WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviets have started sending Cuba bigger, more heavily armed missile-firing patrol boats, Pentagon sources report.

The first two OSA-class boats reached Havana in mid-January after being towed across the Atlantic by a pair of Soviet tugs.

The 85-knot OSAs mount four Styx missiles with high-explosive warheads and a range of about 15 miles.

The U.S. Navy has been concerned about the Styx since the Egyptians sank an Israeli destroyer with one of them in 1967.

More recently, the Indian navy reportedly sank a Pakistani destroyer with a Soviet-supplied Styx.

The new 200-ton OSA craft have a greater operating range and carry twice as many missile launchers as the 18 older Komar-class patrol boats furnished to Cuba by the Russians in the 1960s.

Last October, Russia made deliveries of MIG21 jet fighters to Cuba for the first time in more than four years. The provision of newer and more powerful missile boats is viewed by some Pentagon officials as another indication that the Soviet Union is embarked on a program of strengthening Cuba's armed forces.

Intelligence officials told a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee last September that most of Cuba's weapons predate the 1962 missile crisis, and that Soviet shipments in recent

'Mim' Shakes Party With Bailey Blast

By SOL R. COHEN (Herald Reporter) More than 900 top Democrats sat in stunned disbelief last night as their candidate for governor in 1970 blasted his party's top leadership.

He offered to align himself with any opposition group which feels as he does, "that the Democratic Party in Connecticut must be open to all."

It was a bitter Emilio Q. Daddario who spoke at the end of a long program at a fund-raising dinner at the Hartford Hilton. Called, "A Tribute to Mim," and held to pay off his campaign debts, the $100-a-plate dinner raised about $75,000 to ward his estimated $100,000 debt. Ending a public silence of almost 15 months, Daddario said the banquet was a success "not because of them (the leaders), but in spite of them."

Daddario didn't mention State Democratic Chairman John F. Bailey by name, but he didn't have to — everyone at the dinner knew who he meant.

"For more than a year now," said Daddario, reading from a prepared text, "I have been trying to get support from the official leaders of my party, so that the legitimate debts of our gubernatorial campaign could be satisfied. The fact is that they have refused to help, and by their refusal have caused a legal action."

He was referring to a Superior Court lawsuit filed by Charles Palm & Co., which did promotional work during the Daddario campaign.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The Irish republic is calling home its ambassador to Britain because of the shooting of 13 civilians in a battle with British troops in Londonderry on Sunday.

The decision of the southern Irish was announced today after an extraordinary Cabinet meeting in Dublin.

The meeting followed a 15-minute telephone conversation between Prime Minister Jack Lynch of the Irish republic and Prime Minister Edward Heath of Britain.

Earlier in the day, the Irish Republic's Army blew up a store, a bar and an electrical shop in downtown Belfast. Security spokesmen expressed the belief the bombings were in retaliation for the killing of 13 civilians in Londonderry.

Northern Ireland is a British province, officially known as Ulster.

The Irish republic's ambassador to London is Dr. Donald O'Sullivan. His withdrawal of an ambassador does not mean a break in relations.

An Irish Embassy spokesman said in London "this is the strongest protest we can make" without a rupture in relations.

Lynch expressed "shock and revulsion" to the killing of civilians in Londonderry's Roman Catholic Bogside.

The British Home Stores was blown up by two gelignite bombs in a window cleaners' van that was parked just outside the store in a busy shopping arcade.

Ten persons were injured, one seriously, and dozens of neighboring shops and offices were damaged.

The 13 deaths in Londonderry raised to 223 the number of persons killed in the Catholic-Protestant warfare that has raged in Northern Ireland since August 1969. Fifty-nine have died this year.

The IRA charged that the paratroopers fired in discriminately into a crowd of unarmed civilians, and the guerrillas promised a wave of soldier killings in revenge.

The army said snipers opened fire first.

The trouble began after some 10,000 marchers turned out in answer to a call from Roman Catholic civil rights leaders to demonstrate against the internment of suspected IRA terrorists without trial. The demonstration violated a government ban on parades.

After being halted near City Hall by police and army barricades, the marchers turned back toward the Catholic Bogside district where they were to hear speeches.

The army said at this point rioters in the crowd hurled rocks and nail bombs at the

Bombers Pound Enemy Buildup

SAIGON (AP) — More waves of U.S. B52 bombers pounded North Vietnamese troop and supply buildups today along a 200-mile stretch of South Vietnam's western border, from the demilitarized zone to the central highlands. They were the heaviest raids there in four months.

About 20 of America's biggest bombers unleashed more than 500 tons of explosives on North Vietnamese positions inside the southern half of the demilitarized zone, at the northern entrance to the A Shau valley and west and northwest of Kontum, in the central highlands, which U.S. advisers say may be one target of the anticipated offensive.

The heavy air attacks came as Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. Army chief of staff, told a Saigon news conference that North Vietnam is preparing for a multiphase offensive next month in South Vietnam just below the demil-itized zone and in the central highlands.

Westmoreland, who commanded U.S. forces in Vietnam in 1965-68, said the Communists may "have some temporary success." But he said he and top U.S. and South Vietnamese officers are confident Saigon's forces can handle any enemy offensive.

The South Vietnamese Command reported that its air force destroyed three North Vietnamese tanks Sunday just inside the border, about 32 miles west-northwest of Kontum.

On the DMZ front, North Vietnamese forces bombarded South Vietnamese bases along the zone with more than 200 rockets and mortar shells, and four ground clashes were reported.

The South Vietnamese command claimed 54 North Vietnamese troops were killed and nine government losses were said to be killed and 22 wounded. It was the heaviest action along the DMZ since last fall.

U.S. military sources said thousands of fresh North Vietnamese troops were reported.

Lindsay Backers Surprise Analysts in Arizona Test

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York won strong support from newly enfranchised youthful voters to surprise analysts and capture the runner-up position in Arizona's state delegate election, the first ballot-box test of contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Lindsay ran second to acknowledged front-runner Edmund S. Muskie of Maine in the state's election of 500 delegates to the Arizona Democratic convention next month. The 500 will choose 25 delegates to represent Arizona at the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach next July.

The 36,000 voting Democrats gave the Maine senator 38 per cent of the delegates. Lindsay 24 per cent and Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota 20 per cent, with 17 per cent of the delegates uncommitted.

McGovern and Lindsay both led Muskie in the two university precincts in Tucson and Tempe, where the student body presidents of the University of Arizona and Arizona State both endorsed Lindsay.

Preliminary analyses indicated at least seven students, including a 17-year-old high school youth, were elected delegates. Three went for McGovern, two for Muskie, one for Lindsay and the high school student uncommitted.

Lindsay also showed strength among minority groups and carried Phoenix, the largest city. He and McGovern led Muskie in Tucson, which with Phoenix comprises 75 per cent of the state's voters.

In a statement from Winsconsin, where he was campaigning for farm votes, Lindsay said Sunday the Arizona delegate election demonstrates "an underdog like myself who is starting late can win" the party's presidential nomination.

"We seem to have surprised a lot of people," he added, referring to pre-election reports that he would get only a handful of delegates.

When the complicated count was completed Sunday, Muskie had 159 delegates, Lindsay 118, McGovern 102, with 85 uncommitted. Sens. Henry M. Jackson of Washington and Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota received two each, although they had urged their supporters to back the uncommitted state.

Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana and Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York got one each.

All the major Democratic contenders have campaigned for Arizona's delegates, but Lindsay conducted the most extensive effort with speeches throughout the state and broadcast commercials and billboards claiming "Arizona likes a fighter."

Muskie's campaign was run by Rep. Morris K. Udall, the state's only Democratic congressman. Muskie's wife, Jane,

Bangladesh Looks For New Allies

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — Diplomats in Rawalpindi believe an avalanche of nations will now recognize Bangladesh in the wake of Pakistan's quitting the British Commonwealth, Australia and New Zealand led the way today.

President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto's decision Sunday to take Pakistan out of the Commonwealth was interpreted as a face-saving measure, to express displeasure with nations that recognize Bangladesh without actually severing diplomatic relations with them.

Bhutto said he was quitting the family of former British colonies because Britain, Australia and New Zealand were planning to recognize Pakistan's former eastern wing. But he added: "We are prepared to have excellent bilateral relations with Britain and other Commonwealth countries."

Peace Agents Circling Globe

By LEWIS GULICK WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department is telling U.S. diplomats around the world that President Nixon's Vietnam peace plan includes 12 "important new elements."

This account of the Nixon offer, cabled to all U.S. diplomatic posts abroad for use in explaining the plan, contrasts with Hanoi's portrayal broadcast over the weekend.

"The so-called 'generous offer' of Nixon on Jan. 25 is no novelty, but only part of the old U.S. scheme," said North Vietnam's official Communist party newspaper, Nan Dan, in a long Communist article "will step up the fight."

Nixon strategists declined to rate the denunciations as a rejection of the proposals. U.S. officials suggested, China is mainly trying to show support for "an extremely perfidious maneuver aimed at soothing public opinions of the United States and the world."

Zephyrs Befuddle Old Man Winter Errant Jet Stream Warms East

By FRANK CAREY AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unusual antics of the jet stream, a meandering, 300-mile-an-hour river of air coursing miles above the earth, are primarily responsible for the nation's erratic weather this winter, according to government meteorologists.

They say the jet stream, which hasn't behaved in its current manner for 20 years, accounts for such unlikely winter weather as:

—Frequent unseasonably warm weather in the eastern third of the nation; unusually cold weather in the western third; erratic changes in weather in the remaining third.

—What might be called reversed vertical weather, a frequent occurrence this season. The dividing line for cold and warm weather often has run in a roughly vertical pattern, more or less along the Mississippi River. In other winters, the line usually runs horizontally, separating north and south.

—Relatively rapid changes in temperature for short periods of time, mostly in the Midwestern states. Examples are a 72-degree drop in temperature to 20 below zero in the Indianapolis area during 72 hours and a 33-degree drop to 13 below zero in the Duluth, Minn., area during 18 hours.

Resulting oddities during the fall and winter have ranged from circus elephants suffering frostbitten ears and feet in a major October snowstorm in

Why We're Basking??

Wyoming to the sudden blooming of Japanese cherry trees during the Christmas season in Washington.

Scientists at the National Weather Service say the jet stream, a major factor in determining weather at earth's surface, has upset usual winter patterns because it is north of its normal position as it passes high above the eastern and southern parts of the nation. The result is unusually warm temperatures so far in these areas.

At the same time, the stream has been south of its normal course as it moves over the western United States.

Another weather factor, interplaying with the off-course jet stream, has been extremely cold surface air over Canada and Alaska these past few months.

The frigid air, 15 degrees colder than normal, at times has been sucked southward more quickly than usual by weather processes linked with the jet stream. This largely accounts for the rather sudden drops in temperature in some areas.

Meteorologists describe the jet stream as a 100-mile mass of rapidly moving air that whirls west to east around the Northern Hemisphere at an altitude of four to seven miles.

Characterized by huge dips and rises, it controls the pattern and direction of the earth's storm tracks, intermittent areas of low pressure that tend to produce rainy or snowy weather.

Giving details on what's been happening since October, meteorologist James Wagner of the weather service said that in an ordinary winter the jet stream passes relatively close to the Gulf and Atlantic Coasts.

The warm air it sucks northward from the Gulf travels a relatively short distance before it hits larger amounts of cold air sucked down from the north. This situation results in snowy or cold weather over the midwestern and northeastern United States.

This winter, however, the jet stream has passed farther north over the Gulf and Atlantic Coasts. The warm Gulf air has been pulled much farther northward into midwestern and eastern areas before colliding with the cold air.

"So," Wagner said, "this winter, storms originating along the Gulf Coast have been almost completely absent. Moreover, storms originating in or near the Rockies have been deflected farther north than usual because of the unusual configuration of the jet stream."

"These latter storm tracks have tended to move more to

Local 4-H Rider To Demonstrate At Horse Clinic

Lori Negro, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Negro of 775 Vermont St., will demonstrate barrel racing at the sixth annual Horse Clinic Saturday in the Redcliffe Hills arena at the University of Connecticut. In barrel racing, horses are timed as they go around a course, and the rider who completes the course in the shortest time is the winner.

Lori is a member of the Vernon Valley 4-H Riders and a Manchester High School Junior. Last fall she won several ribbons at the New England 4-H Horse Show at the Eastern States Exposition in West Springfield. She has been riding since she was three and competing since she was five.

The Horse Clinic is designed to educate youths on the management, showing, humane treatment, and care of horses. The clinic is part of a year-long program of the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Connecticut's College of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

HUMAN PLAYERS BID POOR SLAM

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

In 1941 most bridge players belonged to the human race. That when today's hands are dealt in the 1941 national North-South championship, there was a tug of war between North and South. North usually bid up to seven spades, but South usually went for the slam. Whoever opened the bidding with one spade and therefore rarely had started with nine black cards. Since East had followed to three rounds of clubs, West could have held only six clubs. West's remaining three black cards had to be spades.

Moyle therefore took the spade finesse with absolute assurance of making his slam.

At either seven spades or seven notrump the contract depended on guessing the correct way of playing the spades. Declarer would usually take the first spade with the ace and then would win a trick in the South hand in order to lead another spade. When West followed with the nine of spades, declarer would have to guess whether to play the king of the jack.

The textbook rule in such situations is to finesse with only eight cards in the suit but to refrain if the finesse with nine cards. The rule is a good one when you have nothing better to go by.

In one case, New York expert Richard L. Frey was selfless enough to let his partner play the hand at hearts (as shown in the diagram). The partner, Benny Moyle, then proceeded to play the spades correctly without the slightest guesswork.

Gels Count

Moyle won the first trick with the ace of clubs, ruffed a club in dummy, cashed the ace of spades and then took the top diamonds and ruffed a diamond in dummy. Declarer proceeded with four rounds of trumps and the king of clubs.

After those plays, South had a spade and a diamond in his own hand, with the K-J of spades in the dummy. South had no doubt about the right hand in spades.

West had shown up with only two hearts and two diamonds

"THE WAY I HEARD IT"

by John Gruber

Last week I had two letters, replaced by "Speech-making about Debussy's suspect stinnim," the harmonies also that the writer found out his three most popular operas "Pelléas et Mélisande" to the major and minor modes. Debussy employed a different scale than those who had been could find about it, and got completely befuddled. I'm not sure that the scale itself necessitated changes of harmony, but Debussy himself, and while she you can begin to grasp it; even then you may be baffled. I had great anxiety and understanding of the part.

To begin with, Masterlink's play is a little different in French or English. It falls to be dramatic since his characters have almost no will of their own. In some respects this follows the idea of the ancient Greek drama where it was a foregone conclusion that the hero would not escape the fate predicted for him at the opening by some oracle or sibyl.

But in Greek drama the characters try to escape their fate. In "Pelléas" and for that matter in the only other Masterlink play known to me, "Le Mort d'Antigone," nobody makes any effort to do anything on his own. I should think he would be popular with the young set, for his characters depict the almost total drifting of the young. They should really "die" this.

The opera is the only case on record where a composer took a play and set it word for word, with no librettist and no changes in text to enhance musical values. There are no arias; in fact the vocal line follows the spoken line's inflection, even though it is actually sung. This leads to what is now known among the modern expressionists as "sprechstimme," and if years back, but some of these young people who really "die" in music of today.

"Pelléas" was premiered in Paris in 1902, seventy years ago, and the average opera goes up to it, but at least for a while hasn't caught up with it yet. He can accept it, but darned if he can understand it. At its first performance even the supposedly cognoscent couldn't accept it, and it got some beautiful roasts.

In addition to the lack of you then.

made appearances in Phoenix and Tucson.

McGovern used a radio commercial in which the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy praised his courage as one of the early opponents of the Vietnam war.

In another political development Sunday, the congressional Black Caucus announced plans to hold the first national black political convention in Gary, Ind., March 10-12.

Rep. Charles C. Diggs, D-Mich., caucus chairman, said the convention will seek to "crystallize strategies for maximum practical unity in the national participation of blacks in the Democratic and Republican conventions and in local, state and national elections this year."

Diggs, who was elected temporary co-chairman of the convention along with Mayor Richard Hatcher of Chicago and playwright Inamori Baraka of New York, N.Y., predicted about 4,000 delegates would attend.

Activities of the candidates included:

HUMPHREYS - The former vice president told Florida delegates in Daytona Beach, "I do not believe in a government that can do everything for me because I know that a government that does that will destroy me. I believe in a government that will help me to do everything for myself."

WALLACE - The governor accused President Nixon of breaking campaign promises to balance the budget and to reduce taxes and to recognize mainland China. In a Miami television interview, Wallace predicted he would win the Wisconsin and Pennsylvania primaries but wouldn't speculate on his chances in the March 14 Florida contest.

McGOVERN - The South Dakota senator told a news conference in New York he hadn't discussed it with Rep. Chisholm, but a McGovern-Chisholm presidential ticket would be "very strong."

Teen Center Draws Crowd To Its Debut

Quite a crowd showed up Saturday night at the newly opened Teen Center in the Manchester Recreation Center. The center was the first of its kind in the city and even if they had the means would be unable to find it, the dance area at the center was packed (top).

While most enjoyed the music of "Chick Corea's 'Pulsion'", two popular local bands, other utilized pool tables (left) donated to the center by Brotherhood in Action. On youth (radio to his ear) was at the center in body, but was rooting his favorite team on the radio.

The Teen Center is the first of what town officials see as many community facilities in the Manchester Recreation Center, a former Army Nike Site off Garden Street.

The Board of Directors has appropriated a total of $72,000 to develop the site. About $13,000 was spent in renovating the Teen Center building, according to John Hinkley, assistant town manager, who coordinated the project.

Vernon Hikes Okayed In Rentals For Elderly

The Vernon Housing Authority has approved rent increases for the state-financed housing projects for the elderly. The increases will not go into effect until approved by the State Department of Community Affairs (DCA).

The proposed increases will be presented to DCA along with the authority's yearly budget. However, Francis Pitkin, executive director said he will give Mayor Frank McCoy an opportunity to attempt to reduce the budget before it is submitted.

The mayor has expressed concern about the need to increase the rents. He said he intends to ask the Town Council, at its meeting scheduled for Feb. 27, to consider waiving the $1,500 fee paid to the town, by the authority, in lieu of taxes.

The town's federally-financed units are not presently involved in the increase. The authority is limited in its action as far as the federal project is concerned.

The Broke amendment prevents any increase which would go higher than one-quarter of the tenant's yearly income.

From Selassie To Selassie

The United Nations Security Council is now conducting a special African session in Addis Ababa, the capital city of Haile Selassie, Emperor of Ethiopia.

The Emperor Haile Selassie welcomed the Security Council to this special African session with a warning that the future of his continent is dark indeed unless something is done to avert the racial conflict being built up by apartheid policies.

There is little indication that the Security Council has any more muscle for really playing a role in the drama of Africa than it has displayed in the last few years, for guarding the peace in Indochina or in Bengal.

We are, once again, in an era when a world organization some people had hoped would be able to impose a civilized peace on the nations of the world, has lost the respect and compliance of its own members.

Worse still, ordinary people everywhere, who have no channel for hope at all if they cannot retain the ability to hope for progress through the United Nations, have been drifting into a dull, despairing sense of futility, as if the great game for collective peace and security, for a degree of world law strong enough to forbid war, had already been lost, leaving nothing for anybody to do but to stop thinking, because to think is to take unpleasant recognition of approaching, unavoidable disaster.

There was something of a mood and attitude like this back in July of the year 1956, when, before a session at Geneva of an organization called the League of Nations, this same Haile Selassie, then Emperor of an Ethiopia which was being occupied by the troops of one of the great powers of the time, implored the members of that world organization to join in collective action to save him and his country in order to save themselves later on.

The world shrugged and felt sorry for the Emperor in his unfortunate situation and basted itself with other things it had to do and worked its way into a world war which, as its own crowning achievement, inspired and financed the research which produced the atomic bomb.

From Selassie in Geneva to Selassie in Addis Ababa, from a League of Nations to a United Nations, the world's biggest nations make a practice of ignoring, in when it is telegraphed like this, a very short span in human affairs. How fast things move! How little real attention and effort we manage to give to our own effort to catch up to them and control them! How many of us are now ready to sigh and say, of the next time, "break of armed nationalistic lawlessness, that it had to come?"

So What Else Is New? Don't expect a layman to explain the details, but the report is that many of our most brilliant physicists are currently troubled by the possibility that the laws of the universe, as we have them formulated, aren't really working.

The laws of motion, the laws of energy, seem to be disputed by observations of what really appears to be going on way out in space. There are things out there which seem to be moving faster than light, which used to be considered impossible. Some objects out there seem to produce greater energy than would be possible for them under the accepted laws of energy.

But, although most of us may feel uncertain and uneducated in our confrontation with the possible details our most learned scientists are trying to digest and reconcile, let them not think for a moment that their own agitated pronouncement to the effect that they may be the laws of the universe aren't working too well after all comes as any great surprise to any of us.

What else is new? The Shadow of Limited Wars

London - For a generation and more people and governments have been accustomed to take a stand on the basis of beliefs - anti-Fascist, anti-Communist, anti-imperialist, and so on. The most remarkable aspect of the recent Indo-Pakistan crisis is that it had no ideological traplines.

Without any doubt this tendency away from the simplicities of the Cold War ("my ideology right or wrong") has been given enormous impetus by the changed relationship between China and the rest of the world, and by China and the United States in particular. There are those who feel, a little distastefully, as if after years of the ordinary grants they were being introduced to three-dimensional chess. What are the rules of the game? Are there any rules at all?

With any luck the rules will be made up as we go along. One thing that appears unlikely, however, is that there is going to be any quick and accepted division of the world by the great powers into a prospect of unimpeded unity and independence. In itself, however, this may not make the task of absorbing China into the international system any less difficult or even less dangerous. For, while China may not be interested in acquiring sovereignty, or in dominating other parts of the world, she is interested in the U.N., appearing to act as host to an American President, she at last faces a prospect of unimpeded unity and independence.

Washington - Rising pressure from Moscow on Yugoslavia's President Tito for Soviet port facilities at Kotor on the southern Yugoslav Adriatic coast is causing concern in Washington and alarm among American's European allies, particularly Italy.

The latest signal reaching here that the Soviet Union is pressing Tito to give the Soviet fleet water and supply rights at Kotor was a confidential diplomatic report that during Tito's visit to formal meeting with Soviet Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev last September, Brezhnev came down hard on his host.

The Soviet Communist party chief also strongly urged Tito to reverse the process of decentralization in his government. He said it is that Asia today is a field for jockeying between big powers which is less interesting in establishing themselves physically anywhere they are not than in preventing anybody else from acquiring a local territorial advantage in the area.

Balkan wars were dangerous because they were easy to start, and offered glittering prizes for those taking part in them. No more glittering prizes have been offered since the Balkan war than that which fell to India last month - the humiliation and demoralization of Israel's defeat of the Arabs in 1967. These two wars have been the same way as Balkan wars in the precarious balance of the post-1946 international system was based. This time the successors and forerunners were impossible, because either they would spread (and World War III thus start) or they would collapse.

Brezhnev is the emerging Soviet pressure on its number one enemy in Eastern Europe, carries ominous overtones. The Soviet Union wants naval landings rights at Kotor to give its growing Mediterranean fleet a supply berth on the southern coast of Europe. Today that fleet can be watered and supplied from Syrian and Egyptian ports, but nowhere in the northern Mediterranean south of the Black Sea.

By the time Gov. Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania finally got around to endorsing Sen. Edmund Muskie for President last Tuesday, his evasive tactics and demands for superscrupulously very nearly alienated the Muskie camp including the Senator himself.

Indeed, Muskie was so irritated by Shapp's evasions that he thought twice about returning a telephone call from the Governor last Monday. He did, however, and learned to his pleasant surprise, that Shapp would endorse him for President the next day.

Actually, as we reported earlier, Shapp had long intended to put his patronage-holed state organization behind Muskie. But in an effort to first mobilize his troops, Shapp stalled the Senator with a series of comic-opera maneuvers which left Muskie's staff bewildered.

For instance, Shapp insisted on cloak-and-dagger secrecy when he conferred in New York with Muskie Jan. 5. Muskie was listed on Shapp's private schedule as "Sam Moscovitch." Although Muskie was staying at the Plaza in Manhattan, the meeting was held in a room at the Carlyle hotel to stave off outsiders. Fearful of offending Shapp, Muskie aides followed the Governor's demands for secrecy so religiously that they told outright falsehoods to newsmen, denying that any meeting had taken place. But Shapp refused to make any commitment of endorsement to the Muskie camp with his sudden endorsement.

A footnote: It is Muskie who has been irritated with Shapp, Sen. Hubert Humphrey is enraged by the Governor's unique style. Humphrey privately believes Shapp's endorsement of Muskie is a direct betrayal of a flat promise to stay uncommitted made by Shapp during a private luncheon with Humphrey in Philadelphia last December.

Generally, those public officials who clamor for the income tax are coming on the Mills Auxiliary Department of Connecticut for entry in a state contest. The Department will award a prize to the newspaper, radio, television, and the local unit will also feature a contest for the best entry in the state.

The contest closes April 14, 1972 and entries should be sent to the American Jewish community's Milton Boyle of 128-129th St., Manhattan.

The Crunch On Tito

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

BOY SCOUT Notes and News

Cub Scout Pack 367 recently held a pack meeting at the Richard Martin School. Ken Marshall received the scout badge and William Neg had received the first badge. Geoffrey Michaud earned a silver arrow.

The following webelos earned merit badges: James Ureolo, 21, and Barton Hilton, 1. The program for the evening was provided by a local karate group.

The land is a gift of Joseph W. Vibert Jr. of 808 Main St. The town plans to build a small boat launching facility for emergency and recreational purposes. It will be named for the Vibert family, which has resided in the Main St. area since 1847 and been active in community affairs.

In 1880, Joseph W. Vibert was South Windsor's representative to the state legislature, followed by Horace H. Vibert in 1928. Horace C. Vibert was a local judge in the 1930s and early 40's.

Sprekel said the Department of Environmental Protection has been asked to assist in planning and developing the site. He expressed his appreciation as well as that of the members of the Town Council for Vibert's "generous gift to help detectives working on a case which will be used and enjoyed by the townspeople for many years to come."

Man Arrested After Incident In Gun Shop

NEW BRITAIN (AP) - A 28-year-old Hartford man is in police custody on $30,000 bond awaiting a scheduled court appearance Monday, say police.
