Nixon Backs Voting Shift

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon endorsed today the House-passed electoral reform bill calling for direct election of the president and urged the Senate to adopt the measure.

The House has approved a proposed constitutional amendment abolishing the Electoral College and giving the president the same direct popular vote. It is the largest popular vote. It is now a 60 per cent of the total vote, a runoff would be held.

If the amendment passed the Senate, it would go to the states for ratification.

Nixon said he had committed his administration in February to support any reform of the electoral system that would remove its most negative features.

"I said I would support any amendment approved by Congress that would make three specific reforms in the current system," the President said. "One, eliminate the problem of the 'elector' vote, two, make a 40 per cent margin requisite for victory, and three, reform the system so that the electoral college more closely reflects the popular outcome."

The President's statement for direct election of the president was approved by the House on Sept. 26.

Nixon said that the electoral college system is "outdated" and "inequitable." He said that the system is "outdated" because it is based on the number of electors, which is based on the number of representatives in Congress. He said that the system is "inequitable" because it gives some states a disproportionate amount of power.

Nixon said that the proposed amendment would give every citizen the same weight in the election. He said that the proposed amendment would also give every citizen the same chance to elect the president.

Nixon said that the proposed amendment would also give every citizen the same chance to elect the president. He said that the proposed amendment would also give every citizen the same chance to elect the president.

Change Total: Status Quo

It's a standoff, as far as the outcome of the election is concerned, as far as the outcome of the election is concerned.

Last week, Paul Tucker, husband of Democrat Ruth Tucker, changed his party affiliation from Republican to Democrat.

And today, Raymond (Mike) Quinn, husband of Republican incumbent Rowland Quinn, has changed his party affiliation from Democrat to Republican.

Although the changeover will not be effective for six months, everybody's happy, and neither party lost a voter.

Suit Would Bar Private School Aid

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—A suit to block distribution of a $10 million state aid to private and parochial schools was filed in U.S. District Court today.

The suit claimed the 1969 state law authorizing the aid violated the 1st and 14th amendments to the federal constitution—those federal guarantees of church and state separation and equal protection.

The state NAACP, the Connecticut Civil Liberties Union and "Deans of a President" author William Manchester of Middletown were among the plaintiffs.

The Connecticut Council of Churches, the Connecticut Jewish Community Relations Council, Americans United for Separation of Church and State, and individuals Rita Johnson and Robert S. Church of Hartford, Donald L. Waxman of West Hartford, Laura Wiley Hanson of Farmington, and Edith and Isaac G. Lym, all plaintiffs, the suit said, "share as a common objective the separation of church and state and the opposition to the state aid to private schools."

Freed Berets Flying Home: 'Great to Go', They Say

Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr., talks with an American woman employee at Long Binh after she dropped by to congratulate the Green Berets after the Army dropped charges against them Monday.

BIEN HOA, Vietnam (AP)—Seven Green Beret officers flew out of Vietnam Monday for the United States. They were free of murder and conspiracy charges in a long slaying of a Vietnamese double agent.

The plane carrying a total of 115 home-bound U.S. servicemen was due at Travis Air Force Base in California at 2:30 a.m. Pacific time, Wednesday. It was due to stop at Yokota Air Base in Japan and at Anchorage, Alaska.

Col. Robert B. Rheault, the trim former commander of the 100th Special Forces Group in Vietnam, led his fellow officers aboard the plane after spending several hours at the airport waiting in a house trailer at the air base.

Wearing jungle fatigues and green berets, the men strode to the plane and shook hands with several army buddies who had rushed over to congratulate them.

Mother Shouts News: 'My Son Is Free!'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BLOOMFIELD, N.J. (AP)—Mrs. Robert G. Rheault, wife of the former commanding officer of Special Forces in Vietnam, said she was "happy the charges were dropped. I'm happy because it means an end to the agony those men and their families have endured all this time."

"I let my office as soon as I got the call and went to church to thank God for answering all our prayers," added her husband's neighbor.

"My son is free!" exclaimed Mrs. Frank Marasco, mother of Capt. Robert F. Marasco whom the Army had alleged was the triggerman in the killing of a reported South Vietnamese double agent.

"When I got the phone call I ran into the street and yelled to all my neighbors, 'My son is free,' Mrs. Marasco said Monday.

The Washington Post has obtained the text of a letter that Marasco—only 27—wrote to his wife on July 31 from his military cell at Long Binh jail outside Saigon. The letter said:

"I don't know exactly how to tell you what I now must. I have never had to write an 'even' considered it."

"Let me start at the beginning. When I got back here from leave my operation had been compromised and my name was being used as a cover for the activities of a group of men."

"Many of the details I cannot go on because they are classified but suffice to say that we determined his guilt and had to decide what to do with him. My unit commander, Maj. Tom Middleton, and I, Capt. Marasco, operated office together."

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Sweden plans to give North Vietnam more than $60 million in economic aid, Foreign Minister Torsten Nilsson announced today at the Social Democratic party congress.

He said the aid will be distributed over a period of three years, adding he was convinced the government action "is backed by a very strong public opinion."

Nilsson said the government also hoped to "make comprehensive contributions to South Vietnam when the fighting has come to an end."

So far Sweden has given $6 million each to North and South Vietnam.

6,000 GIs Leave Thai

BANGKOK (AP)—The United States will withdraw 6,000 troops from Thailand by next July, a Joint Thai-U.S. communiqué said today.

The withdrawal will begin "within a few weeks." Both U.S. Air Force and Army units will be involved.

The communiqué added that the withdrawal of troops will be "expediently as possible, consistent with operational requirements related to the Vietnam conflict."

The United States has approximately 36,000 Air Force personnel, 12,000 Army support troops and 1,000 military advisers in Thailand.

NEW YORK (AP)—Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir continued her love fest with New York today, calling it "the most beautiful city in the world, except for Jerusalem."

"The crux of the problem," she said, "is that we think we have a right to live and the Arab deny us that right. They want to destroy us."

Asked if during her Washington visit she had had any conversations with President Nixon, she said: "I have no words to describe it. Beyond anything I expected. That wasn't said and it wasn't said."

She also said "one basic element" in the struggle between her nation and the Arab states is that it is "not over anything except for Jerusalem."

And of her public reception Monday, including a tour of the Lincoln Center, she said: "I was welcomed from 15,000 at City Hall and received the key to the city. Mrs. Meir said in the interview today.

5,900 Leathernecks Begin Moving Out of Vietnam

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAIGON (AP)—About 5,900 Marines of the 3rd Division flew from Vietnam to Okinawa today and another 4,600 prepared to depart for the United States.

The first big move in the 38,000-man withdrawal ordered by President Nixon.

Other 3rd Division Leathernecks were not so lucky. One was killed, one was wounded when North Vietnamese gunners slammed 10 mortar shells on their positions along the demilitarized zone.

American B52 bombers retaliated by dropping 600 tons of bombs on North Vietnam's military bases and just south of the DMZ.

By Christmas, about 18,000 Leathernecks will have left Vietnam as part of Nixon's second troop reduction. A cutoff of 50,000 U.S. troops was completed in August.

The 3rd and the 4th Marine regiments, the two largest units of the 3rd Division left in Vietnam, have patrolled the western, two-thirds of South Vietnam's northern frontier area just below the 40-mile wide demilitarized zone. The division's other regiment, the 9th was redeployed in the initial cutoff.

Marine spokesmen at Da Nang said the first 1,000 Marines to leave were from the 3rd Regiment and from the headquarters and support units of the 3rd Division. All have served less than a year, a normal tour of duty in Vietnam, the spokesman said.

Within the next week, the spokesman said, more than 4,800 Marines, who have served for at least a year, will leave for the United States.

The 4th Marine Regiment is still in the field and will be redeployed later. Casualties from the mortar attack were members of the 4th Regiment.

The second round of American troop withdrawals began 10 days ago, but involved only small Army units.

Hippy-Types Jolt Bankers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HONOLULU (AP)—About 50 young men and girls broke into an exhibition hall Monday night, smashed typewriters and lighting fixtures and overturned tables set up for the American Banker's Association conference.

Four men and four women were arrested at the center, which the ABA's executive committee had left momenta before.

A police spokesman said damage would run into thousands of dollars. It was not known whether the intruders were members of any organization.

A spokesman for the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) said the protesters were "people's army" to demonstrate at the center after the ABA's Urban Affairs Committee rejected the LeRoy Plank, a guard at the center.

When the settlers first came to this country, there was an abundance of wild game and wild birds. Passenger pigeons and wild turkeys darkened the skies when in flight. Vast herds of bison and wild buffalo grazed the plains to treasure with their weight. Deer and small game were to be found everywhere.

The Indian was content to kill only those animals he needed for food, clothing or shelter, leaving the rest to live in peace. Not so, the white man. He realized that here was a vast resource to meet the demands of the fur markets of Europe, particularly the demand for beaver, which was abundantly close by. This began the exploration of our continent.

Dale L. Morgan, author of "Jedediah Smith and the Opening of the West," has this to say about the fur trappers in his book "Fur Trappers": "The introduction of the beaver into Europe in the mid-eighteenth century brought about a material revolution comparable in scope to the changes in dress that occurred in nineteenth century England when Beau Brummell's example led men of the western world to give up their peacock finery and dress in subdued blacks, browns, blues and grays."

"A good beaver hat over a period of almost four hundred years was a symbol of status, a social necessity. Beaver to supply the ever-expanding European market was the primary concern of the early American fur trade. It was valued less for its fineness as a fur than for the peculiar quality of its barbed hair, which could be torn from the pelts and worked into a felt superior to any other."

"Thus the beaver, found from the Arctic to the Gulf of California, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific, shaped the whole history of North America. Its fur underwrote voyages of discovery along all the coastlines and up all the major rivers, as well as exploration across the high spine of the continent and into the most forbidding barrens and deserts; it contributed largely to the founding and...

Hanoi Charges 'Slander' at U.S. Statements

PARIS (AP) — A statement issued today by the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris Peace talks rejected the "slander" American and Laotian statements about the so-called presence of North Vietnamese troops in Laos.

The statement, attributed to a spokesman of the Hanoi Foreign Ministry, referred to declarations made last Friday by the U.S. representative at the United Nations and President Nixon at his news conference last Friday. "The impudent slanders put out by the White House and the administration of the Pentagon against the democratic republic of Vietnam cannot camouflage the American crimes in Laos," the statement said.

The Americans have introduced a big part of their arms and war material in Laos. American military personnel and thousands of mercenaries are directly commanding the "rightist" troops of Laos, which the United States is launching attacks against in an attempt to control the area. "The American government is exploiting westward and distant exploration territory for France. By making it their own, they are making it the property of new areas rich in beaver. One such contact led to the eventual establishment of the Hudson's Bay Company by the English."

Back in our own country settlements were also becoming established around fur trading posts. Dutch traders settled on the west bank of the Hudson River, while the English settled on the east bank. Beaver was valued in honor of the beaver which was in great demand in Europe. The Hudson's Bay Company was formed in 1670. It was an early American fur trade. It was valued less for its fineness as a fur than for the peculiar quality of its barbed hair, which could be torn from the pelts and worked into a felt superior to any other.

"Thus the beaver, found from the Arctic to the Gulf of California, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific, shaped the whole history of North America. Good Life In An Unsound World

The only real defeat in the West German elections went not to any of the candidates or parties, but to the professional politeness. They called this one wrong, expecting that Foreign Minister Brandt, Social Democrats would make gains big enough to make them the number one party on the scene.

As for the Social Democrats, they did make gains, but not enough to catch the Christian Democrats of Chancellor Kiesinger, who still managed to survive in the number one position.

The two major parties thus face a repetition of the situation of four years ago, when, rather than take the risk of either one of them dealing with the Free Democrats for a narrow coalition control of the Bundestag, they made their own massive coalition.

Whether the small rift they opened between themselves for campaign purposes has been lined with such bitterness that they will no longer find each other possible, and thus begin waging the Free Democrats, is hard to guess, but the first guess would have to be that they will manage to find themselves together again, with perhaps some alterations in personnel and policy.

The falsely soothing syrup in this relatively quiet and uneventful passage of another moment of German post-war decision is the assurance that nothing dramatic threatens the present state of things in the center of Europe.

Whether the small rift they opened between themselves for campaign purposes has been lined with such bitterness that they will no longer find each other possible, and thus begin waging the Free Democrats, is hard to guess, but the first guess would have to be that they will manage to find themselves together again, with perhaps some alterations in personnel and policy.

able for turbine-powered vehicles to carry that much extra weight in goods. All these practical considerations are most welcome indeed, because it also happens that the turbine engine is smokeless, odorless, vibration-free and gives out a quiet whine rather than loud blasts.

The introduction of the turbine engine, in other words, will deal a hardening blow at two kinds of pollution—the grrrr and smell coming out of the exhaust, and the continual sonic boom which follows in the wake of the diesel. The major national bus companies are expected to be first with the turbine, with one of them planning to be using them extensively by 1971. If they prove there that they are a good investment for the operator, above and beyond their contribution to the health and peace of mere people, they will make their way eventually into all our trucks too.

Those Who Invent

There are some of us who invent things which make big fortunes for us. And then there are the rest of us who scratch our heads at the news of the latest new product and wonder why in the world we never thought of inventing it ourselves.

The trouble with us who are in the great unfortunat majority is that we are much too prone to take for granted, and to accept as beyond improvement, anything which has apparently become a stable possession of our civilization. All the while the imperfection, or the opening to improbability, in the accepted product may be starting us in the face, or wrenching at us, asking for recognition and cure.

But only the ones in the million or more of us ever seem to notice. One of these ones in a million is the gentleman down in South Carolina who, having noticed how much trouble it is to hold an umbrella over one's seat while trying to accomplish some task which requires two hands, set himself down and invented himself a lightweight aluminum umbrella harness, which hooks over the shoulder and fastens around the waist, with the umbrella fitting into a shunt on the harness.

Now Mr. Ralph Hall Sr., of West Columbia, South Carolina, has himself comfort while he is fishing, or changing a tire in the rain—a true no hands umbrella. Even more importantly, he has patented his "All-Breath" and is setting out to manufacture it, and has "his first six" to the police department in his own home town, where they will be worn by school-patrol officers who need both hands free for traffic directing.

We wish we had thought of it. We wish Mr. Hall the customary fortune. Look public library systems throughout the state have been pleading for more financial help from the Legislature for years. Libraries, however, do not enjoy any exciting attention-demanding "wars," and their needs fall rather low on the priority list.

The result is that public libraries don't get anywhere near the kind of State aid they are asking for. In the past session, the State Library Committee had a total for an appropriation of $8 million to disburse as grants to 204 city and town libraries over the coming two years—a figure based on a $1 per capita per year.

What the library committee got was $1.3 million, or enough for 20 cents per capita. What we're leaping up to is the matter of the State's continued support of 18 county bar association law libraries, availability to the general public, quite obviously serve a limited and special interest group—the legal profession. The question was kicked up the other day at a State Finance Advisory Committee meeting by State Rep. Ralph Clarke of North Haven, who took objection to a transfer of $1,800 from the public library amount to the legal reference libraries. Earle argues that it was time lawyers were made to pay their "bar share" for the operation of the bar association libraries.

Inside Report

By Rowland Evans Jr. Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON—President Nixon's highly critical answer at Friday's press conference when asked about Kevin Phillips' "The Emerging Republican Majority" was no inappreciative but had been carefully prepared in advance as part of a concerted White House effort to discuss the book and muzzle the author.

A few days before the President's public rejection of the illi-white strategy implicit in the book, the muzzling was applied. It was made clear from on high in the Administration that Phillips, a 28-year-old special assistant to Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell with the rank of political assistant, ought to curtail his public appearances. As a result, he quietly bowed out of a scheduled debate on NBC-TV today show last Wednesday morning.

Bankers Nix Demand For Reparations

HONOLULU (AP) — U.S. bankers have rejected a demand by the Congress on Racial Equality for $6 billion in payments for asserted exploitation of Negroes.

Roy Imms, CORE's national director, said, "The treatment of my delegation was one of raw, naked arrogance. It is close to us that the party is over."

Willard R. Craig, vice chairman of the Urban Affairs Council of the American Bankers Association, said the demand was "impossible to accept" and commented: "We had hoped the group would come to us with some constructive suggestions. We were disappointed."

Three Imms lieutenants met with the council for 70 minutes Sunday. Imms did not attend the closed-door meeting with the ABA committee, but said at a news conference later that it was an "exercise of futility."

Imms, garbed in his African attire, described the ABA convention here as "something close to having a party while my people suffer."

"We intend to intrude ourselves," he said.

Connecticut Yankee

By A.H.O.

One can notice that, on both sides of the political fence, there are more and more persons for the United States Senate seat coming up in 1970 than for the exalted post of Governor of the good state of Connecticut.

There is one particular explanation for this, which centers in the identity and the situation of the individuals now in these two offices. John Dempsey is now Governor, and, so long as he does not indicate publicly an intention of not running again, any Democratic aspirant who might want to run for his job are forced to wait in silence.

The presence of Dempsey in the office, with his possession of an easy option to run for four more years of that office if he wants it, also has some deterrent effect on the Republican side of the picture. Dempsey has presumably been hurt politically by the fact that he has been weakened to such an extent that he would be a pushover in 1970. Rather, he is still regarded as a candidate. The result is that any Republican candidates with equal qualifications for running for either Senator or Governor might be likely, at this stage of the game, to aim toward the Senate.

The identity of the incumbent Democratic Senator is, on the other hand, an invitation to the ambitions in both parties. Democrats do not hesitate to come into the field against incumbent Tom Dodd because they calculate that the party will not, in the end, choose to risk its own fortunes in 1970 just to give Dodd a long shot chance to rescue his. And Republicans feel that, whether or not they succeed in displacing Dodd who had won renomination, or against anybody who had succeeded in displacing Dodd, they would be in the strategic situation, either facing a half-discredited candidate and a divided Democratic party, or an inexperienced candidate and a Democratic party.

Beyond such explanation based on current personalities, however, there is one permanent standing reason why the nomination for the Senate should be the more attractive.

Being Governor of the State of Connecticut is, except for certain providential periods—when fate sent Abe Ribicoff hurricanes floods or an intoxicating landslide in 1968—the greatest bore on earth.

As a routine, the job is nothing but trouble, and whoever is Governor of the state in any kind of trouble cannot escape some degree of responsibility for it.

The post of Senator, on the other hand, is full of opportunities for claims of success and status for the development of failure. A Senator can, within reason, choose his own fields of interest. He is always able to plead pressure of the nation's business when he wants to avoid a speaking engagement which seems to promise nothing particularly advantageous to himself. He is always able to find time from the nation's business when he is being offered a fine fat fee for making a speech at some vacation spot.

And once he makes it, he has to run for office only once every six years. The best reason for anybody to run for Governor, in other words, is to get into position for a possible run for Senator.

Dirksen's Death Breaks Up Husband-and-Wife Team

Mrs. Goniam doesn't know what she will remain on Capitol Hill. "I love the Senate," she told a reporter. U.S. Troops Under 10,000

BRUSSELS (AP) — Fewer than 10,000 noncombat U.S. troops will be withdrawn from Europe through the middle of 1971, American sources said today.

The United States has about 230,000 combat and support troops in the European area. Reports from the Pentagon last week indicated U.S. combat strength in Europe would not be diminished.

The setback in support troops, a result of budget reductions requested by President Nixon, would be accomplished by consolidating small units, the informants here said.

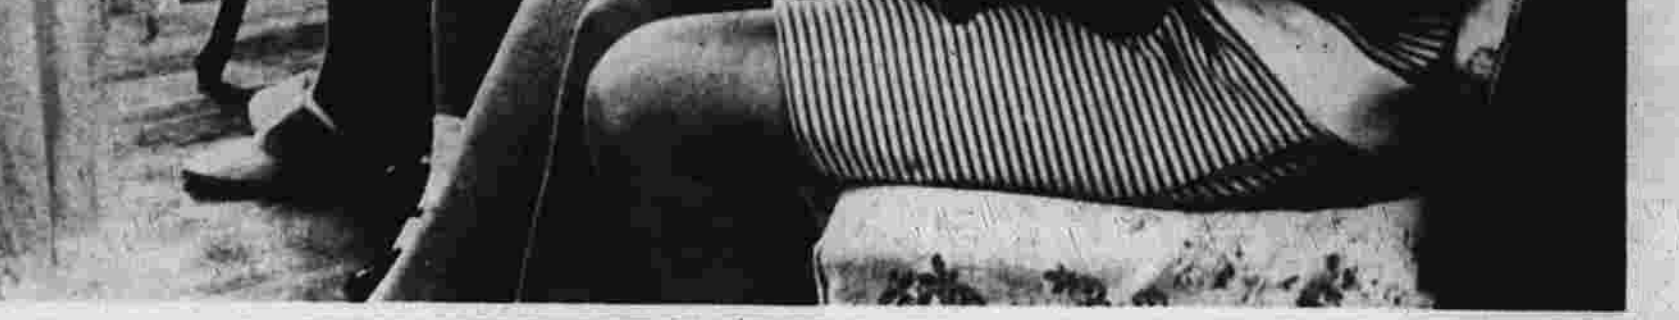

U.S. officials hope the reports that combat strength will be maintained and that support troop cuts would be minor will ease the concern of countries in the North Atlantic Alliance, especially West Germany. The West Germans are always upset by any prospect of reduction in one source predicted. He added, that money also would be saved by dismantling some local employees.

Most American forces in Europe are stationed in West Germany. Political leaders there see the U.S. presence as the best existing guarantee against any encroachment by the Soviet Union and its East Bloc allies on the long West German border.

FDP Leader Believes: Half of West Germans Are Liberal at Heart

BONN, Germany (AP)—Walter Scheel, leader of the Free Democratic party which emerged today as the possible key to the next West German government, holds the belief that half the people of this nation are really liberals.

Scheel, 55-year-old son of a Rhine-Ruhr coal miner, entered politics on a part-time basis in 1948 in his native Sigmaringen. He later moved on to the North Rhine-Westphalia state parliament.

His Free Democrats party is liberal and today found itself in the position to become a junior partner in West Germany's next government.

The Social Democrats of West Germany quickly announced after the returns showed that neither his party nor the Christian Democrats of Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger won enough seats in the new Bundestag—the governing body of the Federal Republic.

The Free Democrats, won 20 seats, the Christian Democrats 21, and the Social Democrats 46-member house.

Scheel, a high school graduate who did not go on to university, led a banking career to manage a steel products firm, and later set up his own industrial concern.

Explaining his remarriage to a Munich physician, Mildred Wirz, last July, he said: "In a long happy marriage, a man becomes a half. And after a while it becomes senseless to run around being anything but a half."

An amateur carpenter and keen cyclist and mountaineer, Scheel is often called the "court jester" of Bonn because of his flair for irony.

Dean Acheson Says: Junior Officers Knew More About War Than Joint Chiefs

NEW YORK (AP)—Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson said Sunday that the Joint Chiefs of Staff under President Truman were less informed than the Pentagon's junior officers.

Acheson, who helped place public advertisements backing Johnson's war policy in 1968, said Sunday he had been misled by the Pentagon high command.

"I would say I have changed my opinion," said Acheson, 78, who headed the State Department under President Truman.

"Yes, I have. In 1966, I was, I think, misled by optimistic views from the Pentagon."

"I think once people are convinced, as I am convinced, that the President wants to bring this thing to a close as much as anybody in the country does, and that he is doing his very best to do that, they will support him as they should support him and not criticize every step as not being enough," he said.

South Windsor Tax on Municipal Bonds Scored by Town Treasurer

Town Treasurer Richard G. Rothwell today criticized Congressional proposals to tax municipal bonds, saying that he has contacted Congressmen and Senators in support of his position.

Rothwell referred to the attempt by the Republicans to keep a tight reign on town expenses during the last two years, which has enabled our town in 1969 to have the lowest mill rate increase in the area.

"Our administration has been acutely aware of the need to keep taxes down, and I would hope that Congress would be able to cooperate with our policy by adopting legislation that will help us and not hurt us in any way," Rothwell said.
