

Hirohito Invited To Visit

TOKYO (AP) — President Nixon has invited Emperor Hirohito to visit the United States, presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger announced today as his weekend visit to mend relations between the Nixon administration and Japan drew to a close.

Kissinger told a news conference he delivered the invitation to Prime Minister Eisaku Sato Saturday. Sato said "an appropriate time would be worked out through normal diplomatic channels" for the visit.

No Japanese emperor has ever paid an official visit to the United States. However, Hirohito made a brief stop in Alaska last October when he visited Europe, and President Nixon flew to Anchorage to greet him.

Foreign Minister Takeo Fukuda reported Kissinger during a three-hour breakfast meeting with him Sunday admitted that Washington made mistakes in its dealings with Japan last year and promised to spare the Japanese any more "Nixon shocks."

The "Nixon shocks," as the Japanese call them, were the President's failure to consult Sato before reversing his China policy and announcing he would visit Communist China, and the imposition without warning of the 10 per cent surcharge on imports, a measure designed primarily to reduce imports from Japan.

Fukuda said Kissinger, after admitting his government should have worked more closely with the Japanese, promised that Washington would consult Tokyo in advance on future moves toward China and on economic measures affecting Japan.

Kissinger was said to have shown less interest in a proposal for a bilateral agreement to anticipate future sources of friction in U.S.-Japanese economic relations.

Clubs May Omit Blacks, Court Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today upheld the right of private clubs to exclude Negroes.

The 6 to 3 decision was delivered by freshman Justice William H. Rehnquist. It went against a black brought as a guest to the Moose Lodge in Harrisburg, Pa.

The black, Leroy Irvin, the majority leader of the Pennsylvania House, contended that since the club held a liquor license from the state it could not exclude blacks as members or as guests.

Today's decision dealt directly with the exclusion of blacks as guests and not with their exclusion as members. Rehnquist said Irvin could not challenge the Lodge's all-white

Mills Forecasts a Deficit In McGovern Delegate Try

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Sen. George McGovern started his campaign for New York's 27th delegates today amid a prediction by Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., that he would fall short of the total delegates needed for the Democratic nomination for president.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, meanwhile, claimed that McGovern, now within apparent reach of the nomination, was considering withdrawing from the race as recently as the Wisconsin primary on April 4.

Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien said the Nixon administration was ducking the issue by not releasing the names of major financial contributors who gave to the Nixon campaign prior to April 7. "There's a moral obligation to release them," he said.

McGovern picked up 30 additional delegates votes over the weekend for a total of 98 1/2 out of 1,509 he would need to clinch the nomination at the party convention in Miami Beach next month. He hopes to get at least 200 of the 276 New York delegates in that state's primary on June 20, and expects to have 1,300 first ballot votes by convention time.

McGovern plans to spend six of the remaining eight days before the primary campaigning in New York. Coretta King, widow of slain civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., was to accompany McGovern on a campaign swing into Harlem today.

Rep. Mills predicted the Democratic convention would be deadlocked and could turn to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., as the candidate for president. In that case, Mills said he might consider running for vice president on a Kennedy ticket. Kennedy has said he is not a candidate.

"I don't see Sen. McGovern with sufficient votes to win on a campaign swing into Harlem today."

'50 Years Go Very Fast,' Lunt Laments to Fontanne

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Our marriage for 50 years has been glorious," stage star Alfred Lunt told the stellar audience, adding with a twinkle: "Fifty years goes very fast. Try it—you'll like it."

The occasion was a rare public appearance for Lunt and his wife and longtime costar, Lynn Fontanne, who came here from their Gonesse Depot, Wis., farm to accept the entertainment world's tribute for their golden wedding anniversary. They were stars of a dinner Sunday night given by the American National Theater and Academy, which awarded them the first National Artists award of the United States of America.

Except for a few television appearances, the Lunts have been inactive since 1958 when they toured in "The Visit," 28th of their costarring plays.

Upon their appearance at the Beverly Hilton dinner, they seemed to bear the weight of their years—generally listed in Boost in Benefits....

But How To Pay?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee meets today to decide how to raise the money to pay for Social Security increases it approved for 27 million persons.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said the decisions on the higher taxes needed to finance the benefits would wrap up the committee's work on the massive Social Security-welfare reform bill.

However, the committee's staff is expected to take an estimated two weeks to draft the legislation before it is ready for floor debate.

The panel last week voted to include a 10 per cent across-the-board boost in Social Security in the bill after rejecting a 20 per cent boost on a 7-7 tie vote.

But Long, who favored 20 per cent, said that 64 senators now support the higher percentage, and it is almost certain to be raised when the bill reaches the floor.

Chances appear good that a 20 per cent hike in benefits will be in the final bill sent to President Nixon since Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., who will head the House conferees, has urged that figure.

Nixon has recommended that Congress limit the hike to 5 per cent.

The Senate committee's version of the legislation includes many Social Security improvements besides the across-the-board increase.

For the first time, it calls for annual cost-of-living raises in payments if the price index advances 3 per cent a year.

In addition, there are special new benefits for widows, persons who work beyond age 65, the disabled, college students and many others.

Under present law, the maximum Social Security tax for a worker is $488.00, obtained by multiplying the 5.2 per cent rate times the $9,000 wage base.

This is scheduled to go up to $508.50 next year when the base will remain at $9,000 but the rate will advance to 5.65 per cent.

The amount paid by the worker is matched by his employer.

The pending bill, as it passed the House last year, would boost the top tax in 1973 to $320.80. It would do this by raising to $10,300 the amount of annual earnings subject to tax, although the rate would be increased only to 5.4 per cent instead of the 5.65 per cent provided by the present law.

Mills, in proposing that the general benefit increase be 20 per cent, had recommended that the taxable wage base be lifted to $12,000.

However, Finance Committee experts said that the decision to leave the across-the-board boost at 10 per cent probably would mean that the wage base would not have to go as high as $12,000.

Top Court Says State Can Vote Under '71 Remap

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only by a novel rejection of a rupture effect of a last-minute political fairness principle, he introduction of an as yet un-counts equally. The case is an outgrowth of Supreme Court decisions that legislative districts must be drawn so they have equal numbers of people, thereby assuring every voter that his vote counts equally.

A panel of three federal judges in Hartford declared the plan unconstitutional March 30. They found it contained "unjustified deviations from equality of population" of Senate and House districts and that many districts had been drawn with "political balance" in mind.

Gaffney won the votes of seven of the nine justices to stay—block—the effects of that ruling. Justices Potter Stewart and William O. Douglas dissented. The majority comprised Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices William J. Brennan Jr., Byron R. White, Harry A. Blackmun, Thurgood Marshall, Lewis F. Powell Jr., and William H. Rehnquist.

The majority simply said the application for a stay, presented initially to Marshall on May 27, had been granted. Stewart, in dissent, said only that he would have denied the application. Douglas, in a dissenting opinion, said the district court had acted "well within the remedial powers of an equity court."

Still on file with the Supreme Court is an appeal by Gaffney to review the district court's decision. Action on the appeal, put to the justices May 11, is unlikely before next fall. On May 20, the court declined to speed its consideration.

Gaffney's motion asked Marshall, who has jurisdiction over courts in Connecticut, to stay—suspend—the district court's decision. The invalidated plan would be used while the appeal was being considered.

"A stay will enable Connecticut to hold its 1972 election under a tight equal population plan which has a deviation of only 79 people in the most deviant district, which has no racial or partisan gerrymandering, and which was nullified

Israeli Minister Resigns Post

JERUSALEM (AP) - Justice Minister Yosef Shiloah has resigned in the wake of a stormy controversy involving a cabinet member's resignation. Shiloah, a close advisor of Premier Golda Meir, handed in his resignation at a cabinet meeting Sunday. The justice minister gave no public explanation for the resignation but observers said he apparently felt a loss of public confidence over his handling of an oil scandal that rocked the country for months. Shiloah had opposed the formation of a public commission of inquiry into alleged mismanagement of Israeli oil fields on the Sinai Peninsula, but gave in to public pressure. Then a second storm arose when the government was presented with the inquiry's findings, amounting to more than $100,000. The fees were reportedly fixed by the justice minister.

"THE WAY I HEARD IT"
by John Gruber
Summer is nearly here and people usually figure this season as a time of musical delirium. Nevertheless there are some nice summer concerts available both at Hart College and the University of Connecticut. The Hart programs will be heard in a program of sonatas for violin and piano, July 16th. Most popular of these are violin solos with piano accompaniment. This is not the case; both parts are of equal importance. In fact Oscar Franck titled his big effort in this field "Sonata for Piano and Violin". Instead of the more customary order of the instruments, Franck put the piano part first. The violin part is in the key of G major and is a fine example of the style of the 19th century, when this style of writing reached its climax. The instrumentation, in the case you don't know it, is piano, violin, viola, and cello. The violoncello, Robert Coleman, violinist, Robert Coleman, violinist, and Bruno DiCocco, 'cello, will be the string players for all four concerts. A different pianist will appear each time, which adds interest to the series. On June 26th it will be Arthur Basan; July 6th Joseph Villa; July 13th Michael Oshbaum; and July 20th Leonard Seiber. Mr. Seiber is the only one with whose playing I am familiar and I have always enjoyed him. He is on the UConn faculty as a piano teacher. These quartets are, in effect, small symphonies. In the strings, of course, while the piano fills in the background with brass, woodwinds and percussion. This is not to infer that the piano part is a reduction from a symphonic score, but only that the piano fleshes out the string parts, and provides added tone color. These quartets will be featured on the second half of the program. During the first half the string players will offer string trios, without the piano. This music can be glorious if it comes from the rococo period, or quite piquant if it comes from the 20th century. Now for the Hart Chamber Music Festival, comprising eight concerts on Sunday evenings. Admission is $2 per concert, or if you sign up for the series of eight you pay only $12 in all. They start June 26th at 8:30 p.m. The first features the Hart Trio, comprising Raymond Hanson, piano, Renato Bonacini, violin, and Paul Olefsky, cello. Like the piano quartets, the best of these come from the Romantic era; Beethoven, Brahms, and Tchaikovsky have each written memorable trios. July 8th the program will be devoted to the Hart String Quartet. Renato Bonacini is first violinist, Bernard Lurie is second violinist, Robert Glaser plays viola, and Paul Olefsky the 'cello. String quartet music is presumably the optimum of pure music, but I find it something like the cliché, a little colorless. Nevertheless string players out it up. I suppose that as a pianist I will never get the kick out of it that I should. Raymond Hanson and Michael Mitshakoff will be heard in a program of sonatas for violin and piano, July 16th. Most popular of these are violin solos with piano accompaniment. DO NOT RELAX AFTER DOUBLE CONTRACT BRIDGE IS A game of doubles. You must allow or persuade the opponents to stick to their necks out, and then you must apply a brisk touch of the ax. Having done so, don't relax: The contract may not be self-defeating.

West opened the king of hearts and continued with the king of clubs, forcing South to ruff the third round. Declarer promptly led the ace of spades to find out if his ears had told him the truth. East's discard of a low club continued the bid.

What do you say? Answer: Bid two hearts. You have only 3 points in high cards, but the void in spades is worth 3 additional points.

Police Report Hebron School Count Jumps by 88

Harold Greenbaum, 46, of 89 Shallowbrook Lane, and Joseph Kopman, 50, of 104 Ludlow Rd., were arrested by Manchester police yesterday morning on charges of breach of peace.

Police said the charges resulted from an alleged argument and fight. They were both released on their written promises to appear in court June 28.

Three Manchester juveniles, unidentified because of their ages (about 14) have been referred to juvenile authorities after being charged in connection with last week's break and entry into a building at Globe Hollow swimming area.

A small amount of candy and ice cream was taken in the break, police said.

Motor vehicle arrests made over the weekend included:

Ronald H. Theriault, 39, of Center St., Andover, charged Saturday with failure to obey traffic control signal on E. Middle Tpke. Court date is June 19.

Walter G. McCallister, 24, of 6 Morse Rd., charged Sunday with reckless driving on Center St. Court date is June 20.

Stephen R. Lauretti, 21, of 8 Adams St., charged Sunday with reckless driving, after his car struck a parked vehicle on Hartford Rd. Court date is July 10.

Anthony J. McCudden, 51, of 28 Westminster Rd., charged Sunday with evading responsibility, after his car allegedly was in collision at W. Middle Tpke, near Downey Dr., with a car driven by Marie Duda of Hartford. Court date is July 10.

Lewis R. Southbridge, 64, of 8 Hendee Rd., charged Saturday with evading responsibility, after his car allegedly went off Tolland Tpke, and struck a tree. Court date is June 26.

Frank R. Boynton, 62, of 561 Woodbridge St., charged Sunday with failure to obey stop sign at Woodbridge and Jerd St., in connection with an accident involving his car and a car operated by Thomas F. Landers of 30 Bretton Rd. Court date is June 26.

Gilford C. Beaulieu, 19, of 125 Loomis St., charged Sunday with obstructing a front seat, after his pickup truck went off Main St. near Hilliard St., and struck a utility pole. Police said there were four people in the cab of the truck. Court date is June 26.

Vandalism reported over the weekend included eggs thrown at a Belmont St. house and cars damaged on W. Middle Tpke, and Broad St.

Sleeping pills were stolen from a home on Ridge St. over the weekend.

A 1960 bicycle was taken from Manchester Cycle Shop, W. Center St., Saturday.

A car owned by Robert Doggart of 41 West St. was stolen Saturday night.

An air conditioner was taken in a weekend break into town recreation department offices of Garden Grove Dr.

Two cases of cigarettes were stolen by an unidentified man at First National store, 227 E. Center St., Saturday.

Part of its lagging condition has seen its unemployment figures stay high — some 8 per cent in Michigan, or two points above the national average.
 Yet, with so many signs negative, Detroit's profits have been handsome. There have, as a result, been some voluntary price cuts. Federal authorities may want more, the next time they are consulted.
 Embarrassing as this unexpected prosperity is proving, there are some valid, tangible explanations for it.
 For one thing, the removal of the federal excise tax seems to have encouraged buyers to move up a notch in the price range of the cars they purchase, which means more profit per sale for Detroit.
 For another thing the auto makers themselves, alerted to the nation's economic situation well before President Nixon turned to price and wage controls, set out to protect themselves against bad times by cutting their own costs, which they did by limiting the amount of retooling involved in getting out their new models, by being slow in adding to their payrolls, and by balancing their use of the people already on their payrolls.

In other words, the auto makers improved their own efficiency, as a protection against expected hard times. The result, when the times proved not quite hard after all, was that they had widened their own profit margins.
 All this experience points toward a kind of barney, if we can get this efficient when we are afraid of bad times, can't we decide to be equally efficient when we happen to be expecting good times? If tight management, design control, and avoidance of over-production can work so well they can make possible both increased profits for the industry and lower prices for the consumer, why don't we try it more often?

The heresy involved in this idea, of course, lies in the suggestion that we can abandon our typically American theory of perpetual growth, under which the automobile industry is not supposed to be succeeding unless it sells, each year, at least half a million more cars than it sold the year before. Still, the heresy may not only be inescapable, at some not too distant point in our evolving economy of plenty, but pleasant.

The fact that the town needs the property in order to be able to continue its land-fill 30 or more years creates a special market for the property.
 The town's need, in other words, increases the value of the Denison property, which might not even find any immediate buyer at all otherwise, up to figures which, to watchdogs of the town treasury, seem exorbitant.
 But what the town, with its need in this particular location, can do for the Denison is balanced by what this property can do for the town.
 Not only could the acquisition of this property solve the town's disposal problem for a period of 30 years, and solve it much more cheaply than any possible alternative site or method, but it would also increase tax revenues, at the eventual end of the filling in process, in possession of what would have become valuable real estate suitable for any use the entrepreneurs and the planners of that day might select.
 Each party to this proposed transaction, then, has a great deal to gain if the deal can be made, and each party has a great deal to lose if it is not made.
 Human and political nature being what it is, it is the Denisonians who appreciate most sharply the benefit possible for the town, but ordinary taxpayers who focus criticism, tinged with envy, on what the town would be doing for the Denisonians.
 In such a situation, for either side to try to be too tough a bargainer with the other does not make sense. Neither can realize anything without the other. Rather than tough bargaining there should be, perhaps, a touch of soft bargaining, in which, in return for assurance that the town means prompt and unequivocal business, the Denisonians might yield some token reduction in their price.
 We cannot impose upon the Denisonians what we think they should do, but we can urge the town Board of Directors to decide to have the courage to move ahead and pay a substantial present price for the property. The town cannot lose.

Detroit's Surprise Profit
 Both the Wall Street Journal and Detroit seem somewhat puzzled by the fact that the auto makers have been making good profits under conditions which would not normally be taken as encouraging.
 The big three auto makers, for instance, have been selling only 8,000,000 cars in a year when they had geared themselves to sell 9,000,000.
 With output running behind what would have been the normal schedule, the auto industry has actually been growing at a slower rate than the rest of the American economy.

 Nature Study by Sylvia Otton

Inside Report

Open Forum
 A New Poland

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WARSAW—Sweeping economic changes being made here by party leader Edward Gierek, a pragmatic Communist who used to toil in the coal mines of France, provide an essential backdrop for understanding the irresistible move toward detente with the West.
 Rejectionist pressure from Poland and the Soviet Union's entire Eastern European empire is now focused on Moscow, reinforcing the Kremlin's own decision to move toward a new form of "partnership" with the U.S. That pressure is rooted in one hard fact: Political stability in Central Europe and between Moscow and Washington must be established before serious economic improvements can be made.
 Gierek came to power as the result of a threatened civil war in December of 1970 over price hikes on meat and other consumer goods in drastic short supply. He is now convinced that higher standards of living are the critical margin of safety for avoiding a new round of economic civil war with ominous political overtones.
 That's why the Moscow summit between President Nixon and Soviet party chief Leonid Brezhnev was greeted here with an uncommittal listless exultation. That's why Richard Nixon is being enshrined by Polish apparatchiki as America's greatest President, fully deserving a second term. Mr. Nixon is seen here not only as the chief Western architect of detente but the only American capable of building on the Moscow summit during the next four years.
 For Gierek, those next four years are crucial. He is now decentralizing major parts of the country's wage structure, giving local plant managers near autonomy. To go along with friends and enemies.
 Needless to say, the ardent McGovernites are going to have equally ardent but unseen allies on the Republican side during the political days ahead. Just as the Democrats did in 1964 the Republicans now will do their utmost to nail George McGovern to radicalism.
 What this adds up to will be the first real test of the suitability of George McGovern for the White House. Senator Goldwater was neither skilful enough or hating enough as a politician to see and act so painful as that feeling of inevitable alliance of his best friends and his political enemies. In truth, he failed, not because he was a radical, but because he was a poor politician who was too politically inept to avoid being manipulated by friends and enemies.
 If Mr. McGovern can avoid the same trap he will be a shrewder, tougher, and abler politician than was Mr. Goldwater. So far we know that he is a thoughtful, decent, honest and likable man with all the good virtues of the nice guy from the Middle West. But how tough is he? Can he outmaneuver that most dangerous of all combinations—his earnest friends and his happy enemies?
 —CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

land supplies labor, some materials and a guaranteed Polish market. Flat supplies management, liceases and production technology.
 Gierek's long-range plan: To weed Western technology and production to Eastern labor and consumption. To work with the U.S. he needs long-range credit from the Export-Import bank, a matter discussed but not resolved during Mr. Nixon's visit here last week.
 The political dangers of this unprecedented opening to the West are obvious. More than 1 million Poles have crossed into comparatively prosperous East Germany since the border was opened in January, but that's only a starter. With a slight easing of Polish tourism to the West, the Poles are clamoring to go. What they see will act as an electrifying catalyst for more consumer demands in their own country.
 Accordingly, even if Gierek's soaring economic blueprint can be made to work by the cumbersome middle-level party bureaucracy, expectations will be high. That could well mean pent, fed by the Washington-Moscow experts.
 That's why Western experts here predict an immediate ideological lightning to stamp out political ferment and warn of intellectual disorders. The ideology is obvious. Genuine dedication to improved standards of living and interlocking relationships with the capitalist West. Gierek and his fellow East Europeans may start a backfire they cannot contain.

I CAN'T BELIEVE HE ATE THE WHOLE THING!

A Thought for Today
 Sponsored by the Manchester Council of Churches
 For this week, I suggest we deal with something every one of us needs: HOPE. Each of us has known the experience of "running out of hope." Nothing is so painful as that feeling of hopelessness. The church, or hub of God's servants, should be one channel by which our tired life is infused with a power and purpose which comes from God.
 My favorite benediction is from Romans 15 (verse 13):
 AND MAY THE GOD OF HOPE FILL YOU WITH ALL JOY AND PEACE BY YOUR FAITH IN HIM; UNTIL, BY THE POWER OF HIS HOLY SPIRIT YOU OVERFLOW WITH HOPE.

Election Seen Only Way To Solve Budget Split

Residents attending tonight's referendum seeking an additional $200,000 cut in the education budget already cut $401,890 by the finance board. Voters are expected to vote on the referendum at 7:30 in the Bykes School cafeteria.
 The Board of Finance will ask approval of the referendum vote on the original $273,826 budget approved at the first annual town meeting, later to be rejected at the petitioned referendum, and the finance board's "compromise" budget of $5,166,283, overwhelmingly opposed at the June 3 public hearing.
 The finance board sees the referendum as the fastest, surest way to encourage collaboration and consultation with the school budget struggle which has threatened the language of tax bills. No vote on the referendum will only delay their action on the budget.
 First Selectman Erwin Bloch, Lucas and Selectman Charles Luce have joined with finance board chairman Stewart Jolin to urge approval of the referendum. School board member Robert Dean, leader of the surmounting strong fight to reduce the original budget, has also urged voters to support the referendum.
 Jolin fears approval of a budget at tonight's meeting will only trigger a petition for a referendum which will only delay their action on the budget.
 If the referendum is approved, it will be scheduled for June 20 from noon until 8 p.m. at the Hilda Memorial gym, completing the second round of budget activity.
 The stormy history of the budget year includes a 10 per cent approval of the original $2,273,823 budget at the annual town meeting the beginning of the year; a subsequently petitioned.

Non-Faculty Contracts Ready for Ratification

The Board of Education will be asked to ratify contracts of the non-faculty personnel of the Vernon school system, at its meeting to be held tonight at 7:30 in the Bykes School cafeteria.
 The contracts to be considered tonight are those of maintenance, janitorial and security staff. The conditions are in the second year of a two-year union contract therefore no negotiations were required.
 The board will also consider a request, in the form of a petition, from students in the upper grades for early closing in the final days of school.
 Martin Pagan, principal of the high school will report on the student lounge at that school and also will discuss the possibility of allowing seniors, who have a last period study hall, to be dismissed early.
 An evaluation of the reading program in the school system will be explained by Dr. Robert

Chisox Add Home Run In Sweep Against Milwaukee Lee Not Happy In Relief Work

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Freehan's ninth-inning home run was the fastest way to get around on a baseball field. And the Chicago White Sox have never questioned that axiom.

Always a speed-oriented ball club, the Sox have, however, made an important discovery this season. They're adding the home-run trot to their running repertoire and found that you can make it home a lot more leisurely that way.

The Sox socked half a dozen home runs Sunday en route to a 4-1 sweep of Milwaukee.

Chicago drew a walk, the first in the American League since the West Division. The Athletics of Detroit were the only team to get a home run in the 19th hole.

Carlo May and Bill Melton shared another run off the lead in the sixth and then singles by Kelly and May sandwiched around a stolen base tied it in the seventh.

In the ninth, George Scott's two-base throwing error on an attempted sacrifice put the Sox in business and May's bases-loaded single—his fifth hit of the day—delivered the winning run.

TIGERS — A'S
Freehan cut short an Oakland rally with a head-up defensive play in the top of the ninth inning, then pounded Ken Holtzman's first pitch for a leadoff home in the bottom half of the inning to move Detroit past the Twins.

Freehan pitched Ollie Brown Cleveland.

BOSTON (AP)—Bill Lee still doesn't like relief pitching.

"It's a bummer," he says. "The starters make all the dough."

But whether he likes it or not, Lee seems stuck for a while right where he is as the Boston Red Sox count on to protect a lead in the late innings.

Manager Eddie Koekoek called him to protect a one-run lead in the seventh against the California Angels on Sunday and Lee couldn't do much better. He retired all eight men he faced as the Red Sox dropped the Angels 4-1, giving them the series two games to one after winning 6-3 on Friday night and losing Saturday 7-3.

Lee, who is considered just a little bit of a lefty, "I'm the first to admit I might be a little bit crazy," picked up this third save of the year in protecting Danny Siebert's sixth victory against Baltimore.

"I think they would have a salary paid from what got up with the bases loaded and strike out. Maybe if I had had 10 or 15 swings before I was called in, I might have fouted one game, but get a reliever out of the pool."

Lee, who complained about being a short relief man after 4-4.

Kansas City Pitcher Blanks Yankees, 1-0 Drago Too Tough on Left-handers

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Dick Drago, Kansas City's powerful right-hander, limited the predominantly left-handed lineup of the New York Yankees to five hits Sunday en route to a 1-0 victory on a mixture of speed and curves.

"A lot of lefties can be difficult," Drago said. "I've got some strikeouts on it the best way you can, curve, but I set 'em up with no fastballs, why would you need them? I got some help from the wind, so I could change them."

After the seventh, when Otis singled in Lou Piniella, Drago said, "I started popping the ball like I was doing early. I didn't quit throwing break-balls, but I was going to the American team hit the hard stuff," he said. "When you get a run it makes you tougher; you get stronger."

Drago got off to a shaky start. Horace Clark led off the game with a single and Johnny Mize followed with a walk. The first Drago had issued in 32 innings. The fire died down when Bobby Murcer and Roy White tied out on a mixture of speed and curves. "I was loose in the first," Drago said. "I was surprised I've gone out there two many times in this early."

"You just have to get out of there," Drago said. "I'm not a pitcher. I've got some strikeouts on it the best way you can, curve, but I set 'em up with no fastballs, why would you need them? I got some help from the wind, so I could change them."

Blast Sparks Red Sox Against California Fisk Just Wanted Base Hit And Wound Up with Homer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Carlton Fisk said he was just trying to hit a long ball, Eddie Rodriguez doesn't believe him. Fisk's ninth-inning home run off a Fisher knuckle ball Sunday gave the Red Sox a 2-1 victory over the California Angels in a game they eventually won 4-1.

"If you try to hit the long ball you're in trouble," said the 26-year-old Fisk, who is in his first full season in the major leagues. "I think the best thing to do, in this ball game, is to just try to hit the ball hard."

Which is exactly what Fisk did. His fifth home run of the season went on a line through a cross-wing into the center field bleachers almost 400 feet away. He was asked if he thought he could hit a knuckle ball that far.

"You don't think you can hit anybody's ball into the center field bleachers until you do it," Fisk said. "I was just trying to hit the ball hard."

One Strike Not Out With Baseball Fans

NEW YORK (NEA) — Baseball did not slit its throat during the recent players' strike, as many had thought.

On one Sunday afternoon against San Francisco, for example, the Philadelphia Phillies telecast a 59 per cent rating. One consideration that is a UHF station, one that rates five other local stations, well, you reason that all those come as a strong endorsement of morbid interest in watching baseball die.

Attendance Good
Attendance for the Texas Rangers is up from last season when they were in Washington. (This is not shocking, of course, since they were the only team in the country to have a losing record.)

It's up in Pittsburgh, which has carry-over enthusiasm from last season's pennant-winning team.

The season started 10 days late, on April 13, and things were shaky at the ball parks. There were less than 4,000 people for the Kansas City and Los Angeles (another team with a good start) and Milwaukee (still a good baseball town, despite what carportagers say).

It's slightly down at Shea Stadium, where great interest has been generated by the 11-game winning streak in mid-May and the arrival of Willie Mays in the home opener.

It was impossible, of course, to determine what the season would bring in fan interest. Now, after six weeks, there is a better indication, though it is still much too early to make any definite determination.

Sport Not Dead
However, two things seem apparent. One, baseball is not dead. Two, a winner does not draw as well as he used to.

Attendance is up for 12 teams, as opposed to 1971 when only six teams showed attendance increases. There is an overall rise of about two per cent.

The figures are derived from "parallel" dates. That is, figures were compiled by dropping the equivalent number of opening season dates of last season that were canceled this season. Now comparisons, as even schoolboys are instructed, are odious. But we have little else to go on.

And what we find is that teams like Cleveland, Philadelphia, Montreal, the Chicago White Sox, Houston and San Diego, all of whom got away from good starts in the pennant race, were showing increases in

Move into First Place in N.L. West Big Red Machine Effective Both at Home and on Road

NEW YORK (AP) — There's no place like home when you're playing so well. The Cincinnati Reds, who won their eighth victory in the series Sunday, didn't matter where you play.

"It doesn't really explain our recent success on the road," says Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson. "We've been playing so well that we'd win anywhere, home or away."

He's not kidding. The Reds showed a fancy 11-1 record in their just-completed trip. The Cincinnati Reds scored 24 runs in the six games of the road trip. They won five of the six games, including the final game of the trip, a 4-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Sunday.

The Pirates rode Roberto Clement's two-run homer in the seventh to victory over the Dodgers, who lost their third game in the last five.

Clement's pop broke a 4-4 tie, then the star right fielder singled home the Pirates' final run in the ninth. Pittsburgh overcame three Los Angeles homers, including inside-the-park shots by Manny Mota and Willie Davis.

ASTORIA
Cesar Carlton drove in three runs, including two on a home run in a decisive three-run victory over the Houston Astros in the East by losing 4-2 to the Houston Astros in the Cincinnati Reds' fourth loss in five games.

PHILADELPHIA
Steve Carlton scattered eight hits in pitching Philadelphia over the Atlanta Braves in the winning run on a wild pitch in the fourth inning. Philadelphia broke a scoreless tie with a home run in the fifth inning, one run behind the Chicago Cubs but San Francisco 4-0 in the first game of the series Sunday before dropping the nightcap 3-1.

REDFORD
Cincinnati spanked 16 hits, scoring often and early to beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-0 on this 12-game trip. The Reds averaged almost seven runs a game.

Donohue Close Second in Ontario Race

ONTARIO, AP — Some four years ago Donohue and his car owner Roger Penske left the Can-Am road racing series in a huff, saying they wouldn't be back until they had a winner.

Well, they're back — but with a five-year-old only three laps away from the end, only to be forced almost certainly will cause the race to be abandoned.

The McLaren won Sunday's 1972 opener at Mosport Park. The Ontario, old-timer Denis Hulme brought home the lead car just as he has in the previous three 44 races in the series' six-year history.

But Donohue, the 1972 Indy laps to the rear, was handily beaten by Francois Cevert of France and Howden Ganley of New Zealand.

Jackie Stewarts, a close friend and neighbor of world champion Jackie Stewart, was killed during the race.

Trainer for Riva Ridge Boasts Excellent Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Trained Lucien Laurin is going fishing and while he is waiting for the fish to bite he can think about the hook he has into racing's 3-year-old division.

Laurin trains Riva Ridge, the Kentucky Derby winner who scored a smashing seven-length victory in Saturday's Belmont Stakes. And he also conditions three other yearlings called Upper Case, Spanish Riddle and Gull.

Three quarters has scored a total of 18 victories, four seconds and two thirds in 32 starts, accounting for eight stakes trials in the 104-year history of 400 to boost his bank roll to $802,248.

"He's a wonder horse, that's what he is," Laurin said. Kathy Ahern Wins PGA Ladies Title

BUTTON, Mass. (AP)—Kathy Ahern, a 25-year-old blonde who plays golf for a living, putted happily all the way to the bank today as she won the 1972 U.S. Women's Open.

She won the Southgate Open at Pleasant Valley Country Club on the first round with a 72-hole score of 183.

"I've been averaging about 35 putts a round, but only needed 27 out there today," she said after collecting a check for $7,500 for her six-stroke victory over local favorite Janis Block.

A native of Pittsburgh, Kathy grew up in Texas, starting to play golf at the age of five. She played in her first tournament at 11, won the U.S. Women's Amateur and turned pro in 1967.

J.C. Gets Little Testy About Nephew Talk

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — J.C. Snead gets a little testy when you bring up the fact that he's the nephew of veteran golfer great Sam Snead.

The subject came up again Sunday after J.C. won the $30,000 first prize in the 1972 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

"I don't care what they say," J.C. snapped. "I've beat everybody who was here." That he did. Snead won 26 times, with 42 wins in 1971 and 1972.

"It's bad to bogey the last hole when it's for first or second place," J.C. said. "I leaves a bad taste in your mouth. You just yourself like Chi Chi gave me the tournament."

Rodriguez was disappointed that he chipped at the 18th hole. He had a 3-putt bogey on the 18th hole. He had a 3-putt bogey on the 18th hole. He had a 3-putt bogey on the 18th hole.
