

Vernon Region Housing Lags, LWV Members Told

"The capital region has a growing population and a lagging housing production," Debra Jones, a regional planner from the Capitol Region Planning Agency (CRPA) told the Vernon League of Women Voters, last night.

Jones, assisted by Mrs. Ann Kendall and William F. Carvay, Jr., assistant regional planner, outlined some programs designed to improve housing in the region.

Most of the attention was focused on a program which is now in the works. This is the "New Neighborhoods" program which the planners said, "focuses on the fact that homes are part of a web of relationships that tie families to social activities, education, shopping and such."

As of the 1970 census, Vernon has a population of 27,000. It has a total of 8,608 housing units, of which 1,817 are single family dwellings, 3,529 multi-family, 123 mobile homes and 39 "other." Forty-two per cent of the dwellings are multi-family.

Carvay told the league women and several town members attending last night's meeting that 20,000 additional housing units will be needed in the capital region in this decade. He said CRPA representatives will be meeting with the officials in the 20 capital region towns soon to hear their comments concerning the New Neighborhoods program.

Carvay said a New Neighborhoods plan developed on a parcel of 200 acres in area with a population of 500-1,200 dwellings units built to house a mixed age and income population. "New Neighborhoods is an action-oriented program to link towns and villages with each other and with concepts, expertise and institutions needed to create the design and schedule for building an entire neighborhood," the planner explained.

Mayor Frank McCoy, present at last night's meeting called on the planners that such a proposal would run into many obstacles as any other type of development. He said "you will still need local approval all the way." He said, "the fact you call it a New Neighborhood doesn't mean it will be accepted."

The mayor further explained that the town already has many

New Price-Posting Checks Get Bad Report from IRS

WASHINGTON (AP) — National spot checks by the Internal Revenue Service have disclosed widespread non-compliance with government regulations requiring posting of freeze-period selling prices.

"We're not calling," said Jerry Portney, deputy IRS assistant for stabilization, "They've got until the 17th of January to get into compliance with Washington, D.C. regulations."

Portney said in each case the IRS will check the compliance with the regulations, given a sheet of paper explaining them, and whether some food and clothing prices have gone up in violation of price controls.

The investigation stems from the latest Consumer Price Index which showed higher prices for most meats, and a 2.5-per-cent increase in clothing prices during the three months covered by the freeze.

IRS agents will continue their check of the stores only after the remainder of this month, he said.

Under the Price Commission's rules, retail stores with annual sales of $100,000 or more are required to post selling prices on all nonexempt food items.

Regulations for stores with annual sales under $100,000 require beginning last Monday an item's price, whether they be food or other items, Portney said.

The IRS is insisting on prompt compliance in Manhattan, where customers can see them

CHOOSE INGREDIENTS FOR THROWN-UP PLAY

By ALBERT SHEINWOLD

Look for the right ingredients when you want to cook up a thrown-up play. First, the striping or preservation of the hand; second, the losing trick, by which you put an opponent into the hands and cards, the favorable situation in which the opponent's return gives you a trick of some kind, "try staving off today's hand."

Both sides vulnerable.

Opening lead—Two of Clubs. West opens the dummy of clubs, and you are forced to win in your own hand with the ace. Your first task is to draw trumps without losing a trick to the queen.

You now start to cook in earnest by running the three hearts, ending in the dummy. You have thus made it impossible or unsafe for an opponent to lead a spade or a heart. In real life, many players would now try the diamond finesse. This would lose, and back would come a diamond. South would eventually lose a second diamond.

In this case you look harder for the right ingredient. You lose a trick by leading the queen of clubs from dummy. East plays the ace, and you discard the deuce of diamonds, allowing West to win with the king of clubs.

West must now do you a

Telephone Rate Increase Opposed by Nader Group

HARTFORD (AP) — A proposal, which calls for an average 23 per cent rate hike. More opposition to proposed increases in Connecticut telephone rates developed Wednesday when a Ralph Nader consumer group charged that the rates were "excessive."

The Connecticut Citizens Action Society (CCAS) petitioned the Public Utilities Commission (PUC) saying it was made a "party" in the PUC hearing on the proposed rate increases.

The PUC is scheduled to hear the case on Jan. 11 and will conclude the week of Jan. 20 with a separate hearing on the proposed rate increases.

The Nader group, the Telephone Answering Association, and the Telephone Workers Union, all oppose the proposed rate increases.

lege of considering for themselves whether they would choose either to move themselves and their incomes into New York state, or to bring New York tax rates here. Unfortunately, our choice is not just a simple one. If we ever going to begin to pay off our $244,000,000 state deficit, we are apparently going to have to turn the state sales tax, already the nation's highest, up another notch.

That Sinking Feeling There is no feeling on earth quite like that of having one of your own vague sensations or presentiments turned, suddenly, into a respectable reality—or at least a respectable theory.

We got our sanity back, the other day, when we read, in the midst of one of those usual discussions of whether or not the Arctic ice cap is in process of melting and raising the height of the oceans around us, that part of what seemed to be happening at an accelerated rate may be due to any melting of the Arctic ice cap but to "the removal of increasing amounts of water and petroleum from the earth, which causes land to sink."

In other words, along with the rising of the oceans, there may be something going on under our feet.

For some time, now, we have had that occasional sinking feeling, and thought we must be imagining things.

Humphrey Again And so Hubert Humphrey is going after the Presidency again, as if nothing had happened, as if he hadn't given away most of himself during the 1968, and had never been Lyndon Johnson's flunky and a living mockery of every liberal pretense he once proclaimed with such earnest passion. This time he ought to do it in drag.

This time Hubert ought to put on the heavy skirt and a little bonnet and move all around Florida and Wisconsin and sing his apologies. Maybe he could explain what he did that night during the convention in Chicago when the cops were battering American citizens on the streets and he jarned off the microphone as if the ugliness would vanish if he didn't look, as if the dick gas would blow away on the wind, as if it would all be pretty and nice after Dick Daley had finished with the rabble below. That was the night Humphrey, wearing a TV and walked over and called her "Mom."

Inside the room were Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, front-runner for the Democratic Presidential nomination, and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, front-running gubernatorial candidate in Texas this year. The topic of discussion assumed nearly total conflict: The oil and gas industry.

Barnes reiterated his past complaint that Muskie's public record on oil-gas questions was solidly anti-Texas. Then followed a discussion of petroleum reserves, with Muskie concluding that the industry has too much preferential treatment from the Federal government. His voice rising, Barnes bluntly told Muskie that he was shocked the Senator could place positions on oil and gas with so little knowledge about the industry's operations.

Involved here is no case of a reactionary Texas declaration of war against a Maine liberal. Rather, Barnes is running for governor on a moderately progressive platform, seeking support among Negroes, Mexican-Americans, youth and labor. Moreover, far from opposing Muskie, Barnes could find support in the party for the nomination.

Barnes' attitude about Muskie matches one of the key Texas Democrats. Influenced by the Muskie bandwagon affect, they tend to believe in the inevitability of his nomination and, therefore, may well end up supporting him. But, in private, they are increasingly doubtful he can carry Texas against Richard M. Nixon as Hubert H. Humphrey did in 1968.

Indeed, politicians of both parties are much higher on Mr. Nixon's Texas prospects than they were during our reporting trip here in August. That change is based partly on the President's

Inside Report

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

AUSTIN, Texas—Lord voices that spilled from a room of Houston's Rice Hotel on Dec. 9 give a clue to the doubt and ambivalence of leading Texas Democrats over the prospect of denying this key state to President Nixon in the 1972 election.

Inside the room were Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, front-runner for the Democratic Presidential nomination, and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, front-running gubernatorial candidate in Texas this year. The topic of discussion assumed nearly total conflict: The oil and gas industry.

Barnes reiterated his past complaint that Muskie's public record on oil-gas questions was solidly anti-Texas. Then followed a discussion of petroleum reserves, with Muskie concluding that the industry has too much preferential treatment from the Federal government.

But there are not the real reasons for feeling disturbed over the temper raised by State Chairman Gaffney's remark. The sad part of this temper is that it implies that a state chairman should either be a motor or skilled at personal appraisal which is at variance with the momentary strategic stance of the party, and which apparently holds that, if you do see some future event coming, the only safe political thing to do is to blink your eyes and pretend you see nothing.

What worries us, as we began to say at the beginning, is the knee-jerk atmosphere which instantly surrounds any such remark of realistic speaking.

The low denominator common nonsense of the Connecticut political moment is that there has been such a popular revolt against the income tax that it has been rendered an untouchable thing for endless more years to come.

That last season raised and added existing taxes to the agency point and still did not manage to even touch the number one financial problem: the session was supposed to deal with—that of the $244,000,000 state deficit.

McGovern's Folly

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

Unsure of this happening, some Texas Republicans have put out this feeler to the Texas Democratic establishment: We will make no serious effort against your nominee for governor (presumably Barnes) if you don't go all-out to defeat Mr. Nixon and Republican Sen. John Tower.

That that is far from the intention of Texas establishment leaders: Barnes, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, and national Democratic treasurer Robert Strauss. In particular, Barnes is seething over the Nixon administration's unsuccessful effort to tie him into squalid financial scandals involving key state Democrats and would dearly love to see Mr. Nixon lose Texas for a third time.

Moreover, the regular Democrats complain that what little Muskie activity there has been here is directed at the party's liberal wing, a distinct minority. For example, Muskie agents have spent disproportionate time wooing Waco businessman Bernard Rapoport, a leading liberal centrist and give Texas Democrats a chance to campaign all-out in his behalf.

That last season raised and added existing taxes to the agency point and still did not manage to even touch the number one financial problem: the session was supposed to deal with—that of the $244,000,000 state deficit.

Reid Reminds Users Of Snowmobile Rules

First Selectman Aaron Reid crossed a public highway, if the crossing is made at an angle, in the number of snowmobiles in town has resulted in additional complaints being received in the selectman's office which he feels result from persons unthinkingly operating their machines in such a manner as to annoy other residents.

He wishes to remind snowmobile operators that the operation of snowmobiles and if all operated in a limited area, snowmobile is permitted on a limited section of highway. Also, sufficient and adequate front and rear lighting is required, and are properly operating brakes, sufficient and adequate reflecting devices; and no snowmobile is to be operated on any fenced agricultural land or pastured land without the written permission of the owner or the agent of the owner of the property.

Reid stated that these and other laws may be enforced by law enforcement officials of the state board of fisheries and game, motor vehicle inspector, state police officer, uniformed municipal police, state park policeman, or forest ranger.

Reid concluded that any persons violating any of the laws covering snowmobiles and regulations relating thereto shall be fined not more than $250 for each offense.

Suspension of Zone Rules Topic of Friday Hearing

The Planning and Zoning Commission will hold a public hearing tomorrow evening at 8 in the Town Office Building regarding the suspension of zoning regulations in town pertaining to two-family dwellings.

The commission felt that there is now an overabundance of duplexes springing up all over town and that a suspension should go into effect until they have time to update the comprehensive plan of development for the town and the zoning and subdivision regulations.

Present regulations permit the building of duplexes on any lot providing it is in R-1 zone, has a minimum of 10,000 sq. ft. with 25 ft. frontage, 40-foot front yard setback, 40-foot side yard setback and 40-foot rear yard setback.

Hartke Puts in a Word

Another Democratic presidential contender, Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana, accused Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Min., of "relating" to the party's $9 million in 1968 campaign debts which he called "a definite liability to the party's success."

Both are contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination. Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty's supporters called the California conservative a "Truman-style Democrat" and the incumbent in Vietnam.

"I did not always believe that to be the case," he added. "I believe it now."

He Designs Wooden Wall Plates

By MARGARET HAYDEN (Herald Reporter)

A Manchester man carves geometric designs on wooden plates for wall decorations.

Leonard W. Darling of 8 Wadwell Rd. cuts the plates on his basement lathe, draws designs to carve on their rims and centers, and stains and waxes them.

"I first carved the plates by hand from boards but now I use my lathe because it's easier and faster," he said. The plates are from 21 to 24 inches in diameter. Some are flat but most are curved. He cuts the design with a one-edge razor blade. He made some mahogany plates but most are pine because it is easier to carve. They are stained with various shades of brown and dark red. He has made about 40, each with a different original design. He compares the patterns to those on cathedral windows.

A carpenter by trade, Darling leaves for work at 6:30 mornings and is home about 4 afternoons. He does inside work for contractors in West Hartford and Newington.

Approaching 70 years of age, he said, "I probably won't work for the next 20 years." He plans to spend more time making plates to find a market for them. The one in his living room is his wife's favorite. "We can't get rid of that one," he said.

The Darlings have lived in Manchester for 35 years. He was born in Beacham, Va. About 45 years ago a Beacham church replaced its pews and Darling got a discarded one which he saved for several years. He used it wood 15 years ago in a desk in a bookcase that covers one of his living room walls. He designed the bookcase with a shelf for one of his tall sailing ship models, shelves to fit books he treasures, a full-length top shelf for small items he has carved and bric-a-brac, and a pediment. He carved designs on the desk leaf, its two doors, and the pediment.

Carving plates is a hobby he started about two years ago. He also carves and inlays cabinets. Photography and model ship building are hobbies he has had for several years. He formerly was active in photography clubs and still takes some pictures. He made models of ships dating from Roman galleys to modern battleships. Twenty of these are displayed at St. Johns

U.S. Warns Reds On 'Adventures' At Paris Parley

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices climbed today as investors anticipated an improved economy in 1972. Trading volume was heavy.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 3.91 to 908.24.

Advances led declines by more than 2 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysis attributed the advances to increasing signs of economic recovery and the trend toward lower interest rates. They also said the market received support from the return for total American with Dow's penetration of the 900 level Wednesday.

Steel stocks were lower after price cuts announced Wednesday by U.S. Steel on big-volume sheet products and the reports of price cuts spreading throughout the steel industry as a result of nationwide resistance to pending price boosts. U.S. Steel dropped 1 to 31 1/2, Bethlehem Steel slipped 1 1/2 to 44, and Atlantic Richfield, up 1/4 to 77 1/2.

American Stock Exchange included Teleprompter, up 2 1/2 to 12 1/2; Edmon, up 1/4 to 17; Lozano Corp. warrants, up 2 to 64; DEA, up 1/2 to 5 1/2; and Puritan Fashions, up 1/4 to 15 1/2.

Donations Asked For Scholarship

A fund raising drive for the Edward P. Moriarty Scholarship Fund is being conducted in January, according to Herbert Stevenson and Fred Peck, town registrars and co-chairmen of the fund.

Each year a scholarship will be awarded to a Manchester resident pursuing a course of study in the field of government services.

Anyone wishing to make a donation may give their contribution to Town Clerk Edward Tomkiel, scholarship fund treasurer. Contributions will be accepted in person or by mail at the town clerk's office in the Municipal Building, 41 Center St.

Do-It-Yourself Trend Spreads to Government

By BETTE QUATRALE

Tolland 1971 will go down in local history as the year of the "Battle of the Budget," and the year gas stations and high rise signs became "fighting words."

Government became some what of a do-it-yourself project as citizens groups and conservation and land trusts to education, year-round schools and charter revision.

Far from acting as vigilantes, these groups all are stressing a positive approach to what members feel are crucial problems facing the town. "Problems which many in the past do not seem to be taken care of by existing town governmental agencies. Most of the citizen committees picture themselves as research arms of the town's board and commission."

The preparation for the 1971-72 town budget, began normally with the usual preliminary full-scale taxpayers revolt last year which culminated in a referendum cutting $120,000 from the finance board recommended $1,043,220 budget. The cut, representing about four mills, took $80,000 from the general government budget and $40,000 from the school budget already cut by $60,000 by the finance board.

The only major new project left in the final budget was $10,000 appropriated for the town comprehensive plan, which was agreed to maintain sufficient support to be retained.

The budget fight was a bitter one and ramifications are likely to be felt for some time. Recommendations of the Salary Study Committee for elected officials, although low compared to other towns of similar size, were cut in half. The school system pulled in its financial belt until it really hurt, prompting the issuance of a serious warning that the town cannot afford to "continue to offer salaries and services beyond the level of surrounding towns without irreparably damaging the quality of education offered."

It was the third consecutive year the school board budget has been severely cut and was the biggest cut yet, amounting to a total of $100,000 from the original request.

Townpeople Rejected Budget

The $1,043,220 finance board approved budget would have called for a 7.5 mill rate, compared to 7.0 mills for the 1970-71 budget. The annual town meeting raised a cry for more austere rejections of the budget, only to have the finance board recommend it intact. Advocates of strong budget cutting then petitioned for a referendum to cut the budget by $100,000 prompting a group of citizens to counterpetition for a referendum supporting the finance board budget.

Faced with the two alternatives on the voting machines, taxpayers opted for the stringer budget but by a 2-1 margin as 50 per cent of the eligible voted out to vote.

The finance board subsequently reduced the budget to $1,023,220 and levied a 7.2 mill rate during a stormy four-hour session.

The need to formulate an up-to-date comprehensive plan for the town became a major issue during the year, prompted by large measure by citizen reaction to the proliferation of new gas stations being constructed. The appearance of high rise signs accompanying the stations was likened to waving a red flag in front of an angry bull, prompting vocal outcry and the formation of a group of citizens calling themselves CITE (Citizens Interested in Tolland's Environment).

CITE is an unusual group however, it has a leader, Mrs. Mary McNally, but no formal membership. It is of the other type of organizational framework. Its supporters are represented in a variety of new citizen study groups and projects.

Mood Prompted Drive for Plan

Kicking off the new mood for planning was a public hearing of the Planning and Zoning Commission in March, called to hear a zone change request from residential to commercial for the stretch of Rt. 106 (Merrow Rd.) from Anthony Rd. to the town line. The meeting was attended by 300 residents, and petitions were filed by locally formed CITE with 500 signatures opposing the zone change. It was readily apparent that the mood exemplified at the hearing was to prompt a major shift in the role of planning for the community. Up to this point planning had been largely in a consultant effort to keep up with the more immediate zoning problems of the fast-growing town. Controversy concentrated on convenience stores would be opened. Then centers were opposed by a majority of the respondents.

A regional health district was favored as was a utility study covering dumps, sewers and public water supplies. Residents appeared content with the present police protection.

Major meetings of the year were of an educational nature, with the Tolland Junior's sponsoring a series of forums including a highly successful one on the "Drug Scene" which attracted 450 residents, both adults and children. Also held were forums on various types of governments and a Meet the Candidate Night.

The Greater Hartford Process Inc., developers of a new town for the Capital Region came to Tolland to conduct a meeting attended by about 60 residents who left the meeting certain Tolland would not be the location for the new town.

New board chairman were elected, James Cornish as chairman of the Board of Education; Edward Wolfanger as chairman of the Board of Finance and Douglas Prior as chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Tax Burden Shifted to Land

The town's grand list included a healthy margin totaling $28,474. Revaluation at the year's end prompted loud outcry from older residents owning large parcels of land as the burden of taxation shifted from the homeowner to the landowner.

A last minute controversial "20 Questions," was circulated during the final weekend of the campaign, which was strongly supporting the need for the town plan throughout the budget battle.

They Invested Their Vision

The open house at the newly completed headquarters attracted more than 600 taxpayers who came to see what the town had in store. The town manager looked like the lion in the side.

The school board received a $32,000 deficit appropriation from a town meeting without any difficulty, but full of the stringer budget cutting by the finance board and the referendum.

Meadowbrook School embarked on an educational recycling program. A large number of cast offs and household leftovers which were turned into educational projects were well underway at year's end after the creative teaching staff. The school then turned to the dump for classroom furniture, fashioning stools out of discarded fishing line and other materials from the dump. A sculpturer, spotted at the dump by eager-eyed school personnel, discovered a piece of spools school and turned into tables to be used along with the spool seats. Other finishing line spools were used to form bookcases in the classrooms.

Eric Koch served as valentorian and Joan Clark as salutatorian of Tolland High School's first government class numbering 97 students.

A state survey showed Tolland ranked the largest average class sizes of the 25 towns in the 2-601 to 5,000 pupil category. The survey published by the Connecticut School Development Council showed Tolland ranking 220 and levied a 7.2 mill rate during a stormy four-hour session.

Tollard School Board, Contractor Talk Over Bus Problems

The Board of Education met privately last night with school bus contractor Pincus to discuss an attempt to iron out the many school bus transportation problems that have plagued the board for the past year.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Kenneth MacKinnon expressed the hope the meeting would lead to the guaranteeing of service for the balance of the school year, until the five-year transportation contract expires the end of June.

Both parties were represented by their attorneys, Town Counsel Robert King for the school board and Atty. Andrew Brand for Pincus.

Murrow had again threatened to end the bus service contract if the increased fourth grade class problem is not solved by the end of the school year. The bus runs used by the mini-buses picked up small numbers of students taking them to school for special education classes for to central points for pick up by the regular buses.

The buses are running the week however, after Murrow met with the Board of Education, reportedly to hammer out an agreement satisfactory to both parties. The crisis of the problems is the town's withdrawal of recognition from so-called "dead head" hangers (Amen's Club Industrial park where the buses are parked) to the school which the board feels is the proper origin.

Other business conducted at the school board work session included the presentation of a preliminary report on proposed changes in the school board. The full report will be presented at the regular school board meeting next Wednesday.

Attacks Continued On Radar Locations

Some of the South Vietnamese forces will remain in the order region on the South Vietnamese side, to check infiltration. They also will beep up the Saigon River infiltration corridor north of the capital where enemy units have begun to step up attacks.

South Vietnamese forces will continue to make raids into eastern Cambodia and to help Cambodian troops, but they will not remain in fixed positions, the sources said.

South Vietnamese forces will continue to make raids into eastern Cambodia and to help Cambodian troops, but they will not remain in fixed positions, the sources said.

The 3rd Region is the most critical of the four military regions in South Vietnam. It includes Saigon and its surrounding provinces and includes the bulk of the American troops in Vietnam.

There was no immediate word on whether South Vietnamese forces would abandon their base at Pincus Peak. The base is controlled by the 4th Military Region, the Mekong Delta.

The new task force will be patterned after the U.S. Air Force's 1st Military Division and will have about 100 transport and gunship helicopters. It will operate exclusively in the 3rd Military Region and in eastern Cambodia as a ready reaction force to meet enemy incursions.

Collins Wins State Primary For President

Brookfield AP - House Minority Leader Francis Collins of Brookfield said Wednesday the 1972 General Assembly most likely will approve a direct presidential primary for Connecticut.

This matter came up in the legislature in 1971 although it was stalled in the Senate and never got down to the House.

Collins said in an interview over radio station WHEB.

He said the legislative lead he had spoken with "have been fairly responsive" to the idea of a direct presidential primary.

He Advertises His Product

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Fred Lakin, a 31-year-old liquor salesman from Monterey, did not make it past the courthouse steps when he drove to Van Nuys to answer charges of drunken driving, authorities said.

William Rostler, a court-house guard, said Lakin drove his car about 100 feet of court-house lawn Wednesday, forcing two women to jump to safety, and then bumped up the front of the car.

"It came up by a drunk driving ticket," Rostler said. Lakin's lawyer said he will have no problem with the prosecution.

Lakin, arrested in San Fernando about a month ago on a charge of driving drunk, was booked again for investigation of motoring under the influence, authorities said.

PROSECUTIONS

A wallet containing personal papers and a small amount of change was stolen yesterday afternoon from a locker at Manchester High School.

At a meeting held in early December, the architect presented two proposals for construction. One proposal concerned the project in phases but ending up with the original proposal for a school to accommodate 3,000 students. It was agreed that this method would be more expensive in the end due to the existing construction costs.

The plan favored by the architect would slightly reduce several areas but would all be done in one phase.

The cost of the swimming pool, which was considered in the original plan, was $483,000. Most committee members did not favor eliminating the pool as it was originally included to be used as a community pool.

If the Board of Education approved the plan Monday night then it is expected they will go to the Town Council for approval. The councilmen have said they would prefer to hold a special meeting for this session.

Harjette J. Fischer of East Hartford, charged with leaving a bad check; arrested last night on a Circuit Court 12 warrant; released on written promise to appear. Court date Jan. 24.

Francis Elywa, 61, of Stratford Springs, charged with fraudulent issue of check; arrested last night on a Circuit Court 12 warrant; released on a $200 non-arrant bond. Court date Jan. 17.

Gordon A. Norwood, 16, of no certain address, charged with third-degree burglary; arrested last night on a Circuit Court 12 warrant in connection with a recent break at the Lantern House in E. Center St.; held on $200 cash bond, to be presented in court today.

PROSECUTIONS

A wallet containing personal papers and a small amount of change was stolen yesterday afternoon from a locker at Manchester High School.

At a meeting held in early December, the architect presented two proposals for construction. One proposal concerned the project in phases but ending up with the original proposal for a school to accommodate 3,000 students. It was agreed that this method would be more expensive in the end due to the existing construction costs.

The plan favored by the architect would slightly reduce several areas but would all be done in one phase.

The cost of the swimming pool, which was considered in the original plan, was $483,000. Most committee members did not favor eliminating the pool as it was originally included to be used as a community pool.

If the Board of Education approved the plan Monday night then it is expected they will go to the Town Council for approval. The councilmen have said they would prefer to hold a special meeting for this session.

Police Report A Pink Slip

MIDDLETOWN (AP) - Police were searching today for a man from Old Lyme who escaped from the jail commissioner's office in Superior Court.

The suspect, 21-year-old Dwight Pink, had been arrested with four companions on charges of possessing narcotics with intent to sell and possession of controlled drugs with intent to sell. Police said they found heroin and marijuana in a motel room in Old Saybrook.

Officials say Pink took advantage of a large crowd in the office Wednesday to give police the slip. He had been in custody since state and local police raided the motel room early Wednesday morning.

The five originally were held on $10,000. Two have now been released on nonreturn bonds, one is being held in lieu of $1,000 bond and another is being held while police check his background before releasing him.

Japan's Airlift to Seattle Spurs Nixon to Aid Hungry

By CHARLES FOLEY SEATTLE - A halftone of food, flown as a "mercy gift" from Japan to the citizens of Seattle, has spurred President Nixon to order the release of surplus rice through the aid program.

"Neighbors in Need," which runs the food banks, employs volunteers from Boy Scouts, the Black Students' Union to collect money. Boxes rattle at key street corners and school children raise pennies through spare time chores.

Seattle's cargo of rice, noodles and canned goods - accompanied by $64.45, collected as a surprise Christmas present by Japanese well-wishers through their YMCA - comes from her sister city of Kobe. More is promised.

Guatemala Says 1972 To Be Less Violent

By GEORGE GEDDA GUATEMALA (AP) - Violence is a well-established way of death here but Guatemalans welcomed 1972 with the hope that the worst days of their war-torn history may be over.

The elimination of a number of leftist guerrillas by government forces is believed to have been a key factor in enabling the peace process to move forward.

In a year and a half Arana has visited 235 of Guatemala's 325 municipalities, some accessible only by horseback or mule. Typically, Arana meets informally with local leaders, promising government assistance in the construction of a roadway or a health center on the condition that the community supply free labor.

President Carlos Arana lifted a state of siege a month ago and a new soccer ball, Arana, invariably gives a stern "no soccer" sign.

Arana has paid special attention to Zacapa, his erstwhile battleground. Once-famed army troops are now engaged in road and latrine-building projects.

The recent Zacapa centennial was observed with a festival of cultural and athletic activities. Long-term prospects are good for Guatemala. The military campaign in the eastern state of Quiché is now engaged in road and latrine-building projects.

Arana has been seeking to re-furnish an image which, at least when he took power, was headed an antiguerrilla campaign in the eastern state of Quiché. Reliable estimates are that 3,000 to 5,000 persons were killed. Even some staunchly anti-Communist Guatemalans say many of the victims were innocent.

The DRY Side of Sports

Our National Anthem

Ladies and gentlemen, our National Anthem, will you please rise. So far in my lifespan as a citizen of the United States of America, I haven't ever seen anyone sitting during the playing of our national song, but lately the singing of it leaves a lot to be desired.

Indy's First Entry

Denny Zimmerman, manager of Gloster, the 1971 Indianapolis 500 Race of the Year, has become the first official entry for the 1972 May 31st auto classic at the famous Brickyard.

Before sports events, public gatherings or at certain ceremonies the Star Spangled Banner is heard.

Usually, during basketball games the cheerleaders lift it upon themselves to start singing and the more mature spectators join in. However, my recollection that I have been part of in the past year during the playing or singing there are always a select few that tend to be noticed.

Basketball Reminds

The University of Connecticut "Pepe team" started it a few years ago, and now more and more high schools are incorporating them as part of their basketball games.

Night Time Skiing

"Conditions permitting we will be making snow until it gets warm," commented Rick Carter, general manager of Sundown Mountain in New Hartford. The resort's snow machine has helped improve slope conditions. Due to the unseasonable temperatures, ice had appeared, but the new snow, plus man made snow, covered it, improving the skiing surface.

Allen Would Rate Honor for Victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's not that George Allen isn't grateful. It's just that Allen is so grateful, George Allen.

"I'd gladly trade the honor to a victory over San Francisco," Allen said Wednesday when told he had been named the National Football League Coach of the Year by the Associated Press.

He referred to his Washington Redskins' 24-0 loss to the San Francisco 49ers in a National Conference playoff game, the loss ended Washington's chances of going to the Super Bowl following their best season, the 1971 season.

The 49-year-old Allen moved to Washington a year ago from the Los Angeles Rams. He then began a stream of trades that led to Washington from an all-star to a contender.

Allen, who posted a 48-17 record in five years with Los Angeles, had to overcome the injuries of Jurgenen and wide receiver Charley Taylor, who missed the last eight games.

Allen's first acquisition as coach-president of the Redskins was Billy Kilmer, who was to back up starting quarterback Bobby Jurgenen.

Allen pulled 83 of the 60 votes cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers and sports broadcasters.

The big trade was with the Rams, a massive deal that saw Allen obtain what turned out to be the best of the "Hill Gang" defensive unit: linebackers Myron Pottion and Jack Farley and defensive tackle Diron Talbert, plus three other players and a draft pick.

Ski Notes

BY BILL SCHERKE
Road conditions were hazardous on the weekend, and with many sections unplowed. After a long extra hard drive because of blizzard conditions, we finally got to our destination Newport, Vt.

Jay Peak, the giant of the north country, was just given a new mantle, a new 14-inch fall of light snow.

John Maurer of the New England Patriots received three votes. Bud Grant of Minnesota and Tommy Petro of Los Angeles got two apiece and Don McPherson of Baltimore one.

Talked with Al Cahill, general manager of the Rams, and he soon had us on our way. Temperature at the base was six degrees at the outset of our day of skiing with the sun shining and no wind.

After several warm-up runs off the T-bar and chairlift, it was time to go to the summit. Here it was eight below. After a few runs with the local snow machine, the knees it was time for lunch.

The day warmed to the 20's and the skiing was excellent. I'd like to say that the chairlift was the best of the biggest crowds of the year on hand; this being vacation time for the ski industry.

The idea of the inbred sort of skiing in professional circles is changing. I'd like to say that the chairlift was the best of the biggest crowds of the year on hand; this being vacation time for the ski industry.

Strong Challenge for Lakers Due

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Cleveland's Billy Search, who is the Lakers' next opponent, has a strong front line, he said, and the Milwaukee Bucks have Kareem Jabbar.

"It will be a real challenge to win (Chamberlain), if they get by the Bucks, the Lakers will have to be the greatest team ever," said Fitch.

The Cavaliers lost 115-103 to the Lakers Wednesday night before a crowd of 11,778—the largest crowd in Cleveland since Cleveland Arena for a Cavs' game.

In addition to Los Angeles, the NBA's three other division leaders are the Milwaukee Bucks, the New York Knicks, and the Philadelphia 76ers.
