Why is Senator Jackson looking for some opening which will help him to seem something less of a hawk than he really has been, or really might like to continue to be?

The answer is that Senator Jackson has now entered the process of trying to construct a Presidential image, and that, for such purposes, he would like to move himself into that middle area already occupied by Senator Muskie...

What this country needs is an honest way out of Vietnam, and no kind of exit based on our supposedly sudden discovery that no perfect democracy exists there can be honest...

Choice At Altica

Once more, this time, in our reactions to the news from Altica, we divide ourselves into the hawks and the doves, the permissives and the disciplinarians, the super-righteous judges and the half-guilty voluntary confederates.

Take our record and our attitude on any of the other many tests of our time and you would be likely to find that when we would go storming into the white compound at Altica, intending to pay a terrible price...

the approaching force of the presidential election in South Vietnam, and threatens to use this force as the reason for changing his own attitude on prolonging American aid to and the American presence in South Vietnam...

Why is Senator Jackson looking for some opening which will help him to seem something less of a hawk than he really has been, or really might like to continue to be?

The answer is that Senator Jackson has now entered the process of trying to construct a Presidential image, and that, for such purposes, he would like to move himself into that middle area already occupied by Senator Muskie...

But whether it is dove or hawk trying to ride the political situation in South Vietnam for sincere or for hypocritical reasons, the reminder to both should be the same.

What this country needs is an honest way out of Vietnam, and no kind of exit based on our supposedly sudden discovery that no perfect democracy exists there can be honest...

Weather

There is the weather everybody talks about, and there is the weather nobody does anything about, and there is the weather that exists only for the forecasters.

There is good weather, and bad weather, and boring weather. And, in addition to these, there is an occasional weather which moves in and brushes past all our words and thoughts and descriptions and classifications and predictions and takes charge with a powerful, moody majesty all its own.

In this mood, it pushes great sheathings of cloud from reverse directions, erupts them, comes upon down and rain, turns in the corner with the winds, sits heavy on the chests of men, chases sun through rain so swiftly no rainbow ever catches up, tears up all the covenants which ever promised an ultimate kindness to man, lays whimsical, wanton hands on the iron discs of security, and then turns up, smiling, a bunchy of degraded asters in its hand, outdressed the kitchen door so swollen with rains it will not open, still impetuous, still doing no man's thing, but its own, still owning and presenting the greatest show on earth.

Each one can be sure, considers the other responsible for the creation of the conditions for tragedy at Altica. The soft headed consider the iron discs guilty, the iron fists think the soft people spotted whatever chance discipline had. The two attitudes, instead of finding cooperation possible, drift into almost inevitable sabotage of one another, until neither has a chance to operate until it is too late, until neither has a chance to choose or policy left except that of the lunge.

This division among us, a division among the component instinctive parts of human nature itself, is the basic, underlying tragedy which has iron erupted into the blood bath at Altica. Some of us are willing to judge the actions and motives and behavior of others. Some of us are ready to weep because, being part of the human family, we can't seem to do anything about avoiding such madness.

What would we, the editorialist, have done in a situation such as that at Altica? We would probably have followed the soft, reasonable line a little longer, until, the negotiators on the other side having proven progressively unaccommodable, we gave the order to go in, which we would then have sorrowed over for the rest of our life.

And you — what would you have done? A Hawk Joins The Chorus

When the "doves" of the Senate rush to claim the obvious shortcomings of the democratic process in South Vietnam as a cloaking argument for their recommendation that we get out, apparently unconditionally, they are, in our view, committing an irrelevancy and drawing an unground conclusion. They can, however, be conceded a degree of consistency in that what they are doing is to grab what they think is a good argument for their own established position.

When one of the Senate's most consistent "hawks," Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington, also steps upon

Connecticut Yankee

By A.H.O.

When Governor Thomas Meskell revealed his own early promise to approve such a measure, and vetoed the bill which would have made the birthday of the late Rev. Martin Luther King a legal holiday for Connecticut, he displayed a toughness and courage of a rare order.

There were many members of the General Assembly who voted for the bill not because they really believed in it, but because they were unwilling to put themselves into a voting position which could be accused of showing rare prejudice.

In the normal course of such events, the new legal holiday would have been created, even though very few people were really certain they felt it logical and appropriate. But Governor Meskell dared and did.

He presented testimony from a real estate appraiser, an architect, and a city engineer who testified to the effect that the most interior site was well suited for the intended church. He would not deprecate surrounding properties or cause traffic congestion and commuter delays.

Governor Meskell's spectacular defiance of one such instance of pressure left, however, a character to observe small developments in the area of Grove St. and Main St. and would be an asset to the neighborhood, Kelly maintained.

The parking lot behind 156 Main St. that serves the office building and exits to the street was excluded from computations for the apartments, Kelly told the commission.

Appearing for the opposition, Atty. Carl Nelson of East Hartford presented two petitions said to be signed by almost 200 residents in the area as far as N. Elm St. as far as N. Elm St. as far as N. Elm St.

Atty. Vincent Dianna, who represented the applicants, said the commission also granted approval for the site. Thomas J. Hackett et al for a single parcel.

The Board of Education last night voted to request the Board of Directors to establish three washout accounts totaling $30,827: $2,661 under Education of the handicapped...

Henry St. Residents Object

Apartment Request Tabled By Planners

The Planning and Zoning Commission tabled an application for apartments off Henry St. last night, after residents of the area voiced opposition to the proposal.

The application for Stage I approval of a group of 40 apartments was submitted by the DAL Corp., which also owns abutting land at 156 Main St.

The four-acre site involved is off the north side of Henry St. At one time the parcel was owned by St. Bridget Church.

Kelly presented testimony from a real estate appraiser, an architect, and a city engineer who testified to the effect that the most interior site was well suited for the intended church.

The apartments would be comparable in character to other small developments in the area of Grove St. and Main St.

Coventry Council Okays Participation In Emergency Jobs Program

The Town Council last night voted to approve a recommendation of Town Manager Dennis Moore that the town participate in the National Emergency Employment Program.

Coventry has been awarded $28,000 under the act, with the purpose of the program stated as being to provide jobs for the unemployed and underemployed.

Moore explained that the deadline for submission for the program was yesterday, with no intervening time in which he could check with the council as to what it felt are the employment needs of the town. He said he took it upon himself to make these selections, calling for three positions: a police officer, an assistant to the building inspector and an assistant to a clerk for the Town Hall.

The time of employment under the program is one year, and the jobs must provide training so that the employee can find work elsewhere at the end of the program, if not retained in the local position.

Moore noted that "There are problems relating to the program. There is no assurance that the program will continue longer than a year, and it might be necessary to lay the participants off at the end of a year. If they are laid off, the town will probably be liable for unemployment compensation."

"However," Moore said, "it looks as though the unemployment problem might be solved. Apparently we can set aside a percentage of the $28,000 to pay for the expected unemployment compensation. It would be understood at the time of employment that the position is only guaranteed for one year."

In his letter to the BEA, Moore described the need for the three positions, listing the financial need at $29,271 for salaries, $2,274 for fringe benefits included as part of the salary, $4,900 for fringe benefits in addition to salary, and $4,213 as a cushion for unemployment.

Moore explained during discussion that it was his understanding that applicants would come from Coventry, and that there was approximately many who would qualify.

"I looked for one reservation about the program was the fear of being 'locked in' to extra employment after the one year deadline."

Moore said that in the case of the police officer, he was probably requesting such a position for the 1972-73 budget anyway, although this decision would be up to the council and ultimately the townspeople at the time of the next town meeting.

In approving the recommendation to participate, the council stipulated a one-year limit on the employment.

The council referred to the finance committee's recommendation that the BEA be allowed to continue use of the town trucks and workers for the BEA's glass recycler program.

Moore noted that last month, the town road crew participated with the BEA in the program, a total cost of $44,116. The BEA made $120 on the job, selling the glass to the manufacturer in Portland, in the state of Maine.

Moore said that the BEA would be up to the council and ultimately the townspeople at the time of the next town meeting.

Police Probe Ri. 83 Breaks

Vernon police are investigating three breaks into business establishments discovered early this morning by officers on patrol.

In all three cases the glass in the front doors was broken on entry and a total of some $300 was reported missing.

Robert Klein, 21 of 192 Brunford St. in Manchester was charged with breaking into the store and driving right and was issued a written warrant for driving after drinking. Police said Attenello's car went off the side of the road.

Richard Attenello, 27 of 21 Main St. Vernon was also charged with breaking into the store and driving right and was issued a written warrant for driving after drinking. Police said Attenello's car went off the side of the road.

All of those charged are scheduled to appear in Circuit Court 12, Rockville, Oct. 5.

Drug Center

The Drug Advisory Center is temporarily closed while it moves from the Jean Lee House at 48 Hartford Rd. to 88 Park St. It will open at its new address Thursday. Its new hours will be from noon to 10 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Dr. Donald C. Hardy justly the council last night clarifying the position concerning coffee-breaks and lunch breaks for town employees. Two ten-minute coffee breaks are allowed, he said, one in the morning and one in the afternoon, as well as one half hour for lunch.

Recycling Agreement

Other councilmen agreed, with Michael Pease stating only that he had some reservations that the funds to carry out the drive were coming from the road fund, it was for this reason that the council decided to turn the matter over to the finance committee to decide how best to cover the costs. Finally, it was suggested, a special glass recycler account could be made up, or perhaps the funds could come from the town dump account, since as was mentioned, the program will continue longer than a year, and it might be necessary to lay the participants off at the end of a year. If they are laid off, the town will probably be liable for unemployment compensation.

"However," Moore said, "it looks as though the unemployment problem might be solved. Apparently we can set aside a percentage of the $28,000 to pay for the expected unemployment compensation. It would be understood at the time of employment that the position is only guaranteed for one year."

There is nothing out of the ordinary or spectacular about the basis of school street safety," Steele stated, "but the safety practice of basic school street safety procedures can result in a real savings in injuries and lives among our school children; a goal assuredly among the worst that any of us prize in our nation."

Andover Rham Band Seeks New Members

Andover Elementary School Principal Donald Libby has announced that Robert Crowe, Music Department Coordinator at the Rham Junior and Senior High School and Director of the Rham Band, is seeking an increased participation in band activities by Andover youngsters this year.

Today there will be an instrument display at Rham and students are invited to attend along with their parents to hear the proposed plans and view the assortment of instruments available.

Libby said that a school bus will be provided at the elementary school each Wednesday to take students to Rham for rehearsal, which start tomorrow.

The school's art teacher, Mrs. Susan Grudal, has begun the school art program and asks the parents provide children with amusements for use during art classes. Any old sheet of paper that will protect the child's clothing is acceptable.

Mrs. Grudal is also requesting children to bring in any magazines which may be out of use and for art projects. Parents are asked to donate their magazines and donate them to the school rather than discarding them.

Lunch Program

The lunch program so far, said Libby, is down from last year, but that this may be a seasonal problem. He stressed that participation in vital if the program is to continue in Andover.

As long as the school lunch program operates in the black it can continue to offer 40 cent lunches to the children, partly through government subsidies and partly through the cost passed on to the child. Should the lunch participation fall below a break-even level, the school would have approved the Board of Finance not only for funds to cover the deficit but for permission to continue the program.

Previous quarters as to the possibility of maintaining the lunch program even on a losing basis have brought negative results from Board of Finance members who felt the program must be made self-sufficient. Libby stated that changes made in various aspects of the program have interested in seeing continued growth, not deterioration.

The school is also seeking two additional aides for the lunch program; four are needed and only two positions are currently filled. The pay for lunch aides is $2 per hour and they are needed for one hour daily.

Luncheon Menu

Luncheon menus for the week are as follows:

Monday: Fish in batter, coleslaw, carrot sticks, chocolate pudding.

Tuesday: Baked chicken, rice, spinach, cranberry sauce, orange sugar, fruit.

Wednesday: Orange juice, pizza, tossed salad, fruit.

Thursday: Milk and bread and butter sandwiches are served at all meals.

Lunches are payable on a daily basis; or tickets are available on a weekly basis, payable on the first school day of the week only.

Sheriff's Picnic

Tolland County Deputy Sheriff Clarence Clark is inviting all residents to the annual sheriff's picnic tomorrow from 4 p.m. until dark at the new water club, Crystal Lake, Ellington.

Gov. Governor T. Clark Hill, State Rep. Mrs. Dorothy Miller and other Republican officeholders will be present.

Tickets can be obtained from any county sheriff or by calling Clark at his apartment Dr. home.

Women's Study Group

The Wednesday morning study group at the Congregational Church will resume its weekly session tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. Unofficial leader of the group is Mrs. Imodale Richards, who has the current book selection title and can advise prospective members on the group's activities.

The study group usually selects a book, either religious in nature, or dealing with current events. The group members read the book and then discuss the findings.

Any women wishing to participate in the group are welcome to come to the meetings or contact either Mrs. Richards or the Rev. Raymond Bradley.

Save Big Sale

The Andover Orange is sponsoring a tag sale Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Ann VanDeusen of Lake Rd.

Lodgers Win Beanball War, Giants Suffer KO Punch

NEW YORK (AP)—"It's not just the Giants and Dodgers, Charlie Fox and shrugged. "It's always been that way."

It was that way 30 years ago when the Giants called the Polo Grounds in New York their home, the Dodgers roared in from Brooklyn and fans called their pennant race one of history's greatest.

All-Time Open Champ Disappointed
Perhaps the most disappointed man on the scene yesterday at the Manchester Open Golf Tournament was Henry Bontempo.

How has Bontempo been playing in his retirement? "I had a 67 last year, I've been playing for four or five years now," he answered.

Former winners of the Manchester Open include some of the best players in the area. Bontempo was a member of the first foursome to tee off at 7:25, established a score for the other 18 competitors to shoot at.

Fros Balo, Parson Open Leaders In Pacing Field of 186 at MCC

By EARL YOST
No pro or low handicap amateur golfer tore the course apart yesterday at the Manchester Country Club in the 25th Manchester Open. Heavy rains on Sunday, which forced postponement of competition for amateurs with no handicap limit, slowed the course yesterday and a heavy overcast helped keep the scores high.

Starting the lead yesterday, Fros Balo, who was a member of the first foursome to tee off at 7:25, established a score for the other 18 competitors to shoot at.

Parson, who was a member of the first foursome to tee off at 7:25, established a score for the other 18 competitors to shoot at.

Jimmy Grant, former Westchester field standout, won the PGA field, just missed the money list with a 78, one of 18 with that score.

Low amateur was a husky liquor vice president, Harvey Allen of Westland, Mass., who finished with a 78, one of 18 with that score.

Parson, who was a member of the first foursome to tee off at 7:25, established a score for the other 18 competitors to shoot at.

Few Faithful Fans Watch Robinson's 500th Homer

NEW YORK (AP)—It flew through the air with the greatest ease and rattled in the left field. The ball wasn't hit as well as he would have liked and there weren't many to witness his historic flight, but Frank Robinson will nevertheless take the 500th home run of his career.

Baseball: Mets Beat Rain, Expos Fall Victim
NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Mets beat the Montreal Expos for their fourth victory in a row Monday night.
The Mets and the Expos were scheduled for a twilight doubleheader at Shea Stadium. They got in five innings with the Mets ahead 4-2 before a down-pour halted play.
After a wait of one hour, 22 minutes the game was called with the Mets winning. The second game was postponed and will be played as part of a twilight doubleheader tonight. That will make four games in two days for the Mets. They have a doubleheader scheduled against the Chicago Cubs Wednesday.
The Expos took the lead in the first on Bob Bailey's RBI single off southpaw Ray Sadek, but the Mets came back with three in their half off Carl Morton.

BOSTON (AP)—Veteran slugger Carl Yastrzemski, winding up one of the most disappointing seasons of his career, is expected to be lost to the Boston Red Sox for two or three days because of an intestinal virus.
"That's just about the worst job of Boston's first 12 games, because his left hand Sunday and complained to Hahnemann Hospital, but was released Monday after tests indicated only the virus infection. He went to his home nearby and will be sidelined for the next few days, he said.
The veteran right-hander, both of his last 15 batters in order as he fashions his third shutout of the season—only the second since 1965—against Boston. The Red Sox have won only six of 18 lifetime games with their New York nemesis.
"He's a heck of a pitcher," Boston manager Tom Terras said. "He pitches well against every club except Baltimore. He's the only one who gives him trouble consistently." Yastrzemski was hit by a line drive off the bat of Boston's first baseman, Carl Yastrzemski, in the fifth inning of the first four innings. Then he took charge on 3-2 counts, in the first four innings. Then he took charge on 3-2 counts, in the first four innings. Then he took charge on 3-2 counts, in the first four innings.

Town Rifle Team Topped in Match

In the first rifle match of the 1971-72 season, Manchester topped in the match against the Bell City team, 1,115 to 1,141.
Although Manchester had a great turnout of competitors the always strong Bell City team and the late summer heat at Waddell Range took a large toll on the Manchester team. The top three scores from each team make up the deciding scores.
The Manchester Rifle Club meets with the Lymanettes next at the Middlefield Range on Thursday.

Grambling-Morgan Clash Draw Large TV Audience

NEW YORK (AP)—Hanging this year's trip is a little less than the college football wars. The local television ratings are in for Saturday night's Grambling-Morgan State game between two dominantly black teams were carried on national network television.
According to an ABC-TV spokesman, the game attracted the largest television audience in the history of 9.0 in New York. By comparison, last year's opening game between Stanford and Arkansas was carried on national network television.
On the way home from the 1971 opener with Arkansas, the Stanford team stopped off in Las Vegas and in a dinner last Saturday and is through slow starting Buddy Hackett. The coach.
