Nuclear power: What are the facts? AN OPEN DOOR DISCUSSION: What are the facts? Still further, seldom, if ever before, has a scientific achievement been more critically tested for the protection of man and his environment.

What Are The Facts? We would like to talk about an emotional subject in an unemotional way. Frankly, we have a big commitment in nuclear power because we see it as today's cleanest, most economical method of getting the electric power you are going to need in the future.

Group Seeks Site For Girl Addicts

By GENE DUBREAU (Herald Reporter)

There are only 11 official live-in drug therapy programs in Connecticut for those young addicts who come to the attention of authorities, and not one caters to girls under 18, according to a group that hopes to change that fact.

Compared with the Massachusetts official listing of over 115 drug programs, Connecticut offers only a passing concern for one of its major problems, heroin.

The group envisions its first home, as a rural setting for about 20 girls from the Hartford area, who can be referred through hospitals, courts, schools, social services and churches.

An extensive medical and psychological examination would be required of the entrants to the program, which would run from months to years, depending on individual needs.

Rehabilitation for girls, as in most good drug programs, would be centered on the simple idea of "The Junkie Priest," Father Daniel Egan, whose Hartford, N.Y. program has proved immensely successful, has offered his advice to Mrs. Donovan in her year-long efforts.

She and three other nurses, Mrs. Ann McGuiness and Mrs. Vivian Fox, both of West Hartford, and Mrs. Lorraine Oshoff, of Westfield, obviously appalled by the endless parade of the drug-afflicted through St. Francis Hospital, began their campaign a year ago with a petition, signed by hundreds of doctors and nurses, all offering help and asking for aid from Gov. Thomas Meskill, to fill a void in Connecticut's drug treatment.

The lack of a response from Meskill began a year of bureaucratic frustrations, as plans for a residential home for female drug addicts were repeatedly shot down. Several times, the group seemed to have the money to go along with the program, but it was always watching a bill which provided $50,000 pass in both houses of the legislature. But Meskill vetoed that bill, in a replay of many disappointments.

Personal is the only one of the three magic ingredients that New Hope Manor can count on for its planned program. Among the volunteers who are waiting for a place to offer their services are a psychiatrist, a psychologist, five doctors, three teachers, an attorney, a youth counselor, two social workers, and five nurses. Prepared to act as director of the drug center is Joseph Drumm of Hartford, a clergyman who will train for six to eight weeks with Father Egan.

Young female addicts especially encounter difficulties in a residential setting, according to Mrs. Uccello. She said a tailor-made program is desperately needed for these girls.

English Teacher Sees Age Gap A Language Gap

Gilbert Hunt, chairman of the English Department at Manchester High School, told Manchester Rotarians Tuesday evening that about all the general language gap consists of is a difference in the language of the two groups.

Speaking on the topic, "You Can't Talk to Your Kids," Hunt urged Rotarians to learn the language of young people so as to communicate with them.

"It's a language problem, not a moral problem, don't attempt to solve their moral, adult problems," he said.

The younger dialect consists of words and phrases that are not understood by older people, he said.

He pointed out that language is not static, it changes constantly, and as reference cited in the many changes in the dictionary over the years.

This will all happen if the other two ingredients—money and a home—become available, he said.

According to Mrs. Uccello, a nationally known organization has expressed interest in providing a home in the Hartford area. If all goes well, the center might be open by March.

He said, however, that the program's success depends on the support of the community, and the New Hope Manor people are appealing for funds and services from private and organizational sources.

If the first New Hope Manor is successful, more may open throughout the state, to help for a place to offer their services are a psychiatrist, a psychologist, five doctors, three teachers,

Royal Will Close Its Hartford Plant

HARTFORD (AP) — A union spokesman said Monday that arrangements had been made for transfer of any production all its typewriter production overseas—a step expected to affect 1,500 workers.

"Tragic" was the reaction of one union official.

Royal announced in September that it was considering moving all production to its facility in Hull, England.

Royal said it will maintain marketing and administrative offices in Hartford.

Deputy Commissioner Robert Daley, who called the holding "an absolutely brilliant robbery," said unofficial estimates of between $2 million and $4 million have been to no avail.

Lindholz said the union has tried every avenue and every course available to it. However, these are decisions corporations make. When they make them they are irrevocable.

It added that no decision had been made on when the transfer would be completed.

Clue Is Found In Hotel Robbery

NEW YORK (AP) — Discovery of a single clear fingerprint and the recovery of 27,000 in stolen securities have given detectives their first important lead in the investigation of the multimillion dollar Hotel Pierre robbery.

"We're encouraged," said Deputy Chief Inspector Charles T. J. Meyer, after investigators turned up the fingerprint in an undisclosed location that police said made it seem likely it had been left by one of the bandits.

The recovered securities were taken during the Christmas Eve heist of the Drake Hotel, which police say bore a marked resemblance to the Sunday heist by a four-man insurance gang at the fashionable

Police said the $7,000 worth of negotiable stocks and bonds and miscellaneous papers, including a bill had apparently been discarded by the gang. They did not say where they recovered the securities.

"Police continued a person-by-person survey of the Pierre victims in an effort to fix the size of the haul. Only about a third of the 47 residents whose safe deposit boxes were pried open had been contacted as of Tuesday.

"We don't know if people lost $15 or $10 million," said John H. Sherry, a lawyer for the hotel.

Judge Denies Injunction In Higher-Tuition Case

HARTFORD (AP) — A deplorable originally from federal judge has denied two University of Connecticut students a preliminary injunction that would have allowed them to register for classes without paying the higher tuition for out-of-state residents.

Chief U.S. District Court Judge M. Joseph Blumenthal ruled Tuesday that the two women were safe from irreparable harm because the university has decided to give them financial aid.

Nonetheless, the constitutionality of the higher tuition charge for out-of-state residents remains a question.

Judge Blumenthal is to sit with two other federal judges Friday to determine that aspect of the case.

Those receiving the financial aid are Patricia Catapano, 22, a graduate student from Ohio, and Margaret Kline, 22, an undergraduate.

If further explanation is desired, parents are asked to contact the guidance counselors, Mrs. Alice Hammar at Illing and Miss Betty Nicholson at Boston.

Miss Catherine Shea of 25 Street St. will be special speaker at the January meeting of the Cosmopolitan Club. It will be held Friday at 2 p.m. at the Center Congregational Church.

Junior Highs To Distribute Test Results

Bennet and Illing Junior High School guidance departments have received results of the Iowa Tests of Basic Skills, given to Grade 7 pupils in September.

Results will be distributed to pupils in group guidance sessions this week, and a report will be sent home with the pupil.

Summary reports of test results are also being distributed to the staffs of the schools for evaluation of curriculum and individual pupil needs.

If further explanation is desired, parents are asked to contact the guidance counselors, Mrs. Alice Hammar at Illing and Miss Betty Nicholson at Boston.

Miss Catherine Shea of 25 Street St. will be special speaker at the January meeting of the Cosmopolitan Club. It will be held Friday at 2 p.m. at the Center Congregational Church.

Miss Shea will show slides of early Manchester and relate historical and other anecdotes of the town in other periods. Many of the slides were made from old photos and post cards by the Manchester high school audiovisual department.

The guest speaker is illing, Mrs. Lynn Walsh, 54 Walnut St. Mrs. Jack Toney and son, 173 Spruce St. Mrs. James E. Ravetto and daughter, Stafford Springs.

Andover Bargaining Date Set for Teachers

The Board of Education last night set next month's regular meeting as the time for the first negotiating meeting with teachers representatives.

The board was informed by school principal Donald Libby that the teachers would be meeting soon to select their negotiating representatives and it was decided to begin this year's contract negotiations Feb. 1, following the regular business portion of the meeting.

Also to be taken up at next month's meeting will be the election of hiring for the following year. Libby at the present time is conducting an evaluation of the teachers, which will be submitted to the board with the recommendations of the principal and the superintendent. The board will decide whether to re-hire, and whether to grant tenure to those teachers who are eligible.

Maturity Policy Discussed

The board received and accepted a letter of resignation from Mrs. Joe Bartram, kindergarten teacher, who indicated her husband has accepted a post in New Jersey, and was leaving with respect to maternity.

The board also learned that there are two other teachers who are planning to resign due to maternity.

The pending resignations raised some questions about whether the board should consider changing its policy on maternity leave, and whether this should be made a negotiable item. Board member Marvin Graboff said "Policy is usually not made up by employees and I think it's a poor idea to have employees help make up matters of policy."

Agreeing with Graboff's statement that "Policy is set by the board," board member Rodney Mooney said "We are dealing here with the welfare of a few teachers."

The dispute was generated when the board was informed that other school systems do not grant maternity leave to a teacher in their contracts. Board Clerk Mrs. Susan Baker told the board that the Regional School Board this year made the maternity leave clause a negotiable item, regarding the individual facet of sick leave. Libby also told the board that high-seniority maternity leave is being looked at closely by members of the profession with a view to social discrimination.

Andover's present policy regarding maternity leave is that no leave of absence is granted when a teacher becomes pregnant, she resigns and has no assurance of being able to return to the school system.

Insurance For School Grounds

Chairman of the Board Mrs. Beatrice Kowalski told the members about meeting recently with the Board of Selectmen and the town's Recreation Commission to discuss the possibility of opening up the school grounds for community use.

Mrs. Kowalski said that a meeting has been set up with the town's insurance commissioner, Thomas Birdsell, and the town's insurance agent, Malcolm Lambert, the Recreation Commission, the Board of Selectmen and the school board. At that time, she said, everyone will be able to query the two representatives about the insurance problem and assess the situation more accurately.

Under the present set-up, the school does not pay for insurance. The town lumps all its insurance coverage together, and it is all paid for by the town under a separate item in the budget for insurance.

Although board members in general agreed that it would be a good idea to have the school grounds open (reversing a decision they made just one month ago not to allow open use of the school grounds), the question of possible vandalism came up. Mooney said that perhaps the answer would be to "take any money for vandalism out of the Recreation Budget." Mrs. Baker told the board that vandalism costs have been so negligible over the years, the town self-insures for that item.

Lunch Program in Black

The long-suffering lunch program seems finally to be operating in the black recently, especially since the addition of ice-cream sales to the lunch program.

Libby pointed out that the lunch program is holding its own and things look as if they will work out all right. He told the board that chief cook, Mrs. Jean Birdsell, has been designated as head cook and has assumed most of the duties attendant to that position. She is handling the lunch money proceeds, doing the ordering, and will shortly be in full charge of the lunch program including the lunch payroll.

It was noted that the lunch program at the Andover school is run by a completely separate corporation which is a separate entity from the school itself. This raised a number of questions about liabilities, if someone should get hurt in the kitchen, what about unemployment taxes for the kitchen help, etc. Mooney suggested that "Maybe we should be assessing the bot-

Money Advisers Sought in State

HARTFORD (AP) — A legislative subcommittee announced plans Tuesday to introduce a bill in the next session to create a three-member council of economic advisers to the governor.

The council would report annually to the governor on its findings concerning the state's economic situation.

Under the bill, the governor would be required to report to the General Assembly each year on the state's economic situation, according to State Rep. Andrew Beck, a member of the state and urban development subcommittee.

Two representatives of North-east Utilities Service Co. testified Tuesday before the subcommittee gave their support to the bill. They said a forecast of economic growth is important to their company, as is the state's ability to help to balance the budget. Beck said that the bill would help to protect the environment. The spokesman also noted that utilities are not pursuing an active policy of energy conservation, and that the company would like to see a fine-tuning of energy conservation laws.

Libby did not indicate whether he would accept the position.

Non-Resident Refuses To Quit Town Posts

The out-of-town chairman of Andover's Zoning Board of Appeals responds to the first selection request for a re-election with an emphatic No!

Marvin Graboff, a former Andover resident who now lives in Hartford, in a letter responding to First Selectman Robert E. Post's request that he resign as chairman of the Zoning Board of Appeals, not only refused to submit that resignation but said that he had no intention of resigning his post on the board.

Post said he had asked for the resignation of Graboff because he felt "it was best for the interests of the town."

Post said that Graboff has not lived in Andover since June of 1971 and that he has had numerous complaints from persons who try to reach Graboff in an effort to reach the zoning board. Post also said that he understood how an out-of-town resident can serve in two election positions which deal exclusively with the needs and government of the residents of that community.

As a member of the school board, Post said, Graboff is dealing with just about half of the total tax dollars of Andover, and the welfare of the entire school system. On the ZBA, he is chairman of a group that makes vital decisions concerning the future of the town, property and tax-wise.

"It is with regret that I feel I must ask for his resignation," Post said, "but it is my duty to watch for what is best for the town, and not for Mr. Graboff."

Replying to Post's charges that there may have been persons who tried to reach him concerning ZBA business, Graboff said in his letter that "The only people that have tried to contact me as chairman have been those that wanted to know what chances were of getting certain types of variances. . . . There are six members of the ZBA. . . . I can't speak for the other five and as for myself, 'Do Not Tell Me About Your Case Because The Law Says, Can't Listen to a case with my mind made up.'" (ale)

Graboff further states in his letter that "anyone that wants to reach the chairman of the ZBA should 'fill out an application' and if anyone is looking for advice for filing an application, tell them to see their attorney."

Graboff says in his letter that he feels people are putting pressure on the first selectman

Two Conditions Set PZC Is Ready to Approve Borrow Pit Application

Previously tabled plans of Carl Holland et al for a borrow pit operation off Tolland Tpk. were reviewed Monday and tabled again by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

In its action, however, the PZC indicated it would pass the application provided two conditions are met: An access road must be constructed, further east to replace an existing road, and no blasting may be conducted on the site.

The application will be brought to a vote at a future meeting after Town Planner J. Eric Potter has discussed the conditions with the applicant.

The application was originally tabled after a Nov. 1 public hearing ordered by the town, at which a group of area residents opposed the borrow pit. Along with the tabling, the commission ordered that no blasting be taken of the site and a report submitted.

Holland's 41-acre parcel, of the north side of Tolland Tpk. just east of Glade Lane, is in a Rural Residence Zone and has intermittently been used as a borrow pit over the years, even before zoning regulations were established.

Land excavation operations were resumed last summer on a 12-acre portion of the site but were halted by the town after complaints were received from neighbors, and after it was de-

Granite State Groans Candidates Shed Soft Gloves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, coy no more, has begun his declared campaign for the White House, summoning Americans to "a new beginning" while a top Republican accused him of "backbiting the United States."

The Maine Democrat formally announced his candidacy Tuesday night.

"I am seeking the presidency not merely to change presidents, but to change the country," Muskie said in his 10-minute announcement. "I intend to lead to ask you to campaign in New Hampshire, Friday and Saturday in Florida, which holds the second primary on March 14, and Monday and Tuesday in Wisconsin, where the primary ballots will be cast April 4."

In New Hampshire, Tuesday, he said, he would give the people a choice between a Democrat and a Republican.

Muskie did not mention his Democratic rival, and he said for present administration.

"It would be foolish to blame the nation's ills on the present administration," he said.

But he said if President Nixon had been straightforward, he could have done far more than use his campaign through the state, taking to high schoolers in Franklin, N.H., where he was born. Muskie said "We have been given a continuing case. . . . 4 per cent inflation, a national ticket as per cent unemployment, a Republican National Chair Ed Brooke as my running mate man Robert J. Space Lab Tests Being Proposed By H.S. Students

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 15,000 high school students have prepared experiments for astronauts to perform aboard the Skylab orbiting laboratory to be launched next year.

The National Science Teachers Association is collecting the suggestions and will pick 26 to be submitted to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. NASA says the proposals will be considered on the basis of compatibility with Skylab flight requirements.

The 118-foot Apollo-Skylab scheduled for launch in the spring of 1973. Three three-man teams are due to spend a total of 140 days aboard the space laboratory.

Conspiracy Now Charged In Pentagon Papers Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony J. Russo face trial here March 10 on new, more serious charges in the Pentagon papers case.

"Your honor, I am not guilty of any of the offenses charged," Ellsberg said at his arraignment Tuesday at his arraignment to 19 counts in a federal grand jury indictment.

Russo, 26, was a colleague of Ellsberg, 40, at the Rand Corp. firm the research firm was working on the Pentagon study of U.S. involvement in Vietnam. He refused to enter a plea and the judge entered an innocent plea for him.

The new charges supersede a previous one-count indictment that accused Ellsberg alone of leaking government documents to his own use. Ellsberg was admitted leaking the papers to newspapers.

The Operation Captures Muskie
Last night, on nationwide television, the captivity of a formal presidential candidacy closed down around a very nice gentleman, Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine.

What he and his advisers had hoped for was more recapture of that winning moment, on the eve of the 1972 Congressional elections, when the senator from Maine had succeeded in talking a passionate brand of common sense to the American people.

What they got, out of their obvious efforts to set up the same stage effects, out of the best sentences of three speeches submitted to the candidate, out of the camera effort to put into the face what had been shining there, as a seemingly natural art and possession, back in that 1970 moment, was a strained performance which touched no height of any kind and which sounded like any other politician's catalogue of the ills of his time.

This does not mean that Senator Muskie is less than he was in 1968 or in 1970. It means that, like all our candidates, and, for that matter, like many of our Presidents themselves, he has suspended that existence in which he might be his natural self, and has begun work on an image.

He is not to blame, any more than Mr. Nixon is to blame for his own sometimes painful efforts at image-making. The odds seem to be that this is what we are fated to get at the highest level of national politics—an operation rather than a man.

Perhaps it is safest that way. Perhaps the only kind of man who would really dare break the pattern would be so strong and so egotistical he would in himself constitute a national danger, partly just because he might inspire blind allegiance to his own unconstrained style.

In that case, we can take some philosophical comfort from last night's performance. We do not have super man in the White House. We do not have super man as the leading contender, either.

By Law And By Feeling
We believe, and welcome, the conclusions of a study by the National Opinion Research Center of the University of Chicago, updating a surveillance of this nation's racial attitudes which the Center has been conducting since 1942.

The Center's latest survey finds no new development of "white backlash" and, measuring the results of racial turbulence and tensions during the past decade, decides these have "not impeded the steady increase in the proportion of white Americans willing to endorse integration."

On all the integration issues, even including those of neighborhood living and mixed marriages, there has been an increase in what the survey calls "integrationist responses." When the integration involved is limited to transportation, use of public facilities, and schools, the level of white "integrationist responses" has gone up to 70 per cent.

All these statistics illustrate the hope that there can be some kind of joint progress between law and feeling, between form and heart, between what man knows he ought to do and what he becomes capable of doing himself.

But, although the Center's study lights and illustrates this hope, it encourages no giddy optimism. The study itself warns that "attitudes are not necessarily predictive of behavior. A man may be a staunch integrationist and still flee when his neighborhood is 'threatened.'"

And it points out, realistically, that responses to questions about racial attitudes "do not reflect what the white American thinks he ought to say rather than what he believes."

Having been that realistic, the study is also privileged to add the observation that "even a change in what one thinks one ought to say is significant."

The main point is that there is, in the area where it is going to be determined whether this nation is going to be able to hold itself together in one great human experiment, a continuing change, in the right direction, toward the goal which so often seems impossible, but which also has to be accepted as inevitable.

The President's Play
There is now an added suspense for the Super Bowl.
Everybody will be waiting for the Dolphins to call what will have to be known, henceforth, as "The President's Play."

That will be Quarterback Bob Griese throwing a long pass to Paul Warfield, on a down-and-go pattern, as recommended by President Richard Nixon in his 1:30 a.m. phone call to Don Shula, the Miami coach, the other morning.

If the President of the United States wants to see a play tried, then the chances are pretty good the whole country will see it tried.

If it works, there will be glory enough for flyers, coach, and President.
If it fails, the President will be lonely again, as lonely as he must feel in those increasingly numerous moments when, at odd hours and on odd impulse, he suddenly puts himself in touch with the heating, comforting world of talk about sports.

We hope the President's play get better for the Dolphins against the Cowboys than it did for his first team, Washington, against San Francisco.
He called up George Allen, the Redskins coach, before that game, and told him he'd like to see him run the flanker reverse with "Tee Jefferson" against the Forty-niners.

Coach Allen saved the Big Coach's big play for a "true" crucial headline moment—when the Redskins had the ball on the San Francisco 8-yard line, second down and only six yards to go for a first down.

The President's play was called, and resulted in a 13-yard loss. Only the President is being blamed for the failure of the play, and he is far too honorable a fan to suggest that there was anything wrong with the way the perfect call was executed.

So we can imagine the pressure mounting for Coach Shula, for Quarterback Griese, for Wide Receiver Warfield, and for the millions of fans, as they wait the moment, at Dallas, for the President's Play. But most of all we imagine the pressure on the Cowboys, who will have to be looking for it all tomorrow.

Miss Liberty's Torch Burns Brighter
The 15 anti-war Vietnam veterans who barricaded themselves in the Statue of Liberty in New York Harbor for a day and a half did well to honor a restraining order commanding them to leave the statue. Not only did they escape punishment for their take-over, but, more importantly even in their own eyes, they demonstrated a respect for liberty and law which they espoused.

Why did they choose the Statue of Liberty as a site for their demonstration? Because, one of them wrote, "...since we were children 'the statue has been analogous to our minds, with freedom and an America we love. Until this symbol again takes on the meaning 'It was intended to have, we have' witness our demonstrations all over the nation of our love of freedom and of America."

The 15 illegal occupiers of the statue left everything in good order. "Food wrappings were in waste baskets; on the blackboard in the employees' lunchroom this message was scrawled: 'Brothers and sisters, thank you for the sugar and coffee and food.'" An envelope containing $5 was left nearby.

Since the Statue of Liberty was dedicated by President Cleveland in 1886, the tall bronze lady with the lamp has witnessed many chapters of history. During the war, her light was extinguished, lest it prove a beacon for bombardiers. She has inspired poets and peasants, including the "huddled masses yearning to breathe free" of which Emma Lazarus wrote in her famous dedicatory poem. She has welcomed the immigrant and quickened the pulse of the native son returning to his homeland.

The 15 American veterans who held Miss Liberty hostage did her no violence. She remains untouched and untarnished, her person unblemished, her reputation in the world unimpaired by her idealistic intent. If anything, Miss Liberty's capture—her "prisoners" they would describe all themselves—reminded their fellow Americans that "Liberty and Justice for all" is more than an empty phrase on a taken-for-granted Pledge of Allegiance. On the contrary, it is the cornerstone of the American state and an element of the national character. —MERIDEN RECORD.

Inside Report

McGovern's Folly

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON—As if he were not having enough trouble expanding his support for President beyond its present narrow left-of-center base, Sen. George McGovern has now managed to alienate anti-Daley reform Democrats in Chicago who ought to be his natural allies in Illinois.

On Dec. 1, McGovern operatives were privately but vigorously reuniting non-organization Democrats in Chicago to run as delegates pledged to McGovern against uncommitted organization delegates. One of Chicago's most prestigious anti-Daley Democrats had all but committed himself to becoming a McGovern delegate.

But on that same day, McGovern spent 30 minutes in Mayor Richard J. Daley's presence on the fifth floor of the Wisconsin Democratic Presidential hall and emerged with a declaration he would run no delegate in Chicago. The Mayor, he said the proposition of open conventions, "convinced me in a nice sort of way that I would be spinning my wheels by running delegates against his slate in Chicago."

McGovern's agents who had been lining up a Chicago delegate slate were stunned and appalled the Senator's verdict. As for a month later, no final delegate slate has been made in Illinois.

What does seem final, however, is the disillusionment of the Chicago reformers, who were outraged by McGovern's submission to the Mayor. The key anti-organization Democrat who was about to endorse McGovern has changed his mind and is advising his colleagues to do the same.

Lindsay vs. Lucy
Gov. Patrick J. Lynch of Wisconsin is scrupulously adhering to his avowed neutrality in the Wisconsin Democratic Presidential primary next April 4, but some of his staff members are privately letting it be known they will make this one deviation.

The Lollipop Fad
To the Editor,
It must have been about 1905 when the Lollipop Fad hit Manchester. Everyone, young and old, walked the streets sucking a lollipop.

The man responsible for the introduction of the lollipop to Manchester died Christmas Day in Manhattan at the ripe old age of 99. He was Charles J. Albro who was the candy maker for Perkins's Candy Kitchen. The store was operated by a Mrs. Perkins, and I believe her two daughters. Nearly all of the candy they sold was made on the premises.

Howard Murphy went to work for Mrs. Perkins as a boy and spent the rest of his life working in the same building. In later years he, and his brother Fred, took over the building. They built an extension putting in bowling alley and changed over to a restaurant.

"Regional Spirit"
To the Manchester Board of Education,
Dear Sirs:
The churches of Bolton, through the Bolton Ecumenical Council, and others working privately, attempted to enter a team in the Manchester Church Basketball League. We had two adults, twenty boys and our registration for ready. We were then told that we needed the approval of the Building and Site Committee of your Board.

The season started Dec. 6. A meeting of the Building and Site Committee was postponed from Dec. 8 until Dec. 21. I now understand that the members of the committee have taken it under advisement and will report to the Board at some time in the future.

I think it is obvious. We don't enter a team this year. However, Wapping has had a team in the league for some time now. Here, we had a chance to occupy the time of a group of boys and their attendant fans, and it was lost. It seems that if we have parishioners in Manchester, it is fine if people enjoy their leisure time in Bolton. It is fine if some of our churches belong to the Manchester Area Clergy Association. But when it comes to a little reciprocity the door is shut.

"Time The Factor"
To the Editor,
Mr. Frank Lupina's letter concerning the possibility of subsidizing the Connecticut Company deserves a reply.
Mr. Lupina demonstrates he is not at all concerned about people who have no car, neither wanting one nor being able to afford one; nor is he concerned about anything which tends to cut down traffic and pollution, nor the ever-growing highway octopus tentacles.

He mentions the experience of the MTA in our neighbor to the north and assumes the ad story will be necessarily repeated in Connecticut. And he implies, without saying so directly, the bus driver union will torpedo any arrangement to keep the Connecticut Co. afloat financially by periodic wage increase demands beyond the capacity of the presumed CTA to grant. Mr. Lupina does not know what the final conditions will be in setting up the CTA, and what the bus driver union will or will not agree to. If they can subsidize ship, air, and railroad fares, why not bus and mass transit around urban areas?

If his worst fears prove correct, after such a CTA is established, and the bus driver union does indeed seek to milk the company for billions of dollars, it is fine if some of our clergy belong to the Manchester Area Clergy Association. But when it comes to a little reciprocity the door is shut.

Hi Neighbor

Burl Lyons, Publisher

With the beginning of a New Year, the long weeks and leisure periods are over and we are off to work for many of us except for Congress, of course, which will be on vacation until Jan. 18. In addition to commanding a pretty fair salary, members of Congress have also been able to latch-on to some good fringe benefits.

Bad news for the newspaper industry: Education USA magazine reports that 21 million Americans age 18 and over are such poor readers they cannot understand a newspaper or want ad. A survey conducted for the National Reading Council by Louis Harris and Associates found that 24 per cent of those tested with incomes under $5,000 were unable to read. According to the survey, about 10 per cent of the 16-year-olds have severe reading problems.

In regard to classified thought, The Herald and its other newspapers made a smart move when they insisted on abbreviations be carried in want ads. Abbreviations are difficult to understand, a want ad is of little value if it is loaded with abbreviations, and difficult to read.

Here at The Herald we have been giving some thought to a Newspaper in the Classroom project which has great strides nationally. The newspaper is made available free of charge to various classes, at the grade, junior high and high school levels. We have many students today are our readers of today as well as tomorrow.

The White House Press received more than 2,000 applications from newsmen seeking credentials to accompany President Nixon on his visit to Peking. The newsmen in that less than ten per cent of them will get to make the trip with the ultimate decision to be made by the Chinese. The Chinese have agreed to admit as many as they can accommodate, which means hotel rooms, transportation and transmission facilities they can provide.

The press media who send their reporters to Peking will pay their expenses and none of the cost will be borne by the taxpayers.

It's probably just as well we didn't seek press credentials for the trip.

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts has directed the secretary of welfare to open the state's welfare rolls to inspection by the Philadelphia Inquirer. The department has been ordered to give the newspaper access to the names, addresses and amounts of assistance received by welfare recipients.

The newspaper, and the court agreed, that the names and addresses of welfare recipients are a matter of public record.

The result might be that abuses of the welfare program will come to a near halt with publication of such names while the bona fide welfare recipient should have nothing to fear.

There was a discussion in The Herald's editorial department the other day about whether we should start a new section of the Herald devoted to a postcard of women's ills and intended to conceal a woman's marital status. The argument, and a pretty sound one, is that there is no more reason to indicate whether a woman is married than there is to give the same information about a man. In cases where we use Mr. Today that is simply honorary.

For years many a news item has been bagged with whether a married woman is Mrs. Jane Doe or Mrs. John Doe. In the early days of journalism, the newspaper style was that a woman lost her first name the day she walked down the aisle.

There is some thought we should just use Jane Doe and not be concerned with whether she is single or married.

And of course if the woman is a career or show business personality, Miss is sometimes used with her name even if she is married.

Therefore, if you readers are confused occasionally by the use of Mrs. and Miss, we would appreciate a postcard of women's ills and intended to conceal a woman's marital status. The argument, and a pretty sound one, is that there is no more reason to indicate whether a woman is married than there is to give the same information about a man. In cases where we use Mr. Today that is simply honorary.

Very sincerely yours,
Richard Nicolas

Issue of POW's Not Discussed At Peace Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State William P. Rogers says U.S. negotiators in the Paris peace talks have raised the issue of releasing American prisoners of war, but the North Vietnamese have always insisted on a formal discussion in a political context.

Rogers, interviewed by ABC News, said Tuesday the North Vietnamese constantly have refused to discuss a POW release as a separate item.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Rep. Robert L. Lagard, D-Calif., both of whom talked with the North Vietnamese in Paris last year, had challenged statements by President Nixon that the enemy had rejected a release of POWs in exchange for a U.S. troop withdrawal deadline.

The Board of Education as a parent, I have to say publicly what you are doing for the child who has learning disabilities is deplorable. I feel our school system is definitely threatening the lives of these children.

What is being done now is cruel and inhuman to the child, as well as to the parents and teachers. You cannot keep ignoring this problem any longer.

To the parents of children with learning disabilities, I say you all know what the Board of Education is doing. I am Mrs. Richard Nicolas. My husband and I have a child, Michael, in the third grade at Keneey Street School.

Ruth Hoffman Named To Conservation Unit

Ruth Hoffman of Tolland Rd. was unanimously appointed to the Bolton Conservation Commission at last night's meeting of the Board of Selectmen.

Mrs. Hoffman, who has been involved in community conservation matters during the past year, recently was an active member of a group supporting purchase of a lakefront parcel owned by the town.

The conservation committee meets the fourth Tuesday of each month at Community Hall. The selectmen also plan to appoint a representative to the Capitol Region Mental Health Planning Committee later this week, pending a consultation with the town Board of Health.

Buying Low-Lead Gas
In other business conducted last night, the board voted to purchase low-lead gasoline for town motor vehicles from Chevron at 12.78 cents per gallon.

Stated the board, "The purchase of low-lead gasoline is a necessary step to insure that our town vehicles are in compliance with the new federal law."

Coverity Speaker Ill, Meeting Off

A meeting at Coverity High School scheduled for tomorrow night at 8 has been canceled due to the illness of the guest speaker, Dr. Peter Goldmark, who was to have spoken at an informational session concerning the New Rural Society Project.

A new date for the session has not yet been set. Dr. Goldmark, who retired last month as president of CBS Laboratories in Stamford, has been working on a concept of utilizing communication technology to help solve urban and rural areas.

The Thursday night session was designed to inform the members of the 10-town Windham Region as to their roles in the program. Dr. Goldmark's proposed first came before the public in the Windham area at an October regional conference at the Windham Regional Planning Agency.

Public Works Questions - Town Councilwoman Mrs. Rose Fowler, the council's public works liaison with the community, will be at the Town Hall Saturday morning, Jan. 15, from 10 to 11 a.m. to talk with town residents who have questions or problems relating to roads, landfills, or town property, or suggestions that they would like to bring to the attention of the council and town manager.

In announcing the hour, Mrs. Fowler said, "We are continually seeking ways to involve the citizens and to hear their problems and suggestions. I hope that meetings of this sort on Saturday mornings are beneficial, and if so, I will plan to hold one each month."

Whiteway Dance - The Coventry Whiteway Square Dance Club will hold a dance on Jan. 8 at Capt. Nathan Hale School, Rt. 31, Hours are 8 to 11 p.m. with Kerry Stutzman of Pennsylvania as guest caller.

Rounds will be used by Lillian and Paul Zepke; guests are welcome, refreshments will be served and soft-soled shoes are required.

Coventry firemen were called to Rt. 31 near Armstrong Rd. late this morning to extinguish a bulldozer fire. Damage to the bulldozer, owned by the Upton Construction Co., was minor; firemen said.

Did Fordham Bells Inspire Poe's Poem - NEW YORK - Edgar Allan Poe's poem, "The Bells," is said to have been inspired by the chiming of bells at Fordham University. Poe's home in the Kingsbridge section of the Bronx was about a mile from the campus of Rose Hill.

Court Cases

CIRCUIT COURT IN ROCKVILLE SESSION
The unusual and grim circumstances which led to the arrest of a youth in a charge of disorderly conduct, also influenced Judge Philip Dwyer to dismiss the charge.

It was after a fatal accident Nov. 27 claimed the lives of two Rockville High School students and injured two of four others involved in the one-car crash that a great number of their friends gathered at Rockville General Hospital out of concern, according to Prosecutor Joseph Paradiso and the youth's attorney, Harry Hammer.

Police had to ask them all to leave and the arrest of Lawrence Willette, 18, of Vernon Center Heights resulted when he returned to get a friend who had stayed behind, according to Dr. Goldmark's proposal.

Yesterday the court ordered the return of money held in regional conference against Walter, 31, of Bloomfield who pleaded guilty to a charge of theft from the Superior Court trial on a charge of robbery with violence.

The charge was brought in connection with the armed robbery of the Howard Johnson's at 22, Pousard, of Maple St., Rockville, intoxication and disorderly conduct, and Daniel P. Wells, 26, of Maple St., Rockville, disorderly conduct.

MPOA Speakers Oppose Buying Walek Property

Last night's public hearings conducted by the Board of Directors drew a small crowd. Several speakers, all members of the Manchester Property Owners Association, spoke against the town picking up the option on a 40-acre parcel on Keeney St. against the procedure used to rent a snowblower for two years; and against raising the town clerk's salary by four per cent.

Speakers also expressed concern over whether a proposed Charter Revision Commission would really be effective. Frank Lupin of 21 Sunset St. and Herman Schendel of 215 Spring St. asked how the board could justify purchasing the 40-acre site, owned by the Walek family, when town voters in November defeated a proposed $2.7 million junior high school which would have been built on the site. The cost of the site was included in the referendum figure, Schendel and Lupin noted.

To exercise the option would be "absolutely contrary to what the voters have said," Schendel said. The Board of Education wishes to buy the land to eventually build a junior high school there. The land could be purchased over five years for $2,000 an acre plus interest charges for an eventual total cost of $221,300. The option to buy the land expires July 28.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sadoosh of 48 Hollister St. charged that the intent of the Charter was "agreement which does not have to do with competitive bidding."

Also criticizing the procedure was Charles Piliard, 116 Wadsworth Rd. MPOA president. Lupin and Mrs. Sadoosh both criticized the proposed increase of four per cent in the clerk's salary. He called raising a fiscal year increase "a fiscal year political ploy."

She argued that salaries of elective positions should remain the same until no one is willing to run for the post. Mayor John Thompson explained that the proposed salary increase is on the town's contract for any construction, supplies, materials, equipment, or service, except personal services, involving and expenditure of more than $1,000. He noted that competitive bidding may be waived when "the best interest of the town should permit its waiver."

Town Manager Robert Weiss told the directors that $5,510 was spent in 1969 for the rental of front end loaders for snow removal and in December 1970, $6,508 was spent for the same purpose. In a memo to the board, he says, "The operation with the specialized equipment is more efficient and much more economical for the town."

Wells noted that Town Council David Barry said the procedure did not violate the Town Charter. He said Anacoanda American Home scheduled a hearing Jan. 15 on the proposed plan to install an Instrument Landing System and lighting at its municipal airport.

Industry and Ecology Show Conflict in Goals

HARTFORD (AP) - Nuclear power plants offer protecting the environment and satisfying industry are conflicting goals and the state must mediate the conflict, two executives from Northeast Utilities said Tuesday.

Speaking to a legislative subcommittee, Peter Stern, Northeast vice president said the demands for environmental protection and for economic growth are both legitimate, but they cannot be met at the same time.

The state and urban development subcommittee is examining the state's competitive economic position, its ability to attract and keep industry, and ways to move the state out of recession.

"We are not pursuing industry to come here," Stern said. He said that the utility bent to environmentalist demands and stopped its efforts to attract new industry and expand the demand for electricity.

Promotional allowances to builders who installed electric lines have been discontinued since 1969, Stern said. "The price of power is often the deciding factor in the decision to locate or expand, but it's there," said Raymond Beauregard, a company economist.

He said Anacoanda American Home scheduled a hearing Jan. 15 on the proposed plan to install an Instrument Landing System and lighting at its municipal airport.

Book Review

STRANGERS AT THE DOOR, by Ann Novy. Chatham Press. $1.50.

"Did your mother come from Salinas?" Is there something in your Greek-ah?" was a tune poorly adapted from the Irish that the kids used to sing, badly, in my neighborhood in Detroit a long time ago.

Which wasn't surprising since there were an awful lot of Greeks living in the area. Those who weren't were Albanians, Bulgarians, Irish, Serbs, Poles, Italians, even some Chinese. They may not all have been Greeks, but they did have one thing in common—they were all the children of immigrants. The only thing hard to find in that neighborhood was a kid whose parents had been born in this country.

The kids are grown up now. And Americanized. The great waves of immigration that brought their parents to this country from distant places have faded and hard to pronounce names a guidebook to the country. From that point of view, it is not the second generation that has had to adapt to a new and most common prehabitué guidebook to the country.

Both are revised editions. Crown, for many years a professor at the University of California at Los Angeles, writes from more than 40 years' experience in Mexico. He traces some of that country's fascinating history, and then gives a comprehensive guide to the country.

Much of the history is covered by the "Dirties" and "Describing Porfirio Diaz as the most efficient dictator Latin migrants a day, weeks, days a week."

The story of this great movement of human beings and their distant places of origin to land many thought of as havens, the story Miss Novy sets out to tell, all in all, she does a good job of it.

Her writing at times is cumbersome, but for the most part, the narrative rolls along nicely, carrying the reader with it.

STRANGERS AT THE DOOR, by Ann Novy. Chatham Press. $1.50.

"Did your mother come from Salinas?" Is there something in your Greek-ah?" was a tune poorly adapted from the Irish that the kids used to sing, badly, in my neighborhood in Detroit a long time ago.

Which wasn't surprising since there were an awful lot of Greeks living in the area. Those who weren't were Albanians, Bulgarians, Irish, Serbs, Poles, Italians, even some Chinese. They may not all have been Greeks, but they did have one thing in common—they were all the children of immigrants. The only thing hard to find in that neighborhood was a kid whose parents had been born in this country.

The kids are grown up now. And Americanized. The great waves of immigration that brought their parents to this country from distant places have faded and hard to pronounce names a guidebook to the country. From that point of view, it is not the second generation that has had to adapt to a new and most common prehabitué guidebook to the country.

Both are revised editions. Crown, for many years a professor at the University of California at Los Angeles, writes from more than 40 years' experience in Mexico. He traces some of that country's fascinating history, and then gives a comprehensive guide to the country.

Much of the history is covered by the "Dirties" and "Describing Porfirio Diaz as the most efficient dictator Latin migrants a day, weeks, days a week."

The story of this great movement of human beings and their distant places of origin to land many thought of as havens, the story Miss Novy sets out to tell, all in all, she does a good job of it.

Her writing at times is cumbersome, but for the most part, the narrative rolls along nicely, carrying the reader with it.

On Year-Round Schools

A public meeting to discuss the possibilities of operating the year-round schools on a year round basis will be held tomorrow night at 8 in the Hicks Memorial School cafeteria.

Residents either in favor of the concept or opposed are urged to attend the meeting to present their views, according to Robert Dean, chairman of the Board of Education subcommittee charged with the responsibility of preparing a feasibility report on operating the local schools on a year round basis.

The subcommittee was appointed by the school board last month, after several board meetings reported on various meetings they had attended in the area on the subject.

Most towns come face to face with the possibility of a year-round school however, when they find it necessary to build additional school buildings...

Joker-Designer Gets Away With It

NEW YORK (AP) — Fish body-hugging crochets and his evening clothes amusing and panels as chiffon, but it became serious but designer Adolfo is still hiding around the bulge. But then, Adolfo poo.

Yet he manages to have some fun—mostly without being goony and tacky and wrong. This is hard to do now, when women are waiting to attack the first designer who starts getting funny again.

Pay Board Is Split
On Wage Cutback

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board, torn by indecision and uncertain of its own legal powers, set another meeting today after failing a third try at cutting a 12 per cent raise for about 100,000 aerospace workers.

The board reportedly split 10 to 5 against approving the full raise, worked off and on for about nine hours Tuesday in separate meetings of its labor, business and public members.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board says Americans have been borrowing more on the installment plan under President Nixon's wage-price freeze and Phase 2 economic policies.

Consumer installment credit outstanding in November surged by a record $1.27 billion, the board said, compared to $924 million in October and a previous record of $999 million in September.

Racetrack in the Skies
An Antarctic Phenomenon

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
ANTARCTIC STATION, Antarctica (AP) — Thousands of miles above the earth floats an astonishing magnetic racetrack.

"Because of it, a flash of lightning in the United States can be heard as a loud 'whistle' down here around the South Pole. The racetrack phenomenon may in time provide a new system of radio communication that would not be blocked out by storms on the sun, as can happen now.

The racetrack permits instruments here to listen in on a Morse code radio transmission, at very low frequencies, of the U.S. Navy and military forces of other nations. The dashes and dots for words can be understood, but not the meaning encased in secret codes.

... temperatures dip to 60 below
And because this magnetic racetrack demands more intensive study, a couple of young graduate students will become full-fledged Antarctic commuters.

After breakfast during the six-month long winter of local darkness, with temperatures sometimes dipping to 60 below zero, one or both building young scientists will follow handlines started out along the coast.

They may return for lunch, come "home" for dinner and likely go out again at night for more observations relating the brilliant southern lights of Aurora Australis to what's happening along the racetrack.

There are personal records of the third meteor that year near Antarctica, and from the earth's surface so that on repeated bounces or hops they can go around the world.

But magnetic storms on the sun send out streams of particles that break up the mirror, causing radio static or black-outs. When a flash of lightning Quebec City, Canadians and occurs, about 10 per cent of Americans are cooperating in that energy penetrates through sending and receiving signals miles or more above the earth's surface.

... layer of electrified particles
The story of the magnetic racetrack begins with the ionosphere, a layer of electrified particles that acts like a mirror to bounce radio waves back into the third meter that year near Antarctica, and from the earth's surface so that on repeated bounces or hops they can go around the world.

Vernon Many Courses for Women Given at Evening School

"Find Your Way" Aptitude testing and guidance for women will be offered at the spring term of the Vernon Adult Evening School, which will start Feb. 6 at Rockville High School.

This course, new to the evening school, is being offered by the University of Connecticut in an effort to give women objective insights into their abilities, interests and emotional inclinations.

As an integral part of the program, each participant will be given an opportunity to evaluate herself through testing, with the aid of a trained counselor. A personal profile will be prepared and will be discussed privately with each individual.

The course will end with a group session which will focus on application of testing results to specific vocational or educational choices.

The classes will be held in five, two-hour sessions, plus two private interviews. Those interested in registering should contact the Continuing Education Service at Rockville High School, especially for women, is Power Puff Mechanics. This is a non-technical course open to women who want to know how a car operates and how "first aid" can be given in emergencies. Particular emphasis will be placed on preventative maintenance and safety.

Still another course, again for women, is the "Charm Course: Guidance to Beauty." This is open to women 21 years of age or older. The women will be taught poise, grace, flattering hair styles and makeup, fashionable wardrobes, and graceful movements.

This course will be taught by two professional models, Patricia Doyle (Miss Connecticut) and Jean Shea.

For those who are writers or potential writers, a workshop will be conducted and those attending will be given an opportunity to analyze their own work. It is designed to give writers greater perspective, discipline and the ability to constructively criticize their own work.

A course in total communications "Language of Signs," will be co-sponsored by the American School for the Deaf. No fee will be charged for this course, which is designed to develop skills and understanding for communicating effectively. English with persons having partial or profound hearing losses. Emphasis will be placed upon the new concepts of "total communications."

A 10-week series of high school review classes is also a special feature of the adult evening school program. This course is open to anyone 15 years of age or older, who was a member of a class which graduated from high school. Those registering must have been residents of Connecticut for at least six months. Vernon residents will not be charged a fee for the course, which will feature classes in general English, math, U.S. history and current events.

The general English course will review punctuation, capitalization, spelling, grammar, preferred modern usage and unit drills for reading comprehension.

The math course will be in the form of a rapid review of the fundamentals of arithmetic up to and including some basic algebra and plane geometry.

Besides the routine classes,

Killer Kite

"Kite weather" sent eight-year-old Jimmy into an open field to try his luck. Using a thin copper wire for a string, he soon had his kite kudding into the sky.

Then, tragically, Jimmy's kite crossed a high-tension power line and deadly voltage crackled downward, killing him instantly.

Could the power company be held legally liable by the boy's family? In a court hearing they blamed his death on the fact that the high-tension line had not been insulated.

However, the court held the company not responsible. The judge said Jimmy's use of copper wire instead of an ordinary string was too unusual to have been foreseen and guarded against.

Courts generally agree that people cannot be expected to foresee every thing. Continued unemployment might sour the people. Controls might depress them.

Moreover, a sense of propriety causes the wording to be somewhat at variance with the figures being offered. Now everyone will share in the ad- vance, but only 4.5 per cent—remaining above 4.5 per cent—will be charged a higher fee.

In another case, a boy's kite snagged on a power pole. When he climbed the pole to retrieve his kite, he touched an unshielded line and suffered a bad shock.

This time, three factors weighed against the company: 1) that the pole was right next to a playground; 2) that it had low steps, easy for children to climb; and 3) that it was DANGER signs had been posted.

A court duly awarded damages to the injured boy, saying that the company could fairly have foreseen this kind of an accident.

And tree climbing is even more foreseeable than pole climbing. Thus:

"The general English course will be conducted and those attending will be given an opportunity to analyze their own work. It is designed to give writers greater perspective, discipline and the ability to constructively criticize their own work."

Business Mirror Forecasters' Consensus One of Major 1972 Gains

NEW YORK (AP) — A final review of the independent economic forecasts that have proliferated since the fall shows a consensus for tremendous gains during 1972, on the order of $100 billion in growth.

From reading the words you might not guess that this is the outlook. Economic forecasting is to some extent a game of chance, like counting the beans in a bowl, and that bowl was badly rattled in 1971.

Because of recurrent shocks, the forecasts are thus hedge their words if not the figures. Political or monetary problems might confuse everything. Continued unemployment might sour the people. Controls might depress them.

Moreover, a sense of propriety causes the wording to be somewhat at variance with the figures being offered. Now everyone will share in the advance, but only 4.5 per cent—remaining above 4.5 per cent—will be charged a higher fee.

In another case, a boy's kite snagged on a power pole. When he climbed the pole to retrieve his kite, he touched an unshielded line and suffered a bad shock.

Japan's Budget Is $37 Billion For 1972

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's Cabinet today approved a budget for the 1972 fiscal year with a $4.3 billion deficit.

The record package envisages expenditure of $37 billion but only $32.4 billion from taxes and other revenue sources. To meet the deficit, $7.6 billion in bonds will be issued.

The budget exceeds the 1971 fiscal program by 21.8 per cent and calls for large expenditures for public works and welfare projects to stimulate Japan's lagging economy.

It will be presented for debate in the Diet on Jan. 25.

Based largely on the outlook for 1972, the conventional wisdom is that a fully invested position is a prosperous new year has a strong chance of coming true in 1972.

At the same time, clients of visitors' service, whose analyses are closely watched by investors, banks and institutions, observed that the direction of business was strongly upward as the year ended.

Hebron Town Sets Hearing On Regional Schools

Mrs. Gladys Miner, town clerk, has issued a warning for a public hearing tomorrow at 8 at the Hebron Elementary School when the Regional Study Committee will present its report on regionalization to the town.

The committee has scheduled hearings in Hebron, Andover and Marlborough for this week.

As a winner of the award, Stephen will receive a bronze medal along with other winners at more than 8,000 participating schools throughout the United States.

Rham's other recipient of the award was Charlene Donahue, daughter of Mrs. Helen Donahue of Bear Swamp Rd., Andover.

Tomorrow evening's hearing will be attended by all members of the committee who will be present to present their report and to answer any questions.

The committee's plan for regionalization has been approved by the State Department of Education but now must receive approval from all of the three towns, as a negative result in any one of the towns will defeat the proposal.

Serving on the Regional Study Committee from Hebron are: Marvin A. Ross, former chair- man of the Board of Finance, and Everett Jewett, member of the Board of Finance.

Wine Release Award Stephen Derby, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Derby of East Hebron, will be presented with the award at Rham High School.

The award is significant because it recognizes seniors with the highest scholastic standing by filing notice with the town clerk 48 hours before the meeting. Emergency meetings may be called without any notice. However, minutes of such meetings must be filed with the town clerk within 72 hours of the meeting.

Columbia Rubella Clinic on Saturday For All Children Under 12

The Public Health Nursing Agency has scheduled a Rubella (German Measles) clinic Saturday at the agency on Rt. 98 from 10 a.m. to noon.

Dr. Edwin Basden will administer the injections and the fee will be 60 cents.

The age limit is 2 to 11 years old and parental permission is required.

Last year, Gov. Thomas Meskill signed a bill requiring all children under 12 to be immunized against Rubella prior to entering school. Children already enrolled in school and not immunized must be protected now. Any child can be exempted if the parent or guardian states he does not want his child to be immunized.

Any child should not receive the vaccine if they are allergic to eggs, feathers or if they have had a vaccination for mumps, measles, mumps or regular measles within four weeks of the scheduled clinic.

Children under doctor's care for any serious medical problems, especially leukemia, lymphoma, other malignancies, gamma globulin deficiency, or those taking cortisone drugs, should not receive the vaccine.

Girls who have matured cannot receive the Rubella vaccine at the clinic. They should contact a private physician.

School Bus Rates The Board of Education has established rules governing transportation of pupils in school buses.

The driver is in full charge while enroute, with no disorderly conduct, loud talking, singing or discourteous remarks, and no defacing permitted. The driver has the authority to refuse rides for the child who does not obey. Parents will be in-

Aiding the Elderly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development has issued a new publication on housing for the elderly and the handicapped.

The 46-page bibliography, entitled "The Built Environment for the Elderly and the Handicapped," contains background information on the housing situation for the elderly both here and abroad, on architecture and space use, fire prevention, senior centers, residential communities, nursing homes and the problems of relocation.

A section is devoted to the design of public and private buildings for the disabled and the handicapped.

Baltimore Opera Company will present a gala concert Jan. 23 to honor Rosa Ponselle's 75th birthday.

Harry B. Cummings, president of the company, said "Mrs. Ponselle has for a lifetime given unselfishly of her time and talents in behalf of the development of opera. Additionally, she has worked diligently in the cause of the American operatic artist."

Stars who will sing are Marjorie Hill, Lili Chobanian, Sherrill Milnes, Robert Merrill, Enzo Fagiolo and Jerome Hines.

The concert will be a benefit, with $25,000 hoped to be raised for the opera's endowment. It will be followed by a champagne reception.

Ferguson Gift to Hospital Will Endow Waiting Room

Manchester Memorial Hospital has received a gift of $10,000 from Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Ferguson of 78 Forest St.

The sum will be used to endow, in their name, a waiting room in the intensive care section of the East Wing, according to Bert Dittus, development director for the hospital.

The Ferguson's gift, said Dittus, was the final major donation of money made to the hospital during 1971, bringing the total received during the year to just under $70,000. There were 12 gifts of $10,000 or more and 84 made through the Annual Giving Program.

Inscribed plaques have been ordered for all presently endowed spaces in the new East and Emergency Wings and should be in place the end of January, said Dittus.

The new East Wing, completed last April at a cost of $1.1 million, contains surgical and radiological suites, plus 37 beds of intensive care and coronary care units. The Emergency Wing contains expanded emergency, surgical and physical therapy facilities. Opened in December, it was constructed at a cost of $1.1 million. Together, the two wings add more than 100,000 square feet of space to the hospital.

Ferguson, former co-publisher of The Herald, and his wife, the former Vivian S. Pirano, are both natives of Manchester and have long been active in hospital and civic affairs.

A member of the hospital's board of trustees for the past 18 years, Ferguson has served on numerous committees. Before being named a trustee, he served two years as an incorporator. He was chairman for the hospital's 50th anniversary celebration held in November, 1970.

He is also a member of the Board of Incorporators of the Connecticut Institute for the Blind, and of the Manchester advisory board for the Connecticut Electric Light Co. and Hartford Electric Light Co.

He is past president of the Manchester Kiwanis Club and chairman of the town's upcoming Bicentennial in 1977.

Mrs. Ferguson is a past president of the Manchester Republican Women's Club and a member of the Republican Women's Association and as treasurer of the National Associated Press Managers Editors Assn. for The Herald. Her weekly column, "From Your Neighbor's Kitchen," appears each Thurs-

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Ferguson, who have contributed $10,000 to Manchester Memorial Hospital, are shown in the Auxiliary-sponsored Gift Shop, which Mrs. Ferguson serves as chairman. Ferguson serves on the board of trustees.

I-84 Study Is Delayed

An environmental study which will result in the recommended path of Interstate 84 east of Bolton Notch is finished, but release of the study has been delayed for another month.

Charles A. Maguire and Associates of Wetherfield, consultants to the state transportation department, have completed the environmental impact statement. Maguire's Richard Simonian said, but the report is held up by the printer.

A transportation department spokesman said the state ordered a restudy of some of the specifics last week, after a conference with Maguire officials. Changes were made, the spokesman said, and the delay results from mechanical problems.

The earliest date a corridor public hearing could be held is sometimes in March. Legal requirements specify the environmental report must be available 30 days before the hearing.

Six possible corridors have been proposed for the new expressway between Bolton Notch and Columbia, but both Maguire and state officials decline to say which route will be favored, until the environmental study is officially released.

Four possible corridors were shown on a map released by the state in April 1970, and two alternate corridors were on a map dated February 1971.

Meetings in the four towns involved (Bolton, Andover, Coventry and Columbia) have generally indicated that area residents prefer the highway corridor through Bolton Notch, one of the two alternatives.

The other five possible corridors were routed south of the Notch.

State spokesmen noted, however, that the possible routes may have changed since the latest map (February 1970) was released.

The area through which I-84 will go is limited somewhat by present construction of another segment between Columbia and Windham. This piece is divided port.

Action Commission Role Advisory, Says Consensus

The Board of Directors last week discussed the role of a man of the inactive Action Commission on Aging, explained that representative of the state and the Board of Directors in 1969 formed the commission by resolution with the main purpose of setting up the Senior Citizens Center on Linden St.

After this was accomplished, Squitro said he recommended that the commission members not be reappointed. The wording of the resolution establishing the commission made it seem as if the commission were running the center. Squitro said, and this did not seem to be necessary.

"There's no doubt about it, there's a need," Squitro said, but he said he feels the commission should be more of an advisory body which could search for problems which Wally Fortin, director of the Senior Citizens Center, does not have time to do.

Fortin agreed, "I'd like to see it (the commission) more or less on an advisory basis."

Guest Leader

Rabbi Philip E. Schechter of New York City will be the guest leader of a "Weekend of Study" starting Friday at Temple Beth Shalom, sponsored by the Sisterhood.

The weekend program will include a series of lectures on the history of the temple, and Rabbi Schechter will speak on "You Are the Way." After the service, there will be a Shabbat luncheon, with Mrs. Robert Weiss as chairman.

At 8 p.m. Saturday, Rabbi Schechter will lecture on "When You Find Out Who You Are." There will be a question and answer period after the lecture.

Rabbi Schechter, who was ordained in 1906, is spiritual leader of congregations in Westport, Tappan, N.Y., and Englewood, N.J.

Those wishing more information about the weekend program may contact Mrs. Ronald Lang, 130 Kennedy Rd., chairman.

Seminary Lists Entrance Exams

An entrance examination for boys interested in entering St. Thomas Seminary High School, Bloomfield, as resident or day students, will be given at the seminary, 467 Bloomfield Ave., Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Applications for entrance to the high school or junior college departments of the seminary may be obtained from the director of admissions. The examination fee is payable at the time of the test.

A bus is provided for day students from Manchester. Founded in 1887, St. Thomas is the preparatory seminary of the Archdiocese of Hartford. Its junior college and high school departments are open to young men from Connecticut who have an interest in the priesthood as a possible vocation.

Jaycee Wives To See Films

Miss Connecticut, Priscilla Doyle, and Miss Manchester, Kathleen Bombard, will be guests of the Manchester Jaycee Wives at its meeting tonight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael DiBella, 173 Union St.

After a brief business session, DiBella, business manager for Miss Manchester, will show slides of the 1971 Miss Manchester Pageant. Refreshments will be served.

Any Jaycee wife interested in joining the group or needing transportation may contact Mrs. John Bates of 225 Green Rd., or Mrs. Walter Kupchunas of 225 Graham Rd., South Windsor.

Rec Sponsors Scuba Classes

A scuba class, sponsored by the Manchester Recreation Department, will begin Jan. 13 at the East Side Rec.

All persons interested in participating should contact the Manchester Rec Office on Cedar St. between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. to obtain medical clearance forms and get further information.

The class will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. on Jan. 13, 20, 26, 27, and Feb. 3, 10 and 16.

Cheetah Catcher

STAMPREST, South West Africa (AP) — Farmer Willie Kotes is the talk of the town after catching three cheetahs at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kotes in the bush here.

State spokesmen noted, however, that the possible routes may have changed since the latest map (February 1970) was released.

The area through which I-84 will go is limited somewhat by present construction of another segment between Columbia and Windham. This piece is divided port.

Hebron-Andover-Marlborough Minority Report Opposes Full School Regionalization

The first of the public hearings on the Regional Study Committee's recommendation to fully regionalize in the towns of Hebron, Andover and Marlborough have not yet been held by already the debate has begun with a minority report having been mailed to schoolholders in the three towns by two members of the committee.

Mr. Beatrice Kowalski from Andover and Jack Barile from Marlborough, the two committee members who voted against regionalization, have recommended in their minority report that the "voters in the towns of Andover, Hebron and Marlborough vote 'NO' on the question to expand Regional District 3 from Grades 7-12 to K-12."

Comment on Costs The minority report also touched on costs for the minimum staffing required to properly administer a full regionalized system plus equalization of the current curriculum in grades K-6 in the three towns, something the study committee's report did not show.

Wanted More Study In summation, the minority report stated that "it is the opinion of the minority members that full regionalization is a need to equalize plant facilities and build a middle school which would amount to an approximately $2,800,000 or approximately $70,000 after state reimbursement. The minority members say to reduce costs."

'Maneuver' of the Menu Needed for Moscow Meal

By JAMES R. PEIFFERT
MOSCOW (AP) — Dining out in Moscow sometimes requires the patience of Job, the endurance of a long-distance runner and an ironclad digestive tract. But Russians out for a celebratory feast to restaurants despite long lines at the door, long waits for the menu, and indifferent waiters.

This metropolis of more than seven million has slightly more than 100 full-fledged restaurants — not counting cafeterias and snack bars. Tourist brochures recommend only a dozen or so to foreign visitors.

The first impression is that of a fortress under siege. Nearly every evening on the sidewalk a milling, impatient crowd stamps about in the cold demanding to be let inside.

Just inside the door a grim old man in a threadbare uniform has two words, delivered in a snarl: "Meat nyet, meat nyet." No room, no room. For no apparent reason, a sign saying "Meat Nyet" often goes up in the door minutes after the restaurant opens, despite many vacant tables inside.

... one of many consumer services neglected

The skirmish at the door goes on most of the evening, while the doorman periodically opens up to foreign tourists and the Communist party elite.

The establishment of good places to eat is just one of many consumer services neglected over the past half-century by a regime intent on building up its military and industrial power.

During the past few years, and especially since the 24th Communist congress last March and April, the leadership has placed emphasis on improving consumer goods and services.

"All too often the capacity of eating places does not meet the demand," party chief Leonid Brezhnev told the congress.

"That is not to be tolerated. We must deal more strictly with the ministries, the local authorities and the heads of enterprises for these deficiencies."

Premier Alexei N. Kosygin told the delegates: "The main virtue" she should, "is my business what I public catering is to improve write," he replied.

boulevard, Kalinin Prospekt, and the Starry Skies in the new, 21-story Intourist hotel have floor shows. One also had a white parrot which squawked "Greetings, comrades."

Except for the Arago, Uzbekistan, Baku and a couple of other places which serve dishes native to Soviet republics in the Caucasus and Central Asia, the restaurants serve traditional Russian fare. It is a bit heavy and sometimes very greasy but for the most part palatable.

Staple items are chicken Kiev, beef stroganoff, smoked sturgeon, Moscow-style salad made with potatoes, mayonnaise, pickles and bits of chicken, broiled side of chicken, black bread, red and white wine, Russian champagne and brandy.

Many items listed are often not available. The item most often missing is caviar, increasingly rare as pollution depletes the Volga and other rivers usually at a half-hour wait between courses and another wait for the check.

As Others See Us

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
LONDON (AP) — The heavy somersault of the "diplomatic American bombing of North Vietnam last week touched off a flurry of editorial comment across the world.

"The joint decision by Chairman Mao and President Nixon to make the world safe for triangular diplomacy culminated symbolically and appropriately at the United Nations when the two countries voted together against the Soviet Union and India."

"The lesson of 1971 is that a single country can treat another country as an enemy all the time. In the end accommodations have to be made and negotiations have to begin."

In Belgium, the conservative Libre Belgique, which is usually quite critical of the United States, gave President Nixon rave notices in a front-page editorial.

"Nixon diplomacy is moving ahead at drumbeat," it said, "to make the world safe for mullah military targets."

But if the raids go on Mr. Nixon shot up and Nixon will be able to make his acts of world diplomacy. Nixon works with Britain's Financial Times ability and method."

The paper said the President of bombing it that it may force Hanoi to negotiate. But it warned that "Hanoi can afford to wait—as it did when confronted States, and rebuilt unanimity in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization toward attempts at British paper, said 1971 was East-West rapprochement.

Hebron in 1971 Tax Rate Stayed Down, Town Argued Many Issues

By ANN ENT
5,000 people during the three with the re-election of Aaron Hebron residents in Hebron last year that represented only a 2.2 mill rate increase over the previous year. Hebron's present rate is 66 mills on a 65 per cent assessment.

Helping to keep the taxes down again this year was a 7.7 per cent grand list increase from $1,741,814 to $1,870,106.

During the year Hebron continued its population growth and many new businesses opened up as well.

The Citizens Bank and Trust Company of Olanovon opened its new branch on Rt. 1 in Hebron center. Also opening in this area was the Public House, the Connecticut Paper Supply Company, The Calvo Bakery and the offices of C. Paul Goodrich, D.D.S.

The Paradise Shopping Center in Amston on Rt. 10 suffered a severe setback in March when fire gutted the entire building.

Since then the landlord has reopened and the new Yarn Shop has set up business there as well.

Also during the year, the Nuclear Technology Corporation moved its offices from West Hartford to Amston.

However, despite all the growth, the town still remains without a grocery store since the Paradise fire.

The year 1971 was one of several controversial issues in town. Perhaps the greatest controversy was over attempts by the Planning and Zoning Commission to narrow sales tax for business without any overall plan.

Consistently at public hearings residents called for a new plan urging the commission not to strip zones and to wait. Sentiment was so strong that a $200 appropriation was approved in the town budget as the first of two payments for the plan.

The commission also ran into strong opposition on proposed changes in excavation regulations, but approved them in spite of the opposition.

Back in the fall of '71, the commission attempted to place stricter restrictions on the building of duplexes but opposition was so strong that action was tabled.

One of their last actions of 1971 was to propose a suspension on the building of all duplexes until the completion of the new town plan. A public hearing on this proposal is being held this week.

Also carrying over into 1972 is a public hearing next week on proposed changes in business regulations. Any changes in business zones will wait for the new town plan.

Other Groups Criticized
The Planning and Zoning Commission, however, was not the only town board to run into controversial issues. The Board of Finance came under fire several times mainly for its handling of the $50,000 appropriation for the purchase of the cross-treatment property and for not giving proper consideration to the final report of the Solar Study Committee.

The Zoning Board of Appeals also had its share of criticism when approval was given to the construction of a gas station on the corner of Rt. 66 and Wall St. and construction began despite the fact that no approval had yet been received from the state on the sanitary facilities.

Residents at the time expressed concern regarding the possibility that the area could never be sufficiently improved to permit adequate sanitary facilities.

Even the state police ran into criticism from town officials and residents when at first they refused permission for the first five-mile road race, sponsored by the Hebron Lions Club, to be run on state roads.

The State Police withheld approval until after a meeting with the selection to run out difficulties.

Thirty-five racers from throughout Connecticut, Massachusetts and New York participated in the race.

Other Plans
There were several other items in town during the year. For the first time in Hebron's history, residents signed a contract with the Board of Education for the school year. Previously, they had worked under unexpired contracts.

The year also saw the elementary schools use alternate kindergarten sessions for the first time. The groups switch from a.m. to p.m. sessions and vice-versa at mid-year.

The schools' hot lunch program operated in the black for the first time in 1971 and a new nursery school, the Hebron Center Nursery School, Inc., opened its doors for three and four year olds.

And perhaps the largest first of all was the Hebron Lions Club Harvest Fair which was a huge success drawing well over

Allegheny Sued For Plane Crash Into Beach Home

Killian Sees Conflict In State Legal Help

By DAN HALL
HARTFORD (AP) — State Atty. Gen. Robert K. Killian told a legislative subcommittee Tuesday a plan he attributed to several departments to hire separate lawyers was "contrary to law and contrary to reason."
Killian digressed from discussion of recommendations from the Eberharting Commission on cost-cutting to discuss the proposed state hiring of legal help outside his office.
The attorney general, who is one of two elected Democratic officials in Gov. Thomas J. Meskilla's cabinet, singled out Environmental Protection Commissioner Dan W. Lufkin as one department head who planned to hire his own lawyer to assist with operations of his department not involving court action, which state law specifically delegates to the attorney general's staff.
He characterized such lawyers as merely "handholders to the commissioner."
"Unless this process is summarily terminated there are going to be two law firms superimposed," Killian told members of a subcommittee on government administration and policy at the State Capitol.
The attorney general's staff was created to provide legal manpower to other areas of state government.
The attorney general said two other departments were considering the hiring of legal help, but he declined to identify the departments when questioned by a subcommittee member.
"This is a serious problem—and doubly so because it is spreading," he said.
"I think it's contrary to law," he added. "I think it's contrary to reason." He didn't say exactly how it would go against the law.
Personnel Commissioner Edward H. Simpson, who followed Killian in testimony, said he was aware of Lufkin's desire to hire a lawyer and said it was to assist him in conducting the large number of public hearings required of the new Environmental Protection Department.
He said he was not aware of plans by other departments to hire lawyers.
State Sen. George J. Crufts, R-Ledyard, later during the hearing brushed off Killian's comments as a "political speech."
Killian is considered by many as the Democrat with the best chance to run for governor in 1974.
Most of the attorney general's comments were not directly related with recommendations of the Meskilla-appointed Eberharting Commission concerning his department.
He did, however, indicate his feeling that the department should be kept at full strength and even enlarged. He said the annual cost of about $60,000 for the attorney general's department results in an income to the state of about $24 million.
Killian complained that his staff was short 10 lawyers and three other positions but that continued attempts to get approval for hiring more from the Personnel Department have been fruitless.
Simpson questioned later about the complaint, said he didn't have specific information on the requests but knew that some of the jobs to be filled would require promotional ex-secretary each, about 250 deputy sheriffs and about 350 special sheriffs. The deputies and special sheriffs are paid a year directly by the lawyers they serve.

"Transfer of these jobs to another department as the commission recommended, would greatly increase the cost," Walsh said.
The deputies and special sheriffs, under the county sheriff, serve legal papers, help maintain courtroom order and transport prisoners to and from Superior Court.
The commission headed by Ed Eberharting, a rival of American economic power, reducing the buying of the eight sheriffs, with one president, presented a 206-page power of the million dollar.

Nobel Biologist To Visit China

BOSTON (AP) — George Wald, 60-year-old Nobel Prize biologist at Harvard, says he will make a month's visit to mainland China and could enter Hong Kong as early as Monday.
Wald, attending a two-day gathering of Nobel laureates at Gustavus Adolphus College, St. Pier, Minn., told The Boston Globe in a telephone interview Tuesday the invitation came through the Chinese Embassy in Ottawa early last month.
"I'm anxious to see the whole educational process," Wald said. "I want to see what's happening to kids whose mothers are working."
City commissioners took the ordinance proposal under advisement Tuesday night.

Citizens Advise Against Noise

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A citizens advisory committee on noise pollution has suggested school-age children in the undeveloped countries receive schooling despite unprecedented expansion of education systems, according to a World Bank report. The bank has lent $60 million to assist educational projects since 1964.

Schooling Denied To More Than Half

WASHINGTON—Under half of the primary and secondary school-age children in the undeveloped countries receive schooling despite unprecedented expansion of education systems, according to a World Bank report. The bank has lent $60 million to assist educational projects since 1964.

Street Wedding Goes Unnoticed

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — A couple attracted little attention as they were wed in a street corner ceremony so a food friend could be present.
The friend is Charles Wright, crippled peanut vendor who fell he couldn't afford to leave his business for more than a few minutes.
So, Gladys W. Branson and Paul E. Burke arranged to be married Tuesday at the business site. A reception was held at a nearby luncheon room after the noon ceremony.

Must Learn to Relax

"Learning how to relax and being able to take advantage of your ability are the keys to success in baseball," Gene Michael told those at the annual Hartford Suburban Twilight Baseball League banquet last week in Hartford. The veteran New York Yankees shortstop also had a word of advice for the younger players present. "Further your education first, before playing baseball, get that degree. Let education be No. 1 in your life."

What about Johnny Ellis, out of New London?

"Ellis is playing in a park where it's hard for a right-handed hitter to get home runs. He's a good ball player with good power and would perhaps do much better if he were playing in ball parks like Cleveland, Detroit or Boston. These parks are built for Ellis. He doesn't get fooled that much when he's relaxed but he has a tendency to press too much."

Prize for Hook

Two top managers in the majors, in Michael's book, are Walter Alton of Los Angeles and Hook. The fine fielding, lightning-sharp stopper played under both. "Alton is easy to play for. He's a lot like Hook. If I had to judge the two, I would rather like to play for Hook. Both are great for building up a player's confidence," he revealed.

Manager Ralph Houk

Manager Ralph Houk talked about his job as manager of the New York Yankees. When it was obvious to all that he could neither hit nor field in the American League, Michael won back the job and played there all year. He was the only dependable defensive man on the infield.

Faces New Challenge

This spring Michael faces another challenge in the person of Rich McKinney, acquired from the Chicago White Sox in the Steve Sabers trade. McKinney was a shortstop of much promise in the White Sox family. McKinney's championship armor, made of his own making, will be tested in the White Sox uniform. McKinney is a good, young-looking hitter. If he can play third base, Michael kept his listeners. "It will be a good trade for the Yankees. You really can't adjust which could put Michael in either the White Sox or third base."

Antitrust Laws Likely for Sports

BALTIMORE (AP) — Where the Baltimore Colts play home games in the 1972 season remained in doubt today, but two Maryland congressmen have warned of a push for antitrust legislation against professional sports if it is not Baltimore.

Howe Denies Report He's Quitting Wings

DETROIT (AP)—Gordie Howe has spiked a rumor that he is quitting his job as a vice president of the Detroit Red Wings. However, he said he isn't "totally involved" with the team and hinted there may be some friction between him and other front office executives.

Eas Out of Unbeaten Ranks Following Loss to Northwest

By DEAN YOST For the night, Quah was 2 for 13 from the field. "They came here to play," commented East Catholic High's coach, Stan Grodnick, after his charges dropped a 49-42 decision to Northwest Catholic High last night at Central Connecticut State College's Kaiser Gym.

Northwest, behind the shooting of McIntire in close and the rugged rebounding of Captain Jack Phelan, opened up a 32-27 lead over the game's sportsmen. The Indians took advantage of the cold flange of McIntire and their opponents while controlling the boards.

YOUR HEADQUARTERS FOR PIRELLI TIRES

"A TIRE MUST BE BUILT FROM THE INSIDE OUT FOR HIGHEST CONDITIONS." For instance, Pirelli tires' fabled grip on a wet road is no mere accident - Or their amazing ability to corner at high speeds - Or their exceptionally long tread life and lack of centrifugal expansion at speed - Or the way they quicken up steering and add to the sensitivity of your car's response. Each Pirelli tire differs in weight... rubber compounds... casing construction... ply and tread design.
