Hughes Fund In Trust?

NEW YORK (AP) — Clifford Irving's lawyer says $600,000 in McGraw-Hill stock is being held in trust for the millionaire.

Henry Neesen said his client had given the checks to Hughes in payment for rights to his autobiography.

It was then, Neesen said, that biographer Edith Irving deposited them in an account she opened in the name of Helmut R. Hughes at the Swiss Credit Bank in Zurich.

That ended Friday when Neesen announced that Irving had told the Manhattan district attorney's office the day before that the account-holder had been his wife.

McGraw-Hill, which had planned to publish the purported autobiography March 10, said it was "stunned" by the developments.

The purpose of the three-part excerpt from a book in a magazine, said it was pressing its own investigation. Both have delayed publication indefinitely.

Hughes has said in affidavits he never got the McGraw-Hill money, never authorized any autobiography and never met Irving.

Under questioning by investigators here, a source near the case said, Irving contended that Hughes himself had requested that the bank account be opened by the newspaper's wife and that Hughes had handed him the false passport she used to open the account.

The source said Irving maintained he went along with Hughes' request because he felt it was part of the exclusive economic "whimsical ways."

Irving admitted to Leonard Newman, chief of the office's fraud bureau, that he had signed to appear before a grand jury Monday and a federal grand jury at a later date.

"There is no fraud on the part of my client because the money has not gone," Neesen stated. "The money is still in Switzerland, being held in trust for Mr. Hughes. It has merely been taken out of one bank and put in another."

Last Dec. 7 McGraw-Hill announced it had acquired world rights to Irving's autobiography of Hughes. The firm said it gave Irving the $600,000 in three checks to turn over to Hughes in return for the publishing rights.

Subsequently, a furor arose over whether Hughes had created with Irving in providing material for the book. On Jan. 14 McGraw-Hill announced as Hughes told a panel of reporters Irving's book was a fraud.

He knew as Hughes in interview seasons. McGraw-Hill says it believed the voice did not belong to Hughes.

Jan. 14—New York State Supreme Court Justice Samuel N. Gold announces a temporary restraining order against publication of the Irving manuscript.

Jan. 17—The Irving manuscript was brought by Rosemont Enterprises, Inc., of New York, which claims contractual rights for all Hughes autobiographical material.

Hijacker Jets East

NEW YORK (AP) — A jetliner with an armed hijacker and seven crew members aboard took off from Kennedy Airport today and headed east.

The hijacker had pulled a gun from a plaster case on his arm and commanded the plane earlier in the day when it was carrying 101 persons.

He demanded $200,000 ransom plus freedom for black revolutionary militant Angela Davis and a man held in Texas on armed robbery charges.

When he took over the flight, which originated in Los Angeles, the hijacker said he wanted to go to Europe, later specifying Spain.

The hijacker said he had a bomb, according to federal aviation officials.

FBI agents and Port of New York Authority police swarmed to meet the Trans World Airlines jet when it landed at Kennedy Airport at 7:13 a.m.

Law enforcement sharpshooters with rifles took up positions around the plane, and his hair was reported still aboard.

An FBI spokesman said he was believed Trappell had a history of mental illness.

Shurtzky said he had been told by TWA that the hijacker wanted to talk to him but had not made contact. Marcus said he could give no details of what the man sought.

The name of the Dallas private plane took off from Washington, D.C., and landed at Miami, Fla., where it was taken to the airport near Palm Beach where he abandoned the plane and escaped in a small car.

Police said the man had been declared legally insane with homicidal tendencies at that time.

Mrs. Joseph Trappell IV of Key Biscayne, Fla., said a Garrett Trappell was a distant relative of her husband, who is in Vietnam flying military charter aircraft.

"Dear Lord, what next," Mrs. Trappell said when told Garrett Trappell was a suspect in the hijacking. "My husband hasn't seen him in years. I now they want to single out my husband and make him take an oath not required of the whole party."

Some officials of the party, however, said they were not sure of the party's position.

Ribicoff Peking Berates Abandons New Nixon Plan Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's plan to reform family welfare assistance appears to be in jeopardy.

Ribicoff's announcement that he won't back it has been expected to lead the Senate to a vote on the bill.

But Friday, he told the Senate Finance Committee, which was conducting a hearing on the plan, that he had changed his mind and would instead propose a pilot project for this session of Congress.

"The more I have listened to this testimony, the more I have become convinced we must have a pilot on this before we put it into effect," Ribicoff said.

"This plan would add millions and millions of persons to the welfare rolls. If it does not work out, it could discredit welfare reform for all time."

"If we certain now it is illogical to say it would take people off the welfare rolls, as the administration argues."

Nixon's plan featured a guaranteed annual income of $2,400 for the poor, a 10 percent increase in the minimum wage, and a 10 percent increase in the minimum wage for the working poor.

The House passed it again in 1968. It has since been introduced in the Senate. It was passed in the House in 1969.

Construction pay hikes averaged 11.8 percent in 1971, compared with 8.1 percent in 1970.

The average wage increase for contracts in the manufacturing field was 7.2 percent in 1971.

Proposal Takes Fear Out of Atmosphere

NEW LONDON (AP) — Industry spokesmen warned Friday night that new clean air regulations proposed for Connecticut would mean less of jobs for workers, he said.

Moffett, the New London and Torrington area director of the Connecticut Air Pollution Control Commission, said that the regulations would mean less of jobs for workers, he said.

But the warnings were rejected by several environmental groups and Ralph Nader's Connecticut Citizens Action Group.

The regulations would require the registration of all sources of air pollution, the purchase of permits for new pollution sources, details of air monitoring and record-keeping on emissions and the enforcement of these standards by the state health officials.

A spokesman for the General Electric Co., which manufactures locomotives in Erie, Pa., said that the regulations would make it virtually impossible to operate diesel locomotives and other rapid transit vehicles normally in Connecticut.

Robert Wagner of the Hartford Pitzer & Co. argued that pollution monitoring is not available to industry.

Yan Williams, vice president of the Robertson Paper Box Co. of Montville, said that the regulations would mean less of jobs for workers, he said.

Four Brown, president of the Norwich Manufacturers Association, said that the regulations would mean less of jobs for workers, he said.

The Connecticut Petroleum Association criticized a proposed regulation reducing the amount of allowable sulfur in fuel oil to 40 percent, so soon after it was announced in September, 1971.

O'Brien, association spokesman, said that the regulations would mean less of jobs for workers, he said.

He contended that auto emissions are declining, reducing the need for greater regulation of gas and oil.

He had no source for his contention that car emissions are dropping.

Another union leader, however, Lionel Williams of the New London chapter of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, said that the regulations would mean less of jobs for workers, he said.

WESTERN STAR TAKES PRIZE FINESSE BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD There's no great mystery in today's hand, but it ought to win a prize of some sort for the dearest possible finesse. The prize should go to Don Oakie, veteran San Francisco expert.

North dealer. Opening lead - King of Hearts opened the king of hearts, and the club was led a third heart for his partner to ruff. East returned a low diamond, and the club forced out the ace.

West next led the ace of clubs and then a low club to the king. Back came a third club, and for the first time Oakie had the chance to strike a blow in his own defense.

Should he ruff with the ace or with the ten of spades? It looked as though West and East each had four diamonds, since East had returned the deuce of diamonds after ruffing a heart. That would give West five hearts and four diamonds.

His other four cards were likely to be divided equally between the black suits. If West held but a singleton spade, he might well bid again in view of his considerable high-card strength.

After all this cogitation, Oakie decided to ruff with the ace of spades. West discarded a heart. Deep Finesse.

Now dummy was reduced to six trumps. Don led the deuce of spades from his hand, and West followed suit with the three.

Oakie thereupon finessed with the four of trumps from the dummy on the first trump trick of the hand. The finesse won, and Oakie took the rest of the tricks.

Oakie was down one, of course, but he didn't care. He got everybody who can truthfully say that he has won a finesse with a four-suit on the first trick of the suit!

Daily Question The first two players pass, and you hold: Spades, A-10-7-3; Hearts, 3-10-3; Diamonds, K-J-8-4; Clubs, J-4. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. You have neither a good suit nor a good hand. It is usually a losing game to bid in this position. (In the original, Don Oakie agrees that the spade bid is unwise; he just had a whim and indulged in it.)

On Think Tanks

Now that Congress is conducting a scattershot attack on the pocketbooks of Rand and other think tanks serving the military, it is to be noted that little or nothing is being said in their behalf by anyone of consequence.

News for Senior Citizens

By WAJLY FORTINE
DIRECTOR

Hello everybody! Well, all many will make some goodies here to do a mission a trip and the weatherman begins to get into the act.

Last week I mentioned a trip to Stockbridge, Mass. to visit the Old Corner House Museum where many of Norman Rockwell's paintings are shown. From there to the Morgan House Restaurant in Lee, Mass. for lunch, where you'll have a choice of 3 to 4 entrées. Next a ride up into the Berkshire Mountains to a ski resort to see the wonderful view and many skiers in action.

We should arrive back here in the City of White Plains around 6 p.m. The price of $2.50 includes the bus fare, admission to the museum, and lunch. Now we are going to take reservations starting Tuesday morning, February 1, starting at 9:30 o'clock. We will limit this trip to two buses only. Reservations will be on a first come basis with one person allowed to reserve two seats only. Reservations will not be accepted over the phone, and reservations will close Wednesday, February 16.

Now if by chance the weather is bad, the trip can be canceled, and everyone refunded. By the way, the trip has to be scheduled for Thursday February 24, because of transportation problems.

Monday we had a large turnout for our kitchen social. Tommy O'Neill was back in great form to run the games. In the afternoon we had a wonderful turnout of 60 players for the pinocle tournament with the following winners: Vic Christenson, 71; Felix Jacobs, 69; George Last, 69; Louise Meyer, 68; Paul Schmitt, 68; Ellen Brink, 61; Alice Anderson, 61; Mabel Wilson, 63; Wilbur Meister, 67; Leon Paul, 66; Paul Schmitt, 65; George Schell, 64; Alma Haupt, 62; Agnes Halpin, 60; and Andy Nelson, 59.

I mentioned to you about our next big dance being held on Tuesday, February 28, here at the Center. It will be our Valentine "Sweetheart" Dance, with Marco Stephens as the band. Also that evening we will have our pre-dancing and entertainment by Misses Olga Paupa.

During the evening we'll have some good coffee and punch, along with a few door prizes. So, once again, we're looking ahead to a big night, and hope you'll plan on being with us. Tickets may be purchased in advance at a nominal donation of $1 to help cover the expenses.

The office with a limited number of seats will be sold at the door. More about the dance next week.

Tuesday we had our old painting class in the morning, and then the action shifted over to the Senior Bowling League at the Parkade Lanes. In this league, the Parkade Lanes, Eva Post, 131; Esther Anderson, 129; Arlene, 129; Agnes Halpin, 129; Jean, 123; Al Gates, 122; and John Kehoe, 122.

Both President Lincoln and President Kennedy were commemorated with the issue of Civil Rights stamps.

Lincoln was elected in 1860, Kennedy in 1960. Both were assassinated on a Friday, and in the presence of their wives.

That their successors were both named Johnson, were Southern Democrats, and both served in the United States Senate.

That Andrew Johnson was president in 1865 and Lyndon B. Johnson in 1963. Both Booth and Oswald were assassinated before going to jail, and both were Southerners favoring unpopular ideas.

That both President's wives lost children through assassination, while residing in the White House.

That Lincoln's secretary, whose name was Kennedy, advised him not to go to the theater, and Kennedy's secretary, whose name was Lincoln, advised him not to go to Dallas.

That President Kennedy was killed in Ford's Theatre, and that John Wilkes Booth was killed in Ford's Theatre.

Lincoln in a theater and ran to a warehouse, Oswald shot President Kennedy from a warehouse and ran to a theater.

That the names of Lincoln and Kennedy were the same.

Andrew Johnson and Lyndon Johnson shared the same name.

Both Booth and Lee Harvey Oswald each contains 15 letters.

Heralding Homes House of Hearths

Three hearths make a home—at any rate, they round out the home life of the George Petersons at 219 Minnechaug Dr., Glastonbury, just over the Manchester line.

For a family who lives to entertain, Mr. and Mrs. Peterson frequently use one or both fireplaces located in the living room and the family room just off the living room.

Daughter Laurie entertains the younger set in a cozy den with its own brick fireplace and antique furnishings set against white paneled walls with blue trim. A red rug, an antique cherry table and a pine chest are a few of the early American furnishings.

There are no cramped areas in this custom built five-room ranch. It was designed for living to flow easily from room to room, or area to area.

The originally planned three bedrooms were changed so that there could be two large bedrooms and a roomy bathroom. When there are overnight guests, the downstairs den becomes a charming private suite with its own private bath and a common wall four-poster bed which is concealed in an alcove behind an antique paneled wall folding screen.

The entrance foyer conveniently leads into the living room on one side, the kitchen on the other, and directly ahead downstairs to the den.

Although it looks for all the world like a professionally decorated home, Mrs. Peterson admits to having done the decorating herself. Choosing colors, materials, furnishings and accessories fulfilled a frustrated desire to become an interior decorator. However, becoming a wife and homemaker has allowed Mrs. Peterson to exercise her whims and talents when ever and however she likes.

Large wooden bowls, and urns are favorite containers for decorative greens, fruit and berries, and spicy pomander bays. One oval-shaped hand-hewn wooden bowl is filled with greens, in the middle of which complacently rests a duck decoy.

Dominating the wall space above the sofa in the family area is a painting of the Zugspitze, a formidable peak in the midst of the Bavarian Alps. It serves as a reminder of a trip to the Alps. "But, you know, it just doesn't work that way," she says with a laugh. "Our friends still like to congregate right here in the kitchen where I'm working."

Be it in the kitchen or the family area, the atmosphere is cordial one. Reds and greens predominate with a glint of gold here and there. A red brick pattern vinyl floor blends with antique pine and maple pieces against the wall. A corner cupboard contains an assortment of heavy white ironstone tureens and platters. Clever color accent is provided in this corner by a collection of antique tin cans on top of the cupboard.

The kitchen and adjoining family area, divided by a counter range, were designed so that Mrs. Peterson could work in her kitchen without people unobserved.

The Petersons took a few years ago. Fewer items pick up the reflection of light, and as it shines through the paneled windows. A powder bowl filled with red berries on the large drop-leaf dining table is complemented by a pewter chandelier above.

In the living room where the colors red and gold prevail, subtle brilliant accents appear in variegated brass candlestick groupings with red, gold and white candles on the fireplace mantel and on the round table at end of the room.

Decorative mulberry ironstone black walnut cabinet provides many attractive containers for Mrs. Peterson's ever changing flower arrangements.

The master bedroom, with white striped papered walls and sand beige rug, is presently decorated in blue, green and gold. The three colors are combined in matching print window drapes and dust ruffs on the four-poster twin beds. Blue, lime and blue, green and gold floral patterned velvet throw pillows make surprise accents on blue quilted coverlets. The same three colors are used for seat covers in two antique rockers and in a formal arrangement filling a huge yellow washbowl on the massive dressing bureau.

Laurie's bedroom in green, pink and white combines a floral print used in draperies, bed valance and dust ruffs with a narrow peppermint striped wallpaper. Vary-shaped throw pillows in yellow, lime and pink punctuate the twin white coverlets. A life-size teddy bear keeps watch over Laurie's domain from his chair by a window.

Although it may seem that there are many antiques in the Peterson home, they are the more comfortable, utilitarian ones which have been tastefully coordinated with modern furnishings. Several of the antiques have particular meaning because they are treasured family items.

The Petersons have been a team in building their home. Although Mr. Peterson is a sales engineer for Pratt and Whitney Aircraft, his aptitude with wood and saw has resulted in the antique panel effect and woodwork in the downstairs den area. He is at home also in the kitchen, especially at holiday time when he delights in making Swedish cakes and bread.

The National Weather Service said Friday the outlook for February is for below normal temperatures east of the divide and near normal temperatures in the South Atlantic Coast states and coastal portions of New England. Above normal temperatures are indicated for the great basin.

Precipitation is expected to exceed normal over the East Gulf and Atlantic Coast states and over the lower Great Lakes. Below normal totals are indicated west of the divide and for portions of the central plains and upper Mississippi Valley.

Recycling Nets $679 for Fund

Proceeds from last Saturday's glass and paper drive have been totaled at $679, the highest amount of the eight drives held by the Conservation Commission, Mrs. Theresa Parla, recycling chairman of the commission, said.
The drive's proceeds increased the Case Mr. Fund to $5,112.85. This figure includes the $1,290 profit from the sale of Christmas cards by the Junior Women's Club.

Thomas Moore Named New Town Controller

Thomas S. Moore of Tolland, a town employe for over 15 years before becoming treasurer of Enfield, has been appointed town controller. He will replace Joseph Clementino who is leaving the post at the end of the month to become director of finance in East Haven.
Moore, 46, began working for the town in October, 1952, as an accountant in the Water Department. In March, 1958 he became purchasing agent after finishing on top in examinations conducted by the State Personnel Office.
He later became assistant controller, the post he left for the Enfield job in January 1968.
A native of Vernon, Moore moved to Manchester at the age of four. He is a 1941 graduate of Manchester High School and a 1950 graduate of the University of Connecticut. He received a UConn degree in accounting.

Moore now resides in Tolland with his wife, the former Marlene Holmes of Manchester, and their two sons, Wayne, 18, a student at Manchester Community College, and Douglas, 15, a student at Tolland High School.
Moore's salary will be $14,500 a year.
Moore is the second official named in recent months from Enfield, last year named an All-American City. The town's recently appointed assessor, Edgar Belleville, was the assessor of Enfield before accepting his Manchester post.

The Opening Shot At Teen Center

By GLENN GAMBER (Herald Reporter)
The men, as well as over 100 town officials and youths, were on hand last night for the official opening of the Teen Center at the Manchester Recreation Center, a former Army Nike Site off Garden Grove Dr. The first event at the center is scheduled for tonight from 7:30 to 11:30 when two bands, "Ghost Dance" and "Poison," will play at a dance there.
Thompson praised the volunteer efforts which helped to complete the center. He called such volunteer work "the most outstanding trait of our community." He noted that the center is the first indoor recreational facility built in town since the 1920s and added that as mayor he is "deeply indebted" to those who contributed.
The Teen Center was the 1971 project for Brotherhood in Action. BIA member along with members of the Youth Commission and the Teen Council, the organization which runs the center, spent many hours, painting and refurbishing the building, which at the beginning of the project, was in shambles.
BIA also raised between $1,600 and $1,900 which was used to buy two ping-pong tables, two pool tables, and a portion of the wooden dance floor in the teen building.
Town Manager Robert Weiss voiced particular praise for John Harkins, assistant town manager. Weiss remarked that Harkins has many jobs assigned to him, but "This was the most difficult." Weiss observed that there are many complaints about various conditions in town, such as those on roads, he said, however, "We pay more attention to services for people," and he added that this showed Manchester's "priorities are where they belong."
James Holmes was moderator for the evening. He singled out numerous people to commend them for their contributions to the project. Cited for their efforts were Philip Rubins, who headed the project; Pierce, referred to by Holmes as the "general contractor" for the project; Timothy Moynihan, who did much of the plumbing work; Hank Katz, in charge of fund raising; Douglas Welch; Paul Bushnell; Joseph Dennin; Kenneth Smith, who spoke on behalf of the Fire and Police Junior Athletic Association, donors of a $750 public address system at the center; Jeffrey Stone and Cindy Masur, both of the Town Council.
Stone said, "We feel this is the place for teens to go. I would like to thank all of those people and all of those groups who contributed."
Richard Gowen spoke on behalf of the Youth Commission and Mrs. Clifford Walker, president of the Auxiliary of the Dilworth-Cornell-Quey Post of the American Legion, presented an American flag to the center.
Rev. Felix Davis of Second Congregational Church gave the invocation and benediction.

Andover LWV Hearing Monday On Regional Schools

The League of Women Voters of Andover is sponsoring a public informational hearing, to which the residents of Hebron and Marlborough are also invited, on total school regionalization.
The hearing has been scheduled for Monday night at 8 p.m. at the Andover Elementary School and will feature as speakers Dr. Herbert Shestheim of the State Department of Education, who acted as advisor to the study committee on regionalization; Dr. Howard Kelly, superintendent of schools of the Middlefield - Durham Regional School District; and George Coopers, principal of an elementary school in the same district.
President of the local league, Mrs. Mary McNamara, said, "The speakers were chosen for their knowledge in the field of regionalization. Dr. Shestheim, as advisor to the Regionalization Study Committee is able to cover all aspects of regionalization including statutory requirements. Dr. Kelly and Mr. Coopers have been through the regionalization process and will be able to give first hand information of their experiences."
Mrs. McNamara stressed that the Andover league has taken no official stand on the matter, something it can not do without an in-depth study and vote of the membership.
The League's purpose is to present information to the people of town, impartially as possible, in an attempt to clarify any questions or doubts that may exist regarding regionalization," Mrs. McNamara said.
She added, "It was the intent of the League to have the majority and minority representatives of the Regionalization Study Committee present. Earlier this week, the Herald reported that no members of the minority had been asked to participate in the public hearing. Mrs. McNamara explained that it was through an oversight and misunderstanding that they had not been asked, and that the League's intention was to have them represented.
Luncheon menus at the Andover Elementary School for next week are as follows:
Monday: Grinders, carrot sticks, blond brownies, fruit.
Tuesday: Hot dog on a roll, baked beans, fruit salad, branched pudding.
Wednesday: Chicken - vegetable soup, peanut butter and jelly sandwiches or egg salad sandwiches, choice of desserts.
Thursday: Hamburger on a roll, oven fried potatoes, corn, jelly.
Friday: Orange juice, pizza, apple pie.
Milk and bread and butter sandwiches are available at all meals.

Correction
An article in yesterday's Herald about the Community Services Center proposed for Vernon contained an error regarding the financing of staff services. Half the salary of the center coordinator will be provided by Child and Family Services of Connecticut, not the Manchester Child Guidance Clinic as reported.

Pay Increase
The figures were based on contracts covering some 4.5 million workers, the department said.

About Town
The Junior Choir of Community Baptist Church will rehearse tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. at the church.

Cotter Not Sold On Dept. of Peace

By LYNDIA J. SCHOLD (Herald Reporter)
Representatives of Connecticut's "Other Mothers for Peace" met yesterday afternoon with U.S. Rep. William R. Cotter in his Hartford office. They presented him with a petition of about 1,400 names, asking him to co-sponsor the proposed Department of Peace Bill.
Mrs. Rita Laski of 4 Battista Rd., spokesman for the group; Mrs. Lois Barnes of 4 Kenneth Dr., Vernon; Mrs. Irene LaMay of Garden Dr. and Mrs. Paula Auclair of Stafford Springs, represented the "Other Mothers" at the meeting.
U.S. Sen. Abraham Ribicoff was an early co-sponsor of the bill and, after considering a petition presented to him by the "mothers' group U.S. Rep. Robert Steele announced that he too would co-sponsor the bill.
In a telephone interview with a Herald reporter yesterday morning, Cotter stated, "I will not agree to co-sponsor the bill because as I have said previously, I don't think it's the answer. My voting record proves that I am for an end to the war in Vietnam and for peace in the world."
"Creating a Department of Peace, in my opinion, will only create another bureaucratic layer on top of other bureaucratic layers. It would complicate the issues and no one would know who was responsible for what. All that would be accomplished would be a duplication of efforts. I must repeat - I am for peace and I always will be for peace. A Department of Peace just isn't the answer."

Vernon Steele Tells LWV Views on Congress

By BARBARA RICHMOND (Herald Reporter)
If Second District Congressman Robert Steele were paid by the hour "we" probably couldn't afford his salary, Steele, who lives in Vernon, spoke to the League of Women Voters, last night.
He had just returned from his week in Washington and the night before had spent the night in a firehouse in the South Bronx in New York in connection with some legislation he is pushing. After his busy week in committee and in Congress, he returns to Vernon on Friday nights, is on the road talking with his constituents all day Saturday and tonight he speaks to the New London League of Women Voters.
Sundays if he is lucky he gets to spend some time with his wife and children.
The topic of last night's meeting was "A Re-evaluation of Congress," however, the subject broadened to several other areas when league members and their guests started to ask questions.
The procedures leading to the passing of a bill, are slow and tedious and purposely so, according to Steele. He said that during the 1969-70 session more than 25,000 bills were introduced, 461 of which were enacted into law. While a Congressman can introduce as many bills as he wishes, the only ones normally considered are those measures of concern to a broad segment of the populace, Steele said.
Emphasizing that the legislative process is not designed for speed, Congressman Steele said that this is to ensure the development of quality legislation and to ensure that a measure has the support needed for passage.
Most of the work leading to passage is done in committee. Quoting Woodrow Wilson, Steele said, "It is not far from the truth to say that Congress in session is Congress on public exhibition while Congress in its committee rooms is Congress at work."
"The committees enable complex measures to receive expert study," Steele said. He added, "they also serve as safety valves or verbal outlets for national frustrations. They help insure that legislative programs are properly administered by executive officials."
Twice in its history Congress has passed an omnibus reform measure. The first one in 1946 reduced the number of standing committees from 48 to 19 in the House and from 33 to 15 in the Senate; defined committee jurisdictions and made Congress legally responsible for the continuous oversight of executive agencies. The most recent, the 1970 reorganization act provided for recorded teller votes in the committees, Steele said. He said he was very pleased with this action which makes it mandatory that committee votes be made public. It also opens the way for electronic voting, Steele added that the recorded votes have also greatly improved attendance at the meetings.
He said he would like to see electronic ballots installed in Congress. I would save 30 minutes every time there is a roll call.
Steele also disapproves of the seniority method for choosing committee chairmen. He would like to see reform in this area

Two Injured, Two Arrested In Car Crash

A two-car collision on W. Middle Tpke near the Wilbur Cross Highway early this morning resulted in injuries to two persons, and charges against both drivers involved.
The injured, Roy D. Cockerham, 20, of 90 Chambers St., who was in serious condition this morning with a skull fracture, and James J. Cooke, 21, of Scarsdale, N. Y., were taken to Manchester Memorial Hospital by ambulance.
Police said Cockerham was a passenger in a car driven by Juris G. Labrencia, 21, of 148 Branford St., who attempted a U-turn from the westbound lane, opposite exit 92 of the highway. Cooke's small sports car, also west bound, plowed into the side of Labrencia's auto.
Cooke, who was in good condition at the hospital this morning, was charged with operating a motor vehicle while the right to drive is under suspension, and Labrencia was issued a summons for making an improper left turn, and a written warning for driving after drinking.

Police said Labrencia and another passenger in his car escaped injury. Court date for both drivers is Feb. 14.

He's an Uncouth, Versatile Deputy

As Mitch, the seedy-looking deputy on NBC's "James Garner as Nichols" series (Tuesdays, 9:30 p.m.), Stuart Margolin packs a pint of whiskey on his hip and scurries around town squinting maliciously. He's ungrammatical, uncouth and unbalanced. As might be suspected, Margolin is not at all like that in real life. Besides bathing regularly, he's a stage director, a script writer, composer and lyricist, and actor of versatility. How does he find time for it all?

Capote Drama Due on Friday

"We are trying to tell it like it is." That's the way director Tom Gries called the shots on Truman Capote's "The Glass House," the powerful prison drama Gries filmed for broadcast on "The New CBS Friday Night Movies" Friday, Feb. 4 at 9 p.m. "At least, we are telling it like we think it is," says Gries. "I'm aware that there are many levels of prison life that an outsider can never really know. You take away one layer and there is another, then another."

Comedians Hit Year's Problems

Alan King pokes gentle fun at our fads and follies in "If You Think Last Year Was Bad, Wait!" the ABC Comedy Hour special Wednesday, Feb. 2, at 8:30 p.m. Art Carney, Jerry Stiller and Anne Meara, Ron Carey, Barbara Walters and David Frye will be King's special guests on this satirical romp through last year's problems and everyday annoyances. The hour is filled with comedy monologues, sketches, dancing and music, all tied together by King's own engaging brand of comedy. Highlights of the special include a musical parody on choosing a Supreme Court Justice with King, Art Carney, and a male chorus lamenting "Everyone's Judging the Judges." Anne Meara joins Alan for another episode in the battling Plotman family. This time Sylvia is trying to feed Oscar health food but he's having none of it.
