Actress Sees No Need For Sex Symbols

By ANGELO NATALE

Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "A sex symbol," asks New York's Julie Ege, crossing her legs in her no-nonsense, no-frills dress. "In these days I see no need for it."

"Everyone has his own sex symbol today," the 26-year-old blonde actress volunteers. "But if there is a need for a sex symbol, I don't mind being it."

She is, in fact, the sexiest of the new, enlightened generation. She is not played in this film, it is not a sex symbol, she says of her role as a career woman. She doesn't speak a word.

"I wear a long black wig, and no makeup," she says. But the rest is undisturbed Julie Ege, who is being billed—needed or not—as the new sex symbol of the 1970s.

As for nudity before the camera, "well, what's wrong with that? I have no hangup about that."

"I've already done a nude scene in 'Home Sweet Home' and I am also establishing them as nude scenes in the lower middle class in the social strata. The Maori is not a career woman, she is a fat, ugly child. There's nothing of that sort in this film. It's a model at age 18, did a bit of television work, finally movies.

"I was a couple of times," she says. "My first husband was a farmer, whom she married when she turned 18 and shed nine months later, her second a dentist whom she divorced seven months ago. She has a two-year-old daughter, Horris Louisa.

"No marriage again," Julie says. "I'm through with it."

Julie is not content to get by on her good looks alone. She is frank enough to admit that not much dramatic ability has so far been required of her.

She got her part in "Creatures" by winning out over almost 5,000 applicants in a talent hunt last year for an actress to follow in the footsteps of Raquel Welch. But it's not Raquel Welch in whose footsteps Julie hopes to follow. She says her idol still is Marilyn Monroe.

"That face. An angel. And she was the woman's liberation movement. I'm completely liberated," she says.

She likes hot pants, and wears them often "now that I've lost some weight." She also finds them practical for travel, "not carrying too many accessories, and need a lot of different things in the trunk, but pants take up almost no room."

CARD PLAY HASN'T CHANGED ONE TOTA

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Today's hand might have happened almost just yesterday, but actually it was dealt and played in a tournament almost 40 years ago. There have been many changes in bidding over the years, but good card play has changed very little. Now, has the importance of doing your bidding early.

North dealer.

North East South West
1. ♠ All Pass
2. ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
3. ♠ 103
4. ♠ All Pass

At most tables declarer won the first trick in dummy with the king of diamonds and then led out the ace and a low trump. This line of play was somewhat underlining, since West took the king of hearts and usually shifted to the queen or ten of spades.

The defenders took three spade tricks in a hurry, and declarer was usually down but for he could get fancy starting with the trump.

Early Start
The late Willard Karn fared much better with the North-South cards than he did in his thinking at the first opportunity. Karn wanted to get to his own hand as fast as possible, so he overtook the king of diamonds with the ace to win the first trick.

Karn next led the queen of hearts for a finesse. West covered with the king in the dummy, where she had a trump finesse, so he overtook the king of diamonds with the ace to win the first trick.

Declarer next led the ten of clubs, which held the trick. The club suit went to dummy's three losing spades.

Suffragette Champion Takes Up an Old Cudgel

By MARGARET SCHERER

WASHINGTON (AP) — She poked the White House, staged protest marches, went to jail for "obstructing traffic" and was denounced in Congress for "promoting treason."

But Alice Paul finally got what she wanted.

And more than a half-century later, at age 88, Miss Paul scents another victory.

"We have the only weapon we need now to win passage of the equal rights amendment," she says. "The only woman who has so tenaciously captured that weapon earlier in the century."

The proposed amendment to the Constitution would expressly forbid discrimination on the basis of sex.

"Women are finally aroused enough" to use their votes in the nationwide lobbying effort, she says.

Members of Congress "will be bombarded" during the August recess, said Carol Burris, a member of the National Woman's Party founded by Miss Paul and coordinator of the nationwide lobbying effort.

Stolen Goods Are Located

HARTFORD (AP) — About $15,000 worth of television sets, stereo and tape equipment stolen from the new W. T. Grant Co. store on Route 1 in Hartford, was recovered here Tuesday, police reported.

The stolen goods were found in a garage in a residential neighborhood, 30 of Hartford on a charge of possession of stolen goods. He lives at 27 Congress St., next door to 39 Congress St.

Th. Thomas Barker, head of the police recovery squad, said someone called police Tuesday morning to report that the merchandise was in the basement of the apartment building.

"No marriage again," Julie says. "I'm through with it."

SYDNEY (AP) — There were nearly twice as many road accidents in Australia on the Tuesday, according to statistics for the first 24 hours of 1970 as on the Tuesday.

Government statistics gave the totals as 7,100 for Tuesday and 3,600 for the previous day.

Statistics compared with 889 on Tuesday.

For the full year the figures reported were 3,786 dead and 15,584 injured equal to 30 and 728 per 100,000 of population, respectively.

Most accidents occurred on straight roads.

Great-Grandmother Reveals Her Method of Staying Young

By Vivian Brown
AP Newsfeatures Writer

For quite a long time, Lizaletta Valeka, a former Miss Tennessee, has been trying to explain to anyone who would listen how people can maintain their youth, day after day, in particular, she does.

Most people are intrigued with her appearance which is a great-grandmother 64 years of age, 116 pounds, size 32- and ask questions about how she keeps her 35-26-35 measurements, the skin tone of a young girl, and her good health.

She tells them her appearance requires constant work. Every one wants a short cut to good looks. They think it can be bought in a jar, but it can't, she explains. And now, particularly, in a pollution age, she says everyone must get down to the basics of good health... proper breathing, eating, and exercise, every day.

"I try to tell people they get old because their cells deteriorate unless they get a good supply of oxygen. They must take breathing exercises every day, but it is difficult to get people to believe it. It is so simple."

She travels the lecture circuit offering her thoughts on various health and beauty ideas she has gathered from trips around the world, reading scientific literature and in her contacts with people who are trying to solve health problems.

At age 63, Lizaletta Valeka maintains a size 12 figure. Here she shows her breathing exercises.

breath lessons from a Yoga teacher, Dr. Norman Oatley, of Los Angeles. He introduced her to Kundalini, which teaches inhalation and exhalation will be short, but gradually it will become longer and longer.

For Local Betting, Sunday Sale

We salute the instincts and sentiments of those who would have Manchester greet the approaching advent of the great gambling age for Connecticut by enacting its own ordinance barring the establishment of any off track betting facilities here. This newspaper opposed at the time, and now regrets, the passage of the new state gambling law under which Connecticut is going to operate its own state lottery, permit betting on horses at the track, and permit the establishment of off track betting facilities in any community which does not specifically ban them from its own territory.

We believe so much gambling, and so much official encouragement to it, is going to be bad for Connecticut, for both social and economic reasons.

All this being so, our opinion is that Manchester might as well be a full part of this upcoming experience, and not set up any futile prairie barriers of its own. If this is to be the new Connecticut life, we might as well be in it. There is almost nothing that can be gained that we can see, from forcing those Manchester people who may want to place off the track bets to cross some town line in order to do so.

As a matter of editorial consistency, we also take this occasion to admit that the Herald is now ready to abandon an editorial position it has fought for for many decades—its position of opposition to the Sunday sale of liquor in Manchester.

Whether or not the absence of Sunday sale in Manchester has, over the years, made Manchester a more or less pleasant and temperate place on Sundays, whether or not it has resulted in a record of fewer accidents on Manchester highways, we do not pretend to know. We suspect that, while it has given us a good Sunday reputation, it has had little effect on the actual consumption of alcohol by Manchester people, and that, therefore, its only real effect has been the relative opportunity and prosperity open to restaurant enterprises operating in Manchester.

We do not believe Manchester should bother to try to shut out off track betting.

We believe it should take referendum action to permit Sunday liquor sales.

A Move Against The Web

The United States, with Secretary of State William P. Rogers making the formal announcement, has now shifted from its Nationalist China policy to a two China policy.

This is a change from one policy which has not worked to another policy that will not work.

The two China policy can only be realistically speaking, the switching yard on the way to a new one China policy, with the one China, this time, being that of the mainland Communist government.

We don't know whether that, if we ever get, will work, either.

Right now, however, the problem centers on how long a stay we are going to have to make in the two China policy pose, and on how we are going to get out of it, if we do.

There is no indication, at the moment, that Chiang Kai-shek, on Formosa, is going to oblige the secret wishes of our new diplomacy, and quietly and decorously resign from the United Nations, leaving everything clear for us to support the appearance of Communist China there as the one China.

Yet, if something doesn't inspire For-mos to shrivel up and disappear, all our efforts to usher Communist China into the United Nations will apparently be for naught, since Peking keeps asserting that it will not come to New York until there is no membership trace left of any other China.

Meanwhile, the fact that Washington has now moved into a position where its secret hopes have to be stalling Formosa in the back is going to continue to rouse against the Nixon Administration, some of the people who once regarded themselves as its most authentic and influential supporters.

Such are the difficulties of the terrain into which President Nixon has now moved America's China policy.

There is no easy resolution of any of these difficulties.

It is better to have some movement, and attempt at action, than none at all. It is fortunate that the movement is being led by a conservative Republican President.

The game which President Nixon has to try to end is a game that should never have been begun.

The bad blood which has been between the United States and Communist China for the last 20 years has been real blood—the blood of American soldiers spilled in the temporary defeats inflicted upon them by Chinese soldiers along the Yalu River. The American advance to the Yalu which brought China into the Korean war, as China had warned it would have to, was an advance which was not in our planning for the Korean campaign until General MacArthur persuaded President Truman to transform our United Nations "police action" into a reach for a conventional victory.

Finally, there need never have been any Korean war, to lead us eventually into trouble with Communist China, and to force us into our close protection of Chiang Kai-shek's last stand on Formosa, if Russia hadn't managed North Korea into launching its aggression against South Korea.

None of this web woven by past mistakes of many nations can be unraveled. Yet it must inevitably weaken to its own inconsistency and illogical components: the Nixon Administration better to throw its weight against it, a pattern which cannot last will collapse; but where and how the first break will come, or whether the new pattern, the new web woven, will be better, nobody knows. Administrations, like people, have to keep putting one foot ahead of the other.

Five Myths About Young

Everybody over 40 is an expert on the youth problem, and much of what everybody knows about that problem just isn't so. Consider these widely held viewpoints:

"That youth discontent is the result of Communist influence."

The truth is that the Communists are as puzzled by today's youth as are the nations in Communist countries. The establishment is resentful toward most young people and, far from knowing whether or not it has resulted in a record of fewer accidents on Manchester highways, we do not pretend to know. We suspect that, while it has given us a good Sunday reputation, it has had little effect on the actual consumption of alcohol by Manchester people, and that, therefore, its only real effect has been the relative opportunity and prosperity open to restaurant enterprises operating in Manchester.

We do not believe Manchester should bother to try to shut out off track betting.

We believe it should take referendum action to permit Sunday liquor sales.

The Vindictive White House

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON — When Rep. Wilbur D. Mills and Dr. Arthur Burns lunched privately at the Capital last week, these two highly respected Washington figures had something new in common: Within a week, each had been assaulted by the self-destructive vindictiveness of Richard M. Nixon's White House.

Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, had been gratuitously accused by a top-level Presidential aide of trying to hog the credit for a voluntary reduction of Italian shoe exports. A week later, another White House spokesman responded to criticism of Nixon economic policy by Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, by assaulting the Communist's cherished autonomy as the nation's central bank.

Whether these attacks were personally directed by President Nixon is disputed. What is certain is that they faithfully represented the President's view in private conversations with key lieutenants. And that is a dimly consistent strain in the Nixon administration, persisting through two and one half years.

Mr. Nixon in the privacy of the White House had laid bare to aides his irritation over any manner of outside criticism— from press, Congress, liberal Republicans, Democrats or, most acutely, outgoing figures in his own administration. All too often, the politically untutored chiefs of the Nixon staff—H.R. (Bob) Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and, to a lesser extent, George Shultz—have transferred Presidential petulance into an open attack harming Mr. Nixon far more than helping him.

That has been particularly true of the vindictive assaults on Mills and Burns. More experienced White House staffers, generally in subordinate positions, have themselves been frequently offended by both Mills and Burns but were heart-stick over the public attacks on them.

The assault on Mills was stunning news for Nixon men trying to soften his hostility, a vital undertaking considering how much legislation goes through the Ways and Means Committee. Three officials—Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally, White House lobbyist Richard Cook and Budget Director Shultz—had been quietly re-establishing harmonious relations with Mills.

But such efforts were demolished by the White House de-

Praise For Hospital
 To the Editor,
 Would you please find space for a bit of praise for the Manchester Memorial Hospital? Having just returned home from there after a major operation I would like to thank everyone there from my surgeon down who waited on me, especially nurses, and aids. Their very act was with Christian charity and personally beyond compare, food was of the best and ample, and cleanliness to no end.

At a whole a wonderful institution. Manchester is very proud of its Hospital.

"God is Up in Space"
 To the Editor,
 God is up in space. We read in the Bible, God's holy word. God makes the clouds His chariot, who walked upon the wings of the wind.

God setteth upon the circle of the earth, and the inhabitants are as grasshoppers.
 God's going forth is from the end of the heavens and His circuit unto the ends of it, and there is nothing hid from the heat thereof.

In not God in the height of heaven and behold the height of the stars, and how high they are.

Thick clouds are a covering to Him and He seeth not and He walketh in the circuit of heaven. Clouds and darkness are round about Him. Righteousness and judgment are the habitation of His throne.

Behold He comes with clouds and every eye shall see Him. The Lord has His way in the whirlwind and in the storm, and the clouds are the dust of His feet.

When Jesus went up in the clouds there were only people saw Him go but when He comes back to earth again in the clouds everyone shall see Him. Some will be glad to see Him come.

In Switzerland Lake Pollution Causes Disaster for Wildlife

By HANS NEUBERG
 Associated Press Writer

GENEVA (AP) — For years fishermen along the River Aare talked about "Moby Dick," a big trout which always eluded them.

Last week they found him dead, his 22 pounds lost in one of the worst wildlife disasters in Swiss history. Thousands of lake trout, totaling at least eight tons, were dead too.

Pollution from some lethal substance was blamed.

It added a new chapter to thickening files on water pollution in this Alpine country.

The tourists' image of Switzerland: Crystal-clear streams and lakes brilliantly blue.

Reality often produces a brutal contrast in the land of six million where more than one-third of all waste waters undergo no purification.

Some experts have estimated that treatment will involve an outlay of more than $1 billion in 10-20 years. Skeptics doubt this will be enough to get a clean bill of health for Switzerland's waters.

Lake Geneva, ringed by both Swiss and French territory, is the biggest Alpine lake. It precedes to the French environment minister, Robert Poujade, it is also the one most seriously ill.

Although construction of purification plants has been pushed, it is estimated that even today some 90 million tons of waste waters are still fed directly into the lake. Analyses reveal iron or cobalt bacteria along with an increase by up to 30 times in some sections of the lake in 1968-69.

Transparency has decreased, as a growing phosphate content, largely stemming from zoenahol and industrial cleaners, spurs an explosion of algae, a prime cause of concern at all Swiss lakes.

The resulting oxygen deficit affects fish. Some of the perch offered as a specialty by lakeside restaurants are shipped from other lakes far away.

Bathing is prohibited at several stretches, at other places, unappetizing look of the waters discourages swimmers. But there are public beaches where the water is still clean enough to attract tourists.

At Lake Lugano bathing was prohibited this year at several beaches along the bay of Lugano city, including Fara. In Lake Lugano can have fatal consequences.

In 1967, a Zurich University expert warned that "a bath in Lake Lugano can have fatal consequences."

Several hotels and private patial residences still send their waste water directly into the lake. A recent official survey showed that waste waters of only five out of a hundred residents in Lugano's canton of Ticino pass through purifying plants.

Fewer people live at Lago Maggiore, the second Swiss-Italian lake, and thus pollution seems less of a danger. But bathing is forbidden at a few places. Skindivers lodged a public protest last year "after they spotted human intestines dumped into the lake by the surgical ward of a hospital."

An official report notes that construction of purification facilities has helped contribute to a radical improvement both in transparency and oxygen content at Lake Zurich.

At Lake Neuchatel bathing is "not recommended" in several places.

Lakes Biemne and Murtel have bathing without restrictions "although the smell of algae may be disliked."

Lake Lucerne is still "relatively healthy." There is little industry and population density is low. Favorable wind conditions help resupply oxygen and a swift current crossing the lake promotes cleanliness.

But some 3,000 motorboats are registered in the lake, and there is a rapid growth of algae.

Grecian Isle Rings Under UConn Baton

By CHRIS ELIQU
 AEGINA, Greece (AP) — There is lots of high quality music these days in Aegina. Once a quiet island in the Saronic Gulf, where the only music to be heard was that of the two-month music odyssey in "bouzouki," the Greek popular music instrument, it now battles with the noise of the symphony orchestra, the Philadelphia Chamber Orchestra, the New York Symphony Orchestra, the Boston Pop and a number of music students from Yale University.

The students from Yale University, on a university level, "They moved mountains to find one, he said. "And finally they came up with a royal harpsichord belonging to the Athens Royal Palace, and he turned to the authorities for help.

Nixon: China Talks Won't Mean End of War

—He stands by his prediction that 1971 will be "a good year" for the economy and that 1972 will be "a very good year."

—He has named Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson to notify him of every major industry negotiation as it comes up and he will use his powers of "persuasion" to try to keep agreements within "reasonable" and "satisfactory" bounds.

—He has decided against pay increases for the government's "blue collar" workers since a pay boost "would not be in the interests of fighting the inflation battle."

—The United States will maintain a policy of "complete neutrality" regarding the four hand-coming elections in South Vietnam.

—The United States will boost its help for the victims of famine in East Pakistan but will not cut off aid to the Pakistan government.

The President's planned trip to Peking and the state of the economy were the major topics at the news session. Nixon said he is not yet ready to announce the precise date of the trip.

Nixon said the exact date of his trip will be fixed within the next few months. He said he will lead a "small working party" consisting of Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Henry Kissinger, a close adviser, will accompany him.

Moves Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—Deputy managing editor of the Washington Post, Howard Rosenberg, has been named managing editor to succeed Eugene Patterson.

A native of Albany, N.Y., and a graduate of Union College and Columbia University's School of Journalism, Rosenberg, 45, has been with the Post since 1961.

Patterson left the Post to take a professional appointment at Duke University. The Post's executive editor, Benjamin C. Bradlee, announced Rosenberg's appointment Tuesday.

School Estimate $8.9 Million, So Pool, Outdoor Courts Cut

By BILL COE (Herald Reporter)

The Town Building Committee last night received a preliminary cost estimate of more than $8.9 million for the proposed Southwest Junior High School off Keeney St. and Garden Grove Dr.

Russell, Gibson and von Dohlen, architects for the school design, submitted a project cost estimate of $8,961,500 for a proposed two-level triangular building totaling 189,700 square feet.

But in more than three hours of work with the red pencil, the town board cut the total and gave the go-ahead to the basic design. The revised figure came to $7,968,000.

The major item knocked out was a 17,000 square foot swimming pool that had been included as an alternate in the design and would have cost an estimated $1,000,000.

Also deleted were $400,000 in outdoor recreational facilities, a $100,000 walkway to the site from Keeney St., and several lesser items.

Included in the cost estimates are several items still not resolved to the town board's satisfaction. The board will meet again at another session next Tuesday.

These included $75,000 for gravelly road work to increase the driveway budget, would be discarded if the road work is not needed. The town board will meet again at another session next Tuesday.

Leaders Agree On Tax Plan

The Taxpayers Association of Connecticut based in Hartford, on the other hand, has scheduled a noontime rally Thursday at the State Capitol to protest the income tax.

The Connecticut business and professional leaders have agreed to support the tax plan proposed by the state's Democratic leadership in the Senate.

Criticism of the possible income tax increase was released at a meeting of the Connecticut Highway Users Conference. The group said the tax increase would be a burden on the state's economy.

Tollad Woman, 27, Is Killed In Rt. 30 Crash

A 27-year-old Stafford Springs woman was pronounced dead on arrival last night at Johnson Memorial Hospital in Stafford after the car she was driving ran off Rt. 30 in Tolland.

Police said Betty Frye of 163 Main St., Stafford Springs, was driving a 1967 Ford Mustang when she was struck by a car driven by a passenger, Francis Mesek, 16, of 29 Gold St., also of Stafford Springs, police said.

Mesek, who was taken to Johnson Memorial Hospital, was not injured and was also taken to Johnson Memorial Hospital.

According to state police, the car was traveling at a high rate of speed and as the driver pulled out from a driveway on the left side of the road and struck a bridge abutment on Rt. 30. Police said the road was well lit at the time of the accident, 11:30 p.m.

MPOA Hires Lawyer Over Hennigan Post

The Manchester Property Owners Association has hired Attorney Frederick Odell to represent the group in a lawsuit against the town of Manchester over the Hennigan Post.

The association, a news release announcing the move, cited as its reason for seeking the action "disrespectful and unbecomingly unprofessional" expenditures.

The Board of Education, on the other hand, has extended one-year contracts to the members of the board of education.

Robert Spillane, chairman of the board of education, said the board of education is not interested in the lawsuit.

The MPOA account of the situation and Spillane's account of the situation are set out in a separate article on page 10.

Two dissenting NLRB members, however, said UAC hired about 2,000 new employees after the reinstatement period, which was not a fair labor practice.

Spillane said that the cost of the strike would be between $15 and $20 million.

The company said, however, the union's estimates of the number of workers involved and the cost of the strike are grossly inflated.

The five-member NLRB panel upheld the ruling that the company "interfered with, restrained and coerced its employees" as a result of conduct by its supervisors before the strike.

They further charged that the company "interfered with, restrained and coerced its employees" as a result of conduct by its supervisors before the strike.

A Garden Of Summer Coolers

Here's a mixed bouquet of quick-and-easy thirst quenchers — sure to please family and friends during the hot weather ahead with a minimum of time and effort.

Despite their refreshing variety, they have something in common. Each relies upon the fresh, tart-sweet tang of lemon or lime juice to put the cool into coolers. These juices are the secret ingredients recommended by those who live year-round in tropic climes. You can make the secret yours by keeping economical, convenient ReaLemon bottled lemon juice and ReaLime bottled lime juice on hand.

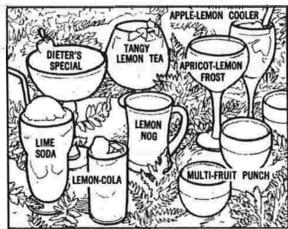

There's more to these coolers than meets the eye — or even the taste. Most of them are chock full of natural fruit or milk sugars as well as vitamins, minerals and proteins. They become an important contribution to the day's nutritional requirements instead of providing only "empty calories" nutritionists warn against.

You'll find a drink here for every hot weather need. Looking for a way to make a breakfast appealing to your youngsters? Serve Lemon Nog — a creamy concoction that slips down so pleasantly they may never realize it's made up mostly of easy-to-digest milk and eggs.

Having a patio party — or entertaining your card club? Serve Multi-Fruit Punch — as fragrant and colorful as your floribunda roses. Or please the weight-watchers in your crowd or at home by whirling up a Dieter's Special in your blender.

You're not limited to fresh fruits, either, although now is the time to enjoy them at their best. Apricot-Lemon Frost, Tangy Lemon Tea and Apple-Lemon Cooler are all made from ingredients which can be stored on the pantry shelves until needed. And Lemon-Cola and Lime Soda give you an opportunity to make your carbonated drinks truly individual.

A word about serving. Of course, any of these beverages can be enjoyed from disposable paper cups. Most of them can be mixed in a thermal jug and carried along on picnics. But to put their (and your) best foot forward, take the trouble to select the glass and garnish that dramatizes their thirst-quenching goodness.

Dieter's Special

- 1 pint strawberries
- 2 cups buttermilk, chilled
- 1/3 cup bottled lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons noncaloric sweetener
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 4 ice cubes

Wash and hull strawberries; crush. Place remaining ingredients and berries in a bowl or the container jar of a blender. Whip until well mixed and frothy. Garnish with whole berry. Serve at once. Serves 4.

Tangy Lemon Tea

- 4 cups boiling water
- 6 tea bags
- Mint sprigs, crushed
- 1/4 teaspoon ginger
- 1/2 cup bottled lemon juice
- Ice cubes

Pour boiling water over tea bags, mint and ginger. Brew (allow to stand) for 3 to 5 minutes. Remove tea bags and mint. Add lemon juice. Pour into ice-filled glasses. Garnish with additional mint leaves if desired. Serves 4.

Lemon Nog

- 2 eggs
- 1-1/2 cups vanilla ice cream or milk*
- 1/2 cup bottled lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons sugar*

Combine ingredients. Beat vigorously with mixer or whirl in blender until thick and frothy. Serves 2. *Substitute ice milk or skim milk and non-caloric sweetener for dieters.

Apricot-Lemon Frost

- 1 can (1-pound) apricot halves, with syrup
- 3/4 cup ReaLemon bottled lemon juice
- 1/3 cup honey
- 8 ice cubes

Combine all ingredients in the container jar of a blender. Blend at high speed until smooth and frothy. Pour into glasses and serve immediately. Serves 4.

Apple-Lemon Cooler

- 3 cups apple cider
- 1 cup bottled lemon juice
- 2 sticks (2-inches, each) cinnamon
- Ice cubes

In a saucepan, combine cider, lemon juice and cinnamon sticks. Simmer for 10 minutes. Pour into ice-filled glasses. Serves 4.

Multi-Fruit Punch

- 2 cans (6-ounces, each) frozen orange juice
- 2 cups ReaLime bottled lime juice
- 1 can (1-lb. 4-oz.) crushed pineapple
- 2 packages (10-ounce) frozen raspberries, thawed
- 2 cups water
- 2 quarts gingerale, well-chilled
- Ice cubes

Combine orange juice, lime juice, crushed pineapple, raspberries and water. Refrigerate. Pour over ice cubes in punch bowl or pitcher. Add gingerale and stir to blend. Garnish as desired. Serves 50 punch cups.

Lemon-Cola

- 1/3 cup ReaLemon bottled lemon juice
- 2/3 cup carbonated cola drink
- Ice cubes

For each serving, combine lemon juice and cola drink. Pour into ice-filled glasses. Serve immediately. Serves 1.

Lime Soda

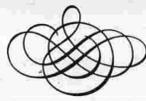

- 1/2 cup bottled lime juice
- Vanilla ice cream
- Green food color, if desired
- Gingerale or sparkling water, chilled

For each serving, blend 1/4 cup lime juice with 1 tablespoon ice cream and 1 drop food color in a tall glass. Add remaining lime juice and 1 or 2 scoops of ice cream. Fill glass with gingerale or sparkling water. Serves 1.

Orange Cooler

- 2 tablespoons ReaLemon bottled lemon juice
- 1 cup strained orange juice
- 1 cup white port wine

Combine and shake with ice cubes to chill. Serves 2.

Tiny Maine Isle Solves Problem Of Vital Statistics

(C) NEWDAY — Another the welfare family made plans to move and a second of the island's men got to island, eight miles of the Maine coast in Casco Bay, have come up with an unusual solution to rooms and bachelors growing an underpopulation problem alongside. Several weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Wilcox and their six children moved in. "We had a little bunch of out-of-lodgers, fishing and an occasional handy man's job, Wilcox said. "But it's worked number about 60 in the winter and so do we." The kids love it with the population swelling to 200 in the summer. Last spring the Portland, Maine, school which has jurisdiction over the island, issued the islanders and ultimatum. "We were told," said the head of the island's residents association, Roger Berle, 23, "that we would have to come up with one small child to increase our grade school attendance to a eight or they would close the school."

Closing of the school, Berle said, would trigger a chain of events that would ultimately mean the end of the island's year-around community which has existed there since the late 1800s. "No one who has grade school age children will send them off to the mainland in the winter," he said. "It's too cold and the ferry takes an hour just to get there."

... back to the mainland "If the school here closed young couples who either had kids or were planning to have them would have to move back to the mainland," Berle explained. "Our permanent population would drop and eventually we'd lose both our ferry service and our summer colonies on offshore islands when no one is in residence. We've seen the pattern, Berle said. "Once it starts you can't stop it." Such an exodus, he said also would lead to vandalism from off-island visitors who strip other summer colonies on offshore islands when no one is in residence. "We've seen the pattern, Berle said. "Once it starts you can't stop it."

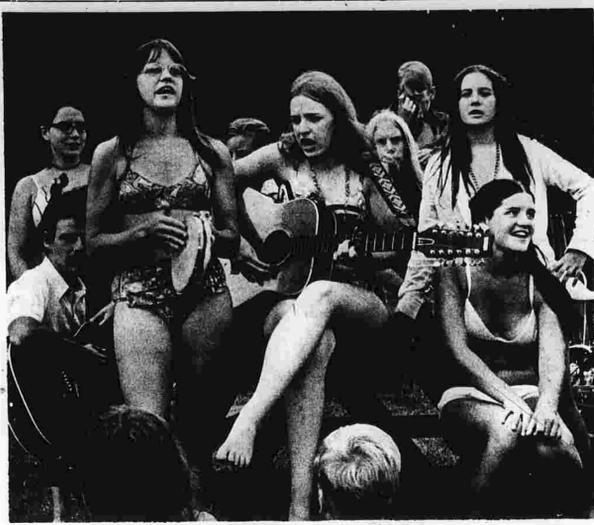

Frustrated this prospect the islanders began a search for a family with children to settle permanently on their shores. But there were problems. "Quite simply," Berle said, "there isn't much of a way for an outsider to just move in and start to make a living here. There just isn't enough work." The island's lobstermen had staked out their pots in Casco Bay generations ago. Invading these waters with more lobster pots would be tantamount to rustling a rancher's horses, he said. And the 200 or so houses on the island provide just enough work for the part-time carpenters and handymen.

... we're kind of clanish here Moreover, there was another problem. "We're kind of clanish here," said Miss Johanna Von Alling, the white-haired schoolteacher who energetically bicycles across the island to her one-room schoolhouse each day. "The year-round people have been here for generations and they stick together. Even summer people are considered newcomers until they've been coming here for 40 or 50 years." Berle's family, she said, had been coming to the island for part of the winter and summers for 50 years but had been considered "summer people" by many of the islanders until Berle moved onto the island permanently last spring when he completed graduate school. The islanders just couldn't conduct a fishing expedition for any more bodies, she said. "After all, we've all got to live with one another through the winter and that can get mighty long," find the right people for us."

... six kids — three in grade school "The Cliff Islanders muffled over their predicament through the spring before deciding on a solution. "We finally decided," Berle said, "that we would import a welfare family." The decision, he said, was not an easy one. "A lot of people thought it was crazy and didn't like the welfare part at all. But we contacted a friend in the Portland Welfare Department and told him what we wanted. He said he'd try to call from the department. "The family they selected was tailor-made," he said. "The man had been a hotel worker before he became ill and had to quit and go on welfare. They have six kids, three in grade school and three preschool age." After an initial visit to the island to allow the family and the islanders to look over one

Truce Settles Struggle On Irish Architecture

By DENIS O'CONNOR — DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — The preservationists of Dublin, struggling to maintain the city's crumbling antique architecture, have won a truce with developers who want to modernize the Irish capital — new buildings are going up but they are to blend with the designs of 200 years ago. The struggle pits blocks and Georgian mansions — Dublin's main claim to architectural distinction — against demands to tear them down and make room for modern buildings, intact. Many of the 18th century brick row houses already have been demolished. "It is a tragedy to see Dublin being deprived of its reputation as the only surviving Georgian city in Europe," says Joseph McCullough, Chairman of the National Trust, deploring the demolition. Conservationist groups like the Dublin Society, the Georgian Society and prominent Dubliners such as actress Siobhán McKenna and Dr. Conor Cruise O'Brien, author and former U. N. military commander, agree with the protest. Other Dublin-dwellers disagree. The capital needs modernizing, they contend. "Must we always live in the past?" demands developer John Byrne. "New projects are the hallmark of prosperity and success — the Georgian houses belong to the past and Ireland must look to the future." Construction foreman Charlie Doherty, one of 12,000 building industry workers making a living from development projects, says, soon.

Putting on Traditional Army-Navy Club Feed Bag

A capacity crowd of 41 campers and 60 staff members were on hand at Camp Kennedy yesterday to partake of the traditional full-course luncheon served up annually since 1964 by the Manchester Army & Navy Club. The hot meal consisted of meat loaf, mashed potatoes, carrots and peas, brown gravy, rolls and butter, punch, and ice cream. There were seconds and thirds for those who wanted them, and there still was food left over. The Army & Navy Club Committee which prepared and served the food consisted of Ed McGregory, chairman; Russ Mathiason, Harry Mathiason, Jim Wagner and Ernie Payne. In addition to its annual cookout at the camp site each summer, the club honors Camp Kennedy's volunteer counselors with a dinner in its clubhouse each fall.

FDA Inspectors Limited To Six-Year Testing Gap

WASHINGTON (AP) — The specters in the field, Edward Edwards told the House public subcommittee this year by about 2-1, the Newark, N.J., firm in May health subcommittee Tuesday, 300 Edwards added. Although some of the food safety problems last fiscal year look like they are being solved, the FDA and drug inspectors, he said, are only 210 field inspectors. Business Mirror Professionals Get Offers Of Easy Loans in Mail

BY JOHN GUNTEFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Many executives and professional persons these days are receiving offers of $5,000 loans for as long as five years from strangers merely for affixing their signatures to an application. Thousands are doing so.

The offers, which are made through the mail, require no security. The questionnaire may take only 10 minutes to fill out. The applicant's business associates may not be checked. The reason for the loan may not be verified.

Understandably, business seems to be thriving. Substantial companies are involved in the lending, and the record to date suggests that not only is demand high but that profits can be even higher.

Who borrows? Universal C.I.T. Credit Co., which entered the field three years ago, reports that doctors are the most frequent borrowers. In order by bankers, business executives, certified public accountants and dentists.

"We really don't care what they want the money for except that it must be for a legitimate purpose," said Edward W. May, vice president of the C.I.T. subsidiary. "We ask the reason but we don't verify it."

New Firm Begins Town Operation

BY BILL COE
(Herald Reporter)

The Control Data Corp. has begun operations in Manchester, in a continuing move into a large new plant in Manchester Industrial Park off Parker St.

Control Data is a leading U.S. producer of data processing equipment and business forms and a major leader of DP equipment.

A regional printing and sales operation plant of the firm's Business Products Group is being shifted from Bloomfield to a new 60,000 square foot building at 41 Progress Dr.

Control Data has a ten-year lease on the facility from Wyandotte Industries Corp. of Manchester, developer-owner of the industrial park. Wyandotte was the surviving corporation in the April 1971 merger with First Hartford Realty Corp.

The one story, air conditioned and climate-controlled plant was built by the Green Manor Construction Co., a Wyandotte subsidiary.

Control Data's move to Manchester, announced last February, began in mid-June. When completed and the plant is in full operation, it will employ 85 — about three times the number that worked in Bloomfield.

The new building is five times larger than the Bloomfield facility, which is being phased out and is presently operating at about 60 per cent of capacity.

The plant is engaged in the printing of snap-out forms and continuous computer forms on a custom basis. It utilizes several new types of high-speed presses, collators and bindery equipment.

High-speed printing presses in the huge, 35,000 square foot pressroom utilize the offset process and have three-color capacity.

One machine, the Scribner 1000, can print double rolls of paper at the rate of 1,500 feet per minute and is capable of turning out 80,000 forms every half hour.

In addition to the printing facilities, the building also contains a large warehouse section for shipping and storing the finished products. Customers can elect to store portions of their inventory in the office, to be headed by Frank A. McLaughlin, will direct Boston and New Haven District sales.

The firm's Hartford Region sales force will also move here shortly from Bloomfield. It will be headed by Frank A. McLaughlin, will direct Boston and New Haven District sales.

"Vive le cocktail!" toasted a Frenchman at Boley's Tavern near Yorktown during the Revolutionary War. He was probably thinking more about the chicken he was eating than the drink. But nevertheless that's when the word "cocktail" was born. Thankfully, it has been with us ever since.

For perfectly mixed cocktails, the kind you expect from your favorite bartender, just pour "HARBEST" from the bottle or can over ice. Nothing else to do for a superb drink.

British Infant School Teacher Enraptured By Bolton Facilities

By CLEMENWELL YOUNG (Herald Correspondent) "You should be very proud," Margaret Botterill told William Grunski, school board vice-chairman, as they completed a tour of Bolton Center and Elementary Schools...

Margaret Botterill

larger than about half that of the average Connecticut lounge (living room). Next year I shall have five-and-six-year-olds. Looking enviously at the two over-sized Bolton kindergarten rooms, each with its own sink, Mrs. Botterill explained that there are "fancy" schools in Coventry, but that she happened to be teaching in an older one and that many schools are bursting at the seams because of an administrative decision to take four-year-olds, and because of the large number of children of Pakistani immigrants entering the Coventry school system.

Mrs. Botterill was a bit dubious about the carpeting on the kindergarten floors, because of "all the mess" younger children need to make with their paints and clay, but she was very impressed with the libraries in all three schools. (She had spared the high school earlier in the week.) And she was even more impressed with the fact that a trained librarian or aide mans each library. "In Coventry, it would be a teacher," she said, jokingly considering a job in the U.S. Trained initially as a librarian, Mrs. Botterill was forced to study three years for her teaching certificate in order to get a job after her children were in school, since no library posts were available.

The number of children in Bolton kindergarten classes amazed Mrs. Botterill. Reading in The Herald of the petition to reduce the Bolton classes from 20 to 20, Mrs. Botterill exclaimed, "Our union says we can take no more than 20!" The only reason she had less than that last year was that her class was squeezed into a former clinic room. "We did get dinner mothers, though," she said, a result of the "parents' strike" last year. Before that, teachers had to be on duty in the lunch room.

It's a long school day for young children, she said, from 9 in the morning to 3:30, with an hour and a half for lunch. Many of the children stay in school for lunch because their mothers work. There are no facilities for naps. Mrs. Botterill often spends her own lunch preparing for her class so that she can leave promptly to go home to take care of her own family.

There are five in the Botterill household, plus a dog. Susan Ewen and Adrian, 12 and 10, are "on holiday" with their father on a farm in Devon while mother and daughter (14) take their first voyage beyond the British Isles. As if a full-time job and a home to keep up were not enough, Mrs. Botterill takes a class in jewelry making one night a week, plays the piano for a group of boys similar to those another night, and sings in the church choir. She has been relaxing in Connecticut, however, not taking many of the side trips offered to the Coventry visitors, except for a two-day trip to Niagara Falls and a full day in New York City yesterday. Mostly, she's tried to tan her own fair skin without burning it ("you people are all such a wonderful color") in a Bolton backyard and on a Long Island beach over a sunny weekend. She's shopped in many of the Manchester stores, wandered around Hartford, snatched at some of the drive-in restaurants ("I feel just as if I were watch-

Pranksters Stir Palace Guards

LONDON (AP) — Police sealed off Buckingham Palace early today and sent tracker dogs into the grounds after a passing motorist reported he saw someone scaling the garden wall. The pranksters were one of three families accommodating Robert Young family when they visited England on the occasion of their first moon change. It was in their living room, Mrs. Botterill said, room after a picnic in the Cotswolds, complete with pork pie, holiday house. "She refuses to believe that Connecticut can be landing on the BBC almost every day and bleak and miserable at six years ago."

Meskill Names 3 to Agencies

HARTFORD (AP) — Gov. Thomas J. Meskill announced three appointments to state agencies Tuesday. Jack Schmitt of Waterbury, president of the Associated Restaurants of Connecticut, was appointed to the state Vacation-Travel Advisory Council. Samuel W. Hawley of Fairfield was appointed to the Connecticut Industrial Building Commission. Peter E. Norton of Fairfield was appointed as an additional unemployment commissioner.

Thank You HAMDEN (AP) — Thirty-six years ago, police in this suburban New Haven community befriended a down-on-his-luck hitchhiker traveling to Boston to find work. Monday's mail brought a money order for $40 to the police station to repay the department for its "kindness."

Indians March At U.S. Embassy NEW DELHI (AP) — Nearly 1,000 supporters of the right-wing Jana Sangh party demonstrated peacefully outside the heavily guarded U.S. Embassy today protesting U.S. arms shipments to Pakistan. About 500 police cordoned off the main embassy entrance and held demonstrators from entering the walled compound. The demonstrators dispersed after shouting slogans and hearing speeches from local politicians for half an hour.

Insurer Warns No-Fault Data Can Be Wrong BOSTON (AP) — An insurance industry spokesman was cautious Tuesday about the implications of Gov. Sargent's Monday announcement that he would sign the No-Fault automobile insurance system. The spokesman said that in the first six months of 1971 the total number of claims and the average cost of claims have been cut in half. The spokesman said that it was impossible to predict how much might be saved at the end of the year because traditionally, simpler, cheaper claims are taken care of. Expensive and more complicated claims take more time to process, he said, and the outstanding number of claims is reduced as the insurance companies pay them in the course of a year. The first half year's figures do not necessarily reflect the experience at the end of the year, the spokesman said. The average claim cost at the end of 12 months usually is more than double the average claim cost for the first six months of a year, he said. He said that the average claim cost for all of 1969 was $602 and the claims for 1970 were probably comparable. The average cost per claim for the first six months of 1970 was only $245, he said. In a second comparison, the spokesman said the total claims paid in 1969 were $106 million under the old tort liability system. In 1970, also under the unrestricted lawsuit system, only $3.9 million was paid out in the first six months. The final figures for 1970 are not available, he said, but he said he has reason to believe they are comparable to 1969.

WCTU Fights Alcohol Ads CHICAGO (AP) — The World Woman's Christian Temperance Union has urged governments throughout the world to curb sharply in all the advertising of alcoholic beverages. The alluring pictorial advertisements of alcoholic beverages should be reduced, the WCTU said in a resolution Tuesday, because they present only one side-good fellowships and the other, the ill-effects, including the danger of alcoholism. Delegates to the 20th triennial convention of the WCTU also adopted resolutions to seek lowering of alcohol levels deemed illegal for driver license holders. The resolutions also urged governments to legislate strongly against illegal alcohol traffic and promote programs of teacher education for classroom instruction in the effects of alcoholic beverages on the mind and body.

Bolton Female Deer Hit by Auto

It is a little startling to be driving down Notch Rd. on a humid August afternoon and see two boys loading what looks very much like a deer into the trunk of a car, then to note Resident State Trooper Robert Peterson writing what looks very much like a ticket as he leans nonchalantly on the hood of his car.

Investigation of the incident, which happened yesterday afternoon, revealed that it was indeed a deer, glassy-eyed and still warm; but not a ticket, merely the report required when any motorist hits a deer in Connecticut.

David Farris, 17, of Vernon Rd., still a little stunned himself from the event, said the doe bounded into the path of his car from the east side of Notch Rd. (the wooded section, just north of Flamo's) at about 1:30 p.m. yesterday. The deer was hit broadside and died immediately from a broken neck. The impact of the animal, estimated at 110 lbs., dented the car's hood and broke a headlight.

On the advice of Louis Dimock and son Joey, who live nearby, David and his passenger, Glen Tilcomb, were about to take the deer to a food locker, where they would let it hang before having it cut into meal-size pieces of venison and frozen.

Teacher Representatives
Ralph Isaacs and Philip Robenhymer will serve as teacher representatives on the Bolton PTO executive board for the 1971-72 school year, according to Mr. and Mrs. Rigby H. Graham, PTO co-presidents. Esther teaches Grade 4 at the Elementary School, and Robenhymer, Grade 5 in the Center School.

The announcement followed a recent meeting at which the board also voted to establish the post of PTO representative to the Board of Education as a standing committee. Mr. and Mrs. Graham named Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Manning of Watrous Rd. to serve as the new committee's chairman.

Mrs. Edward Murphy, hospital chairman, also announced that the annual teachers' luncheon will take place in the Elementary School auditorium on Sept. 7. During August Mrs. Murphy and her committee will call PTO members to enlist their support and participation.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Haloburdo, vice presidents, are compiling the school calendar. They plan to have the calendar, which will note school events and vacation schedules, ready for distribution by the end of September.

Slow Pitch Softball
Tuesday night softball action saw the Bombers beat St. George 13 to 11. The Bombers presented a well-balanced attack, with home runs by Joe Ratala and by winning pitcher Ed Churtilla. Orin Kelly had two home runs for St. George and Andy Zaigler added two hits to the St. George attack.

The Bombers will play a makeup game with Clark-Walton tomorrow at the high school field.

Fans and players should watch for the schedule of play-off games which will begin the week of Aug. 16.

Resort Voters Hold Skyline
LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Residents seeking to protect the small-town air of this scenic Southern California tourist spot have won a fight against what they call "visual pollution."

Sixty per cent of the 8,000 registered voters turned out Tuesday, voting 3,707 to 1,213 to adopt a charter amendment limiting future building height to 38 feet.

A citizens group called Village Laguna proposed the measure, saying large buildings in the resort town would constitute visual pollution.

Dollar Giveaway Saves Thousands
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Publicity agents dumped 700 one-dollar bills from the top of a 14-story building Tuesday onto one of the city's busiest downtown intersections. Witnesses said shoppers and many motorists were seen dashing into the street to get the money.

Wrapped around each bill was an invitation to a demonstration by a modeling firm. Organizers said the event saved the cost of an $8,000 advertising campaign.

Police later warned the organizers not to hold any repeat giveaways.

Sulfur Ban In Fuel Oil Gets a Delay

HARTFORD (AP) — The Clean Air Commission has postponed for seven months, until March 1, enforcement of a state regulation forbidding the use of fuel containing more than one per cent sulfur.

The regulation was to have taken effect Sept. 1. The commission said Monday the change will allow "consumers," including businesses, institutions, industries and utilities companies, to use high sulfur fuel despite a regulation banning its use, storage and sale.

The sale of such fuel will be banned as scheduled Sept. 1, the commission noted. Commissioner Philip Blanchard pointed out that as consumers buy fuel after Sept. 1, they will be adding it to the high-sulfur fuel they have on hand and thus diluting it.

Rita Kaunitz, the only commission member who opposed the change, said the measure was adopted with two members absent. She called the action "a weakening of the commission regulations in general."

But a majority of the commission voting felt many consumers who bought high-sulfur fuel during the spring would be unable to meet the new requirement by Sept. 1.

The commission is trying to finish its work before it is replaced by a Department of Environmental Protection Oct. 1.

Girls from each country participated in the program. Slides were shown of Norway and Holland. A skit was put on by the International Friendship Page. Our troop sang three songs: "This Land Was Read from the New Testament. We stood and sang "Rolling Home," representing New England; and "Hills of My Connecticut," representing our state. Each group sang in their native tongue. All songs were accompanied by two guitarists.

The closing ceremony brought back camp memories to us. All lights went out except a flashlight which shown through the International Friendship Page. Wrapped around each bill was an invitation to a demonstration by a modeling firm. Organizers said the event saved the cost of an $8,000 advertising campaign.

Some of the scouts exchanged friendship pins with Girl Guides from different countries.

Each patrol took its day cooking meals for the troop. The most "violent" meal was given by Patrol 1 (Gene Krause, Peg White, Libby Thurston, Linda Topping and Chris Kitchner). As a last minute lunch, Linda and Jill baked the grocer's to buy so-called hot dogs. The first attempt to cook them failed as they fell apart in the frying pan.

Casey (Mrs. Edson Case, the other chaperone) came into the kitchen to discover the source of the odor. Then, under her advice, we bottled the remaining links. Success, at last, we thought. Then Donna Minicucci gave a scream. She was the first victim of exploding hot dogs. Mrs. Brown followed as a close second. There was no time to take shelter under the table. The moment the castings pierced, the sausages exploded.

Our first day of bad weather didn't ground us. Most of us hiked 2 1/2 miles in the rain to a woodcarver's hut where we witnessed his skillful hands at work. Almost everyone bought something.

The next day we hiked up the but. He showed us how he makes one kind of cheese and he played the Alpine Horn for us. It is a 10-foot-long, slender horn with a bell at the end. It can only play nine notes. We listened and heard its echo from deep down in the valley. Deb and Libby had a chance to play the horn.

We enjoyed watching a William Tell play in the William Tell Open Air Theater. We followed the plot with the help of the English program since it

Cards Can't Solve Pitching Dentist

NEW YORK (AP)—Steve Arlin, the pitching dentist, took some of the bite out of the St. Louis Cardinals and it turned up, of all places, in the belts of the San Diego Padres.

Arlin hurled a four-hitter Tuesday night and got some unusually lively hitting from the Padres to beat the Cardinals 6-2.

Arlin's sharp performance against the Cardinals was the 10th complete game in his last 10 starts for the Padres' staff.

Patriot Camp Without Star

NEW YORK (AP)—Duane Thomas is alive and kicking in Los Angeles—probably. The National Football League's rookie of the year in the National Conference, traded by Dallas to the New England Patriots after leading the Cowboys to the Super Bowl, vanished from the Pats' training camp Tuesday and flew to the West Coast.

Thomas eluded newsmen at Los Angeles International Airport and was apparently escorted to his Los Angeles apartment today.
