ZBA Asks Drain Data, Tables Bid

An application for a special exception and variance to permit construction of a small office building at 841 E. Center St. was tabled by the Zoning Board last night after two neighbors voiced concern over two potential detrimental effects to their properties.

George Lathrop of 43 Franklin St. and Norman Cross of 84 Franklin, whose a Zone lots abut the rear of the site, said they did not oppose the office building as such, but wanted assurance that the project would be properly engineered to handle storm water runoff.

The second variance will be granted to allow parking of 25 vehicles in the rear of the site, where parking for 12 vehicles is planned.

The board's tabling action was designed to give the applicant, Realco of J. Crockett, time to get the OK of the town engineer on plans for storm drainage, retaining walls and other items.

Both Crockett and Atty. Herberman, who represented the applicant, told the board they would comply with any conditions it set. The engineer on plans for storm drainage, retaining walls and other items.

He said the 2,000 square foot, one-story building will have four offices and be of brick construction, with parking for 25 vehicles at the rear.

The rear portion of the lot is in a Zone, thus requiring a variance to allow parking. The portion, which is Residence C, is properly zoned for offices.

Lynch Motors was given permission to expand its business premises by 40 feet at the rear of its 341-347 Center St. property, plus a variance of 25 feet on abutting land at the rear of 27-29 Linc St. which is zoned Residence B.

The land will be used only for storage of vehicles for the auto repair business.

Approval also gives Lynch Motors right of way to Broad St. over land of Morarty.

Four-way mayoral contests are on the ballot in Democratic and East Haven and Waterbury. Eugene Compagno, who is endorsed by the local party in East Haven, faces John Brewster, State Rep. Thomas Gleim and Mario L. Moestilo.

In Waterbury, party-endorsed incumbent Victor A. Hambruno battles with James F. Daly, Charles F. Nagaro and William F. Murphy.

Democrats in four Connecticut cities are voting in three-cornered races for mayor: Bristol, Meriden, New Haven and Stamford. The local Stamford Democratic party has offered no endorsement in the race among former Mayor Bruno Giordano, Thomas Shum and Anthony F. Lane.

Republicans in Shelton also must decide a three-way battle for their mayoral nomination. Two-way contests for the top Democratic nominations are on the ballot in Ansonia, Bridgeport, Brookfield, Hadam, Hartford, New Hartford, North Haven, Plainfield, Thompson, Waterbury, West Haven and Wolcott.

Republicans must give the nod to one of two candidates for the top of three local tickets in 13 municipalities, including Darien, where the GOP has endorsed neither of the candidates for first selection. They are incumbent James W. Towner and Ralph M. Gibbs.

The other two-way GOP primaries for mayor or first selectman are in Hamden, Hartland, Leydard, North Haven, Plainfield, Stamford, Torrington, Trumbull, Waterbury, West Haven, Weston and Westport. Also on the ballot will be primary contests for lesser offices.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Men with low draft numbers who have lost their deferments—primarily students graduated from college in June or dropped out—are expected to be the first called when the Selective Service resumes inductions.

Draft officials gave no indication when the first men would be called, but said men would be in uniform within two weeks after President Nixon signs the draft measure approved Tuesday by the Senate.

Nixon is expected to quickly sign the bill extending the Selective Service System. The impact of other major provisions of the act will be slow to materialize, officials said. Included are the phasing out of undergraduate deferments, the right of a man to present witnesses before his board, requiring a local or appeal board to have a quorum when hearing a registrant, and lowering the maximum length of service on boards from 28 to 20 years.

Pentagon officials have said that about 30,000 draftees would be needed during the remainder of the year, including a 16,000 July-August surge. That would bring this year's total to less than 110,000, the smallest callup since 1970, 200,000 adult men and women are conscripted to spend part of their lives behind prison walls.

Cities Vote In Primary

Voters around the state cast ballots today in primaries to choose their parties' candidates for the November elections.

The secretary of the state's office reported that Democrats in New Britain must decide the only five-way race in the state for mayoral nomination. The candidates are State Sen. Stanley J. Pac, John V. Zink Jr., Thomas A. Boase, Paul T. DiPasio and Salvatore Gioiardo.

The local party organization endorsed Pac.

Wallingford Plant Fire Damage Feared $1 Million

WALLINGFORD (AP) — The blaze completely gutted the second of two separate industrial fires in this town today and was expected to smolder until evening. The blaze gutted the two-story, 20,000 square foot building and caused losses estimated at $1 million by the owner, David Mersey.

Some of the 50 freshmen from Wallingford and North Haven also had helped extinguish an earlier fire at a chemical plant about three miles away. Police and fire officials said there were no indications the two blazes were related.

No injuries were reported in connection with either fire. Wages, U.N. Tests Ready For Peking's Seat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government said today in its first consumer price report since President Nixon ordered the wage-price freeze that living costs and wages rose in August.

Living costs increased three-tenths of one per cent, largely because of a sharp boost in gasoline prices, but the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said the report did not reflect the price freeze because many of the figures were compiled before it was announced Aug. 15.

Wages of some 45 million rank-and-file workers rose two cents hourly and 11.4 weekly to $129 per week. Purchasing power after deduction for price increases was up seven-tenths of one per cent for the month and 1.1 per cent from a year earlier and was only five-tenths of one per cent under the 1969 all-time high, the report said.

The rise in living costs, slightly larger than in July, pushed the government's consumer price index up to 122.2 per cent of its 1967 base of 100. The figure means that it cost $12.2 last month for every $10 worth of typical family purchases four years ago.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the report said, the size of the July increase, which August rises was four-tenths of one per cent, double the size of the July increase, which August rises was four-tenths of one per cent, double the size of the July increase.

Grocery prices were unchanged in August, the first time since January there had been no increase. In other major price categories, housing costs rose five-tenths of one per cent, transportation was up five-tenths, including a 3.7 per cent hike for gasoline, medical care in increased five-tenths, and recreation rose one-tenth of one per cent.

Clothing prices declined three-tenths of one per cent but there was a rise of five-tenths of one per cent for shoes. The bureau said future price reports during the freeze are likely to show change because some items are not frozen and others are not priced every month and will later show changes from before the freeze.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amidst speculation that Communist China leader Mao Tse-tung is dead or ill, it also was speculated today that famed heart surgeon Paul Dudley White of Boston was in Peking treating Mao.

White's secretary said she had received overseas telegrams in Peking, cancellation of the parade was confirmed by a spokesman for the Chinese Embassy in Paris. He said the parade was called off as a decision to change the way of celebrating the holiday.

As for reports that Mao Tse-tung was ill, he said the party chairman was "in excellent health." The decision to cancel the National Day parade, reviewed by Mao and other high officials, was unusual. The parade had been held annually since the Chinese Communists wrested control of the mainland from the Nationalists 21 years ago.

The British Foreign Office said its change d'affaires in Peking sent this report of the Chinese announcement: "The parade and the fireworks have been canceled and the only celebrations will consist of dancing in the parks as is done on May Day."

The official explanation is that this is a policy decision which had been made for reasons of economy and the Chinese people will instead greet their National Day with construction, in production and construction.

A spokesman for the Chinese Embassy in London echoed a statement by the Chinese Embassy in Paris that Mao "is in excellent health." He said the parade was "in excellent health."

U.N. Tests Ready For Peking's Seat

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.S. proposal to seat both China in the United Nations will undergo its first test today when the 25-nation Steering Committee meets to consider which items to recommend for the General Assembly's agenda.

The United States is also planning to submit a resolution that would make the proposed ouster of Nationalist China an "important question," requiring a two-thirds vote for passage. Under the American plan, the admission of Peking would require only a simple majority.

In all, 109 items have been proposed for the agenda. The United States is also planning to submit a resolution that would make the proposed ouster of Nationalist China an "important question," requiring a two-thirds vote for passage.

The immediate object of each side is to get its China plan voted on first. Key diplomats predict the Steering Committee will go to the agenda for study.

Pro-Peking delegates oppose putting the U.S. resolution on the list, arguing that an Alibian proposal for seating mainland China and ousting the Nationalist Chinese should be the only such item included.

Red Sappers Hit Camp As New Offensive Feared

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese sappers attacked the second major South Vietnamese base camp in two days in what enemy prisoners said was the beginning of a new campaign against allied installations, field reports said today.

About 30 sappers slipped into the Quang Lo base, 62 miles north of Saigon, in darkness Tuesday and hurled satchel charges. The base is defended by about 300 South Vietnamese troops who have dependents living with them.

Official reports said two sappers and two dependents were killed and five prisoners captured in the attack. The base is defended by about 300 South Vietnamese troops who have dependents living with them.

Film About Boy and Rats Is Hit of Summer Season

By RON THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Who would have guessed that the big hit of the summer movie season would turn out to be a film about a boy and his collection of rats?

Probably nobody except the two men responsible for bringing "Willard" to the screen. Charles Pratt, president of Bing Crosby Productions, and Robert Brinkley, who produced the picture.

"What we made was a damned good, entertaining, exciting picture without a message," adds Pratt.
The results confirm their faith. "Willard," which was filmed for $1 million, has all-time drawn $16 million through the nation's box offices. The two film makers expect foreign reaction to be even better.

Aside from giving a boost to an otherwise dismal summer season, the picture has also earned a good example of how daring showmanship can succeed.
Bing Crosby Productions—the singer is no longer with it, having sold out to Cox Broadcasters—has been making movies for three years ago—here before specialized in television series like "Ben Casey" and "Hogan's Heroes." Pratt and Brinkley decided the company should venture into the perilous field of features.

They came across a slim novel, "Rats and Men," by Robert Bly, which had been passed up by all the major studios.
"it read it in an hour and half one morning, and gave it to Chuck Brinkley recalled. "He read it before lunch and our reaction was the same: we both loved it. We immediately began negotiations to buy it."

"We did so in the face of a basic industry no-no. Traditionally, rats were never shown on the screen, for fear that women in the audience would be frightened."

The producers assigned trainees to read the book.

Stamps In the News

By SYD KRONISH
A rare discovery in U.S. stamps may lead to a collector's profit of $50,000.

The lucky finder bought the first full page of 100 completely imperforated U.S. stamps to be issued in error in the last 40 years. The error occurred on a 6-cent pane of the 8-cent Flag & White House issue of May, 1971.

According to Jacques C. Schmitt, New York philatelic auctioneer, there may be another imperforate pane in existence because of the manner in which U.S. stamps are printed. If it is correct, the pane would be worth $50,000—a nice windfall for an collector.

The last full pane of 100 stamps to exist imperforate was the 2-cent black Harriet Memorial issue of 1922. This stamp, unfortunately for the collector, was later issued imperforate and the value was nullified by the post office.

The full issue of the Minuteman stamp features two imperforate panes. One is a pane of 100 stamps, the other is a pane of 50 stamps. The pane of 100 stamps is the one that is being sought.

Songwriter Sees Long Life For Music of Soft Rock

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Bread, a soft rock quartet, formed at the time Crosby, Stills and Nash were getting together, had a million-selling single its first time out. "Make It With You." Bread doesn't claim that it started the soft rock movement, but it is one of the most successful acts in the genre.

David Gates, who wrote that first hit, says, "There's nothing so strong as an idea when it's put on musical terms. It's the music that makes it work." He says that the music of soft rock is a blend of pop and rock, and that it is the most popular music of the era.

Reab Royer, who has been replaced in the group by Larry Knechtel, says, "We've been better known by now than we were. We have no feeling for that. The only value we have is in the music itself." He says that the music of soft rock is a blend of pop and rock, and that it is the most popular music of the era.

At the time we broke in, everybody was doing what we were doing. It was a new sound, a new style. It was a blend of pop and rock, and it was the most popular music of the era.

The second and third LPs, on Elektra, are "On the Waters" and "Mama." The album has been out since the beginning of the year. It is a blend of pop and rock, and it is the most popular music of the era.

Rob Royer and James Griffin have an unusual possession: a group of members of a rock group who were arrested for possession of a large quantity of marijuana. The group is now being held in a federal prison.

Another topical subject for a year in the Journal is "The Hellstrom Chronicle" by Steve McQueen. It is a story of a man who is hunted by the U.S. 6-center honoring blood donors.

Opening lead — Ace of hearts.

If West had made a routine diamond lead, South would have had an ace and a king. South would win with the ace of diamonds and lead the king of clubs. West would return the jack (the best defense), South would win the ace and club, and make an overtrick.

West actually led the ace of diamonds and then a low trump to dummy's king. Declarer returned a club to the king, and West abruptly refused the trick. If West takes the ace of clubs, South takes the ace of spades, ruffs a spade in dummy and discards two diamonds on high clubs.

The double and the opening lead warned South to expect the high spades behind him. He therefore cashed the ace of diamonds and led the queen of spades. (A low spade would allow West to win the trick and return a spade.)

West had to win with the king of spades and get out with his diamond. South ruffed, ruffed a low spade in dummy and returned for his partnership to "see" a card on a different level.

Penal System Called Disgrace

Department joined inmates at Mississippi's Parchman State Prison in seeking a court ruling that conditions in the institution constitute cruel and inhuman punishment in violation of the Constitution.

Specifically, the Justice Department alleged that Parchman guards have permitted or ordered inmates to beat, shoot, stab and intimidate prisoners, and that prison officials have failed to protect the prisoners from assault by other inmates.

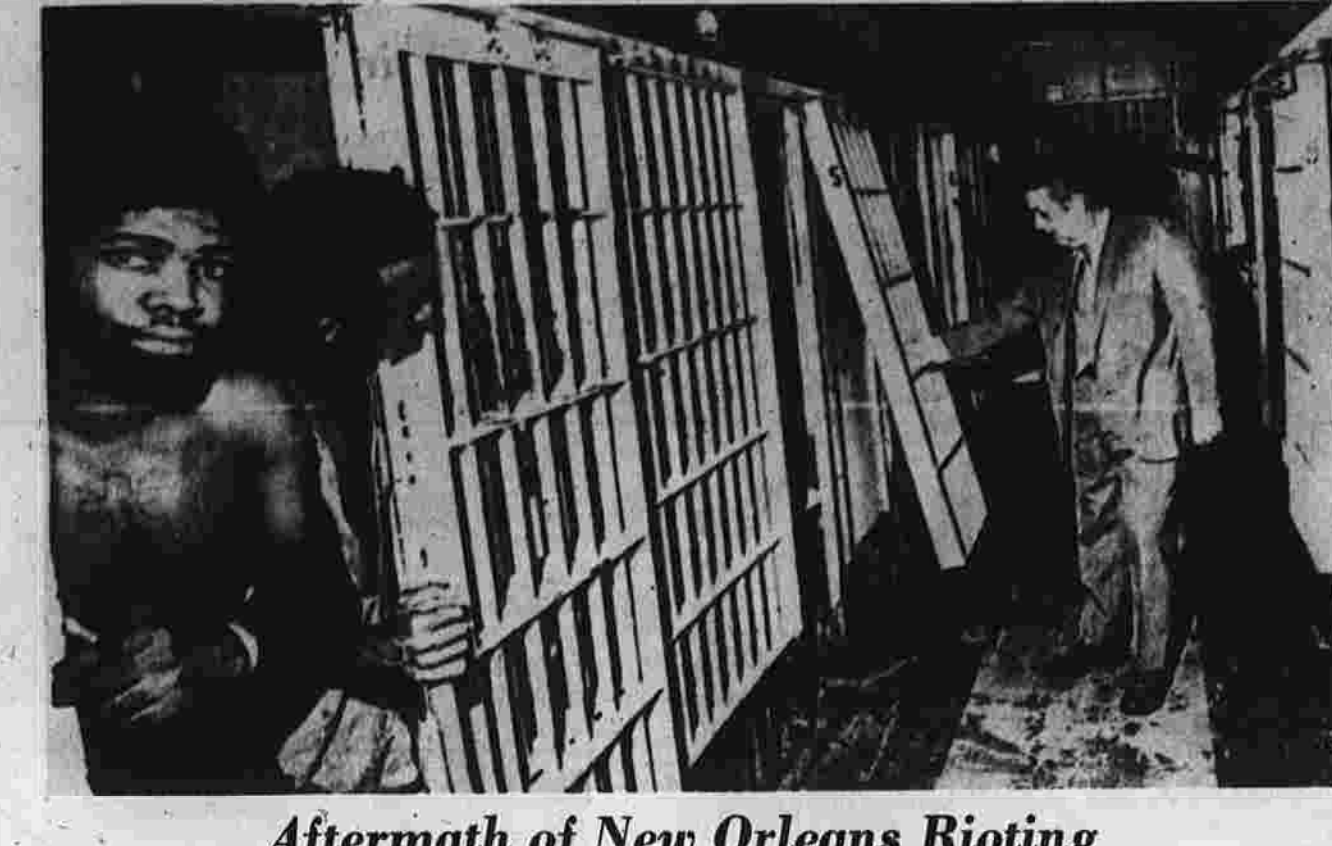

It also showed that many institutions, particularly jails where convicted criminals make up less than half the population, lack basic facilities for sanitation, health, recreation and education.

And all the enlightened people of the 20th Century have been unable to prevent the degradation of the human spirit among those subjected to privation and brutality.

Only last month, the Justice Department announced that it had filed a lawsuit in federal court in Memphis, Tenn., to force the state to improve its prison system.

Proposed reconstruction of a 1.8-mile segment of I-86 (the Wilbur Cross Highway) in Manchester is the subject of a public hearing tomorrow night in the Municipal Building town hall.

When the case reached trial, it was found $50 and released. A federal court subsequently held that confinement in the institution, built originally for 600 but then housing 800 inmates, was cruel and unusual punishment.

When West refused the ace of clubs, South led a low trump to dummy's king. Declarer returned a club to the king, and West abruptly refused the trick. If West takes the ace of clubs, South takes the ace of spades, ruffs a spade in dummy and discards two diamonds on high clubs.

When the case reached trial, it was found $50 and released. A federal court subsequently held that confinement in the institution, built originally for 600 but then housing 800 inmates, was cruel and unusual punishment.

Two Submit Bids To Raze House

Ed Danlow of East Haddam is the apparent low bidder, at $800, for the demolition of a two-story frame house on Rt. 30 in Vernon.

Only one other bid was received by the Connecticut Department of Transportation for the removing the house, which will make way for planned reconstruction of I-86 (the Wilbur Cross Highway) from Exit 8 in Manchester to Dobson Rd. in Vernon.

The other bidder was Stamford House Wrecking Co., of Stamford, at $1,427.

The 2.8-mile segment of I-86 construction is now in the final design stages, with design completion scheduled for June 1972. The state has already obtained several permits for the widening right-of-way required, and this is the second house to be demolished in the project.

The house is the former property of Robert King of Vernon.

Film About Boy and Rats Is Hit of Summer Season

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Who would have guessed that the big hit of the summer movie season would turn out to be a film about a boy and his collection of rats?

Possibly nobody except the two men responsible for bringing "Willard" to the screen: Charles Pratt, president of Bing Crosby Productions, and Mort Briskin, who produced the picture.

"We thought from the beginning that it was going to do well," says Briskin.

"What we made was a damned good, entertaining, exciting picture—without a message," adds Pratt.

The results confirm their faith. "Willard," which was filmed for $1 million, has already drawn $15 million through the nation's box offices. The two film makers expect foreign reaction to be even better.

Aside from giving a boost to an otherwise dismal summer for the movies business, "Willard" offered a good example of how daring showmanship can succeed.

Bing Crosby Productions—the singer is no longer with it, having sold out to Cox Broadcasting three years ago—heretofore specialized in television series like "Ben Casey" and "Hogan's Heroes." Pratt and Briskin decided the company should venture into the perilous field of features.

They came across a slim novel "Ratman's Notebooks" by Stephen Gilbert, which had been passed up by all the major studios.

"I read it in an hour and a half one morning, and gave it to Chuck," Briskin recalled. "He read it before lunch and our reaction was the same; we both loved it. We immediately began negotiations to buy it."

"We did so in the face of a basic industry no-no. Traditionally, rats were never shown on the screen, for fear that women in the audience would be frightened."

The producers assigned trainer Moe DiSessa to produce a breed of rat actors.

"Our rats had to be trained from birth," explained Pratt. "By being played with as babies, they had no fear of humans and would respond to a few commands."

The star rat was Ben, who had it easier than his human counterparts. He appeared only in closeups; 14 "backup" rats of the same size and coloring performed his stunts.

The human actors took well to the rats. Bruce Davidson, who played Willard, walked around the set with two on his shoulder. Ernest Borgnine uncomplainingly allowed 200 to crawl over his body.

How to keep 500 rats under control on a movie set? Since they cannot climb a slick surface, they were penned in by a 2½-foot-high circle of tin sheeting. A head count was made after every scene.

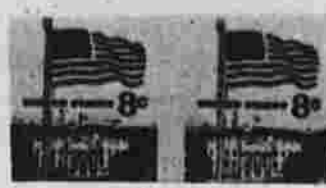

BCP Productions and its releasing firm, Cinerama, faced the problem of how to sell a movie about rats. One-day test engagements were held in Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, Pa. One city featured ads with rats pictured, one without. Both did excellent business, but Wilkes-Barre, where the rats had been pictured, did better.

"At our first preview in San Diego," Briskin recalled, "we discovered that women didn't object to the rats. There were no walkouts. In fact, some women were so sympathetic to the rats that they screamed when the rats were being menaced."

Briskin and Pratt figure one good rat picture deserves another, and they'll start shooting a sequel, "Ben," in November. Ben himself will play the title role; he's alive and well and living at the rat farm.

Stamps In the News

By SYD KRONISH
A rare discovery in U.S. stamps may give a collector a profit of $50,000!

The lucky finder bought the first full pane of 100 completely imperforated U.S. stamps to be issued in error in the last 48 years. The error occurred on a bottom pane of the 8 cent Flag & White House issue of May, 1971. The pane has normal stapleholes in the margin, but lacks any trace of perforations on the sheet of 100 stamps.

According to Jacques C. Schiff, New York philatelic auctioneer, there may be another imperforate pane in existence because of the manner in which U.S. stamps are printed. If no other pane is discovered, says Schiff, the present sheet could be valued between $25,000 to $50,000—a nice windfall for an $8 purchase.

The last full pane of 100 stamps to exist imperforate was the 2 cent black Harding Memorial issue of 1923. This stamp, unfortunately for the finder, was later issued imperforate which nullified the rarity and the value.

The fall issue of the Minkus Stamp Journal features two articles of recently-issued U.S. stamps—the Ernie Pyle commemorative and the Emily Dickinson commemorative. Another story, entitled "It All Started in Kaffa," delves into the history of coffee and weaves a tale of topical stamps based on that subject.

Kaffa, a southwestern province of Ethiopia, is credited with being the site of the discovery of the coffee bean. Illustrations of stamps concerned with coffee appear in the story. As expected, the country with the most stamps on this topic is Brazil.

Another topical subject for a yarn in the Journal is "masks." The regular feature, "Designs That Didn't Make It" delves into the background of the U.S. 6-center honoring blood donors.

The magazine can be purchased directly from Minkus Publications, 116 W. 32nd St., New York, N.Y., 10001 for 75 cents, plus 15 cents postage.

Songwriter For Music

by MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Bread, a soft rock group formed at the time Chris Stills and Nash were getting together, had a million-dollar single its first time out, "It's a Beautiful Day." Bread was the first to claim that it started the soft rock. The Beatles were into it about that time—so were Crosby, Stills & Nash.

David Gates, who wrote the first hit, says, "There's nothing so strong as an idea when time has come."

"I think the public was up with hard rock and then for this, I think this type of music will have a longer life. There's more to get your teeth into."

Robb Royer, who has been replaced in the group by Larry Knechtel, says, "I heard what Crosby, Stills & Nash were doing, through grapevine. But we got caught up in somebody's revision schedule."

Some have suggested that Bread would be better known by now if hadn't been swamped at the time with everybody talking about the other group.

Drummer Mike Botts replaced J. Gordon after his first album, doesn't think so. He says, "When I heard my first album, I didn't see a similarity with any other group. That only occurred when rock writers started reporting about it. Bread songs are instrumentally oriented, but don't make background music."

The second and third LPs, Elektra, are "On the Water" and "Manna." A fourth album will be out soon. Other songs have been "It Don't Matter Me," "Let Your Love Go" and "Mother Freedom." Album sales and personal appearance dates have been increasing steadily.

Robb Royer and Jacques Schiff have an unusual position for members of a rock group: an Academy Award. As the musicians—as all members of the group have been—knew composer Fred Searles, who was hired to write the score for the movie, "Love and Other Strangers," says, "We had done some work with him before. He asked us to write lyrics for three songs."

"Do you need some lyrics?" We said, "Sure." We did two of the songs were heard in the track as background music. Thank God. They were better than that one.

"That one," as Robb calls it, "For All We Know," which won the Academy Award in 1970. Royer and Schiff written it using pseudonyms, but they appeared as themselves to receive the Oscar.

Robb has left Bread to write screenplays.

Bite of Cobra Being Dulled

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A group of researchers have found help for those who want to keep king cobras as house pets.

Researchers from the University of Utah, Veterans Administration Hospital and Hogle Zoo in Salt Lake City have developed surgery to remove the snake's venom ducts.

The researchers told the annual conference of the American Association of Zoological Parks and Aquariums all snakes in the Hogle Zoo have had the treatment and keepers have been bitten with nothing more resulting than painful fang wounds.

Zoo Director Gerald DeBary died in 1964 of a bite from an African puff adder.

St. James Church They Took it Apart and Put it Together

Men of St. James Church, above, take out the old pews so they can be refinished and a new floor can be installed. Volunteers carried the pews down the stairs to the church yard, right, where the kneelers and supports were removed.

Like an old-fashioned barn raising, that's the way several people described the work parishioners of St. James Church did Sunday afternoon and evening, Aug. 15. About 80 men worked on the 60-year old building laying a new floor and rebuilding the pews. During the week the volunteers continued evenings and paid professionals worked during the day. By the following Saturday the pews were back in place, ready for a wedding.

The volunteers pulled long nails that had secured the carved oak pews since the church opened, removed the pews and carried them outside. To restore the original beauty of the wood, they scraped and scrubbed it, putted the cracks and holes, sealed and varnished it. They rebuilt the supports and kneelers and stabilized the legs. With an assembly line outside worked on the pews, others inside hammered down the nails in the original floor, laid a plywood floor and prepared it for the tile which was installed during the week. Many of the unpaid workers had been trained in building trades and brought tools for many phases of the project.

The men became so engrossed in the job they had to be coaxed to stop for a hearty dinner served by the women of the parish. In true barn-raising style, the women had baked their specialties and mixed crisp salads. After a friendly meal, the men returned to work.

Other redecorating and reorganizing projects are under way in the church. The interior walls are being painted. To reflect the new liturgy, the altar rail has been removed. Some of the statues, the baptistry and the tabernacle will be moved. A crying room will be made in the front part of the church for worshippers who bring small children to Mass.

Teamwork and good organization have been evident among the volunteers and paid workers on the project scheduled for completion in two weeks. The renovations were planned by the parish council in cooperation with church committees.

The restoration of St. James Church, a labor of love, will bring out the beauty of the unusual inlaid ceiling and the carved wood in the pews, stairways, walls and altars of the building, will preserve its architectural style and fine craftsmanship of another era, and update it for today's worship.

Above, clockwise, St. Teresa, a statue recently arrived from France, seems to watch serenely while parishioners scrape and scrub parts of the pews, stabilize the legs, rebuild the kneelers and supports. Right, the women of the church serve a carefully prepared meal to the volunteers who had to be persuaded to stop work long enough to eat. The pastor, Msgr. Edward J. Reardon, left, foreground, has his dinner.

Outside lights are installed so the men can continue work after dark. Right, the refinished pews placed on new tile, are ready for a Saturday wedding, less than a week after the project began.

Columbia Lake Unit Asks Selectmen Fund Studies of Dam

The Columbia Lake Association has asked First Selectman Joseph Sandiga to hire an engineer to study problems at the dam. There is some controversy as to whether to drain the lake to repair the dam or build a coffer dam.

The association said it had not received a reply to its first letter.

The association has also requested information on the lake patrol for next summer regarding rules and regulations, the patrol will enforce. The group said it was "very disappointed" that there was no patrol on the lake this summer.

Fence Frowns
A group from the Pine Ridge-Rose Bridge Road-Cooper Hill Road area appeared before the Planning and Zoning Commission last week.

A spokesman said a fence has been put up by Cammla Construction along Rose Bridge Road. There is a 200-foot area of residential land which the group is afraid will become commercial. It was the group's opinion that a 1,000-foot chain link fence, six feet high, did not belong on residential property.

Zoning Agent Sam Pescatello said there was nothing in zoning regulations prohibiting the fence and that Cammla has offered to plant vines which would eventually cover the fence.

It was voted that the matter be turned over to town counsel for an opinion.

The commission accepted the subdivision of Joseph Thabali which is for four lots located at Pine St. and Rt. 66. There was no opposition from abutting property owners.

Dr. L. T. Foley and Joseph Foley, joint owners of property on Rt. 67, appeared to request permission to build a garage on the property. They were asked to prepare a detailed map with exact dimensions for the next PZC meeting.

The Rev. Hugh J. Murphy, pastor of St. Columba's Church has been named pastor of St. Edward's Church, Stafford Springs. The Rev. James A. Koson of Rockville's Church of St. Joseph will succeed Father Murphy.

Free Lunches

The program ranges from a family of two with a gross yearly income of $3,200 and a monthly income of $27 to a family of nine and over with a gross yearly income of $6,800 and a monthly income of $567.

Families falling within the scales or those suffering from unusual circumstances or hardships are urged to apply for the free lunches for their children. Applications can be sent home or are available in the principal's office. Applications may be submitted any time during the school year. The information on the applications is strictly confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

Under the provisions of the policy the supervising principal will review the applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the local official he may request a hearing from Myron Collette, superintendent of schools. There will be no identification or discrimination against any student unable to pay for lunch.

tion of the issue of social correction. Those in office or seeking to be will have to have policies for the treatment of the offender, and their policies will be examined by the public. It will not be enough to say that we have good prisons or inadequate prisons. The riots will force a re-examination of the basic issues and measurement of its budgetary implications against all other demands. After Attica there should be an interest in upgrading correctional facilities.

We are against the peripheral and for attacking the material, not just because the peripheral is unappealing. In this country we need a lot of jobs to be done. Not until the direct action of the civil rights campaigns was segregation weakened; not until the Dean's office was seized did changes occur in the universities. And one year after the riots in the Manhattan House of Detention—the Tombs—Wagden Albert Glick reports that it is more overcrowded than on the eve of the October, 1970 riots.

Not to form a public consensus on the priority of correctional improvement is to risk serious social division, and perhaps more Attica's. If this experience does not result in breaking away from discussion of the tactics used and the nature of revolution, then the tragedy of Attica will be greater than it has been. We will have learned and done nothing.

Meskill On Attica

After meeting with Correction Commissioner John Manson and State Police Commissioner Cleveland Puseanich, Governor Thomas Meskill stated his conviction that "our prison system is superior to Attica's, more humane, and therefore was not as susceptible to rebellion among prisoners. The Governor also confirmed an earlier statement that he would "act actively" in the event of a rebellion and would "not negotiate while hostages were in prisoners' hands."

Democratic State Chairman John M. Bailey's report maintained that the state prisons and jails were short 100 guards because of the "Meskill freeze," referred to an "already dangerous security situation," and suggested that "tough talk" would not restrain violent men. Instead, Bailey recommended improved staffing by trained personnel, and a lot closer to locking up the prisoners are such that Connecticut would not have an Attica, the claim of superiority reminds us of declarations of stability by fiat in a third world country. It's risky and rouses doubts.

On the other hand, the Governor was wise to state publicly what he would do in case hostages were set in a state prison. The declaration could serve as a deterrent, and does give inmates contemplating risking their lives in an insurrection a guideline of what the Governor's policies are to be. Bailey's reference to training raises an interesting point. We would have more confidence in the Governor's proclamation if it were supported by reasons and data. An example would be assurances that the State had enough—or was training—skilled black and Spanish-speaking guards and administrators to deal with minority prisoners. Or that inmates leaders participating in prison administration could confirm a reasonable sense of community and progress in our correctional institutions.

We are all entitled to a healthy sense of skepticism. We want to believe the Governor, and he could only gain by demonstrating the substance of his claim. The Wrecking Crew Governor Meskill appears to be on the verge of sending in a wrecking crew to attend to the University of Connecticut. The latest controversy is the Meskill decision to refuse funds for UConn's junior year abroad, despite the fact that the Governor himself voted for it despite the fact this is a program that has been running five years, despite the fact that the students' heavy baggage had already been shipped to France, and despite the fact that this is a decision that must be made by the university if it is to be master of its own house.

By a 4 to 1 vote, UConn Trustees voted to continue the program and allow students to board the plane to France. Unfortunately the board split with the Meskill appointees voting to support the position of the Commissioner of Finance in his contention that this was not "an opportune time" to be spending state funds to send students abroad. One other trustee also voted against the proposal. The problem here is that this is a long term program that requires long term planning by students. It is a more expensive program than the average large lecture course, but students also pay a large share of the extra cost. Irrespective of the finances, the Meskill administration has clearly no right to interfere in the internal administration of the university. If this procedure continues, soon the university will not be able to spend money for science courses, which often cost far more per student than the humanities.

President Babbidge was correct in seeking authorization from the trustees to allow the students to go. It is unfortunate that the Meskill trustees understand so little about how a university must be run. — MIDDLETOWN PRESS.

Political Parade

By DAVID S. BRODER The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Perhaps the largest unanswered question in the unfolding story of the Democratic presidential maneuverings is: Can Hubert Humphrey afford to play the waiting game? The question was asked in many variants at last week's national governors' conference in Puerto Rico, as conversation was stirred by two reemerging conflicting bits of political intelligence. On one hand, it was easy to come away with the impression that Edmund S. Muskie may be a lot closer to locking up the nomination than has been generally supposed. On the other hand, there was Humphrey's statement, in an interview with the Associated Press, that he thought it unlikely the presidential primaries would determine the 1972 nominee.

On the other hand, the Governor was wise to state publicly what he would do in case hostages were set in a state prison. The declaration could serve as a deterrent, and does give inmates contemplating risking their lives in an insurrection a guideline of what the Governor's policies are to be. Last Animal?

By D. J. R. BRUCKNER The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — "Man is the only beast who kills that which he does not devour," said Dr. Johnson. There are a few exceptions, but the definition is sound. Other animals are not so cruel killers. The other animals seem to recognize man as an animal, not often as a dangerous one. Recognizing reptiles, animals are sociable enough with many animals, but fearfully rather than prudently. Respect for the other animals seems deep. There was more of it among men who pushed back so far west and light and smoke. It is not only here. In Kenya the forest has been pushed back so far west herds of elephants must be thinned by killing before they starve or kill one another. Excepting pets, what survives best in the technological city are the verminous animals.

The age of the great natural history museums and zoological gardens was also the age of the great game hunter, and the age of the growth of the world's heavy ammunitions industry. Men and other animals fell under the threat of mass extinction about the same time. In the early big game days, men mounted and hung the stuffed heads of animals.

New York humans constantly fight over their mutts; in fights over pets people are always being bitten and lashed with leash chains. And when I was a child, a ferociously Lutheran old lady, a million dollars in New York City, it was said. What a noise and mess! It makes you reflect on what kind of pollutants there would be if Southern California had 10 million horses instead of 10 million cars. People get antine about pets. They feed them other animals—including the mutt—out of cans, at great expense.

Even in some humans will some animals, sometimes attack them. Young humans can be as vicious as the parents. They will stomp eggs and cubs, destroy nests, torture small animals. The animal can teach respect by attacking. Turkeys, ganders and sows are good at it.

Rev. W. G. Odom, who submitted the resolution, said that he was submitting the resolution to allow the students to go. It is unfortunate that the Meskill trustees understand so little about how a university must be run. — MIDDLETOWN PRESS.

Coventry Forum Asks Democrats For Specifics in Platform

Except for candidates and campaign and platform committee members, only about 100 townpeople attended last night's open platform meeting sponsored by the Democratic party. Chief topics in the discussion included politics control, the need for planning, a separate Board of Education platform, and a general feeling that the Democratic platform should be much more highly specific than the GOP document, which was released yesterday.

Many of those present praised the Democratic platform committee for holding the forum before writing its platform. The document is expected to be written now in a short period of time. The GOP was sharply criticized for coming out in favor of "goodness and motherhood" and appearing to "avoid all issues facing the town with nothing but broad, general statements."

The need to face the pollution problem squarely was discussed. Proposed solutions were left up to the candidates and platform writers. The vital need for enforcement of individual violation of sanitary codes was cited. Daniel Manley said he thought the town ought to show some leadership in the area of planning. This was agreed to by Robert Frich, who noted that there is a long history of support of planning in Coventry.

Richard Cromie saw a need for a change in priorities in spending, noting that the current budget for the police department is $110,000 while nine other budgets are under $10,000. He suggested that the town should consider whether it would be good for us to be the only town in the area that has no recreation, libraries, public health nursing, child guidance, splendid beauty in their homes or clubs, but pronounced the Ringling philosopher doty who suggested stuffing and displaying dead relatives and friends.

Pets are another matter, involved often in human relationships. In West Hollywood last year I met a goat out for an evening walk with two men. In one afternoon in Central Park this summer I saw a cat on a tricycle accompanied by two guard dogs, four parrots with one owner, a possum, two alunks, a tiny pony, a raven, two turtles, a white rat, a rooster and a goose—all on leashes; and a large anaconda wriggling about with a young man on the grass.

In Chicago I knew a man who kept an eagle in his bedroom; if flew into his 27th-floor pad one day and stayed. In the Chicago suburb of Cicero another friend was engaged with a town council passed a law against the adult lion he kept in his back yard. His brother-in-law, he complained, who lived only two streets away but in another suburb, was allowed to keep all of his beasts in his back yard—two coonals, two tigers and a cage of monkeys.

Many people keep large snakes about. Egyptian families often keep cobras around their houses. But a snake is a dull companion. He doesn't do much and he looks funny. Look directly into a snake's face and you have to laugh at his flat head, wide mouth, low eyes, holes for nostrils and nostrils protruding teeth and tongue; it is hard to feel sympathy with something that resembles, even though some snakes have magnificent coloring.

Mostly, people keep cats and dogs. A million dogs in New York City, it is said. What a noise and mess! It makes you reflect on what kind of pollutants there would be if Southern California had 10 million horses instead of 10 million cars. People get antine about pets. They feed them other animals—including the mutt—out of cans, at great expense.

Even in some humans will some animals, sometimes attack them. Young humans can be as vicious as the parents. They will stomp eggs and cubs, destroy nests, torture small animals. The animal can teach respect by attacking. Turkeys, ganders and sows are good at it.

Church Affairs Produce Some Unexpected Twists

By GEORGE W. COHENELL AP Religion Writer NEW YORK (AP) Church affairs, like politics, produce some unexpected twists, miffs and potential alliances, all of which were evident last week in a couple of situations in Roman Catholicism. In one case, the appointment of two U.S. priests for the Church's international synod in Rome next month ranked the National Federation of Priests' Councils, even though it regards the two men as friends.

Voicing disappointment, it said that two other priests who have been represented by the bishops should have been named—but were passed over by the bishops. In the other case, a conservative lay group, Sublimis Unio for the Faith, sought to enlist both liberal and conservative groups in a united protest against a move to shelve temporarily steps for a representative Church council.

The bureaucratic setup is simply not listening to lay organizations despite all the talk about broader contact and participation," said Kirby M. Sheridan, New Rochelle, N.Y., executive director of Catholics United. "We believe this a problem in which all of us, whether liberal or conservative, can join in a united protest."

The unusual tactic was aimed at findings of a committee, set up by the U.S. bishops, for formation of a nationally representative Church body, including both priests and lay delegates, is not feasible at this time. The committee said some mechanism of shared decision making is needed, however.

As for the possibility of combined action by conservative and liberal groups on the matter, Bernard said it was an "en-couraging idea. We definitely favor all Catholic lay groups setting together on anything they can."

In Chicago, the Rev. Francis Sunday, O.S.A., president of the National Federation of Priests' Councils, said it felt that trying in the low to mid 60s.

to form a national representative body at this time would be premature. He said representative sub-groups, including priests and laymen, have developed only in a few cases. "We're not ready yet," he said. He expressed approval of the advisory council committee recommendation that the council itself serve as an interim group, and that it push for development to facilitate a representative body in the future.

On the other hand, the federalist position representing a large proportion of U.S. priests, the federation said, "We know that most of our member councils will be sorely disappointed because they had been feeding their views on priest and world justice, topics of the synod, to our provincial and national offices."

The two men had been on the sidelines, suggested through diocesan consultations, but the bishops voted to name two others on the list, Major George G. Higgins, Washington, D.C., a Church social-action official, and the Rev. Bernard A. Ahern, now stationed in Rome, Congratulating them as "our friends," the federation said it will offer assistance to them in any way possible. It also said it is sending Father Bonnik to help with the synod even though the bishops didn't choose him.

Partly cloudy Saturday and Sunday. Cool through the period with daily high averaging 69 to 70. Overnight lows will be in the low to mid 50s.

Last Animal?

this. But most animals, including most of the big ones, are much gentler, more vulnerable. A young cheetah has to be taught to kill so that it will not starve. The young human is more vulnerable for a longer period, but his teaching has been much harder, less restrained, less respectful. In time, he gets a car and a plane and a gun.

Animal life in all forms is in grave danger on earth. You do not have to be a scientist to know this; you can see and sense it all around you. The problem has suddenly become much more serious than a danger to some disappearing species. The imbalance of numbers is so great now—there are so many humans—that it may never be redressed.

The whole thing depends on the willingness of the human to limit his technology for a time, to outlaw the use of individual mechanical vehicles in many areas of the earth, to limit severely the spread of building over the land. At least some centralization of services, staff and structure before undertaking any new school construction. Read Olling

About 96 per cent of the semifinalists are expected to become college-bound. Each will be considered for one of 1,000 nationwide, one-time $1,000 National Merit Scholarships allocated by state. Many will be considered for the renewable four-year awards provided by about 600 other organizations. These students may receive up to $1,500 a year for four college years, depending upon need.

High school grades, accomplishments, leadership qualities, the literary magazine, and participation in extracurricular activities of the semifinalists were evaluated along with test scores, in selecting the Merit scholarship winners. Their names will be announced in the Student Council two years, and Yats Junior Science and Humanities Seminar in April. He is spring.

Peking Cancels Parade

some similar developments are afoot in the Communist party hierarchy.

The agency reported that portraits of Mao, the 73-year-old Communist party leader, had been taken down at some railway stations and hotels catering to foreign guests, but that they still hang on walls of government offices and schools.

Another Kyodo dispatch from Hong Kong quoted Japanese parliamentarians who visited Peking as saying the decision to cancel the Oct. 1 parade apparently was made on or after Sept. 15.

The dispatch said the Japanese noted brass bands and parades had been rehearsing in Peking on Sept. 11 when all the drum and bugle suddenly died down. The Japanese delegation arrived in Hong Kong today.

The stories in French newspapers were based largely on a dispatch Tuesday from the Peking correspondent of the French news agency Agence France Presse, one of the few Western news services permitted to report from Peking.

Two Students Named Merit Semifinalists

High school principal Norman Shaw announced today that the first time in Bolton High's history, two students have been named semifinalists in the National Merit Scholarship Program.

Steven Sherman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Sherman of Volpe Rd., and Thomas Manning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Manning of Walrus Rd., both qualified as semifinalists in the 1971-72 testing program and thus are eligible to compete for $1,000 National Merit Scholarships of $1,000 each.

Of 650,000 students who took the test in February, only 15,000 became semifinalists. To become finalists, the two candidates must complete further applications and provide personal information to the scholarship corporation.

Finalists will be announced in the spring.

Sherman is a senior at BHS where he has been active in student government. He is presently serving as vice president of the Student Council.

Last year he was Bolton's representative at Boy's State conference.

Steve plans to attend college next year, possibly majoring in political science. He eventually hopes to attend law school.

Chief Justice Unaware of Plane Owner

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman for Chief Justice Warren E. Burger has confirmed that Burger and his wife used a plane owned by a litigant in a recent Supreme Court case for a free trip to Long Island, N.Y.

But the spokesman said Tuesday that Burger was not aware that the owner of the plane, Bernard P. McDonough of Parkersburg, W. Va., had ever been involved in a case before the court.

The case came before the court last January when McDonough sought a Supreme Court hearing on a bid to keep $52,000 he had made in a stock option deal. Burger voted against hearing McDonough's appeal.

Burger and his wife used the craft to fly to the wedding of Jeffrey Rogers, son of Secretary of State William P. Rogers, last weekend.

Tolland Kingfisher Garcia Corp. Town's Largest Taxpayer

The Kingfisher Garcia Corp. is Tolland's largest taxpayer, with a 1971-72 listing on the Oct. 1, 1970 grand list. The figures for the fishing and sporting goods manufacturer are included in the prospectus compiled by the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co. for today's sale of $1,840,000 worth of school bonds. All local taxes at this time are based on 65 per cent of the 1960 property values. The company is in the process of building an addition to the two-year-old plant which will double the floor space. All property values will be raised in the October 1971 grand list to reflect 65 per cent of current market values under the assessment program now nearing completion. The Connecticut Light and Power Co., with $27,000 of assessed valuation and the Burroughs Corp. Business Forms and Supply Group facilities with $27,262 run a close second and third on the town's tax list. Robert Furness Inc., a poultry and egg farm placed fourth with $178,942. Rankings fifth is commercial and residential developer Eldredge Yost with $131,910. Builder Arthur Götter is sixth with $129,410, followed by Savings Bank of Tolland $127,000. Edward Götter, a farmer, follows with $46,800. Abrerie Construction Inc., a general contractor ranks ninth with $44,000 of assessed valuation. Tenth largest taxpayer in the town is FEPCO, Inc., a silk screen printing company, located in the industrial park along with Kingfisher and Burroughs, with $40,750. Bond Sale Board of Finance Secretary Kevin Cavanaugh has been appointed to represent First Securities.

An architect's rendering shows the three-level Aetna Life and Casualty Hartford Center, planned for Trumbull and Aylum Sts., and the planned 20-story Sheraton Hartford Hotel at far right. One of the largest redevelopment projects in New England, the civic center complex is a joint undertaking between Aetna and the City of Hartford. Target date for completion is sometime in 1974. Aetna's Hartford Center, an L-shaped complex featuring a climate-controlled pedestrian mall, will cost about $25 million. The all-weather mall will be flanked by a variety of retail stores, restaurants, and offices, and entrances to the mall will be at Aylum and Trumbull Sts. Aetna and ITT Sheraton Corporation of America will jointly build the 400-room hotel at the corners of Trumbull, Church, and S. Chapel Sts. The hotel will be connected to the mall by an enclosed bridge over Church St. The city's $20 million project, will include a 10,000-seat sports coliseum, a 12,000-square-foot assembly hall, and a 500-car garage. According to Aetna, its Hartford Center has been designed to ultimately become part of a "vast pedestrian corridor" linking the downtown retail district to a proposed multi-million dollar Transportation Center at Union Station. Under this plan, people will be able to walk the six blocks from Constitution Plaza to the Transportation Center without going outdoors. This massive remaking of Hartford's central business district will cost from $200 million to $300 million. Announcement of Aetna's Hartford Center plans came Monday after the city and Aetna reached the agreement-in-principle on the co-developers agreement. The plans are the only such public-private venture in the country, according to Aetna.

Spring Starts For Chileans

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — This is the first day of spring in Chile, and the flags are flying. They are flying because the country is holding its annual celebration of independence, but in addition they always mean spring has arrived.

Home, office, cars and buses are bedecked as Chileans shake off the gloom and rain of winter and prepare for summer.

The flag peddlers traditionally sell small flags for drivers from other countries so they can fly both the Chilean banner and the flag from his country of origin.

This year the peddlers have added the flags of Cuba and the Soviet Union to their stocks.

"The Russian flag is going quite well," reports one flag seller at a Santiago intersection.

There are fewer U.S. flags than before a reduction of growing friction.

"The problem with having a Cuban flag on your car," another peddler told a North American newswoman, "is that young boys may throw rocks. I suggest you buy a British flag. You'll have less problems."

A big military parade highlights the independence observance here for many Chileans. Drinking and dancing at public parties are the big attraction.

Liquor stores have been besieged with buyers of wine and pisco, a distilled grape product. Shaken with lemon juice and sugar, it makes the potent national drink, the pisco sour.

Spring for well-off Chileans means going to the beaches at Vina del Mar, which has a swimming casino or to Portofino, a jet set resort snuggled in a giant snowfield high in the Andes for late skiing.

Less-moneyed Santiago residents are taking the sun in the numerous parks and gardens, with their budding roses and carnations.

Spring can also be noted by the foods now in season. Delicate asparagus, buttery artichokes and fresh oysters are in markets and restaurants.

Spring begins here Sept. 21 as autumn starts in the United States. The reason is that seasons are opposite in the Northern and Southern Hemisphere.

Seeks More Facts
KODIAK, Alaska (AP) — Karl Armstrong, editor of the Kodiak Mirror, says the tiny community is being swept by rumors that its waterfront is rising after sinking nearly six feet during the great earthquake of 1964.

Armstrong says it's believed a portion of Kodiak Island has risen about two feet since the quake. He's asked persons who might have information on the possible rise to step forward with any facts they may have.

The industrial revolution on Israel's kibbutz is not about to push the interests aside, as is attested by goats passing door of factory at top left. Top right, girls work on a toy car assembly line, and bottom, men bottle soda.

Kibbutznicks Enjoy Industrial Revolution
The young people come back from the army and are looking for more interesting jobs than returning to the sheep and bananas," he said.

Since 1963, the output of these kibbutzim has increased by 223 million, of which $37 million worth of production was exported.

The kibbutzim account for four per cent of Israel's three million population. Their industrial output is about 4.5 per cent. Their industrial output is running about five per cent ahead of the national yearly average.

Industry now brings in 35 per cent of kibbutz incomes. A by-product created by this expanding rural industry is the seeming "Frankenstein effect" it has on many kibbutznicks. They fear the industry may dominate the life of the farm, set up a foundation of agricultural collectivism where all members are equal.

Major kibbutz decisions have always been taken by the general assembly of settlement members. They periodically elect a secretariat to manage the operational routine.

The traditionalists are apprehensive about the creation of a local aristocracy of bosses and executives who would be in a position to control finance and make independent key decisions.

Fewer Mine in France
PARIS — The number of people employed in French coal mines last year totaled 86,397, a decrease of 9.4 per cent from 1969. Output per man-day increased 4.9 per cent, to nearly 3 tons.

RANGE AND FUEL OIL GASOLINE
STANGER said industries provide an outlet for surplus manpower freed by modern agriculture. He said the profitable source of income, and a vehicle for perpetuating communal dynamism.

Another factor was cited by Edith Nemecoff, production manager of a factory at Kibbutz Kefar Hanan in the Galilee which produces a line of die-cast toy cars mostly for export.

Cook Islands Want Guests — But Not Yet

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The Cook Islands in the South Pacific want tourists—but don't go yet.

"Come to the Cook Islands and see all their beauties in two years' time," says the island's economy minister, A. P. Short.

If beaches elsewhere are white, he says, the Cook Islands are white. Their lagoons are filled with multicolored fish that you can either admire or eat.

"We'll take you to visit people living in their natural state as 100 years ago," Short said at a meeting of Commonwealth countries.

But the islands, about 5,500 miles off Northern Chile and 700 miles southeast of Tahiti, aren't ready for you yet.

For one thing the international airport which was due to open this year was not completed until 1971.

"If the people of the Cook Islands want to work, they work," Short said. "If not they sleep."

When you do get to the Cook Islands, you'll be greeted by Maori on both coasts by young girls. Short went on.

"Don't bring along your firearms," he advised—even the police don't carry them. Yet, he adds, the islands are so safe that any tourist can sleep under the palm trees without fear.

"You'll have someone to stay for you there, but our girls are not for sale."

The Cook Islands, self-governing but under the wing of New Zealand in defense and foreign affairs, have a population of about 28,000. Predominantly Polynesian.

The main island is Rarotonga. The islands' land area is only 80 square miles.

The islands were named for Capt. James Cook, British navigator, who went there in 1770.

RIOT-RESISTANT
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Three-fourths of North Carolina's cities and towns have used federal anti-riot funds to buy riot gear, but such purchases account for only a small portion of the state's funds under the Omnibus Crime and Safe Streets Act.

BILL Julian, administrator of the state's law and order division, said $100,000 had been spent for riot equipment this year from the $8.3 million authorized for all programs in North Carolina for 1970-1971 under the act.

Public TV Appoints Election Year Duo

THE WASHINGTON POST lead reporting, and too many people inundated with the "Review" and "30 minutes with Vanoucar and Robert MacNeil."

"I feel it was very good at what I did in TV news, but I didn't grow in it. Much of the time, I was sitting up there re-writing the wires."

MacNeil, at 40, is three years younger than Vanoucar. He just finished the NBC's "60 Minutes" and he, like Vanoucar, had trouble specifically enumerating the ways in which NPACT coverage will differ from the networks.

"We won't be an episodic and sporadic in our approach," he said. "We hope to stay free of some of the clichés and formulas that the networks have developed and stuck with over the years."

MacNeil said that the network would have very interesting ideas. We're very interested in the computer of election coverage and replace it with a more human touch.

"We may fall flat on our face," Vanoucar said at one point, "but at least people will know we are around."

Belfast: A City Held by Terror's Fist

By DONALD FORBES

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A middle class matron sits alone under a battery of rifles in a fashionable hair-dressing salon. In a wood-paneled restaurant, only two customers huddle at a table sipping coffee. Counter girls, chatting nervously in a small department store, remember shoplifters by 2 to 1.

This is central Belfast, where political and religious violence has turned the downtown area into a place to be shunned for fear of terrorist bomb attacks.

The Northern Ireland capital, reflecting hatred between the Protestant majority determined to remain under British rule and the Roman Catholic minority and for union with the Irish Republic to the south, is feeling the full brunt of its sectarian feud.

Daylight explosions in shops, government offices and taverns hold the city and its 400,000 population in the fist of terror.

While businessmen fret over tumbling profits, and movies and cabarets become empty seats because of stay-at-home customers, 3,000 British troops patrol the streets.

Traffic is light even in rush hours. Civilian autos trail at a safe distance behind army jeeps, each with a pair of rifles, men perched on the tailgate. The car drivers are fearful of snip-bomb and sniper attacks on the soldiers by extremists of the Irish Republican Army.

A woman from the middle class area of Pinaghy summed it up: "I used to enjoy coming into town to meet friends for a browse round the shops and have lunch. But since these bombings started, we're all too frightened."

"You never know where an explosion. If you do have to come in for something that cannot be bought in the suburbs, you go home as soon as possible."

Buses and cars quit the streets by 9 p.m. to avoid ambush. The handful of overnight taxi drivers complain they are searched up to 20 times between midnight and dawn by army patrols.

Protestants outnumber Catholics by 2 to 1 but the initiative lately has been with members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army who find sanctuary in the capital's Roman Catholic enclaves.

The IRA is out nightly, shooting at British soldiers or blowing up economic targets in a bid to undermine the Protestant-based government.

New impetus to the sectarian feud has been given by the injection of internment without trial of terrorist suspects.

The subsequent riots have helped redraw the tribal lines of Belfast. Around 8,000 families are believed to have fled from mixed Protestant and Roman Catholic areas to new homes inside the frontiers of the now rigidly defined religious encampments.

The Protestant Shankill Road is a gray, ugly thoroughfare marred by slum homes, dingy shops with boarded windows and gloomy taverns. The brightest spot is a garish yellow placard on a church wall saying: "Jesus Christ has been helping folks like you for 2,000 years."

In a bar, an unemployed mill hand confides: "I've got nothing against the ordinary Pags (Catholics), the ones that behave themselves. I've got Catholic friends as decent as you or me and they've visited me in my home before all this trouble started."

He added: "If they came across here now and the IRA found out, they would get burned out of their homes."

... Catholics discouraged

Catholics are discouraged in the more fiercely partisan Protestant areas.

A teen-age youth who left school three years ago but has never worked said: "If we see a stranger who might be a Tag, we ask him if he is. If he says he's a Protestant, we ask him for the secret Masonic handshake. A man who does not know how to give it is told to get out of the area and fast."

He said Catholics ask anyone suspicious in their areas to recite a Catholic prayer in Gaelic.

"If I got caught like that," he grinned, "I would say I was Jewish."

The best thing a moderate Falls Catholic can say for the British troops is that "they are doing their job." The majority cannot abide the army at any price.

A woman scrubbing her doorstep said: "The army's on the side of the Pags and that's all that there is about it. They are in here causing trouble, arresting our men and smashing our furniture."

"All the people they lifted (arrested) in the internment camps were Catholics. What about the Protestants? Could they not have taken Paisley and Craig?"

The Rev. Ian Paisley and William Craig are both leading right-wing Protestant legislators in the Northern Ireland Parliament who claim the government is not tough enough in fighting the IRA.

The Catholics are adamant that the internment of terrorist suspects ordered last month by Premier Brian Faulkner's government was aimed only at their minority community. No Protestants were detained. Life is unpleasant in the riot areas. The housewife observed: "Sure it's difficult to get to sleep at night when they're all out there throwing stones and setting off bombs go off. And it's bad for the kiddies. They're out till all hours copying the grownups. The Shankill houses dozens of them. They're too tired to do their homework. It's a hard job to be drafted into Northern Ireland to separate warring Catholics and Protestants."

Elsewhere in the Lower Falls, a laborer who has been unemployed for four years said: "If we didn't have the IRA here, the Protestants would be in trying to burn us out in the time it takes to reach the Falls from the Shankill."

The IRA is doing what it thinks is right for us and for Ireland. We've had enough of this government. They talk about reform but that is all it is—talk. The Protestants will always have the best of everything. Jobs and homes, while people like Faulkner and the rest are in power."

Like some others, he regretted that innocent people died in terrorist attacks "but you can't avoid it, can you, in a situation like this?"

A group of youths standing at a street corner on Falls Road claimed that 99 per cent of the Falls inhabitants are republicans.

Their spokesman denied the IRA holds sway in the Catholic area across Belfast through intimidation. "Most of us support the IRA and what they are fighting for," he said.

"I was never a man to hate. I was brought up with hatred in me. But the day the rioters made their assault — the day these inmates came knocking down the gates toward me, yelling, 'Kill the pigs' — well, that's another matter. I wanted to explode. Something I'd never felt before for any other man, but feeling for all those men. That's one of the reasons I never got behind those walls again."

By JIM STIMBLEY, The Los Angeles Times. ATTICA, N.Y. — The young man sat in a standardly blank motel room with his elbows on his knees, his hands wringing his black, Italian eyes.

For the rest of his life, each night when he goes to bed, he will be haunted with the memory of a nightmare. Rod Serling might find it difficult to conjure. Each night he may find himself in E block at Attica State Correctional Facility, with sirens shrieking, with voices shouting, "Kill the goddamned, they're rioting!"

He twists around. Now they're coming from the other side, too. He and his men are surrounded — and weapons. His ears ring from guttural screams — "Kill the pigs!"

Quick now, to his left — beyond a door — a brother officer is taken. They beat him down, then drug him away.

He's trembling now. There's only one door left between him and death, and it's ajar. He hears the door behind him, between him and life.

"Let go! Let's go!" he yells. "They're coming in!" He rushes to the escape door, the one that will take him and three other guards into the garden area, behind E block, where there is a guard tower, and guns and protection.

But the door is locked two ways. A regular lock and a padlock. He fumbles in his pockets. His hands are really shaking now. Behind him the shouts of the rioters ring closer and closer.

"Thank God!" A key fits. Now for the padlock. He tries first one key, then the next, and the next and the next and the next. By now the inmates have broken through the first door and are running the last 50 feet toward him.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Fat Bus

Harvey never knew what hit him until they told him about it afterward in the hospital.

Under these circumstances, was Harvey entitled to collect damages from the bus company?

In the eyes of the law, a sidewalk is a safety zone in which the pedestrian reigns supreme.

Would it matter if the pedestrian had actually seen the bus coming toward him?

One woman was struck by a bus while she was standing on the sidewalk between a fire hydrant and an electric light pole.

Applying common sense, the court concluded that the woman herself must have been at fault.

Prison In Japan To Be Razed

TOKYO (AP) — Sugamo Prison, where Japan's wartime leaders were held and executed, has been condemned to the wreckers.

The only reminders of the past are five concrete mounds where five soldiers once stood.

The Japan Urban Development Co., which purchased the prison property from the government for $17.7 million, plans to enlarge the garden's area.

In all, U.S. occupation authorities executed 40 of Sugamo's 4,500 inmates.

Today those ashes are preserved in urns atop Mt. Benigayama and the site is a memorial reading.

But Susuki, like many Japanese, believes Sugamo has outlived its usefulness and its presence only blocked economic development of a congested district of Tokyo.

Sugamo served as a jail until the summer when the last inmates, a handful of leftist students, were transferred.

Gov. Thomas Meskill has announced the reappointment of Mother M. Bernadette de Lourdes de Trumbull as chairman of the State Advisory Council on Aging; the appointment of James E. Collett Sr. of Hamden to be chairman of the Connecticut Development Commission; and the appointment of Robert D. Bunkoff of Stamford to a vacancy on the State Council of Corrections.

Gov. Meskill said that Mother Bernadette will serve also as commissioner of the Department of the Aging, a position which has been unfilled since the department was created in 1968.

The governor praised the new commissioner for her volunteer service to state causes. He said she will serve without compensation. Mother Bernadette is vicar general for the Carmelite Sisters for the Aging and infirm.

Collett, 41, was named by Gov. Meskill in July to a five-year term on the development commission. He is area development consultant for the United Illuminating Co. in New Haven. As chairman, he succeeds Harlan H. Griswold of Woodbury, who continues as a member and vice chairman.

U.S. Tastes Victory, Defeat in China Bid

By WILLIAM N. OATIS Associated Press Writer UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States has had 18 co-sponsors for a resolution to prevent the expansion of Nationalist China from the United Nations. The victory came in getting the assembly to vote on the resolution before the American General Assembly agenda, and indicated, he said, that the U.S. proposal and a rival Albanian-sponsored resolution to seat the Communists and oust the Nationalists be placed on the agenda, but separate items. The Albanian resolution had 18 co-sponsors. The U.S. two-China proposal was recommended 11 to 9 with 4 abstentions. Taiwan's Foreign Ministry issued a statement after the vote recommending that the U.S. resolution be given priority. (See Page Ten)

Today's Breed of Prisoner Younger, More Aggressive

Editor's note: The following article, second of a series, examines the rise of the cell block militant, a politically motivated rebel who no longer can be stemmed by a few days in solitary. By MARK BROWN WASHINGTON (AP)—Politically aware and increasingly militant, a new breed of prisoner is challenging the right of prison authorities to subvert grievances among all convicts. It is a new factor, a growing conviction case of defiance. Many prisoners are turning to violence to gain redress of grievances, real and imagined. "There are still some blacks here who consider themselves criminals—but not many," wrote the late President Lyndon B. Johnson in his book "Soldier Brother." "Believe me, my friend, the more embittered, desperate or dedicated to the ultimate remedy—revolution. He is younger, more intelligent and more aggressive than the old breed." Johnson, shot to death in the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., had spent 10 of his 28 years in prison for Suburban squalor in cells a 170 robbery. (See Page Twenty)

Inside North Viet Fuel Depots Hit in U.S. Raids

SAIGON (AP)—The mass supplies southward, official policy in that three previous major strikes since May 1, 1970, were similar. The official reason given for the previous strike was that they were primarily against anti-aircraft defenses, although the bombers attacked scores of other targets including supply depots and trucks. "Look at the past protective reactions of this size," said one source. "You see the sort of targets undertaken and the magnitude that both the U.S. proposal and a rival Albanian-sponsored resolution to seat the Communists and oust the Nationalists be placed on the agenda, but separate items. The Albanian resolution had 18 co-sponsors. The U.S. two-China proposal was recommended 11 to 9 with 4 abstentions. By KATHRYN JOHNSON FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP)—Capt. Ernest L. Medina, acquitted of My Lai massacre charges, says he has no bitterness toward the Army but still plans to leave it. The 35-year-old career officer who commanded a U.S. company which swept through My Lai on March 16, 1968, was acquitted Wednesday of murder, involuntary manslaughter and assault after a court-martial jury of five Vietnam veterans deliberated an hour. He acquitted left Lt. William L. Calley Jr., one of Medina's platoon leaders, the only American soldier convicted of atrocities at My Lai. Medina, his face pale, snapped a smart salute to Col. William D. Proctor, the jury president. "It is my duty as president of this court to advise you that the court in closed session and upon secret ballot has found you not guilty of all specifications and charges," Proctor said. Medina, who had sat on the front row each day since the trial began Aug. 15. "I am extremely happy," Medina said later, his usually expressionless face broken by a complete faith in the military and the military justice system. "I always felt I'd be found innocent."
