Leap Year Gala Was Real Bust

MIAMI (AP) — Bored buxom beauties served up plenty of talk but little Leap Year action for a batch of wealthy bachelors who competed for the egg rolls instead of the blondes.

If cupid was aboard Dr. Sydney Sacks' sumptuous houseboat Tuesday night, he may have been dodging cigarette butts under the dirty bubble bath in the sunken Roman tub—or he missed the boat.

In its inaugural hour, the party filled by Bachelors International members as a "Leap Year Gala" seemed to go smoothly enough.

Half of the club's 35 members showed up in the expensive velvet jackets or spiffy knitted body suits that their $29,000-a-year-plus salaries make it easy for them to afford.

Also making the scene were about 20 international tovelles who displayed a lot of bosom, a little leg and the thickest false eyelashes money could buy. As prearranged, they dutifully entered their telephone numbers in the "guest book."

But as Miami's faded moon shone a glimmering path on nearby Biscayne Bay, the well-laid plans of the party's plotters seemed to go awry.

Steering clear of the dimly lit, lushly carpeted white living room, the "swinging singles" gravitated more toward the kitchen than each other.

The caviar, though not out of mind, was out of sight. Rumbling stomachs were appeased with popcorn, potato chips and peanuts.

Two hours into the festivities, however, cohost Leo Rosen appeared with piping hot egg rolls. It was the highlight of the evening, and he was mobbed.

Ferrians, Israelis, Britons ed up by club members suddenly found themselves deserted as mostly middle-aged men put down their plastic champagne

JOHN DOWNEY

Downey Fate Included In Peking Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The name John Downey came up during talks between President Nixon and Chinese leaders during Nixon's trip, the White House said Tuesday.

But no one is saying what, if anything, was decided about the New Britain, Conn., man who has spent the last 20 years in a Chinese prison.

"We've heard nothing," said Downey's sister, Joan Walsh of Collinsville, Conn.

When reporters asked presidential press secretary Ronald Ziegler about Downey, he declined to even discuss the matter at first.

But then he said Downey's fate had been an issue in China. "The matter was discussed from the standpoint of mercy and compassion," Ziegler said.

Mine Waste Dams Warning Unheeded

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The U.S. Geological Survey warned five years ago that 30 West Virginia dams constructed of coal mine wastes were unstable or could be breached by high water, two newspapers reported today.

One of the dams mentioned in the report, at Lorado on Buffalo Creek in Logan County, burst under the backup of water from heavy rains early Saturday and the torrent of water wiped out 16 coal camps.

Seventy-one persons are known dead.

The Charleston Gazette said a 1967 survey by federal geologist William Davies of 38 state and earth dams in West Virginia described the dam at Lorado as "unstable."

Davies' survey followed a coal mine waste bank slide at Abernethy, Wales, which claimed the lives of 121 persons in 1966, the Gazette said.

The Gazette said Davies described 30 of the 38 dams as unstable or subject to breaching in periods of high water.

The New York Times report, however, that Davies' 1967 report described the Lorado dam as stable, but that he warned it could be breached by an impoundment of 5 million cubic feet of water during periods of heavy rainfall.

The Gazette and the Times both carried the following assessment of the Lorado dam by Davies:

"Large deep lake at rear of bank. Dike at northeast edge of lake is 15 feet wide, 5 feet high. Could be overtopped and breached. Flood and debris would damage church and two or three houses downstream, cover road and wash out railroad."

The Gazette also said Davies had warned that as many as 75 coal waste dams in the Eastern Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania area of Appalachia might be unsafe.

He said many of the dams lacked proper spillways and overflow channels, the Gazette said.

The Gazette and the Times said letters reporting Davies' findings—but not his full report—were sent to public officials throughout the survey area, including a score in West Virginia.

One of the letters went to Arch A. Moore Jr., then a member of the U.S. House of Representatives and now governor of West Virginia, the newspaper said.

Other letters sent by former Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall went to Hulet C. Smith, then governor of West Virginia; all other members of the state's congressional delegation; and county and local officials.

Asked about the 1967 warning, Moore told the Gazette: "I was not governor at the time, I am not aware of whether any official was given that information."

The Gazette and the Louisville Courier-Journal said the state had not acted on the warning.

Irish Killer Squad Slays Two Soldiers

BELFAST (AP) — Gunmen killed one militiaman in front of his daughter Tuesday night and murdered another one by day as he climbed into his car.

Terrorists also seriously wounded a policeman and a British soldier Tuesday.

The attacks were blamed on the Irish Republican Army and brought the death toll in Northern Ireland's communal warfare to 253 in the last 31 months.

The latest victim of terrorist bullets was militia Pvt. T. J. Fletcher. Four gunmen shot him outside his home in County Fermanagh.

Two hooded gunmen knocked on the door of Harry Dixon, a militia sergeant in Armagh, just before midnight, then burst in and shot him in the head. His 11-year-old daughter witnessed the killing and was wounded in the leg.

Gunmen hiding on the grounds of a factory in Newry shot a policeman in the head, and a sniper in the Little Diamond area of Belfast shot Sgt. John McPherson in the temple after the soldier's unit helped put down a riot there.

The army flew a brain surgeon from Britain to operate on him and brought his wife from Germany to his bedside.

Major Troop Cut Pulls 5,000 Home

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced the second biggest troop cut of the Vietnam war today, leaving fewer than 10,000 American combat infantrymen and artillerymen in the Saigon, Cam Ranh Bay and Da Nang regions.

The third fight broke out about 40 miles east of Saigon in Long Khanh Province.

"Our guys were on patrol, spotted some enemy in the jungle and tried to set up a nasty ambush," said a military source. "Shots were exchanged.

They fired B40s (rockets) and three of our guys were hit." The Americans reported killing one enemy soldier.

To the north, U.S. B52 bombers continued pounding North Vietnamese base camps. The command reported 10 missions by the big bombers overnight, more than half against enemy camps and storage sites south.

The other big unit was the 5th Battalion, 42nd Artillery, whose 155mm towed howitzers supported the 3rd Brigade. Its authorized strength was 600 men.

In all, 32 Army units and one small Air Force detachment were phased out. The Army units included half a dozen helicopter companies and squadrons with a total of more than 100 aircraft based in the Mekong Delta, the Saigon area and Da Nang.

The United States still has about 1,200 helicopters in Vietnam, a spokesman said; once it had 2,900.

The U.S. Command said it was the largest single reduction since last July 1, when 6,095 troops were pared. The cutbacks today reduced total U.S. strength in Vietnam to fewer than 120,000 men from a peak of 543,000 in April 1969, two months before President Nixon began his withdrawal program.

Another 32,000 men are at U.S. bases in Thailand, and 15,000, 30,000 men are aboard Navy ships operating off the coast.

The command said of the troops remaining in Vietnam, about 60,000 are combat and combat support troops—including infantrymen, artillerymen, combat engineers and army and Air Force aviators—and fewer than 10,000 of these actually do any ground fighting. The other 70,000 are combat service support troops, including supply personnel, maintenance men, bakers, cooks and clerks.

President Nixon has ordered this force cut to 69,000 by May 1.

The clash in which the armored cavalry squadron suffered three casualties was one of three fought Tuesday by units from the 1st Air Cavalry Division in the Saigon region. One American and two of the enemy were killed and eight Americans were wounded.

Two fights flared after an American patrol detected an enemy squad moving toward night camps near fire bases Gibraltar and Fiddler's Green, a U.S. spokesman said.

The U.S. troops engaged the approaching enemy and called in rocket-firing helicopters for

Israelis Push Raider Attacks

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli forces crossed the border to attack today for the fifth day in less than a week as fighters bombed strated and bombed Arab guerrilla camps in the desert of southern Syria.

The Syrian army placed the assault 60 miles south of the capital of Damascus and said three guerrillas and two Syrians were killed.

The air and artillery assault was a reprisal attack against guerrillas based in Syria who had fired at Israeli positions in the occupied Golan Heights 13 times in the past four days, the Israelis said.

The Israeli military command said all planes returned safely, despite Arab claims of intensive antiaircraft fire. Seven Arab guerrilla centers came under fire, a military spokesman said.

Israel accused the Syrian government of supporting and encouraging the guerrillas.

"The aim of today's Israeli defense force action is to bring home to the Syrians and to the terrorists the fact that we do not intend to tolerate attacks ... carried out by Syria or from her territory," a statement warned.

The attack into Syria—the first since Jan. 24—came after four days of Israeli operations against Arab guerrillas in southeast Lebanon. Israel claimed about 50 terrorists were killed in the Lebanese operation, which ended Monday.

Today's raids appeared to have the same aim as the attacks into Lebanon—to break up guerrilla concentrations and to force the Arab government's to clamp down on guerrilla operations.

Israel argued that the guerrillas were harassing Israeli positions and settlements with bazookas, mortars and gunfire "with the full knowledge and approval of the Syrian authorities." Terrorist activities from Syrian territory are strictly supervised by Damascus authorities.

Rham Towns Defeat K-6 Regional Plan

By ANNE H. EMET (Herald Correspondent)

Yesterday's referendum of the Regional Study Committee's recommendation to fully regionalize the school systems in the towns of Hebron, Andover and Marlborough was resoundingly defeated in all three towns, 145 to 1,086.

These three towns already support Rham High School on a regional basis.

With 22 per cent of the registered voters turning out in Hebron, the vote was 377 opposed to 68 in favor. In Andover, 33 per cent of the registered voters cast their ballots, with 287 opposed and 44 in favor. And in Marlborough, the vote was 432 opposed and 33 in favor, with 31 per cent of the registered voters turning out.

The committee had recommended that the present 7-12 Regional District 8 (Rham High School) be expanded in the towns to include K-12, and since filing its recommendation with the State Board of Education last October had received strong opposition in all the towns.

As Mrs. Imodale Richards, chairman of the Regional Board of Education, said last night, it was "about what I expected from the public announcements that I had read."

She expressed her disappointment "that the voters didn't get out," despite efforts by the Andover League of Women Voters, who had contacted almost 100 per cent of Andover's voters yesterday urging them to vote.

14th Culinary Arts Exhibit at Hilton

By VIVIAN FERGUSON

The Connecticut Chef's Association opened its 14th Culinary Arts Exhibit at the Hartford Hilton yesterday.

Displays of food are in the grand manner—that is, haute cuisine—that is, French.

Awards are given for individual pieces in various categories. The big prizes are given for whole buffet tables including centerpiece, main dishes, hors d'oeuvres and dessert. The work must be classical and practical as well as artistic.

The show is not quite as large as the past two years, though it is well worth seeing. It was good enough to give the judges a tough time reaching decisions. They were still at it at 3 in the afternoon when the public is supposed to be admiring. After designating three or four of the top awards, they dashed off to a luncheon sponsored by the Food Services Executive Association, to the trustees of the hotel, the entrants and their families who waited until 4 o'clock for results.

Funds for Scholarships

This is a good show. While the Connecticut Association wishes to provide a showplace for their work, they have another higher purpose. The proceeds of a mere dollar per person to see the show goes to scholarships for aspiring young men who wish to become chefs.

Anyone connected with the food, restaurant or hotel business knows how badly needed they are. We would be doing all we can to encourage these young people, most especially the Food Services Executive Association.

The Grand Show, award is the highest of the show, it went to Nicholas DiBattista of Wampscott Country Club for his buffet table. Nicholas Club of the Meno Green Inn, Middletown, took second honors with the gold cup. Interestingly, his table was composed of poultry of Italian foods. The judges thought his food the most realistic as far as food quality was concerned. Third prize for buffet table was taken by Daniel Versano of Westfield Country Club with Armando Diana Jr. of Preston Hill Inn winning the fourth place.

180 Hours to Produce

Ch. DiBattista, chef-manager of Salmon Brook Convalescent Hospital and newly elected president of the Connecticut Chef's Association, walked off with another trophy. His creation entitled "American Heritage" depicting a typical American family was created of roast beef, marzipan and royal icing. It represented some 180 hours of labor.

"Pastillage is not seen often in today. It is used as a foundation for ultra-fine centerpieces. The pillars on huge tables made for royalty would be of pastillage. The paste is created of confectioners sugar, powdered starch, gum tragacanth and water.

Marzipan, which we so often see at Christmas in the form of delightful little-colored fruits and high-cakes, is made of ground almonds, sugar and whites of eggs. It is an ancient candy probably first made by the Romans.

Royal icing of place, royal icing is made of egg whites to which confectioners sugar is added. The mixture must be stiff yet soft enough to spread. The secret is to work the eggs with the sugar in an easy manner.

Billy Vince of Manchester, assistant chef of Crestfield Convalescent Hospital, entered a pastillage centerpiece—a curved judge on a mirror. He called it "Reflections." His boss, Joe Gaudreau, had worked long and hard on an unusual entry. Unfortunately, due to the inseasonally western weather, his creation suffered some damage and he was unable to display his work. Joe has won prizes in the past and while it was a great disappointment, he's not giving up and will be back in the running next time.

Taught Vince

Mellie Farr, the mother of our former mayor James Farr, enjoyed the show with me. She was delighted to see Billy Vince's work as he had been a student of hers. Mellie taught in the Manchester elementary school system for many years before her retirement.

I have been continually impressed with the young men from the E. C. Goodwin Vocational School in New Britain. Each year they appear at the show ready, extremely well-mannered. Some of these hard-boiled egg rollers wrapped like a roll of baloney, there are ships to the Culinary Institute about 75 percent egg slices to which confectioners sugar is added. This time I was happy to see that two pieces received

Dizzy Gillespie—The Complete Jazz Trumpeter

By HOLLY T. WEST
The Washington Post

ENGLEWOOD, N.J. — Dizzy Gillespie, once described as "crazy like a fox," was sitting in his room fingering the valves of his trumpet.

"You know, I'd like to do a videotape series for schools and demonstrate all the things musicians have picked up from me," he says.

"It would be nice for students to know these things. I don't have to try to modest about my contributions. I know what I've done. When you state a fact and prove it, you don't have to worry about modesty."

Gillespie walked over to a videotape camera and ran his fingers over the keyboard. "I was the first in jazz to play two diminished chords together," he said over the notes of his new classic "Night in Tunisia."

"A lot of guys are doing that now. Did you know I have the same kind of (chord) progression in the introduction to 'Round Midnight' and the ending to 'Salt Peanuts'?"

"At age 17, he'll turn 55 in October," Gillespie still holds a commanding position among jazz trumpeters.

masterful technique, melodic imagination

No longer the innovator he was in the 1940s and 1950s, when years of touring and recording with the bebop movement in bebop, Gillespie still holds a yardstick for the complete jazz trumpeter — masterful technique and melodic imagination, sure tone and the capacity to improvise to varied musical situations.

Does Gillespie want to implement the videotape idea because he feels he's unappreciated? "I'm not interested in accolades for myself," he says. "All my work is documented with (phonograph) records. I just want to set the historical record straight."

"The people don't know where it came from. Even the musicians don't know. They just do it."

Gillespie thinks his age is beginning to show. "I'm sort of cutting down (on engagements)," he says. "I'm 55. I don't know what I want to do." The trumpeter spent 10 days in an Englewood hospital last year after passing out while performing at the Village Vanguard. He says medical tests did not show any heart or brain defects.

"The doctors said I had an acute virus attack. I think somebody slipped something into my coffee."

He spent the last two weeks at home convalescing. With the upswing bell he designed from his lips, he says: "Yesterday I picked up this horn and I sounded pretty. I wanted to cry. But I sound pretty good today."

And he does sound good. He's playing "Lover Come Back to Me." First, the notes tumble out as he gracefully stretches the soft melody. As he speeds up the tempo, flurries of eighth and sixteenth notes spurt out in a metric pattern.

His practice sessions usually consist of 30-minute sessions, putting one of his records on the

Ecumenism Opening Topic Of Faith and Life Series

The Rev. John L. Shea of St. Jerome's Church in New Britain will conduct a course on "The Movement Called Ecumenism: What 'Why' How" at the Academy of Faith and Life, which will begin tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at St. James School.

The Academy, which is open to the public, will also offer courses in "Helping Us Understand the Bible" and "The Art of Handling Personal Crisis Through Group Interaction."

Father Shea will use a pamphlet from the Vatican Council, "The Decree on Ecumenism," during the sessions, which will be informal and involve discussion on such topics as: "What is a Christian?" and "What is Ecumenism and What is Not?" There also will be a brief history of Protestant-Catholic relations.

In addition to his duties at St. Jerome's Church, Father Shea is Catholic chaplain for the New Britain Police Department, a director of the Archdiocesan Conference of Churches, a member of the Archdiocesan Ecumenical Commission, a director of Catholic Family Services, a past president of the New Britain Clergy Association and member of the scene before the chairman of its subcommittee on a domestic parcel, arrested housing.

Noise Control Bill Passes In Loud Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed a noise-control bill after out-voting advocates of a tougher law.

The legislation would require the Environmental Protection Agency to develop noise standards and identify major noise sources under pollutant categories of construction equipment, transportation equipment, and electronic and electrical equipment.

EPA also would issue rules for informative labeling of products that emit noise harmful to public health or welfare.

Parents Asked To Look Out For Measles Signs

Measles is on the wane at Coventry Grammar School, but on the rise at Capt. Nathan Hale School, as Coventry continues to report cases of the supposedly "curable" childhood disease, reports entirely out of proportion to the rest of the state and country.

There have been 73 cases of red measles at CGS in the past two months, and last nurse there, Mrs. Beverly Wagner, is compiling statistics on the outbreak for the State Health Department. Her studies have shown that at least 75 per cent of CGS youngsters who came down with the disease were immunized against it, but that the vast majority of those immunized received the vaccine before the age of one year.

Chicken pox has hit CGS now, with 16 cases reported before the beginning of this week, and seven more by yesterday morning.

Measles, at CNHS, 47 cases of red measles had been reported on just Monday and Tuesday of this week.

Dr. Robert Bowen, the director of health, is advising all parents whose youngsters attend the upper respiratory problems to keep the children home. He has instructed school nurses to send children home, if they have such symptoms.

"We must be keeping some children home with just colds," he said. "But at least we can start to break the cycle." Keeping children home will also cut down drastically on exposure to the disease.

Apparently CGS is the only grammar school affected by the measles outbreak since Robertson School has only reported one case so far.

Mrs. Wagner added another reminder to parents concerning diagnosis of the various diseases, including suspected cases of scarlet fever. She suggested that parents who suspect a disease get the child to a doctor for diagnosis. Scarlet fever can be diagnosed only by a throat culture, and a parent who has been some confusion over symptoms of this disease, compared to those of the measles.

Scarlet fever can cause severe complications, she said, and a professional diagnosis is required.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

In 1970, some 6.9 per cent (4.7 million) of the 67.8 million year-round housing units in the United States lacked basic plumbing facilities in contrast to 18.3 per cent lacking such facilities in 1960. The World Almanac says. These facilities include a flush toilet, a bathtub or shower for the exclusive use of the occupants, and a hot and cold water supply.

Ribicoff Given 'Velvet Glove' Care on Welfare

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., received "velvet-glove" treatment from the White House when it appeared his support for President Nixon's welfare reform plan was waning.

On Jan. 25, Ribicoff let it be known that he was supporting a program for the welfare reform plan was waning.

At the same time, Ribicoff criticized Nixon for what appeared to be the senator's dispirited enthusiasm for the entire welfare package already passed by the House and pending before the Senate Finance Committee.

Newspaper accounts the next day pictured Ribicoff, the chief Democratic supporter of welfare reform in the Senate, as backing away from an alliance with Nixon on the issue.

By the next week, Ribicoff received a personal phone call from Nixon and a visit from House Domestic Affairs Committee Chairman John Richardson and Elliot Richardson, secretary of Health Education and Welfare.

Still later former White House Counselor Patrick Moynihan, who facilitated the welfare plan before leaving Washington, flew from Boston to confer with Ribicoff.

The result was agreement that a pilot program would be included in the legislation by a permanent structure unless it runs into objection from either the House or Senate, Ribicoff said in a written account of the week's activities.

South Windsor Rt. 5 Zone Use Approved by PZC

The Planning and Zoning Commission last night approved a request for an industrial zone, and thereby, opened the door to a new type of development.

Atty. Edward Kishin, representing Richard Mellan of East Hartford, previously had asked the PZC to consider opening the route to commercial use. Mellan also had requested permission to open a boat and snowmobile showroom in two acres of land on Rt. 5. The area, until last night, was zoned exclusively for industrial use.

The action by the commission provides for storing snowmobiles and boats and repairing them. It still will be necessary for the commission to approve retail and wholesale sales rooms in the area. All additional uses will require a public hearing.

In other action, the commission tabled the request of Thomas Burgess for a zone change from A-40 to R-0 (restricted office) for property on John Pitch Blvd. (Rt. 5), off Sullivan Avt. Burgess also sought an amendment to a provision for reducing the minimum required five acres of land in a restricted office zone to 1.5 acres. The commission is investigating the possibility that the change requested by Burgess would constitute "spot zoning," which is not allowed in the town's Comprehensive Plan of Development.

Pompidou, Heath Agree To Meet

Pompidou's trip had been scheduled for last month but was postponed because of the British coal miners' strike.

Indians Were Here

DALLAS (AP) — Hundreds of Indian artifacts, some believed to date back to 8,000 B.C., have been unearthed by two police officers around the Farmers Branch intersection of Interstate 35 and LBJ Freeway.

Patrolman Frank Lattus and Don Norman, a dispatcher, have been finding arrowheads, moccasins, primitive pottery, teeth and human skeletons since they started scouring the area two and a half years ago.

Mujibur Visits Moscow Seeking Bangladesh Aid

MOSCOW (AP) — Prime Minister Mujibur Rahman of Bangladesh flew to the Soviet Union today to seek aid for his fledgling nation from its benefactors in the Kremlin.

It was Mujibur's first trip outside the subcontinent since the Indian army with Soviet backing won independence for his Bengal people in December.

Sheik Mujib stopped for lunch in Tbilisi, the Georgian capital, and arrived in Moscow later today.

Sources in the Bangladesh government said he wants Mujib to stay in Moscow for an emergency and long-term assistance in rebuilding his war-ravaged country.

The Kremlin gave a warm welcome to the leader of the world's newest nation.

Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, Vice Premier Dmitri B. Pospelov and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko greeted him at the airport.

"Best wishes respected Mr. Prime Minister," said a large banner in Russian and Bengali stretched across the front of the terminal.

The government newspaper Izvestia published a front-page biography and photograph of Mujib on Tuesday. It noted with satisfaction that he had based his foreign policy on the "principles of nonalignment, peace and friendship, the struggle against imperialism and the development of friendly relations with all states."

Sheik Mujib's delegation was loaded with economic specialists, underscoring the aid-seeking side of his mission.

The prime minister's schedule called for discussions in the Kremlin today and Thursday with more talks and some sightseeing on Thursday. He flies to Leningrad on Friday, visits Tashkent Saturday and Sunday and returns home Monday.

Such remarks are not only incorrect, but also have political overtones and are not to be made," he said.

Labor Commissioner Jack A. Frazier said "Somebody's been playing politics in the office. It's a small minority of employees trying to make the governor look bad."

"If I catch anyone making false statements, they'll be fired on the spot," Frazier said. Department officials say the office is understaffed but that it is not a result of the governor's firing spree.

Since the recession, the department has not been able to hire enough people, they said. All employees of the Unemployment Compensation Department are paid by the federal government. The number of states may hire is proportional to the number of jobs pay claims.

The Labor Department is attempting to hire interim claimants.

State Employees Warned to Avoid Political Remark

HARTFORD (AP) — The state Labor Department has ordered its employees to stop making inaccurate public comments with "political overtones."

Theodore Hatcher, director of unemployment compensation sent the order to department managers and supervisors after complaints were made about understaffing.

Apparently people who have complained of delays in processing their unemployment claims have been told by department employees that the delays are "a result of insufficient staff and that understaffing results from the government's failure to permit the hiring of sufficient people," Hatcher wrote.

Those statements reached the administration's ears, he said.

Such remarks are not only incorrect, but also have political overtones and are not to be made," he said.

Colors, Especially Pink, Backed in Spring Showing

NEW YORK (AP) — While white designers are indulging in bright plaids on early beige, fashion designer Arnold Scaasi likes "all the pretty colors"—especially pink.

"It's the most flattering color," Scaasi said Tuesday, rejecting after a spring-summer showing of his made-to-order line, priced $50 to $1,000.

His dresses have ruffles such as "pink frosting" and "pink things." They may have ruffles at the throat and the wrists—and white-on-pink lace.

He uses geranium pink for a wool pants suit with a white halter top.

Pink ostrich feathers are mingled with black ones on the skirt of a short cocktail dress with black bodice.

Open a white coat and find a pink and black rainbow print. Count the pink flowers on a fluffy white floral-print evening gown.

Pair a pink plaid coat with matching A-line dress.

Scaasi also likes dots—and contrast prints with millions of multicolored speckles, teamed over a blouse or black evening dress.

Officials Hunt Grievances As Prisons Near Normalcy

At 8 p.m.

The Republican party will hold its caucus tomorrow night at 8 p.m. at the Andover Elementary School, to select its new town committee and delegates to the various conventions.

GOP chairman John Storm has urged all Republicans to attend the caucus and vote for their choices on the town committee. He said the list of candidates to be presented will consist of less than 30 names required to fill the committee roster.

Storm said nominations will be accepted from the floor, in order to make the town committee representative of the entire Republican party of the town.

Young Voters

Storm said he recently attended a vote 18 presentation at Sage-Alben in Hartford, where U.S. Rep. Robert Steele and Secretary of the State Gloria Schaffer appeared as guests.

Storm said Steele stressed to the young people the importance of registering and voting with a party, in order to exercise their voting privileges to the utmost.

Both Steele and Mrs. Schaffer told of the important contributions made by young people in politics and in support of the candidates of their choice.

Storm said the Andover town committee this year will give greater attention to encouraging all eligible young people to register as voters and vote with a party. He said the Republicans are anxious to involve the young people in political activities, and that it welcomes their new ideas and support.

Mrs. Marge Campbell of the Girl Scout organization said that the Girl Scout cookies have arrived and are in the process of being delivered throughout town.

She asked that all those who ordered cookies be prepared for prompt delivery and payment of the cookies. There are extra cookies available in the "cookie cupboard," according to Campbell, and anyone who has not placed an order, or who wishes more cookies, should contact Mrs. Peg Yeomans of Lake Rd., troop consultant.

The Andover Music Art Committee tonight will present its first musical performance. The program will include a group of selections for the classical guitar, performed by Richard Perceval.

Tickets for the program will be available at the top. The performance is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., at the old town hall on Route 6.

Yernon Board Votes Vo-Ag Budget

Budgets for the Vocational-Agricultural School for the coming two years were approved by the Board of Education Monday night and applications will now go to the State Board for approval.

The requested budget for 1972-73 totals $22,100 and that for 1973-74, $21,600. The state reimbursement two-thirds of this amount as the school is used by other towns that pay tuition fees to Yernon.

Presently the department has 26 students and three teachers. The proposed budget allows a salary for an additional teacher or next year when the enrollment is expected to go to 108.

When the town expands the high school, that part of the Vo-Ag department will be reabsorbed into the high school.

The total of salaries listed for four instructors is $20,100. The estimated per pupil cost in the high school, with which the Vo-Ag is associated, will be $1,189 next year.

Instructional supplies are listed at $2,000. Travel for instructors, $2,000 and books for students, $2,000. Custodian's salary, $2,600 and salary for student custodian, $700. The rest of the total includes routine costs for heat, electricity, telephone and insurance.

Town Democrats Elect Committee for 2 Years

160 registered Democratic voters or fraction of 160 registered voters.

Within two weeks of that date, according to Cummings, the committee will meet to elect officers, and within 30 days after April 11, the districts must meet to select district chairmen.

The first task of the committee, Cummings said, will be to complete changes in the party rules. The rules adopted in December primarily concerned the method of selection of committee members. Other changes must be made, he said, to comply with this substantial change.

Commenting on the caucus, Cummings said, "That was the grass roots politics at its best. I think a large number of respectable people were elected to the committee."

Considering the short time involved, there seemed to be quite a bit of campaigning going on as the large turnout would indicate. Cummings' statement to a flyer to Democratic voters while there were reports of vigorous campaigning on the part of virtually every candidate.

Those defeated were: Lawrence Gaurauder, 53; Edward Kaymanowski Jr., 28; Joseph Erwin, 25; and Joseph Christopherson, 25.

There will be no meetings of the committee until after April 11, the day reserved for a primary if there are any challengers to the committee members.

Andover Town Votes Against New Regional School

The referendum on school regionalization was defeated yesterday in Andover by a vote of 287 to 44. With just about a third of the town's 1,007 voters casting their ballots, the vote reflected the opinions expressed by townsmen in recent weeks.

The towns of Hebron and Danbury also defeated regionalization, and in much the same ratio as the vote in Andover.

The town will continue with the present system of a regionalized 7-12 school district and a local K-6 school district.

School Board Meets

The Board of Education held a special meeting last night to work on the proposed school district.

The board went over the budget items, discussing each item in detail. The board has come to make decisions on whether certain items should be eliminated or reduced, or whether they should be retained.

Several complaints also were received in which two students in which two students were "runned" calls later, for contributions of drugs and weapons. Mrs. Gilbertson said.

The Danbury Federal Correctional Institution, Warden John P. Norton said "not one more than the previous year."

In spite of the growing costs, the current budget was prepared at $17,000 more than last year's deficit operation. The board now must increase the budget to cover not only the growing year's rising costs, but to make up the deficit in this year's budget.

Money for the last year, heat costs were raised to the increase in the price of fuel oil, but the item in the budget remained the same.

Even State Department officials, who have been handling the Downey case, know nothing of Nixon's discussions on the former civilian employee of the U.S. Army during the Korean War.

Downey and a fellow civilian, Richard Focstau, were shot down in 1952 and convicted on spying charges. Focstau was sentenced to 20 years in jail, Downey to life.

Last December, after President Nixon announced he was going to China, the Peking government released Focstau a year early and reduced Downey's term to another five years.

The President indicated before his China trip that he was concerned about Downey. The White House warned against too much optimism, nevertheless hopes were high that the Chinese would release Downey as a good-will gesture.

Downey's mother, Mrs. Mary Downey, his sister, Mrs. William, visited the prisoner last year in China, and noted what they considered to be softening of Chinese attitude toward the United States.

Their feeling was confirmed last week by the President's trip.

Even State Department officials, who have been handling the Downey case, know nothing of Nixon's discussions on the former civilian employee of the U.S. Army during the Korean War.

Downey and a fellow civilian, Richard Focstau, were shot down in 1952 and convicted on spying charges. Focstau was sentenced to 20 years in jail, Downey to life.

Last December, after President Nixon announced he was going to China, the Peking government released Focstau a year early and reduced Downey's term to another five years.

The President indicated before his China trip that he was concerned about Downey. The White House warned against too much optimism, nevertheless hopes were high that the Chinese would release Downey as a good-will gesture.

Downey's mother, Mrs. Mary Downey, his sister, Mrs. William, visited the prisoner last year in China, and noted what they considered to be softening of Chinese attitude toward the United States.

Their feeling was confirmed last week by the President's trip.

Unfair Trade Barriers Blamed on U.S. Deficit

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1971 deficit in merchandise trade with the rest of the world, the first suffered by the United States since 1961, is usually blamed by protectionists on unfair trade practices by other nations.

They point to the U.S. loss of the share in a wide range of basic products—steel, automobiles, electronics, textiles—as the result of tariffs, subsidies, language rates and currency imbalances.

All these factors are involved. Consider just the latter, the matter of currency rates. Since the end of World War II France has devalued its currency five times, Italy three times, England twice.

The effect of such devaluations was to solve imbalances in the foreign payments of these nations but at a cost to other countries of an upward revaluation of their currencies.

The net result was a steady trade for the devaluers and a more difficult time for countries whose currencies were not devalued.

I-84 Corridor: Impact on Towns

By DOUG BEVINS (Herald Reporter) The towns of Bolton, Coventry and Andover would suffer short-term revenue losses of about $38,000 if the proposed Interstate 84 is built in the recommended corridor...

The highway itself would not require tax-supported services, but resulting community growth could necessitate a five-fold increase in services, including, and other functions would be carried out by the state.

The 12.8-mile stretch of I-84 would go through 80 acres of undeveloped land and about 27 families, 10 businesses, a post office, and three agricultural buildings.

Bolton Time-Off Proposals Made for Employees

The Bolton salary study committee began a review of vacation and fringe benefits for town employees at its meeting Monday.

The group voted to recommend that regular town employees, including part-time persons who work regular, pre-established hours, be allowed three personal days leave with pay, in addition to their vacation days. The days, which would be granted at the discretion of the supervisor, would be noncumulative and would be used to cover such personal business as a death in the family.

Expansion of employee vacations also was discussed, and members were agreed "usually" that the present vacation benefits should be increased. Regular employees now get one week after a year of service and one day for each additional year of service.

Study committee member Roy Pockman suggested that regular and two related employees receive one week vacation after nine months of continuous service, one week after two years, and one day vacation for each year of service thereafter.

Members will vote on this recommendation at their next meeting, to be held Mar. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the town office.

The present holiday system, whereby regular and appointed salaried employees receive the 11 paid holidays observed by the state will be continued. The holiday benefit, however, was expanded to include seasonal employees, as those who do not receive a regular salary bonus. Such persons will receive half pay for any holidays falling within their season of employment.

The committee is reminding townpeople that all items being discussed are preliminary recommendations and may be adjusted or rejected before the committee offers its final report to the Board of Finance.

Tom Connor, chairman of the committee, said the present system for town employees is not fair, rather than instituting a regular system. Members felt that a regular holiday system would be high in order to justify the increased work load, since seasonal employees are not paid town salaries. It was also felt that the present system, where the town pays for the cost of their own town council fees, affords more control to the employees.

Calvin Hutchinson, Bolton's building inspector and chairman of the committee, said he was taking two job-related courses during the next few months. Today he will begin a two-week building course entitled "Structural Masonry and Brickwork" which will be held at the University of Connecticut.

San Diego Falls Behind in Payments for Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — San Diego, host for the 1972 Republican convention, is $300,000 behind in payments to the parley, and GOP chiefs are getting worried about collecting.

Party officials said Tuesday they owe about $100,000 in cash has been paid by the San Diego Convention Visitors Bureau, even though a $200,000 payment memo committee, was to deliver a full report on the situation Tuesday to the Republican National Committee today.

Richard Harman, an Omaha businessman who was chairman of the convention arrangements, said he was not sure when the money would be received.

Harman said, "I'm driving to get the rest of the money from San Diego, but expressed optimism that the city eventually will meet the financial terms of the agreement. Harman said the GOP is confident Republican conventions always have been self-supporting.

Harman was reluctant, however, to discuss possible effects on convention planning created by San Diego's payment lag.

Cash payments to the party were to include $200,000 from the Visitors and Convention Bureau, and an additional $100,000 from San Diego County. Also, the agreement with the GOP calls for over $700,000 in goods and services to be provided by the bureau, the city, the county and the state of California.

Rham District School Board Plans To Wipe Out Deficit

The Regional District Board of Education estimated Monday night that because of unanticipated expenditures, it will have an operating deficit of $17,000 in this year's budget.

The board also anticipates that its estimated receipts will be $13,000 less than expected due mainly to only $9,000 being reimbursed by the state for industrial arts equipment, instead of the estimated $20,000.

Total deficits figured by the board amounted to $40,000.50; however, these are offset somewhat by estimated surplus in the amount of $22,000.

Among the estimated deficits is $20,000, charged to the Board of Education's account. This is in addition to the $5,000 appropriated in the budget for the Regional Study Committee.

At the time the board budgeted the $5,000 it felt it was budgeting high but the actual final expenditures amounted to $7,000.

Two deficits, $8,000 and $5,000 in the insurance and unemployment compensation accounts, were both unexpected.

The $5,000 for insurance was due to an unexpected rise in insurance premiums on the buildings, and the $5,000 for unemployment was only recently raised eligible for teachers by the state.

Other unanticipated expenses were $2,000 for food and maintenance at Rham High School, and $2,000 for substitute teachers, because of the extended illness leaves by regular teachers.

Also, an additional $1,000 for vocational transportation because of more students than expected; $2,700 for utilities for a private school student, a sum the board is legally obligated to pay; and $4,000 for interest due to an unanticipated bond contract.

The remainder of the deficit, $15,700.75, falls under additional salaries for the principal, assistant principal, teachers, librarians and nurses.

At the time the budget for last year was approved, there was not any contract signed for these salaries and the board had no idea how much to budget.

It based its estimate on normal increments only, and this amount proved to be too low.

The board considered some of the steps it could take for over-coming the deficit, but the really amounting to $21,000, if the estimated deficit and the case is estimated services are considered.

For years, the board has been operating with a supplemental grant on its books, for investment and plant. This could be applied to the $21,000, leaving only $11,000 to cover.

The additional $11,000 might be taken out of this year's stipend of $28,000. Legally, however, this surplus should be returned to the town of Andover, Hebron, and Marlborough, to apply against their levies.

Therefore, the board will take a vote at a regional district meeting to free the surplus.

No decision was reached on handling the deficit. However, it is expected that the board will make such a decision shortly.

Cookie Sales Reach Record

With the anticipated increase of almost 100 students again next year, the administration feels the staff increase is necessary.

The board decided to discuss this recommendation before making any decisions.

New Religious Beat

NEW YORK (AP) — Avant-Garde Records, a leader in publishing popular religious albums, has issued five new ones, including "Boys of Tremie" and "In Love" by the Medford Mission Sisters, who have turned out several previous ones.

Another party source said party officials are more concerned about the payments by San Diego's payment lag. He said they are more than they are to. He said there is a growing feeling the cash

Flood Survivors Burying Victims

MAN, Va. Va. (AP) — Funeral services for several victims of the Buffalo Creek flood in West Virginia were held Monday. The bodies of several victims were buried in the town hall.

Proceeds will be used to help defray the cost of the club's trip to Canada, planned for April.

Bulletin Board

Republicans will caucus tomorrow night at 8 in the Community Hall, to select members for the town committee.

The regular and two related employees receive one week vacation after nine months of continuous service, one week after two years, and one day vacation for each year of service thereafter.

Members will vote on this recommendation at their next meeting, to be held Mar. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the town office.

The present holiday system, whereby regular and appointed salaried employees receive the 11 paid holidays observed by the state will be continued. The holiday benefit, however, was expanded to include seasonal employees, as those who do not receive a regular salary bonus. Such persons will receive half pay for any holidays falling within their season of employment.

The committee is reminding townpeople that all items being discussed are preliminary recommendations and may be adjusted or rejected before the committee offers its final report to the Board of Finance.

Tom Connor, chairman of the committee, said the present system for town employees is not fair, rather than instituting a regular system. Members felt that a regular holiday system would be high in order to justify the increased work load, since seasonal employees are not paid town salaries. It was also felt that the present system, where the town pays for the cost of their own town council fees, affords more control to the employees.

Calvin Hutchinson, Bolton's building inspector and chairman of the committee, said he was taking two job-related courses during the next few months. Today he will begin a two-week building course entitled "Structural Masonry and Brickwork" which will be held at the University of Connecticut.

The three-hour classes will be held on Wednesday evenings. Thus, Hutchinson will be attending Wednesday evening of the course in his own home.

Hutchinson will be taking an advanced course from March 22 to May 11. The instruction training period will be held on Tuesday evenings from 7 to 11 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Evening appointments may be made by special arrangement.

Tax School

Mrs. Elaine Petterson, tax collector, will attend a three-day seminar for tax collectors March 7, 8 and 9 at the University of Hartford. The state-sponsored course will deal with collection procedures and techniques, accounting records, and the tax collector's role as a local official.

FTO News

Mr. and Mrs. Rigby Graham, co-presidents of the Bolton FTO, have announced the names of two women who will fill vacancies on the FTO executive board.

Mrs. John Sheets of Yungwood Lane will represent the FTO at the annual meeting of the American Society of Travelers at 3:30 p.m. Monday at the elementary school representative on the board.

Both will serve until June.

Mrs. Thelma Friedman, grade 2 teacher, will be the elementary school representative on the board.

The FTO will sponsor a bus trip to the 11 a.m. performance of the Story Mile at the University of Connecticut Saturday.

Notice with detailed information regarding cost, reservations, and times of arrival and departure will be sent home with children this week. Mrs. Graham said.

Supper Thank-Yous

Mrs. William Lopez, general secretary of the spaghetti supper sponsored by the Democratic Town Committee last week, change the more active issues in thanking local merchants who donated door prizes for the affair.

She also expressed her appreciation to those members of the committee who served the

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Last To Die

Husband and wife both perished in an automobile accident. Scarcely they die at the same time. Yet, if one has outlived the other even for an instant, that may make a tremendous difference to their heirs. It may decide whether the husband's relatives or the wife's relatives inherit the estate.

Accordingly, in this "common disaster" situation, strenuous efforts are often made to figure out which of the two victims was the last to die. In a recent case, double deaths occurred when a speeding truck rammed into the passenger side of a car. Both husband and wife died instantly.

In another case, a mother and daughter were found dead of asphyxiation. The only "evidence" as to which one died last was that the daughter probably held out longer because she was younger.

But a court said this was plain guesswork, and turned down a claim put forth by relatives of the daughter. Suppose the victims really did die simultaneously (or, at least, no one can prove otherwise). To cover this situation, most states have passed a Simultaneous Death Act. This Act lays down specific rules to settle the various conflicting claims that may arise.

A better solution in many cases is to have a "simultaneous death clause," tailored to your individual wishes, included in your will. In these days of high-speed transportation, such a contingency is well worth taking into account.

Family Planning

Two upcoming new U.S. stamps will focus attention on divergent subjects—parenthood and planning.

The first of these adhesives is a 6-cent vertical jumbo-size stamp to mark the 100th anniversary of Yellowstone National Park.

The second stamp, also an 8-center, with its theme of family planning will be issued March 18 in New York City.

The Yellowstone centennial will be the first of eight stamps in five denominations in the National Parks Centennial series to celebrate the first national park in the world.

Another reminder is that addressee should be placed on the lower left as possible because of the stamp's large size.

WORLD OF WORK

Answers to Employment Questions by Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson
No Hazard in Reporting Safety Lapses

J. G. of Columbus, Ohio writes: "I have recently gone to work for a factory in this area which requires lifting heavy weights and working with sharp-edged materials. It appears to me that there are a number of safety precautions which are not being observed by my employer. Do I have a right to report these hazards?"

Dear J. G.: Every employee has the right to report safety and health hazards to the Secretary of Labor. The law protects such workers by prohibiting their employers from discriminating against those who exercise the right to file complaints.

K. L. of Greenburg, Wis. asks: How are the unemployment figures determined? Does the government only count those applying for and collecting unemployment compensation?

Dear K. L.: The unemployment figures published each month are derived from a sample survey of some 50,000 households throughout the United States. In this survey, the largest monthly one of its kind in the world, the respondent in each household is asked a number of questions concerning every person age 16 or over in the household. The major objective of these questions is to permit classification of each person as either employed, unemployed or not in the labor force.

All persons who have a job during the survey week are counted as employed. Persons who did not work at all during the survey week were available for work and made specific efforts to find a job during the four weeks prior to the survey are classified as unemployed. Other persons are classified as "not in the labor force."

A person is counted as unemployed if he meets the above definition, whether or not he is claiming or receiving unemployment compensation. However, separate counts are made through the state unemployment insurance system of persons making claims for unemployment compensation. Figures on both the total number of unemployed and the number of workers covered by state unemployment insurance programs are published regularly by the Department of Labor.

P. M. of Eugene, Ore. asks: Does a person receive pay for time lost from work because of military training?

Dear P. M.: Employers are not required to pay for lost time because of training. Some do, as a matter of policy or contract; others do not.

J. P. of Raleigh, N.C. asks: Does the Age Discrimination in Employment Act permit an employer to give preference to a 45-year-old job applicant competing with one who is 61?

Dear J. P.: No, it does not. Assuming both are equally qualified for the job, it is just as illegal to give preference because of age to one person within the 40 to 65 protected age group as it is to give preference because of age to someone under 40 when he competes with an applicant between 40 and 65.

Editor's note: If you have a question regarding job training and placement, labor-management relations, job health and safety, equal employment opportunity, wages and hours, employment and unemployment, prices and earnings and other matters involving the U.S. Department of Labor, send it to:

Vernon Schools Seek Program For Gifted Child

The Vernon Board of Education, interested in responding to the needs of individual children, is investigating the possibility of establishing a program for the gifted in the school system.

William Vassar, a consultant for the State Board of Education, explained to the board Monday night how the state assists the town in setting up such programs.

He emphasized that while programs for all types of children with learning disabilities are mandatory, those for gifted children are not.

However, the state does reimburse the town two-thirds of the cost of the program. Vassar said legislation concerning reimbursement is the same as for the programs for the handicapped.

In 1967 there were four basic programs for the handicapped and now there are two. The board, he stressed the fact that the state does not tell the school districts what type of program to have but rather assists the individual in setting up the program to suit its needs.

The local board was prompted to set up some type of program for these gifted children when the school psychologist reported one child with an unusually high IQ. The board felt there would have to be a child placed in another school system, where such a special program exists, or set up its own program. The board, several weeks ago, agreed to appropriate some money for this purpose.

Vassar said it is the state's responsibility to help the school system with the general education program. He said one of the weaknesses in the school systems is special programs for the gifted, "I feel this is the neglected, special position in the education program," he said.

Within the state does not have a position in the education program, regionalization is good or bad, Vassar said it is his personal opinion that many things which are done on a regional basis. He repeated that the state is concerned with talent and gifted children. Vassar cited Vernon's Talented Schools for retarded children as a model example of what can be done with regionalization. The school serves several area towns.

Asked by board member, Mrs. Marie Hoepf, if towns could possibly receive pre-payment for these special programs rather than having to appropriate the money first in the education budget, she explained the problem in when the state reimburses, the money goes into the town's general budget.

Vassar indicated he, personally, would not be in favor of such a move noting he feels this could sometimes be used as a smoke screen or flush funds out of the state in the near future, he added.

Kleindienst To Testify On ITT Before Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Deputy Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst, will testify on Thursday at a Senate hearing on the charges he took part in settlement of antitrust cases against International Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Columnist Jack Anderson, who wrote that a settlement favoring ITT was arranged by after one of its subsidiary companies pledged up to $400,000 to help finance next August's Republican National Convention, also will testify.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee which authorized the hearing, said Kleindienst's nomination to succeed Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, told a reporter of plans for the hearing.

He said other witnesses will be former assistant attorney general Richard W. McLaren, now a federal judge, who headed the Justice Department's antitrust division, and a representative of ITT, a giant conglomerate.

Eastland said the hearings on Kleindienst's nomination are not being reopened because the nomination already is pending in the Senate. To reopen the hearings, he said, the nomination would have to be recalled from the Senate by his committee.

He said the committee will decide what to do after hearing the testimony Thursday. Earlier the Justice Department said Kleindienst had asked for a reopening of the Senate hearings on his nomination.

The department declined to elaborate. But Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said Kleindienst told him Tuesday night he wanted to be heard "to rebut" charges he had participated in settlement of an antitrust case against International Telephone & Telegraph Co.

He has a full and adequate lawyer, Scott told newsmen. Scott, a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said he had been in touch with Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., and understood a hearing will be scheduled for Thursday.

Eastland was not available immediately for comment. The committee's counsel said he did not yet know of plans for a hearing because of what witnesses would be called.

The committee voted 16 to 0 last week to recommend Senate confirmation of President Nixon's nomination of Kleindienst to succeed Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, who resigned, effective today, to direct Nixon's reelection campaign.

Late Tuesday the committee filed a report saying it was entirely satisfied with Kleindienst's qualifications to serve as attorney general. Almost simultaneously Democratic National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien called for re-examination of Kleindienst's nomination because of allegations that a pledge of funds to help finance the Republican National convention helped obtain a favorable antitrust settlement for ITT.

Nicklaus Closing in on Cherished Goal Of Passing Palmer on All-Time $$$ List

MIAMI (AP)—Jack Nicklaus is closing in on one of his most cherished goals—passing Arnold Palmer on the all-time money winning list—and could achieve it with a victory in this week's $150,000 Doral-Eastern Open tournament.

"It's something I'd very much like to do, particularly with Arnold still playing," the 32-year-old Nicklaus said Wednesday before a practice round. First prize in the $7,065-a-year, par-72 Blue Monster Course at the Doral Country Club.

"You always like to be the best in as many categories as possible."

Nicklaus, in his 11th year on one of the favorites in the pro tour, picked up $29,640 Wednesday before a practice round. He is packing the 1972 Buick Wildcat in the top 10 of the money list with $1,471,223.33. In the 1971 season, he won the $100,000 Inverrary Classic, the richest event on the schedule this year. Others who have won the year's best prize include Tom Watson, Lee Trevino, Tony Jacklin of England, South African Gary Player, and American Champ Charles Coody. Nicklaus is still in the top 10 of the money list with $1,471,223.33. In the 1971 season, he won the $100,000 Inverrary Classic, the richest event on the schedule this year. Day With a Pro Basketball Player

NEW YORK (NEA)—Danny Whelan, gray-haired team trainer and handyman, is alone in the New York Knicks' locker room in Madison Square Garden. It is 10:30 a.m.

The room, with greenish carpeting and light wood built into the wall, is clean and tidy. Stools have been turned upside down and placed on the shelf of each locker. Practice begins in half an hour. At 1 o'clock, the team will board a bus to the airport for an away game tomorrow.

Whelan, 47, is packing the blue traveling uniform. Jerry Lucas is the first player in. He wears a tan wind jacket, brown corduroy bellbottoms, work shoes.

"Stayed up late to see you on the Johnny Carver show last night," said Whelan. Dismissing it as "just a show," Whelan said he had come on at the end of the show. "I couldn't do my stuff in two minutes. And I didn't want to talk."

Lucas has some tricks. One is taking names from a telephone book and changing them into words and sentences. "I would never go on that show," Whelan said. "The announcer would say, 'I did not see anything on the floor. I didn't see anything on the floor.'"

JERRY LUCAS DEAN MEMINGER DAVE DEBUSCHERE

Meminger and Eddie Miles pointed with left hand, and Lucas with right hand. "They were sure dukin' it, weren't they?" says Meminger, who sports a sparse goatee. "See that one guy knee the other?"

"In college once a guy called that on me," said DeBuschere. "Get your hand up. Get your hand up. 'I didn't foul him.' This is his first American start. 'Yeah,' said Lucas. He had come on at the end of the show. 'I couldn't do my stuff in two minutes. And I didn't want to talk.'"

Dallas Hires Sid Gillman As Assistant

DALLAS (AP)—The Dallas Cowboys hired former St. Louis coach Sid Gillman Tuesday to set up a research and development department in which the Super Bowl champions will intensify their study of National Football League personnel.

Gillman will be a special assistant to Coach Tom Landry, much as Ernie Allen, Dallas' chief scout, is to Landry.

"We feel they can add a lot in researching new ideas and trends taking place in the NFL," said Landry of the Gillman-Alan duo. "And obviously, Sid's vast experience in the NFL, totally and in the American Football Conference specifically, can be of great value."

Gillman will hold the title of special assistant to the head coach. Neither he nor Allen will have field duties although they will assist the staff in assembling pre-game information.

Arcaro's Record May Go Thursday

NEW YORK (AP)—Willie Shoemaker goes after another of Eddie Arcaro's riding records—554 stakes winners—at Santa Anita Thursday, but there'll be no record from racing's little giant.

"It has to come Arcaro, longtime king of the stakes rides said today. "If not Thursday, then Saturday, or next Monday. Willie is only 40 and he's still going strong."

Arcaro is not sorry that he hung up his whip in 1962 at the age of 46, leaving behind an imposing record of 24,066 mounts, 4,779 races and purses totaling $50,693,312.
