Is there any common denominator in this?

In the Mediterranean area, Russia has reportedly been trying to pressure its supposed friend, Libya, into the role of a full-fledged satellite, a role which would first require offering a base for units of the Russian Mediterranean fleet, accept Russian advisers as well as arms for its army, and welcome the establishment of Russian information and cultural centers in its capital city.

In the Far East, the alliance and vital military cooperation the United States maintains with Thailand in the early phases of the war have now been put under the additional strain of the extension of the war, by American policy, into two additional Asian nations, Cambodia and Laos, moving, in each case, with little more regard for the possible sanctity of international boundaries than the North Vietnamese themselves have displayed.

The common denominator involved in both North Africa and Southeast Asia might read, then, this way:

Where the United States begins to press in too hard and persistently, small, weakly independent sovereigns begin to think, more shrewdly of Russia. Where Russia begins to behave like more of an over than a guest, United States prestige goes up.

What would the world be like if both Russia and the United States should go home and stay there? Presumably that would leave the world to become a giant playground for the Chinese.

If we would escape such cynical conclusion and fate, we have to find the way to reach for a better system of world life and we may even have to invent, some day, a United Nations with power and prestige enough to keep any big nation from throwing its weight around among the little ones.

The Governor's Tax Proposals

Most of Governor Meskell's budget message, like the report of the tax study task force before it, will seem totally unacceptable.

Yet most of it, or something like it, or even worse, must be accepted.

This is going to be a hard time for the people of Connecticut, no matter what we do.

We have no choice about the fact that we are, all of us, going to have to pay, and pay heavily, to bring our state government back into solvency. We are, all of us, going to pay in two main ways, first in increased taxes to the state itself, and second because we are not going to get, from this deficit-ridden state government, any additional help for the property tax rates in our cities and towns.

We do have choice about one thing, and it is a choice we are going to have to make, through our elected representatives in the General Assembly.

We must choose whether the main instrument for collecting for us is to remain the sales tax, or whether a new levy, an income tax, is to be brought in to share the collecting task.

It is truly a choice between evil burdens.

Nonetheless, it seems worth while to join Governor Meskell in his effort to fight the thing through without bringing the state income tax into Connecticut life.

An income tax would involve a new calculation, a new form, a new lump sum burden, and once it got listed on the books, it would stay there forever.

On the other hand, it has been repeatedly demonstrated that we do have some power to adjust — usually, it is true, by raising them — our existing taxes.

And there is something psychologically important in the fact that the individual, under the present tax schedules, usually knows when he is encountering a tax obligation, and can, if he wishes, try to take that into account in his own spending plans.

As for the old classic argument between the sales tax and the income tax, that one is more socially just than another, it no longer holds anything like the validity it may once have possessed. Just about everybody gets hurt by both taxes. The current calculation would seem to be this: that it would hurt most people less to pay more heavily through the existing taxes than to continue to pay very substantially through them and get the income tax in addition, forever and ever.

Governor Meskell has at least prevented a stampede into the income tax. There is time to consider.

Something Good In The 1970's

Recently we have had the privilege of preaching at the annual morning services of the Congressional Church of the area of our own parish, which is also our native parish. When we were growing up, it was absolutely inconceivable that a Catholic priest would ever do anything of the sort. Indeed, that any Catholic should, for any reason, set foot in a Protestant church was regarded as highly irregular.

In those early days of ours, as we walked to our parish church for Mass, we passed one, two or three non-Catholic churches, depending on the route we took. All we knew about them was that false worship was practiced within them. The form it took, we did not know. But whatever it was, it was false.

Strangely, the people involved in it were, some of them at least, our neighbors. We went to school with them, our fathers worked with their fathers, our mother shopped and exchanged recipes and discussed neighborhood problems with their mothers. And yet they were the heathen, if unmentioned, fact of their practice of a false religion.

It was the same with most of the practices in the public school we attended. The Catholics on the faculty were very few. In grade after grade we were taught by Protestant ladies, excellent teachers, excellent human beings. But, strangely, involved in false religion.

These were good people, good family people, good neighbors, good instructors. How, then, did they come to be so? The answer was that they were well endowed with the natural virtues. The working of the Holy Spirit, the presence and power of grace could have nothing to do with it, since these were restricted to the Catholic Church and its adherents. We don't remember ever being taught this formally, or ever being told anything of the sort by our parents. But somehow we got the impression, and it prevailed.

It prevailed for a good many years, much longer than it is comfortable to acknowledge. As a priest, we came in touch with non-Catholic clergymen, but we were eagerly about it such contacts had to be, but we kept our blinders carefully in place. We were convinced of the inadequacy of these men, and grudging as to their good faith. We had prejudiced our own eyes for all, and automatically applied our prejudice so that the real quality of any of them never came through to us. We didn't let it.

Living into the sixties and seventies of the twentieth century had, in many ways, been costly and painful. But it has also had its wonderful rewards. One of these is the opportunities and discoveries made possible by the ecumenism which grew from word to fact after Vatican II.

For us, this has brought about the dismantling of the deliverance from ancient prejudices. We have now looked non-Catholic clergy in the eye and his and she, and we have heard them preach incisive and beautiful sermons, and many of them remarkable, even heroic, Christians. We have heard them preach incisive and beautiful sermons, and many of them remarkable, even heroic, Christians. We have heard them preach incisive and beautiful sermons, and many of them remarkable, even heroic, Christians. We have heard them preach incisive and beautiful sermons, and many of them remarkable, even heroic, Christians.

Inside Report

Strom's Great Awakening

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON — The still unannounced decision of Sen. Strom Thurmond to add a Negro to his regular Senate staff, though sure to create a minor storm back home in South Carolina, is symbolic of the radical political shift now taking place among Republican leaders throughout the South.

Thurmond, chief agent of Richard M. Nixon's ill-fated Southern strategy during and since the 1968 campaign, is now wooing South Carolina's large black vote for one reason: To save his political life in his reelection battle next year.

Even with that objective, however, segregationist Thurmond could not risk the political obloquy of naming a Negro to his staff. If Southern racial politics were not undergoing a sea-change, the appointment, expected to be announced soon, would be at least as much from his campaign for re-election in 1972.

Evidence of his change, and a top-level Republican decision to exploit it, starts in the White House where Thurmond's former assistant and public, Presidential political aide, Harry Dent, has been publicly pushing his own South Carolina Republican plan to open its doors wide to blacks.

Although Dent failed to persuade the South Carolina Republican executive committee to elect a racial moderate as the new state chairman last month, that result turned on parochial politics having little to do with Dent's major thesis—that Southern Republicans must actively seek Negro support.

Since then, Dent has been taking his message across the South. Here in Washington, Republican National Committee operatives, with Dent's help, are trying to arrange a meeting between President Nixon and the 12 black members of Congress who boycotted Mr. Nixon's State of the Union message because he refused to see them after the election.

But the stronger Republican push for black votes is coming from Southern Republican parties, not the White House. Perhaps the most remarkable example is Alabama.

Two weeks ago, with surprisingly little conflict, the Alabama party voted to put two blacks on the state central committee—a first racial "mixing" since the days of the black-and-tan GOP.

Tree Expert?

To the Editor:

Since other citizens of Manchester may have had similar experiences involving the trimming of their trees, it might be of interest and also help prevent additional damage to our trees, if you will print the following item:

As a retired Administrative Officer formerly with the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service, at the University of Connecticut, I have had some experience in the care of trees and most other plant life, and am therefore, quite aware of their importance, soil and water conservation and the prevention of air pollution.

Thus, Thurmond, the South's most prominent segregationist after Alabama's Gov. George Wallace—became Mr. Nixon's agent in the South, and Southern black voters gave Mr. Nixon less than five per cent of their vote.

Now, however, the one-hated Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW) is subtly changing from villain to hero. How explains that? The answer has long since figured out that it is homing in on the attention of the Electric Company and the Town how our trees are being damaged. This happened to one of my trees recently and I have reason to believe that it is happening to many others in Manchester. I also had to call the attention of the tree experts to the fact that the branch stubs were not being treated with tree-wound paint, as should always be done. It wasn't that they couldn't be seen, as they left the stubs several inches long, which should never be done, as that prevents their healing over.

I had the pleasure of talking to Mr. Lauriat of the Hartford Electric Light Company about this matter, and he was very cooperative and said that the Electric Company was interested in seeing that no unnecessary damage was done to the Balancing Items?

There are two curiously complementary items in the news — almost like those items in annual statements in which profit and loss are somehow always made to add up to the same final balancing figure.

One new item tells us that our ally in the Far East, Thailand, is becoming a little less automatic in its praise and support of our conduct in Indo-China, and seeking, instead, to avoid too close an identification of Thailand with American interests.

The other news item tells us that the nation of Libya, in North Africa, is looking for ways to drift away from the possibility of friendship with Soviet Russia into a better understanding with the United States.

So, as Thailand moves ever so subtly away from us, Libya moves toward us. Or, looking at it from the Russian point of view, the ground being lost in Libya may be gained back in Thailand.

Drugs Program For Teachers Set Tomorrow

The first in a series of in-service teacher-training programs in the area of drug abuse education will be held tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. in the all-purpose room of the elementary school. Classes at the high school will be dismissed at noon, and those at the elementary and Center schools will be dismissed at 1 p.m. To enable the entire teaching staff to attend the program, the afternoon kindergarten session will meet in the morning.

The presentation has been arranged through the cooperation of Metro and Capital Region Drug Information Center.

The first session is entitled "Basis of Human Motivation—The Need for Gratification." The program will include a combination of recorded materials, video tapes and live discussion conducted by specially trained personnel.

Dr. Craig Daniels, assistant professor of psychology at University of Hartford, will discuss the developmental stages of human behavior, motivation and emotion, considering both the physiological and learned aspects.

He will be assisted by Walter E. Stewart, executive director of CRDIC, and Ralph Archer, drug education coordinator of CRDIC.

In discussing the school's drug program, Superintendent of Schools Joseph Castagna said that the problem of drug use is one requiring long-range preventative education which must begin in early elementary school and be structured through the entire school system as part of an integrated health education program.

"Since classroom teachers are the key to any such program," he continued, "the drug abuse activity has been directed toward their own education toward a quiet mind in a troubled world."

Subsequent programs in the series will deal with defense mechanisms and adjustment techniques; drug use as an introduction to different modes of behavior; institutional influences of personality development; examining life styles and major personality characteristics identified with drug culture.

WFO Movie

In view of the early school closing tomorrow, the Parent-Teacher Organization will offer a movie in the afternoon at the elementary school. The film, entitled "Tanaka: A Story of an Indian Boy and His Horse," will be shown at the high school beginning at 2:30 p.m. It will run for two hours and fifteen Danbury in the early 1960s.

Brothers Face Murder Counts In Police Deaths

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Authorities have lodged murder charges against the second of two brothers in the execution-style slayings of three peace officers.

A search widened throughout the state, meanwhile, for ex-convict Rene Adolpho Guzman, one of the accused pair. He was described by investigators as "a real mean man—he thinks he's God." Dallas County Sheriff Clarence Jones said Guzman and his brother, Moses Zamia Guzman, 35, were at a house where five officers were taken captive.

Ford Reports Earnings Drop Over Full Year

DETROIT (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. reports record earnings for the last quarter of 1970 of $151 million, but says its 12-month earnings were down $31 million.

The decrease in net income was explained Tuesday as due to sharply rising labor and material costs. The nation's second largest automotive manufacturer said 1970 sales were a record $15 billion.

Earlier, both General Motors and Chrysler also reported lower 1970 earnings.

The earnings per share for Ford stock were $4.77 for 1970 compared with $5.03 for 1969, based on sales of $14.8 billion. Earnings for 1970 totaled $18 million compared with $47 million in 1969.

General Motors, closed by a 10-week strike last fall, reported its net income was $600 million in 1970, off 96 per cent from 1969. The Ford did not say its earnings were down $31 million in 1970, compared to a record of $99 million in 1969.

River Ice Floe Carries Sam To Another State

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — A German Shepherd dog named Sam has completed a trip down the Susquehanna River from New York to Pennsylvania on an ice floe.

Sam, owned by Mrs. Marion Baldwin of Nichols, N.Y., began his 90-mile float some time Monday morning. Nobody knows how he got aboard, but he didn't reach shore until Tuesday after sparring a 48 per cent increase in the number of persons who applied to Yale this year than last, a difference of some 600 applications.

The 18 per cent decrease in applications comes two years after Yale announced it was opening its doors to women, spurring a 48 per cent increase in the number of persons who applied.

Last year the admissions office announced an increase in the application fee from $10 to $20. Mouskens and Henry Chauncey Jr., director of university admissions, both said they thought the fee increase helped discourage "unrealistic" candidates for admission.

Chauncey added that "the fee fee Sam, here Sam."

He was first spotted near Waverly, N.Y., where police made unsuccessful rescue efforts.

Monday night, several men in Laceyville, Pa., tried to coax the dog onto a plank they extended from the river bank to the ice floe.

Brothers Face Murder Counts In Police Deaths

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Authorities have lodged murder charges against the second of two brothers in the execution-style slayings of three peace officers.

A search widened throughout the state, meanwhile, for ex-convict Rene Adolpho Guzman, one of the accused pair. He was described by investigators as "a real mean man—he thinks he's God." Dallas County Sheriff Clarence Jones said Guzman and his brother, Moses Zamia Guzman, 35, were at a house where five officers were taken captive.

Dr. Craig Daniels, assistant professor of psychology at University of Hartford, will discuss the developmental stages of human behavior, motivation and emotion, considering both the physiological and learned aspects.

He will be assisted by Walter E. Stewart, executive director of CRDIC, and Ralph Archer, drug education coordinator of CRDIC.

In discussing the school's drug program, Superintendent of Schools Joseph Castagna said that the problem of drug use is one requiring long-range preventative education which must begin in early elementary school and be structured through the entire school system as part of an integrated health education program.

"Since classroom teachers are the key to any such program," he continued, "the drug abuse activity has been directed toward their own education toward a quiet mind in a troubled world."

Subsequent programs in the series will deal with defense mechanisms and adjustment techniques; drug use as an introduction to different modes of behavior; institutional influences of personality development; examining life styles and major personality characteristics identified with drug culture.

Agents Grab Smoke Wrap

WASHINGTON (AP) - Cigarette paper which produces the $100 bill and says it isn't legal tender apparently isn't legal either, the Secret Service says.

Agents raided four George Town shops Tuesday and seized an unknown quantity of the paper, designed to look somewhat like a one-quarter size $100 bill.

The issue paper bears the words "This note is not legal tender. Its true value is not yet recognized by this country."

In place of "Federal Reserve Note" the words "United States of America" are printed.

The serial number is 302450414-14. The White House telephone number as listed in the Washington Post is 202-456-1111.

Stuart Knight, special agent in charge of the Washington field office of the Secret Service, said the paper was seized under sections of the United States Code which prohibit the production of legal tender.

He said the Secret Service confiscated the paper after a complaint was made anonymously by a "man who saw his son in the Washington Post office."

Another individual cigarette paper selling well in the Washington area, satirizes the draft card and bears the serial number 02823718.

That item was not seized.

Britain Cutting Defense Outlay

LONDON (AP) - Prime Minister Edward Heath's government announced today it plans to spend $16 billion less on defense in the next fiscal year than for the year ending March 31.

A white paper said Britain's defense budget for 1971-72 will total $4.1 billion, it did not explain where the reduction will be made.

The government said the Royal Air Force is being reorganized with a worldwide force build-up, and Britain will continue to commit its main military effort to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Former Gov. John D. Dempsey, a Democrat, was firmly opposed to both horse racing and a state lottery during the 10 years he was in office.

He called the horse racing "an idea whose time has come" and indicated that it's only the idea that's here now. The track, even if it were to be closed, would still be a part of the state's economy.

Colony Awaits Sentence Review

SAIGON (AP) - Col. Gerald V. Kehrli will probably be transferred soon to an air base in the United States to await the review of his military record.

Kehrli, 46, from Willow, Minn., was sentenced by a general court-martial Tuesday to three years imprisonment and fined $10,000 for smoking and possessing marijuana.

The sentence has been delayed until the case is given the review provided by military law.

Money also is a big factor. Kehrli claims he needs $10,000 to pay for his family and himself.

Congressman Remembers Home Folks

wrote to chairman Newton N. Minow of the Federal Communications Commission in a 1962 letter "concerning a proposed new standard broadcast station at Smithville, Tenn.—my home town."

It was one of three letters (there was at least one telephone call) to the FCC in behalf of the application. When it was finally granted, the station adopted Evans' initials for its call letters, WLEB.

More recently, after Cookeville failed to win HUD approval for its application as a "Project Breakthrough" site, Evans' subcommittee sought HUD's request for $50 million for the experimental housing program to $10 million.

Evans maintained that HUD research programs such as Breakthrough had not been producing despite rising costs, that past programs were gathering dust on the shelf and that HUD Secretary George Romney was using Breakthrough "for giveaway money that the secretary could grant to his specially favored friends."

But when asked to comment on a report that he had informed a top aide that the rejection of Cookeville was "not very prudent," the congressman smiled and said, "I don't think I used that word. But I don't think it was."

AP Filmstrip Tells of Draft
The background of compulsory military service within the United States is the theme of a new Associated Press "Special Report" filmstrip to be distributed to area schools shortly by The Manchester Evening Herald.

The "Draft Debate" features a number of color and black and white photographs gathered from AP sources throughout the United States and abroad.

The filmstrip, part of a series of award-winning filmstrips produced by AP, traces the central themes of American beliefs and traditions and the growing involvement of the United States in the defense of liberty overseas as well as at home.

The maintenance by the United States of a large defense establishment is placed into the context of the defense of liberty by foreign commitments in a clear age.

The debate on the draft discusses the Selective Service System, how it functions, how it has changed, and the alternatives being proposed in Congress today and to make the defense of this country more equitable and fair to those who must serve.

Also raised are questions of patriotism, freedom, rights and privileges and a way of life.

The filmstrip, accompanied by a sound teacher's manual, features an exclusive interview with Dr. Curtis W. Tarr, director of the Selective Service.

Thomas Gitter, chairman of the President's Commission on an All-Volunteer Army, also is included in the program.

Kooyin Debt
NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — It took more than three years, but a sound and child-resistant Niagara Falls restaurant owner has been paid for a meal eaten in 1967 by Russian Premier Alexei Kosygin.

The State Department recently paid the bill. It seems Kosygin and state department officials ate lunch at John's Fleming, a restaurant and dining room, and the meal bill, which was $100, was handled, walked out without paying.

New Air Strip
Just north of town, a new air strip awaits the passing of winter for the final blacktopping. Throughout the county, sewer and water lines are being planned and built. Curbs and gutters are adding an urban look to business districts.

An ambitious road building plan is on the drawing board. New schools, community centers, health centers, public housing units are under construction. There is new industry and new hope for a population where barely half the families earn more than $3,000 a year in cash income.

The region needs development, Evans said. It needs jobs to stem chronic out migration to the industrial centers of the North.

A county judge of one of our small counties told me he took a job of high school graduate in June and in September, he said, "By September he had left the county and only 90 remained. You educate them for 12 years and in three months they're gone."

In DeKalb County, for example, where population had fallen from 15,000 in 1940 to 10,774 in 1960, the tide is slowly turning the other way. The county is now growing by 1 per cent a year.

Larry J. Puckett, a young dentist who returned to Smithville with his skills after medical school, can vouch for other improvements.

"Eight years ago when I came back, I would say that less than 10 per cent of the people here had even adequate dental care."

"Now there's an upgrading. The people are beginning to progress real well. They never had anything and now they have a little. . . . But nothing happened until Joe got into position. So what the others would do if they could get into position."

Four Set Pleas In New Haven Gang War Link

HARTFORD (AP) — Four of the 10 men accused of supplying weapons for an underworld gang west in New Haven pleaded innocent to federal firearms and conspiracy charges Tuesday in U.S. District Court.

The cases of two other men were continued by Judge T. Emmet Clark.

Pleading not guilty were Daniel Tedesco, 47, of Newington; Raymond M. Rapunzo, 29, of Edmund Devlin, 38, of New Haven; Vincent S. Bennett, 29, of New Haven, and Salvatore Vitone, 41, formerly of Hartford.

Walter B. "Benny" Proch, 46, of Hartford, had his case continued for two weeks to enable him to hire an attorney and the case of Frank "Dicky" Annunziato, 36, of East Haven, was continued because Annunziato spent Tuesday in Superior Court in New Haven facing charges of murder.

The government says the men were illegally dealing in guns which were to be used in a gang war between two rival gangs seeking to control New Haven's loansharking business. The war, which flared in the late months of 1968, was between factions headed by Connecticut State Police Sgt. Joseph J. "Boss" Gorman and Salvatore Vitone.

Heart Fund Aids

Peter K. Mulligan of 30 Quarry Dr., Vernon, is serving as regional chairman for the Manchester-Vernon-South Windsor area of the 1971 Heart Fund Campaign, now under way.

Mulligan, who recently moved to Vernon, is an assistant treasurer for Society for Savings and assistant manager of the West Hartford office.

He is being assisted by town chairman Walter Cooley of 113 Highland St., James L. Beattie Jr. of 46 Hilltop Ave., Vernon; Lewis Dube of 48 Talwood Dr., Wapping; and Edward J. Curtin of 827 Pleasant Valley Rd., South Windsor.

The Heart Fund Drive reaches its peak this week as more than 1,600 volunteers visit their neighbors to distribute heart-saving literature and to receive donations to the Heart Fund. This Sunday, Feb. 21, is designated as "Heart Sunday."

This year's goal for the Manchester area is nearly $14,000. For the 29 towns served by the Heart Association of Greater Hartford, the goal is $28,000.

Proceeds from the fund drive are used to support research in cardiovascular disease, educational programs and community service activities.

Republicans Tap Morra To Seek His Fifth Term

Bolton Republicans met last night in caucus to endorse a slate of candidates for the May and William Cavanaugh to fill elections. About 60 people turned out for the meeting, which was moderated by Republican Town Chairman Robert Dixon. Richard Morra, incumbent first selectman, was nominated for a fifth term, while Raymond Wilson was nominated as commons park commissioner, was nominated for full terms received by the endorsement of a standing ovation from those present.

The caucus, which lasted only about 30 minutes, moved along smoothly, the only contest being for the school board nomination. Three candidates vied for two seats on this board. William Thomas Meadell will be in Bol-Grunka, incumbent school board chairman, and John Gieson, won a ballot vote, while Nancy Silverstein.

Incumbent Olive Toomey was nominated for town clerk, and Catherine Peterson was endorsed for a second term as treasurer. Elaine Peterson was nominated tax collector.

Those who will run for full terms on the Board of Finance are William Riley (incumbent) and Morris Silverstein. Dan Ratawal was nominated to fill a vacancy on that board.

Abilio Santos and Olan Eder were endorsed for seats on the Board of Tax Review. William A. Cavendon and James Hassett were nominated for the present chairman of the Planning Commission. Hassett also was nominated for the present chairman of the commission.

Nominations for the two full terms on the Zoning Board of Appeals were John Roberts and Ward Zakowal were nominated Morris Silverstein, both incumbents, to fill the two seats and An-

Shah Would Protect Gulf From Subversion's Spread

By DENNIS WEEDL
ZURICH, Switzerland (AP)—The Shah of Iran expressed concern Tuesday at spreading leftist subversion in the Persian Gulf area and said he will use force if necessary to seize a group of islands to protect the entrance to the Gulf when the British pull out most of their forces this year.

"If those islands fell into the wrong hands, it could pose a terrible danger," the 61-year-old monarch said in an interview aboard his plane en route to a vacation in Switzerland.

The tiny islands, Abu Musa, Thuma, and about 40 miles off the British-protected Trucial states of the Arabian peninsula and about 50 miles from the Iranian coast. Abu Musa, the largest, is three miles across.

The British regarded the islands as the property of the Trucial states. But the Shah said:

MCC Council Seeks Ways To Influence Legislation

Methods for telling legislators about the needs of community colleges and opposition to a recommendation that building on a new community college cease until legislative action was among the subjects discussed Monday night's meeting of the Executive Committee of the Manchester Community College Regional Council.

MCC's public relation man, Jon Harrison in his report on public information, suggested a field trip for legislators to see existing community college facilities in the state.

The trip would be paid for by donations from the regional councils.

It was suggested that each MCC Regional Council member personally contact legislators to open new channels of information.

Friends in the legislature are important to MCC because a building under community college funds from $1 million to less than 3 million dollars a year.

Vice Chairman James Nakos headed out a statement by the Board of Trustees of Regional Community Colleges opposing such a move. The statement was delivered at the last meeting of the Connecticut Association of Community College Advisory Councils.

The statement attacks a governmental task force recommendation that any increase in the number of community colleges in Connecticut, and additional construction of new facilities should cease until a review of the number, location, and financing of existing campuses is completed. That recommendation was translated by the State Building Program Commission into a recommendation for funds cuts.

The trustees noted a rise in community college enrollment in Connecticut from 1,458 in 1968 to over 12,000 in September 1970, with a projected increase of 32,000 in 1980.

They said there is a rising demand for more technically educated two-year graduates.

The money, they say, which is spent under the present system of leasing classroom space, will be more over a long-term period than comparable construction costs. The facilities provided they say, which building is the most economical for the taxpayer and more satisfactory for the educational needs of the state.

No encroachment can be made, though, on the money "It now appears," Weiss said.

Weiss Suggests Alternate Study For The Center

Town Manager Robert Weiss has sent a letter to George Conkling, state commissioner of transportation, urging that plans for widening the intersection at the center be re-evaluated and that consideration be given to some of the alternate suggestions which have been made for improving traffic flow there.

Conkling's plan proposed that an additional southbound lane be constructed on Main St. north of the center and that an additional eastbound lane be added to Center St. west of the center.

The new work would take a 15-foot wide stretch of frontage from the property of both Center Congregational Church and the Lincoln School.

The plan drew considerable opposition from members of Center Church at a public hearing on the work Jan. 27.

Since then, the Manchester Department of Transportation, P.T.A. Council, the Lincoln School, and the Manchester Chamber of Commerce have expressed their opposition to the project.

"It now appears," Weiss said, "that many people who have previously favored this plan can reveal the secret in Brindley's darkened apartment. The Peter Shaffer comedy is one of 2 one-act comedies to be presented by the Little Theatre of Manchester tomorrow, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in Bailey Auditorium at the Manchester High School. LTM Presents Two Comedies This Weekend

In a comical scene from "Black Comedy," Clea (Jayne Newirth) is being hushed up by Brindley (Jim Quinn) before she can reveal the secret in Brindley's darkened apartment. The Peter Shaffer comedy is one of 2 one-act comedies to be presented by the Little Theatre of Manchester tomorrow, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in Bailey Auditorium at the Manchester High School. "Black Comedy" deals with the reactions of eight people during a power failure. Others in the cast are Linda

Open Burning Leaflet Topic

An updated leaflet, "What You Should Know About Open Burning," has been made available to the public by the Connecticut Air Conservation Committee, Section of the Connecticut Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

Originally printed in 1969, the leaflet now contains the strict requirements of Connecticut's Open Burning Regulation, which became effective October 1970. It stresses the need to regulate open burning, the restrictions against burning of trash, leaves and brush, and the circumstances when permits may be issued.

For copies of this leaflet, write the Connecticut Air Conservation Committee, 46 Ash St., East Hartford, 06108, or contact the nearest waste disposal and respiratory disease association.

Antique Show Weekend Event

An indoor Antique Flea Market will be held Saturday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the Foxcroft High School, 889 Forbes St., East Hartford.

About 40 dealers will participate in the show which is sponsored by the East Hartford Exchange Club. Refreshments will be available during the event. William F. Spear of Middletown will manage the show, and proceeds will be used for the Exchange Club's charitable activities.

Guests Invited To Lodge Dance

Manchester Lodge of Masons will hold its annual Dinner-Dance on Saturday, March 6, at the Glastonbury Hills Country Club.

The general chairman of this event, Robert W. Ferguson, has announced that the invited guests for the evening include Merle P. Tapley, grand senior warden of the Grand Lodge of Masons in Connecticut; John L. Von Deck Jr., district deputy of the 68 Masonic District; Charles H. Rathbone, grand knight of Campbell Council, Knights of Columbus; and Atty. Roland Castelman, president of Charter Oak Lodge, East Br'th.

Dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. Tony O'Riagh's and his orchestra will provide dinner music and then music for dancing from 8:45 to 12:45.

Tickets are available from only the secretary treasurer of

Committee Will Study Town Historic District

The Town Council has agreed to establish a study committee to discuss the feasibility of setting up a "Historic District" in the town.

The recommendations that such a district be laid out was made by the beautification committee in a report to the council Monday night.

Mrs. Joseph Fowler, BC president, and Mrs. Charles Plunk made the presentation.

In the report, which was accompanied by slides, it was noted that in a survey of the town pointing out problems, some steps have been taken, but more are needed.

Several suggestions were included in the report, one being that the entrances to the town be marked by single, coordinated signs to avoid confusion and cluttered appearance.

Several problems can be corrected with the cooperation of the State Highway Department and the town; for instance, the proper maintenance of roadside drainage ditches, many of which don't work at all.

Roadside rest areas should be properly developed, the report stated, to standards evident in other towns, with better-defined parking.

The report noted that some roads in town are very attractive and well-maintained, but that when new roads are built or existing roads fixed, some attention should be given to placement and construction methods in keeping with natural surroundings, so that erosion can be prevented.

Trees damaged during road construction should be removed or pruned, and the tree warden should have adequate funds to improve roadside beauty.

In line with this, the council asked Town Manager Dennis Moore to give a report on the responsibilities of a tree warden.

The BC report went on to point out that many problems could be referred to the zoning agent as violations, such as abandoned vehicles or houses.

Town equipment, the group feels, should be stored in one location and not just left "helicopter shelter."

Four of Homes The committee reported that it is holding a tour of Coventry homes on May 22 and hopes to raise $100 for the Little Beach improvement project.

Another recommendation of the BC was that all town property be maintained under one agency, and Councilman Hugo Thomas reported that this year's budget will contain a line item for a parks and recreation department since the council also recognizes this need.

The committee noted that it is "not out to raise taxes," that it has a plan and that plan of that plan will not involve cost so much as a real community effort.

It was suggested that the BC's program be handled on a point-by-point basis, with check lists to keep track of the program.

At the March 1 council meeting, members of the Coventry High School Student Council and TRASH, the high school ecology club, will be given the same presentation that the council received Monday night.

Under the audience of citizens portion of the session, Planning and Zoning Commission Chairman Arnold Carlson reported that Mrs. Barbara Carr, long-time stenographer for the PZC, is retiring, and the Town Council announced that Mrs. Carr will be sent a letter of recognition for her "outstanding service" in this post.

Mrs. Yvonne Carlson of Gerald Park will assume Mrs. Carr's duties with the PZC. Albert Ross was appointed tree warden replacing Anthony Paulus, who recently moved from town.

A town meeting will be held on March 22 at 8 p.m. at the high school to consider purchase of property for sanitary landfill expansion, the sale of the old propane building and an additional appropriation for the Board of Welfare.

Leonard Benjamin was appointed to the Insurance Advisory Committee, filling that committee to its full membership of seven.

Volunteers Sought The council is looking for volunteers to serve on the Historic District study committee, the Sewer Authority and the Housing Code Board of Appeals.

All those interested in any of these positions should so state in writing to Town Clerk Elizabeth Rychling, care of the Town Hall, prior to March 15.

The council is also endorsing an appeal for funds for the Fire and Drum Corps to help finance the Corps trip to Washington, D. D. where it will represent Connecticut in the annual Cherry Blossom Festival Parade.

Stuart Squires, representing the Corps, noted that $500 in needed for transportation, but that the Corps can absorb the cost of the overnight stay and meals.

South Windsor Budget Topic At Meeting Of School Board

The Board of Education will meet in a special session tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the South Windsor High School to begin a discussion of the budget for the 1971-72 fiscal year.

Final presentation of the budget to the Town Council is March 15. Some major budget items such as salaries, which are under negotiation, and transportation costs, which will be put to bid, are incomplete.

The board will also take up the matter of redistricting four streets from the Orchard Hill School to the Avery Hill School.

Streets affected are Benedict Dr., Highway Dr., Spruce Lane, and Peach Tree Lane. A group of parents from the Peach Tree Lane asked the Board at the last meeting to consider Diane Dr. as an alternate choice for redistricting as they were satisfied with the arrangements that were made to change their children to the Orchard Hill School for the present year and said they preferred the children not be uprooted again.

School Menu Monday - George Washington burger on a bun, mustard, catsup, relish, Valley Forge mashed potato, Perry Farm spinach, Mount Vernon milk and I-cannot-tell-it's-cherry cake with topping.

Tuesday - chicken rice soup, peanut butter and jelly sandwich, carrot sticks, milk and orange juice jello with topping.

Wednesday - pizza with meat and cheese, tossed green salad, Italian bread and butter.

Thursday - salami, bologna and cheese grinder, (grinders are served on a hotdog roll for first and second grade) lettuce and tomato, carrot and celery sticks, milk and chocolate cake with vanilla icing.

Friday - tuna fish salad sandwich on hamburger roll, carrot cabbage slaw, potato chips, milk and apricot crisp.

Manchester Evening Herald South Windsor Correspondent Barbara Varick Tel. 644-8274.

Comment Session

The Board of Directors will conduct a public session tomorrow from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. in the Board of Directors' Office in the Municipal Building to hear comments and suggestions from the public.

Sessions are held the first Tuesday of each month from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. and the third Thursday of each month from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. in the Board of Directors' Office.

Gold Coins Taken

BUDAPEST (AP) - Customs officials seized more than 17 pounds of Austrian gold coins worth about $56,000 from a group of departing Yugoslavs who failed to declare them.

The report said the Yugoslavs admitted that they were smuggling. They were allowed to keep the coins but must pay a fine.

Drive Rescues Ship

LONDON - The steamship Great Britain, the first iron-built liner, was towed into the British port of Avonmouth recently. Abandoned since 1888 and when crippled off Cape Horn, the ship was brought home after a national fund-raising campaign.

Building of Jail Given New Push

HARTFORD (AP) - State Rep. Leonard G. Prater, D-Hartford, sponsored a legislative resolution Tuesday that would direct the governor and other state officials to make arrangements within 30 days to build a new state jail in the Hartford area.

The resolution describes the existing correctional institution on Seyma Street, built in 1873, as "archaic, decayed and unfit for human habitation."

It notes that funds have been authorized for a new jail and the commissioners of the state, the state's largest employer, to select a site and enter into preliminary planning within a month if the resolution is passed.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Four weeks of tremors rattled the Los Angeles area Tuesday. No new serious damage was reported. Meanwhile, the official death toll increased to 64 and 31 quake-damaged buildings were ordered demolished, including Los Angeles High, the Los Angeles City School District, Los Angeles City School, William Johnston told the Board of Education that about $200 million would be needed to replace and repair quake-damaged buildings.

Bombs Rattle San Juan Hotels

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) - Explosions at two San Juan hotels Tuesday night were apparently the work of anti-American terrorists, police said today. No one was injured in the blasts, which occurred five minutes apart at the Americana and El San Juan hotels. Both hotels located in the Isla Verde district near San Juan airport.

Massive Data Collection Points to Quake Forecast

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Last week's devastating California earthquake is becoming a scientific bonanza to researchers seeking to predict, prevent or lessen damage from future, potentially more deadly tremors. Scientists say no other earthquake was so well measured by batteries of instruments as the Feb. 9 jolt in the San Fernando Valley northwest of Los Angeles, which experts agree was estimated at up to $1 billion. "This is by far the most complete coverage ever obtained of an earthquake," said Dr. Donald Anderson, an earthquake engineer at the California Institute of Technology, who some of the world's leading earthquake researchers has been conducted.

24-Hour Time

Twenty-four-hour time is widely used in scientific work throughout the world. In the United States, it is used also, in operations of the armed forces; in Europe, it is used in preference to the 12-hour a.m. and p.m. system.

Fears Linger

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Mental health authorities say that since last week's major earthquake many children have refused to go to school, sleep in their beds or sometimes even leave their mother's side.

Since last Thursday, two days after the quake, more than 500 children in the San Francisco Valley have gone to therapy sessions at the Valley Child Guidance Clinic. Their ages range from 4 to 14, officials said.

"Many parents expressed surprise at the depth of their children's fears after the children began expressing their fears in group talk," a spokesman said.

will have a much greater understanding of the behavior of solids under strong shaking." Seismologists also are hoping careful analysis of recordings of the initial quake and dozens of aftershocks will add to their knowledge of the complex mechanism that triggers an earthquake.

"They want to know how and why elastic forces build up between two chunks of the earth's crust along a crack, or fault, and then suddenly are relieved, sending waves of energy through the crust to bring down buildings and collapse bridges. They hope the data will yield new clues on how to predict when the crust will shear and how the energy could be released slowly and safely."

"You might compare it to an autopsy," said Richard Malay of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration seismological field survey.

"We can't do anything now for what's happened, but we can learn for the future."

Coventry Dance Features Big Band Sound

The sound of the Big Bands will be heard at Coventry High School Thursday night when the Boosters Club holds a dance for young - and older - residents and friends from 7 to 10 p.m.

Supplying the music for the event will be a number of local people, some faculty and students from the high school, including Carl Salina, Ernest Martucci, Ron Dixon, Barbara Bechold, Jim Nardine, Tom Moran and Angelo Gennardo.

The public is invited and refreshments will be served. Donations can be made at the door.

PHNA Meeting The Public Health Nurses Association held its annual meeting recently. Senior nurse, Mrs. Edward Waitis reported that 192 visits were made in January, of these 76 were therapeutic and 116 health supervision.

The board voted to accept the increased fee established by the Inpatient Homebased Health Aids Service. The fee will now be $3.50 per hour.

Staff nurses last month attended the Norwich Hospital conference session. Patients and staff of Wallace House discussed their current program for rehabilitation of drug-dependent persons.

Story Hour A weekly story hour at the Book-Nook Library will be held on Saturdays from 1 to 2 p.m. for children between the ages of 4 and 7. The Justice Women's Club members will be reading at the sessions, which will run from Feb. 20 through June 17.

In India Elegant Woman Strives To Keep Seat in Parliament

By JACK DAVIS

JALPUR, India (AP) — A woman who has spent her life in the Indian Parliament is now fighting to keep her seat in the lower house of the Indian Parliament.

She is campaigning to retain her seat in Parliament, in the elections set for the first week of March.

As a leader of the conservative Swatantra party, Gayatri Devi is one of the strongest candidates among the forces trying to deprive Mrs. Gandhi's Congress party of the majority it needs to rule effectively.

The Rajmata, at 51, is two years before the end of her term in the Rajmata's own car, an enormous, near-antique gray Buick sedan.

She entered politics in 1952, when she was elected to Parliament. She easily won re-election in 1957.

Mrs. Gandhi's sudden call in December for new elections came in the middle of the Rajmata's year of official mourning for her husband, the maharajah, who died last June in England, stricken by a heart attack while playing polo.

At the end of January, the Rajmata said: "I was still hoping that someone else would contest from this district." But the Swatantra party insisted she was the only strong candidate, and also could foot the campaign bill.

Her last hesitations ended with a meeting of local priests, a number of former priests and their wives have entered Parliament this time, urged by Mrs. Gandhi's attempts in the past year to remove their constitutional privileges and privy purses.

The Rajmata's campaign staff reminds the people of a par district that there were no prices in the years before Independence when his daughter, Mrs. Bhabha, had resigned. Mrs. Bhabha's father was a research trip and a research trip and a research trip.

Her opponents say she is out of touch with both the people and the present. She is known for her long absences from Parliament—such as, for example, when she went to England for much of last year.

However, to accompany Gayatri Devi on the election trail is to witness a tough and practicing politician.

There is little evidence of the pampered princess, except for the dignified, gray-beauty and imperiousness with which she deals with aides. Dressed in an elegant blue chignon and a modest gold necklace, she spends much of her time in a jeep going from village to primitive village along rough cart tracks.

She is exhausted and running a fever and admitted: "I hate it." But she also admits she dislikes staying at home even for half an hour "when I should be out in the villages."

Use lint-free paper towels for window washing. They're highly absorbent and ideal for cleaning mirrors and silver as well.

Salt pork will not fry away so quickly as you think. Fry it in a pan with a little oil for 10 minutes before frying.

Drain, dip in flour and fry in a pan with a little oil for 10 minutes before frying.

To solve the problem of keeping hand towels off the floor where there are small children, try this idea: Hang towels on the opposite ends of each towel. When you put out a fresh towel, just snap it over the towel bar.

To prevent shrinkage of ham or pork during cooking, pour a cup of ginger ale over the meat.

Gently cook whole pared apple in a sugar syrup flavored and colored a pretty red with red hot cinnamon candies. This gives them a cinnamon flavor that goes well with roast pork or ham.

Truck drivers pull off the road so the Rajmata's own car, an enormous, near-antique gray Buick sedan, can pass—a courtesy shown to no other motorist.

Constituents line the streets, greeting her with both hands raised and a "Namaste," the traditional "hello" of India.

Gayatri Devi returns the salutes almost mechanically with one hand, the other holding a handkerchief to her face against the fine winter dust.

Needle Magic

Just imagine—old fashioned Aunt Lydia's rag yarn at FAIRWAY'S on Main Street has them all in every size. . . .

Needle Magic

To make the most of wool and fish while you're boiling them, add the juice of half a lemon to the water.

Strawberries were unknown in England until the first plants were brought from the Virginia Colony in 1629.

Your little girl will not lose her head scarf if you sew a button on the corner of it. She can make the job easier. All that then button the scarf through it then required is a light rub of the buttonhole of her coat. Then down with a damp sponge. Venerable coat and scarf will be to tolerate the bathroom thoroughly and ready to wear when the need arises.

Peanuts or ground nut or ground peas, as they are known in some parts of the world, are classified as legumes. They are really a bean. Unlike other bean plants, their pods develop and ripen beneath the surface of the earth.

Lettovers keep well in foil. They can be reheated without opening, all in the same pan of water. Wash thoroughly and the food tastes fresh.

Worn fabric covers can be turned into handsome placemats. Dye them a new color and cut them into place mats and placemats.

Peel, quarter, and remove cores from apples. Cook in a sugar syrup flavored and colored red with red hot cinnamon candies. When done lift gently from the syrup and arrange them in sections to form petals. Fill the center of each flower with green gum drops, or cream cheese balls. Add a bit of mayonnaise and serve. Not only very pretty, but also tasty.

Human Interest Item Hits Home

One of the oldest competitors in last year's Five Mile Road Race in Manchester... Human interest item hits home... The little man's January issue had an interesting human interest item about the Manchester race, which involved Granowitz and the individual winner, John Vitale.

When Granowitz arrived in town and checked at the race headquarters at the East Side Rec he discovered that he had left his racing trunks back in New York. "I asked the runners if anyone had an extra pair of racing trunks with them. One young fellow replied that he had a pair in his car and he would fetch them. He soon came back with the trunks and gave them to me."

"I asked him his name as I wanted to wash them and then send them back to New York. The young man said it wasn't necessary and he gave me two extra pairs. I said that he gave me his name and he said it was John Vitale. He is a top runner.

"And, with over 400 runners, I started out in this great and exciting race. I saw a lot of people were lined up along the route and coming into the finish line. I saw a lot of people who were coming in the finish line and I saw a lot of people who were coming in the finish line.

Maloney Surprised In CCIL Contest

"It had to be our defense," a smiling Jim Moriarty said and he was right. The "Cardiac Kids" made the CIA-C Tournament on the strength of a 67-62 CCIL win over a gritty Holy High of Meriden last night at the Clark Arena. Key baskets by Rick Norman, clutch foul shooting by Jimmy McGee, and timely assists by Bill Peoples during the last two minutes of the game, were the factors in the Indians' biggest win of the season.

The victory was the 10th in 11 starts. As it assured the locals of a winning season it also marked the second straight victory for Moriarty's three-year coaching career that his club reached the post-season play. For the third time in three years the Indians averaged an earlier 74-54 loss to Maloney before the season.

Indians Qualify for Tournament with Win

Curry came back with a drive in the second half, but Peoples was short on a jumper but Norman grabbed the rebound, pitched out to Peoples, and the blood center passed right back to Norman for two 50 seconds left. On the following play, Peoples fouled Curry but on the one and one situation he missed. McGee took the rebound and was fouled by Donnie. The slim senior coolly converted both tries and it was 62-50. McGee again converted two of the four from a 62-50 lead and repeated again for two and the final was 67-62; a local tried for three quarters to keep the game close.

NBA Has Court Go-Ahead To Penalize Seattle Club

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The National Basketball Association has a federal court go-ahead to penalize the Seattle SuperSonics if they play Spencer Haywood again, and a Sonics attorney said the big forward won't stay in Seattle tonight against Portland.

Haywood, a 6-foot-9 former Olympic star who broke a six-year contract with the Denver Nuggets, was granted injunction by a federal court in Seattle to prevent him from playing for the Sonics.

Knights Game Away From Perfect Mark

Just one game stands between Ellington High and its first undefeated regular season following last night's 87-68 decision over Portland High in a North Central Connecticut Conference meeting. The win was the 13th for the Knights who conclude against East Granby High Thursday night at home.

Ray Deard and Court Harned combined for 44 points. Deard was top man with 20 points, setting 27 points as four Ellington players hit double figures with junior center Steve Harned pumping in 21. Joe in double led with 18 points. Ellington erased an early 6-4 tie by truncating Rockville High, 68-59, and Coventry High routed Portland in a non-conference game.

Rockville — The Tomahawks, behind 6-0 center George Rasmussen, topped Rockville, Ellington continued to increase its lead to 25-10 mostly on the shooting of Ray Deard. The win was the 13th for the Knights who conclude against East Granby High Thursday night at home.
