Medina, Attorneys At Pretrial Hearing In My Lai Case

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP)—Capt. Ernest Medina, charged with murdering 102 villagers during an attack on My Lai in 1968, appeared with his lawyers today at the first pre-trial hearing in his case. Defense attorney Capt. Mark Kadish said his client was charged in connection with an alleged order of the massacre at My Lai, and still pending. The chief lawyer, Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas, said the withdrawal amendment would "delay the sacrifice made and the progress achieved" in Southeast Asia. But Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, said "there is no valid purpose served by prolonging our involvement in Vietnam." "Let us end the war by setting a firm date for termination," he said. Dole said advocates of setting a deadline, which would be achieved by cutting off funds for the war, are "not serious" in their efforts to gain support for Nixon's policy. Times Halts Viet Series; Complies with Court Edict

WASHINGTON (AP)—The New York Times today complied with a federal court restraining order, today halting publication of material from a secret Pentagon study of the Vietnam war. The Justice Department charged in court that the publication "seriously interfered with the conduct of our foreign relations" and could "result in irreparable injury to the national defense." The Times said it would not publish the material until a federal judge ordered the paper to temporarily stop printing Viet study. (AP Photo)

U.S. Press Cries Out: 'Suppression'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Here are excerpts of some editorial comments on the publication of the New York Times study of a secret Pentagon study of the Indochina war and of the government's attempt to halt publication of additional material. "The Nixon administration takes the curious position that it was a breach of security to disclose that the Gulf of Tonkin resolution was drafted in 1964 before the incident on which it was based. But the real outrage is the restriction placed on the attempt to suppress this vital information until now. The Times, in our view, has performed a singular public service, and should be rewarded rather than designated by the Nixon administration." In State Value Loss Reported In Trust Funds

HARTFORD (AP)—The state's six major trust and pension funds for teachers, veterans and other groups have suffered a "financial disaster" that can best be remedied by professional investment advice, State Treasurer Robert I. Berdon has told the Hartford Courant. Berdon is quoted in a copy-righted article in the Hartford Courant as estimating a $100 million loss in the value of the funds that was only partially offset by the recent recovery of the securities markets. Berdon said the loss in the funds' value, Berdon told the Courant, is still very substantial. He did not give a current estimate. "I cannot allow this to continue," Berdon said, "if the assembly does not act, we cannot continue to live with this situation, even if it involves talking to professional investment advisers to help advise the state treasurer on investments."

Session No Bargain Stamps For the Consumers

By DON MERKLE — A bill requiring gas stations to post the octane ratings of the gasoline they sell is expected to be passed by the House on the last day of the session, but the 1971 tax for the state legislature turned around, died before the House could act on it.

A bill requiring telephone companies to post the octane ratings of the gasoline they sell is expected to be passed by the House on the last day of the session, but the 1971 tax for the state legislature turned around, died before the House could act on it.

What the consumers wanted, legislation of credit cards, passed by the House on the last day of the session, but the 1971 tax for the state legislature turned around, died before the House could act on it.

Despite an adjournment night amendment tacked on by the Senate, an amendment which required a 15-hour session by the House on the last day of the session, the assembly did enact a bill requiring stores to indicate the price per unit of the current month's balance, passed by the Senate and the House on the last day of the session.

Stores now display many prices in a variety of sizes, and consumers are confused by a slide rule to figure out what is least expensive on a pound or ounce basis.

Midshipmen Graduates Face Uncertain Future

By PETER ARNETT Associated Press Writer

KINGS POINT, N.Y. (AP) — The band played a catchy nautical air. The midshipmen threw their white caps high into the air with a cheer.

But for the 211 sailors who proudly graduated as the class of '71 at the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point last week, the future was not all shipshape.

They had studied and trained for four tough years to be mates or third assistant engineers in the Merchant Marine. But few—if any—of them were walk the decks or the steel plating of the engine room this year at sea.

"It's like graduating from a military academy," said Larry Kline, 22, Los Angeles, who graduated last week. "You're not sure where you're going to end up."

Along with the U.S. Military Academy Kings Point is one of five federal service academies in America, and admission is by congressional appointment. The others are the Naval Air Force and Coast Guard academies.

What makes landlubbers of the class of '71 is the lack of interest in their membership by the industry. The interest of the Maritime Union and the Marine Trades Union, which are the labor unions of the industry, is also waning.

Midshipman Harry Martin, 21, Dallas, Tex., said, "We still produce good mates and engineers. But the industry is not interested in us."

He said that the industry is not interested in them because they are not as well trained as the graduates of the other academies. He said that the industry is not interested in them because they are not as well trained as the graduates of the other academies.

HELP PARTNER AFTER BLACKWOOD RESPONSE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The choice of the opening lead is not always up to the opening leader. Sometimes his partner should make the choice. In many hands the leader's partner bids and thus indicates the suit that will make the most favorable opening lead. In some hands, however, the defenders are not strong enough to bid, a lead-directing double may do the job.

South dealer. Both sides vulnerable. Opening lead — Two of hearts.

North's response of five hearts didn't show a real heart suit but merely promised a heart ace. East could well afford to double this Blackwood response not to show more length in hearts but to say emphatically that hearts would make the best opening lead (as far as East could tell).

West dutifully opened the first contract of six spades. East put up the queen, and South led to win with the ace. Now South was in danger of losing to the two red kings.

It's interesting to note that only the heart opening lead could give South any trouble. If West lead any other suit the queen of clubs would have been an automatic choice if East had not doubled five hearts. Declarer would win, draw trumps and develop the diamonds to get rid of his losing heart.

Good defense.

East wins the ace of hearts, South drew two trumps, cashed the top clubs and ruffed his last club in dummy. Then he led dummy's remaining heart.

If East made the "normal" play of grabbing the trick with the king of hearts, he would be

Albuquerque Quiet After Disturbances

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—After two days of violent disorders that left 15 persons wounded by gunfire and damage in the millions, calm has returned to this desert city of 250,000.

After the last violent incident took place Tuesday, a police report showed arrests during the disturbances totaling 800, including 117 juveniles.

Fire Chief Ray Kuhn estimated damage from fires—most of them he said were touched off by firebombs—would run to $5 million or more.

Police and National Guardsmen were at the park and the university campus.

Tuesday, city and state officials were involved in a heated argument over responsibility for control of the disturbances.

Charles Barnhart, chairman of the city commission, charged that a delay by King in calling in the guard permitted unnecessary violence and he said the appearance of Atty. Gen. David Norvell and Lt. Gov. Robert G. Goheen Tuesday morning helped to calm the situation.

Barnhart said he resented Mondragon's statement at the rally that "police brutality is not the cause of the rioting" but had referred to incidents prior to the disorders. Norvell criticized Barnhart for not being present at the rally.

King said there was no delay on his part in sending in the guard, that he acted two minutes after receiving the request for a car carrying three men and a woman.

He said he had been uneasy about the absence of a request for troops and had been those hit by bullets, during the disorders and a volunteer medical aid team set up by Univ-

FitzGerald Asks Discussion On Gambling Bill

In response to a call from State Rep. Donald Genovese, town Director William FitzGerald has asked that a discussion of the legalized gambling bill be held at the July meeting of the Board of Directors of the City of Manchester.

The bill, which has not yet been signed by Gov. Thomas Meskill, provides for lotteries, race tracks, pari-mutuel betting and off-track betting. The bill gives each municipality the option of permitting or banning off-track betting.

FitzGerald said today he is not coming to town. He called for support for banning gambling from "anyone interested in keeping our city as fine as it can be."

He stressed that although the bill, he wants the town to be "in a position to act" before any vote is taken.

Genovese said that he will get a chance to establish a gambling operation in town.

FitzGerald said that he will call for an explanation of the bill from the town council at the July meeting.

According to an amendment to the original bill, municipalities can adopt an ordinance prohibiting off-track betting.

Genovese, who voted against the bill, also has called for stiff zoning regulations to prevent the establishment of a race track in Manchester. Such regulations would have to be written and adopted by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Stock Exchange in Tokyo Saw Trading Zoom in 1970

TOKYO (AP) — Trading volume of the Tokyo stock exchange soared to 42.7 billion shares in 1970 as the Japanese economy boomed.

This total swamped the 24 billion shares traded last year on the New York Stock Exchange.

But the dollar value of the transactions was another story. At the end of 1970 the value of all shares listed on the Tokyo exchange totaled the equivalent of $25.4 billion while the value of shares listed on the New York exchange amounted to $28 billion. That's because the average value of a Japanese share is 4 cents, compared with 29 cents on New York exchange shares.

A sharp rise in both volume and prices on the Tokyo exchange began in 1968 when foreign investors—about 70 per cent of them—bought more Japanese securities during an international monetary agreement in Japan. Japanese officials have declined to say to what extent the restrictions would be eased.

British Ford Strike Goes On

Rockville Hospital Notes

LIVERPOOL, England (AP)—A two-day-old strike by 3,000 assembly workers today threatened British Ford with major disruption for the second time this year.

The 3,000 strikers have been out since Monday protesting the dismantling of a shop steward at the company's Halewood plant. Talks on the dispute broke down Tuesday night.

The strike has resulted in 2,000 layoffs in other Halewood departments. Now 1,000 workers are on strike at the plant.

The strike cost $20 million in lost production.

All 21 Ford plants in Britain were closed for 10 weeks by a pay strike which ended in April. The strike cost $20 million in lost production.

While America Slept... There have been many instances in history when the secret inner planning and the hidden moves of a government

There is one certain difference, and another potential big difference, between such instances in the past and what has now been revealed through publication

The first difference is that this is the first time in history when the revelation of such history has been contemporary, while the war in question is still in progress

When this rule proved no longer tenable, the New York Times decided to move in a different direction, to trap and paralyze its own people, to stage manage protests for war and for retaliation

None of the individuals involved in this gigantic plot for ever deeper involvement in Vietnam was as villainous as the whole atmosphere of the deed might indicate

Collectively, however, they proved a deadly crew who persuaded and pressured one another into courses of policy and action speculatively free from any of the limitations of truth, morality, or principle which might be considered appropriate to some human endeavor

But in the course of this free wheeling operation of theirs, they made mistakes they themselves would probably admit to be much more serious than any mistakes of morality, military, political, psychological; they were mistaken as pragmatists, and this would probably cause them more chagrin than anything else

Among these individuals who made this collective soulless monster at the heart of the conduct of our national destiny the most culpable were, as has been indicated and suspected, all the professional generals and militaryists, and not the professional politicians, either

The words, the rationale, the philosophical pose, the pose of being able to run the world, the instant presence of supposedly superior brainpower on both the military and the political side, were all provided by the academic intellectuals whom President Kennedy had brought to Washington

Wednesday's biennial session of the General Assembly... The fact is, annual sessions produced no miracle cure—the lawmakers behaved the same as ever—over a period of five months allowed to sink down the drain in tearful nonsense, with the actual effort of lawmaking cranked helter skelter into the session's closing days

This is lawmaking? Prior to this session, Connecticut's legislature was the epitome of ineffectual performance with a degree by the fact they occurred every two years. It might be well for the state to consider going back to biennial sessions... NEW HAVEN REGISTER

Back To Biennial Sessions? Wednesday's biennial session of the General Assembly... The fact is, annual sessions produced no miracle cure—the lawmakers behaved the same as ever—over a period of five months allowed to sink down the drain in tearful nonsense, with the actual effort of lawmaking cranked helter skelter into the session's closing days they are ever again satisfied they know what is going on with their own life and death... Our national security is indeed involved, but not in the way those who would seek to prevent publication of these documents believe. It becomes an elemental necessity for our national security that no such chapter in national policy and executive conduct shall ever be possible again

This Veto Is Welcome Governor Meskill's proposed veto of the bill to require the addition of a photograph to the Connecticut driver's license is welcome for three reasons entirely aside from the question of whether or not the particular specifications of the bill adopted by the General Assembly would have set up a monopoly for one particular type of film

First, the process would cost in the millions, at a time when not only the state, but its port of cities are experiencing financial emergency... Second, the process would involve a marked revival of inconvenience for the individual driver, in contrast to the comparative ease and simplicity of the present license renewal process

Third, the proposed photograph requirement has every other relationship to the business of the state itself or to the operation of its motor vehicle laws. As was openly testified in favor of the bill, the proposed requirement was concerned mainly with use of the driver's license as an identity card, and might just as properly be a regulation of the state highway department or the state liquor control commission as the motor vehicle department

Let's, as much as we can, keep government off our back and out of our pocket. This was a proposal to saddle us with one more chore, and make us pay for the privilege

The America's Cup We commended the New York Yacht Club for agreeing to a long overdue revision in the management of the most exciting and prestigious of all sailing events—the America's Cup race

At last, the judges are to be international... The second difference is potential and move of an impression that a certainty, but what may strike historians after they get through comparing this page of history with other similar pages previously revealed is the possibility that this American page represents a kind of work. It may win a national championship for extended and cynical planning to move in disguised directions, to trap and paralyze its own people, to stage manage protests for war and for retaliation

Jordan's UN Ploy

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON—The alarming deterioration in U.S. efforts to win even minor concessions from Israel in the Sinai Peninsula... The Egyptian Sinai has not even formally repudiated the Feb. 8 Sinai settlement proposal made by special UN envoy Gunnar Jarling but for what Israel is doing in Jerusalem

What makes the newest effort noteworthy, however, is the possibility that this time the UN Security Council, where Jordan is now considering bringing its anti-Israeli action, might be in a mood to invoke sanctions against Israel for what it is doing in Jerusalem

Although the U.S., as a permanent Security Council member, can always employ its veto against anti-Israeli sanctions, the Nixon administration does not want to be placed in the position of vetoing a resolution designed to stop clearly illegal Israeli actions, particularly in Jerusalem

Thus, President Nixon's Middle Eastern experts have been in secret negotiations with Jordan for months trying to design a resolution that does not use sanctions but that does severely chastise Israel for continuing to expand Arab-occupied East Jerusalem (illegally absorbed into Israel after the 1967 war) deep into the Jordanian West Bank

These clandestine negotiations between Jordan and the U.S. have been most interesting. In the first place, Secretary of State William P. Rogers has succeeded up to now in laying the Jordanian UN move on grounds that any overture to the UN about Jerusalem would endanger the delicate negotia-

WASHINGTON—In the March 20, 1964, cable from President Johnson to Henry Cabot Lodge in the Embassy in Saigon—one of the documents in the massive Pentagon history of American Policy in Indochina which the New York Times is now publishing—we find Mr. Johnson declaring that "nothing is more important than to stop neutral talk wherever we can by whatever means we can"

What makes the newest effort noteworthy, however, is the possibility that this time the UN Security Council, where Jordan is now considering bringing its anti-Israeli action, might be in a mood to invoke sanctions against Israel for what it is doing in Jerusalem

First Class Badges are Awarded to 11 Cadettes

Seven girls of Cadette Troop 246 and four from Troop 220 received the First Class platinum badge in Girl Scouting Monday at the Court of Awards ceremony held at the home of Mrs. Shirley Schmidt of 401 Slater St., South Windsor

All girls are planning to continue into Senior Troop 174. Troop 246 Cadettes were Mary Oberg, Denise Donnelly, Suzanne Caron, Sandra Smith, Jacqueline Parks, Susan Schmidt, and Ann Stelmak

First Class award requires a minimum of six Cadette badges to show growth and understanding, skill in arts, citizenship, health and safety, home, international friendship, and out-of-doors skills. They must also meet four challenges: leadership, dependability, active citizen, emergency preparedness and the Girl Scout Law

Troop 246 this year adopted a dormitory at the Warehouse Post Recreating Room and every second Tuesday of each month, the girls visited or brought the children to their home to South Windsor for talks, singing, pillow-toppers and a Christmas party

Awards in social dependability were presented to the following girls: Good grooming and hostess, Debra Ask, Debbie Ask, Deborah Blotop, Keely Beauty, Honorary Brides, Colleen Hill, Ellen Johnson, Joanne Marshall, Mary Oberg, Jacqueline Parks, Sandra Smith, Richarda, Susan Schmidt, Sheryl Schmidt, Karen Steibitz, Deborah Smith, Sandra Smith, Ann Stelmak, and Karen Strandberg

The ceremony was presided over by Mrs. Curt Nicolson, Secretary of the Girl Scout Senior Planning Board and field director for South Windsor

Meskill Turns Down 48th Assembly Bill

HARTFORD (AP)—Gov. Thomas J. Meskill boosted his veto total to 48 Tuesday, a one-year record for Connecticut governors. The previous record was 47 by former Governor Abraham Ribicoff in 1965

Among the six bills vetoed Tuesday was a measure that would have given the state Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities power to subpoena evidence during investigations of a wide range of civil rights complaints

"Under present Connecticut law the Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities is empowered to investigate complaints in certain defined areas, and to provide the state with evidence during investigations of a wide range of civil rights complaints

Another vetoed bill would have allowed the state Dental Commission to allow a dentist with "exceptional qualifications" who taught at the University of Connecticut Dental School to be given a provisional license to practice dentistry in connection with his teaching duties, even though he was not licensed in the United States

Another would have created an unpaid state commission to study the problems of deaf and hearing-impaired persons. Although the bill specifies that the members of the commission shall receive no compensation for their services, it does require the commission to make annual reports

Another vetoed bill would have required the state to give towns and cities first bid on and vote on their behalf

In State Value Loss Reported In Trust Funds

yield of the six trust and pension funds "could be substantially improved" by such advice. When he was asked what securities the state had invested in, Borden produced a nationwide analysis of state investment programs published at the beginning of 1970 by the Investment Bankers Association of America. It showed Connecticut then had invested 63.7 per cent of its trust and pension fund money in corporate bonds, 28.4 per cent in United States obligations, 6.5 per cent in "stock," 1.1 per cent in mortgages and 3.9 per cent in cash and deposits. There was no investment in municipal bonds. According to the analysis, the national average was: 58.4 per cent in corporate bonds, 14 per cent in mortgages, 15 per cent in United States obligations, 11.4 per cent in "stock," 1.3 per cent in municipal bonds and 3 per cent in cash and deposits.

Borden said that in his memo to the General Assembly he outlined the budget for a proposed new Trust Investment Department in the treasurer's office. He maintained that the $277,610 needed to pay the debt of the new department would come from income of the six major trust funds and several smaller funds. Borden told the Council he had discussed the latest developments of the trust and pension funds with Gov. Thomas J. Meskill. "If the General Assembly turns its mind there will be a reorganization where necessary, and we will have professional investment management," he said. "The situation has changed."

Here are the losses suffered by the six major trust and pension funds covering teachers, state employees and state veterans, that are invested by the state treasurer's office. Original market value investment: As of June 30, 1970. State employees retirement fund $41,700,000, $39,800,000. Municipal employees retirement fund $21,000,000, $20,820,000. Teachers annuity fund $281,910,000, $178,100,000. Teachers pension fund $186,362,000, $146,354,000. Soldiers', Sailors' and Marines fund $40,554,000, $27,550,000. Total $926,526,000, $648,325,000.

Columbia Selectmen May Change Street Signs

The Board of Selectmen will investigate the possibility of changing street signs at points to concrete posts with the names painted on them, in an effort to curb vandalism. First Selectman Joseph Szelegny said, "I don't know if we can stop the thefts but at least they will be harder to pick up and carry away."

The last time stolen or mutilated signs were replaced was in 1968, when a quantity of stop and yield signs were purchased from the state prison at Wall. Total cost was $2,000.

Neil Burgess won the season's first sailing race on the lake Sunday. Martha Turek was second and Russ Catalano third. Catalano, the Commodore, said there were 21 boats, Salfish and Sunfish participating. Martha Turek, Chick Sutfin, Byron Birtles and Catalano will represent the Columbia club in regatta at Bolton Lake next weekend. Max Lemmer, Martin Capricci and Ted Truden have donated trophies for this season.

Stephen Lewandowski, Howell Cheney Technical School student, shows John Iagrossi, science teacher, some semi-precious stones in their polished and finished form. On display are some specimens from the in-the-rough collection that Stephen's father gathered over a period of six years.

Two Schools To Share This Rock Collection

Rocks can be a problem, and even under the very best of conditions. Usually some disposition can be made of them—garden, wall, patio, interior or exterior of a house, or just tucked away. But when you have a collection of them—and not just run-of-the-mill rocks but ones having aesthetic and some monetary value—that's something else. Such was the dilemma facing Stephen Lewandowski until this year.

The father of Stephen, a freshman enrolled in the carpentry course at Howell Cheney Technical School, became interested in mineralogy when he attended a meeting of rock hounds in 1962.

In time, the whole family was caught up in the hobby. They made trips to New York State, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Canada, and state quarries in Middletown, Portland, Haddam, West Hartford, New Haven, Woodbury, and Canton.

At night, Stephen said, "we would use fluorescent light, and the whole place would light up like a volcano. Herstein diagrams we sifted out with large screens."

Also included in the collection are each pegmatite minerals such as garnet, lepidolite, spodumene, strom, and kyanite. trap rock minerals, such as fluorite, galena, celestine, and tremolite; and fluorescent minerals such as calcite and willemite.

"My father bought a saw and a grinder, hooked up motors he already had, bought polishing wheels, and set up a shop in the cellar. He sent away for fittings and ground and polished the stones for them. He made bracelets, neckties, earrings, pins, and sweater hooks from tiger eye, jade, agate, garnets, Apache tears, snowflake obsidian, and black onyx, and sold them at a gas station he ran in West Hartford."

He continued collecting until 1968, when time became of the essence. Herstein diagrams, death, Stephen and his sister and guardian, Mrs. Martha Griffin, looked up motors he brought to guard against insects and disease.

formed citizenry and find no information whatever in the reports that might endanger the nation's current security."

Chicago Today—"We think that the public now will understand what the press has been talking about, when it writes of 'the credibility gap.' What are those government officials saying today who in the past have accused the press of leaving the gap?"

Long Island Press—"Considering the lives lost, the pain to so many millions of individuals and the extent to which the war has torn the fabric of American society, every responsible attempt to let the public know is not only the exercise of an American right but an exercise in American wisdom."

Washington Evening Star—"The Pentagon study... unquestionably will provide much grist for Communist propaganda mills and intelligence services. But it should not, in view of its limitations and distortions, be seized upon by Congress, the administration, or the public as a means for painting a picture of a free press."

Washington Post—"In pledging to read the Justice Dept.'s threat to seek an injunction, the Times has upheld the worst traditions of a free press."

The Atlanta Constitution—"The forbidding gray masses of copy in the Times might have attracted few readers if the administration hadn't set up such a furrow level and threatened to take action under the Espionage Act."

Charleston (W.Va.) Gazette—"If nothing else, continued publication of the study reports discouraged on the spot."

South Windsor CDAP Plans Survey On Education

Next week a public opinion survey on education in town by the South Windsor Community Development Action Plan's (CDAP) Agency Education Committee will be distributed to homes throughout the public school system.

The survey questionnaire is designed to sample opinion of a number of education-related topics. Parents may return completed forms to schools or mail them to the town hall.

A similar survey is being done at the South Windsor High School this week in which students are being asked to complete a four-page questionnaire.

Mayor Howard E. Fitts, chairman of CDAP, said today, "The survey is being submitted to our citizens so that this committee may have the benefit of a large sampling of South Windsor residents."

Residents of the community who do not receive one of the 4,000 questionnaires being distributed should call the CDAP office in the Town Hall and ask for a copy.

Court Cases

CHIEF COURT IS

Restitution in a form of an apology wound up a short trial in Rockville Court yesterday.

Gary L. Renaud, 19, of 72 Glen-stone Dr., Vernon, was on trial for breach of peace and being found intoxicated, the arrest stemming from an incident at

McDonald's Drive-In Restaurant in Vernon.

Vernon Police Officer Weaver

testified that in a large gathering of young people he heard

"g" called out, and decided to stay a while longer. It was repeated again, he was sure,

by Renaud. He also determined the youth was intoxicated and arrested him, meeting with

Students Told Drug

Addiction

Is a Long Trip to

Nowhere

The drug trip is a trip to nowhere — in the message that

Jackie McLean, well-known rock musician and a former drug addict, tried to get across to the students at Rockville High school Monday.

McLean accompanied Congressman Robert Steele, who is a resident of Vernon, to the school as a sort of kickoff for a drug education program that will be instituted in the Vernon school system, next September. Mrs. Clare Albion, physical education supervisor is coordinating the program.

Steele said that while the drug problem in Vernon is not as bad as it is in some towns, it is popular during the 1960s was shown in several versions, including "The Great Escape,"

and "The Long Walk Home."

Represented at the showing were some 20 designers including, Adolpho, Mr. John and Don

Marshall.

The hats were enthusiastically appreciated by the audience but one industry representative was dismayed that so few women present were wearing hats.

"They knew they were going to a hat luncheon and less than 100 people showed up," said Eric Cohen, executive director of the Massachusetts Millinery

Manufacturers Association.

Cohen said that in Manchester this year, his association represented 10 manufacturers doing $50 million business.

In 1970, he said, there were only three manufacturers doing $5 million business.

A New York representative said the number of milliners in

New York had dropped from 600

to 100. He said the dollar volume of business had remained steady but the units sold had declined.

"But in the last six months that's been reversed because of the youngsters are buying,"

he said. "Those between 17 and 22."

With hundreds of Warsaw

Pact Communist aircraft poised near the Baltic, Ewald asserted,

"everything else of any size would be blown out of the water, no matter how many planes they take down with them."

The comment reflected a generation of opinion running through the 38,000-man navy.

The fleet commander, Vice

Adm. Armin Zimmerman,

says missile-firing destroyers such as those recently acquired from the United States, have the required sea to sea and sea to air capability, but lack the ability to fly in any weather in the northern sea.

"Younger fleet officers argue that the money paid for the three ships, about $60 million each, could have been spent on more fleet aircraft, torpedo speedboats and submarines.

"U-boats are the most serious threat to our ships," Ewald says.

The navy has five operational

U-boats and 10 more under contract. Eighteen boats are being built, five older craft set for training.

"We can run underwater with no sonar detecting devices operating and without using our radar, both of which are giveaways," Ewald said. "We sail strictly by dead reckoning and the boat is simple to steer, like a streetcar with automatic."

We also have a safety escape system."

A naval academy in Glas-burg has hopes of becoming a regular four-year institution such as Annapolis. Its historical collection features the role of U-boats in the 1914-18 war and again in 1939-45. Germany's sinking of the liner Lusitania was instrumental in bringing the United States into World

War I. In the later war German underwater "wolf packs" took a heavy toll of Allied shipping until the sea war's tide turned against them in 1943. U-boat losses after that made the submarine the hardest hit in percentage losses of any other arm of the German forces.

"The amazing thing," says

Comdr. Gerard Flannery, Bronx-

ville, N.Y., part of U.S. Navy assistance group working in Glas, "was that the average age of the wartime U-boat commanders was 20 years. The members had 20 years of experience with plaques listing the coming lower numbers of lost U-boats and the names of their crews.

Many Register Monthly For New Health Care Plan

By HOWARD ANGLONE
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — About 1,000 persons a month are signing up for an insurance plan that costs less than regular hospital insurance yet delivers complete protection against hospital bills and offers preventive care for $1 a visit.

Members do not have to be sick to benefit from their health care plan, the Harvard Community Health Plan—HCHP—promotes. The HCHP provides individuals and families with all the out-of-hospital medical services they need—physical check-ups, X-rays, laboratory tests, minor surgical procedures, full maternity care, eye examinations, physical therapy, and 24-hour emergency predoctoral care. The monthly premium for family coverage is $28.88, or $1.50 less than the $30 monthly premium for community-rated group mastermedical coverage in the area. Emergency care is $3 a visit outside of office hours. Visits to a physician during office hours are $1, and there is no charge for any procedures he may think necessary.

About the only additional money a member has to pay is for drugs taken at home, eyeglasses, and dental care. The HCHP office near the Harvard Medical School offers a discount on prescriptions, and the HCHP office near the pharmacy offering drugs at a saving. The plan had some problems after it began in October 1969, but Robert L. Hibel, the executive director, said in an interview that for about the past year "we've been right on target" with 1,000 subscribers a month toward a goal of 30,000 by March 1972.

The plan was begun with loans from Harvard Medical School but operated as a separate corporation that calculates its costs and charges on the basis of being able to operate in the black and start repaying its loans when it has 30,000 subscribers. Altogether the HCHP has received $11 million in loans from Harvard, a $600,000 loan from the Ford Foundation, and grants of $200,000 from the Commonwealth Fund and $200,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation.

Meskill Affirms He'll Join Talks

By SOL R. COHEN
Gov. Thomas Meskill has agreed to return to the bargaining table with legislative leaders on a negotiating tax and spending program for the state. "It's nice to be wanted," he remarked this morning and said that talks will resume in the State Capitol this afternoon.

The Democratic leaders of the General Assembly had announced yesterday afternoon that their talks with Republican leaders were proving fruitless because none of them knew whether Meskill would be agreeable to any of their demands. "If we don't know what he would find acceptable, we're not waiting time," said Senate Minority Leader J. Edward Caldwel.

And House Speaker William Ratchford echoed his words. "Future meetings without the governor would be a waste of time," he said. Their remarks followed a second day of talks — trying to agree on a fiscal program that could pass the General Assembly and be signed by the governor in time for July 1 start of the 1972 fiscal year.

The Democratic leaders had said that, without the governor, they would be holding the meeting tentatively set for this afternoon (Wednesday) would not be held. Meskill, last Wednesday, had vetoed the tax and spending package passed by the General Assembly last week. He said he would be asked to convene and then return to 2 p.m. Monday, they explained. They said the legislature would be summoned by telegram and telephone, if an agreement with the governor is reached before then.

Meskill had said on Monday that he did not intend to sit in on the current round of negotiations on a spending, borrowing and taxing program. The next move is up to the legislature, he said. Yesterday morning he reiterated his position, saying, "The burden is on the legislature to come up with another budget." The Democrats, however, took the position that it was the governor's veto that required the new set of negotiations.

Public Act of the 1969 session established the current five per cent sales tax. However, it did more than that. It specified that the sales tax would revert to three-and-a-half per cent after June 30, 1971. That is why the present General Assembly, meeting in a special session, must adopt a new tax package by June 30. Otherwise, it must adopt emergency taxing legislation until June 30, 1971. The 1971-72 is signed, sealed and delivered.

ASCOT, England (AP) — Scotland Yard is on guard on the royal box at Ascot race track today after a telephone warning that a bomb had been planted. Detectives searched the stands and track buildings but found no bomb. "It looks like a hoax, but we are taking no chances," a detective said. Queen Elizabeth II attended the opening of the Royal Ascot on Tuesday and was due back at the track today.

Manchester Area Port Charges Lodged Against Three Youths

Veron police arrested three young men yesterday, charging each with possession of marijuana. Arrested were: William Chamberlain, 17, of a Bancroft Rd.; Howard Glinne, 19, 7 Bancroft Rd. and Klaus Winter, 22, of 12 Ellington Ave., all of Veron. Police said the arrests were made at 12 Ellington Ave. where they were called on another matter. They said they found a small amount of marijuana in the car.

Sculpture Stolen

PARAMUS, N.J. (AP) — Rain dispersed the crowd at the opening of an exhibition of sculpture in a park, then vandals stole the exhibit of Mrs. Hubert Peck, 42, of 100 Peck Rd. The sculpture was valued at $1,000. The Pecks were alerted by a neighbor who saw a man carrying a large object away from the park.

STANTON, Mo. (AP) — A sign at Meramec Caverns on US 66 here causes tourists to chuckle. It reads: "Jeanne James Slept and Crept Here." The outlaw used the cave as a hideout.

Slept and Crept

PAUL WETHERSPON, 17, of 28 Range Hill Dr., Veron, was charged yesterday with failure to carry license. He is scheduled to appear in Circuit Court, Rockville, July 6.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Missing Letter

There is something reassuring about the click of the mailbox latch as your important letter slides down and out of sight. Whether you are making an insurance payment or meeting a tax deadline or completing a business deal, you feel relief. "Well, that's taken care of."

But what if the other party, perhaps weeks or months afterward, insists that your letter never arrived? If it came to a showdown in court, how would you stand?

Fortunately, the law offers you a helping hand in the form of a "presumption." That is, the law will presume that the letter did arrive, provided you had the correct amount of postage and the correct address. As one court explained:

"It is a presumption founded on the probability that (postal employees) will do their duty." Furthermore, you may get the benefit of the presumption even if the letter was not placed directly into a mailbox. One court applied the presumption to a letter handed to a mailman (while on duty). Another court applied it to a letter dropped into the mail chute of an office building. However, there are limits. The presumption is denied when a man simply left some mail in an open box, or the expectation that the mailman would eventually pick it up.

Furthermore, like most presumptions, this one is subject to being defeated if there is sufficient evidence against it.

In one case, an embarrassed debtor claimed to have mailed an important legal notice to the office of his creditors. But in a court hearing, both parties in the firm took the witness stand and solemnly swore that the notice had never been received. Then their bookkeeper took the stand and swore the same thing.

This testimony was enough to convince the court that the letter had indeed failed to reach its destination. It was more likely, said the court, either that the debtor had neglected to put it in the mail or that the post office had—for once—succeeded in doing its duty.

Capitol Cost Seen Danger For Capital

WALLINGFORD (AP) — The proposed new State Capitol Complex would involve a lot of capital, Gov. Thomas J. Meskill said Monday.

He estimated the eventual cost of the Capitol center at $200 million, including interest in borrowed money.

"I don't very seriously that our taxpayers are prepared for such an outlay," said Meskill. "To any notion of the staggering operating costs the center will add."

The center would cost $20 million to build, according to the latest estimates, but still $20 million has been authorized in bonded borrowing and it remains to be allocated yet. The State Bond Commission, controlled by Meskill and his supporters, has the power to block the borrowing.

Some $13 million has already been spent in planning and land purchases.

Meskill pointed out in a speech before a business and industry meeting here that the interest on $200 million in borrowed money could add up to $40 million. And he said rising construction costs could push the total to half a billion dollars.

As an example of the way a project can far outstrip the cost estimates, Meskill mentioned the University of Connecticut Health Center in Farmington, which is going to cost about $100 million.

"I hope the impact of the UConn Medical-Dental Center won't be lost on the taxpayers," he said. "I can assure you that it has not been lost on me."

"I view it as a staggering and unforgettable experience."

The proposed Capitol center, which would include New House and Senate chambers and offices for all departments which are now scattered about the Hartford area—some in rented quarters—has been studied for the past six years.

Ability Counts

LONDON (AP) — Life at the top in Britain is no longer ruled by the old school tie—like it is who you know rather than what you know.

A survey by the Industrial Management Journal disclosed nearly half of the bosses of the 30 leading industrial companies went to free government-sponsored schools.

Michael Berry, training director for the Confederation of British Industry, said: "There is too much money at stake today for the old school tie system. From now on it won't matter where you come from. Progress will depend only on ability."
