Airliner Crashes In Albany; 17 Die

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — An airliner making an instrument approach to Albany Airport was down. Then I saw it go over the house, there was a thump and then dead silence. The neighborhood and crashed through a two-story home. Authorities said 17 persons were killed Friday night, including one resident of the house, but the homeowner, building contractor Joseph Rosen, 43, his wife Marcia, 35, and their young sons Lawrence and Roger escaped serious injury. They were hurled out of the house.

The pilot and copilot of the Mohawk Airlines turboprop, a two-engine Fairchild F27, were among those who died. The stewardess Sandy Segit, was one of the 33 persons admitted to hospitals. Mrs. Rosen and her sons also were admitted. Also killed was Peter Sargent, who lived with his wife in an apartment on the second floor of the Rosen home. The raised-ranch house sat along a tree-lined street in a middle-class neighborhood.

He said the inside of the plane was "a mass of bodies." He said he and others "burned into the rear of the plane and got some of the people out." "We saw a stewardess in there under the baggage and got her out too," Basile said. One of the first to crawl into the shattered fuselage was Thomas Grenier, a member of the Albany Rescue Squad. He said the inside of the plane was "a mass of bodies." He said he and others "burned into the rear of the plane and got some of the people out." "Where am I?" and "What am I doing here." William Ordway, who lives across the street, said he was watching television when he heard a noise and looked out the window to see pieces of the plane and fragments of the Rosen home flying through the air. "The only thing I did was to run across the street and carry Mrs. Rosen out of the area," Ordway said. "She was covered with blood. She wasn't in the house, but she was lying outside." Rosen's brother, Jerry, said Rosen told him he had been watching television when he heard a "big boom." The next thing he remembered was regaining consciousness in the back yard. Mrs. Sargent apparently was not at home and her whereabouts could not be learned immediately.

Nixon, McGovern In 'Spectaculars' In Granite State

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—President Nixon's Republican allies have staged their big New Hampshire show in behalf of "the man who isn't here," while a Democrat who is, Sen. George McGovern, claims he has a chance to score an upset victory in Tuesday's presidential primary.

The music was by Lionel Hampton, the songs by Laine Kazan and then the politics by members of the Nixon Cabinet as the Committee for the Re-election of the President sought to stir up the Republican loyalists and turn out a big primary vote for the absent Nixon. New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller recalled his own futile New Hampshire campaign eight years ago in a primary won by Henry Cabot Lodge, who was in Saigon at the time. "The man who wasn't here won that primary," said Rockefeller. "Well, that's life. This time I think it's going to happen again. It's going to be Dick Nixon... he's the man who isn't here." Nixon campaigners deployed across the state during the day to urge the voters to back the President on Tuesday. Secretary of Transportation John Volpe took the occasion to announce in Manchester a $21,300 federal grant to improve the city's airport. House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford urged New Hampshire voters to give Nixon "the greatest majority and the highest figure in the history" of their primary election. In the Democratic contest, don't agree with him about this trip, give him a chance to achieve that generation of peace," Rockefeller said. One of those who doesn't agree is Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio, challenging Nixon on the conservative plank, who said Friday that Nixon's performance at Peking "was a sellout of American principles." "The countdown on Nationalist China's independence has already begun and time is running in favor of the Communists and against the United States because of Mr. Nixon's sellout last week," Ashbrook said. Nixon's other rival is Rep. Paul N. McCloskey of California, the liberal challenger who approved of Nixon's visit to China. He said the trip would "begin to break down the barriers between our peoples." "But remember that the President played a great part in creating those barriers," McCloskey said. Kleindienst Hearing Stalled

WASHINGTON (AP) — With most of the witnesses yet to be heard in a Senate Judiciary Committee investigation, final action on Richard G. Kleindienst's nomination to be attorney general faces an indefinite delay.

One key witness, Mrs. Dita D. Beard, Washington lobbyist for the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., has dropped out of sight. More than a score of FBI agents are reportedly searching for her, concentrating on the Denver area. Charges linking settlement of anti-trust suits against ITT to a financial commitment to the Republican National Convention in San Diego should not be closed until the committee gets Mrs. Beard's testimony.

Committee chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., also has indicated that he does not believe the hearings can be concluded without exhausting every effort to find the woman lobbyist. Eastland already has issued two subpoenas for her and it was at his request that FBI agents were assigned to look for her. Committee sources said Mrs. Beard had telephoned a Washington doctor from Denver seeking a prescription for heart trouble. A confidential memorandum attributed to Mrs. Beard linked an out-of-court settlement of the anti-trust cases to a pledge by the Sheraton Hotel subsidiary of ITT to help San Diego meet the costs of the GOP convention.

The memorandum, published by Communist Jack Anderson, also said that former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell "is definitely helping us but cannot let it be known." Mitchell, who resigned his Cabinet post to direct President Nixon's re-election campaign and who is slated to testify at the committee's hearings, has denied the charges. Kleindienst, Mitchell's deputy for the last three years, has denounced the memorandum as "completely false" in sworn testimony at the committee hearings that began two days ago. Kleindienst's nomination to succeed Mitchell was approved by a 15-0 vote of the committee last week, but a Senate vote on confirmation is being held up until the investigation is concluded. The hearings are in recess until Tuesday, when Kleindienst, U.S. District Judge Richard W. McLaren, former chief of the Justice Department's anti-trust division and Felix Rohatyn, an ITT director, are to return for further questioning. They are the only witnesses heard so far. Eastland hoped to finish their testimony Friday, but Kennedy said he had not finished his examination of them and wanted them recalled.

Dayan Warns Lebanon

TEL AVIV (AP) — Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said today he believes the Lebanese government will try to restrict, "perhaps to control immediately," southern Lebanese areas where Arab guerrillas are concentrated. "Either they take care of the area or we shall have to do it by one way or another," he added. Asked in a radio interview if he thought the Lebanese government would fall in the attempt, Dayan said: "Well, then we will have to go on and put more pressure and to demonstrate again that there are only two alternatives." The Israeli chief of staff, Lt. Gen. David Elazar, said his forces will remain on top alert along the Lebanese and Syrian frontiers to strike if Israeli civilian targets again come under guerrilla attack. Elazar said he hoped Israel's military strikes against the Arab commandos in southern Lebanon and Syria would bring quiet to these areas, but added: "One couldn't be sure." Dayan said on television Friday night it was up to Beirut to halt terror activity in southern Lebanon. He also warned Damascus, declaring Israel would not idly suffer more air attacks against settlements in the occupied Golan Heights of Syria. Officials in Washington reported Friday that the latest Middle East visit by Gunnar Jarring, the U.N. mediator, left (See Page Sixteen)

Warplanes Wing North; Batter Defense Lines

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes pounded anti-aircraft defenses inside North Vietnam Friday and blasted enemy troop positions south of the demilitarized zone, the U.S. command reported today. The command said fighter escorts bombed two anti-aircraft artillery batteries after the North Vietnamese guns opened fire at unarmed American reconnaissance planes at points 85 and 120 miles north of the DMZ. It said results of the U.S. raids were not known and there was no damage to U.S. aircraft. Other U.S. planes unleashed air-to-ground missiles at an air defense radar site 40 miles above the DMZ, a spokesman said, because it threatened bombers attacking the Ho Chi Minh trail network in neighboring Laos. The results were not known. This raised to 74 the number of bombings reported this year above the border zone. The command describes them as protective reaction. Under the U.S. policy, pilots are authorized to attack positions inside North Vietnam if they feel a threat develops while U.S. reconnaissance planes are over the North or where bombers are operating on the ground. Nearly a dozen waves of U.S. B52 heavy bombers blasted North Vietnamese bunker complexes, storage areas and infiltration corridors from the Sanh south of the DMZ to the A Shau Valley bordering Laos. U.S. military sources said the strikes were aimed at countering a continuing enemy buildup in the region. The thrust of the B52 strikes was switched to the northern quarter after five days of raids against a similarly reported buildup of North Vietnamese troops in the central highlands. The South Vietnamese air force said its subsonic A7 jet bombers destroyed one light tank and heavily damaged another in the triborder region about eight miles inside Laos and 18 miles west of Ben Het. A 10,000-man South Vietnamese spoiling operation in the region entered its third day with still only light fighting reported.

Cold Rains, Sleet and Snow Winter Returns to State

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A comparative heat wave at mid-week suddenly turned into another taste of winter, bringing cold rains, sleet and snow to Connecticut Friday and a chance of more snow tonight. The U.S. Weather Service predicted that the Farmington River would approach the 12-foot flood stage at Simsbury today. Meteorologists had earlier warned of flash flooding along small streams, but canceled that warning Friday night. Larger streams, however, were expected to continue rising today. Despite hazardous driving conditions throughout the Manchester area last night, there were very few auto accidents. Manchester police reported three minor accidents with no injuries. State Police from the Stafford Springs barracks reported a flurry of "fender-bender" accidents, none of them serious. The rains, which began last Thursday night, were followed by sleet, freezing rain and snow Friday morning.

The weather bureau at Bradley International Airport in Windsor Locks reported only six-tenths of an inch of snow, but 1.65 inches of rain. Slippery streets throughout the state caused havoc for commuting motorists. Scores of motorists were left stranded in mud. Some streets were temporarily closed as a result of flooding, and Park River overflowed, allowing water two-feet deep to rush across the University of Hartford parking lot Friday. The flooding washed out parts of the pavement on Canton Street in Hartford, where construction is underway. State police in Danvers said Route 101 was washed out in East Killingly. A 16-year-old Chester youth, Michael C. Weeks, was killed shortly after 7 a.m. Friday when the car he was driving slid off rain-slicked Route 9A at a curve in Deep River and hit trees, state police said. He was pronounced dead at the scene. Troopers reported about a dozen minor traffic accidents resulted from the storm. Wet circuits and damaged lines disrupted telephone service early Friday in some areas. The Army Corps of Engineers reported the closing or reducing of the gates at nine dams and reservoirs in Massachusetts and Connecticut on the Blackstone, Thames and Naugatuck Rivers as flood-control measures. The weather service said the weather resulted from a frontal zone stretching from Nova Scotia to North Carolina, with several low-pressure areas moving along the zone. The drop in temperatures to below freezing followed mid-week temperatures ranging into the 50s in Connecticut. A large storm moving into the upper Great Lakes from the Great Plains spread snow from the eastern Dakotas to Indiana. (See Page Sixteen)

Motorists Expect A Saving... One of the hopes for a "no fault" insurance system is that it will lead to greater speed and fairness of injury settlements.

Another hope for it is that it will help bring to an end that inflationary traffic in human hair which has been based on the erroneous theory that, in the insurance way of life, nobody has to pay.

Another hope for "no fault" insurance concerns the size of the premiums automobile owners pay. This, we believe, has to be recognized as the main saving to customers that can be anticipated from a "no fault" system.

It is not merely that future kind of saving, however, which is in the minds of those Connecticut people who are backing the "no fault" legislation at Hartford.

The insurance companies are not going to relish having any such arbitrary condition attached to the change they are seeking. But the fact indeed is that the popular support they are asking and getting is primarily based on the assurance that the Connecticut motorist is about to save himself some money.

A Weakness For Memoranda? "Please destroy this, huh?" That was the last line of the purported memorandum from the professional Washington lobbyist for the International Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Somehow, the "please destroy this, huh?" plea, at the end of the memorandum was ignored. This leaves us with the question which must have occurred to almost all of us when this memorandum first came into the news.

How did it ever get written in the first place? How come a supposedly sophisticated Washington lobbyist was so careless as to put such gossiping of her own down on paper where its mere existence for even a moment in which it might fall into the wrong hands would endanger not only her company but her own job?

Was it that she just couldn't restrain herself from luxuriating around in the splendor of her lobbying achievement, huh?

Just about everybody, we think, concluded his or her thinking about the China trip with a quiet, pleased reflection about the way Mrs. Pat Nixon conducted herself.

She has been, for all her unquestioned beauty of appearance, an unburied bloomer in her role of first lady. The delicate piece of Dresden China has been gradually revealing and exhibiting its qualities of life and feeling, she demonstrates that one can fill a role without becoming an actress; grace and consideration for others without moving to a pedestal; blend womanhood and a public role with a wholesome naturalness.

We think she was an admirable helpmate for her husband in the China mission. We think she represented American womanhood beautifully. We hope a reader or two will clip this out and mail it to her.

Craving For A Crocus This is the time of the year when the crocus is still a bit shy about frost bit. You can't see it, though, that it is merely biding its time and that, before you know it, it will make its move toward the sun.

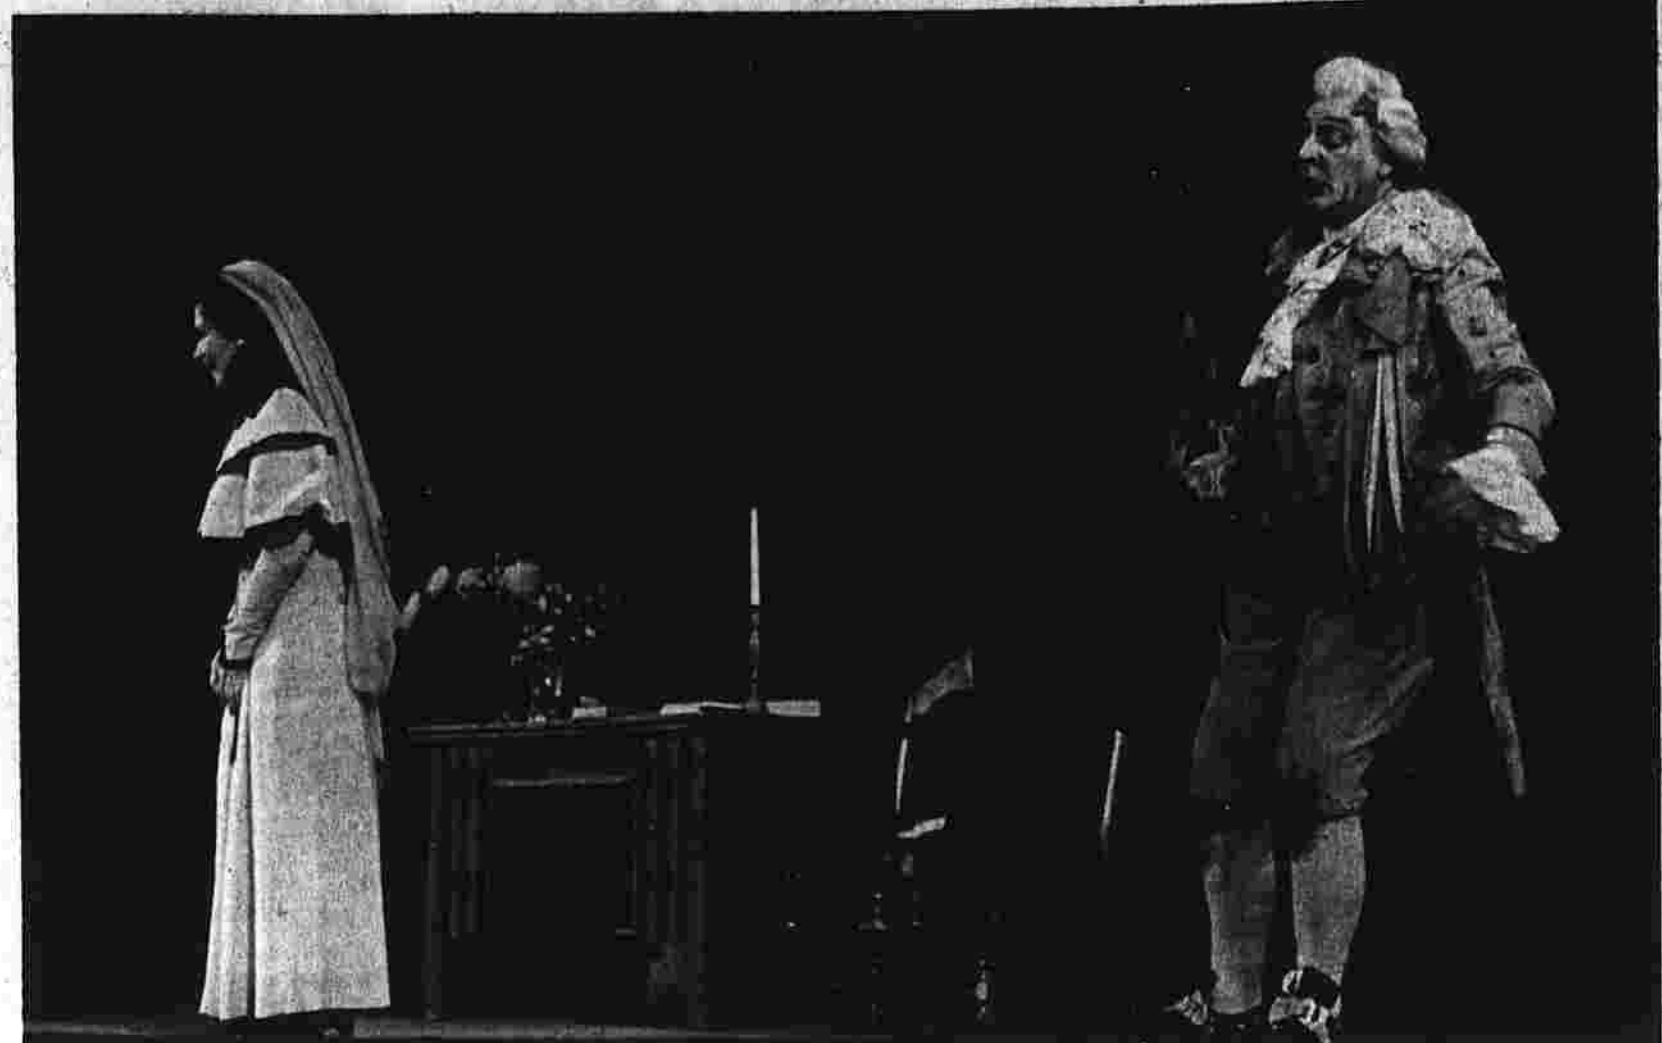

It is also the time of the year when vacations: warmer climates are at their peak. Airplanes, cars and trains are buzzing like mad, shutting people back and forth.

It is easy to spot the returned vacationer. He or she usually has a "healthy" tan, a suitcase full of souvenirs piled on top of the soiled luggage, and a wallet considerably shrunken by the devil-may-care spirit which seems to ferment under palm trees and warm nights.

We could envision further analysis. The merits of a Goombay Smash as a third amendment against a schmeer of draft beer, for example. But, like you, where do you find the time for these pleasant dalliances?

Children Know The Score Do you remember how into parents fire-bombed 10 school buses in Pontiac, Mich., just a few months ago? Well, tempers have cooled a good deal since then, thanks to the black and white boys and girls who are showing their parents how civilized families not only can but must learn to live together.

Racial incidents there have dropped from a school-closing high to rock bottom since the kids took over from their parents. A properly concerned school administrator supporting the leadership of course. But nothing could have been accomplished in the Pontiac underbox if the children had not gone happily along. MANCHESTER, N.H.—If Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's campaign is in as much trouble in New Hampshire as it appears to be, the reason may be that the Maine Democrat has failed — in the words of one shrewd observer — "to solve the problem of how a rational man should behave in an irrational situation."

It is not merely that future kind of saving, however, which is in the minds of those Connecticut people who are backing the "no fault" legislation at Hartford. The insurance companies are not going to relish having any such arbitrary condition attached to the change they are seeking.

News for Senior Citizens

Hello everyone; here we go again, and it's all pretty good. It's back on the job after a hiatus of just playing the lay one. Everyone around the Center got the idea I had gone to sunny Florida, but one from the family is enough. No, I just stayed at home, and picked up some very needed exercises by playing some ice hockey.

The week sure went by fast, and like always, one feels tired, but you wonder why you take a vacation as it's supposed to be the time for relaxing and taking it easy. Oh well, Monday I arrived at the Center around 7:30 a.m., only to find a few people already there to register for the Easter Show. But the end of the day was a most enjoyable one.

The trip isn't until April 8; however, to assure our tickets, we had to register as soon as possible. We were hoping to eat dinner at Patricia Murphy's, but she is out of town. We had to settle for a rooming house for the night, and we will be back in time for the trip.

The Bible Speaks

Mathematicians have calculated that the odds of a person having occurred by chance to be ten to the 40,000,000,000th power is less than the possibility of a needle striking a pin.

It is not the odds that are the point, but the fact that the odds are so great.

Glass is Versatile
There are times when it is different to give a gift and if the gift is concerned but more important, you might be injured and, think in terms of glass because of poor visibility and distortion.
Another item that would be a boon during the winter is the installation of glass ventilators that protect against storms, let in plenty of air and do not detract from your bedrooms. These are very easy to install; you can do it yourself or someone from White Glass Co. will be happy to do the work for you. Be sure to take accurate measurements if you do the work yourself and check counter tops and wall openings for glass ventilators are wonderful for the year around, summer or winter.

Mrs. Dille Reviews Opinions of Welfare

By LYNDIA SCHOLD (Herald Reporter)

Mrs. Jeannette Dille of Manchester spoke on the subject, "The Public's Welfare: Fact or Fantasy," in the half-filled auditorium at Manchester Community College Thursday evening.

Mrs. Dille is the executive director of the Connecticut Child Welfare Organization. This is a voluntary citizen's organization of 4,000 members which has been in existence for over 50 years.

She also discussed Public Act 216 on child abuse, that went into effect on Oct. 1, 1971. She testified for the measure and helped to pass this bill, which she called, "The most progressive piece of legislation on child protection in the nation."

Mrs. Dille suggested, in jest, several alternatives for the welfare system; such as mandatory abortions, color televisions sets for a vasectomy, transistor radios as given in India; use and three grandchildren.

Democratic Caucus

Names of Newcomers, Losers Hint at Events Behind Scene

By GLENN GAMBER (Herald Reporter)

The bulk of the winners in Tuesday's Democratic caucuses are familiar names on the Democratic Town Committee, but some of the losers, particularly in District 3, indicate some of the forces at work in these contests.

Under the new local Democratic rules, District 3, which had 12 seats under the old rules, was allotted only nine seats.

Ted Cummings, Democratic town chairman, reported before the caucuses that the 12 old committee members had met and agreed to run individually, but when 20 original candidates (Mel Hathaway withdrew the day before the caucus) for the nine seats filed their names, nine of these, including Cummings, were listed as a slate.

Others on this slate, the eventual winners, were David Barry, William Fitzgerald, Sanford Piepler, Walter Schardt, Leonard Sender, Dominic Squatrito, Herbert Stevenson and Richard Woodhouse.

Leaving District

Woodhouse, by the way, will be moving out of District 3 very soon. Just yesterday a warranty deed filed in the town clerk's office indicates he has purchased a house on Mountain Rd. in District 4.

According to Cummings, the committee rules do not force a member who moves out of his district to resign. The remaining committee members in a district where a vacancy is created fill that vacancy.

Members of the winning slate say they do not know who might fill Woodhouse's spot.

The formation of this slate set up the showdown in District 3 which resulted in the defeat of two veteran committee members, Barbara Coleman and Steve Cavagnaro. Miss Coleman has been vice chairman of the committee for a number of years, and before that its secretary. She was considered a leading candidate for state central committeewoman from the 4th Senatorial District. Cavagnaro is a former town committee chairman and state representative.

It was generally conceded that James Holmes, another candidate in District 3, was aligned with Miss Coleman and Cavagnaro and their hope was to oust Cummings from the committee and thus as chairman.

Based on actions and reactions at recent town committee meetings, it can be assumed that there was no loss of feeling between Cummings and Miss Coleman.

Succeeded Cavagnaro Cummings succeeded Cavagnaro as local chairman with Cavagnaro's support in 1961. He was elected to his fifth consecutive term in 1970. Cavagnaro was the only dissident when he went on record as opposing Cummings' re-election.

The apparent ill-feeling between Holmes and Cummings most likely stems from the 1970 campaign for the U.S. Senator in which the late Sen. Thomas Dodd ran as an independent.

Holmes was Dodd's state campaign chairman. In the course of that campaign, Cummings, saying he was speaking as an individual, blasted Dodd for running independently after failing to gain the Democratic nomination.

While this contest is over for the moment, an instant replay of sorts is a possibility. March 21 is the last day for challengers to submit petitions containing five per cent of the registered Democrats in a given district in order to force a primary for the district's committee seats.

If a primary occurs in any of the districts, it seems most likely to occur in District 3. Cummings, after the caucuses, seemed pleased with the results. Surely if there is no primary the pressure under which he heads the committee will be lessened some with the absence of Miss Coleman and Cavagnaro.

It is not safe, however, to predict a totally harmonious committee since squabbles seem to be the style of the Democrats. In addition, several declared supporters of Dodd in 1970 were elected in other districts Tuesday. They include Nicholas Jackson, Joseph Gervais, Edwin Edwards, Mary Clifford, Thomas Conran and Joseph Czerwinski.

Some Spits Short

Then again, one wonders how deep, how long lasting, and how meaningful the split is.

Nixon, McGovern In 'Spectaculars' In Granite State

McGovern told a radio audience that his campaign has gained real momentum and "I think it's going to be a razor-close finish."

"It seems to me that it's developing into a real horse race," said McGovern. "We have a chance of pulling an upset in New Hampshire."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, the favorite in the Democratic primary, said in Salem, "I've got to win and win in such a convincing way that we convince these skeptics of the press. We've got to win big."

McGovern said, "We're not making extravagant claims about having the election locked up but we do feel there's a real chance. It would be a great upset if we won the New Hampshire primary."

Appointments last fall to both the Planning and Zoning Commission and the Zoning Board of Appeals include a number of residents of the Keeney St. area. They are David Paris of 84 Redwood Dr. (P20); Wilbert Garrison, 28 Linwood Dr. (alternate P20); Nicholas Jackson, 405 Hackmatack St. (ZBA); and Bernie Johnson, 92 Redwood Dr. (alternate ZBA) to say nothing of Deputy Mayor Pascal Frignano, 92 Linwood Dr.

A number of new names on the town committees were also made famous during the CUD uproar. They include Frignano, Price, and Thomas McHale, all in District 7.

Democratic elected officials gained seats on the town committee Tuesday, most notably Mayor John Thompson, Frignano and Directors John Tani and Jon Norris.

Three of these, Thompson, Tani and Frignano, joined veteran town directors Anthony Pietrantico, FitzGerald, and Norris in sweeping the municipal election last fall.

Many Democrats seem eager to get these winners on the committee.

winning team," Scott told the cheering delegates.

MUSKIE: The Maine senator became the first candidate to file in North Carolina's presidential primary scheduled May 6. Muskie supporters filed in Raleigh, saying the candidate "probably will make three trips to the state" before the vote. Monday is the filing deadline.

CHISHOLM: Another Democratic hopeful, Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York, rejected a suggestion made Thursday that she take the vice presidential spot on a ticket headed by Alabama Gov. George Wallace. "In terms of the realities of politics, it just wouldn't work," Mrs. Chisholm told a Savannah, Ga., audience, adding: "Our viewpoints simply do not coincide."

WALLACE: The governor, on the campaign trail in Florida, also rejected the suggestion, made by a black minister in Memphis, Tenn., "I have a high regard for Mrs. Chisholm," Wallace told a news conference, "but I'm sure she's not interested in running as my vice presidential candidate."

Candidates Debate

Five Democratic candidates on the New Hampshire presidential primary ballot will engage in debate this Sunday — The debate will be telecast by Connecticut Public Television; Channel 34 in Hartford, starting at 10:35 p.m.

Produced at the New Hampshire public TV studios, the debate will be broadcast nationally by PBS, the Public Broadcasting System.

Democrats on the primary ballot are Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana, Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles, and Edward "Red" Coll of Hartford.

Grammy Voting Is Long Process

The process of determining the Grammy Award winners becomes more refined every year. When the 14th Annual Grammy Awards ceremonies are telecast Tuesday, March 14 on ABC, the results will be the last step in a long, exacting process.

When the Grammys were first awarded in 1958, every active member was permitted to vote in every category in every round. The results were not consistently ideal. Since then, in order to insure an ever better informed vote, the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences National Trustees have each year been refining the voting procedures.

Extra Fuller

Robert Fuller, starring as Dr. Kelly Brackett on NBC's "Emergency!," landed his first motion picture job as an extra in "Friendly Persuasion," which starred Gary Cooper.

Silent Classics Are Featured In Film Series

The Silent Years are coming to Connecticut TV screens! Charlie Chaplin's "The Gold Rush" will inaugurate the series of 12 films from the Golden Age of motion pictures Tuesday, March 7 at 9:30 p.m. on CPTV, channel 24 in Hartford.

Broadcast of the films by Connecticut Public Television has been made possible by a grant from The Hartford Insurance Group.

Each film will be shown in its entirety, reproduced in the impressive color tints of the 1920s, and each has been given a newly-composed music track, performed either on piano or Radio City Music Hall's Wurflitzer organ.

Host for the series is Orson Welles, who will introduce the films, comment on the background, and relate anecdotes about the silent stars.

Those Obstacles Are Really There

Flaming Gorge, Disaster Falls, Hell's Half Mile and Desolation Canyon are actual places, not something out of "The Pilgrim's Progress."

These locations, along the route Major John Wesley Powell and his crew followed in 1846 on the then-unexplored Green and Colorado rivers, do, however, read like John Bunyan's 17th-century allegory.

In many ways Powell's journey was an allegory and he named the obstacles he encountered to emphasize their arduous nature—real and symbolic.

Powell's expedition—one of the most daring and important explorations in the history of the United States—will be re-created on Smithsonian Adventure with Walter Schirra: "99 Days to Survival," to be broadcast Thursday, March 9th at 8 p.m. on CBS.
