Judge Declines to Transfer Neptune Draft Case to Maine

The request of a change of venue for the trial of Martin A. Resurrection on a 71 v. 27 violation, has been denied by U.S. District Court Judge T. Emmet Clark and the case is scheduled to be heard Tuesday in the United States and therefore is not a U.S. citizen nor eligible for the draft. Neptune and his wife are presently living on Park St. in Manchester.

A study pastry board set in a slanting position makes adequate back support for a bed patient when the moving of the trial to Maine was originally indicated in 1970. His attorney claimed for a bed patient when they want to sit up in bed.

Witnesses and documents would be more readily available. In a legal opinion, Judge Clark said Neptune is governed by the Nationality Act of 1940 which states "a person born in the United States to a member of the Indian, Eskimo, Aleutian or other aboriginal tribes" is a citizen as long as it does not impair his rights to tribal or other property.

Protestants Act to Fuse Ulster Attack

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Prime Minister Brian Faulkner has appealed to Northern Ireland's Protestants to finance a campaign to counter vicious propaganda being poured out against them by militant Roman Catholics who want the British provinces merged with the Irish Republic.

"We must actively combine our determination to stay British," Faulkner declared Friday night. "It is also vital that the voice of the ordinary people of Ulster comes across loud and clear."

Leaders of the Catholic minority, meanwhile, announced that the third Sunday demonstration in many weeks would be held in the agricultural community of Enniskillen, 40 miles southwest of Belfast, to protest the provincial government's policy of informing suspected members of the Irish Republican Army—IRA—with names listed up with attacks on guerrillas war in the British troops stationed in the province.

Faulkner's appeal for cash highlighted the bitter animosity between Protestants and Catholics in the IRA have captured the sympathies of the world press. Compared to the IRA, the IRA is a minor force in the province.

Former Prime Minister Harold Wilson, leader of the opposition Labourites, accused the Conservative government of industrial sabotage after it ordered power cuts to be extended to factories. The cuts have thrown industry into near panic and imperiled the jobs of up to a million workers.

Calling it "the blackest Friday" in the industry's history, Minister Edward Heath to meet today with striking miners. Their five-week walkout has cut off supplies to coal-fired power stations and led to the blackouts.

The miners' leader, Joe Gormley, said he was ready to discuss a pay settlement with Heath. But a spokesman for the union said he has no plans to meet with Heath.

The spokesman said Heath stands by his position. He might appeal to the miners to accept an interim pay deal by showing up to work during the outcome of an inquiry into the dispute.

The 260,000 striking miners have rejected his appeal. With power cuts lasting longer and affecting more homes, housewives struggled to prepare cold meals and replenish their dwindling supply of candles and flashlight batteries.

Hospitals were supposed to be exempt from the cuts. But by accident St. James's Hospital in South London was blacked out. Its emergency generator kicked on in time to spotlight an equipment keeping a chairman of the Shantell Deafness Association.

He Wrote His Own

"When you have succeeded in dehumanizing the Negro; when you have put him down and made it impossible for him to be but as the beasts of the field; when you have extinguished his soul in this world and placed him where the ray of hope is blown out as in the darkness of the damned, are you quite sure that the demon you have roused will not turn and rend you?"

"What constitutes the backbone of our own liberty and independence? It is not our frowning battlements, our bristling sea coasts, our army and our navy. These are not our reliance against tyranny. All of those may be weaker against us without making us weaker for the struggle."

"Our reliance is in the love of liberty which God has planted in us. Our defense is in the spirit which armed liberty as the heritage of all men, in all lands everywhere."

"Destroy this spirit and you have planted the seeds of despotism at your own doors."

"Familiarize yourselves with the chains of bondage and you prepare your own limbs to wear them. Accustomed to trample on the rights of others, you have lost the genius of your own independence and become the first subjects of the first cunning tyrant who rises among you."

"The foregoing is merely one of the many deeply eloquent and meaningful passages that can be quoted from the speeches of Abraham Lincoln."

He was making that particular speech at Edwardsville, Illinois, in 1858, two years before he ran for the Presidency.

There are many such passages memorable and quotable for the greatness of heart and vision with which they treated the issues of the day.

And there is one footnote that can be appended to all of them: there was no ghost writer cloistered somewhere behind the public figure.

For what it was worth, Abraham Lincoln wrote his own speeches.

We are inclined to think it was worth a great deal. We are inclined to hope that, some day, this Republic will once more know a candidate who can function without a battery of speech writers.

Hot Meals For The Elderly

The House voted for the measure, 380 to 28, almost as if it was voting for motherhood.

The Senate previously recorded a unanimous vote for a bill of similar provisions.

What will then come into existence will be heart and body-warming thing, a federally financed daily hot meal (only at least five days a week) for the nation's elderly citizens.

If it weren't for the poor in pocketbook, probably the bill would never have been drawn. But it has been thoughtful enough, too, to provide for the poor in spirit.

These would be those elderly citizens who just lack the energy and incentive to shop for and prepare themselves a hot meal and who, if left to themselves, would tend to try to get along on a not too nutritious diet of tea and toast.

The hot meals for the elderly would be available to the poor in pocketbook for nothing. They would also be available to the poor in spirit, who would be charged on an ability to pay basis.

Some organization, private or governmental, would set up the hot meal center in each community. There would be delivery service for shut-ins.

This sort of thing has been happening, by volunteer effort, in some communities, and it is estimated that there are now some 12,000 of the nation's elderly who are benefiting from such a hot meal program.

Some of us like to think there was a day when every family, cheerfully, saw that there was nothing, not separate retirement housing, not social security benefits, and certainly not warm meals, that government had to be depended upon to provide for those members of the family who, having done their life's work, had grown old.

That day, of course, was never as good and as cheerful as we imagine. The hot meal program, when it gets here, will be a welcome blessing not likely to be provided by any other source for all those who will appreciate it.

Might Be Long Enough

Most of the proposals which offer to take our present bodies and freeze them over to some future date when a different world will have developed cures for all the ills that afflict us leave us content to be warm and mortal in our own time.

But there is a certain attractiveness in the time span suggested by the reported achievement of a Russian scientist.

He has succeeded, it is claimed, in reactivating some microscopic organisms which had been lying dormant inside a piece of potassium ore for at least 200 million years.

During this period, the organisms were in a peaceful, uneventful "state of deep slumber," but never lost their ability, under the right conditions, to "return to active life."

A quarter of a million years might be worth the gamble. By that time, perhaps, something might have changed.

Halldeman Speaks

The pressures of any election season produce a particular kind of political cannibalism. Those who, in the trading of charges typical of partisan politics, allow themselves to be provoked over the cliff that separates mere hyperbole from outright gaffe.

George Romney succumbed in 1968 when, back to the wall, he admitted that he had been "brainwashed" on Vietnam. He never recovered.

Richard Nixon's impetuous harangue at the Green Corps in 1962, after he lost the California governor's race ("You won't have Nixon to kick around any more"), was another instance of a politician let the system get the best of him. Mr. Nixon, though, recovered.

Now he has the first casualty of the 1972 presidential season. H. R. Halldeman, special assistant to the President, the aide who was "letting the President out for the President," has withered under pressure and in the process done himself and his boss, considerable political damage.

In his first television appearance as a member of the White House staff, Mr. Halldeman virtually accused unnamed members of the United States Senate of treason. He told "Today's Show" Barbara Walters that, regarding criticism of Mr. Nixon's Jan. 23 Vietnam peace proposal, "the only criticism you can draw is that the critics never are actually aiding and abetting the enemy of the United States." And he repeated the charge after Miss Walters said she did not think Senate critics were helping the enemy.

Of course, the Democrats responded by railing in this fish who had hooked himself, "irresponsible," and "The old Nixon is emerging again," were the refrains that rumbled through the capital.

This too, though, has its own touch of hyperbole. And in this case the White House had the good sense to resist being hooded itself. Presidential Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler put some distance between Mr. Nixon and Mr. Halldeman with the comment: "Bob (Mr. Halldeman) is not a spokesman for the President," and his remarks represent "his own personal point of view."

From Mr. Halldeman's vantage point, apparently, the President on Jan. 23 presented a plan of optimum generosity, one that should have immediately silenced all the critics, all the presidential aspirants. We happen to agree that Mr. Nixon could not have been much more generous without courting irresponsibility. But realism suggested that the President would not still his critics. With so many presidential contenders in the arena, there is a challenge to all to stake out positions that differ from each other and Mr. Nixon's. There has been plenty of hyperbole here too, from Senators McGovern, Kennedy, Muskie, but hardly a conscious design to aid the enemy.

It is uncertain whether Mr. Halldeman will recover from his gaffe. But at the least, the episode is a reminder and a warning to all those seeking the presidential prize, those trying to retain it, and their aides and supporters, that a healthy policy for the political season would be to maintain a maintenance of perspective. — WALL STREET JOURNAL

Inside Report

Humphrey's Labor Hopes

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

CLEVELAND—The fragility of Sen. Hubert Humphrey's reliance on labor for a respectable share of Ohio's 153 delegates to the Democratic National Convention was demonstrated by an unsuccessful backstage effort to keep a first-term Congressman from endorsing Sen. Edmund Muskie.

Pro-Humphrey leaders of the United Rubber Workers in Akron met emphatically urged Rep. John F. Seiberling, elected with the union's backing in 1970, not to board the Muskie bandwagon.

Seiberling, however, set forth the union's backing in 1970, not to board the Muskie bandwagon. One Rubber Workers chief told others that the union might oppose Seiberling if he endorsed Humphrey.

Here were echoes of 1968 when organized labor muscled politicians into line for Humphrey across the country and particularly in Ohio where delegates gave him 84 of its 115 votes.

Seiberling and nothing more, however. Seiberling endorsed Muskie anyway, and nothing came of the union's threats against him. Most significantly, the endorsement of Muskie Dec. 22 by Gov. John V. Gilligan was a mighty factor influencing Seiberling.

The incident vividly underlines the desperate condition here and elsewhere of Humphrey's last-chance campaign. Whatever labor does for Humphrey is eclipsed by the Muskie effort from party leaders of Gilligan's stature.

Seiberling, moreover, nonchalantly bowed to Humphrey but he divided the Muskie effort from party leaders of Gilligan's stature.

For Humphrey to succeed, therefore, is grim in Ohio, a state he views optimistically only because he draw is that the critics never are actually aiding and abetting the enemy of the United States.

Of course, the Democrats responded by railing in this fish who had hooked himself, "irresponsible," and "The old Nixon is emerging again," were the refrains that rumbled through the capital.

This too, though, has its own touch of hyperbole. And in this case the White House had the good sense to resist being hooded itself. A Thought for Today... The Real School... We have a multitude of institutions which we call schools, but the real schools, where the real lessons of life are learned, are the homes of America.

Connecticut Yankee

By A.H.O. We know all the things we are supposed to know about bills allowed to be introduced in the present session of the General Assembly.

Another lottery could be based on the number of times during the session the State Senate met on time.

The "Veto Lottery" could have, as its winning number, the final total of bills approved by Governor Madill.

There could be a "Paulist Special" with the magic number, the final total of bills approved by Governor Madill.

The "T. Clark Hall-David Odgers Sparkle" could have, as its winning number, the final total of bills approved by Governor Madill.

And we will be out there, all right, springing off your back bench to do the moral thing and support our state government with every other patriotic law loving citizen.

Still, we find ourselves wishing for something more.

Could there not be some blending of educational values into the process of the lottery so that, instead of having a series of otherwise meaningless digits flashed out of a barrel, educational attention could be focused on some of the processes which make our state go round?

We could have one lottery in which we really had the power to turn the state lottery into a number of dollars which would be a great permanent financial boon for the state, we would have weekly drawings based on the number of employees on the state payroll that week, which is a number Governor Madill has been the first Governor in history to reduce, but which keeps coming back to keep watching, just in case.

On The Same Hook... Amidst the long articles reporting the various discussions at the Board of Directors meeting last Tuesday evening there were a few lines regarding a request for an adequate sum of money to be used to clean the water at Center Springs.

"Businessmen should start to view crime just like any other component of business cost. Crime losses are costs. They are not to be swept away by any other costs on the ledger."

"We're not going to have controls of this type. Neither do I think we can go back to complete freedom of the market."

"Nixon gave the Communists one more concession than he should have—the $2 billion aid plan to revitalize North Vietnam."

Adults... Children... Industrial Estate... Of course, population figures must always be approximate data to change. However, they must always be approximate data to change.

Ten from MCC Train As Aides At Town Schools

Project TAP (Teacher Aide Program), now in its third year of operation, has assigned 10 students to assist in the educational associate program at Manchester Community College.

Manchester residents and their schools are Mrs. Barbara O'Meara, 76 Park St., Martin; Miss Christine Craig, 81 Ridge St., Martin; Mrs. Lyle Baxter, 75 Farm Dr., Keesey; Mrs. Marion Winter, 46 Hawthorne St., Buckley; and Miss Marilyn Dodge, 118 Wells St., Bennett.

Other aides are Miss Gail Soucy, 29 Benedict Dr., South Manchester; the Rev. John Windsor, pastor of Vernon Congregational Church, 100 Main St., Manchester; Miss Maureen Matzda, West Hill, Manchester; Mrs. Green; Miss Shirley Ann Byers, Bloomington; and Miss Cynthia Ann Stein, Windo, Washington.

The federally-funded project enables students at MCC to complete 16 weeks of field work in town schools. The training program is a requirement of an associate in science degree.

Cooperating schools designate the trainees duties, which vary with individual classrooms. The training experience includes instruction in supervising individual students and groups, as well as clerical work.

Stress Feeling In Ministry, Pastors Told

A return to warmth and emotion in the church and the theme of the ministry was the theme of the address by the Rev. Dr. Bruce Barr at the annual pastors' study conference.

Dr. Barr was associate pastor at Central Congregational Church in 1941. He is currently a United Church of Christ minister in Berkeley, Calif. Among the 400 United Church of Christ ministers from Eastern states attending the sessions were the Rev. Lyman G. Farrar and the Rev. R. Winthrop Nelson Jr., co-pastors of Central Congregational Church.

He reminded residents that the ordinance states "any person who parks a motor vehicle in the limits of any street or highway maintained by the town of Hebron during the winter season, so as to obstruct movement of traffic, shall be fined $5 and shall be liable for any necessary towing charges."

Publicly and education chairman Walter W. Donald of Hebron's Board of Selectmen announced that the Legion will hold a Washington's Birthday dance for members and guests next Saturday evening at the Hall.

There will also be a buffet meal and members' wives are requested to bring a dish to the buffet. The Legion has accepted an invitation from the Marlborough Post to participate in its Memorial Day parade.

Town Asks for Funds For Laurel Lake Work

William O'Neill, director of public works, has sent a preliminary application to the New England Regional Commission for up to $25,000 to cover some of the costs the town might incur in a sanitary landfill area.

Both O'Neill and Town Manager Robert Welles have proposed that the town buy the now dry 100-acre site which abuts the existing landfill area off O'Leary St. Welles and O'Neill have negotiated a price of $800,000 with the owners of the property, the Denton family, with the option to buy the land over 10 years at $80,000 a year.

Math, Reading Revisions Proposed at High School

Revised curriculum proposals for Bolton High School's math and reading departments were presented at Thursday's meeting of the Board of Education.

The new course, which would eliminate the present business math course at the high school and replace it with a two part course entitled "Introduction to Algebra," would devote more time to algebra and less to trigonometry.

Health Policies
The board also considered several matters of health policy requiring vaccination against amebiasis, including elimination of the policy requiring vaccination against amebiasis.

It was also noted that vaccination against rubella (German measles) is now required for children entering kindergarten.

When he left Russia, he spoke only Russian. Today he also speaks English and Hebrew. Accompanying him to Manchester yesterday was his wife of only a few months.

Julie in Series

Julie Andrews, one of the most celebrated performers in the entertainment world, will star in a one-hour weekly variety series on ABC during the 1972-73 season. It was announced by the network. Miss Andrews' series will originate at the ABC Television Center in Hollywood under the aegis of Sir Lew Grade, Deputy Chairman and Chief Executive of Associated Television Corporation, Ltd.

Uniform Parts

Bill Boyett, who portrays Sgt. MacDonald on NBC's "Adam-12" series, has been wearing a law enforcement uniform on television for nearly 10 years. Bill started as an officer with Broderick Crawford in "Highway Patrol," and followed that with numerous appearances as a policeman with Jack Webb on "Dragnet."

Famed clarinetist Benny Goodman is featured in "Vibrations," a new PBS series starting Wednesday, Feb. 16, at 9 a.m. (Ch. 24)

Live to 'Lives'

Producing and directing five shows a week of NBC's "Days of Our Lives" doesn't strain Wes Kenney, who explains that he used to direct 35 shows a week on the old Dumont Network in the days of live television.

In his early Hollywood days, Walter Brennan of "To Rome With Love" on the CBS Television Network haunted casting offices with another aspiring actor named Gary Cooper. Later, they made eight movies together.

Black Detective Coming to NBC

NBC, secure with the hit status of its "Mystery Movie," will use it to test a new detective hero who may make it next season with a series.

The pilot segment, to be broadcast Wednesday night, is "Cutter," the name of a black private detective, a television first. The 90-minute program was filmed on location in Chicago.

Peter Deanda who plays the title role concedes "Cutter" is getting a chance largely because a recent theatrical film, "Shaft," is a box-office success.

"Sure," he said, "we owe a debt to 'Shaft.' A big debt. I doubt however if we would be making a series in Chicago. We ran into problems. The mayor's office and the Chamber of Commerce want to hold down the image of Chicago in connection with crime."

Deanda has Broadway, off-Broadway and television credits and was working with George C. Scott in the film "The New Centurions" when summoned to audition for the "Cutter" part. He was the 100th actor to try out and won the part on the spot.

NBC Emergency Helps Firemen

The Tucson (Ariz.) fire department is adopting a new procedure as a result of NBC's "World Premiere: Emergency!" (presented Jan. 15). The made-for-TV movie was forerunner of NBC's series "Emergency!," which is colorcast Saturdays at 8 p.m.

A scene in the movie depicted a tunnel cave-in which trapped many men. The paramedics — the fire department's rescue unit — and other firemen put on their scout air packs, kept their helmet chin straps fastened, flipped the helmet back, put on their rubberized face masks and then pulled their helmets forward.

To members of the Tucson fire department, this came as a revelation. In such instances, they always had unfastened their chin straps, removed their helmets, and when their face masks were in place, put their helmets back on.
