

"THE WAY I HEARD IT"

by John Gruber

Wednesday evening brings the beautiful Brahman priestess, first of four performances of Lella, who is a coloratura soprano. The first performance was a very difficult one at Millard Auditorium. The opera department of Hart College of Music will present the production under the musical direction of Elmer Nagy.

This is an excellent opera, but things are now ready for the first performance. Lella is a coloratura soprano, with a very difficult role. Nadir relates his past experience in the jungle in a rather lengthy scene, and then Zurga and Nadir receive their friends in a thoroughly fine duet, singing of the motives from which will pop up later in the opera.

Sheinwold on Bridge

"A revealing exhibition," Sherlock Holmes mapped out the case from the blinding chair at the Baker Street Irregulars Club. Dr. Watson got up and left the room. The good doctor tried to look grim, but his heart wasn't in it. The U.S. and the USSR seemed a combination of bad luck for the defender.

Opening lead — Jack of Diamonds. West led the jack of diamonds, and East captured dummy's queen with the ace. East returned the ten of clubs, and South acquiesced while he tried to guess whether to play the king or the jack.

South finally played the king of clubs, losing to the ace. West thought about switching back to diamonds but wisely cashed the queen of clubs first. Declarer thus limited the loss to one diamond since one diamond on dummy's king of diamonds was not enough. Down one.

Partner opens with one heart, and the next play passes. You hold: Spades: Q-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1; Hearts: A-K-Q-J-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1; Diamonds: A-K-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1; Clubs: 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1.

What do you say? Answer: Bid one spade. There is no reason to speculate your major suit as long as you South could gain nothing by playing dummy's king.

Declarer should play the low diamond from dummy at the General Features Corp.

South made his blunder at the earliest possible moment — his first play made it clear. The opening lead made it clear that you were not to be taken in by South could gain nothing by playing dummy's king.

Declarer should play the low diamond from dummy at the General Features Corp.

Hubert Helps Liven A Party in Defeat

Former Vice President Hubert Humphrey helped give Connecticut Democrats two sorely-needed booster shots Saturday night.

The first was a $40,000 shot in the area of a defeated party. The other, and much more important, was an immense boost in morale.

Both had resulted from Democratic defeats in last November's election.

Humphrey, now the junior U.S. senator from Minnesota, was the guest speaker at a 100-plate Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner held at the Hartford Hilton and attended by about 1,500.

The 1968 candidate for president did not hold a press conference Saturday night. However, in a bit-and-run, question-and-answer session before the dinner, he held a host of questions.

He parried all questions about his future plans. Asked whether he would accept a nomination again in 1972, he would only say that he would decide early next year.

At Home Here He said he was in Connecticut because he felt at home here, and because he had a host of friends here.

He praised U.S. Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, former Democratic State Chairman John Bailey, and other Democrats.

South Viets Still Stalled By Viet Cong

The Viet Cong has been claiming that 1,600 North Vietnamese troops had been killed, including the 2nd Airborne Division, in the Laotian operation since Feb. 8. This was 1,170 more than the 450 reported killed Sunday, and there was no explanation for the huge increase.

The Viet Cong also announced that it had captured 1,231 rifles and 150 weapons and that its ground forces had captured 25,000 tons of supplies, including 12,000 tons of munitions, 1,500 yards of pipe line and other equipment.

The U.S. Command also announced that two light observation planes, one in the northern quarter of South Vietnam and the second in the Central Highlands, were downed in the last week of the operation.

Meskill Answers Dempsey

HARTFORD (AP) — Gov. Thomas J. Meskill hit back at his predecessor, former Gov. John Dempsey, Monday for saying that the people of Connecticut "never had it so good" as they did under the past two Democratic administrations.

"If the people felt they never had it so good under the Democrats, they wouldn't have elected a Republican administrator," Meskill said at his news conference.

The Republican governor had been asked to comment on a statement by Dempsey at the Democratic annual Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner Saturday night.

The former governor had made it clear he was upset by references in Meskill's budget message to the political party of the Democrats as "fiscal lunacy."

One Pledge Never Kept

The fact that Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird has now appointed a special board to assume direct control of all investigations that military intelligence operatives may be making in this country from this time on would seem some kind of verification of all those charges to the effect that the Army has indeed been compiling reports on large numbers of citizens, including some members of Congress itself.

In other words, original disclosures which seemed wild and improbable are now being given a greater atmosphere of reality. And, after what may be the unspendable thing already happened, Secretary Laird's remedial action may prevent continuation or repetition.

If there is any moral involved in this, it is that Americans would do well to react with alarm to all such charges, until the most searching kind of investigation has proved them groundless.

We live in a world which is growing so complex in its bureaucratic and informational and communication ramifications that we can no longer be sure that we ourselves really know what is happening.

And in every area which concerns the possible development of a police state character for our nation, it is better for us to live nervous than to live complacent.

A police state does not trumpet its own arrival. It gets its apparatus set up and working, and then its victims find out that they are living in it.

As against the counsel we have just given — that we should all feel nervous about reports of police state tendencies — there is, of course, the point of view of such a redoubtable character as Mayor Daley, the law and order hero of Chicago. If we haven't done anything, if we are clean, says Mayor Daley, why should we worry who does what snooping into our behavior?

The answer to that one is easy. If a police state system ever gets set up on our living, we the people, will never know just what a regime in power is likely to decide may be treason, or disloyalty, or suspicious conduct.

Some of the entries made by the Army intelligence system on it was collecting its data on its fellow Americans apparently covered activities which could not possibly be considered outside the Constitution's basic guarantees of free assembly and free speech, yet, collected, recorded, and perhaps, some day, gathered together in the same indictment, they might come to be labeled a crime in and of themselves. In a police state, people never know what is going to be a crime from one moment to another.

That is why it behooves free people to react, with suspicion, aversion, and such political pressure as they still possess, against the establishment of any of the instruments of the police state, no matter how often we are told that these instruments will be handled only by responsible people for limited purposes.

That is a pledge which has never been kept, anywhere.

A Concentrator

The wonders of modern scientific research are never ceasing.

They have now taken a chimpanzee, placed a game of tic-tac-toe in front of him, and then, while he played the game, had his brain waves recorded and fed into the analysis of a computer.

The discovery which science has made as a result of this experiment offers untold assistance to human beings in their recreational or work.

What the chimpanzee experiment revealed was that the higher and better the degree of attention the chimpanzee gave to the game he was playing, the more likely his brain was to select and make the right move.

When, however, the chimpanzee let his mind wander, or somebody or some device in the laboratory succeeded in distracting him, his skill at tic-tac-toe declined, and he was easy to beat.

We would be spotting our readers, of course, if we inferred that the interest and scheming of our laboratory scientists halts with this rather elemental discovery of a relationship between the degree of attention a chimpanzee or a human is giving to a game and the skill he will display.

The next research target will be the discovery of some means of bringing the chimpanzee or the human mind to a peak of attention by outside controls. Or, at least, to monitor the mind so that it not only wastes time trying to teach it while its attention is wandering.

Meanwhile, if somebody wants to play golf or cards with you, or help out in your work, and appears wearing electronic sensors leading from his head into some computer, beware! He may be wearing a concentrator.

Press And President

Mr. Nixon has now had a press conference on the Laos forays, but earlier the White House addressed several thousand envelopes of Communications. This included a statement from Robert J. McCloskey of the State Department, explaining the operation. Also included was a reprint from Joseph Alsop. Mr. Klein described him as "the widely read columnist," writing "permeatively" of the new action.

Mr. Alsop's column, headed "Courage As A President," described war critic Sen. J. William Fulbright, "and Senator Fulbright and many of his colleagues, in turn, are downright eager to be proved right by an American defeat in the war, and will gladly be proved wrong by U.S. success in Asia."

Washington pondered the unusual White House action. Columnist James Reston in the New York Times declared last week that Mr. Klein "has the imperiousness of a convert."

The Governors followed the Louisville meeting with a detailed program for regional commissions covering the entire country. Immediately dubbed "wall-to-wall Amalanchich" inside the White House, it was delivered to the President last Sept. 14 by four Republican Governors from Appalachia. Mr. Nixon, in turn, responded with several statements, privately and publicly, describing the Appalachian program as regionalism at its best and a current long known to work mainly from staff memoranda, concentrated hard on a few transcendent issues and, therefore, is at the mercy of the Policy Council staff. Political advisers simply do not get a hearing on such matters.

In the real political world, Congress will pass a two-year extension of the commission which actually doubles present aid (while "special revenue-sharing" languishes). A veto would only compound the damage already done throughout Appalachia and, in particular, doom Republican chances for Governor of Kentucky this year. A veto, then, should be unthinkable. Nevertheless, Republican politicians, citing that White House bureaucracy, no longer are sure anything is unobtainable.

"We must recognize that our welfare laws have been a tragic failure in terms of human values and money spent." — Sen. Robert Taft, R-Ohio, to a Republican dinner in Chicago.

General Manager Richard Martin is asked to fix priority on 15 star drain projects.

Cleanup Gets Started In Fire's Aftermath

By Saturday night, what was once a block of stores and dwellings in Rockville was just a pile of charred rubble and town officials are meeting today to decide what cleanup procedures and safety measures to take.

The fire that destroyed the block started shortly before 5 a.m. Saturday. It left 26 persons homeless and destroyed three business establishments. Cost of the fire in dollars has not yet been determined.

Checks for the emergency fund should be made out to the American Red Cross Disaster Fund and mailed to P. O. Box 387, Rockville.

The firemen worked at the scene of the fire on West Main Street and Vernon Ave., through the day and into the night, making sure the area was thoroughly wetted down, as all of the buildings in the area are wooden construction.

The meeting today will be with Mayor Frank McCoy, store detective in Hartford.

White Liberals

By WILLIAM RASPBERRY The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — White liberals must be very perplexed these days. They used to be partners with blacks in the drive for racial integration. Now, it increasingly appears, they are the only integrationists left on the face of the earth.

What has happened? Don't black people believe in racial integration any more? Were the segregationists right all along when they said that people were happier with their own kind? Is black separatism the wave of the future?

The integrationists are the fact that for the first time the integration-segregation issue is being debated in black terms, not white, which means to a large degree that it is no longer considered a very important issue at all.

This is not to say that the relationship between the races doesn't matter to most black people. It is to say that an awful lot of black folk — militant, moderate and otherwise — are coming to realize just what many white people mean by integration, and they don't like it.

The white person who professes to favor integration as the means for solving the country's racial dilemma almost certainly means the absorption of black people into white institutions.

What this means is that formerly white institutions (whether schools, churches or neighborhoods) remain essentially white while the formerly black institutions simply disappear.

That may sound bitter, but think about it. White America could have had integration, if it either wanted to or still could have it now, for that matter.

White America doesn't want integration, but it doesn't want black people to stop trying for it, either. If you want to alarm white people, let a group of blacks withdraw and organize independently.

The unwholesome reputations of black Muslims and various black power advocates all over the country stem largely from the fact that blacks who separate because they want to separate are viewed as a threat to white people.

Some of the black distaste for integration is a deliberate attempt to make white people feel threatened; some of it results from the reluctance of some black people to compete with whites.

Aftershocks Still Hitting Los Angeles

Los Angeles (AP) — Aftershocks continue to rattle Southern Californians trying to recover from the big earthquake 14 days ago.

Seismologists say the aftershocks, more than 200 of them since the Feb. 9 quake, are natural phenomena and are expected to continue for several months.

But memory of the tremor that claimed 64 lives and caused damage estimated up to $1 billion is refreshed with each new quiver.

"They're horrifying," said Sylvia Roach, 28, a housewife who was fortunate in the big tremor when damage in her apartment was limited to minor cracks and broken crystal.

"Each time I start looking for something to get under, but then they stop. The big quake just rolled and rolled."

The aftershocks to the big Richter magnitude quake, have caused no appreciable damage. A tremor at 6:06 a.m. Sunday, centered in the San Fernando Valley where most quake damage occurred, registered 3.7.

Three Saturday night aftershocks registered 3.8 to 4.2. A magnitude of 4.5 is required.

Jenkins Still Away For $100,000 Pact

NEW YORK (AP)—Ferguson Jenkins has been a 20-game winner for four straight years, but it appears the Chicago Cubs' pitching ace will have to do his thing over again to crack baseball's exclusive $100,000 club.

Jenkins signed his 1971 contract Sunday for less than the six-figure salary he was seeking—despite the efforts of two attorneys who joined him in final negotiations at the Cubs' Scottsdale, Ariz., spring training base.

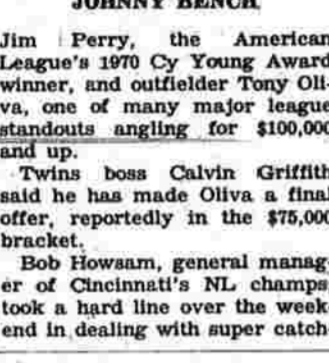

The Minnesota Twins, meanwhile, were concerned with a different form of excitement. Several black members of the team complained that an Orlando, Fla., golf club discriminated against them during the weekend.

er Johnny Bench's demand for a three-year, $200,000 pact.

Bench said Saturday the Reds will give Bench, the league's 23-year-old Most Valuable Player, a multi-year contract for $100,000 for the coming season. Pete Rose and Tony Perez also are among a large number of unnamed players.

The New York Yankees prepared to open camp today for pitchers and catchers without the aid of Steve Garvey, the league's 23-year-old Most Valuable Player, who is recovering from a two-year contract and a pay hike over his estimated 1970 salary of $100,000.

Harry Dalton, the Orioles' personnel director, reported that significant progress in negotiations with 24-game winners Dave McNally and Mike Cuellar or slugger Boog Powell, the American League's MVP.

The players said the club's pro foul ball team is not only with members, although some white team members were permitted to play on their own.

The signing of Jenkins, who was 22-18 last year and worked out a high of 316 innings, left only two players—pitcher Ken Williams and outfielder Jim Willard—outside the Cubs' fold.

Minnesota still hasn't landed nine players, including pitcher

The snow was crisp as the ladies came down and softened it up a bit for the rest of the day.

Killing at My Lai Admitted by Calley

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP)—Lt. William L. Calley Jr. speaking without any emotion, admitted today he killed at My Lai but "it was not my order, it was the order of the day."

"Who gave you the order?" "They had been ordered to go into the ditch, Sir," Calley said. "Who ordered them into the ditch, Sir?" "Capt. Medina, Sir," Calley said.

"How many times did he give you the order?" "Five times—once at a company briefing the night before the My Lai assault, once at a platoon leaders' briefing, the following morning before the helicopters were lifted off, and twice over the radio while the troops were in the village."

Calley is charged with killing 102 Vietnamese civilians in the hands of My Lai 4—one of several numbered My Lai hamlets—as his company assaulted the suspected Viet Cong stronghold on March 16, 1968.

Calley's company commander was Capt. Ernest L. Medina. On the witness stand he told of about four people that he killed. He also admitted firing into a ditch that was already filled with dead. But he did not say—and was not asked—whether he killed anyone there.

There had been testimony that Calley stood at that ditch at the eastern edge of My Lai 4 for as long as one and one-half hours, today, Calley said.

"It was a very rapid period of time to me... it seemed only a matter of a half minute or a minute or both."

What did he see in the ditch? "Dead people."

"Was there any appearance of anyone being alive in there?" "No, Sir."

How did the people get into the ditch?

People Fill State Capitol To Bursting

By DON MEIKLE
Associated Press Writer
HARTFORD (AP)—The gold-domed state capitol, which is nearing the end of its first century of service, is also nearing the point of inadequacy, as this busy legislative session is demonstrating.

Just a few more hearings and meetings and guided tours, and the dome itself should rise a few feet off its base and emit a puff of steam over Bushnell Park.

Sombody once figured out that only 40 per cent of the interior space in the marvelous monument on Capitol Avenue

Sergeant Mum In PX Probe

By LAWRENCE L. KUTNISON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—An Army sergeant accused of accepting kickbacks at the GI club he ran in Vietnam, involved the Fifth Amendment 13 times today in refusing to answer questions of Senate investigators.

A second witness, a former sales executive for Carlings Black Label beer, testified he was "informed" by the charm of an American sales broker and was unaware thousands of dollars in Carlings' promotion funds may have been used for kickbacks and bribes.

Lt. Sgt. Alton Crews refused repeatedly to answer any of the questions asked him by members of the Sen. Abraham Ribicoff's Permanent Investigations Subcommittee.

Monday, Jack Bybee testified Crews received a $12,000 kickback when the club he ran paid $10,000 for the stock of a gift shop concession run by sales entrepreneur William J. Crum.

Bybee, a former general manager for two Crum businesses dealing with military clubs and PXs in Vietnam, also testified that the only time Carlings' promotion money was used to promote beer was during a visit to Gordon F. "Tommy" Thompson, as the beer company's former export director.

At all other times the money was used for kickbacks, Bybee said.

Crews refused to say whether he had ever accepted any kickbacks, whether he had ever picked up payoffs money in a Hong Kong bank or whether that money had ever been transferred to his account in the Union Credit Bank of Switzerland.

Thompson testified he was "deeply distressed" to learn

Mississippi Delta Tornadoes Toll: 82 Dead; Federal Aid Effort Planned

By G. MICHAEL HARMON
Associated Press Writer
JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Mobile relief teams moved into the tornado-ravaged Mississippi Delta today as George Lincoln, director of the U.S. Office of Emergency Preparedness, and Clifford Hardin, secretary of Agriculture, toured the area.

Gov. John Bell Williams said he talked to President Nixon by telephone Monday night and received assurances that the federal government would provide immediate massive aid to the area.

Williams called on the government to provide shelter for the at least 1,400 persons left homeless by the storms which killed 77 persons while hooptoching hundreds of mobile homes for victims of Hurricane Camille. Lincoln said he did not know how many mobile homes were destroyed.

"The first thing we have to do is get the people out of the mobile homes," Williams said.

Lincoln, Hardin and state officials flew over the area by helicopter.

Lincoln said the mobile relief teams would survey housing needs and begin taking applications for loans to farmers and homeowners.

Lincoln, who directed relief efforts in the state after Hurricane Camille two years ago, said President Nixon was "very concerned" with the needs of Delta residents.

"The Gulf Coast has risen again," he said.

Williams and Dent told federal officials that current stocks of food, clothing and medical supplies were sufficient, emphasizing the need for housing.

Peace Movement Figures Cheered by 4,000 at Yale

NEW HAVEN (AP)—A spontaneous crowd of some 4,000 people gathered at Yale Monday night to hear peace movement figures argue that peace in Indochina is as close as a decision to stop fighting.

"We can get out, ask forgiveness and offer reparations," said former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, a mentioned in discussions of Democratic 1972 presidential politics.

That comment drew one of the loudest ovations of the evening.

He declined to be specific about the mission or desirable strength of that force, however, but those are the facts I must give you."

Harrison answered the same question and was biased by few when he referred to "Communist dictatorship," he said.

Some speakers — Duffey included—said the turnout indicated a health in the peace movement that many observers did not suspect.

Barlier, Averell Harriman and Cyrus Vance, former U.S. negotiators at the Paris peace talks, tried to smaller teach-in audience to avoid violence but continue to work for peace.

The real answer, Harriman said, "is to elect a new president" and he reminded the young audience their newly won right to vote at age 18 gives them new clout in the department.

But both Vance and Harriman disavowed "a cut and run policy." Vance said the United States must maintain troop presence in South Vietnam until its prisoners are freed.

Joseph Duffey, national chairman of the Americans for Democratic Action, greeted the crowd with "Here we are again," and drew a cheer, apparently in reference to the size of the group.

One young man at the teach-in was clearly disappointed with the action. He tried to start a discussion among the audience members on tactics for pressuring the president to end the war.

He was told by the chairman that wasn't that kind of meeting and he got to stamp out.

"Ah—don't be a poor sport," said Harriman. "Come on back. We're all working for peace."

The young man returned.

And a student was likewise visibly unhappy with an answer to his question. Why, he wanted to know, do politicians get bogged down in political wrangling, even when they desperately want peace? They stand principle and end war because killing is wrong?

"I don't think you can find an answer based on moral principles alone," said Vance. "I know you don't like the answer, but those are the facts I must give you."

Command Reports Heavy U.S. Strikes At North Viet Sites

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP)—The U.S. Command today announced its heaviest air strikes in North Vietnam in three months, South Vietnam's top fighting general was killed in a helicopter crash, and for the sixth day no progress was reported in the South Vietnamese drive in southern Laos.

Fifty American fighter-bombers raided surface-to-air missile SAM sites and other anti-aircraft positions in North Vietnam Saturday and Sunday, accompanied by about 20 support aircraft, the command said. It added that no planes were lost. They were the heaviest such raids since Nov. 21.

Other sources said the raiders also attacked supply depots.

A communique said the American planes hit targets near the Laotian border and "below the 16th parallel," or somewhere along a stretch of border that runs for about 100 miles north-west of the demilitarized zone and ends about 100 miles west of Hanoi.

The U.S. Command said the "protective reaction" strikes were ordered after "repeated" hostile acts and recent SAM firings by anti-aircraft positions against U.S. aircraft involved in interdiction of North Vietnamese supplies along the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos.

A spokesman said he did not know what damage the planes did.

The raids began three days after President Nixon warned that he would place no limitation on the use of American air power in Indochina. There have been 14 previous "protective reaction" strikes against North Vietnamese SAM sites this year, but all were by one or two planes escorting B-52 bombers or reconnaissance planes.

All 14 of those raids were made in response to radar indications that the SAM sites were about to fire on U.S. planes, announcements that said. The U.S. Command made no such claim for the weekend raids, but the attacks did not represent any broadening of the U.S. policy of protective reaction.

Last year the Nixon administration expanded this policy to include attacks against supply buildings inside North Vietnam as well as anti-aircraft defenses, and in the raids last Nov. 21 about 20 American planes attacked North Vietnamese SAM sites, anti-aircraft artillery, supply trucks and depots south of the 16th parallel.

The general killed was Lt. Gen. Do Cao Tri, commander of the 25,000-man South Vietnamese drive against enemy base camps in eastern Cambodia and a confident, aggressive leader. His death was considered a temporary setback to the Vietnamization program.

The government named Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Minh to succeed Tri as commander of the Late General Was 'Patton' Of Indochina

SAIGON (AP)—Lt. Gen. Do Cao Tri, cocky, aggressive and flamboyant, was confident that South Vietnamese troops could take over from the Americans.

"We can do better and we can go deeper and we can go any-where, not only in country but also outside of country, and even in the rainy season," said Saigon's top field commander, killed today in a helicopter crash.

Tri, 42, often braved death in heavy fighting and had a number of narrow escapes. His assurance and aggressive style suggested comparison with World War II's Gen. George S. Patton Jr. After he led his troops into Cambodia's Parrot's Beak section last spring, he was dubbed the Patton of the Parrot's Beak.

Tri was a familiar figure at the front in camouflage jungle suits with sub-machine pistol in a shoulder holster, black felt baseball cap with three stars, sun glasses, swagger cane and a briar pipe.

He once told an interviewer: "Maybe 10 times everyone around me was killed or wounded. I have never been touched by an enemy bullet."

"One day I was walking and I stepped on an antipersonnel mine with my right foot. It didn't explode. With my next step my left foot came down on another mine. It didn't explode. I don't know why."

Last month Tri personally led South Vietnamese paratroopers on a raid against an enemy

Babbidge Strongly Opposes Proposal for UConn Tuition

By JIM FARRER
Associated Press Writer
STORRS (AP)—UConn President Homer D. Babbidge Jr. may soon have to tell his students the price they pay for their education is going up by a cool $1,000 a year.

And he doesn't like the idea one bit, practically or philosophically.

Aside from room, board, books and personal expenses, University of Connecticut students now pay about $80 a year in "fees." Gov. Thomas Meskill, beset with fiscal woe from nearly all areas of state government, last week recommended the students pay an additional $1,000 tuition charge.

But Babbidge said in an interview that he is "opinionated" the legislature will turn aside the governor's tuition recommendation.

"We've been functioning since 1881 without a tuition and really it is quite hopeful that people are not going to abandon that position," he said.

"I do feel very strongly about this difference of opinion, a difference of philosophy, and I think the people of the state through all of their elected representatives have to make up their minds which way they're going to go," Babbidge told The Associated Press.

Babbidge maintains it is short-sighted to take the view that the student is the chief beneficiary of his education and should therefore be expected to foot much or most of the bill.

Society at large "in a sound system of public taxation" gets the cost of the education back, and then some, he said.

And the president argued that even beyond greater tax revenues from a better-educated populace, "all of society benefits from the education of each of its citizens. Therefore, the public properly provides instruction."

"This is the argument that is universally accepted through the trade in. Nobody seriously proposes charging a tuition in the 12th grade in a public school, although it might be a silly way to take the burden off the property taxpayers."

From a practical viewpoint, Babbidge says, he thinks students are already making a heavy sacrifice to attend UConn. He puts the cost at roughly $6,000 a year—$2,000 for the current fees, room and board
