Scene at the Capital

By Sol R. Cohen

In the opinion of many political observers, Manchester, as a result of last week's redistricting order, stands as a classic example of a community destroyed politically... a community with an identity become a nonentity.

About Town

The board of Christian Concern of Center Congregational Church will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Robbins Room of the church.

The Emanuel Lutheran Church council will meet tonight at 7:30 in the church reception room.

The Second Congregational Church council will meet tonight at 7:30 in the church.

The Confirmation Class of Second Congregational Church will meet tomorrow at 4 p.m. at the church.

The first of four seminars for parents of students planning post-high school education, sponsored by the Adult Evening School and presented by the Manchester High School guidance department, will be held in the high school cafeteria tomorrow at 7 p.m.

Town Will Fill Two Vacancies Within Month

A new assessor and a new highway and sanitation superintendent for the town will probably be hired by Nov. 1, according to Robert Weiss, town manager.

The new men will replace Joseph Murphy, town assessor for 15 years, and Herman Pascantelli, highway and sanitation superintendent. Both men remain in their posts until replacements are found.

Murphy will be deputy assessor after the new man is hired. Pascantelli will go to the engineering department to work as a construction inspector.

The State Personnel Department will administer an examination Oct. 14 to the 12 candidates who have applied for assessor. A similar exam for highway and sanitation superintendent will be administered by the town Oct. 18 to the 12 candidates for that post.

After the results of the exam are in, the top qualifiers will be interviewed by Weiss before a decision is made.

Comment Session

The Board of Directors will conduct a public session tomorrow from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. in the Board of Directors' Office in the Municipal Building to hear comments and suggestions from the public.

The Youth Rhythmic Choir of Center Congregational Church will rehearse tonight at 6:45 in the church martinet.

The building council of Community Baptist Church will meet tonight at 7:30 in Fellowship Hall of the church.

The Women's Rhythmic Choir of Center Congregational Church will rehearse tomorrow at 1 p.m. in Woodruff Hall of the church.

Richard Sweeney of Miss Associates in East Hartford will speak on self-motivation at a meeting of the Manchester Rotary Club tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. at the Manchester Country Club.

Registration Begins For Classes at Lutz

Junior memberships in the Lutz Junior Museum are being accepted this week, and registration for fall museum classes will be held Oct. 12-16.

Junior membership entitles a child to the monthly news bulletin, free admission to three museum-sponsored live programs, and eligibility to register for classes held during four seasons.

Class registrations will be taken by adult museum members Oct. 12-14 from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. After Oct. 14, registration may be made by calling the museum from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. One person may register children from only one family. Registrations for reservations will be held until Oct. 16. If the fee is not received by that date, the reservation will be automatically canceled.

The following are the registrars, addresses, and the classes for which they will take registrations:

Mrs. Leonard Johnson, 40 Joseph St., Nature Discovery and Nature Crafts; Mrs. Irving Carlson, 40 Olcott St., I Wonder Touch and See, and Stories from Everywhere; Mrs. Mary Ann Meredy, 27 Teresa Rd., Experiences in Art (Wednesday and Saturday); Mrs. Leroy Olsen, 112 Arnold Rd., Stitches and Rocks and Minerals; Mrs. Ray Wood, 112 Arnold Rd., Stitches and Rocks and Minerals; Mrs. Ray Wood, 112 Arnold Rd., Experiences in Art (Thursday) and Advanced Art (Thursday); Mrs. Frederick Edwards, 428 Porter St., Nature Experience and Stamp Club.

South Windsor Bailey Hits New Shifts In Districts

Approximately 70 town residents heard John Bailey, State Democrat, Chairman of the Campaign Committee, in a recent reappointment of the districts and indicate that the reappointment board can expect a legal fight if a study being conducted upholds the constitution as proposed.

At the Monday Democratic luncheon at the "Pondnik Mill," Bailey said he was reappointed to the 1st district, which includes the town of South Windsor. He also mentioned that he was not happy with the current "constitution," and he said, "I am not happy with the current constitution, and I am not happy with the current constitution."

President Thieu's Success

Granted that President Thieu, in running off his own reelection, may have employed various pressure tactics to get out a vote, and granted that it was his own organization which counted the ballots, the size of the plus vote remains impressive.

And it seems to want to tell us something about politics in South Vietnam - or in Asia for that matter, or in much of this world wide.

The people of South Vietnam obviously did not feel very severely oppressed or deprived by the kind of election which was offered them, or they would have found some means of rebellion against it.

They had little political hunger for anything different. One can suspect that if they had found themselves being offered more candidates, they would have had as much difficulty as any of us might have trying to decide what, if anything, was the difference between them. And in truth, the would-be challengers to President Thieu did not seem really interested in democratic procedures and principles except as they might offer them some temporary opening for the grasping of the power held by President Thieu.

What could be said to be the results of the election, now that it has been held?

First, there is no longer any need for us in this country to keep agitating over the theory that we went into South Vietnam to defend and establish democracy, when that theory was merely the cloak thrown over our basic instinct to get ourselves and our military fire power converted onto the Asian mainland.

Second, we might as well admit that President Thieu, by his success in staging his own reelection, has given his regime increased strength and stability.

Neither the North Vietnamese, who hoped it might bring to order, nor we ourselves, who would like a regime in Saigon pliable to our own imaginable policy necessities as we now try to arrange our own departure with honor, can count on President Thieu to oblige us. By means we can't approve in principle, President Thieu has given his country something like its own feet to stand upon, which is something we have always told ourselves we wanted.

Poff Chooses Peace

Congressman Richard H. Poff, who might have been a very fine member of the Supreme Court, and who once acknowledged an ambition to serve on it, has withdrawn his name from consideration.

It has been done so with a dignified statement in which he set forth his reluctance to cause any delay in the filling of the court vacancies to involve the nation in any prolonged controversy over the issue of his appointment, and to expose his own family to the agonies of a public battle over his confirmation.

Whether his real motive, Congressman Poff is being set up for the nation's eyes to see as he is set forth in his statement, which he set forth in his statement, which he set forth in his statement.

It will be necessary, of course, to organize the receiving instruments on the north. At first, these may well be community or regional. Later, the signals can go straight into the home through receiving systems and devices that are bound to become increasingly inexpensive and efficient. There is plenty of room in the sky to "park" all the communications satellites that may be needed in the visible future. There are enough frequencies in the spectrum to avoid interference.

The nations are proceeding through intercontinental conferences to work out all the conditions of international satellite communication. The tools of potential unity will be working themselves all out. Mr. Clark and others believe they will inevitably be used. To some degree, the additional circumstances which add to the world's peace will be produced, remain an enigma. - ERWIN D. CAMERON IN THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

It will be necessary, of course, to organize the receiving instruments on the north. At first, these may well be community or regional. Later, the signals can go straight into the home through receiving systems and devices that are bound to become increasingly inexpensive and efficient. There is plenty of room in the sky to "park" all the communications satellites that may be needed in the visible future. There are enough frequencies in the spectrum to avoid interference.

The nations are proceeding through intercontinental conferences to work out all the conditions of international satellite communication. The tools of potential unity will be working themselves all out. Mr. Clark and others believe they will inevitably be used. To some degree, the additional circumstances which add to the world's peace will be produced, remain an enigma. - ERWIN D. CAMERON IN THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

Scientists Worried Over Cross-Infection

By C. G. MCDANIEL
The operation was a success but the patient died. And what he died of might have been something he picked up in the hospital.
Even if he survived, his hospital stay may have been lengthened by the infection he acquired in the hospital.
The problem of hospital infection, as it is called, is major, if not critical, in the view of medical authorities.
Dorothy Golden, R.N., supervisor of the central sterile supply department for Ohio State University Hospitals, Columbus, bus, terms it "the greatest universal problem in all hospitals."
The awful thing is that there is no such record, says Bertha Yanis Litaky of Amherst, Mass., a consulting environmental bacteriologist who has written a book on the problem.
"I've never seen a hospital chart saying this patient died because we did something wrong," Mrs. Litaky added in an interview.
Dr. James G. Shaffer, a microbiologist and associate dean of Chicago Medical School, says that the cross-infections "are the cost of hospitalization."
A federal government publication says "Diagnosis and therapy of these infections probably add at least one-third of a billion dollars annually to the cost of hospitalization."
Despite a last-minute stepup in opposition by labor union officials, the House acted without even demanding a roll call. About 50 members were on the floor.
Although the Ways and Means Committee reshuffled the Nixon tax program, reducing the heart of Mytic Shipyard early today, destroying most of the shop buildings and four buildings stored in the main yard.
Mystic Fire Chief Alfred Brooks said the fire was covered and reported about 6 a.m. by the steward aboard a 72-foot sailing yacht that was pulled up on shore, along side the 200-foot main storage building.
He said the fire apparently broke out in a boiler shed, and Fire Marshal Joseph Hermann speculated that it may have been electrical in origin.
Robert Heiler of Mason's Island and James L. Christy of Noank had purchased the shipyard only last July. They said their loss was "very partially covered by insurance but that they would attempt to erect a new storage building soon and carry on with their business.
No dollar estimate of damage was available today.

Challenge To Pope Hinted

By PATRICK O'KEEFE

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The population explosion and the Roman Catholic Church's attitude toward birth control are expected to be discussed at the World Bishops Synod, a Vatican source reports. The debate could provoke a challenge to the Pope's ban on contraception.
The source said that although "only seven words" on population problems appear in the working paper for the synod theme, social justice, there are six appendices to the document in which population gets a fair amount of attention.
The synod, now debating the first topic, the priesthood, probably should get to the social justice theme about Oct. 15, the source said.
Discussion of birth control by the 200 synod delegates, including 142 bishops from six continents, could provoke a challenge to the ban on artificial birth control decreed by Pope Paul VI in the encyclical "Humanae Vitae" in 1968.
Prior to the issuance of "Humanae Vitae," a secret papal advisory committee, including doctors, psychologists and laymen, advocated a change in the traditional church ban on contraception.
Subsequently, a number of national conferences of Catholic bishops published interpretations and commentaries on the encyclical. Some of these indicated that the decision on whether to use contraceptives was a matter for the individual's conscience.
The Rev. Arthur McCormack of England, a population expert and economist working for the Vatican Commission on Justice and Peace, is the moving force behind getting birth control on the synod agenda.
In a recent paper for the synod, Gaetano "Guy" Russo of Wadon urged that the bishops admit the gravity of the population problem; encourage the "ideal of smaller families"; and finance research to make the Church-approved "rhythm" method more effective.
Father McCormack said the synod should "insist that where family planning programs are judged to be necessary and are even already in operation, any

Taft-Hartley Looms, Workers Returning

NEW YORK (AP) — Shipping sources reported today that longshoremen were flocking back to work along the Gulf and South Atlantic coasts in the face of a Taft-Hartley injunction which many believed imminent.
A strike by the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association appeared to be faltering in its sixth day.
Longshoremen in Houston and Galveston, Tex., had ignored the strike order from I.L.A. President Thomas W. Gleason since the start, and full dock operations were reported in Port Arthur, Brownsville, Corpus Christi and Orange, Tex., as well as in Lake Charles, La., and Panama City, Fla.
Shippers here said longshoremen were working passenger ships in Miami and Port Everglades, Fla., and permitting consignees to pick up ship cargo in Mobile, Ala., and Tampa, Fla.
New Orleans was regarded as the key to a complete resumption of work and all shippers' eyes were focused there.
I.L.A. leaders were converging on New York for a full-scale meeting scheduled for Thursday morning.
In Washington, a four-man inquiry board was at work trying to help President Nixon decide whether to take official steps to stop the strike on the West Coast.
The board, appointed Monday night by the President's executive order, was formally constituted Tuesday, explaining why he decided to replace the number two man in the Connecticut National Guard.
Meakill tapped U.S. Marshal Gaetano "Guy" Russo of Wadon to succeed Assistant Atty. Gen. Albert E. "Bud" Cotter, a Democrat.

Tax Cuts Approved In House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House today passed by voice a controversial package of business and individual tax cuts, $12.4 billion over three years, keyed to President Nixon's New Economic program.
The package includes a 10 percent cut in the top marginal rate on corporate income, a 30 percent cut in the top marginal rate on individual income, and a 10 percent cut in the top marginal rate on capital gains.
The package also includes a 10 percent cut in the top marginal rate on estate tax, a 10 percent cut in the top marginal rate on gift tax, and a 10 percent cut in the top marginal rate on inheritance tax.
The package also includes a 10 percent cut in the top marginal rate on property tax, a 10 percent cut in the top marginal rate on sales tax, and a 10 percent cut in the top marginal rate on excise tax.

WEST MYSTIC, Conn. (AP) — An early morning blaze gutted the heart of Mystic Shipyard early today, destroying most of the shop buildings and four buildings stored in the main yard.

Eskimos Sue in Oil Land Sale

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alaska state government's selection of valid and in violation of Section 6 of the Alaska Statehood Act for the land leased or sold was not "vacant, unappropriated, or reserved" as required by that section.
The Interior secretary's approval of the selection violated the constitutional requirement of due process of law, the Eskimo charged.
"Finally," their suit said, "all leases, sales, conditional leases and conditional sales made under the authority of the suit charges that the

Bebe Handled with Care

(C) NEWSDAY
Charles G. (Bebe) Rebozo, President Nixon's closest friend and the only private citizen living in the Florida White House Compound on Key Biscayne, received "kid gloves" treatment when the U.S. government bought land from him for the Biscayne National Monument in 1969.
Rebozo and his associates quickly received close-to-appraisal prices on an island plot while other land-owners were being offered lower prices on a take-it-or-leave-it basis.
Rebozo, through an attorney, then demanded — and received — a higher-than-appraisal price on a second piece of property.
The principal property in question, Adams Key, was the home of the Coccoloba Cay Club, a fishing resort which over the years had accommodated such visitors as Presidents Harding and Hoover and presidents-to-be Johnson and Nixon. The latter two were there as guests of Rebozo and his close associate, former Sen. George A. Smathers.
"I should be treated with kid gloves" —
The government bought Adams Key from the Rebozo group for $200,000. Subsequently, Rebozo's brother-in-law was put on the federal payroll as a caretaker-waichman on the island, the same job he had held for Rebozo and his associates in a private capacity.
And one of Rebozo's partners, his lawyer, Thomas Wakefield, rented the caretaker's cottage at the club back from the U.S. State for $300 a year — for personal use until such time as the monument opened for public use.
The Army Corps of Engineers' sale, A. E. N. Westcott, said he was given to understand at a business meeting with Rebozo that Rebozo should be "treated with kid gloves" because high-ranking persons in his department felt that "we were supposed to be dealing with someone who was an intimate of people in high places."
Another official said that speedy handling of Rebozo's claims had been urged because "we didn't want to embarrass an incoming president."
And one of Rebozo's partners, his lawyer, Thomas Wakefield, rented the caretaker's cottage at the club back from the U.S. State for $300 a year — coupled management of finance investments with other Smathers' associates.
"I don't think he ever operated alone," one man who had accumulated a net worth estimated at more than 1 million dollars today.
It was Smathers who introduced Rebozo to Richard Nixon.
Rebozo, the son of immigrant Cuban, attended Miami High School with Smathers and John F. Kennedy.
Adams Key was one of the Rebozo investments; land in the area, called Florida Fruit Lands was another. Examination after World War II.
