Storms Flood Streets, Disrupt Power

By DOUG BEVINS
(Herald Reporter)

Severe thunderstorms swept through Manchester and the surrounding area yesterday, at night, resulting in flash flooding and causing several power and telephone failures.

Town water department measurements at the Porter-Howard reservoir reported a rainfall of 1.87 inches, although the storm hovered over Manchester for only a couple of hours.

The downpour was welcomed somewhat—except for scattered showers, the area hasn't had a good drenching in a long time, but the town's ban on excess water use still in effect from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The storm could have been worse. Much of the town highway department. Plans floods hit several areas of town.

The "usual" areas included Sts. Broad and Hilliard, Sts. Summit and Grove Sts., and Main St. at "Educational square." A few other flooded areas of town brought complaints to the public works department.

There was a gutter washout on Olcott St. that lasted for half an hour. The water was pumped out of the street.

And flooding in the Pine St. construction area resulted in the street being closed for the regular detour hours to allow workers to clean up the construction site.

Monaco Paving Co. spokesman said the rushing water undermined some of the granite blocks and the work on that intersection will probably be delayed for a day, as the surface needs regrading.

Several workers from an hour last night, removing debris from Center St. Police were on duty to guide snarled traffic through the muddy mess.

The Hartford Electric Light Co. reported eight different areas last night affecting nearly 500 customers. The power was out at various times in several parts of town, concentrated in the areas of Cooper, West center, Pine, McKee, High, Cedar, Cornell, and South Main Sts.

The average time power was out was about two hours. The failure resulted from several blown line fuses, and one transformer was hit by lightning.

The lightning struck the power company there was a surprisingly small amount of trouble, and power was restored to all areas by midnight.

Over 100 Manchester telephone customers reported service interruptions last night, the result of 20 cable failures in the area.

Telephone said the failures were caused by "lightning burns" and "wet troubles."

A lightning burn fuses cables were blown, and wet trouble occurs when water seeps into cables cracked by the sudden temperature change.

Linemen worked until midnight last night getting the majority of the lines repaired. The job should be complete by early afternoon today.

Lightning struck on rather lightly, Hoops said, and the hardest hit in the area was East Hartford, Rockville and Stafford Springs also had several telephone failures.

Due to a number of lines being blown during the intense storm, a few sections of major highways in the area were closed.

At one point, so many accidents were happening at once that police had to close down the area.

State police spokesman said that the number of accidents is usual for an intense storm of this type. It appeared so quickly that motorists didn't adjust to the poor road conditions.

At least, if the incident related to The Herald by Atty. Victor Moses is a case in point, it does seem that local residents may have had their awe of Mother Nature renewed somewhat.

Atty. Moses was about to leave his home at 44 Cone St. this morning, he noticed something dangling from the telephone lines at the street's edge.

He suspected that it might be a live wire, damaged by the storm, he called the police to investigate.

The officer in charge was likewise cautious and, somewhat alarmed, put in a call for professional help from the Hartford Electric Light Co.

When the power company repair crew arrived, however, a father biker, knowing that at least one way to beat construction costs is to use your own materials and build-your-own, plucked the dangling strand from the wire and flew off.

Rivers of mud and dirty water came flooding down Pine St. during last night's sudden thunderstorm, causing flooding and snarled traffic. The sports car in the photo got stuck in the mud trying to get up Pine St., but was freed minutes later.

Emergency phone numbers are: Highway 666-5070. Sanitary Sewer and Water 669-9097.

Last Month's Building Permits Totaled $31.360

Permits for the construction of a shopping center near the Tolland Green and for interior work on a single-unit house were included in June building permits issued by Building Inspector Charles Schutz, boosting the total to $31,360.

The shopping center to be located on Rt. 74 next to the post office, results were issued for $150,000.

The single-unit house, "Dial-tone Corp." will be located in the Shurway shopping center on the lower level. The operation will be similar to another Dial-tone lounge located in Springfield, Mass.

The operation permits a couple or an individual sitting at one table to dial someone at another table permitting them to hold a private conversation over the telephone.

The corporation took out a $100,000 permit to cover remodeling of the facility including the installation of a bar, bathroom facilities and a kitchen.

The location of the lounge at the Wilbur Cross Highway exit for the University of Connecticut indicates that the corporation is seeking for a share of the student body.

Permits for the construction of new houses valued at $130,000 were also issued by Schutz. New house permits issued were Peter Pagan, 2200 Old Stafford Rd., $22,000.

some grotesquely magnified Bay of Pigs adventure.
 Technically speaking, the information the New York Times didn't disclose, in 1961, had a much closer involvement with national security than any of the information the Times has been publishing in 1971. This, in fact, looking back, looks like a case of good or ill, and something that cannot now be changed by the mere release of old information.

In 1961, on the other hand, the interference of publication with the national security would have been very clear. Publication of what the Times knew then would have had the obvious result of rendering impossible a classified secret military operation which had been designed, financed, authorized and directed by our highest national officials.

Publication would have so violated the national security that the Bay of Pigs operation would have had to be abandoned.

Isn't that another way of saying that publication in 1961 would have been even more in the national interest, even though it clearly invaded vital policy territory, than the publication in 1971 has been?

Using our hindsight, couldn't we argue that the Times had an even higher obligation to publish its secrets then?

Spain's Backward Youth
 A Spanish psychiatrist is in trouble with the Spanish rightist dictatorship because he has been conducting an survey among Spanish students. He may go to jail, which would be a wicked, reactionary thing for the Franco government to do to him.

Meanwhile, we are given some indication of the kind of statistic—seemingly shockingly deplorable to his expert judgment—that has been resulting from his survey.

The Spanish psychiatrist has found that sexual instruction is all but nonexistent in Spanish middle and upper-middle class homes. Only seven per cent of the students responding to his surveys ever learned from their families, their schools, or their priests how babies are made.

Perhaps because of just such a woeful lack of instruction, there was a number of students who had never "so much as kissed anyone." There was an "astounding" amount of total innocence of sexual experience.

It is sometimes argued that such public policy may, in the end, cost the public by forcing upon the public tax the expense of providing the education of private schools have been providing.

But the argument should not become, either way, an argument about dollars and financing.

The important thing is that there is a principle at stake, a principle established in the Constitution itself, and redefined and reinterpreted but never abandoned, by various decisions of the Supreme Court.

The object should be to follow the right principle, whatever and wherever the cost, and this should apply both to those who want to provide a special kind of schooling for their own children and to those who want to keep church and state from those mutual entanglements the document which is the foundation of this nation's experiment in self-governing democracy declared to be beyond our proper law and practice.

Secrets The Times Didn't Publish
 Strangely enough, no one, not even the New York Times itself, that we have noted, has tried to make any comparison between what that newspaper did with its Pentagon papers in 1971 and what it did with its secret advance knowledge about the Bay of Pigs back in the year 1961.

Then the Times had information about the preparation of a force designed to make a landing in Cuba with the hope of overthrowing the Castro regime, and it would not be in the national interest for it to disclose the information it had.

The New York Times censored itself, the Bay of Pigs invasion was ahead, and became a terrible and costly failure, not only in itself and in the disastrous end of that particular venture, but also in its influence on the future pattern of American policy and behavior.

Inside Report

The Catalytic Symbol
 By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WARSAW—The symbolic test of future relations between Poland and the U.S. lies not in any grandiose schemes for East-West trade reductions or for European security conference, but in President Nixon's decision on an obscure piece of machinery with a most unlikely name: A catalytic cracking plant.

Without public fanfare (partly to avoid giving offense to the Soviet Union) Edward Gierek, the new party boss who replaced Wladyslaw Gomulka in last winter's party revolution, has gone to extraordinary lengths in appealing to President Nixon to reverse his veto of an export license for the plant. That veto came last August, long before Gierek's dramatic ascent to power.

The plant itself has been a fixture of American petroleum refining ever since World War II. What it does is to produce the best high-octane fuel in the most versatile refining process ever developed. But since it is classified as a strategic industrial item, Poland cannot buy it from the U.S. without a waiver of the strategic embargo, even though its only value is to fuel Poland's motorists.

Gierek's quiet campaign to persuade Mr. Nixon to reverse his edict of last August is symptomatic of his low-profile, high-profile political style, a novel, fanny approach designed to buy time and keep consumer passions lamped down until the Polish economy begins to produce goods.

Thus, Gierek has done nothing so foolish as to issue any public appeals to President Nixon. He dramatizes the importance of the catalytic cracking plant in more subtle ways.

He dispatched two separate, high-level missions to Washington this past spring, one headed by the minister for chemical industries, the other by a top official of science and technology. Their instructions: To promote cooperation with the U.S. industry and to display Poland as potentially the single largest consumer market in the Soviet bloc.

Then, in mid-June, he followed up these low-key approaches in a most surprising act with the U.S. Ambassador Walter Stoessel at the American exhibit at the annual Pomsan trade fair. The conversation lasted four minutes, during which Gierek and his top aides quietly hammered their theme: "The Pomsan trade fair was fine, but much finer would be trade itself."

Whether these urbane appeals by party-leader Gierek will have the desired effect on President Nixon is still highly questionable. Mr. Nixon likes his Eastern Europeans dressed

"A Backward Step"
 In previous sessions of the Legislature when the governor opposed legalized gambling, I attended hearings of the General Law Committee to express opposition to the state lottery and other forms of gambling. There, proponents stoutly proclaimed that we "can't legislate morality," implying that there is something immoral about gambling.

We do not legislate morality. Every time we prevent a driver from endangering the lives of travelers through speeding or drunken driving, we are involved in morality. Every time we license people to operate businesses so as to protect the public, we are "legislating morality." And what would be more obvious moral issue than prostitution, birth control and abortion? We can and must legislate morality. The state gambling bill legislates immorality. It is wrong.

The immorality of the lottery and off-track betting are obvious.

A Thought for Today

Sponsored by the Manchester Council of Churches

Just for Thee
 I had a dream the other night
 And in this dream (or vision bright)
 A man stood there in Judgment Hall,
 All alone, and I heard them call
 His name, and ask what He had done,
 "He claims to be God's own Son."
 They shouted, but I never heard
 Him answer them, not one word.
 Then Pilate said, "I find no guilt
 In this man," and for a while
 There was silence, and then I heard them screaming, "Crucify!"
 Soldiers seized Him and I saw
 His back beaten bloody raw,
 And then they jammed a thorny crown
 Upon His head, and blood ran down
 His face, and a cross of heavy wood
 Was placed upon Him as He stood.
 They trembled, and then I looked at Him and in His eye
 Was eternal love, and time stood still.
 As they marched Him up that rocky hill,
 I heard the heavy hammer beat
 Crust nails into His hands and feet.

Current Quotes

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 "There is a gap between the President and the people that he is and where the people think he is. I hope a way can be found without disturbing the process of taking the people more into his confidence." House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Ore., in a statement before the Senate on President Nixon's speech on the Vietnam situation.

"If broadcasters must submit to government surveillance of news judgments, broadcast journalism can never perform the independent and robust role which the Constitution intended for the American press in preserving freedoms." CBS President Frank Stanton, in a statement defending his decision to refuse demands of a subpoena to surrender raw material gathered for the documentary "Selling of the Pentagon," despite the threat of a congressional contempt citation.

"We can't lose." Joe Glick, an official of the International Laborers' Union, which has virtually died up West Coast ports, while urging higher pay, guaranteed weekly wages and retirement at 62.

"Today we are paying the last tribute to our talented and courageous comrades. There is not only grief in our hearts, but also pride for what they have done for the homeland in outer space." Letter signed by the 19 remaining members of the Soviet cosmonaut corps, printed in Pravda in memory of the three Soviet cosmonauts who died in their spaceship Wednesday.

"I think that our casualties were at least 30 per cent higher because of poor training, or even higher than that." Col. David Hackworth, who served five years in Vietnam and is quitting the Army, charging in an interview that nearly a third of all U.S. casualties in Vietnam are the result of improper training.

Scene at the Capital

By Sol R. Cohen

In the vote on the state income tax provision indicated anything at all concerning the hold the legislative leaders did or did not have over the rank and file lawmakers, it indicated that there was no serious "follow the leader" game played in the Senate, where the tax package passed easily, 21 to 12. Majority Leader J. Edward Caldwell and Minority Leader Alden Ives both voted "no."

In the House, where the tax package passed by a 12 to 7 vote, Majority Leader Carl Ajello voted "no," but Minority Leader Francis Collins voted "yes."

House Speaker William Batchford voted for the income tax, as did GOP State Chairman J. Brian Gaffney, who is a state representative from New Britain.

Even as Batchford took the floor yesterday morning to speak for the income tax provision, Caldwell was circulating among the Democratic legislators, lobbying for a "no" vote on the amendment.

One of the complaints registered most often by the rank and file legislators was that their leaders did not keep them

Bolton Library Services Expand

Bolton residents will now be able to borrow books from several other libraries in the Hartford area, according to Marilyn Breslow, secretary of the town library board.

All towns who are members of the Connecticut Library Council will be eligible to participate in the program, as will five towns outside the area.

Federal funding for the project has been guaranteed only through June 30, 1972. Continuation of the program beyond that date is uncertain.

Towns from which Bolton residents may borrow books are Andover, Avon, Bloomfield, Canton, East Hartford, East Windsor, Enfield, Farmington, East Granby, South Glastonbury, Glastonbury, Granby and Hartford.

Also, Marlborough, Newington, Rocky Hill, Simsbury, Somers, South Windsor, Suffield, Tolland, West Hartford, Westchester, Windsor and Windsor Locks.

The five towns outside the Capital Region are Bristol, Burlington, Killington, Plainville and Southington.

Cancer Drive Successful

The recent cancer drive in Bolton was very successful, according to Paul Brown, chairman. Total returns for 1971 were $110, an increase of $100 over last year's total.

Brown noted that over $500 was contributed by the town's professional and business community. He said that contributors were very generous in spite of the state of the economy.

Women's Softball

The Bolton Women's Softball Team defeated Andover women 18 to 7 Wednesday. The winning pitcher was Beth Hussey.

Boy, 18, Casts First Youth Vote

FIRST HADDAM (AP)—Bruce Stevers, a student at Hale-Roy High School, Thursday became the first 18-year-old to vote in a Connecticut election.

Stevers qualified Wednesday when Ohio became the 38th state to ratify the amendment to the federal Constitution extending 18-year-old voting rights in all states and local elections throughout the nation.

The budding Thursday in this small town on the Connecticut River was on a local referendum question.

Stevers' right to vote was affirmed by state Atty. Gen. Robert K. Killian in response to a query from the office of the secretary of the state.

Gov. Thomas J. Meskill signed into law Thursday a bill providing that Connecticut 18-year-olds could vote in local elections as soon as the federal constitutional amendment was ratified.

Court Cases

CIRCUIT COURT 12

Hartford, Conn., was sentenced yesterday to six months in jail, for the possession of stolen goods.

Judge Francis Quinn also ordered Rice's probation revoked, and two 60-day sentences put into effect, to run consecutively to the six-month sentence.

The stolen goods charge against Rice resulted from an investigation by Manchester detectives into the theft, May 12, of a motorcycle and other items from Carpenter's Mobil Station at 817 Center St.

According to his Attorney Richard Staback of Hartford, Rice has been under $500,000 in debt.

Quinn said the case was "one of the most deliberate," but check cases he could remember.

Mrs. Machie was sentenced to a total of 10 months in jail, suspended, with five years probation.

A Hartford man, 48-year-old Wesley Moore, who is serving time in state prison, pleaded guilty to one count of obtaining money by false pretenses, and was sentenced to 30 days, and comparing them to the same 1800 period.

He was homebound, forcible rapes, robberies, larcenies over $50 and dramatically — car thefts.

In the cities of Bridgeport, Hartford, New Haven, Stamford and Waterbury, there were 14 homicides in the first quarter of last year and 16 this year.

Rapes shot up 13, from 27 to 40, and car thefts leaped by 58, from 1898 to 2454, the FBI said.

Larceny reports increased by only six, from 1,944 to 1,940, and robberies were up 83, from 330 to 413.

Showing reported declines were burglaries, down 150, from 2,004 to 2,864, and aggravated assaults, down 14, from 504 to 490.

Nationally, the FBI said, crime was up by 6 per cent in the first three months of the year, with robbery leading the way with a 17 per cent increase.

Homicide was up 11 per cent, burglary up 7 per cent, larceny up 5 per cent and auto theft up 1 per cent, the FBI said.

Geographically, the northeastern states experienced the greatest increase in crime—14 per cent, while the north central and southern states had the smallest rise, 3 per cent.

SAM Fills Jobs

SAM (Summer Activities in Manchester) has opened a job bank in room 106-A of the Manchester High School.

Anyone who wishes to hire a youth may call 643-1818, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., through Friday 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., and describe the type of work he has to offer. There are many youths with various skills who have finished their names in the job bank, and most any type of job, from lawn cutting or babysitting to technical lab work can be filled.

"The only reason you are not going to jail is because you are seven-months pregnant," said Judge Quinn to Patricia Machie, 19, of 214 Spruce St., who pleaded guilty to five counts of obtaining money by false pretenses.

After reading a pre-sentence report, Judge Quinn said the girl best cashed best check in the Manchester area, totaling more than $2,000. One of the checks was for more than $1,000.

Quinn said the case was "one of the most deliberate," but check cases he could remember.

Register Wins AP News Awards

NEW HAVEN (AP)—The New Haven Register's coverage of the Altheim-Altheim crash June 7 dominated the monthly Connecticut Associated Press awards for membership cooperation.

Frank Gardner of the Register won the Best TV Award for his quick action alerting the AP staff to the crash, and the entire Register city staff was cited for their coverage of the crash.

Register photographer Joe Pettie received the May-June award for best spot picture with his shot of priest administrator in the crash scene of the crash in which 28 persons were killed.

New London Day photographer Jack Urwiler and Gordon Alexander each won an award.

Urwiler was cited for the best feature picture in May-June with his picture of a full moon over Fort Griswold State Park in Groton.

Alexander received June's Best Enterprise Award for his story, accompanied by pictures, of a lighthouse superintendent's family.

The award for the best of our society to take care of our society was given to Al Houston of the Greenwich Time for his tale of the high school students' giving their class gift to a school in Harlem.

Car Theft, Rape Top Crime Log

NEW HAVEN (AP)—For a woman the worst is rape; for a motorist his car; for anyone at all, his life.

David M. Smith, 25, of Willimantic, breached peace.

Robert Johnson, 26, of Wallingford, charged Wednesday night by Vernon Police with three counts of possession of controlled substances, and one of a sale of controlled substances.

Staback said Rice is law-abiding most of the time. "He goes along in a normal fashion, then, for some unexplainable reason, has strange yearnings to break the law."

Years' Business

A Rockville youth, said by his special public defender, Atty. Vincent Diana, to have been in trouble with the law "approximately 19 times," was sentenced to one year and 60 days in the Chelsea reformatory, after he pleaded guilty to injury to public service facilities, and taking a motor vehicle without permission.

The youth, Bruce Secore, 16, must also serve a 15-day sentence consecutive to the others, in connection with another motor vehicle conviction. Quinn ordered his probation on the other charges, revoked.

Diana emphatically said Quinn for understanding of a boy "whose parents have rejected him, who has a no-much-better-than average IQ, and who is really lost."

Other cases disposed of in court:

Steven J. Larson, 30, of Storrs, was arrested early last month in Vernon, after he allegedly damaged a telephone.

Wendy Stewart, of Bloomfield, pleaded guilty to speeding, fined $25, no suspension.

Notas were entered in the following cases:

Michael J. Moriarty, 28, of West Hartford, no support.

David M. Smith, 25, of Willimantic, breach of peace.

Reskill Vetoes Personnel Bills

Gov. Thomas Meskill yesterday vetoed two bills that would have changed the law concerning municipal employees' bargaining units and limited their time to retire after 20 years of service, instead of the present 30-year rule.

The probable court retirement provisions are at present, Meskill said, "To bill would have discriminated in favor of white-collar workers."

"Every working resident of Connecticut is concerned with wages and other conditions of his employment situation," said Meskill. "Whether he is a professional or a non-professional, he deserves a say on who is to represent him at the bargaining table."

The bill applying to probationate bargaining units would have permitted municipal court employees would have permitted them to retire after 20 years of service, instead of the present 30-year rule.

Sewage Plant Holdup Feared As Tests Lag

Testing procedures at the secondary sewage treatment plant are taking longer than anticipated because of this the town facility will probably not open until sometime in the second week in July.

Julio Laurero of James S. Messing and Associates Inc. is engineering consultants for the project, says an inspection Wednesday disclosed that the project "might be falling a little bit behind."

It is still hoped that the facility can be opened next week, Laurero indicates that it more likely that the plant will open sometime in the week of July 12.

Laurero stresses that there are no actual problems involved, merely a time consuming testing process.

Workers at the site are being paid to take for leakage and are running the pumps to check them out.

Boggini Sees No Conflict In Vote Split

Manchester State Rep. Charles Boggini said today that he sees nothing inconsistent in his actions yesterday morning in the House of Representatives when, at 9 a.m., he voted for the income tax amendment to the revenue bill and, an hour later, voted against the amended bill itself.

The amendment passed the House by an 85 to 80 vote. The tax bill, with the amendment, passed by an 82 to 73 margin.

The amended bill had passed through the Senate by a 21 to 19 count.

"I voted for the amendment formally tomorrow morning at 2 p.m. at the Davidson and Levermore State at Manchester Shopping Park."

Meskill Vetoes Bill On Drug Unit

BRAintree (AP)—Gov. Thomas J. Meskill has vetoed 12 bills including one that would have set up a drug treatment unit at the veterans hospital in Rocky Hill.

The governor said establishing a drug dependence unit at Rocky Hill would become a part of the federal government in handling drug-dependent veterans.

Federal legislation has been introduced by Connecticut Rep. John J. Mooney that would require the military to rehabilitate drug addicts before releasing them from active duty.

In his veto message, Meskill noted that Connecticut already has a law authorizing the Veterans Home and Hospital Commission to get help for drug-addicted veterans.

The commission may spend up to $2,000 per veteran per year for this purpose.

At the present time there are facilities in other state institutions that care for drug-addicted veterans.

The action proposed by this bill is not desirable at this time.

The other 11 bills vetoed by the governor would have:

—Liberalized extreme provisions for probate judges and probate court expenses (a package of four bills).

—Allowed municipal legislative bodies to include their own district districts without holding referendums.

—Authorized the borrowing of $1 million from the Connecticut Development Corporation to be shared with the University of Connecticut.

—Required the Department of Transportation to make construction of a new highway and the University of Connecticut.

Traffic Deaths In U.S. at 57 By Mid-Morning

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—Traffic accidents across the nation claimed 57 lives by 10 a.m. today, in the start of the long Fourth of July weekend.

Fair and mild weather prevailed over most of the country, but showers, dappled holiday cuttings in parts of the South and in the northern Rockies and adjacent Plains.

The count of traffic deaths began at 6 p.m. local time Friday and will end at midnight Monday.

Meanwhile, in Washington, government agents have seized thousands of dollars worth of illegal fireworks in pre-Fourth July raids.

All told agents of the Food and Drug Administration have seized 80 loads throughout the nation, the latest a week ago at Holland, Ohio, under a provision in the year-old Hazardous Substances Act.

In announcing the seizures Friday, FDA Commissioner Dr. Charles C. Edwards said at least 20 persons were killed and 41 seriously injured by fireworks in the last three years.

Thousands of other injuries were reported, but not confirmed.

Edwards said the government's enforcement problem is complicated by "a substantial bootleg operation supplying illegal products from roadside stands and by illegal sale of mail order do-it-yourself fireworks kits."

The law bans fireworks containing more than two grains of black powder. A cherry bomb, which is a small, round, self-contained explosive, is an exception.
