Fire Calls
 At 8:30 yesterday afternoon Eighth District firemen put out a minor fire at the Iona Manufacturing Co. warehouse on Regent St. that damaged packing crates and about 10 hand mixers. The fire was thought to have started when a welder sparks ignited a crate. A small bedroom fire at 92 Oliver St. last night at 9:15 where thick smoke demanded air paws and smoke ejectors, grew into a potentially dangerous situation by a false alarm from Box 125 at Galloway and N. School Sts. at 9:20. Luckily the Eighth District men were able to put out the fire and send men to the false alarm at the same time. The bedroom fire damage was confined to some bedding and a chair, and the blaze was still under investigation.

An Eighth District spokesman said the false alarm case was turned over to police, along with information about the clinic, fees, and a description including a red registration form, is asked to write or call Fred A. Runey Jr., 100 business care division director.

Tolland Building Committee Sought For Middle School Addition

Overcrowded conditions at the recently constructed Tolland Middle School have prompted the Board of Education to go on record last night asking that the Board of Selectmen appoint a building committee to be responsible for constructing an addition onto the school.

Dr. MacKenzie presented a detailed preliminary report on the middle school problems to last night's meeting of the school board.

At the time of construction of the middle school, the town's limited bonding capacity would not cover the costs of the entire school.

One-Fourth of Mankind (10. Century of the Mongols)

From the creation of Adam to the present day, no man... ever saw or inquired into so many and such great things. Marco Polo.

In the year 1206, three ragged and bearded men arrived in Venice, Italy, from the East. They were Marco Polo and his brothers Maffeo and Nicolo Polo and the latter's son Marco, home after an absence of 24 years and rich both with jewels and marvelous tales of a distant land called Cathay.

Later, while a prisoner during the war between Venice and Genoa, Marco dictated the story of his adventures, which began when he was a boy of 17, to give an unbelieving world the most famous travel book of all time.

In the 13th century, all but the peripheries of the Euro-Asian continent succumbed to the Mongol explosion. Nominal ruler of this vast empire, the greatest the world had yet known, was Kublai Khan, grandson of Genghis.

The Polos were only three of innumerable foreigners drawn to the khan's capital of Cambaluc, near modern Peking. Their admiration for the Mongols was not shared by the conquered Chinese, however.

Kublai launched a series of unsuccessful campaigns against Burma, Java and Vietnam. (The Vietnamese had driven out the Chinese in 938, after 1,000 years of rule, and were to fight them again in the 15th century.)

These wars, plus two disastrous attempts to invade Japan, caused inflation and soaring taxes, adding to the unrest in China.

In the middle of the 14th century, popular uprisings broke out. By 1368, the greatest of the rebel leaders, one Chu Yuang-chang, an orphan and former beggar, drove out the last alien emperor and founded a dynasty which he called Ming or "Glorious" China was Chinese again.

But the Ming could no more escape the "cycle of dynasty"—moving from strong, vigorous rule at the beginning to corruption and ineffectiveness at the end—than could any previous dynasty. In 1644, the Manchus captured Peking and for the second time, foreigners ruled China.

Another new force had also begun to make itself felt during the Ming dynasty. In 1517, the first Portuguese traders arrived in Canton and by 1600, a people called the Russians were pressing into northern Manchuria.

Thursday, January 13

April in January: This April in January has now consumed nearly half that month in the year which is normally distinguished by a relatively moderate and unobtrusive cold spell.

society. Some say the system of justice isn't tough enough. Some say the prisons aren't modern enough. It all adds up to what seems to be, at first, a rather unique two way mirror. Only, if we keep looking, we will find that it is not merely a question of the United States and West Germany being able to match and share experience. We will find, for whatever help that gives us in finding diagnosis and suggesting blame and proposing cure, that much the same thing is going on also in England, in Japan, and in Russia, so that, as really happens so often, the same kind of behavioral thing is happening almost everywhere at the same time under different political, economic and social systems.

Strangely enough, there is just about as much desperation as comfort in the discovery that everybody may be in the same boat. Where, then, do we look for the answer and the remedy?

Male Dancer: Until they had happened to see Tod Shavin do one of his stunts and stomp rhythms up to a climax where they themselves had trouble keeping themselves from tumbling out into the aisles and joining in, most American men had the idea that for a man to be dancing on a stage was something abnormal and of-fenseful.

Shavin, erecting a whole career and a magnificent physique on the wreck of two legs paralyzed at the age of 18, found and erupted out again the instinctive, primitive rhythms into which he had been raised before he was ever conscious that he was creating or practicing an art.

Once he himself was seen, the argument over whether there ought to be such a thing as a "male dancer" was answered, in the affirmative. But nothing has guaranteed us how many of the breed any one generation would be privileged to see.

New State Income Tax Alert: Last summer's revolt by the Connecticut taxpayer probably will not go down in history as did the Boston Tea Party, although the feat may be considered the reverse event, in that the state income tax was repealed before even a cent was collected. It took action by the repeal of the onerous Stamp Act.

As a result of the repeal of the Stamp Act, the angry protest voiced last summer against the tax in some legislative ears when the lawmaking body convenes next month, but this is no guarantee that the sound will be dimmed by the incessant screaming of the pro-tax group, whose idea of saving the state financially is to clober the taxpayer.

More significantly, the alert is on for the taxpayer to look for new and perhaps more covert strategies from the income tax advocates. The campaign for adoption is likely to employ "ideals" that would minimize the income tax as an issue itself, but subordinating it to some larger issue such as the state's business and industrial economy.

This is one picture that is emerging from the last November are designed not to go against Israel but as a long-range threat to the "southern flank" of NATO.

Although details of the new Phantom fleet are cloaked in high secrecy, arrangements for the first shipment of Phantoms to Israel are now in final preparation. To Mrs. Meir, the recent batch of Phantoms is seen as essential to give Israel a strong bargaining position in the Indian talks expected to start next month aimed at a partial Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai peninsula and the opening of the Red Canal.

Thus, the Israeli Prime Minister gave President Nixon certain credit pledges that Israel would bargain in good faith for an interim settlement of the Sinai-Suez Canal issue after the United States resumes shipments of the Phantoms.

The key to Mr. Nixon's Middle East policy has always been to end the Arab-Israeli struggle as the first step toward ending the alarming growth of Soviet influence in Egypt. In short, once Israel is persuaded to withdraw from occupied Egyptian territory, so Mr. Nixon feels, President Sadat will begin to reduce the vast Soviet military presence in Egypt.

Hence the paradox: Israel has made an open Phantom pipeline the essential first step for serious talks on an Israeli-Egyptian accord, but one effect of that open pipeline almost surely will be an increase of Soviet power inside Egypt.

That explains the intensive, new NATO fleet on the North Atlantic coast. It is in the waters off the North African coast that the U.S. Navy's secondary role in the Soviet Union's plans for its Egyptian bases.

Moreover, with NATO pressing Moscow hard for a mutual troop pullout from East and West Germany, the Russians are perceived as eager to enlarge and make permanent their air and naval bases in Egypt. Their purpose? To outflank Southern Europe from the North African coast after the U.S. begins to withdraw from Europe. To counter this Soviet air and naval force, Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird and U.S. NATO officials put the case hard

Inside Report

WASHINGTON — With arms shipments to the Middle East about to escalate, top Pentagon strategists are now increasing the pressure on U.S. allies for a permanent NATO fleet in the Mediterranean to counter the Soviet naval power in the Mediterranean itself but growing Soviet air power in Egypt.

The paradox of this American effort, which started last month at the North Atlantic Council meeting in Brussels, is that the imminent resumption of U.S. Phantoms promised to Prime Minister Golda Meir during her December meeting here is to clober the taxpayer.

enough and strength enough to correct the whole immoral... Certainly, Mr. Editor, there is no winning in war but equally certain are the different degrees of losing. The United States pays to good international diplomacy a good deal more than any of the other participants and when you are that much of a loser, it follows that you probably did something wrong. What we did wrong, of course, was to substitute the pragmatic ends of the power politics game plan in place of the ideals and the moral so long the essence of our national creed.

Some brand of power politics may still be necessary in this less than ideal world, but to play that game successfully, we need the courage to recognize and acknowledge right even when that acknowledgment runs against our own best interest and the vision to know that holding fast to our ideals is the only bulwark that can save us from our own duplicity. We are getting none of this kind of statelessness from the present lot of arguements under way in Washington.

Now, Mr. Editor, having cleared up this matter of "wrong-to-right," I hope you will return to your usual high level of logic and comment. Your idealistic friend, William E. Hilditch.

Defining Pornography: It is a wonderful thing that in the state of Connecticut we have many who are bent on defining pornography as the highest judicial precedent in our state. States, namely the supreme Court.

These men realize that they are over-riding a minority group (possibly) that destroy in each city to make worthless a portion of the total cost of specific consumer goods. The price of arguements under way in Washington.

As to pornography entering into the state of Connecticut, perhaps one would also like to remark on the fact that the state's educational system is a home in high school two years ago.

I wonder how many saw the magazine "Travel and Leisure" in the state of Connecticut? Those who were fortunate or unfortunate as the case may be would have seen the magazine in the state of David by Michelangelo. If so they saw a male body builder who was these fine intelligent men allow their daughters to view this magazine, would they make hammers and pound it to rubble?

For years the sculptures by Rodin, conceived and carved by authorities from public view, shall we take the hammers to these statues? These men should turn to the parts of the Bible not classified as pornography, and read the passage, "Let him first cast the mote from his own eye."

These men are slummers, as was Adolph Hitler. Remember that the word to power was in the Burning Of The Books.

West Side Waker: To the Editor, It is encouraging to read that our Board of Directors and William O'Reilly, director of public works, have not forgotten the problem of the Cooper Hill filter plant which seems to be the chief cause of frequent full tasting and foul smelling water on the west side of town.

Mayor John Thompson, according to an article in last night's paper, has called for a public hearing "sometimes in the future."

Miss Cochran reported she was kept overnight in a Hartford hotel but unharmed. She said, "I hollered 'run.' We got a chance to run and we ran like hell."

He said they sprang from the door, bounded down the stairs and scattered in all directions.

Hijacker Thwarted As Jet Crew Flees: DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A Hill pilot, said another stewardess brought him a note that the hijacker had fled the plane was en route to Dallas from Houston.

The hijacker gave Braniff officials one hour to meet his demands. After the deadline passed however, there was no word of any new ultimatum. Mechanics kept the plane grounded by saying it needed repairs.

Hill said members of the crew and indicated he wanted to go to the airport, near the main door to get food and coffee. As soon as all seven had gathered near the exit, Hill forced them out the door, said "I hollered 'run.' We got a chance to run and we ran like hell."

Recovery of Towels Helps Budget Slightly

School athletes next year will not have to resort to padding their lockers with towels, a school official said today.

The school board, which met last night at the Board of Education, recommended that the school budget be increased from just under $2,000 to $2,050.

The reason, Theodore Fairbanks, supervisor of buildings and grounds, and his assistant, Charles Crocini, located 700 pieces—some woven in several nooks and crannies of the school system. They have since been returned to central supply.

"We know every hiding place in town," Crocini said. "You'd better believe it; Fairbanks' men found them."

The request for towels was a relatively small one—only $645,346 recommended by Dr. Hemigan for custodial maintenance of the school system, including new equipment, capital improvements, and new personnel.

The following is a breakdown of the above categories, with changes from the 1971-72 budget: Supplies, $81,225; up $29,640; contracted services, $105,370; up $75,800; conditioning projects, $68,275; new equipment, $22,275; capital improvements, $81,000; and new personnel, $89,700.

Accounting for more than $61,000 of the big jump in contract services is $46,700 for extra maintenance of playgrounds, driveways, parking lots, and other areas at all schools; and $17,775 for a heat zoning and other services contract for Manchester High School, Hill and Bennett Junior High Schools, and Martin School.

Crocini said that the contract for Martin, which he called the most sophisticated of all town heating systems, runs out next month. It is covered until November.

One of the main zoning and control problems, Crocini stated, is replacement of obsolete heating systems. The cost of such a checkup for the school year, another at mid-year, is on an annual basis.

They also do some training of school system employees. The two big items under conditioning projects are for repairs to three school roofs: $15,000 for the high school; $15,000 for the middle school; and $15,000 for the elementary school.

Larger Appropriations Among the larger proposed capital improvement appropriations are $70,000 to replace the Lincoln School heating system; $10,000 to replace the football and soccer fields; $25,000 to install a concrete slab under the gym floor; and $10,000 to construct a field equipment storage building at the school.

Other Towns Contribute Paul Jettner, center director, said that Wetherfield, Windsor, and Glastonbury, with town service fees, pay about one-third of the center's cost. In addition to the introduction of more sophisticated second generation equipment, he said that, in the past few years, the center has received a considerable amount of money from the State of Connecticut.

Sartor said that the value of the damage has not been established, but said it involves "a considerable amount of money."

Jimmy the Greek Likes Cowboys

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Jimmy the Greek's kind of town-wide open, jump-around and his busting around town today with his fancy black-and-white checkered knits, his slide rule and crystal ball and predicted the Dallas Cowboys by six over the Miami Dolphins in Sunday's Super Bowl.

"It wasn't for the Dolphins which we'll call the destiny factor—the belief by the Dolphins that they can't be beaten—the spread would be even greater," said the dark-haired, odds-maker from Las Vegas.

"You must give Dallas a point on overall team speed," he said. "You must add another yard to their offense for its depth and experience. It doesn't see much difference in the rival quarterbacks. The Dallas-Roger Staubach instance—Roger Staubach for Dallas and Bob Griese for Miami—but there is a tremendous gap in the drop-off from Staubach to Craig Morton and from Griese to George Mira.

"You can find the same difference in the reserves in every case," he said. "The Dallas-Roger Staubach instance—Roger Staubach for Dallas and Bob Griese for Miami—but there is a tremendous gap in the drop-off from Staubach to Craig Morton and from Griese to George Mira.

Brushes Off Knee Injury Talk Calvin Hill Ready For Play Sunday

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Calvin Hill is determined he won't be a bench rider for Super Bowl VI. Hill can't stand that talk that a third knee may keep him out of Sunday's game with the Miami Dolphins.

"It would be just too much after what happened last year," said the Dallas Cowboy running back.

Hill proposed action for only two plays in Super Bowl V against Baltimore in a 16-10 loss. He returned to the locker room after what happened last year, said the Dallas Cowboy running back.

Weight Loss Helped Little Chicken Man vs. Pugh In Two-Way Line War

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It'll be "Chicken Man vs. Jethro Pugh" in one of those two-man wars certain to influence Sunday's outcome of Super Bowl VI.

It was swapped to Miami—his old team—when he was traded from the Colts to the Dolphins last year.

Little played at 288 under former coach Tom Landry. He was 14 pounds heavier than when he was hired in 1970, others were forthcoming to discard the fat.

Don Nelson Latest Cup Super Sub

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics always boasted a Super Sub, a highly prized player who could come off the bench and provide spark, in the years they dominated the National Basketball Association.

Now, riding high once again after missing the playoffs the past two years, the Celtics have another Super Sub, veteran Don Nelson.

Picked up by the Celtics after being cut by the Los Angeles Lakers in 1968, Nelson is enjoying his chance to play with the Celtics in a key role in keeping Boston in first place in the Atlantic Division.

Nelson came off the bench and scored seven points in the second period, but saved his best for the Wednesday night night in lifting the Celtics to a 115-111 victory over the Chicago Bulls before 8,599 fans at Boston Garden.

Nelson scored six points in the fourth period and the East was tied 110-110 as the Celtics set up a shot by Jo Jo White.

White missed, but Nelson rebounded and tipped the ball into the basket for a 115-111 victory.

"Don has been fantastic," Ralph Simpson of Denver and Gene Combs of Utah.

The latter paired with the bench along with forward Ed

Oddity With All-Stars Eastern Division Player Picked on Western Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Wendell Gilbert Jones of Memphis, Tenn., a member of an Eastern Division team, will play for the West in the American Basketball Association's All-Star game at Louisville Jan. 20.

How can that happen? When ballots were sent out to sportswriters and broadcasters throughout the league for voting on the mid-season game, Jones was with the Memphis Pros of the West. But as the voting was being conducted, he was with the Carolina Cougars of the East.

However, he garnered enough votes to be selected for the West and will play against the East's All-Star team.

Ladner, however, will play for the West. The West's opening game was at Louisville Jan. 20.

Weight Loss Helped Little Chicken Man vs. Pugh In Two-Way Line War

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It'll be "Chicken Man vs. Jethro Pugh" in one of those two-man wars certain to influence Sunday's outcome of Super Bowl VI.

It was swapped to Miami—his old team—when he was traded from the Colts to the Dolphins last year.

Little played at 288 under former coach Tom Landry. He was 14 pounds heavier than when he was hired in 1970, others were forthcoming to discard the fat.

Super Reactor Bared

WASHINGTON (AP) — Plans to construct a $500-million "breeder" atomic power plant as a major step toward assuring maintenance of the nation's atomic power fuels for "tens of thousands of years" was announced today.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the plant will be built in Tennessee and operated by the Commonwealth Edison Co. of Chicago and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

This project would be the nation's first demonstration plant for producing atomic power, the AEC said, and at the same time it would breed new atomic fuel.

The project was hailed by the AEC as a momentous step toward development of a breeder reactor industry which President Nixon has said would offer "our best hope for meeting the nation's growing demand for economical clean energy."

The AEC said construction of the plant will begin this year, probably at Sevier, Tenn., about 83 miles from Knoxville. The plant, which is designed to explore further the commercial feasibility of the breeder technology, would actually feed power into TVA's system. It is expected to be in operation by 1980.

AEC Chairman James H. Schlesinger said that subject to acceptance of final arrangements, the utility industry will make a major financial contribution to the project. As of now, he said, conditional pledges amounting to about $200 million have been made by all segments of the utility industry, including privately owned companies.

"We are very enthusiastic about this project because of the inherent advantages in the breeder, which will produce more nuclear fuel than it consumes," Schlesinger said.

Plans are underway for possibly constructing a second demonstration plant in order to permit "this concept to be incorporated into the power economy in a significant way by late 1980, and to establish a viable breeder industry to meet the future long-term needs of the nation."

Schlesinger estimated private industry would finance about 70 percent of the government pick-up of the tab for the remaining 30 percent.

In answer to questions by newsmen, Schlesinger said today's announcement was "absolutely final."

Most of the state and city officials who testified last year left the committee with the impression they were less interested in the name and details Nixon's proposal would distribute the funds of a committee to get the job done, while not simple, is based essentially on population and tax effort. Mills is more complete.

The $2.5 billion in the Mills bill would be divided into two trust funds: $1.5 billion for local governments, $1 billion for states. The state's shares of the $2.5 billion for dispersal to the local governments would be distributed on the basis of each state's proportion of the U.S. population adjusted for urban areas with a city of 50,000 or more. The second half would be doled out on the basis of each state's proportion of the num-

Nixon Pullout Order Can Signal War's End

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnam stepped up its challenge to U.S. air superiority in Laos today by moving 60 B-52 bombers to a new base in the demilitarized zone, threatening American planes flying across South Vietnam.

Two new aerial engagements were reported near South Vietnam's borders in one, an F-4E fighter escorted Navy bombers fired a short missile at a missile launching site this morning within three miles of the coast just above the DMZ. The U.S. Command said it was believed that the SAM site was destroyed.

It was the closest air action to South Vietnam's borders in nearly a year and the sixth so-called protective reaction strike inside North Vietnam this year. The U.S. Command said the planes as they crossed the northern part of South Vietnam to attack the supply trails in Laos.

U.S. military sources said the North Vietnamese apparently are trying to harass American planes as they cross the northern part of South Vietnam to attack the supply trails in Laos. Navy bombers from the carriers in the Tonkin Gulf and Air Force planes from the Da Nang Air Base must cross Quang Tri Province just below the DMZ to get to their targets.

In the second incident, an F-4E, OV-10 observation plane, and a C-130 transport plane were shot down on the Ho Chi Minh trail in southern Laos with the target of an enemy missile while over the area of Sonpo, 25 miles west of the Vietnam border. The pilot evaded the missile.

The missile was fired through an overcast. The U.S. Command said it was believed the launching site for a retaliatory attack.

It was the second enemy missile attack this week in the Saigon area.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's latest Vietnam troop-withdrawal order sets the stage for what would be an April announcement to pull back another 35,000 to 40,000 troops, declare the war over and place remaining GIs in an advisory role.

Nixon announced Thursday that 70,000 more troops will be withdrawn by May 1. The President thus would need to pull out only 35,000 or 40,000 more troops to reach the residual force of 200,000 men he indicated two weeks ago.

Thursday's announcement, covering February, March and April withdrawals, will reduce the U.S. commitment in Vietnam to 60,000 men on May 1. And the President said he will make another pullout announcement before that date.

This is likely to come in mid-April, having 35,000 men to withdraw before reaching this summer's planned redeployment level. That level is expected to be maintained until U.S. prisoners are freed by the Vietnamese and the Viet Cong.

"This would be in keeping with the troop-withdrawal plan drawn up by the administration in early 1969. Although administration officials dropped hints from time to time that the President was reviewing the plan, it was not until last week that the President announced the plan to withdraw before reaching this summer's planned redeployment level. That level is expected to be maintained until U.S. prisoners are freed by the Vietnamese and the Viet Cong."

Under the phased program, the residual force would revert to an advisory role to assist the South Vietnamese army before the big U.S. buildup began in 1968.

Revenue-Sharing Battle Impatient for New Round

Air Industry Helper Under Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board today said its staff is preparing legislation aimed at helping manufacturers build and airlines buy the improved airplanes that will be needed in the years ahead.

A spokesman said CAB Chairman Scott D. Browne and his aides plan to send to the Office of Management and Budget, perhaps within two weeks, the draft of a bill to establish an Aerospace Reconstruction Finance Corp.

The corporation would have authority to guarantee loans to cover repayment of funds needed, beyond the amounts that manufacturers and airlines could raise themselves, for development of new equipment.

The body would be non-technical and would set equipment design and of potential markets would be left to industry judgment.

Browne launched a personal campaign for establishment of government assistance for the aircraft manufacturing industry last October. He made a series of talks at "places where there are quite a few congressional and administration nerve ends lying around"—including Miami, Houston, Dallas, Los Angeles, Seattle, Chicago and Washington.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, consistently mentioned as a presidential possibility despite his details of White House aspirations, says he will not be a delegate to the Democratic National Convention this summer but will be active at the session.

In a surprise development Thursday night, Kennedy said in Boston he felt it would be misleading if he headed a slate of his state's delegates to the national convention in Miami. He said people might think it was to "serve some other purpose."

Kennedy had been expected to head Massachusetts' at-large convention delegates slate.

The senator filed an affidavit disavowing his candidacy, a move necessary to remove his name from the April 23 Massachusetts presidential primary ballot.

However, Kennedy said he expects to be "active over the period of the next several weeks and months and at the convention."
