Muskie Near Release Of Delegates

Sen. George S. McGovern's quickening race for the Democratic presidential nomination was boosted today by the growing possibility that fallen front-runner Sen. Edmund S. Muskie would release his delegates and lend his support.

Senators indicated Wednesday that the Maine senator would abandon entirely this campaign and support McGovern. NEC and the New York Times reported that the word could come when Muskie addresses the National Press Club in Washington on Friday.

Muskie's support and the 106 delegates his candidacy collected before it faltered could put McGovern within grasping distance of the all-important figure of 1,000, the number of delegates needed to win the nomination in Miami Beach in July.

Even before word of Muskie's possible move began to circulate, McGovern was allowing himself the luxury of speculating that a first-ballot victory in Miami is possible after defeating his chief rival, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, in the pivotal California primary, as well as three others Tuesday.

For his part, Humphrey was acknowledging only that his chances were "not what I would call the best." He said he has a good chance on a second or third convention ballot and would have a better chance against President Nixon in November than would McGovern.

McGovern delegates expected to reach at least 1,250 Wednesday from 85 per cent to 4 per cent by reducing proposed grants to local governments from $75 million to $2 million.

Board members said that such grants would decrease their credibility with legislators and the public.

The largest cut in the grant category was an average daily education and health education.

Bullion Records New High

LONDON (AP) — The price of gold rocketed to record highs on Europe's bullion markets for the third straight day today.

The U.S. dollar weakened on foreign exchange markets. In London, gold was fixed at $46.75 an ounce this morning, a jump of $1.76 from Wednesday night's closing price of $45.

In Zurich, the other major bullion center in Europe, gold opened at a new high of $46.488 an ounce, up from Wednesday's close of $44.78-45.25.

The wider spread in Zurich between the buying and selling price, $1 instead of 50 cents, was designed to discourage speculators, dealers said.

In Frankfurt, the price jumped to $46.50-47.25 after the London closing.

The dollar weakened slightly in Zurich to $46.00-5.2110 Swiss francs, down from $45.50-5.1000 Wednesday.

In Frankfurt, the dollar opened at $45.1750, down from $1.

The dollar was also marginal by off on other markets, but there was no early evidence of a rush to sell.

Decline in a number of reasons for the recent steady climb in gold prices. Chief among them is that the demand from jewelers, industrial users, speculators and hoarders is well above the current level of supplies reaching an estimated 1.1750 marks, down from $1.

A minority report contended that the settlement was a product of "political influence or promises of favor from ITT."

A handful of liberal Democrats led the opposition, and a slim margin expected.

The hearings were cut off by the adjournment of the Senate on Feb. 15.

There followed a lengthy investigation into suggestions that a political deal led to the settlement.

U.S. Jets Flirt With China Line

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes pounded North Vietnam on Wednesday with the heaviest attacks in three weeks. U.S. Command announced, and one group of planes guided a bomb into a railroad tunnel just south of the Chinese border and blew it up.

American B52 bombers returned to North Vietnam for the first time in nearly two months, the command said, but they struck less than 20 miles north of the demilitarized zone.

In South Vietnam, the Communist offensive began its 11th week and several hundred North Vietnamese troops pushed into the district town of Trang Bang 20 miles northwest of Saigon. This kept the Saigon-Finnish highway closed for the third day and triggered fierce fighting.

On the northern front above Hanoi, more than 2,000 South Vietnamese marines launched their fourth offensive and intelligence-gathering operation in a month into Quang Tri Province. Initial reports said they met only light resistance. The marines were supported by

Enemy Firepower Slackened Blockade May Be Working

WASHINGTON (AP) — One month after President Nixon ordered North Vietnam sealed off from outside military supplies, Defense Department officials see signs that enemy firepower may be slackening as a result.

While acknowledging they cannot prove any cause-and-effect link, officials cite as possible indicators: —A drop in the volume of North Vietnamese artillery shelling in South Vietnam. For example, fewer than 300 rounds hit the besieged city of An Loc one day this week. Earlier, North Vietnamese guns pumped as many as 7,000 rounds into that provincial capital in a day's time.

A decrease in surface-to-air-missile firings. Pentagon figures indicate a steep decline in SAM firings against U.S. planes throughout North Vietnam, from 317 in one April week to 20 in a recent week.

Senior military officers also suggest the mopping up of North Vietnamese ports and intense bombing of railroad lines from China may have caused enough of a supply pinch to delay the long-expected climatic attack on the city of Hanoi. North Vietnamese attacks have been stalled elsewhere in South Vietnam in recent weeks.

U.S. experts are convinced that the North Vietnamese had to stockpile substantial amounts of ammunition and material in South Vietnam and the area just above the demilitarized zone before springing their offensive in late March.

Education Bill, With Bus Rider Ready for Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — A massive education bill with its antibusing provision comes up for a vote today in a sharply divided House of Representatives.

Supporters of the bill, which would authorize $2.3 billion even stricter controls over the next three years for a courts, want to defeat the bill so the way will be clear to offer a stronger proposal.

The House already has approved a provision that would allow the use of federal funds to pay for busing in areas where the number of busing cases is high.

Board Again Tables Action On Sewer Line, Laurel Lake

The Board of Directors Tuesday night tabled two major proposals for the second time—the proposed extension of town sewer lines to Tolland Tpk. near the Vernon town line and the proposed purchase over 10 years of Laurel Lake, about 100 acres of a dry lake bed which would be used for sanitary landfill.

Both proposals had been tabled before. Town Manager Robert Weiss was asked to contact property owners who would be assessed for the sewer extension to Tolland Tpk. to try to work out a method of financing the project which is acceptable to all.

Query

Before the Connecticut General Assembly finally adopted a no fault insurance plan, the new law was amended to require that the insurance companies should, after the new law comes into effect next January, inaugurate rate reductions of at least 10 per cent.

We are now beginning to receive reports that billings on automatic insurance which have been received since the action of the Legislature have included notice of rate increases, and that these rate increases seem to amount to about 10 per cent.

Is that going to be the 10 per cent the motorists of Connecticut get back, when the mandatory no fault reduction of rates takes place?

The Road To Miami Beach

It has happened to Senator McGovern, just as it has happened to other leading candidates, that the moment the pollsters and the pundits began conceding handsome advance victories to him became, in actuality, the moment when his showing turned out to be something less than glorious.

Neither in California nor in New Jersey did the self-proclaimed representative of a "new politics" have what might have been an easy time of it getting ahead of that old worn-out representative of the old politics, Hubert Horatio Humphrey.

Nonetheless, the Senator from South Dakota now has his commanding position, so far as committed delegates are concerned, for the Miami Beach convention.

He must still face one more important primary, in New York. This would, by the way these primary tides have been going, be a natural place for him to start slipping back from the extremely modest peak he has just achieved in California, and a natural place for Humphrey to make a comeback. But the presumption of the pollsters and the pundits (although why any one should take them too seriously remains a mystery) is that Senator McGovern will take New York and thus be within a day's length of nomination.

What is going to be happening from now on is not going to be very warming to the hearts of the original McGovern supporters, and it is not going to accomplish any very deep brand of reconciliation between McGovern and the rest of the party either. It is going to consist of a series of adjustments in various McGovern positions, all designed to be conciliatory to the rest of the party.

Perhaps the words spoken with so much passion were too sweeping; perhaps they should have included some qualifying clauses in defense to those Wallaceites who had been moved by impulses other than negative hatred.

But the pronouncement was a closer approximation of truth than the fawning, fawning of some other aspirants to assure the Wallace voters of their highest esteem and to blur the primitivism of the Wallace threat.

These remarks are relevant now because all present indications are that Wallace will be very much a factor at the Democratic Convention - that whatever the limitations on his personal activity, he will command a substantial bloc of delegates in a position to exert serious influence on the platform and very possibly on the selection of the ticket. It is entirely conceivable that he will be a more important figure because of his disability.

In the interim, he can only be encouraged by the prevalent tendency to appease his constituency at almost any price. - LAMAR WELLSBACH IN THE NEW YORK POST.

on, no matter what he calls himself, a more open continuation of what he has been all along - a politician practicing his profession.

His standards are, we are sure, as high as those of any other practitioner of the game. What cannot be conceded, to him or to his followers, at least until we have watched him through the tests of character and strategy which lie just ahead of him, is that his standards are any higher.

Senator McGovern is still dealing with a party which is not going to have an easy time being happy and confident with him. It is a party which might liberally let itself drift into a deadlock from which it might emerge in a headlong rush either back toward Senator Muskie, whom most Democrats probably still think would be the party's strongest and safest nominee, or ahead toward Senator Kennedy, who could absorb the McGovern movement but give it a different name. Perhaps the very ways in which Senator McGovern tries to move and operate and image himself to get himself the other votes at Miami Beach will in themselves determine his success or failure for the nomination itself, and for anything beyond it.

The Wallace Immunity

In his lonely hours of hospital meditation George C. Wallace must derive at least some solace from the parade of dignitaries to his bedside ranging from President Nixon to Ted Kennedy and numerous other Democrats. He may find even larger satisfaction in the reverence accorded his name in public circles.

By surviving an attempt on his life, Wallace has acquired the kind of immunity traditionally reserved for the departed. One must assume that in part this reflects a decent human sympathy for a man who may never walk again. Even a non-aspirant for any public office recognizes new inhibitions in writing about him.

But it must be sadly acknowledged - as Wallace may wryly note - that his ordeal has provided a certain escape for many political figures who had begun fleeing from combat with him before the grim shots were fired in Maryland. To score him almost obsequious tones of respect and sympathy is now dictated as a gesture of fraternity for a wounded warrior. It also happens to be a somewhat comfortable refuge from the reality of the Wallace challenge.

In fact Wallace has achieved the status of an untouchable. The hardest thing that any of his detractors will say about him is that he would be an incomparable running mate while hastening to add that he has been an eloquent and bodiment of popular (or, more ornately, "populist") protest.

What Wallace's present role has dramatized anew is the extent to which his ideas have permeated the 1972 campaign, creating almost general timidity and silence on the issue of civil rights. Among the leading contenders there long ago ceased to be any pretense of a serious counter-attack on Wallace; the only question seems to be who will succeed in most cravenly wooing the Wallace constituency.

The apology for this course was indicated earlier: it is the view that Wallace's flagrant appeals to prejudice have been only a minor aspect of his more profound expression of underlying discontent with "The System."

Undoubtedly there are some for whom Wallace represents blind outrage against economic things as they are. But it is a question that is being asked to minimize the racist overtones of his campaign - and the symbolism it conveys still when he is unable to deliver the message in person.

Certainly Wallace has talked often of the "interests" - the invisible demons of power and finance. Over the long run, however, his potent weapon has been his incantation of racial emotions. "They" were being coddled; "they" were getting away with it; "they" were disrupting the serenity of schoolroom and streets and neighborhoods. For his audience there was usually no need to spell out the identification; "they" were black.

Among professional politicians it is now accepted as a fact of life that one of Ed Muskie's largest disasters was his angry comment after the Florida primary: Muskie himself seems to have been subsequently persuaded that he had erred in saying that the returns "revealed to a greater extent than I had imagined some of the worst instincts of which human beings are capable."

Perhaps the words spoken with so much passion were too sweeping; perhaps they should have included some qualifying clauses in defense to those Wallaceites who had been moved by impulses other than negative hatred.

But the pronouncement was a closer approximation of truth than the fawning, fawning of some other aspirants to assure the Wallace voters of their highest esteem and to blur the primitivism of the Wallace threat.

That mood exactly fitted the argument of Edward Gierk, the flexible, pragmatic Communist party leader here in the world's third largest Communist country and unquestionably the Soviet Union's most confidential ally today.

Thus, within hours of the moment that Polish ships were forced by U.S. mines to turn back from their course to Haiphong harbor, Gierk issued two orders: That the controlled press downplay this latest American offensive in Vietnam, printing only bare essentials with no editorial comment and no attack on Mr. Nixon; and that the U.S. ambassador here be informed that Moscow had no intention of disinviting the President came not from the Kremlin but from the Polish government.

It was no accident, then, that the first private indication that Moscow had no intention of disinviting the President came not from the Kremlin but from the Polish government.

That evidence of the lust for details in the outward manifestation of an intriguing, potentially far-reaching debate inside the party here that could conceivably result in some basic doctrinal changes in Communist orthodoxy.

As seen here, the Kremlin with strong encouragement from the Polish Communist party - how now exposed a new international policy certain to lead to "serious ideological problems" in every Moscow-allyed Communist country.

Strangely enough, up to the moment in which this is being written this election is being held with no great rush of investigative zeal or moral questioning or high principled denunciations following the appearance in the news of two samples of a certain kind of business the state can do with entrepreneurs who just happen to have, incidentally, some connection with the world of politics.

The kind of business in question is the negotiation between the state and some private individual or corporation of a contract by which the individual erects a building the state then leases, with eventual option to buy.

One of the samples of this which has now come into the news concerns such a contract between the state and a contractor named Brian Gaffney.

We believe Representative Cohen's measure is a commendable effort to bring about a change in the way in which the state does business with the state, that if people were going to complain about a building the state then leases, with eventual option to buy.

There has also been comment from Governor Rockefeller, while aiming at pleasing out of this kind of operation, pointed out that the contract was after all a kind of insurance policy for his children.

At this point, with one such contract in the news, it is not surprising that the Democratic and another which might be labeled Republican could not defend himself against charges of stealing $7.5 million from the state.

Who knows, if anybody ever started digging, whether there might not be some other truth in all those tantalizing rumors over the past few decades, which it has been alleged that some of the state's contractors for that matter, have had lucrative connections with some big arrangement setting up state leasing or purchasing of buildings whose construction could be financed by the state contract itself?

This might be the time to set all these interesting rumors to rest, permanently. On the other hand, it may be the time for the state's politicians to be good, tolerant fellows together, and pass quickly on to some late evening or early morning without such slight twinges of ethical embarrassment.

Remember this. Let's put things in perspective - I won some primaries, did well in some, not as well as we'd like to brag about in this ball game, in this ball park and we'll carry through. - Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, who ran second behind McGovern.

Securities Salesman Takes on Young Look

NEW YORK (AP) - A popular although dying myth about the securities salesman is that gory, and to $20,000 in the 50 and 60's, and to $100,000 in the 70's. While methods of paying commissions vary from one firm to another, the net income of responsibility.

Now a survey by the New York Stock Exchange shows that the average age of securities salesmen is 31 and 30, for the early peak, but did generally after only nine years of experience. After that it's a to-begun is half-done.

Many investors will say that the statistics merely confirm what they already know. The Others graduate to executive positions, or having earned enough money to invest in other business, retire from selling. And they say, and a great extension in their financial position.

Another suggestion is that the middle-aged men often embark on second careers as securities salesmen, having succeeded in earlier endeavors, and having established themselves financially. The role of this latter factor is likely to diminish in years to come as the comfortable, club-like atmosphere becomes a thing of the past.

Median gross production, or income earned for the firm was $25,500 for salesmen in the 22 to 28 category. It was $44,000 among salesmen aged 27 to 30 and reached a high of $71,100 between ages 31 and 35. After that the slide was swift, say.

making it more difficult for him to win his release, Blackman said. The court did not order his release. However, it said Blackman should be given the right to a speedy trial and a psychiatric institution when the charges proper procedure could not defend himself against charges of stealing $7.5 million from the state.

California, Connecticut, Minnesota, New Jersey, Ohio and Wisconsin are other states that appear to commit indefinitely a defendant found incompetent to stand trial.

All the members of the court lined up behind Blackman's opinion except Justice Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist, who could not participate because the case was argued before they took their seats.

Blackman cannot read, write, or otherwise communicate except through limited sign language. Blackman's opinion said he has the mental level of a person just because he has pre-school child. He had not been accused of a crime and tried a plea of not guilty.

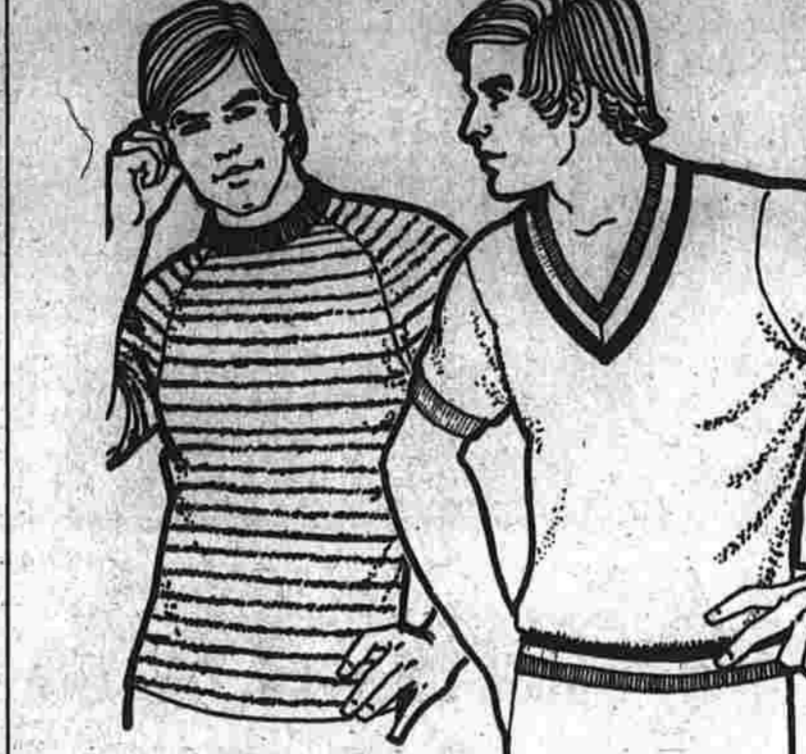

Blackman said a convicted defendant may be held only for a "reasonable period of time" to find out if he ever is likely to understand the charges against him.

If it is not probable that he ever will, Blackman said, the state must either set him free or begin the regular procedure to commit to the "feeble-minded" or mentally ill.

The Constitution forbids making it easier to institutionalize a person just because he has pre-school child. He had not been accused of a crime and tried a plea of not guilty.

The White House sent U.S. planes on up to 200 strikes a day against North Vietnamese railroads and railroad yards, bridges, truck parks, petroleum-storage dumps, power plants, barracks, and other war-related facilities across North Vietnam, including targets close to Hanoi and Haiphong, the nation's principal port.

Using laser-guided and other "smart" bombs perfected since the 1950-1960 air campaign, U.S. Air Force and Navy carrier planes have severed rail connections between North Vietnam and China, and between the Hanoi-Haiphong region and the battlefield to the south.

Starting May 10, U.S. pilots put 15 key bridges over communication and transport routes out of commission and damaged other rail and highway bridges forming links in the transportation chain.

The North Vietnamese reported to ferries and piers and bridges to death in the southern span.

The North Vietnamese got some of the damaged bridges back into use within 10 days or so but U.S. bombers returned to knock them out.

U.S. experts had anticipated that the Russians and Chinese would attempt to pour material into Vietnam by rail to compensate for the cutoff of about 200,000 tons a month in food, fertilizer, all-important petroleum products and other necessities normally brought into North Vietnam by ship. But so far, U.S. officials say, that has not happened. Supplies are said to be backed up in South China because the rail lines across North Vietnam are effectively cut.

Defense analysts estimate the U.S. bombing-mission campaign has brought these major results:

Imports of motor fuel and petroleum products necessary to operate North Vietnamese military trucks, tanks, and other military-related vehicles are said to be backed up in South China because the rail lines across North Vietnam are effectively cut.

CBS President Dies at Home

CHAPPAQUA, N.Y. (AP) — Charles T. Ireland Jr., a corporate lawyer who became president of Columbia Broadcasting System eight months ago, died in his sleep at his home here during the night, police report. He was 51.

Described by his former associates as an "idea man," Ireland replaced Dr. Frank Stanton, head of the CBS corporation on Oct. 1, 1971.

He had been senior vice president and director of International Telephone & Telegraph Co.

"I know almost nothing about this industry," he told an interviewer at the time. "I guess you mean say I'm starting out with a clean slate of ignorance."

His association with CBS was announced as part of a corporate realignment "to strengthen the company's leadership, provide for management transition and give emphasis to future growth," the firm said.

In announcing the death of the CBS organization, CBS chairman William B. Paul said, "Though Mr. Ireland had been with us for only a brief time, his outstanding ability as an executive, his grasp of our problems and our opportunities, his tireless devotion to his duties and, above all, his warm and friendly nature, made a deep and lasting impact upon CBS."

Ireland, known to his friends as "Chick," was born in Boston, Mass., on April 24, 1921. His family subsequently moved to Manhattan, and he was graduated in 1943 from Portland High School, where he was voted "one of the most likely to succeed."

His father, Charles Sr., died in Portland on Tuesday at age 70.

After graduating from Bowdoin College magna cum laude as a history major in 1942, Ireland joined the Marine Corps. He rose from private to captain and won the Silver Star and Bronze Star and received a Purple Heart before his discharge in 1945.

State Will Fix Two Town Roads

The town today received notice from the state that improvements to Adams St. and W. Middle Tpk. will be included in Phase 1 of the federal TOPICS (Traffic Operations Program to Improve Capacity and Safety) program.

The letter was received today from state officials who said that the projects should be initiated in the "very near future."

Weiss said, "It appears that we will be able to have immediate action on those two streets. He must meet soon with state officials to work out the details.

These two streets have drawn numerous complaints from residents in the area. Recently a petition of W. Middle Tpk. residents was submitted to the Board of Directors asking that the road be repaved.

Just because I like McGovern doesn't mean I like his ideas," Ribicoff said.

U.S. Bombers Flirt With China Line

There was no estimate yet of casualties in the fighting today, but field reports said 10 North Vietnamese soldiers and 37 government troops were wounded in a series of clashes just outside of the city.

In Cambodia, about 30 rockets were fired into Phnom Penh and its airport, and North Vietnamese or Viet Cong soldiers attacked the town of Takhmau, 15 miles to the south. At least 20 Cambodians were killed, including 12 women and children.

Other harassing attacks were reported on the western and northeastern flanks of Vietnam.

on Washington and Miami. McGovern was thinking in much broader geographic terms in a flat statement that he believes he can personally negotiate an end to the Vietnam war.

The South Dakota senator told a Los Angeles news conference he would go anywhere in the world, Hanoi if necessary, to negotiate.

"There isn't the slightest doubt in my mind that I could talk to the leaders of that government (North Vietnam) and work out arrangements for ending the war and releasing all prisoners that would be fully acceptable to the American people," McGovern said.

Humphrey, meanwhile, had taken his campaign to Houston where he met with state chief executives attending the National Governors' Conference.

"I surely didn't try to put on a stop-McGovern movement emerging from a closed session," Humphrey said.

One governor, who asked not to be named, said the senator "acted everybody to sort of stand pat."

Ball Warned Johnson Against Viet Stepup

WASHINGTON (AP) — A key foreign policy figure in the Johnson administration warned in 1964 that escalation of the Vietnam war would probably end in failure, according to his memoirs.

George Ball, in a document Atlantic Monthly magazine says was read by President Johnson, cautioned in strong terms against sending large numbers of American troops to South Vietnam and widespread bombing of North Vietnam.

"Writing of the likely outcome of increased U.S. role in Vietnam, Ball said: 'Once on the tiger's back, we cannot be sure of picking the place to dismount.'

Ball's memo was written Oct. 5, 1964, just before Johnson's resignation as president and while pressure for responding to North Vietnamese and Viet Cong military successes was growing.

Citing the "feeble condition of the South government," Ball, an undersecretary of state, wrote that an expanded air war would give the North a "strategic advantage."

George Ball, in a document Atlantic Monthly magazine says was read by President Johnson, cautioned in strong terms against sending large numbers of American troops to South Vietnam and widespread bombing of North Vietnam.

"Writing of the likely outcome of increased U.S. role in Vietnam, Ball said: 'Once on the tiger's back, we cannot be sure of picking the place to dismount.'

Ball's memo was written Oct. 5, 1964, just before Johnson's resignation as president and while pressure for responding to North Vietnamese and Viet Cong military successes was growing.

Citing the "feeble condition of the South government," Ball, an undersecretary of state, wrote that an expanded air war would give the North a "strategic advantage."

Williams Makes Debut As Actor

NEW YORK (AP) — "I have always wanted to be in the movies," said William Williams. "It was pretty exciting, but I can't say I would do it again."

Williams made his first appearance as an actor Tuesday night after nearly a year of appearances as one of America's premier playwrights. He played Doc in "Honor" at the Lincoln Center.

Turkish Opium Growing Snuffed by Government

ATLIEHAR, Turkey (AP) — compensation will last and what help they will get in finding deterrants, perked on a barren stretch of road in the opium, matters not yet spelled out.

Landless peasants have made a living by hiring out to opium growers during planting and harvesting. One such is Lutfi Karagoz, a shepherd who says: "they took my livelihood away."

The deterrent distributors were black market opium buyers. The stocking stations were narcotics agents.

Villagers approached the deterrent truck and handed over a large plastic bag of brownish opium gum. Unknown to the buyers, it has been substantial.

The black market rate for opium is $100 a kilo. The deterrent truck is padded out with crushed prunes.

Wheat-Rye Cross An Infant Cereal

WICHITA, Kan. — A green field during the winter in the Plains States usually indicates a cross between wheat and rye. In the future it may be triticale (triticum-rye), a cross between wheat and rye.

"I made several wrong turns," said Williams. "I was not a baby, but returns to around the death of both mothers and baby. Doc decided to leave town and heads for the bar room door. Prolonged applause rolled down as Williams exited."

Williams, 41, a small, stocky man from Columbus, Miss., whose plays have won two Pulitzer prizes, came back on stage after the final curtain to thank the audience. As he departed about his performance, he said: "They told me I wasn't projecting. Could you hear me back there?" he asked. The mix of affirmative and negative responses from the back of the theatre was deafening.

"I made several wrong turns," said Williams. "I was not a baby, but returns to around the death of both mothers and baby. Doc decided to leave town and heads for the bar room door. Prolonged applause rolled down as Williams exited."

Ball Warned Johnson Against Viet Stepup

WASHINGTON (AP) — A key foreign policy figure in the Johnson administration warned in 1964 that escalation of the Vietnam war would probably end in failure, according to his memoirs.

George Ball, in a document Atlantic Monthly magazine says was read by President Johnson, cautioned in strong terms against sending large numbers of American troops to South Vietnam and widespread bombing of North Vietnam.

"Writing of the likely outcome of increased U.S. role in Vietnam, Ball said: 'Once on the tiger's back, we cannot be sure of picking the place to dismount.'

Hope Lost For Miners

WANKLE, Rhode Island (AP) — Hope has been abandoned for two days in the Wankle coal mine, the chairman of the company announced today. The bodies of seven men have been recovered, and eight workers were injured.

The chairman, Sir Keith Acutt, said the rockfalls and damage to the ventilation system resulting from three massive explosions Tuesday and the poisonous air that filled the mine afterward "leaves no cause for hope."

He said all indications were that the men died instantaneously. A death toll of 43 would be Africa's second worst mining disaster, exceeded only by the 1970 mine in 1960 at Marlbrook, South Africa.

THE BULLFIGHT

(Portuguese Style)

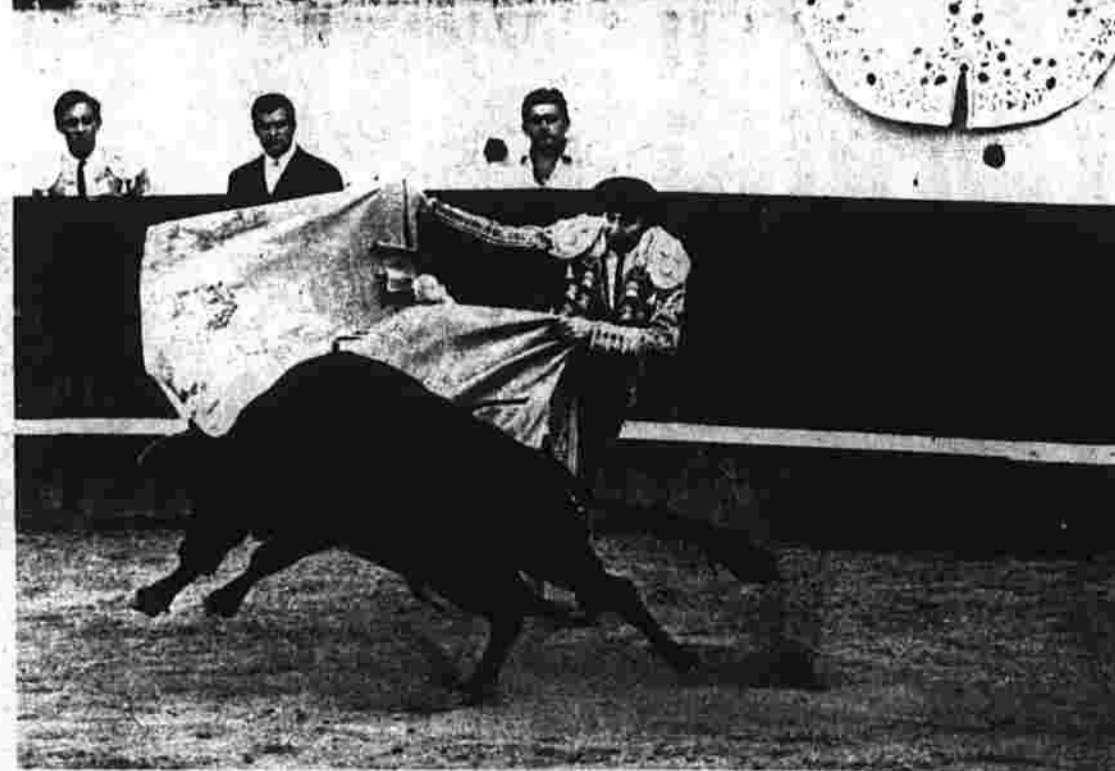

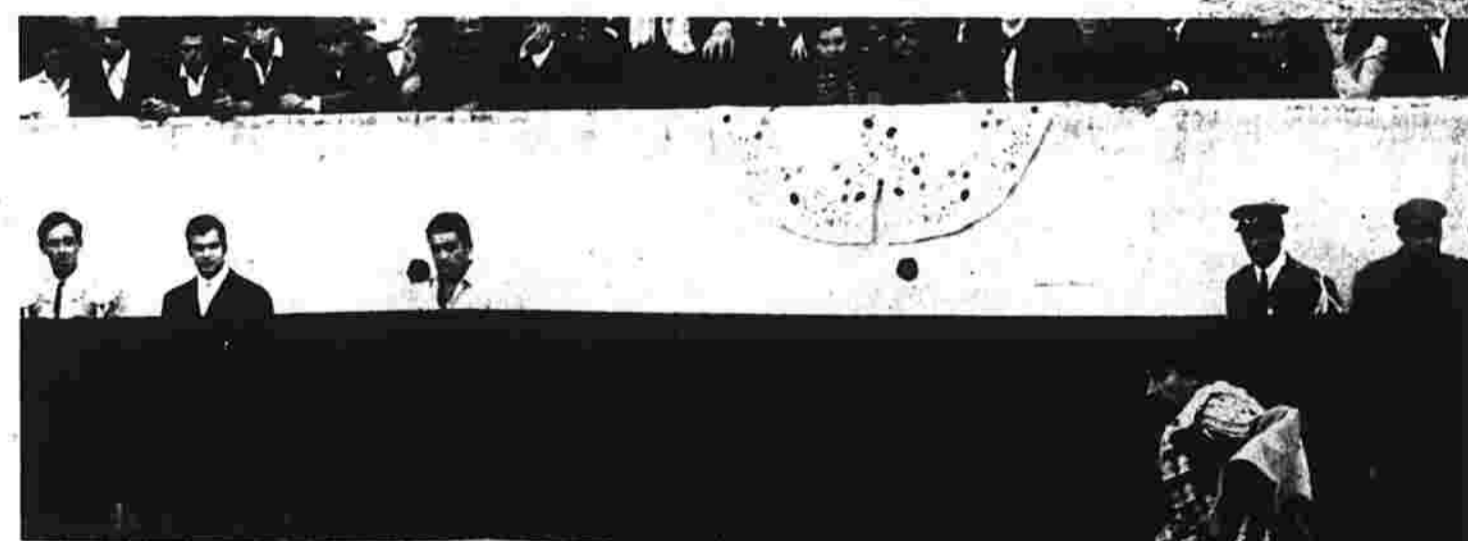

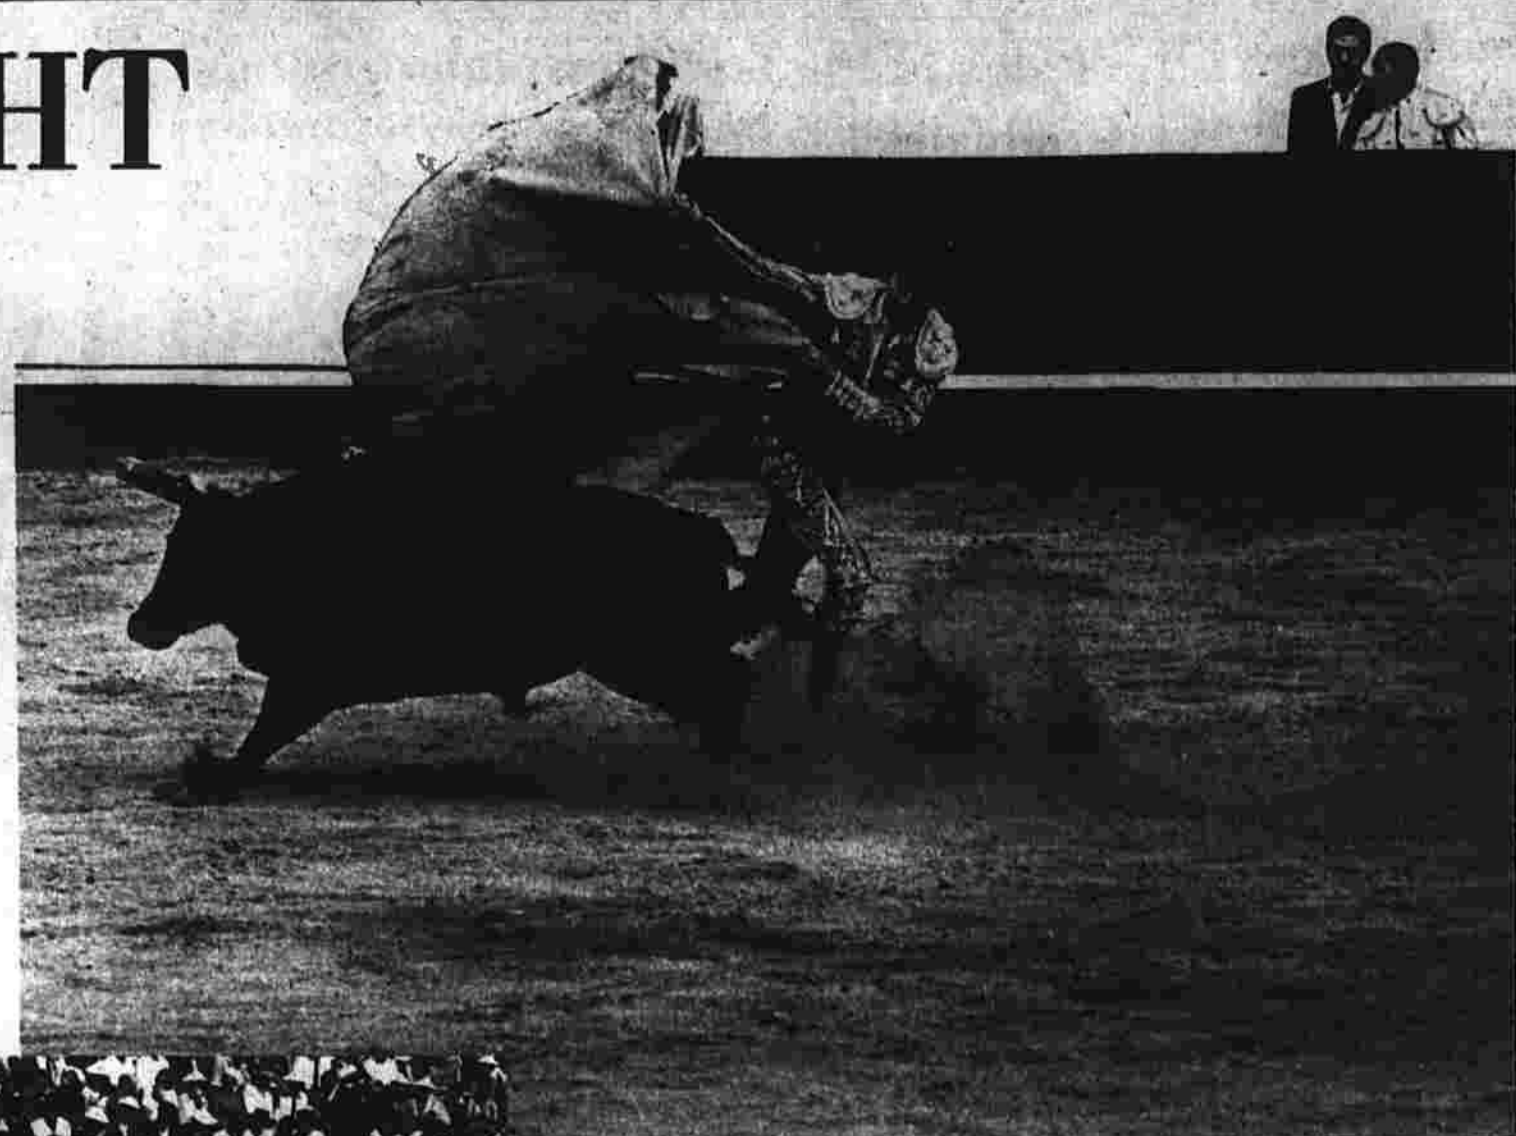

In the centuries-old sport of bullfighting in Portugal, we've shown the CORTESIAS (beginning pageantry) and the CAVALEIROS (knight toreadores on horseback).

We've also pointed out the great difference between the Portuguese and the Spanish style of the bullfight, and this will also be apparent in the fourth and last page showing the MOCOS de FORCADO, which is uniquely Portuguese.

On this page, the third in a series, we show the TOREADORES. This part of the CORRIDA in Portugal also includes the BANDARILHEIROS and MATADORES and is the most similar to the Spanish. The passes and maneuvers are called by the same names, such as the VERONICA, CHICUELINA, REBOLERA, GAONERA, and so on, usually deriving the names from the originator of the pass. (The GAONERA, introduced and perfected by the Mexican matador Rudolfo Gaona), and performed in the same manner, including the passes with the MULETA (small cape).

However, when it comes to the end and the kill, the PORTUGUESE passes are only symbolic, using a bandarilla instead of a sword, since the bull is never killed in Portugal.

Small Boy — Big Problems

This is the time of the year when some parents are looking forward to school vacations; and still others are concerned whether or not their children will be able to attend regular classes at school in the fall with some special help from the school social worker.

For parents with problem children, there is much anxiety about the future and the Community Child Guidance Clinic in Manchester is ready to help. Johnny is only nine years old, but in just a few short years he has become a problem to his parents, school authorities, and his classmates as well.

Johnny has serious learning disabilities and behavior problems. He is constantly causing disturbances in class, which is annoying to his teacher and distracting to his classmates. Once, while being reprimanded by the school principal for his behavior, Johnny grabbed the telephone from the principal's desk and called the police for help.

The school authorities referred his parents to the clinic. After much discussion, and a psychologist's evaluation of Johnny's problems, a conference with school personnel was arranged. Putting it all together, it was decided that he could function better in smaller groups, and a class with a teacher's aide in another school, was selected. Johnny continued to be seen at the clinic—and some of his parents were helped to understand his problems and the assurance he needs to overcome them.

From Your Neighbor's Kitchen

By VIVIAN F. FERGUSON
The executive board of the Auxiliary of Manchester Memorial Hospital was having its annual meeting. It is traditional that the incoming president have the ladies to her home where she serves luncheon in honor of the outgoing president.

It was a beautiful April day. I walked into the house at 73 Princeton St., Margi Sumner greeted me with her usual bubbly manner. Some years ago, the Summers built an addition to their home including a large second living room for entertaining.

Margi had set up her large dining table on both ends to facilitate serving the more than 30 guests. Plates, serving pieces and napkins were duplicated as well as casserole dishes, a modest salad, and little tea sandwiches.

As soon as I tasted the chicken I rushed to a phone to call a photographer. It takes a good report to pose in the midwest of aristocracy.

Margi's dish is Chicken Divan which is chicken with broccoli. It is not a recipe. You will find it in cookbooks which are not new but they're not old either—say 20-25 years. At one time, chicken divan was extremely popular and could be found on the menus of many fine restaurants.

Some say the dish was named after a restaurant in New York City. If that is the case, it probably was the Parkman Divan which specialized in the dish. The establishment is no longer in existence. I think it is much more fun to deduce it called divan (another word for couch or sofa) because the chicken rests on the broccoli.

Margi's recipe comes from the cookbook of a former Wesley College classmate, Lois Levine who has co-authored several books with Marian Barre. Their "Elegant Entertaining" is available in paperback. You will find many good ideas for entertaining including the elegant job listed below. Lois Levine, a cooking teacher and lecturer, lives in Hamden, Conn.

Jiggers dry sherry into gelatin mixture and turn into soufflé dish. Refrigerate. To serve, sprinkle 1/4 cup silvered almonds on top of soufflé. Serves 10-12.

Stir over low heat until cheese is melted. Pour sauce over chicken and broccoli. Chill quickly and freeze. When ready to serve, defrost and bake at 400 for 45 minutes. Before bringing to table, dash generously with sherry. Serves 15.

Grand Marnier Orange-Fruit envelope plus 2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin.

Whip yolks until stiff. Cook over low heat, stirring, until spoon is coated. Transfer to large bowl and refrigerate until consistency of unwhipped egg whites. Make a collar to fit around a 2-qt. soufflé dish: Fold a 30" length of waxed paper in half lengthwise and butter one side of strip. Wrap, buttered side in, around soufflé dish so collar stands 2" above rim.

Drizzle 2 1/2 tablespoons Grand Marnier over one package of lady fingers. Line sides of soufflé dish with lady fingers. Fold 1/2 cup silvered almonds into whipped cream. Beat separately until soft peaks form: 7 egg whites and 1/4 cup sugar; 1/2 cup egg whites and 1/4 cup sugar to egg whites while beating stiff.

Fold both whites and cream will obtain license.

Washington School Receives Bulletin Board

Walter Roth, principal of Washington School, straightens the bulletin board presented to the school Tuesday by Brownie Troops 640 and 641 and Junior Girl Scout Troops 629 and 670. Helping with the presentation were Ann Marie Mitchell, left, of Troop 670, Dana Silvas of Troop 629, Susan Dowd of Troop 641, and Michele Chambers of Troop 640. The gift was the idea of the Brownie Troops, but financial help was needed to make it a reality. The Junior Troops entered into the project, and the money was provided by their annual cookie sale and weekly dues. The bulletin board was constructed by Lester Black of 814 Westwetherl St.

AARP Installs Officers

Mrs. John V. Grogan of 83 Schaller Rd. was installed yesterday as president of the Connecticut Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) at a luncheon meeting at Flano's Restaurant in Bolton. The installing officer was Mrs. Grogan's husband, Dr. John V. Grogan. The new president attended public schools in Bridgeport, received her B.S. degree from the Hartford Hospital School of Nursing in 1956, and graduated as a registered physiotherapist from the National College of Massage and Physiotherapy in 1954.

In September last year, Mrs. Grogan was elected chairman of the Legislative Committee of AARP and the National Retired Teachers' Assn. She is a delegate to the June 12-16 AARP national convention in Washington, D.C.

Other officers installed are: Brig. W. Harold Bevan Sr. (Salvatore Army, Ret.), vice president; John Dornier of the Genesee Valley Merchants Association announced Wednesday.

The board, for example, will meet in 62 feet on a side, and two inflatable two-foot cubes will serve as dice.

The players will be well-known sports figures, including Dave Ding of Detroit's Pistons basketball team and Lem Barney of the Lions football team.

The game was organized to raise funds for the Michigan Association and the Michigan Cancer Society, spokeswoman said.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB Just What Are Refined Foods?

By Lawrence Lamb, D.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb—Several months ago you ran an article about refined foods and colon diseases. You said the U.S. has a higher rate of colon disease than certain other countries. I didn't quite grasp the article because I didn't know what you meant by "refined foods." You mentioned that bran is good to take. Please tell me what refined foods are and just how they affect the colon. Besides bran what else can a person eat to avoid this colon problem? I eat a good amount of egg yolks, cakes, candy, fried foods, bread and other fattening foods. I am 24 years old. Do you think I should start cutting these foods out of my diet.

Dear Reader—Yes, I do. The time to start doing something about staying young and healthy is while you still are—not after you certainly lost your youth and your health.

Cakes and candy are good examples of refined foods. Generally, refined foods refers to sugar which is a refined product leaving almost nothing but pure carbohydrate without minerals, roughage or vitamins. White flour has had the husk and germ of the wheat removed and even though it is enriched by vitamins to the point that it usually has more vitamins than the original wheat, it still has lost a lot of the roughage quality that comes with normal wheat grain. Cake flour is often much worse, being devoid of many of the vitamins normally occur with wheat.

Refined foods are items which are made principally of wholesome vegetables and other concentrated sweets. This also includes most bread.

The roughage foods that most people should eat include the vast array of good wholesome vegetables and fruit. This also includes whole grain products like oatmeal, cracked wheat and other whole cereal products.

The refined foods without bulk lead to constipation, irritable colon, colitis and on a world-wide epidemiological analysis constitutes a major portion of the diet of those people who have a higher incidence of cancer of the colon. We do know that eating more roughage, which again includes vegetables, fruits and whole grain cereals, is very helpful in relieving the common problem of constipation and irritable colon in many people.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Are gelatin tablets fattening? I am taking them for nails and hair, but will discontinue usage if they create a weight problem.

Dear Reader—Gelatin tablets have very few calories because they contain no fat or sugar. They are a useful lot to significantly increase your caloric intake.

City Accused Of Violating Wetlands Act

WEST HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—The state Department of Environmental Protection has accused the City of West Haven of violating the state Wetlands Preservation Act at the site of a sewer pumping station being built next to a small marsh.

An order signed Tuesday by former Mayor and Mrs. Harold A. Turkington and Mrs. Robert C. Healy, Ellington public schools administrator. Mrs. Healy attended Manchester State College, where she is a member of the U.S. in business education from Central Connecticut State College. She is a member of the Auxiliary of Manchester Memorial Hospital, South United Methodist Church and its Women's Society of Christian Service, and has been a member of the state ordered the city to halt work on a set of tidal gates across the river. The city fought the order, but a judge later ruled the city would need a permit from the department to continue the work.

The city has applied for a permit, but it hasn't been granted yet.

Prisons Losing Visitor Bars

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—New York State is removing all steel mesh screens which divide prisoners from their visitors in the visiting rooms of all state correctional institutions. A spokesman for the Department of Correctional Services said removal of the screens is part of the department's re-visit.

The spokesman said physical contact between inmates and visitors will be possible, but nothing can be passed from one to the other without inspection of Correctional Services and approval. Inmates still will be searched before and after re-visits.

Hospital Ask Liquor Permit

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Operators of Providence Hospital have asked the state for a liquor license to sell beer and wine to patients or set up a bar in the hospital.

Wine has been served to patients since the hospital opened about a year ago, but hospital officials said the permit was sought at the suggestion of the state.

The permit would allow the hospital to sell beer, and wine to patients, or set up a bar in the hospital.

Coventry High School To Present Outdoor Concert June 12

The Coventry High School Music Department, under the direction of Carl J. Salina, will present its first outdoor concert on Monday, June 12. The concert will be held on the lawn in front of the high school and will feature the school band and choir.

The program will blend the nostalgia of the old-fashioned band concert with the new sounds of jazz-rock. The concert band will perform a selection entitled "Honor, Honor, Country," the text coming from the farwell address by Gen. Douglas MacArthur to the West Point Military Academy in 1962.

Beneficiation Awards

The Beneficiation Committee has made a number of awards to residents whose efforts in improving or maintaining their properties are considered noteworthy.

Awards went last month to Mr. and Mrs. Lester Miller for their "very attractive and unique" bungalow, built by the paper tube combination which enhances the highway along Rt. 21 at their residence.

Also, to Mr. Norma Johnson for improvements at the Driftwood Beach Bar on Rt. 21. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Blodini, for continuing efforts to have a "cozy, comfortable, older home on the corner of Root Rd. and Rt. 21.

Smoking-Tobacco Output Lowest

ATLANTA — U.S. smoking-tobacco output in 1971 fell 13 per cent to 61 million pounds, a record low. Pipe tobacco accounted for the decrease; tobacco for roll-your-owns gained a larger share of the field. Loose-leaf output gained, but production of plug tobacco continued to decline.

Train Derails In New York 15 Injured

NEW YORK (AP) — A Penn Central railroad commuter train derailed in the Park Avenue tunnel leading to Grand Central Terminal today and at least 15 passengers were injured.

City police and municipal ambulance attendants helped the injured to ambulances.

A Penn Central spokesman, Robert Van Waggoner, said the five-car train, the 8:11 a.m. from New Rochelle, derailed in Grand Central at 8:37 a.m., carrying between 500 and 600 passengers.

Remarks By Rotner at Testimonial

We cannot fail but to be somewhat saddened when we see never before has society been confronted with a drug problem plaguing its young people or a breakdown generally of its moral values. Never before has our society been confronted by the delinquency of so many of its young people of revolutionaries who, without offering a better system, advocate the complete destruction of our democratic society which, if achieved, would result only in anarchy!

Unfortunately, there are some teachers in our schools and universities, a minority to be sure, who sponsor and foster by word and deed many of these anarchistic ideas. To be critical of such teachers and college professors opens one to the charge that he is attacking academic freedom. These are indeed crucial times.

The time has come, it seems to me, to speak out against permissiveness by parents, teachers and society in general. Permissiveness which has been degenerated under the heading of "do one's own thing."

I am optimistic enough to believe that disaster is not about to overtake us and that this era of permissiveness, or more properly, lack of responsibility to long proven and established standards of conduct and morality will pass. However, I am impatient that those of us who recognize the dangers involved in preaching the unrestricted right of people to "do their own thing" speak out against this unprincipled doctrine, even if it appears that to do so, in the long run, is not in the best interest of the society as a whole.

After introducing Walter Doll Jr., who was Board of Education chairman until November, from among the 160 guests present last night, Rotner touched on the field trip interviews of candidates for the position of superintendent of schools four or five years ago.

"Both Walter and I ultimately narrowed our personal choice down to Mr. Hennigan," Rotner continued, "which fact I presume, had something to do with his ultimate election. Accordingly, I have felt a certain affinity toward Don and a sense of responsibility for the quality of his work. In my opinion, he is superior to the right of one who is not in his own particular sphere of activity made valuable contributions to the Manchester Educational System and for these we are pleased to honor them."

Three Leaving School System Given Farewell Testimonial

By JOHN A. JOHNSON (Herald Reporter)

Sadness, laughter, and outward expressions of deep feelings of appreciation alternated at last night's Manchester County three-member of the school system administration who are leaving after 50 years of service.

The guests who were honored with tributes and gifts were A. Hyatt Stultiff, Illing Junior High School principal, who is retiring after 22 years as teacher, guidance counselor, and administrator in Manchester; Douglas E. Pierce, who is retiring after 23 1/2 years as business manager; and Dr. Donald J. Hennigan, superintendent of schools since 1958.

Stultiff's contacts with Stultiff, who has been an eighth grade teacher at the Manchester Green School and his young daughter having come under his influence as a guidance counselor at the Harvard School.

Deep Admiration
"My exposure to Hyatt through my girls, and later as a board member, has resulted in the deepest admiration and respect for his abilities as a teacher and administrator. He has more than 30 years of service to the school system, and I am proud to have known him. He is a man of unselfishness, love for his work, and with his broad smile and his wit, he is a joy to know."

As a follow-up to the individual tributes, Rotner commented on our times, "What change for the sake of change is wrought in education who speak of it in revolutionary ways I presume, had something to do with his ultimate election. Accordingly, I have felt a certain affinity toward Don and a sense of responsibility for the quality of his work. In my opinion, he is superior to the right of one who is not in his own particular sphere of activity made valuable contributions to the Manchester Educational System and for these we are pleased to honor them."

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Effective July 1, laws that pour less than an ounce of liquor per drink must regulate the fact. The requirement is part of a new series of regulations that State Revenue Commissioner John Elshamman mailed Wednesday to every establishment that dispenses alcoholic beverages.

The regulations also forbid pouring a cheaper brand of liquor into the empty bottle of a more expensive brand and selling it at the higher price.

The heurlog ceremony after dinner concluded with the making of a toast to the new regulations. A more complicated bit of the state laboratories will be done for the PTA Council; by Wilson E. Deakin Jr., assistant

Prints Growing in Popularity: Are Inexpensive Kind of Art

Banks Ready to Cooperate With Plans for Downtown

It was the consensus yesterday among representatives of four Manchester banks that their institutions are ready to cooperate in one way or another, with plans for making Downtown Manchester a viable area of economic and social significance.

The four banks are: Manchester State Bank, Savings Bank of Manchester, Hartford National Bank and Trust Co., and Connecticut Bank and Trust Co.

Their representatives attended a meeting called by the ways and means subcommittee of the Mayor's Downtown Action Committee.

The purpose of the meeting was to explore the question, "Can the banking institutions and their real estate organizations assist in furthering Main St. development?"

Without making any specific promises, all of the bank representatives indicated they are ready to become involved, in one way or another.

Mayor John Thompson appointed the Downtown Action Committee in March and instructed it to "take a long, fresh and hard look at Downtown Manchester" for the purpose of coming up with a plan or plans for revitalizing the area, not be as fine as the woodcut.

He appointed as its chairman William Blith, civic leader and founder and president of the Tona Mig. Co.

Blith said yesterday improvement of the downtown area could be a significant contribution to Manchester's future, pretty yet short enough to be practical.

Gunther Scores New Law

SHARTFORD (AP) — State Sen. George L. Gunther said Wednesday that regardless of what doctors think, the state's new anti-abortion law makes criminals of women who use intra-uterine devices (IUD's) and the physicians who prescribe them.

The outspoken Republican lawmaker from Stratford, who vigorously opposed enactment of the new law, rejected State Health Commissioner Franklin M. Foot's interpretation of it. Dr. Foot said: "All over the world, IUD's are used as a method of birth control, not as a method of performing an abortion."

IUD's prevent the ovum from implanting itself in the wall of the uterus. Until that implantation takes place, Foot said, a woman cannot be considered pregnant.

But Gunther replied: "Just because the medical facts consider this to be true has nothing to do with what our Connecticut law says."

"Our new idiotic law says that 'from the moment of conception' a human life exists," Gunther said. "That means in Connecticut—no other state in the United States—a human being exists even though the fertilized ovum has not been implanted into the uterus."

Gunther noted that an IUD does not prevent fertilization of the ovum, although it does prevent the fertilized ovum from developing into a fetus.

Therefore, an IUD "never becomes an instrument of abortion," he said.

Gunther had demanded last month that Foot inform Connecticut physicians that IUD's are illegal under the new law.

Foot answered with a letter saying: "From the medical point of view, to prove that a woman has had an abortion, one would first have to prove that she was pregnant. Until the ovum has been implanted in the uterus, I do not believe that they (obstetricians) feel pregnancy has been taken place."

"At least we know of no test that pregnancy has taken place until well after the fetus has been implanted in the uterus," Foot added.

Marines List Bonus Program

Marine Corps enlistees may be eligible for a $1,500 bonus for qualifying in certain occupational fields, according to Sgt. James Travers, Marine recruiter in Manchester.

This move, titled the "Marine Corps Bonus Enlistment Program," is open to youths choosing to serve four years active duty in the Marine Corps in a combat arms capacity. "Combat Arms" includes training and assignment in infantry, artillery, tanks, or amphibious tractor fields.

Once a recruit successfully completes basic training, he is assigned to the specific field he chose prior to enlistment. Once training in that field is completed, he will be assigned his primary military occupational specialty and will receive his bonus payment in one lump sum.

"The Marine's cash offer began June 1. It is expected to continue through August."

Additional details on the Marine Corps Bonus Enlistment Program can be obtained from Sgt. Jim Travers by contacting him at his office, 605 Main St.

Mets Work Around Bench But Perez Swings Hot Bat

NEW YORK (AP) — Late, base-loaded situations struck out John Milner for the Johnny Bench wasn't hitting for a change, although it wasn't his fault. The New York Mets wouldn't let him.

Even giving an intentional walk to the slugging catcher in crucial situations isn't always the answer against the Cincinnati Reds. There's always Tony Perez, you see.

"I don't mind them walking manager Sparky Anderson. Johnny to go to me," said Perez. "Our power situation has been as after his four RBI helped Cleveland win the game."

Anderson walked Morgan, 21, Joe Judge 19, and Perez 18, for a total of 58. The Mets' offense was in a slump, but Perez was the only one to get on base.

"It's the little things that help in games, not just home runs," said Morgan. "The Reds' offense is the best we need to score runs. He of their bullpen, Willie Stargell drove in five runs with his 12th and 13th homers to lead a 20-hit assault on five San Diego hurlers."

Morgan didn't get any hits in his first inning. But as the game went on, he started to pitch better. He struck out three in the first inning, but then he walked two, including Bobby Tolan, who hit a double in the second.

"I expected them to walk starter Gary Gentry," said Perez, pointing to Cincinnati right-hander Jim Maloney. "He had a 3.0 lead before he threw a pitch, then he walked me."

But the way Perez and his teammates have been hitting and the way they've been playing.

Orioles Come Alive And Bombard Twins

NEW YORK (AP) — Perry in the first inning and Pat Dobson scattered 10 hits to even his record at 4-4.

Among the veterans, Dave Johnson drove in two runs while Bob Brown and Brooks Robinson each delivered two hits. The explosion rekindled the Orioles' offense.

"The Orioles are coming back," yelled Paul Blair after the Orioles snapped a five-game losing streak Wednesday night with a 7-2 victory over the Twins.

The Orioles jumped on reliever Nolan Ryan, who was pitching for the Twins. The Orioles scored four runs in the fifth inning on singles by Ken McLind, Jerry Stanton and John Stephenson, a double by Leo Cardenas and Sandy Alomar's two-run single off reliever Chuck Seabach.

Home runs by Joe Rudi and Mike Epstein in the first inning gave the Orioles a 2-0 lead. The Orioles scored six runs in the third inning on six consecutive hits by the majors.

"I tell you one thing, he never got a chance to start," said Rudi. "He was out of the game before he got a chance to start."

Williams wasn't around for a critique on his curve ball teaching. "He wasn't sharp as usual," said Rudi. "He was out of the game before he got a chance to start."

Drivers Get Recognition

Getting to be the most popular section of the weekly program at Stafford Springs Motor Speedway is 'Options,' the voice of the fans following the track and trying to predict the winners.

The only driver last expected for the title chase is Bobby Santos in the Art Berry No. 88. The Mills, Mass. driver is a 40-year-old father of two children and a 1961 Buick Wildcat. He is a former driver in the 1960-61 season and was a member of the 1961-62 season.

The rest of the modified delegation left NASCAR to run the 100-lap open competition at Seakonk Speedway in Massachusetts. This show had a purpose of its own. It was to be a preview of the 1972 season.

Track Side Notings

Frank DeRosa has scored two back-to-back wins at Stafford this season. He won the 8 1/2-lap sprinter, then the 100-lap Memorial Day classic and last Saturday night's 10-lap show.

Bobby Santos is the current pole leader at the 100-lap Memorial Day classic and last Saturday night's 10-lap show. He is the current pole leader at the 100-lap Memorial Day classic and last Saturday night's 10-lap show.

Getting the O.K. from the track authorities was no problem. They agreed to let me run my own interviews and every week, starting Saturday night, I'll be on the air with you.

The idea seemed so easily done, that I decided to do it. I decided to do it. I decided to do it.

Montreal General Manager Collecting on Past Favors

MONTREAL (AP) — There is absolutely no truth to the rumor that the National Hockey League holds its annual summer meetings in Montreal as a result of one of Sam Pollock's trades.

Pollock paid one of Wednesday, shipping veteran goalie Denis DeJorj and four minor league players to the Montreal Canadiens for what was described as "cash and other considerations."

The Canadiens in the past have been a power player in the NHL. They have won the Stanley Cup three times and have been a power player in the NHL.

Dodgers Tab Boblessie Draft Hope

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Lessie, the No. 1 pick in the secondary phase of the major league baseball draft, is headed for a possible future with the Los Angeles Dodgers carrying two monkeys on his back—Fete Broberg, a Dartmouth product, and Houston, out of the University of Texas, were the 12 picks last year in the secondary phase and by the end of the season were playing with Washington, now Texas, and the Chicago Cubs.

Undoubtedly the same will be expected of Lessie, a 6-foot-3, 210-pound fireballing right-hander out of Kansas State University who is headed for Spokane, Wash. of the Northwest League. Whether Lessie has the same kind of potential as Broberg and Houston remains questionable.

It's Lessie's hard throwing that called him to the Dodgers' attention, much more than his 63 record he compiled for Kansas State last season. In discussion with Lessie, who is a converted third baseman, needs schooling.

In all, 46 players were selected in the secondary phase in which players previously drafted who did not sign were re-drafted. The secondary phase was completed Wednesday after the 24 clubs finished the regular phase by taking 781 players.

Pitchers were the prime commodity sought in the secondary phase and a dozen were selected on the second day, including three of the top four.

The No. 2 pick was an infielder, Rich Dauer of Boston, who is a converted third baseman, needs schooling.

Ribicoff Sees 'Big Money' In Poverty

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — U.S. Senator Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., says "There is big money in poverty—big money for everybody, that is, except the poor."

The statement is in the senator's new book, "America Can Make It," to be published by Atheneum June 18. Ribicoff concedes that when he was Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare in 1961-1962 in the Kennedy Administration, he placed too much emphasis on poverty programs. As a result, he says, there are more than 168 programs unsuccessfully designed to eliminate poverty.

A large number of programs could be ended and the only complaints would come not from the poor but from the bureaucrats running the 168 programs," he wrote. A poverty worker confided to him, "I have no illusion, Senator, I'm in poverty for the money."

In fiscal 1977, these programs will cost the taxpayers $31 billion," he said. "Despite the expenditure, 36 million Americans still live in poverty, and the number is increasing." The senator's remedy is direct distribution of $11 billion of the $21 billion to the poor, so that every poor family in America would receive at least the "poverty level" amount of assistance.

In addition to poverty, Ribicoff's book discusses the problems of housing, bureaucracy, education and the economy. Education is a particular concern of the Connecticut Democrat.

"We need to recognize the fact that our present efforts to desegregate our schools are failing and will continue to fail. In city after city, we have integrated our schools only to find that the entire city has become segregated. Washington's 94 per cent black central-city school population is only the harbinger of things to come in public education," he said.

Ribicoff claims President Nixon is leading the way toward total racial apartheid in this country. He says the President "signaled to the country an officially sanctioned retreat to the separate-but-equal school doctrine discredited by the Supreme Court in 1964."

Ribicoff recommends two 15-year plans to achieve integrated education. The first plan is to give every metropolitan school a percentage of minority-group pupils equal to at least half the percentage of minority-group pupils in the whole metropolitan area.

The second plan would provide federal funds for education in suburbs providing needed low and moderate-income housing. In those communities people could expect to find "a reasonable amount of economic and racial integration." "If people moving there don't like it, let them live somewhere else—so long as it's an area getting federal assistance," he said.

He says that Democratic presidential candidates, Sens. Hubert Humphrey and Henry Jackson changed their positions and opposed Ribicoff's education proposal in February, "in the face of pressure from Governor George Wallace in the primaries."

'Harmless Duo' Meant No Evil

TEBERAN (AP) — Two credit arrested with pistols concealed in their shoes as they were about to board a plane to Afghanistan Monday did not intend a hijacking and will be released shortly, police said today.

A police statement said the pair "had no intention to hijack the Iran Air plane" and "were not aware of Iranian regulations regarding possession of arms."

The two appeared apprehensive as they were about to board the plane and were searched. In compartments in the soles of their heavy shoes were pistols disassembled down into 13 parts. Silencers were hidden in the crotches of their trousers.

Coventry Resident Nabbed in Protest

MANCHESTER, Conn. (AP) — In conjunction with anti-Vietnam veterans who has been active in the anti-war movement has been charged with possession of a training grenade state police say he was carrying toward New London where Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was to speak.

Jerome E. Jacobson Jr., 26, a University of Connecticut junior in Vietnam in 1969 and 1970. Security was tight at a hearing Friday on a charge academy and Agnew's appearance was without incident. He arrived by helicopter from an undisclosed airfield at 9:20 a.m., about 15 minutes late, and "the same explosive power as a real grenade except it viewed the cadets, gave his speech and attended a private reception. He left by helicopter at 1:35 p.m."

However, a spokesman for a veteran's anti-war organization said the device was harmless and that the group planned to use it in a demonstration. State police said they acted on a tip and intercepted Jacobson in Mansfield. They said he was driving toward Coast Guard Academy where Agnew spoke at commencement exercises. Mansfield is 35 miles north of New London, site of the academy.

Jacobson was carrying a plastic-coated grenade used by the military for training purposes, said police Sgt. Robert Rasmussen. Jack Smith of New Haven, Connecticut coordinator of Vietnam Veterans Against the War, said the police version "obviously is a complete distortion."

Smith said the state police "obviously are trying to discredit and blunt the efforts of antiwar groups to protect the administration's policy." He said his group planned to use the training grenade at an antiwar demonstration organized by the group.

South Windsor Sign Protests Town Plan To Take Sewer Easement

An eye-catching sign on a yard fence at 898 Benedict Dr. reads, "Please let my children have their yard." It was placed there by the owners of the property, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Toomey, to call attention to what the couple feels is an "unjust" request for use of their property by the town of South Windsor.

The Avery Heights section of town where the couple lives has recently been the scene of extensive sewer line installation and after having gone through more than three months of noise, dust, detours, and aggravation, a portion of the couple's property is being sought for additional sewer line work.

According to Mrs. Toomey, she and her husband received a letter from the Town Attorney, Thomas Demma, stating that it was necessary for the town to secure easement through the couple's property. She said this would require the digging of a 20-foot deep, 20-foot wide trench through the length of her property in order that the town might install a sewer pipe line to flow sewage from the Diane Dr. section to the Avery St. trunk line.

Also included in the easement request are the Toomeys' neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jalet of 10 Peach Tree Ln. The Toomeys have two small children living in their home and Mrs. Jalet is expecting another.

"We have our share of aggravation," both Mrs. Jalet and Mrs. Toomey said and "We don't need anymore, especially when there are possible other routes that can be taken than through homeowners' property."

Mrs. Jalet said she and her husband also received a letter from Atty Demma noting that no additional buildings could be placed on the part of the property which harbors the sewer line. She said this did not present any real problem to her because the section being sought was to the rear of the property. However, Mrs. Toomey felt differently about the trench going through the length of her property. "It will destroy trees that have grown, the fence erected in order that our dog might have the freedom to run on the large lot and will not allow any addition to the home which we had hoped to build and it will also present a hazardous situation for the children during the digging and installing period," she said. The town would reimburse the couple for the land use per running foot at $1.20 per foot, but the Jalets and Toomeys feel retention of their land is a matter of homeowners' rights and a matter of principle.

We feel there are alternate routes that can be taken, the women said, namely through the woods to the rear of Avery Heights; down Diane Dr. to the Kelly Rd. main line; through property owned by the Avery Heights Homeowners Association which will have a honorary vice chairman — Ross McParren of Marlborough.
