

Wallace Regains Feeling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama has regained some involuntary muscular activity to his toes and has some sensation down to the mid-thigh, doctors said today.

Physicians at Holy Cross Hospital where the governor is being treated for gunshot wounds said in a medical bulletin that over the past 18 hours there has been some return of involuntary muscular activity to the toes of both feet. They said the movement is more pronounced in the left foot.

Wallace exhibits normal reflex actions when the sole of his foot is stimulated, doctors said. The bulletin added that "there is also encouraging evidence of increasing sensations down to the level of the mid-thigh."

The doctors said the significance of this involuntary muscular activity in relationship to the final degree of recovery from paralysis is "difficult to ascertain at this time but is most encouraging."

Wallace's son George Jr., 20, told doctors last night that he visited his father and learned that he was regaining some feeling.

"I tickled his foot and his toes moved and I pulled up the sheet to let him see it," said Wallace's son.

Doctors said that George Jr. was "all smiles" when he told him of the event.

Billy Joe Camp, Wallace's press secretary, said the return of sensation was very encouraging. He described his own feelings as "cautiously optimistic" about Wallace ever regaining full use of his legs.

Wallace has been paralyzed in both legs since he was shot four times at a campaign rally in Laurel, Md., one week ago. One bullet remains lodged in his spine. Doctors hope to operate and remove that slug sometime this week after the governor is transferred to a Birmingham medical center.

Wallace's recovery has progressed.

Waterbury Fire Toll 8

WATERBURY, Conn. (AP) — The bodies of all eight men killed in a fire in a brick building that housed a restaurant and rooming house have been recovered, police reported.

Five bodies were found in the ruins Friday, and three were located on Saturday.

All eight victims were residents of the building.

The blaze was believed to have started in the central section of the second story of the three-story building, but its cause had not been determined during the weekend.

The search Saturday was carried out with heavy equipment by rain-soaked firemen and workmen. Only part of the outer walls remained standing.

Two of the bodies found Friday were burned so badly that relatives of the missing were unable to identify them. The bodies found Saturday were recovered from rubble and ashes from Los Angeles to Washing-

Zip Code Proves Lacking in Real Zip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adding that five-digit zip code to first-class or airmail letters doesn't guarantee earlier delivery, a new nationwide test of mail service discloses.

The mailing of nearly 800 test letters by six Associated Press bureaus in as many cities nationwide showed that eight out of 10 letters without zip codes reached their destinations as fast or faster than zip-coded letters mailed at the same time and place.

A similar survey conducted 15 months earlier produced about the same conclusions.

Officials of the U.S. Postal Service say that zip codes primarily were introduced to aid in processing mail, make possible the hiring of less skilled persons without having to train them intensively and allow a shift to optical sorting machines.

"Not a great many are in operation now, but we are adding them as rapidly as they can be produced and installed," said Joseph F. Jones, director of the Postal Service's Office of Logistics.

"The zip code will play an increasingly important role, and allow us to employ more persons with less skills."

The AP survey also indicated: —Spending the extra three cents for an airmail stamp doesn't necessarily guarantee quicker delivery. In the case of 45 per cent of the letters in the survey, the airmail letters were delivered at the same time as first-class ones.

One of the service's problems with airmail is that the airlines have been consolidating and reducing the number of flights, particularly in evening hours.

Jones said in an interview that the number available between 8 p.m. and 6 a.m. has dropped from 1,998 in August 1969 to about 1,800 now.

Considerable variations exist in delivery time, often not related to distances involved. For example, letters mailed in Los Angeles to Washington reached the capital faster than those mailed from Washington or New York to Los Angeles.

Aside from the time differential involved, Jones said, "I could not give you a logical explanation—there has to be a failure in processing at some point."

In three of the test cities, St. Louis, Los Angeles and Houston, the Postal Service handled local letters in an average of one day. The average time in St. Louis was 20½ hours, compared to 33 in Washington.

—Since the Postal Service does not generally operate on Saturday afternoon and Sunday, Friday is the poorest day to mail letters. In most cases they are not delivered until Monday morning; in at least a dozen cases delivery was delayed until Tuesday.

"We are trying to improve the weekend problem which has been acute," Jones said.

The AP survey was designed to test long-distance as well as local service, involving Chicago in addition to the cities already mentioned.

Ulster Militants Pushed Back

BELFAST, Northern Ireland said: "Unless something is done to satisfy us, a civil war is just around the corner."

Militant Protestants, backed off from a major battle with British troops in Belfast Sunday night after a day of Defense Association, the movement's paramilitary arm, vowed vengeance after tough British paratroopers stormed some up in two Protestant areas to protect the army's refusal to attack the barricaded Bogside district of Londonderry, where the Irish Republican Army returned sniper fire.

The fighting was the closest thing to a showdown between the army and the increasingly militant Protestants since the tank, Ulster Vanguard Movement agreed to take them down but Northern Ireland's Protestant and slammed into a tree, police said. Mrs. Gleason was listed in critical condition at Backus Hospital in Norwich.

Steven Hodovan, 15, of Mansfield and Jon H. Wetherall, 18, of Chaplin, were killed Saturday night when the pickup truck they were in failed to make a curve on a Mansfield street and slammed into a utility pole, state police said. Seven others in the truck escaped serious injury.

In East Haven, three Branford men were killed Saturday skidded on the rainswept road when the car they were riding in went out of control on Frontage Road, hit a gas station signpost and flipped over. Police said the victims were Jerry Frazier, David Comfort and Manzil Chubick.

In Stamford, two men were killed early Saturday when their cars collided in the east-bound lane of the Connecticut Turnpike. They were Thomas J. Vento Jr., 41, of Westport and Albert Kroeger of New Canaan, police said.

Later Saturday morning Mrs. Gleason was taken to Backus Hospital in Norwich.

Road Accidents Claim 11 Lives

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 11 persons died in traffic accidents during the weekend in Connecticut, including two teen-agers in a pickup truck crash and three men in another one-car crash.

A 20-month-old boy died Sunday of injuries suffered in a one-car accident on Route 82 in Montville Saturday night. Police identified the victim as John Gleason, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gleason of Norwich.

He was fatally injured when the car driven by his mother skidded on the rainswept road when the car they were riding in went out of control on Frontage Road, hit a gas station signpost and flipped over. Police said the victims were Jerry Frazier, David Comfort and Manzil Chubick.

Moscow Says 'Hello Nixon'

MOSCOW (AP) — More than 100,000 Muscovites turned out today to see President Nixon as he drove to the Kremlin to start a week's session of summitry tackling many of the problems dividing the world's two most powerful nations.

The airport scene was cool, correct and official, lacking some of the fervor accorded such previous visitors as President Anwar Sadat of Egypt.

But Muscovites knew that Nixon was coming and they turned out on the motorcade route. The crowds were mainly silent as the official limousines stopped, but in some places people were standing shoulder to shoulder, several ranks deep.

That was a contrast to the reception Nixon received three months ago in Peking. There no crowds lined the streets and the airport greeting was unusually subdued. Agreements on arms limitations, trade, and cooperation in outer space are expected to emerge from this first official visit to Moscow by an American president.

Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, the country's No. 1 man, was not at the airport when Nixon stepped from his blue and silver jet. Protocol did not require Brezhnev's presence, since he holds no state executive post.

Nixon emerged hatless from the Presidential jet, smiled and descended the ramp to shake hands with President Nikolai V. Podgorny and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, who led a Soviet welcoming party.

At the Kremlin there were toasts to the success of the summit talks. Those at the reception included Podgorny, Kosygin, Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and the Soviet ambassador to Washington, Anatoly Dobrynin—and several wives.

Besides the Nixons, the American group included Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Henry A. Kissinger, the presidential adviser who made arrangements for the summit session.

Then the Soviet hosts showed the Nixons to the large suite where they are staying. There, in a sitting room, Nixon chatted "in general terms" with Podgorny and Kosygin, a U.S. official said.

The sky, clear and bright this morning, was overcast and there was a threat of rain as the President arrived this evening. The temperature was in the mid-70s and a stiff breeze extended the American Stars and Stripes and the Soviet hammer and sickle from their staffs beside the VIP airport reception building.

Mrs. Nixon, dressed in a lilac suit, was at the President's side. She was handed a bouquet of red carnations.

Afterward, Nixon and Podgorny stepped solemnly side by side to where the captain of the precision-drilled Soviet honor guard invited the American to inspect his troops.

A band immediately struck up the Star-Spangled Banner in a slower tempo than Americans are used to hearing it.

Nixon looked fresh and attenmen with a key interest in the outcome of the summit.

Afterwards the Nixons strolled by a group of Americans—diplomats and correspondents' wives—who had been bused to the airport to greet the President. They had been issued small American flags which they waved as the Nixons moved past. There were also some Russians who had been brought there.

There were no speeches before the Nixons left the airport in a motorcade for the Kremlin. The President rode in the first limousine, a closed ZIL, and Mrs. Nixon climbed into the second car for the 20-mile

Allies Batter Red Attackers North of Hue

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese forces backed by U.S. planes and warships badly mauled a North Vietnamese regiment and wiped out 20 of its tanks in driving back two assaults on the northern front above Hue, field reports said today. The allied forces claimed nearly 400 enemy troops were killed.

Informal sources said one regiment of the 328C Division, the last combat division remaining in North Vietnam, had crossed the demilitarized zone to reinforce the troops of three other divisions on the northern front.

Hundreds of U.S. warplanes attacked the fresh regiment and also ranged far across North Vietnam to strike rear bases and supply lines.

Radio Hanoi claimed that waves of U.S. planes dropped more mines into the approaches to Haiphong harbor Sunday and "savagely bombed many populated areas on Haiphong's outskirts."

Heavy fighting was reported from the Mekong Delta to the Street Without Joy north of Hue. The South Vietnamese claimed more than 750 North Vietnamese killed Sunday and today in the heaviest action in three weeks. But most of them were reported slain by the hall of rockets, bombs and shells from U.S. and South Vietnamese planes and American cruisers and destroyers firing from off shore.

Incomplete reports said 52 South Vietnamese were killed and 189 were wounded.

Field reports from the northern front said a North Vietnamese force forded the My Chanh River 21 miles north of Hue just before dawn Sunday and drove a South Vietnamese marine battalion about half a mile back. U.S. fighter-bombers and warships offshore bombarded the North Vietnamese and forced them back across the river.

Simultaneously North Vietnamese infantrymen supported by tanks attempted to move across the Van Tanh bridge 18½ miles north of Hue but South Vietnamese engineers blew out a span. Some North Vietnamese managed to cross the bridge under cover or fire from their tanks but air and artillery strikes forced them back.

Just before dawn today, another South Vietnamese marine battalion came under attack five miles northeast of the main defense position on Highway 1.

Field reports said they were chewed up by bombers, artillery and naval gunfire; 24 enemy troops were claimed killed

Sunday and another 140 today. South Vietnamese losses were described as light.

The fighting was reported to have ended by noon. On the western flanks of Hue, South Vietnamese infantrymen clashed with enemy forces and reported killing 65 about nine miles from the city. Fifteen South Vietnamese were reported killed.

Mortar attacks were made against Fire Bases Birmingham and Bastogne, eight and 12 miles southwest of Hue. A ground assault also was launched against Birmingham and the defenders suffered light casualties, field reports said.

U.S. officials said they did not think the immediate objective of the latest attacks was to

Favored To Add Delegates Oregon Cheers McGovern

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

While Sen. Hubert Humphrey looks ahead to the June 6 California primary, Sen. George McGovern has raised his sights in Tuesday's Oregon test, in which he is heavily favored to add his first place total of Democratic National Convention delegates.

"It would be a wonderful thing" if his Oregon percentage surpasses the 52 per cent he amassed four weeks ago in the Massachusetts primary, the South Dakotan told cheering campaign workers at his Portland headquarters Sunday night.

Humphrey, in effect conceding a McGovern victory in Oregon, decided against campaigning there to concentrate on California, where all 271 delegates will go to the winner of the primary. However, he is on the Oregon ballot with McGovern and nine other Democrats.

Besides McGovern, who scheduled another busy day of stumping the state today, only

Rep. Patsy Mink of Hawaii has campaigned in Oregon.

Although he planned to be out of California until Wednesday, McGovern gets a major boost for that state's primary with the endorsement in Los Angeles today of former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, who polled 42 per cent of the vote in running second to the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in California four years ago.

In Phoenix, Ariz., Saturday night, McGovern received the backing of Cesar Chavez, leader of the United Farm Workers Union.

A total of 34 delegates will go to the Oregon winner. McGovern has told audiences a big victory will give him the momentum he needs to win the California primary and go on to capture the Democratic presidential nomination.

In addition, 22 delegates will go to the winner of Tuesday's Rhode Island primary.

McGovern is favored, although he hasn't campaigned in the state and has relied almost entirely on a volunteer organization.

Humphrey paid a brief visit last week, as did Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, who was making his first appearance since deciding to drop primary campaigning.

McGovern further increased his delegate lead in weekend activity in several states. He won eight in Washington state, fewer than he had hoped for, with the rest of the 52-vote delegation in the hands of home-

"THE WAY I HEARD IT"

by John Gruber

Quite a few of you will be going to Europe this summer. The Olympics are being held in Munich, so papa finally got connected into a trip abroad. Papa's cousin, who is a figure skater, is going to the Olympics but she figures she'll manage to drag the other half of the partnership to art museums and music festivals. So she'll get her money's worth. On a two or three weeks tour all you'll get is a thoroughly blurred memory when you get home, but go ahead anyway, and have fun. With the price of gold soaring to near astronomical heights on the front end, it doesn't look like it will be cheaper in a hurry, and already it's noticeably more expensive than it was last year.

What about all these festivals? Frankly, most of them are overrated. I haven't attended all of them, but those I have are in the category and they include the biggest ones. Of course, I don't pay attention to the hoopla and go with most of them for the tourist's benefit.

I'm purely an artist, and I don't go to any of them, but I must admit that the club is light on some. On the other hand, taking a picnic basket of wine, and eating it on the lawn at Glynnbourne does not improve the quality of the performance one iota, although it may be fun. Nor does it kill time, as has been said at the castle, make the performance of opera at the Glynnbourne does not improve the quality of the performance one iota, although it may be fun. CLUB MEN USED IN NEW SYSTEMS

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

In many of the modern bidding systems the opening bid of one club is used for any powerful hand, regardless of club length. Veteran English champion Terence Reese, playing the President Club system, opened today's East hand with one club in a recent tournament, but then he had to use impeccable judgment at his next turn. West dealer.

Both sides vulnerable. Opening lead — Six of Hearts. When North jumped to three spades, Reese already passed the powerful East hand. His partner could still bid if he had a long suit, but it seemed clear that West could have very little in high cards. As it happened, West was right to get out of the auction with a whole skin.

The one opera house in Italy with an international reputation is La Scala in Milan. It's closed all summer long. So is the Fenice in Venice. (That's pronounced Venice, not the way we play the way and mean phrases; the opera house was built on the remains of the Venetian lagoon.)

The two really big festivals in Europe are the ones at Bayreuth, Germany, and Salzburg, Austria. Bayreuth was founded by Richard Wagner, and he devoted entirely to his opera. At present a grandeur runs the central atmosphere that more conventional than when his late older brother was in charge.

Bayreuth is strictly a summer venture and always in financial difficulties. The result is that the casts are not paid as well as some of the other houses, and even though the ticket prices are as high or higher. The singing quality of the performance is as high or higher. The singing quality of the performance is as high or higher. The singing quality of the performance is as high or higher.

The Bullfight

(Portuguese Style)

The Portuguese style of bullfighting is quite different from the Spanish style familiar to most Americans.

Dating back to the first Portuguese dynasty, it has four distinct parts, the CORTESIAS (beginning pageantry), the CAVALEIROS (knight-toreador on horseback), the PICADORES and TOREADORES (bullfighters with cape on the ground), and since 1656, the MOÇOS de FORCADO, a uniquely Portuguese development.

This, the second in a series of four pages, shows the CAVALEIROS.

A very colorful and most exacting part of the Portuguese TOURADA (bullfight), it must be seen to be fully appreciated, for in this challenge, it is not only the bull, but especially the superb training of the horse, and the excellent equestrian work of the rider, which receive the public's applause.

This is the oldest kind of bullfighting, tracing its beginnings to the original wild bull hunts, later practiced by royalty for sport, and professionalized in the early 1600's to what it is today.

The horses used for this phase of the CORRIDA cost upwards of $20,000 in original price and training, before they are ready for the ring.

This part of the Portuguese bullfight differs greatly from the Spanish. In the Spanish style the horse is heavily padded, and the bull (horns unspaded) is allowed to charge and hit it. But in Portugal, there is no padding on the horse, and the bull is not allowed to touch it, however, the bull's horns are well padded to protect the horse from any accidental scrape.

Vernon Guides Proposed For School Trips

Outlines concerning field trips to be taken by students, will be discussed tonight by the Board of Education at its meeting, to be held at 7:30 in the Field School cafeteria. Dr. Raymond Hammedell, superintendent of schools was asked to establish the guidelines for field trips which were all planned before the board gave its approval. Trips within the state, which are taken during school time, will be free to the class and involve the whole class. For those trips planned outside of school time, at the expense of the students, the principal must make provisions for these students who are unable to pay the charge. The guidelines also say that the administration does not object to the use of moderate funds for these trips, but the cost of a field trip, field bus to be purchased by the school on or off school time must be properly charged to the teachers; school buses, charter buses or some other form of public transportation should be used for trips as they carry adequate insurance. Students should be returned to school by the end of the fiscal year.

"Yet within the family of man all wars are to be deplored whether they are fought for just causes or ill. What is clear is that we must work for peace and for an end to war and that those on all sides who have responsibility over the conduct of political, military and economic power must strive for an end to hostilities and for a solution which seeks decency and justice for all."

The United Nations, Cardinal Cooke continued, "is equipped to step in and find a solution" with an "impartial intervention."

And, in such a case, he hoped to have this country, which has so far shouldered the United Nations out of the Vietnam situation with just as much determination as China or North Vietnam, taking a new direction.

"Is it asking too much of America," he concluded, "that she take the first step forward and then call upon the other nations of the world to come together in this quest to end war?"

We were, of course, in the lead when the United Nations was originally invented. We led, for a time, in loyalty to its principles and purposes. It has been our desertion, in favor of playing our own kind of world policeman ourselves, which has diminished the prestige and power of the world organization and led us into trouble. It would be encouraging to have somebody in the White House discover, or join in the movement to reinvent, the United Nations.

Protecting the Emmys If, by any weird chance, there is something institutionally superior about the product that is made for British television and sometimes presented on the American screen, there are ways of dealing with that competitive problem. One of these ways has just been devised to govern the "Emmy" awards of the future. The other right, a couple of British programs, and some of the talents involved with them, was off with a lion's share of the night's prizes. A day or two later the rules governing the Emmy awards were changed. Henceforth, no programs which are presented for only a limited number of episodes will be eligible for prizes in the general category, and performers in such series will be honored from now on for general best performance awards.

That will take care of such British productions as "The Six Wives of Henry VIII," or "The Last of the Mohicans." As for British programs which cannot be classified as belonging to a given limited series, the cure, in such instances, was already in vogue before the Emmy awards the other night. In this case, American television develops its own imitation of the successful British program, and then sweeps the Emmys with an American production and American talents, as with "All in the Family."

That's the long and the short of how to keep British television from smothering and smothering us as it was some kind of cultural colony.

The Abortion Session If Connecticut has learned anything from the wholesale disaster which the United Nations was set up to prevent.

Another reinventor on the scene is former U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations Charles Yost, who argued that perhaps, because the United Nations has not been involved in the Vietnam situation up till now, it might now be capable of exercising some beneficial influence.

There is some indication that Russia, having watched China denounce the Waldheim suggestion, and having noticed that Waldheim stuck with his proposals despite Chinese rejection and the usual American coolness, is also toying with the idea of re-inventing some importance and prestige for the United Nations. The other day, at least, the chief Russian delegate made a speech in which he congratulated Secretary General Waldheim on leading a "renaissance" of the United Nations.

The latest attempt to re-invent the United Nations has come in a pastoral message from Cardinal Cooke of New York, of the archdiocese whose policy, under his predecessor, the late Cardinal Spellman, supported the American war position in Vietnam.

Nixon On Abortion

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON — Democrats demoralized by fading prospects against President Nixon in November can take some heart from the political insider, internal conflict and general confusion displayed at the White House in its feckless intrusion into the New York state struggle over abortion.

Out of the miasma of secrecy and contradictory statements flowing from the White House, these conclusions can safely be drawn: The intervention into New York's abortion was authorized by Mr. Nixon himself, lacking either a full appreciation of the political realities involved or advice from his top lieutenants. Then, having belatedly realized the error of this misadventure, the President convinced that support of the letter without the slightest aid from the President.

In fact, Mr. Nixon scarcely gave his endorsement to the New York Archdiocese's anti-abortion campaign a second thought. Philosophically, he is anti-abortion. Politically, he was convinced that support of the letter without the slightest aid from the President.

The entire gamey story, reminiscent of Mr. Nixon's frustrating first two years as President, suggests nothing should be taken for granted in 1972. In a career of campaigning, the President has displayed a talent at pulling defeat from the jaws of victory. The needless misbanding of the abortion issue was a sign that no larger issues, the political penalties could be immense.

Litter Problem To the Editor, We in Connecticut have one of the highest costs of living in the United States. But what do we have to show for it? Are our streets cleaner, more free of crime, drugs, etc? We all know the answer to that question. At this moment, I am concerned with the great litter problem. I do not ride or walk a mile (maybe more) to find a trash receptacle and I do not think there are many who do. I have a suggestion for this problem. It is not saying it's the best solution but I am sure that it would help some. I think the town or state should invest in more trash cans. For example, place receptacles at stop signs. I am sure that if this was done, less people would just throw their trash anywhere. Maybe it won't solve the problem completely, but it's

Three Appointed To Charter Group

The Board of Selectmen at a meeting earlier this week made three new appointments to the recently created town Charter Commission.

Appointed by unanimous approval to the commission were Mrs. Louisa Gagne, Mrs. Mary Marion and William Heuser.

First Selectman Robert Post said that with a full complement of members, the Charter Commission should be able to proceed with its work without further delay. The next meeting of the commission is set for May 23.

Unexpected Bonus The Board of Education met this week to determine what to apply the $1,000 it had cut from its budget, which was subsequently allocated back to the school budget by the town.

Where the school board had made cuts amounting to $1,001, the town meeting approved a budget which cut the school budget by $20,000, leaving the extra $1,000. The board decided to leave the money in the categories it was originally from, mostly in transportation, and if the need arises, the money can be transferred from one category to the next.

The board also accepted the resignation of Mrs. Hilsenrad, fourth grade teacher at the school. Mrs. Hilsenrad is planning to continue her studies toward a Master Degree in Education.

Regional Budget The regional school board again met and made further cuts in the proposed budget for next year.

Removed from the budget was the item for tennis courts, a reduction in the salary figure for an assistant principal, possible because vice principal Robert Day has accepted a reduction in the proposed "reserve" figure. The board originally deleted $8,000 from the estimated receipts which it planned to use as an operating fund. $20,000 of that figure was cut, leaving an operating reserve of $15,000.

Trying To Re-Invent The UN

Various people are trying to reinvent the United Nations. This is in response to the sense of crisis created by President Nixon's decision to blockade North Vietnam. That decision established a situation of potential direct challenge to Russia, and should Russia have chosen to respond in kind, or should Russia, at some time in the future, retaliate in kind, the result could have been, or still may be, nuclear curtains.

Among the first of those to begin trying to re-invent the United Nations was its new chief executive officer, Secretary General Waldheim. First, he suggested that the time might have come for the United Nations to offer to serve as mediator in Vietnam.

Then, after this suggestion had been rejected by Communist China, in its capacity as a member of the Security Council, with the statement that "the Vietnam question has nothing to do with the United Nations," and after North Vietnam had likewise rejected the suggestion, Secretary General Waldheim took the unusual liberty of reaffirming his own suggestion publicly, and making more argument for it.

The Secretary General, in a letter to the President of the Security Council, argued as follows:

"Now that other efforts to bring the war to a halt seem to show little promise of success within a reasonable time, I feel strongly that the United Nations can no longer remain a mute spectator of the horrors of the war and of the peril which it increasingly poses to the international peace."

He was deeply concerned, the Secretary General wrote, that the United Nations, "created as a result of a world war in order to safeguard international peace and security in the future, appears to have no relevance" to what goes on in Vietnam, a situation which, he thought, "if it persists could up too easily lead to the wholesale disaster which the United Nations was set up to prevent."

Another reinventor on the scene is former U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations Charles Yost, who argued that perhaps, because the United Nations has not been involved in the Vietnam situation up till now, it might now be capable of exercising some beneficial influence.

Cardinal Cooke's letter, described as a "major statement," included the following:

"There is no doubt that on both sides during this long and terrible war there have been tragic incidents calling for grave moral concern. For my part, I do not think that our national purpose in Vietnam has all along been ignoble, selfish and dishonorable. On the contrary, I am convinced that our country committed itself to this struggle to help our fellow men achieve the blessing of peace and liberty against the forces of tyranny and oppression.

That decision established a situation of potential direct challenge to Russia, and should Russia have chosen to respond in kind, or should Russia, at some time in the future, retaliate in kind, the result could have been, or still may be, nuclear curtains.

Among the first of those to begin trying to re-invent the United Nations was its new chief executive officer, Secretary General Waldheim. First, he suggested that the time might have come for the United Nations to offer to serve as mediator in Vietnam.

Then, after this suggestion had been rejected by Communist China, in its capacity as a member of the Security Council, with the statement that "the Vietnam question has nothing to do with the United Nations," and after North Vietnam had likewise rejected the suggestion, Secretary General Waldheim took the unusual liberty of reaffirming his own suggestion publicly, and making more argument for it.

The Secretary General, in a letter to the President of the Security Council, argued as follows:

"Now that other efforts to bring the war to a halt seem to show little promise of success within a reasonable time, I feel strongly that the United Nations can no longer remain a mute spectator of the horrors of the war and of the peril which it increasingly poses to the international peace."

He was deeply concerned, the Secretary General wrote, that the United Nations, "created as a result of a world war in order to safeguard international peace and security in the future, appears to have no relevance" to what goes on in Vietnam, a situation which, he thought, "if it persists could up too easily lead to the wholesale disaster which the United Nations was set up to prevent."

Another reinventor on the scene is former U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations Charles Yost, who argued that perhaps, because the United Nations has not been involved in the Vietnam situation up till now, it might now be capable of exercising some beneficial influence.

There is some indication that Russia, having watched China denounce the Waldheim suggestion, and having noticed that Waldheim stuck with his proposals despite Chinese rejection and the usual American coolness, is also toying with the idea of re-inventing some importance and prestige for the United Nations. The other day, at least, the chief Russian delegate made a speech in which he congratulated Secretary General Waldheim on leading a "renaissance" of the United Nations.

The latest attempt to re-invent the United Nations has come in a pastoral message from Cardinal Cooke of New York, of the archdiocese whose policy, under his predecessor, the late Cardinal Spellman, supported the American war position in Vietnam.

Cardinal Cooke's letter, described as a "major statement," included the following:

"There is no doubt that on both sides during this long and terrible war there have been tragic incidents calling for grave moral concern. For my part, I do not think that our national purpose in Vietnam has all along been ignoble, selfish and dishonorable. On the contrary, I am convinced that our country committed itself to this struggle to help our fellow men achieve the blessing of peace and liberty against the forces of tyranny and oppression.

Three Appointed To Charter Group

The Board of Selectmen at a meeting earlier this week made three new appointments to the recently created town Charter Commission.

Appointed by unanimous approval to the commission were Mrs. Louisa Gagne, Mrs. Mary Marion and William Heuser.

First Selectman Robert Post said that with a full complement of members, the Charter Commission should be able to proceed with its work without further delay. The next meeting of the commission is set for May 23.

Unexpected Bonus The Board of Education met this week to determine what to apply the $1,000 it had cut from its budget, which was subsequently allocated back to the school budget by the town.

Where the school board had made cuts amounting to $1,001, the town meeting approved a budget which cut the school budget by $20,000, leaving the extra $1,000. The board decided to leave the money in the categories it was originally from, mostly in transportation, and if the need arises, the money can be transferred from one category to the next.

The board also accepted the resignation of Mrs. Hilsenrad, fourth grade teacher at the school. Mrs. Hilsenrad is planning to continue her studies toward a Master Degree in Education.

Regional Budget The regional school board again met and made further cuts in the proposed budget for next year.

Removed from the budget was the item for tennis courts, a reduction in the salary figure for an assistant principal, possible because vice principal Robert Day has accepted a reduction in the proposed "reserve" figure. The board originally deleted $8,000 from the estimated receipts which it planned to use as an operating fund. $20,000 of that figure was cut, leaving an operating reserve of $15,000.

Trying To Re-Invent The UN

Various people are trying to reinvent the United Nations. This is in response to the sense of crisis created by President Nixon's decision to blockade North Vietnam. That decision established a situation of potential direct challenge to Russia, and should Russia have chosen to respond in kind, or should Russia, at some time in the future, retaliate in kind, the result could have been, or still may be, nuclear curtains.

Among the first of those to begin trying to re-invent the United Nations was its new chief executive officer, Secretary General Waldheim. First, he suggested that the time might have come for the United Nations to offer to serve as mediator in Vietnam.

Zip Code Proves Lacking in Real Zip

(Continued from Page One) named. Here's how it was conducted: At 10 a.m. on Monday, each of 22 letters was mailed to a total of 22 letters, two to itself and four to each of the other 19. The letters were addressed to the bureau of origin first-class postage; one carried a zip code and the other didn't.

Of the letters sent by the bureau, one first-class letter had a zip code and one airmail letter was without it. A like assortment of 22 letters was mailed by each bureau again at 5 p.m. Monday, but at the same two times on Wednesday and Friday—yielding a 72-letter test of local service.

Receiving bureaus logged the hour and day each letter arrived. Like most businesses in urban areas, the bureaus get mail two or more times a day.

The Postal Service prefers there exist, and the service in collection boxes by 4 p.m., or at main post offices by 5 p.m. The survey shows that it is achieving 95 per cent next-day delivery on such mail except on some West to East flights.

He agreed that problem areas exist, and said the service has just initiated a program to analyze them one by one and correct the deficiencies.

The AP service indicated that local service has been speeded up within the past 15 months. The survey in early 1971 produced only one city, Houston, which had a local letter that was an average of one day. This year Houston, Los Angeles and New York were the only cities that had an average of one day or less.

But there were lapses: One letter in Houston and one in Washington took 48 hours to deliver, and one in Los Angeles took 48 hours more than 3 1/2 days in each case.

In the survey, half the letters had zip codes and half didn't. Mrs. Wallace said of the 48 per cent of the letters with zip codes arrived at the destination in less than 24 hours.

Orchestra And Chorale Refreshing
Those of us who attended last night's concert in Bailey Auditorium went away refreshed and uplifted. The Manchester Civic Orchestra has certainly come a long way under the very able direction of Dr. Jack Synner. His quite obviously has the capacity to draw out the best in musicianship and enthusiasm.
