Tollard Lay Curriculum Panel Gives Way To Teachers

The Board of Education last night agreed to disband its curriculum committee and to refer the matter to a high school curriculum panel.

The action was taken on recommendation of the MacKenzie School Committee. The committee will be replaced with an active curriculum council composed of high school teachers, he explained.

"I am convinced that it is only through the active participation of the staff that we can ever hope to improve the curriculum in the classroom," he explained.

Although the lay committee was officially dissolved along with the expressed gratitude of the board for its services, members will be asked to serve as informal liaisons between the staff and the community, and to serve as a "soundboard" for program proposals.

The local schools have added 38 new pupils in the month since school opened, according to an enrollment report prepared by Dr. MacKenzie.

The report which covers the month of September only also revealed the existence of some "large classes" at Meadowbrook and Hicks Memorial schools.

Measuring day enrollment found 400 students in the schools, while Dr. MacKenzie's report showed 228 as of Sept. 1. These figures do not include the students attending Rockville High and other classes out of town.

Meadowbrook School enrollment has increased from 702 on opening day to 717, an increase of 15 students. Kindergarten students account for nine of the additional total with a total of 144 now enrolled including 144 in the morning and 111 in the afternoon. First graders total 43, an increase of three, and second grade 228, also an increase of three.

Red China May Soften U.S. Stand

NEW YORK (AP)—Nixon administration officials say Communist China has indicated that it may be willing to stand toward the United States.

In a dispatch from Washington, Peter Gross said various branches of the government are studying the response to make, as a possible preliminary to opening talks with the Chinese.

Diplomats from Western countries who met Chinese officials in a series of talks in Beijing last week during the 20th anniversary of the Communist state reported little anti-American invective was displayed, the Times said.

These diplomats also reported a Chinese interest in easing trade and travel restrictions with the United States.

The State Department, on July 21, agreed to permit tourists traveling abroad to bring up to $100 in Communist Chinese products home, and widened the categories of persons who might be permitted to visit China.

Chinese officials have apparently accepted this move as a symbol of U.S. intentions at the Towson Hall talks, the Times said.

Incentive Awards
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Hospitals that save money in treating medicine patients will receive incentive awards under a new program backed by the federal government.

Arthur E. Hese, deputy commissioner of the Social Security Administration, said 20 hospitals under contract to Blue Cross Association of Southern California will be given back part of what they save in better use of staff and equipment.

The right way to play a certain kind of bridge hand depends on what league you play in. If your opponents are minor leaguers, you can expect them to play a very straightforward game. If they're major leaguers, they may be crafty enough to give you a difficult time.

West dealer. East West vulnerable. Opening lead — Four of Spades. South ruffed the first spade and saw that no good could come of leading trumps immediately, as Charles J. Solomon and Bert Wilson point out in their book "Hold Our Hands."

West stepped up the king of clubs to lead another spade through dummy's king. South led another club to force out the ace.

East led a third spade, and South ruffed with the jack. He then led a diamond to dummy's ace, and returned the ten of hearts for a finesse.

The finesse succeeded, for dummy's ten held the trick. South then led another diamond, and repeated the finesse by playing the queen of hearts through dummy's king.

West played on the trick with the king of hearts and led another spade to make South up his last trump. Now West had the 10th trump and another spade, and South was two.

South's play would have been reasonable in a game of poor quality since in such a game West would surely take the king of hearts without delay if he had it in a fine game, however. West would never have led the king of hearts at his first opportunity.

Andover 38 Girls Registered For Scouts

Junior Girl Scout Troop 900 and a new Junior Troop are yet without a number, will start their meetings in about three weeks. The new leadership is currently taking Girl Scout training and orientation.

One additional person is still needed to assist with the Juniors. Interested persons are requested to call Mrs. Lucina Moe, troop organizer.

To date 38 girls have registered, and these girls will be notified of the time and place of the first meetings. There will be a limited number of openings for girls in Grades 4, 5 and 6 in the Junior level.

Senior Girl Scout Troop 8021 has become a regional troop registering girls from Andover, Hibernia, Marlborough, Columbia and Lebanon. The troop has a membership of 18 girls with Mrs. John Pettibach as its leader.

The fall-off in strong support for reform was reported by the Senate Finance Committee and individual senators.

And as the committee was preparing for today's start of closed-door work on the bill, several of the 17 members indicated they will vote to kill or revise many sections.

Finance completed five weeks of hearings on the legislation Wednesday after calling 200 witnesses and receiving statements of more than 400 others.

Although hearings were finished on schedule, it is not certain the committee can meet a deadline to report on the bill.

Long said he hoped the panel could start voting on items in the 36-page bill next week.

Miracle Enzyme May Cure Ills, Alter Heredity

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—New findings about the inner workings of cells offer hope that scientists may end many diseases, even alter heredity, with much less time and money than it took to put a man on the moon, a noted biochemist says.

Dr. Arthur Kornberg of Stanford University School of Medicine held a meeting of the American College of Surgeons about discovery of an enzyme that repairs damaged chromosomes, the change in the nucleus of cells which control growth and development.

He said many diseases result from chromosomal damage and repair enzymes, which correct the change in the nucleus of cells which control growth and development.

Finch Finds Nerves Fray More Easily in Washington

By G. C. THELEN JR., Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert H. Finch has paid a price in his ascent from lieutenant governor of California to national prominence as a trusted Nixon cabinet officer.

He finds the Washington pace frenzied and the paperwork overwhelming. The patronage demands and political pressures are heavy.

The national problems in his corner are abstract and slow to yield solution.

In short, the affable yet asty 44-year-old secretary of Health, Education and Welfare has a night case of frayed nerves.

But forget the headlines, Finch shrugs, "the job is far more exciting than I had even hoped."

Name the controversy and he is there. From as far back as the 1960 presidential campaign, Finch managed who seek patronage jobs and drive student unrest. The California politician and old buddy of President Nixon can claim several notable victories in administration skirmishes. They include the far-reaching income guarantee welfare plan and the restrained White House position on college up-heavals.

But Finch took his lumps in the abortive appointment of Dr. John Knowles as the nation's chief health officer and in the administration's revised school desegregation policies.

The minor irritations of government service, he says, take an equal toll: Loss of time for his family; campaign work; and the pressure of the job. Finch is a man of action, a consumer protection, welfare reform, food and drug safety, student unrest, time-consuming and often repetitive questioning by congressional committees and other repetitive demands.

Finch has his life changed since leaving California? "Obviously the pace is quicker and the hours longer," Finch says. "I work from 7:30 to 7:30 where it was about 9 to 6 in California."

The whole thrust now is administrative while as lieutenant governor you're presiding over the Senate and making an impact on legislation by working the floor.

"I spend much of my time before congressional committees. And the paper work in this department is incredible."

Finch is almost always in the news as a member of the state program, Taylor works with Mrs. Mary L. McChure, program assistant of the Connecticut Council of Churches and the chairmanship of M. Phillip Busag of Adelphi College, a member of South Church.

Bennett, recognizing the greatest opposition came from those who wanted continuation of the controls over 22 ammunition narrow road.

Kennedy, Dodd Set for Fight On Ammunition Sale Checks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Sen. Edward M. Dodd, D-Mass., have agreed to fight a move aimed at eliminating controls over sales of ammunition.

The amendment provision, part of the law enacted after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, has been in effect since the last year of civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, requires purchasers to give their name, age and address, and provide identification.

Bennett said he acted on behalf of hunters and sportsmen in general who contend the amendment impedes sales of ammunition to criminals.

Kennedy and Dodd, however, contend the record keeping otherwise noncontroversial bill extending the government's authority to curb American investment in foreign securities.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., have pledged a floor fight against the Bennett amendment, scheduled to be acted upon by the Senate today.

As adopted by the Senate Finance Committee, the amendment would require a 14-day waiting period before a purchaser could buy a rifle or shotgun shell, sporting 7.62-caliber rifle ammunition and 22-caliber rifle cartridges.

Bennett, recognizing the greatest opposition came from those who wanted continuation of the controls over 22 ammunition narrow road.

Fellowship Guest

Ralph V. Taylor Jr., north-eastern field director for CRDP, Community Hunger Appeal of Church World Service, will speak Sunday at 8 p.m. to the Senior High South United Methodist Youth Fellowship in recognition hall at the church.

Latin American Jets Pirated, Hijacker Brings Fidel Roses

MIAMI (AP) — One of two South American jets hijacked to Cuba Wednesday landed in Miami today. The captain of the Aerolineas Argentinas Boeing 707 said an Argentine chemist carrying a pistol and a bouquet of roses hijacked his plane.

Earlier conflicting reports indicated there were five hijackers armed with submachine guns aboard the plane, but Capt. Abel Aguirre said after landing today, "There was only one, and he carried only a pistol."

U.S. Customs agents said the Aerolineas Argentinas plane, with 50 passengers and a crew of 12, left one passenger in Havana.

The Mexican news agency Amex said the Cuban Embassy, which handles Brazilian Interests in Cuba, was negotiating for release of a Brazilian Crusade to Sul Caravello. The agency said it also probably would be allowed to leave Cuba today.

The Brazilian air line was hijacked while on a domestic flight from Belém to Manaus. Airport officials at Manaus said the plane carried 42 passengers and a crew of 7, but sources at Georgetown, Guyana, where it landed to refuel, said 50 persons were aboard.

The Argentine plane was commandeered several hours later, just as it landed for an intermediate stop at Santiago, Chile, on a flight from Buenos Aires to Miami.

The planes, the 44th and 45th diverted to the Communist island this year, were hijacked on the second anniversary of the death of the Argentine-born hero of the Cuban revolution, Ernesto "Che" Guevara.

The hijacker of the Argentine plane did not mention Guevara's name throughout the flight, Aguirre said. "I think the hijacking and the anniversary were coincidental," the captain said.

The plane spent 45 minutes at Santiago. The hijacker kept curtains drawn over the windows and allowed no one to get on or off the plane, but he permitted the pilot to drop a passenger list to the ground.

Aguirre said he did not refuse there were five hijackers as reported earlier.

The hijacker appeared to be about 35 years old, the captain said.

"He said he was studying for a master's degree in chemistry, and said he wanted to follow Fidel Castro's lead," Aguirre said.

Aguirre said Chilean authorities offered to use air force Superautos' Insurance To Be Hiked

Full Female Equality Old Story in Liberia

By MARY ROSENBLUM, Associated Press Writer

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — A Liberian woman, a graduate of the U.N. General Assembly, said she was a pioneer in the fight for full female equality in Liberia.

She was: she's a clever girl and well versed in diplomacy, but what's the point? All or all, four women were graduated from Liberia College in 1968. Women have had public loose cannon and dropped out from her pipe into the ignition hole, scattering a horde of tribesmen about to unseat Liberia's pioneers in the last century.

There are women cabinet members, doctors, lawyers, government leaders (including a senator and four congresswomen), educators, business owners as well as Miss Brooks.

History can even produce a woman's name who was a pioneer in the fight for full female equality in Liberia.

President Tubman got women the vote in 1967 shortly after his term that staggered his position, long since solidified.

In Liberia, independent since 1847, women have had a chance to develop. The original elite came from America as settlers without tribal ties. They set the tone for the rest.

President Tubman got women the vote in 1967 shortly after his term that staggered his position, long since solidified.

In Liberia, independent since 1847, women have had a chance to develop. The original elite came from America as settlers without tribal ties. They set the tone for the rest.

Superautos' Insurance To Be Hiked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Insurance rates are going to go up on the "motorized missiles" — hot cars loaded down with big engines and extra gear. Congress has been told.

Dean Jeffers, president of Nationwide Mutual Insurance Co., said the superauto experience losses 56 per cent higher than more moderately powered vehicles.

His firm, the nation's fifth largest insurer of automobiles, is raising insurance rates on such cars by 50 per cent to diminish their appeal, Jeffers said. He called the "motorized missiles."

Testifying before a Senate subcommittee Wednesday, Jeffers said superauto cars such as the Chevrolet Corvair, Ford Mustang Mach 1 and Pontiac's GTO "certainly are not conducive to moderate driving. Indeed, they are powered well above the needs of the present defensive driver and above the traffic capability of most streets and roads."

He also listed among the superautos the Oldsmobile 442, Plymouth Road Runner, Dodge Charger 600, American Motors AMC, Chevrolet Malibu 33 and the Mercury Cougar Eliminator.

Jeffers said his firm doesn't consider all drivers of such cars unsafe drivers, but contended special actuarial studies produce the higher loss rate "simply cannot be ignored."

State Man Among Trio Shot As Youths Riot in Chicago

Reported that the groups of demonstrators who rioted in Chicago last night shot and killed a state legislator. The area of the disorders appeared peaceful.

The rioting broke out in the area of the State Capitol building in Chicago in June with demonstrators protesting the Vietnam War. "Weathermen" say their national demonstrations here will be most militant in the days ahead.

Wednesday, spokesman for the minority Revolutionary Youth Movement II faction of the SDS disavowed any part in the national activities. They were joined by a spokesman for the Black Panther party.

The RYM II faction, the Panthers, and the Young Lords Organization, a Puerto Rican group, have scheduled today a series of small protests which will be held in Lincoln Park.

Many demonstrators wore helmets and carried clubs. Some wore hippie regalia but many wore military-style clothing. Viet Cong flags were on the march.

Police said several were wounded in the chest, arm and hand. They said Miss Gardner was wounded in a thigh. Officials said they were not certain that the shootings were related to the clashes between police and radicals.

A MIG Files In
 When that Cuban airplane deflected the other day and sought and received political sanctuary on our shores, he got here by the process of flying a fully armed MIG from Cuba to the Home Air Force Base in Florida.

During this flight, which he made for the most part at very low levels, underneath normal radar screens, he was unobserved. His presence was not known until he was over the airport, wagging his wings in signal for permission to land.

When that was granted, he came down alongside President Nixon's plane. Had his intent been unfriendly, had he, for instance, been piloting a plane which could carry a hydrogen bomb, he apparently could have reached the Florida White House without the slightest trouble or challenge.

It was not, of course, any period of severe tension, such as might stir our military to unusual alertness all around our borders.

If we had been watching for the possibility of an unfriendly plane approaching our shores, the chances are that we might have observed this plane in time to challenge it.

We weren't watching, so we can pretend it doesn't count when we were caught napping.

Only, of course, it would be the business of anybody planning to launch their war on us to make every effort to easily nap, to strike underneath our radar, to choose a moment when there seemed nothing particularly threatening in the international atmosphere.

To such scientists, we submit the possibility that their opposition to the Amchika test might have been just as effective, quite possibly much more effective, if, instead of reaching for lurid scientific warnings, they had merely said something like this: "We see no particular present physical or health danger in the Amchika test but we are against it and we deplore it because we do not believe in such rehearsal for war no matter how safe it may be or what weapons may be involved."

In other words, when our scientists decide they are against something on moral grounds, let them take a moral stand, and not try to fool themselves and us by pretending they are giving us sage scientific counsel.

If the cause of developing new nuclear armaments is right, we need nuclear arms along the way toward it.

If the cause is wrong, the test is wrong, no matter how immediately harmless it may be.

Our moral for scientists who wish to enter the public business: Admit that you're being moral and give up pretending to be merely scientifically expert.

Yum! Yum! Analog!
 Have you had your first analog? Probably you have had at least a taste of it, unnoted in some normal food preparation which might reveal, in its fine print, the presence of soybean.

But a full-fledged analog is something you haven't yet encountered, unless you have ventured into one of the areas where some have been marketed or served experimentally.

An analog is soybeans ground up and processed and textured and colored and flavored to become an imitation substitute for some meat, just as oleomargarine has become an imitation substitute for butter.

WASHINGTON—Leaving the White House after a somewhat uneventful stay with President Nixon on last week, one Republican Senator turned to another and remarked that Mr. Nixon "is talking about the war just like Johnson used to talk."

What triggered this comparison between Mr. Nixon and former President Johnson, who was driven out of office by the war in Vietnam, was partly President Nixon's apparent conviction that Hanoi would soon have to enter serious negotiations to end the war.

The other explanation for the Senator's remark comparing the two Presidents was Mr. Nixon's first assertion during the Oval Office that he would never accept the nation's long-dragged-out war.

That, too, sounded to the dozen Republican Senators on the evening of Sept. 30 just like the Lyndon Johnson of two years ago, six months before he astonished the nation with his no second term announcement.

Even more interesting to some of those present, however, was something else Mr. Nixon said. Asked by Sen. Edward J. Durey of Florida why the United States did not apply enough military power "to win the war," Mr. Nixon replied that the military option was still open.

Connecticut Yankee
 By A.E.O.

The particular talent which State Senator Edward L. Marcus of New Haven has for making the utmost use of such footing, votes, power and prestige as are available to him was on exhibition, in a relatively modest proportion, during the period when he wound up dominating the 1969 sessions of the Connecticut General Assembly.

On the one hand, Senator Marcus is a judiciously campaigning, at what was once called the grass roots level, for support among local party organizations and the potential voters of his district.

But the striking and unusual part of his campaign is that in which he has begun dealing with the issues of the national political structure even before he has become a national political figure.

Using not unimpressive stationery which lists him as majority leader of the Senate of Connecticut, using an unblatant imagination, and employing language which has a magnificent element of cool assumption and presumption in it, Senator Marcus has moved toward the federal scene with amazing success.

He assailed President Nixon's cabinet members with demands, recommendations and advice, and got replies. He commiserated with the interests and his views to Committees of that body, and he has been very long way from being elected, let alone nominated, and he has not yet been elected.

His activity on the federal scene is such that one is not sure he is not dealing with almost as many federal issues and responsibilities as Senators Dadd and Ribicoff combined.

But, whatever his impact on the federal scene—can he really be said to have made it his own? He is not sure he is not dealing with almost as many federal issues and responsibilities as Senators Dadd and Ribicoff combined.

Further questioning where the morale problem was, Mr. McCoy turned to the town clerk's office and noted that the morale problem was not likely to be solved by the call of duty.

"I could hardly be the collector's office," he said, "this department has a record of over 97 per cent efficiency." "Certainly the dedicated service of the Rockville Police Department will not indicate there is a morale problem on Oct. 6."

Vernon DeTolla Raps Republicans On New Elementary School

Frank DeTolla, Democratic candidate for the Board of Representatives, has charged the Republican party with trying for some manner to avoid discussing the issue.

DeTolla, a former five-year member of the Board of Education, said, "The Republicans in a relatively modest proportion, during the period when he wound up dominating the 1969 sessions of the Connecticut General Assembly."

Cuba Won't Honor Antihijack Resolution

By TOM HOGUE, Associated Press Writer
 UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. General Assembly's policy debate ended on a scintillating note Wednesday night with Cuba warning that it would ignore any U.N. resolution against aerial hijacking.

Quesada Ambassador Ricardo Alarcon Quesada told the 126-nation assembly that Cuba might return hijackers under bilateral agreements but never under a multilateral agreement with Cuba warning that it would ignore any U.N. resolution against aerial hijacking.

Alarcon spoke on a day in which an airliner from Argentina and one from Brazil were hijacked to Cuba. A total of 48 passengers have been released and flown to Cuba this year.

A mass exodus of foreign ministers to their homelands began today after the biggest general debate in U.N. history.

She Picked Wrong Place To Be Born
 BOURNEMOUTH, England (AP)—Attractive new-born Diana Neville, 21, was all set to become a Pan-Am air hostess until the airline told her Wednesday she couldn't have the job because she was born in Cuba.

Bald heart-broken Diana: "I'm British, both my parents are British. I may have been born in Cuba but I left there at the age of three."

McCoy Discounts Problem With Town Employee Morale
 Expressing hope that his Democratic opponent, Seymour Lavitt, has not given up the idea of "discontinuing" among town employees, Republican Frank McCoy today questioned whether "the morale problem" Lavitt talks about.

McCoy said Lavitt has repeatedly stated that the morale of town employees is low but has not been specific as to why. He said he has not seen any of the equipment that McCoy says is being replaced by the town.

South Windsor Democrats Take the Credit For Major Town Programs

The Democratic Party laid claim this week to being the sponsor of "all major programs necessary for orderly growth with fiscal responsibility," citing as Democratic initiatives the North-South Industrial Road, the planning and construction of a sewer system, and construction on a new town hall. These are all Democratic accomplishments, they claim, and their proposals for future programs are included in a statement issued this week called "Program for Progress."

Dawn Simmons Claims Birth Of 'Miracle Child'

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — A British-born white author who married a Negro mechanic after announcing an inter-racial marriage says she has given birth to a daughter she calls "a miracle child."

Dawn Langley Hill Simmons, 39, said in an interview at her home Wednesday. "My child will be brought to Charleston in about three weeks. Then I'm going to get on a baby carriage and walk her right down on that hilly Battery."

The anticommunist mission on the Battery, the historic waterfront, houses many of the artistic Charlestonians in whose society Gordon Langley Hill was welcome before the operation.

Mrs. Simmons said the child is a 7-pound girl born in the Midwest Sept. 16. She would not identify the hospital or her doctor.

She said the baby was born a few weeks prematurely because she "had been harassed by newspaper people, then my husband had a very bad nerve turn, and my Doberman pincher got killed by a car."

At the time of her announcement three weeks ago that she was pregnant, doctors at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, Md., where the exchange operation took place last year, said it was "definitely impossible" for Mrs. Simmons to become pregnant.

Mrs. Simmons said, "I believe that God is higher than medical science and that's my explanation. She's a miracle child and will be a great blessing to the black people."

Mrs. Simmons is the former foster son and now the foster daughter of British actress Dame Margaret Rutherford.

Her husband, John Paul Simmons, about 26, was a mechanic when he married her Jan. 23. He is now working on a shrimp boat.

"We would work with the Park and Recreation Commission and the recreation director toward the planning and construction of a municipal pool."

Under the heading of taxes and fiscal responsibility, the Democrats promise to "investigate the feasibility of town participation in central purchasing with other municipalities."

Considering housing for the elderly, the Democrats claim that a Housing Authority set up a year ago has stalled and that they will "move the program forward by applying for grants available and by continuing to construct and complete housing for the elderly."

Learning needs disciplines, not the atmosphere of a holiday camp," the report added.

South Windsor Democrat Recreation Plan Criticized by Nicholas

Republican Councilman Peter Nicholas, chairman of the Council's Recreation Committee, criticized today the Democrat Party platform for recreation, saying that the Democratic program "opposes the spending of funds on small parcels with limited uses, and thereby ignores the need for residents to have recreational areas within walking distance."

Arlo Guthrie Plans to Wed

Vernon Math Teachers Exploring New Ideas in Technique

The math teachers in Vernon are going to school after school to learn new ideas in techniques of teaching. They are also reviewing basic concepts of arithmetic and geometry.

Guild Speaker

Francis M. Gera, deputy commissioner of the Connecticut Department of Consumer Protection, will speak on "Truth in Advertising," at a meeting of the Guild of Our Lady of St. Bartholomew's Church Tuesday at 8 p.m. at St. Bartholomew's School.

Participation in the program is voluntary. Upon successful completion of the requirements of the course, the Board of Education would grant three credits toward a salary increment for credits beyond the BA degree.

During the summer Neff studied at UConn under a grant from the National Science Foundation and in the summer of 1967 he participated at North-eastern University in a training program for teachers of in-service courses.

The in-service program started on Sept. 22 and will run through Feb. 8. The first meeting was devoted to numbers and numerals and the second to the number system. The first meeting in October covered addition and subtraction concepts.

In most cases the "new math" was taught using traditional methods. Now much research is being devoted to finding better teaching methods for developing concepts. Many programs now emphasize an activities approach and the use of manipulative devices.

Anderson has taught math at the secondary level for eight years in Vernon and was appointed coordinator in 1968. He has been studying part-time at the University of Michigan, completing graduate work in math education. He received his BA from the University of Massachusetts and holds graduate degrees from Trinity College and Wesleyan University.

Serving as assistant to Anderson is Walter Neff, chairman of the mathematics department at Rockville High School. Neff received his BA degree from Trinity and holds graduate degrees from the University of Hartford and Clarkson College of Technology.

Business Mirror

NEW YORK (AP)—Although the end of the year is still weeks away, some stock market investors are getting ready to sell their worst performers. Their aim being to reduce the tax bite on their 1969 income.

Up to $1,000 in net losses may be subtracted from ordinary taxable income, and that means a tax reduction of $250 for somebody in a 25 per cent tax bracket. Not much, but where else do losses win?

One reason for the early selling is the low market. Through September, the S&P 500 index has been eroded from the market value of all securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange. That means plenty of tax-loss selling.

Early selling also helps investors to avoid the year-end crush when poor performing stocks are pushed even lower by tax-loss sellers. Inevitably, thousands of investors will until the last minute before disposing of poor performers.

Proposed legislation is also bound to influence selling. The new tax bill, now in Congress, certain benefits of tax-loss selling would be reduced or eliminated. Rather than wait another year, therefore, investors intent on registering their losses might decide to act immediately.

The big danger in tax-loss selling is that good stocks, temporarily depressed, will be sold merely to obtain a tax reduction, and then never repurchased. Ideally, some investment managers say, tax-loss selling should be a means of upgrading portfolios. That is, a poor performing stock should be sold for fundamental reasons and replaced with a stock having better prospect.

But it isn't always so. If an investor is certain he made a mistake on purchasing a stock there is no reason in the world why he shouldn't simply get rid of it, reduce his taxes and use the money in a more profitable way.

This is the most common tax-loss situation.

An investor adds up all the long-term gains—long term meaning six months or more—purchase and sale—and then totals his losses. If long-term losses exceed long-term gains then he has won himself a tax deduction. The two methods involve danger, however, and both dangers involve price movements.

In the first instance a rise in the price of the stock would make it costly to re-establish a position, year's taxes indefinitely. A net loss of $3,000 for example, can be applied to reduce taxes on 1970 and 1971 income.

Tax-loss selling this year may be held off until the final day but it involves serious dangers. First, prices might become depressed even more by the tax-loss selling of others. Second, the holiday season is just a poor time in which to handle financial affairs.

Republicans Adopt 10-Plank Platform

The GOP Town Committee last night adopted a platform which points with pride at Republican accomplishments over the past three years, and which asks for support from the Manchester electorate to "Help us do more."

The 10-plank platform calls attention to "the lowest tax rate in the area," and pledges "to maintain this type of tight financial management."

It pledges continued efforts to combat the drug problem, and promises more involvement in town government for youth and young adults.

It pledges to maintain Manchester's high standard of education, "commensurate with the taxpayer's ability to pay," and it pledges continued efforts to replace recreational facilities lost to the new Rt. 6.

The platform pledges a "pay as you go" policy for highway and other capital projects, through continued cooperation with industry and developers, through application of the lowest bid principle.

It pledges the Senior Citizens Program, and pledges "first come first serve" priority system for housing for the elderly.

Republican Platform

FINANCES
Our budget afforded us a surplus while establishing the lowest tax rate in the area. No small accomplishment, in view of the massive hike in state taxes.

We pledge to maintain this type of tight financial management.

We will also maintain the sound investment policy that has brought us the highest return on town moneys in history.

We promise continued efforts to combat the alarming national drug problem. More educational programs will be provided on drug abuse, extensive preventive measures will be taken, and provision of treatment facilities expedited.

Mrs. Harry Carr Selected Burton's Woman of the Year

Mrs. Harry Carr of 40 Coburn Rd. yesterday was named Manchester's Woman of the Year by representatives of more than 25 Manchester women's organizations, at a luncheon at Harvey's Restaurant.

She will be honored Oct. 29 at Burton's. The store has sponsored the annual award since its inception 21 years ago.

Mrs. Carr's greatest interest is Project Concern. She spoke in its favor and campaigned to have the Hartford North End children continue attending Manchester schools. She originated and is actively concerned in the Emergency Mothers program which provides substitute mothers for the Hartford children in Manchester schools.

She has given numerous hours to the many projects of the Manchester Interfaith Social Action Committee and has assisted at the Interfaith Day Camp for underprivileged Hartford children during the past two summers.

She is a communicant of St. Bartholomew's Church and is a member of the Guild of Our Lady of St. Bartholomew and provides transportation to the Motherhood of Mary Month on an emergency basis to errands.

Pastor Conducts Bible Lectures

The Rev. Magr. Edward Reardon, pastor of St. James' Church, will conduct a series of lectures on the Bible starting Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the basement of the church. The lectures are open to all Catholics and non-Catholics, free of charge.

The first session will cover the history of the Bible during the last several decades. The "New Testament" will be discussed during later lectures.

Magr. Reardon will use a text book for these discussions, written by W. D. Davies, a Protestant scholar.

Agostinelli and Tomkiel Among New Bank Officers

Manchester's newest bank, approved by the State Banking Commission on Sept. 15, named its officers last night and made plans for engaging an architect for its building, and for retaining an executive officer. The latter will be responsible for staffing the bank and for conducting its actual operation.

A temporary certificate of authority, forwarded by the State Banking Commission, was recorded today in the Manchester town clerk's office. It grants the incorporators 12 months in which to organize and to prepare for the bank operation.

Trustees named are: Thomas J. Crockett and Nicholas LaPenta. The secretary is Atty. Nathan Agostinelli and the treasurer is Francis Murray.

All 20 of the bank's incorporators were named members of the board of directors.

The incorporators issued a statement which declares, "The bank's officers will serve only in an advisory capacity and will not actively pursue any bank duties."

The statement, it was explained, is to help reports that Agostinelli and Tomkiel, in their capacities of president and vice president, would be taking time from their elective posts of town director and town clerk.

In addition to naming officers last night, the 20 incorporators were divided into four subcommittees—site, stock, personnel and finance.

Fire Calls

Town firefighters went to Laurel Manor Convalescent Home, 91 Chestnut St., yesterday at 8:20 p.m. The fire alarm system was smoking but there was no fire. Firemen said except for the damage to the interior caused by the electrical malfunction, there was no other damage.

Eighty District firefighters waded some gasoline from Oakland St. near Denning St. yesterday at about 6:30 p.m. The gasoline was spilled from a car involved in an accident.

Emergency!

Despite the fact that over 15,000 people entered Manchester Memorial Hospital last year, there are many more who have never been in a hospital and who have no idea of what would happen to them if they were to enter under emergency conditions.

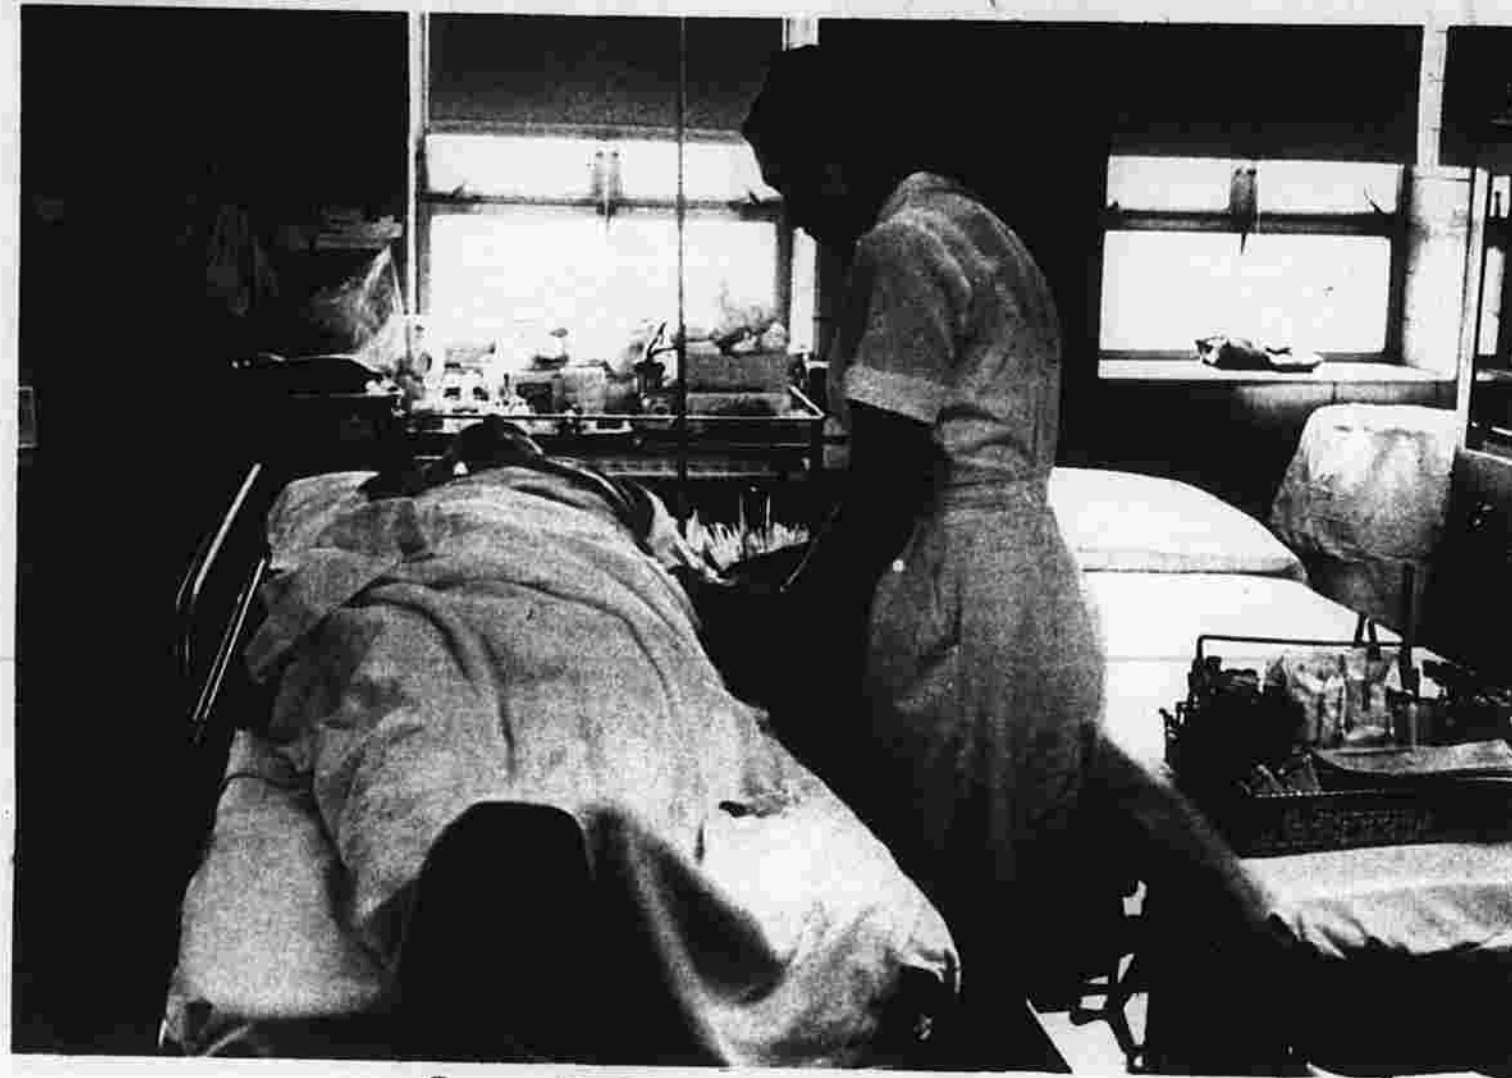

With this in mind, Herald photographer Albert E. Bucelivicius, and Bert Dittus, the hospital's development coordinator, arranged to stage a mock auto accident in which the victim (Dittus) would suffer internal injuries, and be taken through the hospital from the emergency room, to surgery, through recovery, to discharge.

All the persons in these photos are nurses, and technicians. Dittus and Bucelivicius spent a few hours at the hospital one recent Sunday morning, when the normally busy institution was relatively quiet.

The Herald would like to thank all the doctors who agreed to come in so early that Sunday morning, and all the nurses, technicians, and administrators who cooperated in helping us to do this story.

"A Manchester man suffered severe internal injuries last night when the car he was driving left the road and slammed head-on into a tree.

After undergoing emergency surgery last night for the removal of a ruptured spleen, Bert Dittus was said to be in satisfactory condition in the hospital's special care zone today."

3 Blood for lab tests is drawn.

But what lies behind that typical report of an auto accident injury? More than 870 employees — about 2 1/2 employees for each patient — will play a part in every patient's story before he is discharged.

From the time he enters to the time he is discharged, many skilled professionals will attend to the patient.

At the scene of the accident, he will be picked up by the ambulance crew and rushed to the emergency room. At the emergency room, or "ER", immediate treatment will begin. Emergency laboratory blood and urine tests will be ordered, along with emergency X-ray examinations.

Some office lab tests ordered might include tests to determine the patient's blood type, his blood volume, and in the case of a suspected ruptured spleen, one or two pints of blood would be prepared or "crossmatched" for the patient.

Crossmatching means that a blood bank technician will mix a sample of the patient's blood with a sample of the donor's blood and examine this under microscope to be sure the two bloods are compatible.

Only in extreme emergencies is blood given without first performing a cross-match.

After the emergency room physician makes an initial examination, and the patient will be taken to X ray where X rays of his abdomen are taken.

In less than one hour, the doctor will have the lab and X-ray reports, and he will be able to make a diagnosis.

We gave Dittus a ruptured spleen, and rapid emergency surgery to remove the damaged organ is required.

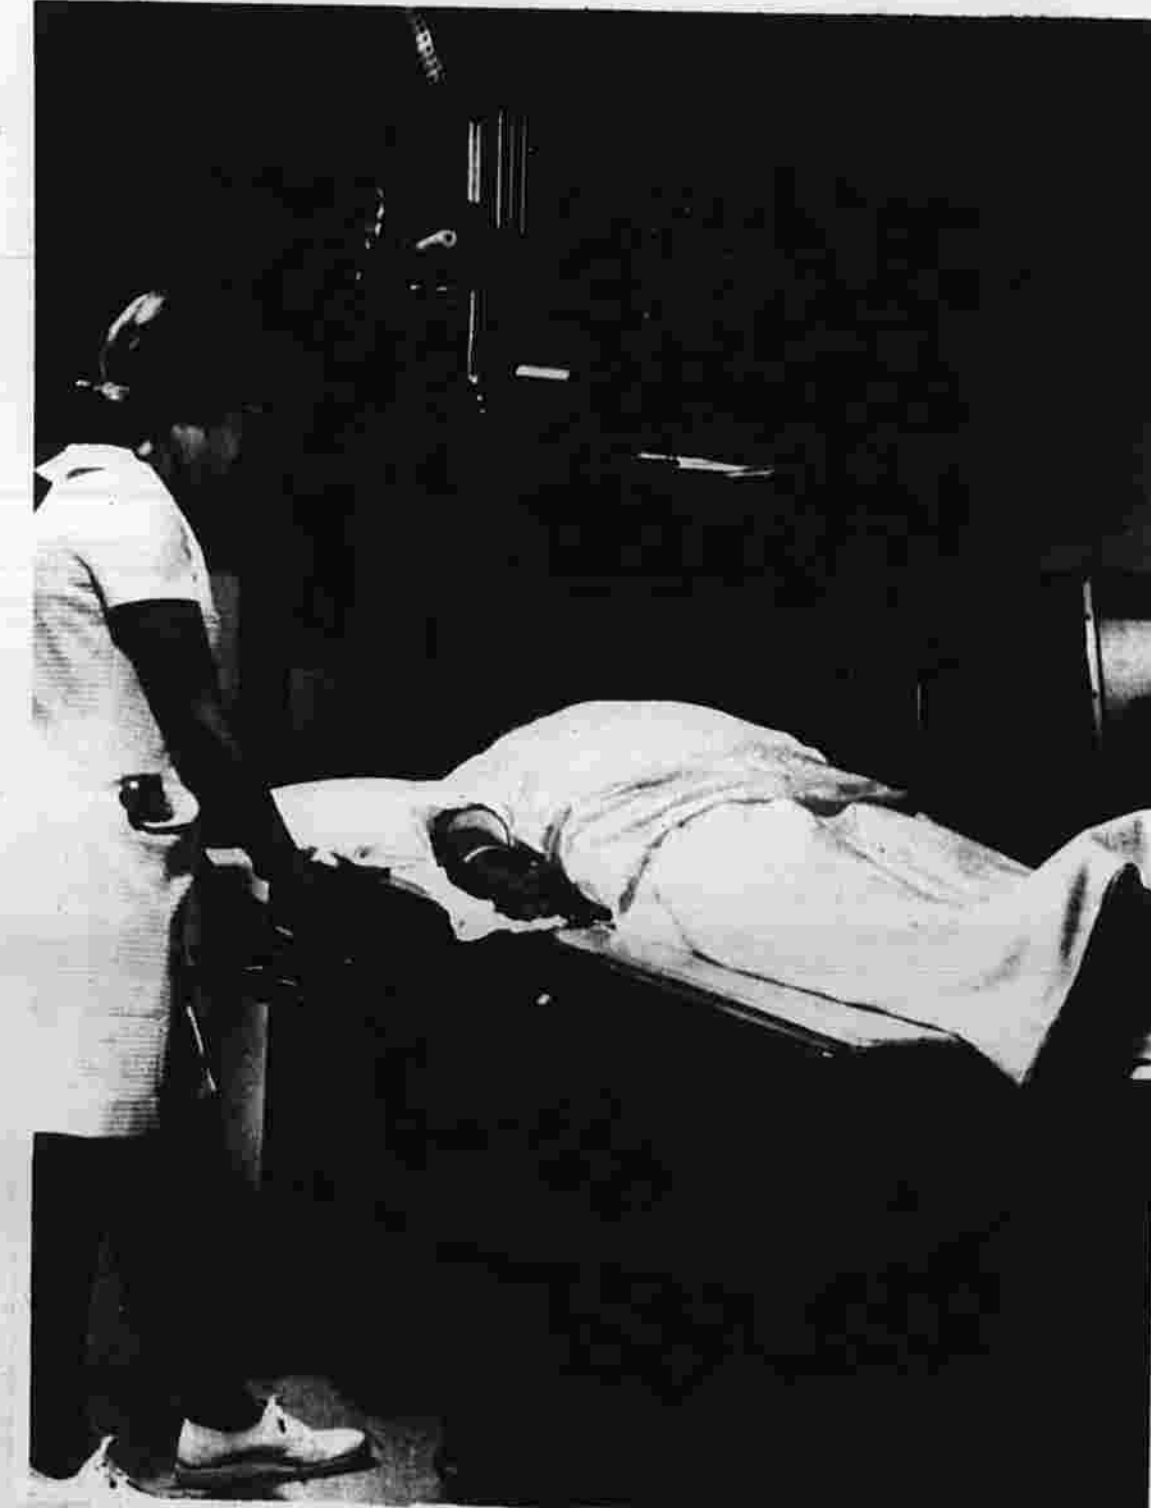

If the injury is severe enough, the patient will go directly from the ER to surgery, but usually he will first be taken to a regular hospital room where he will be "prepped" for the operation.

He will be clad in the familiar hospital gown, the "johnnie", long white cotton boots will cover his feet, and x-ray abdomen will be shaved and prepared with an antiseptic. And he usually will be given amild sedative.

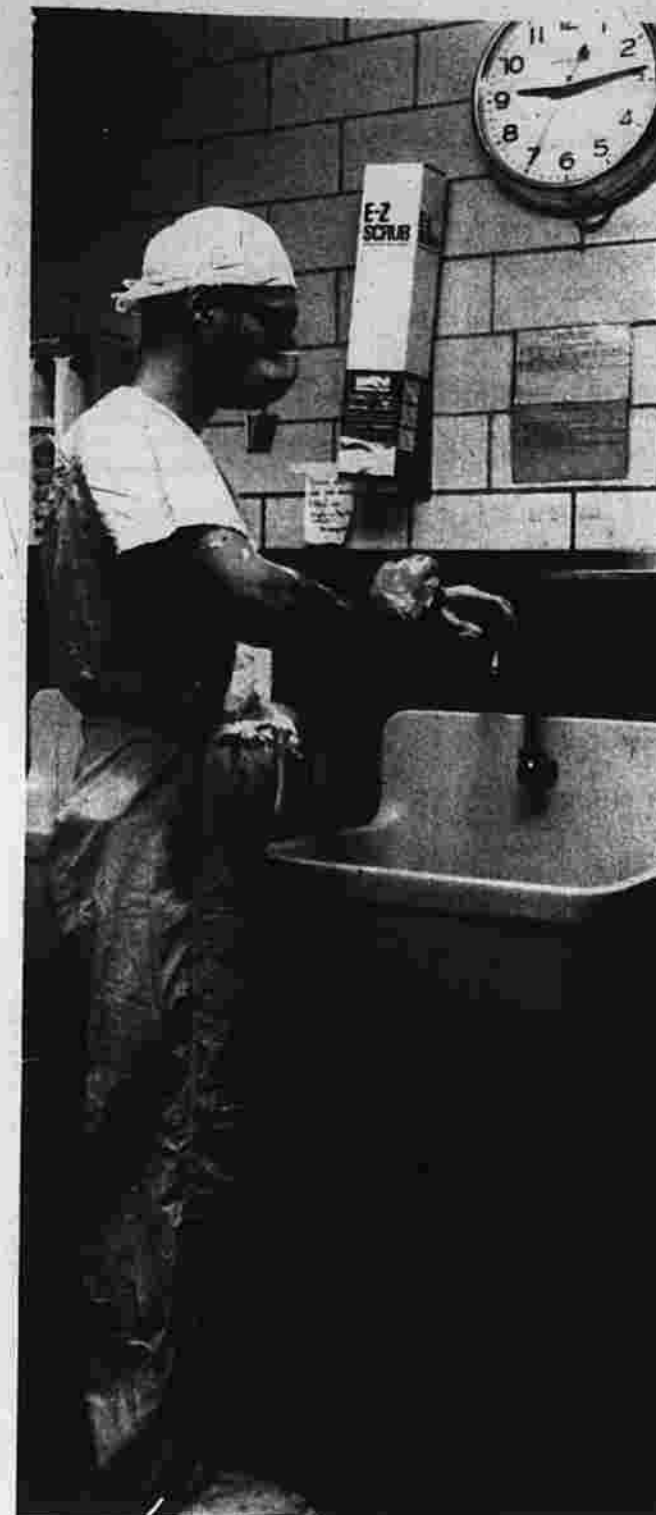

When the prep is complete, an orderly will take the patient to surgery on a stretcher. Once he is in the "OR", as it's called, a surgical team will take over, surrounding the patient on the operating table will be at least two surgeons, another doctor called an anesthesiologist, and two nurses.

6 A Radiologist examines the Xrays.

7 Scrubbing for surgery.

After the operation is completed the patient will be taken to the recovery room where he will be closely watched by nurses while he comes out of the anesthesia. While in the recovery room, his vital signs — pulse, blood pressure, and respirations — will be checked every 15 minutes and recorded on his chart.

The patient, now conscious but still in need of close watching and skilled care, will be transferred to special care.

He will be placed into one of the special care "units" where he can be watched constantly by a nurse. When he is recovered sufficiently that he no longer requires the constant observation of special care, (at least a couple of days) the patient will be transferred to an intermediate care floor.

Intermediate care beds make up the majority of beds at the hospital and this is where the conventional, most familiar hospital care is received.

When the patient is able to fend for himself, his doctor may transfer him to the self care area. In the new crescent-shaped Self Service Building, nicknamed "the motel" by many, the patient will be 50 per cent on his own.

He walks to the cafeteria for his meals, to the lab for blood tests and to X ray for examinations there. He can go to the spacious lounge to watch television, chat, or play cards. Also in the lounge is a small kitchen where he can make a light snack-and have a cup of coffee.

Because of his experience in self care, the patient is usually able to resume fairly normal activities upon his discharge. One of the main functions of self care is to help the patient regain his confidence, to let him know that he can make it by himself.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of equipment, many highly skilled employees, and a lot of careful planning are behind every patient stay at Manchester Memorial, or any hospital.

8 A surgical team performs the operation.

9 You will be taken to a special care unit for "post op" care. Here, nurses can keep a close watch on your condition. Visitors are restricted to immediate family only, for five-minute periods.

Anjelica Huston: No Family Generation Gap

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Anjelica Huston, at 18, is to a great family theatrical tradition she hopes to carry on, looks at life with haunting dark eyes that are involved and unafraid. She has the independence typical of her actor grandfather, Walter Huston, and her father, John, who directed her in her first film, "A Walk with Love and Death." It is a tragedy of teen-age love during the Middle Ages in which she is co-starred with Amal Dayan, son of Moshe Dayan, Israeli defense minister. "I may have been shown favoritism in getting the part," she said with dry frankness, "but I certainly was shown no favoritism on the set."

Anjelica, who was born in Los Angeles and reared in Europe, is deeply concerned with the generation gap but feels none between her and her famous father.

"I haven't been as close to my father as I wanted to because of circumstances," she remarked. "But I think that once you cross the screwed-up, horrible phases of adolescence and can look at star but to be a good actress," she said.

"Tall, willowy and earnest, she can appreciate her possibilities coolly."

"My biggest virtue, I feel, is doing what I set out to do—to express whatever talent I have for becoming a good actress."

"I also think I can see people well. I can look at people and feel their vibrations and know them as they are."

"My biggest fault is probably hypersensitivity, sometimes to the point of being ridiculous. I can get very paranoid. I don't shrug off situations easily."

What about romance? "Love is the most extraordinary thing in the world," she smiled, "and the discovery that you love someone is possibly as great as the love itself, but I don't have any announcements to make at this time. I like my freedom."

Here are Anjelica's likes: "Cats and horses and the moon—simplicity in dress—all music except the kind that is pipe into elevators—dawn and dusk, black and white color—astrology and mysticism—the smell of burning turf in Ireland—all kinds of art—the sound of the wind—Mexican food and rice—and honest manly men."

And here are her dislikes: "Being rushed—getting up in the morning—the sound of auto horns in traffic jams—the smell of milk—corny styles of dress—people dirty of body or spirit—liars and cheats and vicious—any kind of war."

If Anjelica fails to win fame, it won't be for lack of courage.

Sheppard's Divorced; She Charged Neglect

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard's German-born second wife, who says she spent a fortune helping to clear him of a murder conviction, was granted a divorce Tuesday. She charged gross neglect.

Mrs. Sheppard, the former Arlene Tebbelmann, and the osteopath were married in July 1964. Two days after a federal court had freed him from the Ohio Penitentiary. He had served nearly 10 years of a life sentence on a conviction of kidnapping his first wife to death.

Mrs. Sheppard, a Duesenberg actress who had corresponded with Sheppard while he was in prison, said she spent nearly $200,000 on legal expenses and supporting her husband until he regained his license to practice osteopathy.

Sheppard now practices in Columbus.

Pakistan Asks Guns, Bread From U.S.

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN Associated Press Writer
ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Pakistan is testing the Nixon administration with requests for guns and bread.

In the wake of President Nixon's visit here in August, Pakistan is awaiting the result of a promised reassessment of U.S. policy restricting the sale of military equipment to its armed forces.

This Muslim land of 120 million once received its American equipment as aid grants. It now wants to buy American airplanes and tanks. If not directly from the United States then from such countries as West Germany, Italy and Belgium.

With a food shortage in East Pakistan, the central government also has asked the United States for 11 million tons of wheat. Some of the wheat would go to 100,000 more among air force, navy and frontier irregulars. The Indians are believed to maintain a force of about 800,000.

More than $200 million of the $200 million current budget here is assigned to defense.

The request comes as American aid terms are tightened. Last year's development aid program from the United States to Pakistan was cut to the lowest since the United States became this South Asian country's primary aid source.

The United States once gave military equipment to its partner in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization. It halted virtually all civilian and military aid in 1965 as part of the effort to halt the Indian-Pakistan war.

Billboard Blight Conceals New Hampshire's Beauty

By DON GUY Associated Press Writer
CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — On a clear day in New Hampshire, you can see for miles and miles. But sometimes all you can see are billboards.

On many highways it looks as though the Granite State is being consumed by the billboard blight. This is the height of the brief foliage season, but the billboard blight is year-round.

Last Sunday a record 25,000 cars were clocked through the Hooksett toll booths on Route 88. Many of the drivers probably never got beyond the "billboard alley" on Route 3 below Franconia, N.H. where there was a 10-mile traffic jam.

An tourists approach Concord on Route 88 the gold dome of the State House looms in the distance. But far more prominent is a solid row of billboards and a junk yard area near the Merrimack River.

Within sight of Concord's billboards are state agencies where a quarter million dollars are spent annually to extol the beauties of New Hampshire.

Tourists often are confronted with miles of scenic foliage as they reach the coast of the White Mountain National Forest.

The billboard blight is especially noticeable since foliage season because Vermont has adopted the toughest anti-billboard legislation in the continental United States (they are banned outright in Hawaii).

Tourists crossing the Connecticut River from Vermont are "bombed" by signs at nearly every scenic curve entering

Italy Sends Chemicals

ROME — Italian imports of chemicals from the United States climbed 14 per cent last year, to $14.8 billion in spite of strong competition from Communist countries. Italian chemicals exported to the United States totaled $28.1 million, compared with $28.5 in 1967.

Motorists Will Escape the Billboard Blight

Motorists who enter New Hampshire along the seacoast turnpike knew the billboard blight in recent months. Most of the area, the first part of New Hampshire that motorists see, is soad for commu-
