Debate Continues Among Senators On Troop Cut Bid

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Foreign Relations Committee members considered undecided on a Senate move to halve the U.S. troop commitment in Europe have lashed out at White House refusal to discuss a compromise.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., and Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., registered their complaints Friday when Secretary of State William P. Rogers testified before the committee.

And Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., an opponent of Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's troop-cut proposal scheduled for a Wednesday vote, told Rogers: "The administration has to realize that we have to make some judgments of our own."

The White House is conducting one of the most strenuous lobbying efforts of the Nixon administration in its bid to defeat the Mansfield amendment.

"Everybody in the administration is calling everybody up here," one Democrat said. "The outcome is considered close—with a large block of undecided senators apparently holding the balance."

Case, who favors the thrust but possibly not the specifics of Mansfield's amendment, loosed his attack on comments made a day earlier by White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, who said the President would not settle for a compromise in the fight.

"This is intolerable," the usually mild-mannered Case said. "I think it was also most undiplomatic of Mr. Ziegler unless it was part of a plan under which 'it was intended that Congress be humiliated.'"

Pell, an advocate of compromise, attacked former Secretary of State Dean Acheson's comment that it was asinine to cut U.S. troop strength without a reciprocal Soviet cut.

Acheson was one of a group of former U.S. diplomats and generals who met with President Nixon Thursday to map strategy against the Mansfield amendment.

Acheson's use of "asinine," Pell told Rogers, "turns us off."

Underground Nuclear Test Set for June

By TERRY BYAN
Associated Press Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — After the longest halt in almost 10 years, the Atomic Energy Commission says it is ready to resume underground nuclear testing with new ground rules to prevent radiation leaks.

The AEC said Friday it will detonate a nuclear device in early June at the Nevada Test Site, 65 miles northwest of here.

The device, designed to free natural gas trapped in rock for use in a program to develop peacemakers, is a part of the Plowshare program for nuclear explosives, the AEC said.

The shot will be the first U.S. nuclear test in almost half a year, the longest halt in testing since the three-year Eisenhower moratorium ended in 1962.

Testing was suspended by the AEC after a test explosion named Baneberry went awry on Dec. 18, the seventh test since June in 1970.

A low-yield shot with an explosive force of less than 20,000 tons of TNT blasted a 300-foot crack in the space of the Yucca Flat area of the test site.

A plume of radioactive dust, dirt and water vapor shot 7,000 feet into the air, and radioactive fallout was later detected over 13 Western states.

The AEC reported Friday that the Baneberry accident resulted from a geologic fluke and said new procedures would "substantially reduce the probability of a similar future occurrence."

The chief cause of the Baneberry accident was an unanticipated amount of water in the clay and rock 910 feet underground where the shot was fired, the AEC said.

The water increased energy release through the rock, the AEC said. It produced ground motion of about three to five times Baneberry's size, said one AEC official.

Radiation contaminated 152 test site workers and 400 of 500 cars checked, and was detectable on the ground at several desert hamlets near the test site, the report said.

However, it added that no one on or off the site was exposed to more than a fraction of the fed-

Mail Rates Increase Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new Postal Service's first rate increase will go into effect tonight unless the Supreme Court intervenes.

The U.S. Court of Appeals unanimously upheld Friday a ruling by Dist. Court Judge William B. Bryant denying a temporary injunction against the raise. Newspaper and magazine publishers and three other groups of mail users sought to block the rate hike.

There has been no indication the Supreme Court will be asked to intervene.

The rate boost, effective at midnight tonight, comes under what the Postal Service claims is its authority to make temporary increases pending a recommendation by the Postal Rate Commission.

The mailers sought the injunction to halt the increases until the rate commission, which begins hearings next Monday on a permanent, $1.45-billion-a-year revenue proposal, has time to act.

The Postal Service already has printed billions of eight-cent Eisenhower stamps to replace the six-cent version, a record best-seller, and of eight-cent American flag stamps, also popular at six cents.

Power to set postage rates was taken from Congress in postal reform legislation. Now, the postal Board of Governors, which takes full control of the system July 1, is supposed to set its own costs and bring in enough revenue to break even.

The temporary increases, the Postal Service said, are necessary to begin putting the mail on a sound financial basis.

Chances Dim For Averting Rail Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal mediator is attempting to schedule formal contract negotiations this weekend in an effort to avert a nationwide rail-road strike by the signalmen's union.

As informal talks continued Friday, Asst. Secretary of Labor J.W. Usery tried to get all parties together at the bargaining table.

C.J. Chamberlain, president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen, refused to retract his 6 a.m. Monday strike deadline and took a dim view of settlement chances.

"They don't look good," he said. "All of our teams are organized and are prepared to picket the proper places."

Although the union's 13,000 members represent a small fraction of the nation's rail workers, their pickets at commuter and intercity rail lines almost certainly would be honored by other unions.

The signalmen, without a conciliatory committee was set up to

In Egypt Sadat Moves to Tighten Reins on New Government

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt moved to strengthen control over his new government today after winning a fierce power struggle with a clique of ministers who he said conspired to overthrow him.

Thousands of Egyptians took to the streets of Cairo chanting full support for Sadat's purge of political foes and shouting slogans denouncing the six ousted ministers.

Trucks loaded with workers and students converged on the presidential palace as crowds marched through the downtown area urging Sadat to "crush all centers of power."

The Egyptian press also supported the government changes. The mass circulation Al Akhbar wrote: "We support you—Sadat—because we care for the national unity of the country."

Radio Cairo broadcast what it called "avalanches of cables" supporting Sadat, who has threatened to turn "into mince-meat" anyone endangering his regime.

The semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram reported that the six ministers were placed under house arrest along with three high officials of the Arab Socialist Union—ASU—Egypt's only political party.

The paper said a special judicial committee was set up to investigate alleged irregularities and civil rights violations by some of the former government officials. Observers speculated that further changes in the government were imminent.

Sadat formed a new 35-member cabinet on Friday and promised in a national radio broadcast that the leadership of the ASU also would be replaced through "completely free elections."

In accusing his political foes of trying to overthrow him, Sadat said they wanted to plunge the nation into chaos with the sudden resignations. Thursday night of the six ministers, including defense chief Lt. Gen. Mohammed Fawzi, and the three ASU officials.

To indicate how thorough the planning was, Sadat said that when he returned home Thursday night he found a tape recorder. Just before the resignations were submitted, the president had decreed an end to all special police surveillance, including wiretapping.

Al-Ahram said two intelligence officials were arrested as they attempted to destroy a private library of tapes belonging to former Interior Minister Shari Gomaa, one of those who resigned. The paper said Sadat planned to personally supervise the burning of thousands of tapes at the Interior Ministry.

Sadat replaced Gomaa with Mahmoud Salem, former governor of Alexandria.

In addition to the six Cabinet members who resigned, five other members of the previous government were not included in the new cabinet.

Egyptians received the news of the purge with obvious delight, many taking to the streets in several districts in Cairo to demonstrate support.

In Beirut, Lebanon, hundreds of demonstrators converged on the Egyptian Embassy to express support for Sadat.

The demonstrators, carrying portraits of Sadat and his predecessor, the late Gamal Abdel Nasser, chanted, "Nasser, Nasser, Nasser," and "We will sacrifice our blood and our souls, Sadat."

In his broadcast, Sadat called the purge a showdown between himself and ousted Vice President Ali Sabry over control of the Arab Socialist Union.

Sabry, Egypt's leading leftist and a close friend of the Soviet Union, was fired May 2 by Sadat, ostensibly in a dispute over formation of a federation of Egypt, Syria and Libya that Sadat had initiated.

In Tel Aviv, Israel Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said he considered the Egyptian political situation a "completely free election."

Observers speculated that further changes in the government were imminent.

Pickets To Counter Armed Forces Day Parades, Speeches

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Active duty servicemen, veterans and civilian war dissenters planned counter-demonstrations at military installations across the nation today to mark Armed Forces Day.

Planners, who were operating mostly on the local level, said they were protesting "the glorification of war" usually associated with the day.

Demonstrations would be generally peaceful, with picketing, rallying and leafleting, said the planners.

Protest sponsors included the American Servicemen's Union, Vietnam Veterans Against the War, People's Coalition for Peace and Justice, Southern Christian Leadership Conference and National Welfare Rights Organization.

Army, Air Force, Navy, Marine and Coast Guard units scheduled their usual parades, air and weapons demonstrations, speeches, base tours and other observances in cities throughout the country.

Leaders of a protest rally expected to draw 2,000 persons to a park across from Ft. Dix, N.J., said they would go ahead as planned, despite a U.S. District court judge's decision Friday not to interfere with the Army's refusal to allow the demonstration.

Two hundred riot trained troops from the 6th Armored Cavalry at Fort Meade, Md., have been sent to Ft. Dix as a precaution, according to Maj. Gen. Howard H. Cooksey, the base commander.

At Griffis Air Force Base in Rome, N.Y., a staging point for B-52 bombers departing for Southeast Asia, organizers hoped to attract protesters from Boston to Buffalo, N.Y., for a noon rally outside the main gate. An attempt to block the base's five gates was scheduled for Monday.

About 25 combat veterans said they would enter the U.S. Military Academy at West Point to distribute thousands of leaflets asking the cadets whether they are prepared "to engage in the same atrocities in which these veterans were forced to participate."

At Ft. Bragg, N.C., a major rally is planned. Last year, the base—which has many returning Vietnam veterans as well as soldiers used during Washington's recent peace actions—had the biggest Armed Forces Day protest.

Authorities at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base near Dayton, Ohio, said they were tightening security for a rally expected to draw 1,500. Although protest leaders said the rally would be peaceful, a base information officer said:

"We will have people on alert and on call above and beyond normal. If there is an attempt at penetration, there are resources we will have to call."

Rallies were also scheduled for Ft. Devens, Mass.; naval and marine facilities at San Diego, Calif.; San Antonio, Ft. Hood and Ft. Bliss, Tex.; Meacham AFB, Breemerton Naval Base, and the Army's Ft. Lewis, Wash.; Ft. Benning, Ga.; Portsmouth, N.H.; Navy Base and nearby Pease AFB.

Others include Ft. Carson, the Air Force Academy and Ent

Arguments Near End On Seale

By PETER COWEN
Associated Press Writer

NEW HAVEN (AP) — The defense and prosecution in the trial of Black Panther Chairman Bobby G. Seale and a local Panther leader have finished presenting witnesses, and final arguments are scheduled to begin Tuesday.

The prosecutor, State's Atty. Arnold Markle, called four rebuttal witnesses Friday to complete his case against Seale and Ericka Huggins, a local Panther leader. The last defense witness, Mrs. Huggins, ended 2 1/2 days on the witness stand Thursday.

Seale did not testify. Following a lengthy conference with attorneys for both sides, Judge Harold M. Mulvey announced that the lawyers hoped to finish their summations on Tuesday. Mulvey said he could then change the jury of five blacks and seven whites on Wednesday and allow them to begin deliberations.

The end of testimony Friday was anticlimactic. Two witnesses said a defense witness, Craig S. Gauthier, had worked the midnight to 7 a.m. shift at an aircraft plant in May 1969, and not the 3:30 p.m. to midnight shift as Gauthier had claimed.

Another witness attempted to discredit defense testimony about the reason a national Panther official came to the East Coast from the party's headquarters in California.

The witness maintains that the official, Landon Williams, was sent to help with a purge that ended in the death of Alex Rackley. The defense claims Williams' mission was to help improve distribution of the Panther newspaper.

Mulvey did not allow Markle to question his fourth witness, a New Haven policeman. The judge ruled that the witness' testimony was not proper rebuttal, and should have been offered when the prosecution presented its regular case.

According to the prosecutor, the witness would have contradicted defense testimony disputing the vantage point of another policeman, who said he saw Seale enter the apartment where Rackley was being held one hour before the state alleges that Seale ordered Rackley slain.

Seale, 34, and Mrs. Huggins, 23, a local Panther leader, face capital charges in the killing of Rackley, a party member from New York, on May 21, 1969.

They are charged with kidnapping resulting in Rackley's death and aiding and abetting his murder—charges that carry the death penalty—plus lesser offenses.

Although Seale did not take the stand to rebut prosecution and consumer buying.

Output of textile, chemical and rubber materials increased, along with furniture, television sets, some appliances and consumer staples.

In addition to autos, production of business and defense equipment declined. The drop in business-equipment output and the April level was 15 per cent below its 1969 high," the board said.

Meanwhile, Henry Wallich, a Yale University economist, told the Senate-House Economic Committee that signs point "to a very strong economy" in 1972. He pointed to upswings in housing, state and local spending,

Gain Seen Moderate In Economy

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy is expanding at a steady but still slack-riding pace, the latest government reading of industry's production shows.

The Federal Reserve Board reported Friday its key industrial production index advanced by 3 per cent in April following a 2 per cent gain in March.

Such a gain is considered moderate and nowhere was there evidence the economy is in the midst of a vigorous upsurge, as some Nixon administration officials have claimed.

"It's a fairly good figure," said Dr. Hendrik Houthakker, a member of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisors. "But we don't think it changes the picture that much."

Houthakker said industrial production tends to be sluggish when productivity of the nation's workers is rising, and mean inflation is slowing further.

Although other economists differ, he said the industrial production index is not regarded as the most sensitive barometer of how the economy is doing. "It's more of a man-hour index," he said, measuring output per man-hour.

Industrial production measures output of the nation's factories, mines and utilities.

In April, the board said, the index continued to rise in spite of the fact automobile production fell 8 per cent from March.

Auto assemblies fell to an annual rate of 8.2 million units in April, but the board said production schedules indicate auto output is increasing this month.

The gain was achieved primarily because output of consumer goods and industrial materials strengthened. Production of steel, for instance, rose again, indicating more stockpiling in anticipation of a strike later this year.

Output of textile, chemical and rubber materials increased, along with furniture, television sets, some appliances and consumer staples.

In addition to autos, production of business and defense equipment declined. The drop in business-equipment output and the April level was 15 per cent below its 1969 high," the board said.

Meanwhile, Henry Wallich, a Yale University economist, told the Senate-House Economic Committee that signs point "to a very strong economy" in 1972. He pointed to upswings in housing, state and local spending,

Major Mine Blast Claims Five GIs in Viet

SAIGON (AP) — Five Americans were killed when a mine ripped through an armored personnel carrier traveling on a secondary road 17 miles south of Da Nang, the U.S. Command said today.

The incident Friday was the second major mine or booby trap explosion recently. Seven U.S. soldiers were killed and 12 wounded three weeks ago in the explosion of an artillery shell rigged as a booby trap about 90 miles south of Da Nang. Both incidents involved troops of the Americal Division.

The command reported no ground fighting involving U.S. forces.

Saigon headquarters said 60 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops have been killed in a new South Vietnamese drive along a 25-mile stretch of eastern Cambodia.

A communique said the bodies of 40 enemy soldiers were found Friday in an area eight miles northwest of the Cambodian town of Kompong Trach. U.S. and South Vietnamese strike aircraft had pounded the region earlier.

Fourteen other North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers were reported killed in clashes involving company-sized units. South Vietnamese casualties for the five-day operation were put at one killed and eight wounded.

The objective of the operation,

The New Chief Justice

When he took his oath as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of Connecticut yesterday, Charles S. House entered the highest public office ever attained by a Manchester resident. The routes by which he attained this honor should be a matter of satisfaction for him, and they are a matter of pride on the part of Manchester.

There were no easy shortcuts. For every step that was traveled, there was a performance given.

The performance was conscientious. It was honorable.

It skirted neither the small detail, when that was in order, nor the main responsibility, when there was no one else to assume that.

It has been a performance fortunate—primarily, perhaps, because of the Charles House attention to detail and the Charles House talent for choosing direction — in its achievement of success.

These tangible successes have included, on the Manchester scene, good schools, built in time, and a model town charter which set out to blend, rather than to divorce, business and political principles.

On the state scene, first as a legislator for himself, and then as an integral part of the administration of Governor John Lodge, the man who is now Chief Justice played a conspicuous, able role in the demonstration of what a constructively held political responsibility can mean.

On the bench, he has minded the first precept of the judicial branch of government by keeping order first in the law itself, the root of all public respect, for the law lies in the basic proposition that judges themselves must have respect for it. In this the new Chief Justice has been strong, and is expected to continue strong, now that his powers of influence and example and leadership have been expended.

He was judicious and temperate, and fair, painstaking and thoughtful and considerate, and keen and talented in distinguishing between the zones for firmness and those for compromise before he ever became a judge.

He stands now at the opening of what the Connecticut bar expects to be his finest and most important span of public service.

His town is proud of him.

Outgoing A Deception

The curious plight on the institutional activity called Radio Free Europe is that even while it is engaged in the process of broadcasting what we hope is "truth" to people who live in the other half of Europe, it continues to indulge itself in what amounts to a bland deception of Americans here at home.

It has now been public information for some time that Radio Free Europe, originally organized as a movement by American citizens to establish an informational contact with people living behind the so-called Iron Curtain, has become principally an operation of our own Central Intelligence Agency.

That this is the status of Radio Free Europe is certainly no secret from the governments or the people of Eastern Europe.

Yet, year after year, we in this country get a radio campaign appealing to us to support and finance Radio Free Europe as if it were still a non-governmental, volunteer citizens' activity, aimed at setting up and maintaining points to people contacts rather than providing a channel for our own government's idea of what an effective enlightenment for the people of Eastern Europe might be.

Against this weak and ineffective attempt at self-deception it is at least a move toward candor and honesty which is now under consideration by the Nixon Administration. The idea is that we would set up a thing called an American Council for European Affairs.

communications, Inc., to be operated under the supervision of a board of 15 commissioners to be appointed by the President with the approval of Congress. The Congress would make appropriations to this Council, which would then finance and supervise Radio Free Europe and its sister station, Radio Liberty, which broadcasts specially to Russia itself.

The output, for the benefit of the people of Eastern Europe and those of Russia, would continue to be propaganda, hopefully in the best sense which is attained by us: high a proportion of candor and truth as possible, while we at home would be spared those promotional commercials which ask us to pretend that we are really feeling ourselves about the nature of our foreign radio operations.

Crusade Of Hope

For some time now there has been a widely hopeful suggestion that research on cancer, most dreaded of all our diseases, might be getting near the possibility of a breakthrough.

In any case, the question has always been not if, but when.

President Nixon's assumption of leadership in favor of a new and massive intensification of the nation's research effort carries, therefore, its own special note of hope.

It may be that this additional impetus, and funding, will prove to have been especially valuable at this precise point in the long research battle.

We all live with this disease, either by experience or in our apprehensions.

Our hopes are those of the President, that "of all our research endeavors, cancer research may now be in the best position to benefit from a great infusion of resources."

The Governor And Education

Governor Meskill's appallingly intemperate comments on community colleges were the wisdom of the General Assembly when it insulated the higher educational facilities of the state from direct political manipulation.

While the state system does place considerable power in the hands of the Commission of Higher Education, the Board of Trustees of Community Colleges, and the Board of Trustees of the University of Connecticut, the power of the purse does still lie with the Governor and the General Assembly.

The governor does not run the administration's office, and he should not. He does not set salaries for the staff, and he should not. He does not decide how each individual institution should spend the money available to it, and he should not. If there is to be any diversity in the educational institutions of the state, indeed if there is to be any logic to their operation, they must be free to devote their resources to those areas which the lay trustees believe to be useful.

But what was most revelatory about the Governor's speech was the manner in which it laid his mind bare. And for those who had noticed it before, it must be regarded as a rather chilling spectacle. The Governor has launched a full-scale attack on the higher educational institutions of the state, without a word for the progress of the University of Connecticut, which has moved from a second-rate institution to one in which the state can take pride, without any recognition of the fact that what Connecticut has to offer the nation is not poor labor, but a skilled and sophisticated work force, backed up by brains, training and education.

The gist of the Governor's remarks was that the "open door policy" of the community colleges gives false hope and unwarranted encouragement to large numbers of young people who have been nurtured for years on the mistaken idea that they will be failures if they do not win college degrees.

This is the Governor, results in demands for even more community college construction. At this point, the Governor was beginning to get down to it—the demands of the community colleges irritate him and he doesn't want to spend the money because they are phony budgets that would not stand a pryer. Had the Governor merely said that the state must slow the rate of expansion for fiscal reasons, that would be one thing. But we are afraid that the state is in for sermons by a bush-league Ronald Reagan.

The point about the community colleges is simply that they have given hope and greater aims to a great many young people. To be sure, some find out that they cannot make the grade, and some are there because of the draft, and some are there because of parental pressure. The same can be said about some students at Yale. But an institution cannot be judged by its failures, unless it is also judged by its successes.

If 50 years ago, it was judged wise for all children to graduate from high school, and it was, today the concept that a great many young people could benefit themselves and the nation by one or two years more of education surely cannot be considered a criminal aim in life. The Governor's point of view is simply unshakable. First, there is no open door policy. When a community college reaches its budgeted enrollment figure, admissions cease. Second, there are very few students—there are some—who are deriving no benefit from their community college experience.

Third, the effect on a student in high school who has an educational goal beyond it, can never be discounted. Fourth, for better or worse, this nation has in large measure attained its worldly stance because generations of parents applied for their children. This galvanic dream sometimes misfires, but each family and student is free to pursue it or not, to find the destiny that is befitting.

Show us a man who seriously tries to demonstrate that this nation is over-educated, and we will show you a man who is incalculably undereducated. — MID-DLESTOWN PHOTOS.

Connecticut Yankee Muskie In Politics

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON—The fact that Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, after six months of playing political country boy from Down East, is finally getting into high-dime politics was underlined by the recent unpublished visit to California of his chief lieutenant, John F. (Jack) English. English, the adroit Democratic national committeeman from New York who had signed on fulltime for Muskie, brought home no Western scraps. Instead, his experience there returned how treacherous it is for an outsider to deal with the factional vendettas of California's madcap Democratic party. But English's mission did measurably improve Muskie's position with politicians, very low until then, in the nation's most important primary election state.

That was another measure of the incalculable change Jack English has made since coming on board April 13. Until then, the Muskie campaign seemed more interested in Vietnam and the environment than working key party leaders. Muskie is no party politician and neither are his chief aides. The cool New Englander should give state party leaders was hurting Muskie badly.

Remarkably enough, Muskie's high rating in the polls weathered those six months of non-stop blundering. Now, with English providing professional guidance, Muskie may be on the upswing. Muskie's changed operation in California was directed toward 34-year-old Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti. Fiercely ambitious and the coming force in California Democratic politics, his endorsement will be most valuable in the 1972 primary. Until recently, he has been cool toward Muskie, partly because he felt Muskie's California campaign had been pre-empted by Congressman Thomas Rees and National Committeeman Stephen Ratahadi (a state law school classmate of Earl Bernard, Muskie's campaign chief-of-staff). Moretti brought this out when English came to California two weeks ago. The speaker made clear he would take absolutely no part in a Muskie campaign if either Tom Rees or Steve Ratahadi were in charge. English replied just as clearly that if Bob Moretti endorsed Muskie, Bob Moretti would run the California campaign. That brought an instant endorsement from New York who had signed on fulltime for Muskie, brought home no Western scraps. Instead, his experience there returned how treacherous it is for an outsider to deal with the factional vendettas of California's madcap Democratic party.

Similarly, English thawed the icy relationship between Muskie and California's most prodigious fund-raiser, millionaire Los Angeles lawyer Eugene Wyman. Bernard, an exceptional Washington lawyer but an amateur politician, had made sure all year that Muskie studiously avoided Wyman. Bernard was following advice from Jess Urich, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor and Wyman's blood enemy.

On his trip to California, however, English visited Wyman and asked his support. Wyman replied it was much too late, that he was irrevocably committed to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey. But the congenial visit warmed up Wyman. So did a telephone call to Wyman from Muskie when he went to California a week later.

This wasn't get Wyman or his moneybag friends to help Muskie as long as Humphrey has any chance. But it does cut down the threat that vital Southern California money would be denied Muskie's nominee — a very real threat.

Current Quotes "You can't go down to the corner drug store and buy a breakthrough in cancer research." — Dr. Arthur Richardson of Emory University. "The State Department is pretty frantic about this. They apparently fear it will pass." — on a proposal by Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield to cut U.S. troop strength in Europe.

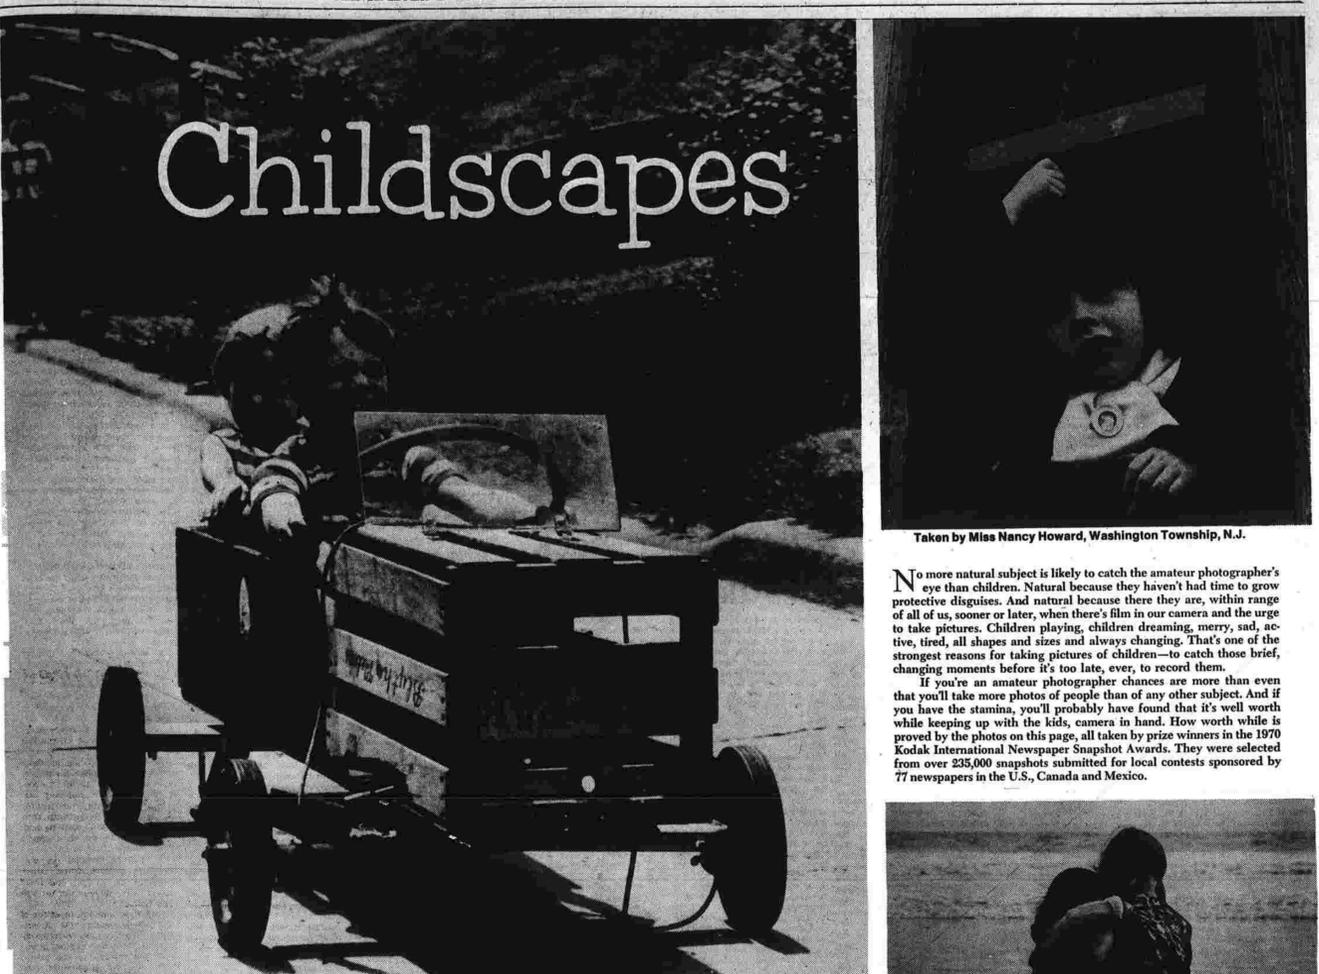

A Thought for Today Sponsored by the Manchester Council of Churches. Words of Jesus "A healthy tree bears good fruit, while a poor tree bears bad fruit. A healthy tree cannot bear bad fruit, and a poor tree cannot bear good fruit. Any tree that does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown in the fire. So then, you will know the false prophets by the way they act. "Not every person who calls me 'Lord, Lord,' will enter into the Kingdom of heaven, but only those who do what my Father in heaven wants them to do. When that Day comes, many will say to me, 'Lord, Lord! In your name we told God's message, by your name we drove out many demons and performed many miracles!' Then I will say to them, 'I never knew you. Away from me, you evildoers!' Matthew 7:17-23 J. Grant Swank Jr.

No more natural subject is likely to catch the amateur photographer's eye than children. Natural because they haven't had time to grow protective disguises. And natural because there they are, within range of all of us, sooner or later, when there's film in our camera and the urge to take pictures. Children playing, children dreaming, merry, sad, active, tired, all shapes and sizes and always changing. That's one of the strongest reasons for taking pictures of children—to catch those brief, changing moments before it's too late, ever, to record them. If you're an amateur photographer chances are more than even that you'll take more photos of people than of any other subject. And if you have the stamina, you'll probably have found that it's well worth while keeping up with the kids, camera in hand. How worth while is proved by the photos on this page, all taken by prize winners in the 1970 Kodak International Newspaper Snapshot Awards. They were selected from over 235,000 snapshots submitted for local contests sponsored by 77 newspapers in the U.S., Canada and Mexico.

LONDON (AP)—A grim battle is being waged between men and birds of prey on Britain's grouse moors.

Answers Airing Needs
Have you been putting off getting your car serviced because the weather has been too warm? If you want car care savings for your home this year, do not put it off any longer or you may find your car in need of major repairs from the sun heat the summer.

Man's weapons in the vendetta include steel traps and poisons. Birds that are caught in devices like the pole trap—outlawed by Parliament in 1904 but still used covertly—die in agony, suspended fluttering in mid-air for several hours.

THE Herald Angle
EARL YOST Sports Editor
Notes from the Little Black Book
It took 40 years but Ray Jewell's broad jump record at Manchester High was finally eclipsed this week by Angelo Intagliata. Jewell now owns and operates the Red Rock golf course west of Bristol.

Green Proves Good Scrambler in Houston
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — "If you don't scramble, you don't belong out here," said Hubert Green, possibly one of the best scramblers of them all.
The 26-year-old tour rookie, who has thrived strongly in the last three tournaments, scrambled out all sorts of trouble and took the second round lead in the $125,000 Houston Open at the Houston Golf and Country Club on Friday.

Tough Week for Foes in Super Mile Event
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Marty Liquori and Jim Ryan have had a tough week preparing for their super mile in the Martin Luther King Games Sunday. They ran miles and miles and miles, and then those telephone calls.

Utah Stars and Colonels Paired Today
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Colonels and the Utah Stars squared off this afternoon in the sixth game of the American Basketball Association's championship playoff series with the Stars in the position to end it all and the Colonels shooting for a return trip to the Salt Palace.

Penalty Killers Hope of Hawks
MONTREAL (AP) — Coach Billy Reay, refusing to take cognizance of a rift in the ranks of the Montreal Canadiens, hopes his penalty killers can carry the Chicago Blackhawks to the Stanley Cup Sunday.

Donna Caponi Earns Living At What She Likes — Golf
NEW YORK (AP) — Donna Caponi knows all about women's lib. She's been involved the last two years because she's earning a living at what she likes best — golf.

After two weeks of spring football practice, University of Connecticut Coach Bob Cantella was impressed with the work of his sophomores in the fall.

Shaving Strokes 8-Hitting Behind the Ball
A common fault of middle- and high-handicapped players is to hit the ball in the middle, with fairway trees more than anything else. This is due to one very simple reason for this.

Kidnapers Hold Israeli Counsel In Istanbul

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Four men identifying themselves as members of the Turkish Peoples Liberation Army kidnaped the Israeli consul-general here today.

Turkish and Israeli sources said the men all armed, came to an apartment building where the consul, Ephraim Elron, 60, East.

They entered a first-floor apartment and tied up the wife and daughter of a Turkish retired general, then waylaid each person who came to the building, where Elron lived in an upper story apartment.

About a dozen persons were taken into the retired general's apartment, including visitors to the building and door-to-door vendors, before Elron came home for lunch.

He resisted the kidnapers. They hit him on the head with a pistol butt and took him away wrapped in a sheet, Israeli sources said.

The kidnapers identified themselves as members of the Turkish Peoples Liberation Army to the retired general's wife and told her not to be afraid. They said their purpose was to kidnap the consul.

It was the first time a diplomat had been kidnaped since a wave of abductions began in Turkey three months ago.

Martial law was imposed in Istanbul and other parts of Turkey last month, partly in an effort to control the activities of leftwing urban guerrillas.

Deficit Rose In Balance Of Payment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The deficit in the U.S. balance of payments rose to a record level in the first three months of the year, the Commerce Department said today.

The department said the deficit on the official reserve transactions basis reached a seasonally adjusted $2.6 billion in the first quarter.

The official reserve transactions basis represents all transactions with foreign governments and foreign central banks. The deficit on the basic balance, which excludes the official drawing rights, or "paper gold," the deficit was even worse, reaching almost $2.7 billion, the department said.

Excluding allocations of special drawing rights, or "paper gold," the deficit was even worse, reaching almost $2.7 billion, the department said.

The department said the payments deficit on the liquidity basis was $3 billion in the first quarter, up $2.5 billion from the last quarter. The liquidity basis

Strike Closes Most Rails; Nixon Appeals to Congress

Experience of Prior Strikes Easing Burden of Walkout

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For the second time in less than six months, the nation's railroads came to a halt today, forcing thousands of daily commuters and other riders to look for other means of transportation.

Supervisory personnel were reported tending to the precious cargoes in Seattle and Cincinnati near the Nantuxet light ship, stationed 40 miles south of Boston.

Nixon said he will head the American delegation, which will also include representatives of the Coast Guard, the State Department and the American fishing industry.

The Coast Guard said it has received seven complaints from Massachusetts lobstermen in the past two weeks that Russian trawlers have been operating in areas where lobster traps have been set, causing heavy damage to lobstermen gear.

John Sherry, chief of the Division of Enforcement and Surveillance of the National Marine Fisheries Service, said the meeting will be held "most likely" on the fishing command ship near the Nantuxet light.

SS Increase Approved By House Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee approved Monday a five per cent across-the-board increase in Social Security benefits to be effective June 1, 1972.

The benefit increase was inserted at the last minute in the committee's big social security welfare bill, which was then approved without further change.

The House is expected to act on the measure early next month.

The new increase would come in addition to a 10 per cent increase effective this year and a 15 per cent increase that went into effect last year.

The committee also retained in the bill a provision for automatic increases in benefits based on the cost of living rises. These included three per cent or more in a year.

However, the measure provides that no automatic increase in Congress had made no special

Soviet Official, U.S. Envoy Discuss Troops in Europe

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and U.S. Ambassador Jacob D. Blease met today to discuss the possibility of a mutual reduction of forces in Europe, the U.S. Embassy reported.

An embassy spokesman said Beam asked for the meeting in Europe.

He said the "ambassador requested a clarification" of the Soviet proposal, and that the ambassador "will be in touch with Washington" on the matter.

Rogers had criticized Sen. Mike Mansfield's proposals for a mutual reduction of American troops in Europe.

Breshevan said Friday in Detroit, the capital of Soviet Georgia, "Some NATO countries show an evident interest in reduction of armed forces." "These spokesmen ask whose forces are to be reduced—foreign or national, what armaments, nuclear or conventional? If anything is not clear to somebody we are ready to make it clear."

U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers answered Breshevan's proposal two days later in Washington by calling it "a little vague."

"The talk of 'tasting wine'," Rogers said, "is what we like to know first if it is sweet wine, or is it sour?"

He added that the United States is "very anxious to negotiate with the Soviet Union a mutual reduction of forces in Europe," but first wants some assurances the talks would have a chance of succeeding.

In Washington, Administration officials, bolstered by some of the most prominent names in Democratic politics, are claiming victory in a hurried campaign to quash Sen. Mansfield's attempt to legislate a 50 per cent cut of U.S. troops levels in Europe.

Meeting Set On U.S., Red Fishing Clash

GLoucester, Mass. (AP) — A U.S. delegation will meet at sea Wednesday with the commander of a Soviet fishing fleet in hopes of ending a conflict between Russian trawlers and American lobstermen.

Lobster fishermen use wooden traps to catch lobster on the ocean floor. The traps are attached to the fishing buoy, the general area is usually marked off with another set of buoys to caution other fishermen.

Russian trawlers drag their nets through the water, and if they pass over an area where lobster traps are set, the traps, lobstermen gear.

John Sherry, chief of the Division of Enforcement and Surveillance of the National Marine Fisheries Service, said the meeting will be held "most likely" on the fishing command ship near the Nantuxet light.

Miss Target North Viets Fire Missiles At U.S. Plane Inside Laos

By GEORGE ESPEH Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — A North Vietnamese battery fired two missiles at a U.S. gunship plane 23 miles inside Laos Sunday and another SAM site threatened a flight of American fighter-bombers.

None of the U.S. planes were hit. One of the jet fighter-bombers attacked one of the SAM sites with unknown results, the U.S. command said.

Johnston said his records indicated it was the first time the SAM site had been fired at by one of the AC119 gunships, a four-engine convert, which carries a variety of electronic equipment to detect and track enemy ground force movements.

The AC119 on Sunday presumably was on the ground for North Vietnamese trucks when it was fired on.

Two missiles were fired at the aircraft, both passing the aircraft without detonation, Johnston said.

Johnston said the two SAMs apparently "passed pretty far from the aircraft," and the missiles were not triggered.

The missiles came from a battery in the vicinity of the Ban Karai pass, on the North Vietnamese border about 35 miles northwest of the DMZ, Johnston said. But he said there was no U.S. retaliation to the attack.

The hour of the attack was not reported, but the AC119s usually fly at night because their special devices can seek out trucks in the darkness. The propeller-driven AC119 is a version of the Lockheed C130 Hercules cargo and troop carrier with a maximum speed of 300 miles an hour. The AC119 and another gunship, the AC119B, have been credited with destroying more than 100 trucks during one of the most successful operations of the Ho Chi Minh trail.

In the other air action, three U.S. Navy A7F fighter-bombers were operating against the North Vietnamese SAM sites. Johnston said, however, that the radar system of a SAM site five miles inside North Vietnam began tracking them, preparatory to firing, Johnston said.

One of the A7Fs fired one missile at the site with unknown results, and the three planes returned safely to the carrier Kitty Hawk.

It was the 88th so-called protective reaction strike this year against anti-aircraft defenses in North Vietnam.

In other war action: The enemy fired five rockets from a SAM site five miles inside North Vietnam.

Leaflet Distributors' Rights Upheld by High Court Vote

By BARRY SCHWEID Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court upheld today the right of citizens to distribute leaflets condemning the way a man conducts his business even when the businessman considers the leaflets offensive.

The 5 to 4 decision supporting freedom of speech was delivered by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger in a case from a Chicago suburb where a real estate man accused of "blockbusting" was sued.

The leafleters were members of the "Better Housing Campaign," a group working to "eliminate" the racial ratio in that section of Chicago by working against the mass flight of white people as Negroes move in.

In other actions today, the court:

- Refused to give James R. Hoffa, imprisoned Teamsters Union president, another hearing on his long trail of appeal from a 1964 jury tampering conviction.
- Stepped away from a ruling of the Organization for a Better Environment on the responsibilities of federal highway officials to protect poor people from being uprooted by new roads running through old neighborhoods.
- Targeted the leaflet campaign was Jerome M. Keefe, a real estate broker whose office was in the Austin neighborhood, and who lived in Westchester, a suburb of Chicago, some seven miles away.
