tuesday John N. Irwin II, a Wall Street lawyer, is due in Lima on Monday to lead the U.S. delegation in the third in a series of talks with Peruvian officials over the expropriation of IPC, a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Peru, investing considerable political capital in its headline approach, accuses IPC of "illegal enrichment"—a violation of its constitutional provision that only the state may hold title to sub-soil rights. Peru says IPC owes $60.5 million in profits accrued over 44 years.

Peru's President Juan Velasco ordered the takeover knowing the U.S. could strike a stiff blow to Peru's economy if compensation is not provided. A cutoff of U.S. foreign aid is required and purchases of Peruvian sugar could be suspended.

The U.S. has avoided imposing the sanctions. Peru has rejected an IPC appeal of the case and the Irwin mission will discuss alternative approaches to resolve the issue.

The Tuesday night action was unanimous.

At least three mining companies have withheld planned investments. The International Basic Economy Corp. and Sears Roebuck & Co. have scrapped plans for shopping centers. Investors are ignoring Peru's repeated claims that the IPC case is unique and that investment still is welcome.

Subs Muscle-Bound With Polaris Missiles

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-eight of the nation's 41 nuclear-powered Polaris submarines already have missiles capable of carrying three warheads each, Pentagon sources report.

With 16 missiles aboard each sub, this means two-thirds of the Polaris fleet could attack an enemy with 1,344 warheads — that is more than the 1,054 land-based Minuteman missiles.

Key members of Congressional committees have known about the multistaged nature of the Polaris A3 missile for years and it has been a rather open secret in military circles.

But some critics of the Pentagon may choose now to use the A3 as an argument against the administration's proposal for the new generation of weapons called MIRV — multiple re-entry vehicles.

Dr. John S. Foster Jr., the Pentagon's chief scientist, officially confirmed for the first time Tuesday, before a Congressional committee, that the A3 carries more than one bomb. He did not say how many.

Foster contrasted the A3's MIRV — multiple re-entry vehicles — with today's new MIRV by indicating the MIRV system has very little guidance capability. MIRV can hurl warheads in a pattern to one target. MIRV can send bombs to targets accompanied by hundreds of miles.

Foster said the United States turned to development of the MIRV system and other missile penetration aids such as dummy warheads early in this decade to counter potential Soviet missile defenses.

"Since the early 1950s when it became evident that the Soviets were developing ABM (antiballistic missile) technology and appeared to be fielding an ABM, we have deployed both types of penetration aids on our operational missiles," he told the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on national security policy and scientific development.

"Multiple re-entry vehicles are deployed on the existing Polaris A3."

Foster said the United States received indications in 1964 that the Soviets were developing a powerful new missile interceptor, called Galosh, around Moscow. He said it appeared to carry a multiple-megaton warhead and "raised the possibility that one defensive explosive burst could destroy an incoming cluster of 43 warheads."

Defending the newer MIRV concept, Foster declared: "We need a more reliable method of delivering our deception devices and our warheads. We need, essentially, to be able to spread them out in space so that one Soviet defensive nuclear burst cannot destroy several American warheads or a whole cloud of decoys."

Foster said it was decided head 889 missile by contrast, he said, has capabilities "much greater than that" required for a simple MIRV capability.

The United States has been "highly successful" in nine test flights each of the Poseidon and Minuteman III missiles which will be MIRVed, he added.

Crew Postpones Underwater Test

UDINE, Italy (AP) — Seven men and a 17-year-old girl surfaced today after spending the night in a chilly nearby lake, their hopes of living underwater for a month postponed by faulty equipment.

The eight spent eight hours in two pressurized capsules in the Lake of the Three Communes before discovering a mechanism for moving the capsule needed repair.

The eight, plus four other male divers, hoped to be able to return in a day or two to stay for the whole month in the capsules, which are suspended about 100 feet down in the 150-foot-deep lake.

The capsules have beds, telephones, hot stoves and other facilities.

The experiment organizer, Luciano Mecozzi, said the squarish capsules planned to pass the time working at the bottom of the lake, reading and conducting studies inside their submerged homes.

"I'm afraid of caves," she confessed, "I'm waiting for my husband to come out."

"What are you afraid of?" Dill returned, "in case of cave-in you will get a refund."

Sand City Keeps Mayor

SAND CITY, Calif. (AP) — The establishment has beaten off, by a one-sided vote a hip, pie-inspired proposal to recall the mayor and the four city councilmen of this seaside town.

Mayor Phil Calabrese, a millionaire building contractor, called the outcome of Tuesday's election "a good victory for the city."

He called the effort to oust him an attempt by hippies to take over and make the town, a Monterey Bay community of 500, a "new narcotics terminal for the country."

The opposition was headed by Robert M. Lynn, 44, a bearded former teacher who has lived here for two years. He said the mayor ran the town more for business and industry than for people.

Lynn said he didn't mind being called a hippie but that his state was not made up of hippies types and it wouldn't put up with the narcotics traffic any more than the Calabrese administration.

Lynn said his group wanted city government that would clean up the junk-strewn sand dunes, control air pollution from industry and provide parks, recreation and low-cost housing.

Calabrese polled 81 votes to keep the office he has held for nine years. There were 41 votes to oust him, 340 for Lynn as his replacement.

The four councilmen on the mayor's slate also were re-elected by a 2-1 margin in complete unofficial returns totaling 134 votes, including six absentee.

The Orphaned Noble Experiment

One of Japan's professional militarists caught himself saying the other day that "attack is the best defense," and immediately asked that he not be quoted or identified with such a statement.

It was something he, as a general, believed, but not something he was quite ready, yet, to say and defend openly.

Under this Constitution, Japan's military forces must be called "Self-Defense Forces" and Japan's tanks must be called "special vehicles," and its Maritime Self-Defense Force can contain destroyers.

Not only is this Constitution given to Japan by the United States. It also, apparently, envisions a similar arrangement by the Japanese themselves.

There is still, to its credit, a great sector of the Japanese people which doesn't want any part of that military glory Japan tried once, and which remembers, clearly enough, that what other nations called Japanese aggression was, in those days, merely that "attack" which makes the "best defense."

We cannot expect—not even General MacArthur expected—the Japanese to go off by themselves and create a better, more perfect, more sensible world in a new nation enclave.

The heart transplant patient who died last Sunday at the age of 60. The South African dentist, when he died Sunday, had lived in his 60 years, a period of 15 months and 15 days during which he lived by the use, within himself, of the heart of another human being.

It, when the time came for that pioneer and imperfect experiment to wear itself out, the patient himself was managed to take the philosophical question of whether it was all worth while.

It indicates that this borrowed, extra time did indeed seem like life for the individual involved, and that he somehow managed to take the philosophical question of whether it was all worth while.

On the basis of his experience, then, the ultimate goal of the heart transplant science will not be abandoned. It will continue striving toward the achievement of a heart which need never fail and need never trigger death, just as our space science, having now stood for a few moments on the moon, will continue striving toward our capacity for infinite, no-limit journeys into space.

Some of us may question whether it is really worth while getting to the moon, or really worth while going through the anguish of trying to arrange it so that hearts never stop beating.

By the testimony of those who have been out there farthest in both directions, it is worth while. In any case, it is worth while to try to do what it can do. Some of us may think we personally would never want any part of perpetual life extended out into spatial infinity. He closed his eyes and to it, the least result, perhaps, our instinct to reject it.

The sudden thing about the state's increase in Blue Cross rates is that no increase in the cost of health and hospital insurance has been announced. And there is no significant indication that the cost is anywhere in sight.

That despite the arrival of sanity in the course of the past few years, the course of Japan now has 1,000 more defense planes as compared to 200 before World War II, and will soon have more. The same United States which once dictated pacifism to Japan has for some time been encouraging Japanese rearmament. And the same Japan which once seemed pleasantly meek and receptive to the American presence and influence has been making inevitable progress toward inactivating rearmament.

An ironic element in that increase has been that every forward-looking reform for easing the sometimes catastrophic burden on illness for low- and middle-income families—Medicare, Medicaid, health insurance—Medicaid has had the perverse effect of causing the upsurge in overall costs.

Even with this astronomical rise, many hospitals are in acute financial difficulty, a fact made graphic by the warning that Knickerbocker Hospital, serving patients and the Upper West Side, is in danger of bankruptcy and that, ten other voluntary hospitals in this city are almost as badly off. All of which indicates that high demands for municipal or state takeover of financial responsibility represent no easy way out of the existing morass.

Certainly, it would help to integrate the present crazy quilt of public and private health insurance systems into coherent entity. It would also help to orient all New Yorkers to greater reliance on preventive and out-patient health facilities as a means of lessening the expensive misuse of hospital beds that now approach $10 a day in cost even for curative service. And there is need for much more speed in instituting the right cost controls supposedly required by the hospital law the legislature passed last year.

With the heart transplant, it is as if it is going to the moon. We may ask, after it is accomplished and over, whether it was worth the while and the effort and the expense of various kinds. But we can't stop ourselves from trying it and doing it.

SOUVENIR OF WINTER Photographed by Sylvia Odan

Inside Report

by Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON — Purposely omitted from the official minutes of the Aug. 11 closed-door meeting here by the Democratic party's national executive committee was a carefully plotted move by Sen. Fred Harris, the Democratic National Chairman, of long-range significance in internal party affairs.

In the closing moments of an uneventful meeting, Harris asked the absence of commercial traffic on Burnham St. in the Democratic (YD) and the (supposed) chief of the National Committee's youth division, Oliver, was traveling somewhere around the world, Harris grumbled, and consequently missed the first executive committee meeting since January.

That gave Harris the opening for his pitch. He expressed dissatisfaction with the job Oliver and the YDs are doing in attacking youth. Therefore, he proposed that the committee's youth division henceforth be operated by the National Chairman, an entity wholly independent of the YDs.

That brought smiles from the executive committee members, particularly those such as Louisiana's Marshall Rosen, troubled by insurgent YD force. Nor has the fact that Oliver is inside on a larger YD role in the party affairs endeared him to party elders.

To the Editor, A few nights ago I was walking my dog. In the process I was accosted by a drunk who threatened to kick me unless I crossed the street. This I refused to do. He became very abusive and cursed and used profane language (four letter words) and by gesture and words threatened me physically.

I had no fear for myself as I have studied Judo and had this person attacked I would have been free to protect myself with resultant injury to him. Had this happened he would have undoubtedly been badly injured and I would have had the problem of a charge of assault with the ensuing problem of a court case.

Fortunately I was able to bully this person into leaving without the result of using force. After reading of two murders in N.Y. through public apathy and countless incidents of violence and robbery I am understanding why our crime rate is so high.

I only hope that this man and woman on Maple St. may some day need help and have it given them, rather than have a door closed in their face. I can't help but wonder what a door closed in their face. I can't help but wonder what a door closed in their face. I can't help but wonder what a door closed in their face.

Caribbean Council of Wise Men Will Chart Anguilla's Future

Editor's Note: This article was written for The Associated Press by a noted U.S. broadcaster who is in Anguilla.

ANGUILLA (AP)—Remember Anguilla, the island in the Caribbean whose leader caught the ear of the world with his cry for independence? Eight months ago headlines paid heed to the moonstruck islander who roared like a lion.

Then the world forgot, or at least forgot the tiny island, its 4,000 people, and its 35 square miles of scrubbrush and poverty.

I have just revisited Anguilla. I have talked with the self-styled president, Ronald Webster, and the British officials who were sent to the island, and who took it over with paratroopers in March. They are the people who replaced the Webster vigilantes, the Anguillians who patrolled the beaches against visitors.

Anguilla revisited as a voyage of discovery. The discovery of a new Anguilla, whose leader has abandoned his cry of total independence and now accepts a "constitutional union" with the British Commonwealth as good or better than any other.

The British government has persuaded the independence-minded associated states of the Caribbean to act in concert. They are the same governments whose leaders asked the British to take over.

They have all agreed that a Caribbean commission of wise men, independent of government, would recommend a future course for the tiny island.

The British have guaranteed that Anguilla will never have to sign again under constitutional arrangements unless the Caribbean states asked British in February to restore British troops, small squads of helicopter and tractor troops.

The British government has tried to repeat 20 years of neglect of Anguilla, neglect by both Britain and the Britishdoms. A system of direct aid now bypasses the treasury of St. Kitts-Nevis-Anguilla.

The voters of Covey have a right to know all the pertinent facts and must continue to be kept informed. It is more important that colorizing be restricted to citizens rather than trying to minimize the concerns expressed by laxing citizens.

Sincerely, Doug Walker

Poll Shows Most Catholics Want to Retain Holy Days

NEW YORK (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church, in an opinion poll of its American members, has learned the laity wanted to keep Mass attendance on holy days, church officials said.

The poll, which was conducted by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops in November, found that 70 percent of the laity wanted to keep Mass attendance on holy days, church officials said.

"This is the first time the national membership has been polled on a question of church policy," Diocese officials said.

"The people seem to be saying, 'Hold the horses,'" said Bishop Aloysius J. Wydasco of Green Bay, Wis., in charge of the poll. He emphasized that it was only his impression after a preliminary check of the results. Final results will be presented to the semi-annual meeting of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops in November.

used in other matters, but it could set an example."

The bishops' adviser found themselves divided on the question of Mass attendance on the holy days not falling on Sunday and decided to seek churchwide opinion.

The five holy days involved, under the current law, are the Octave of Christmas or the Solemnity of Mary on Jan. 1; the Ascension of Christ, 40 days after Easter; the Assumption of Mary, Aug. 15; All-Saints Day, Nov. 1 and the Immaculate Conception of Mary, Dec. 8.

A sixth holy day, Christmas, was not involved, and will remain a feast of Mass obligation.

ruling Congress party's right-wing leadership after it rejected Giri, a 75-year-old trade unionist who was her candidate for the nomination. Defeat for Giri would give a big boost to party leaders who are tuning up a campaign to replace the woman prime minister. A victory for Giri, however, would be a big victory for her and give her the control of the party she has long sought.

If no candidate has a majority in the end of the count, second preference votes that the electors cast will be used to determine the winner.

Dead Housed in High Rises As Their Numbers Grow

By SEVYON JOH
 Associated Press Writer
 TOKYO (AP) — Land in postwar Japan is so scarce and so priceless that even the dead cannot be left to rot in peace.

In the major Japanese cities old cemeteries, some time-honored landmarks, are making way for ultra-modern structures, super highways and other products of an electronically oriented society.

The graves are being reburied in modern buildings described as "apartments for the dead."

A Buddhist temple in Kyoto, ancient capital of central Japan, and another in Nagano, in western Japan, to name a few, have set up locker-like cells inside modern depositaries to house the urns.

One of the latest of these buildings is the 10-story Ito-ko Temple in Tokyo, a non-religious cemetery building to replace a 300-year old graveyard that had to give way to a super highway that cut across the temple yard.

"We felt sorry having to disturb the dead, some buried in ancestral plots here for more than 300 years," said Koho Yano, superintendent of the temple. "But we figured the dead would understand our difficulties and the changing times."

The building, which neighbors call "weight tower," has about 270 "locker houses" or closets, in addition to compartments for the 8,000 dead moved from the old graveyards.

Best for a locker house ranges from about 10,000 yen ($61 to 200,000 yen—$139) for permanent ownership.

"I cannot say the house can be described as spacious," Yano said, "but then, the people who want to rest here after they die are mostly city folk used to living in small crowded houses."

A middle-aged visitor who said he had his grandparents "living in the apartment" said he would like to be one of the residents when he dies because "it is cleaner and quieter than out there with all that traffic and noise."

Resident he added, the monks take "good care of you" if your relatives can afford to pay only 5,000 yen to 7,000 yen a year.

Yano said that all 270 locker houses are filled or booked already and that the temple plans to enlarge the building because the population of the dead is on the rise.

Yano said that some 100,000 people want to be buried in the

Thirty-Nine Car Horns Join Sound-Light Show

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — They're orchestrating 20 sky-scrapers, a Moog Synthesizer, the City Hall and 39 car horns tonight in a first thing described as a light-sound show.

The civic spectacle is the brain child of Paul Crowley, a 37-year-old artist-producer who says it will be "a great free trip for everybody."

The sound, to be broadcast by three radio stations, will emanate from the Synthesizer, which is an electronic music-maker, and the horns of 39 automobiles ranged around it atop 30-foot Twin Peaks, in the center of the city.

Harpichordist Marguerite Fauriol will play a work by composer Robert Moran called "Thirty Nine Autos for Thirty Nine Minutes." Technicians in the skyscrapers, including the new 35-story building of America, will flash the lights to call it.

Cotter To Set Hearing On Blue Cross Rate Hike

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — basic costs such as increased payroll and the expense of advances in medical technology scheduled to explain its reasons for asking for a 25 per cent rate increase in its group health insurance program.

The increase would be the second within five months and is required by rising hospital costs and a Connecticut state assessment against members, a Blue Cross spokesman said.

State Insurance Commissioner William Cotter, who received the rate-hike request Tuesday, said he would set a hearing date after he had given thorough review of the application.

No increases were requested in direct-pay membership plans Blue Cross-66, which supplements Medicare.

The nonprofit health care plan increased its group rates 26 per cent just last April. A spokesman said the rate increase fell 84 million short of meeting the amount Blue Cross paid for hospital care in the first half of 1969.

"We don't like it," said the spokesman, "but we have no choice under present circumstances but to ask for rate relief."

The last rate hike prior to last April was in 1961.

Skyrocketing hospital costs were again blamed for the needed increases. Blue Cross projections indicated the average cost of a nonmaternity patient is expected to reach $100 per day by December.

In addition, records for the first six months of this year show that room and board charges are up 20 per cent followed by a 10 per cent rise in hospital special services which Blue Cross pays, regardless of cost.

Compounding the problem, the spokesman said, is a new 2 per cent assessment levied by the state of Connecticut on membership dues retroactive to Jan. 1, 1969. As of July 31, this charge amounted to more than $1 million.

"Although Blue Cross has been able to stretch members' health care dollars in the past by encouraging more efficient use of hospital services and hospital cost controls," said the spokesman, "it is evident that we have no control over

Wanted Man Hid in Well

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — A man wanted on a charge of robbing a gas station hid three weeks in a 12-foot-deep dry well.

During the night he shot rabbits and ground logs with a bow and arrow and cooked the meat on a stove in the well, police said.

Finally John Henry Cranmer, 31, of Lancaster, was spotted by a neighbor as he climbed down a ladder to his subterranean home, officers said.

Cranmer is now in the Lancaster County prison in default of $6,000 bail. Police said the well was 16 feet long and 8 feet wide.

Snipers Kill Four Victims In Georgia

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Mysterious shotgun snipers have killed four men and wounded a fifth in a series of seemingly unmotivated attacks in various sections of Atlanta in less than two months, police say.

In addition, there have been a number of near misses.

"We think there is a possibility these cases all may be connected," homicide Lt. E. F. McKillop said today. "But we're not completely sure."

There are a number of similarities, including the lack of motive, but not enough to establish a definite link.

"As far as we can tell, there was no apparent reason for any of them."

He said police have determined that none of the victims was acquainted with another.

The slain men include Marshall Eugene Gibson, 28, Atlanta; Larry Jackson Hurley, 16, Chatsahoo, Ala.; Daniel Andrew Duke, 22, Atlanta; and Thomas Paul Vines, 24, Douglasville, Ga.

John L. Grier, a 34-year-old driver for the Atlanta Transit Co., has been seriously wounded.

Outer space was theme of reading program and party at Rockville Junior Library.

Rockville Reading Program Ends with a Party

The latest near miss occurred Monday.

Police said three men in a white automobile opened fire with a shotgun at a construction company guard but took flight when he returned their fire.

Similarities in the attacks include these facts: All the victims were white; the shootings all occurred at night, and in each case a shotgun was used.

Police say it would have been impossible for the snipers to plot all the attacks in advance.

"One of the men was on his way home," McKillop said. "He was walking, not at his usual time nor on his usual route."

The series of attacks began July 2 when Gibson was killed by a shotgun blast near his home. Highway was found dead July 8 and Duke July 20.

Vines was killed Aug. 15, just a month after being fired as a security guard by the Metropolitan Bureau of Investigation.

Grier was wounded 24 hours later.

Some investigating officers have speculated that the shootings may have been motivated by racial hatred, but no evidence has been documented to support the theory.

Virginia Gets Heavy Rainfall

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Torrential rains swamped parts of Virginia today as the northeastern remnants of Hurricane Camille spilled onto the eastern seaboard.

Right to a inches of rain poured onto the western Virginia town of Clifton Forge, north of Roanoke, nearly all of it since Tuesday afternoon. Forty persons were evacuated because of high waters.

U.S. 60 was under water and impassable east of Clifton Forge and in Shenandoah, some 20 miles to the east. Secondary roads were reported blocked with landslides, bridge washouts and high water in five central Virginia counties.

The rains raged northward over West Virginia into Pennsylvania and east into Delaware, though generally in lighter amounts of 1 to 1 1/2 inches.

There has been little letup in rain which have soaked an area extending the length of Mississippi, through western Tennessee, Kentucky and across the Virginias.

Scattered thunderstorms dumped an area from the southern high plains of Texas and New Mexico into Iowa. A tornado slipped into open country northwest of Alnsworth, Neb., but there was no damage.

Generally fair and dry weather prevailed through most other sections of the nation.

Temperatures in the 70s and 80s across the southern half of the country overnight, ranged down to the 50s and 60s, with occasional 40s in the northern half.

Readings before dawn indicated 40 at Pellston, Mich., and 32 at Byrthe, Calif.

Watts Bumpers Los Culprits

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Everywhere you look in Watts these days, you see a car bumper sticker saying, "Another Family Against Crime."

Eventually, the more sensitive burglars and stickup men may get the idea that they are unpopular in the predominantly Negro area torn by massive rioting in 1968.

And that, says the Rev. Claude Evans of Truth Baptist church, is precisely the idea.

The purpose of the stickers, he says, is to "show the criminal the community won't tolerate him."

Within three weeks, 10,000 of the stickers have been distributed to residents of the Watts area. This week, 12,000 more are available at Los Angeles police stations and neighborhood churches.

The slogan was the brainchild of a committee composed of police officers, the Rev. Mr. Evans and members of his church.

"The congregation," he says, "wants to do something to bring down the crime rate. We decided the stickers might be a way to do it."

"The stickers show a healthy attitude," says Police Lt. Don Briggs. "The only way to beat crime is for citizens and police to work together."

Asked why a bumper sticker was chosen to make the point, the minister said:

"It's psychological, really. A sticker in a car shows the driver is alert and ready to do anything to stop a criminal."

The first run of stickers—about 3,000, all handed out in 3 days—were printed at a cost of $275, most of it donated by police. Since then private groups have begun providing funds for the bumper campaign.

Woonsocket Plant

Woonsocket, R.I. (AP)—Univoyal, Inc. disclosed Tuesday plans to close its Woonsocket plant for economic reasons, a move that would idle some 800 workers.

A company official in New York said no date has been set for the closing.

The official said the closing would take six or more months to complete, and added that only the Univoyal board of directors could reverse the decision.

The disclosure was a shock to union and city officials, although the possibility of a closing had been rumored in recent weeks.

Company, union and city officials were pessimistic about the chances for the decision being reversed.

Haynsworth's Record Rips 'Segregationist' Tag from Him

By MARK BROWN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Judge Clement F. Haynsworth finds "no single thread of consistency" running through the decisions he has handed down as chief judge of the 4th U.S. Court of Appeals.

That self-appraisal by President Nixon's choice for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court appears to be borne out by an examination of his rulings over 12 years of the federal bench.

Despite an outcry by civil rights leaders—one said Monday that Haynsworth is "hard-core segregationist"—the judge once ordered the North Carolina Dental Society to admit a Negro practitioner to membership.

He upheld a lower court decision releasing black militant H. Rap Brown to the custody of his lawyer, but also refused to remove restrictions on Brown's movement while under bond.

Haynsworth, who was named to his present position during a period of rapid civil rights advancement by the Supreme Court, showed a reluctance to pioneer from the bench.

In two Virginia school desegregation cases, he ruled in favor of a so-called freedom of choice plan to assign pupils to schools. One of the rulings later was overturned by the Supreme Court.

He wrote the majority opinion in a 3-2 decision which held that state criminal cases involving civil rights workers could not go to federal court without a trial first in a state court. The decision was upheld by the Supreme Court.

But in other cases, Haynsworth ruled that the burden of proving lack of discrimination rests with school boards, not those Negroes bringing suit. That teacher assignments cannot be made on the basis of race, met all qualifications could not be denied membership on the staff of an all-white hospital.

In criminal cases, his rulings set some 4th District precedents in the area of mental illness and habeas corpus.

"Many defendants who are originally irresponsible need psychiatric care and guidance and many of those may be far better prospects for substantial improvement and complete rehabilitation than most of those found to be criminally responsible," he wrote.

One habeas corpus decision allows a convicted criminal sentenced to state prisons to seek judicial review of his case in federal court prior to actual confinement.

In a civil case involving the Central Intelligence Agency, Haynsworth upheld the right of that agency to invoke governmental privilege to withhold information as in "the national interest."

The CIA was accused of defaming an Estonian emigrant whom it had branded as an informant as in "the national interest."

The CIA's action, Haynsworth wrote, seemed to be "demanded by the national interest, notwithstanding the devastating impact of the warning upon the one thus accused of espionage."

Vernon Atty. Frank McCoy Endorsed For Mayor by Republicans

Atty. Frank McCoy will lead the Republican ticket in the November election. He was endorsed unanimously at the caucus held last night as a candidate for mayor.

Incumbent Mayor John E. Grant announced at a press conference yesterday morning that he was bowing out of the picture for physical and financial reasons. He seconded the motion for McCoy.

McCoy has been a member of the Board of Representatives for two two-year terms. He is a member of the Recreation Commission, former attorney for the Fire District, a graduate of Yale and the University of Connecticut. He has his own law practice in Vernon.

In accepting the nomination, McCoy said he did so with humility. He said four years ago, before he ran for the board, he had no political aspirations.

McCoy commented he hoped he and his fellow candidates continue the example of Grant's action as an effective and accomplished administrator and urged all terminated campaign as did administration and urged all

Bolton Interest Rate Up 3/4 % On Taxes Due

Tax collector Mrs. Marilyn Moonan reminds taxpayers that the tax interest rate is three-quarters of one per cent per month. This interest is charged on delinquent taxes from July 1 to the end of the month. Anyone who is paying taxes at this time will be charged one and a half per cent interest; or three quarters of one per cent for the months of July and August. At the end of this month a notice will be sent to the Motor Vehicle Department of all delinquent taxpayers regarding the amount still owed. Car registration will not be issued until these taxes are paid in full, including interest.

Mrs. Moonan explained that the interest is applied first, and that many people still owe a small amount in taxes. Starting Sept. 1, the interest will go up another notch and delinquent taxes will be subject to a total interest rate of 2 1/2 per cent.

Anyone who has any questions may call the tax collector's office between 9:30 and 1 on Monday, Wednesday, Friday, or Saturday.

Next week the tax collector's office will be closed Aug. 25, 27, and 29, but it will be open Aug. 30.

Wants Viet Deadline
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The national commander of the American Legion says the United States should impose a deadline on its efforts to de-escalate the Vietnam war.

And, if the deadline is not met, William C. Doyle said he feels the veterans' organization he heads will endorse full rearmament of U.S. military efforts to "get it over with."

Doyle made the comments Tuesday in an airport news conference. He was here in connection with the annual American Legion convention which begins Friday.

Miss Margold agrees it's awful. "I cried when I read it through." She's an intelligent girl of 25 with a BA and BS. She could have posed as Penelope Ashe, the fictional author of the book, but turned the part down when she discovered the kind of quote she was supposed to give to the press: e.g., "A writer's got to impale his guts on the typewriter."

None of the Newday people thought the idea would take off. "We did it for kicks. It was marvelous therapeutic stuff for the guys working out their erotic fantasies. When it did come out I couldn't let anyone know I had a part in it. Then I told my father, and my brother or let the book near his house. POMPEII, Italy — The 2,000-year-old ruins of Pompeii face a new threat unrelated to the Vesuvian eruption that killed one resident in 12. Weeds damage the ruins, and officials in charge of Italy's antiquities do not have the funds to pay men to remove them.

Democrats Face Contests?

Mahoney Said Ready To Seek Board Seat

A surprise last-minute development for tonight's meeting of the Manchester Democratic Town Committee indicates that backers of State Rep. Francis J. Mahoney, with his permission, may place his name in nomination for endorsement for the Board of Directors.

The meeting is at 8 in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

Mahoney, a former director of the Board of Education are in from the board on Dec. 21, incumbents Beldon H. Schaffer, prior to being sworn in as a Dr. Walter M. Schardt and state legislator. He was succeeded on the board by Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Phyllis Jackson and Robert Penn.

Reports are that Mahoney was not happy during the five months the State Assembly met, and that he would like to get back on the Manchester board. He was kept busy these five months traveling between his Hamilton Standard job in Windsor Locks and his desk at the State Capitol.

Reports are that the town committee's nominating committee will present the names of three incumbents and three newcomers for endorsement for the Board of Directors.

The incumbents are Mrs. LeDuc, Anthony Pietrantonio and Atty. William Fitzgerald. The newcomers are Frank Stambler, a former town director; James Bayliss, a retired U. S. Army lieutenant colonel; and Richard Wylie, an assistant professor of education at the University of Connecticut.

Incumbent Town Clerk Edward Tomblin will be endorsed for re-election, but a contest may develop for a candidate for town treasurer.

The nominating committee reportedly will offer the name of Mrs. Paul (Ruth) Tucker of 457 E. Center St., a housewife, for town treasurer. Reports also are that Atty. Dominic Aquarini, a leader of the Manchester Caucus of Connecticut Democrats, will nominate Jerome

David Hagenow May Be Luckiest Boy in World

Double-lucky is David Hagenow of 66 Maple St. who discovered an eight-leaf clover. Most people consider themselves lucky if they find a four-leaf clover, but to young Hagenow, that's old hat. During the one year that he's been collecting clovers as a hobby, David has found over 200 four-leaf clovers and 60 five-leaf clovers. In this photo by Al Bucevich, you can see all eight leaves if you look very carefully; some are partially concealed behind other leaves. David is the son of Mrs. Helen Hagenow and attends Harmony Hill School in Rhode Island.

Stamps In the News

By BYD KRONHEIM
AP Newsman
There never was a doubt in the minds of U.S. postal officials that the astronauts would accomplish their fantastic feat of reaching the moon.
Not only was a special air mail prepared for the occasion, but a die proof of the stamp, attached to an envelope, was taken to the moon and hand-cancelled there by "moonwalkers" Neil Armstrong and Edwin A. Aldrin.
Production of the master die used to print the commemorative moon landing stamp was carried out in great secrecy by the Post Office Department and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing with the approval of President Nixon.
The design, by Paul Calle of Stamford, Conn., was drawn as if the artist had been there in person. A spaceman emerging from the module is pictured on the stamp, and in the background, to the right, is the earth. Across the bottom is the inscription "First Man on the Moon." The horizontal stamp is printed in red, white, blue and brown.
The latest arrival to jambo size—10 x 1 1/2 inches—collectors desiring first-day cancellations may send addressed envelopes, together with remittances to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Washington, D.C. 20013. The outside envelope should be endorsed "First Day Covers for First Man on the Moon Stamp."
Remember that this is an oversized stamp—each pane will contain 32 instead of the usual 20 stamps—so address your covers low and as far to the left as possible. Send for them right away!

Additional news from the U.S. Post Office Department reveals that it has produced an album containing all special stamps issued in 1969 for $2.
The album holds 28 stamps with a brief description of each stamp. On the deep olive green cover is the embossed seal of the Post Office Department.
Collectors may order by mail from the Philatelic Sales Unit, City Post Office, Washington, D.C. 20013. Send an additional 50 cents for postage and handling charges.
Instant geography, through which youngsters are motivated to learn the names of different nations and their locations, is being taught with the use of stamps, reports the Hobby Industry Association of America.
Here's how it works. Students are assigned to write letters to the postmasters of various countries, sending U.S. stamps in exchange for stamps of that country. As the foreign stamps come in, they are pasted over the geographic nation on a map of the world.
One claim in Los Angeles even devised a method of making the program self-supporting. Since they usually receive more stamps than needed, the youngsters sell them to the local hobby or stamp shop.

Swims to Freedom
LITZBEEK, Germany (AP) — A former member of East Germany's Olympic swimming team escaped to West Germany Monday by swimming 12 miles across the Baltic Sea, police reported today.
Mithauer, 19, was plucked off a buoy in the Bay of Lubeck by a ferryboat Monday after swimming out to sea from a camping area on the East German coast, police said.
Mithauer told police he had climbed on the buoy to rest when a ferry crossing from Lubeck to West Germany spotted him and took him aboard.
He told police he fled to the West because officials expelled him from the East German Olympic swim team for maintaining friendships with West German athletes.

Book Review

MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR. By Don McKee. Putnam. $2.95.

McKee's biography of the civil rights leader is a straightforward account of King's career. It details the many confrontations with which he was associated, beginning with the Montgomery bus strike. After that there were the lunch counter sit-ins, the Freedom Riders case in Albany, Ga., the turmoil in Birmingham, the march on Washington, the conflicts in St. Augustine, Fla., and Selma, Ala., and the efforts to create a civil rights campaign in Chicago.

King's work with the Southern Christian Leadership Conference is described, along with his lobbying efforts, his visits abroad, his winning of the Nobel prize. There are frequent quotations from his speeches and writings.

The author also tells about the areas in which King was at odds with other civil rights leaders. Statements against the Vietnam war, as irrelevant to the civil rights issue; his disagreement with the black militant, disapproval of the idea of black power and its slogan of non-violence.

The book is aimed at juvenile readers. Naturally, therefore, it has been streamlined to tell the narrative in simple terms. But adult readers may also find it an interesting human, factual and uncomplicated, of King's life.

LOVE IN ATLANTIS. By H. L. Barrett. Houghton, Mifflin. $4.95.

A novel about a young girl going through her first love for boys—when she was 14 and then 15—this is something from the nostalgia department.

For its period is the Depression days of the 1930s, when presumably young girls will still blush and get confused over what the boys were saying to them, and get worked up over dating and kissing.

The scene is a coastal town in Southern California, and the story is written from the perspective of a forty-year-old woman recalling the tender moods of her teenage days.

Killed in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department announced Tuesday that Marine Lance Cpl. Alan W. Mediate, son of Mrs. Louise Daily, Riverside, Conn., has been killed in action in Vietnam.

The heroine is Virginia. Her first crush was a callow youth named Kenny Peach, of all names! It was an awkward but glistening, and before long Kenny didn't count any more, because he turned into a fat slob.

There also was a lifeguard named Shinto, but he was more like a brother or a cousin, so he didn't count either.

Then came Dwayne, who was older than the years because he had a lot of odd jobs to support his family. Virginia's main thrill on her dates with Dwayne amounted to helping him with his paper route.

It all comes down to the fact that—at least in the 1930s—a naive teenage girl's first crushes were bound to turn into hollow frustrations.

The novel is competently written and sustains a note of bitter-

Juror Refuses Haircut

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—A juror and a judge are at odds over a verdict in a hairy case that never got to court.

Douglas Orwart, 23, said he shaved up for jury duty Monday and was told to go out and get a haircut and come back to day.

Judge R. Sumner Shetty said he told Orwart, a salesman, "you will not sit on any of my juries unless you put on a coat and get your hair cut."

"Perhaps it may have been because of my former Marine Corps training, but the hair was long enough that it was repulsive to me," Judge Shetty said.

Orwart promised he would be back at the courthouse today minus the haircut and said he planned to have an American Civil Liberties Union lawyer in tow because "this action is a violation of my civil rights."

'Ton of Bodies' Found After Storm

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — Rescue teams at nearby Pass Christian located "a ton of bodies" since daylight today in scouring the wreckage left by Hurricane Camille.

The report came from Cecil Yarbo, special assistant to Mississippi Gov. John Bell Williams. The governor flew immediately to Pass Christian from his emergency headquarters.

Camille's death toll on the coast had been estimated at 230 before the report from Pass Christian today.

"I can give you no exact number," Williams said when asked about the number killed by the hurricane's 190 mile an hour winds and swamping tides. "I can safely say it's over 200. How many more, goodness only knows."

The Seabee battalion directing the rescue and cleanup operation in Pass Christian, about 15 miles west of Gulfport, had reported finding "many more bodies in trees, under roofs, in bushes, everywhere" Wednesday.

Camille's estimated toll stood at 283 today counting those killed when the hurricane lashed the Louisiana coast Sunday night and victims from flooding in Virginia and West Virginia.

The drag of land tamed her 200 mile an hour winds to bumper-strength soon after she curved inland but her heavy rains set off murderous flash floods in Virginia and West Virginia Wednesday. Officials said 38 already had drowned in Virginia, 2 in West Virginia.

Previously 10 storm dead were reported in Louisiana and 3 in Cuba.

The National Hurricane Center at Miami said Camille's low pressure also had steered Hurricane Debbie, whose 125 m.p.h. winds were far out in the Atlantic, into an ominous turn toward Bermuda.

Camille smashed into the southeastern edge of Louisiana and Mississippi's coast Sunday night. Since then, rescue work has been slow.

"We are finally seeing the light," said Williams. "We finally got some communications set up. This was the biggest problem."

In this port city of 33,000 and in Biloxi, a city of 48,000 some 10 miles to the east, the city water systems were pumping

New Storm Looms; Eyes Bermuda

MIAMI (AP) — Hurricane Debbie, apparently untroubled by man's efforts to tame her, aimed her 110 m.p.h. fury at Bermuda today while her killer cousin Camille drew new life from warm ocean waters north of the British Isles.

The remains of Camille, called the worst hurricane to hit the U. S. mainland, roared to tropical storm intensity after moving off the Middle Atlantic coast. By early today Camille packed top winds of 66 m.p.h. Weathermen said chances she would again reach hurricane force were 50-50.

At 6 a.m., EDT, Camille was (See Page Eight)

Death Toll Rises In Virginia Floods

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Ravaged towns in western Virginia's Blue Ridge foothills counted a rising toll of dead today, and the Weather Bureau said it would crest at 34 feet at the city wharf by 10 p.m. EDT. That is 28 feet above flood stage and 22 feet above the dock.

City officials put crews to work building sandbag barriers to protect the lower-lying areas, not far from the downtown section.

Property damage in the areas flooded Wednesday was estimated initially at more than $11 million.

Virginia Gov. Mills K. Godwin Jr., state Civil Defense officials, representatives of the State Highway Department, the Federal Small Business Administration and the National Office of Emergency Preparedness planned an aerial survey to size up the damage and the most immediate needs.

In West Virginia, Richwood in Monongahela National Forest and nearby Anjan were designated disaster areas by Gov. Arch A. Moore. He ordered hundreds of National Guardsmen into the flood-torn valleys of the Greenbrier, Gauley and Cherry rivers.

Thirteen of Virginia's known dead and 23 of the missing were in the tiny community of Massie Mill on the Tyre River in Nelson County. The eleven small-pox victims were (See Page Eleven)

Head-On Train Crash Kills Four, Injures 35

DARIEN, Conn. (AP) — Four persons, including three train crewmen, were killed in a head-on train collision Wednesday night, Penn Central Railroad officials said today.

Firemen and railroad workers labored past dawn to remove the last bodies from the wreckage.

Thirty-five persons were treated for injuries, and three were hospitalized.

One of those killed was the engineer of a commuter train heading north from Stamford. The dead engineer of the northbound train (N-8) was identified as Frank Hojanski, 42, Stamford.

Listed by the railroad as subsiding were the flagman of both trains, Harry Vesey of Stamford, and Eugene Chaney, West Haven.

No further identifications were immediately available, a railroad spokesman said.

A statement issued by the railroad, not mentioning any crewmen by name, blamed the wreck on "apparent man failure on the part of the crew" of the northbound train.

The preliminary investigation shows that N-8, a 3-car passenger train, departed Stamford at 10:55 p.m. and was headed for New Canaan, 10 miles from its way to storage at 11:00 p.m.

"Train N-8 did not stop and enter the siding as ordered, but continued on past the entrance of the siding and also passed the point at which the train was to be held until notified by telephone that the track was clear," the report said. "The train was held at 300 yards north of the siding" the railroad statement said.

The engineer of the empty southbound train, Edward May, was clear to proceed, but was struck by the sidings and the state of Alex Hackley, 24, in the wreckage of the leading train. (See Page Eight)

Arabs Seek Revenge: Accuse U.S., Israel

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Arab radio stations in the Middle East blamed Israel today for the fire that destroyed part of the sacred Al Aqsa Mosque in Old Jerusalem and called for violent retaliation.

The United States was labeled an accomplice.

Though Israeli authorities expressed shock and regret at the burning of the mosque, the Arabs were preparing for a pitched battle with the Israelis, despite a curfew in the city.

Radio Voice of the Arabs from Cairo, beamed to Arabs every "deeply moved" by the blaze, sent a "highly important" message to kings and presidents of Arab and Moslem countries. Its contents were not revealed.

The monarch's great-grandfather, Sheriff Hussein of Mecca, was buried in the Al Aqsa compound, though not in the Mosque itself.

Jordanian Prime Minister Bakjat Talhouni charged that the Israeli government "is completely responsible for this act."

He said Jordan was taking "necessary steps" to deal with the situation.

Jordan lost the Old City to Israel in the 1967 Middle East war.

There was no immediate reaction from Baghdad radio in Iraq where two Jews among 12 defendants facing trial on charges of spying for Israel.

Arabs found it credible that the Israelis were the culprits because of recurring reports in Arab newspapers that the Israelis want to rebuild Solomon's Temple.

The temple once stood atop the compound which now encompasses Al Aqsa Mosque and the nearby Dome of the Rock shrine. Israeli excavations beneath the walls of the compound were regarded by the press as confirmation of these reports.

Beirut radio said initial reaction strengthened belief that Israel would try to replace the mosque with a temple.

When the flames erupted, anti-Israel demonstrations broke out around the city's 60,000 Arabs and Israeli security forces had to fire shots in the air to disperse them.

Prime Minister Golda Meir, expressing sorrow and regret, called for an official investigation. But first reports said she had to investigate the break-out around the city's 60,000 Arabs and Israeli security forces had to fire shots in the air to disperse them.

The UN Oil City was put under tight curfew, he was walking guard by heavily armed troops.

All tourists and other visitors were ordered out of the Arab quarter. Shop doors stayed down in protest and fear.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan and other top army officers arrived to investigate the break-out which destroyed the southeast part of the mosque, sacred throughout the Moslem world.

"This is very, very sad," said a tall-haired imam (priest) standing in blackened water from fire hoses.

One fire truck actually drove into the high-tension power lines. (See Page Eight)

Laird Announces Troop, Money Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird today announced new Pentagon spending cuts of $1.5 billion including a 100,000-man reduction in the armed forces.

He warned frankly that "these cuts will reduce our capability to meet current commitments."

Laird said he will strive to make sure the reductions "have the least possible impact on our readiness, but I want all the American people to know that the Pentagon will not be weakening our worldwide military posture."

Along with the reduction in military strength, more than 50,000 civilian personnel will be laid off.

The projected military manpower reduction will leave the nation with about 1.3 million troops.

The Army will cut its non-combat operations. (See Page Eight)

Riot Troopers Halt Czech Demonstration

PRAGUE (AP) — Police and riot troopers made repeated tear gas and nightstick attacks today to break up a giant "Russians go home" demonstration here on the first anniversary of the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia.

The chanting and horn-blowing demonstration was permitted to run for 40 minutes before the police and army riot units fired tear gas and moved in to crack the crowd of about 80,000 in downtown Wenceslav Square.

By midnight, the square had been cleared more effectively than at any time in three days of tumult over the invasion anniversary. The government announced that two persons had been killed, many wounded and more than 320 arrested in rioting Wednesday night.

A few minutes later, the great crowd surged back through the square to the opposite end, where from nearly every vehicle in the dense midtown traffic.

This was according to a police spokesman. (See Page Eight)

U.S. Troops Kill 100 Cong At Da Nang

BAGNONG (AP) — Three companies of U.S. infantrymen killed more than 100 North Vietnamese 31 miles southwest of Da Nang today as the Americans hunted their way toward the wreckage of a downed helicopter in which eight men are believed to have died.

It was the fifth day of hard fighting in the rolling foothills 21 miles south of Da Nang, where sweeping American and South Vietnamese forces have run into heavy resistance since Sunday.

Associated Press correspondent Richard Kyle reported from the area that hundreds of reinforcements, including South Vietnamese infantrymen and U.S. Marines, poured into the battle zone.

By nightfall, more than 1,200 U.S. and South Vietnamese were committed to the biggest sustained battle since the Communist command launched the full-scale Aug. 12 assault.

Military spokesmen claimed more than 100 North Vietnamese were killed in the fighting since Sunday. Many were slain by artillery, dive-bombers and helicopter gunships.

At least 27 Americans have been killed and another 120 wounded, field reports said. Kyle reported that medical evacuation helicopters were running all day, lifting out American casualties.

The helicopter was shot down Tuesday amid heavy fighting on the ground. It caught fire in the air when it began to land, when it hit the ground, and witnesses said it aboard must have been killed.

Aboard the aircraft were Associated Press photographer Oliver Nossan of Norwich, Mass., who had been covering (See Page Eleven)

Seale Served With Warrant For Murder
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Black Panther leader Bobby Seale posted $25,000 bail on a fugitive charge Wednesday, but before he got out of the federal marshal's custody he was handcuffed by two city police inspectors with a murder warrant from Connecticut.

The 32-year-old Panther co-founder and national chairman spent his second night in San Francisco County jail and was scheduled for a municipal court hearing today on a charge of murder.

In New Haven authorities have charged Seale and 14 others with the kidnaping and torture of a Waterbury man, state attorney of Alex Hackley, 24, in the wreckage of the leading train. (See Page Eight)

Hearing Aids Part of GI Gear
By FRANK MURRAY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of U.S. soldiers under hearing loss each year: most of them are in training because the Army doesn't supply proper protection against the ear-damaging noises of tanks, artillery firing ranges and helicopters.

The Army said previous figures were available only this year has an effort begun to chart the scope of the problem. But one of the Army's top hearing specialists estimated that more than half the 500,000 men who go through combat training each year suffer hearing loss so serious they could be ruled out of combat.

Dr. Jerry L. Northern, chief audiologist at Walter Reed Army Hospital's hearing center, said he based his estimate on a study made at Ft. Jackson, S.C., where investigators found some deaf, returned from the job for which they trained.

Such a move requires a hearing loss rated as 115. The study showed 22.7 per cent of the soldiers permanently assigned to Ft. Jackson had such a rating. Another 23.5 per cent had an 112 rating, which indicates a less severe loss of hearing.

Although Northern's boss, Dr. Thomas J. Nigley, recently said the chances that a soldier would need a hearing aid after 20 years in 10 times greater than a civilian, Nigley disclosed the Army has pursued no standard policy of providing devices to protect soldiers' hearing.

In 1963, the surgeon general's office recommended that each Army recruit receive a pair of ear plugs "individually fitted to each ear."

This recommendation has not been implemented. Some recruits are given ear plugs, but they are not individually fitted.

And this spring, Army hearing specialists discovered that every time they tested the standard-issue ear plugs wasn't so (See Page Fifteen)
