

Heat Blamed In Riot

BOSTON (AP) — Police blame "the heat and too much beer drinking" for a rock-throwing rampage involving an estimated 2,000 which broke out following a Spanish-speaking festival here.

Nineteen persons were reported injured and at least 25 persons were arrested in the Sunday night disturbance, police said. Of the injured, six were policemen, including one who suffered a broken arm when struck by a tire iron.

Two injured persons were hospitalized in critical condition. Police said numerous other persons suffered minor injuries mainly from thrown rocks.

The disturbance broke out in a wide area of the Roxbury and South End sections following the festival, which was attended by 8,000 to 10,000 persons.

A police car and a cab were overturned and set on fire. A tavern and a branch City Hall were set on fire with fire bombs, but the flames were brought under control quickly, police said.

Police said the disturbance broke out about 7 p.m. when two factions attending the second day of a two-day festival marking Puerto Rican Independence Day engaged in a fist fight.

Approximately 75 police officers, some with dogs, were called to quell the disturbance, but the outbreaks of rock throwing, looting and fire bombing continued out of control until about 10:30 p.m., police said.

Scattered incidents were reported into the early morning hours. The festival, sponsored by the city in Blackstone Park in the South End, concluded an uneventful day of parades.

Police said firemen were pelted with rocks as they answered calls. One of the injured taken to Boston City Hospital was a fireman.

Some of the "new politicians" showed they were as good at backroom conniving, trading principle for tactical advantage and whipping their troops as any cigar-chewing boss of the old school. The faces may have been new, but the methods were as old as the Machiavellian philosophy that the end justifies the means.

What's New in 'New Politics'?

By DON MEIKLE

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — After a week at the Democratic National Convention, you begin to wonder what's so new about the "New Politics."

Some of the "new politicians" showed they were as good at backroom conniving, trading principle for tactical advantage and whipping their troops as any cigar-chewing boss of the old school. The faces may have been new, but the methods were as old as the Machiavellian philosophy that the end justifies the means.

One of the unlikely alliances during this year of McGovern, an alliance which illustrates the similarity of the new and the old politics, was that of New Haven Town Chairman Arthur T. "The Mustache" Barberi and Rep. Irving L. Stolberg of New Haven, the "odd couple" of Connecticut politics.

Taking a page from the book of the venerable state chairman, John M. Bailey, Barberi embraced his potential foes, the politicians of the old school possibly serious challenge to his local leadership by liberals and Yale-oriented citizens of New Haven.

Barberi endorsed McGovern; Stolberg acquiesced in Barberi's continued leadership of the New Haven organization. One hand washed the other, as Stolberg was one of the loudest voices in the General Assembly in favor of a liberal abortion law. However, the word was out that McGovern did not want to be embarrassed by platform planks that might box him into positions he did not want to have to defend.

Dr. Schardt Fully Convinced McGovern Heads for Victory

By SOL R. COHEN (Herald Reporter)

One can hardly call Dr. Walter M. Schardt a "wild-eyed radical" or even "starry-eyed liberal," just two of the many labels pinned on backers of George McGovern by some of his detractors.

True, he is an idealist, but he is also a pragmatist and a realist. Witness his three years as a captain in the U.S. Medical Corps, his 24 years as a practicing ophthalmologist, and his nine years on the Manchester school board.

A backer of the South Dakota senator ever since he indicated his interest in the Democratic nomination for president,

Dr. Schardt was a Connecticut delegate to last week's convention in Miami Beach. Now back in Manchester, he is more convinced than ever that McGovern "can and will win in November."

It was his first time at a national convention and he says, "I was amazed at the enthusiasm. Everyone had a chance to participate. No one was shut off. Everyone who wanted had a chance to speak. The convention was not contrived behind the scenes. The great thing about it was that it truly exemplified 'Power to the People.'"

He acknowledges there was a split among some Democrats, "especially those formerly in the power structure," but he is quick to add, "That's what politics is all about. It's a constant change. Now, it's out of the hands of a few and into the hands of the people — and it's beautiful."

He says, "True, twenty years from now another new philosophy may emerge — the philosophy of still another power structure — and that too will be challenged. Today's change is for more participation by more people."

Dr. Schardt doesn't think the split among Connecticut's 61 delegates is serious. "I expect

Court Convicts Airport Killer

LOD, Israel (AP) — An Israeli army court convicted Japanese radical Kojo Okamoto today for his part in the Lod Airport massacre of May 30 and sentenced him to life imprisonment.

The 24-year-old defendant stood and listened impassively as the verdict of the three lieutenant colonels was read. After it was translated into Japanese, he sighed deeply.

He was found guilty of all four charges filed against him. Death is the maximum penalty for three of them, but Israel has executed but one person, Nazi war criminal Adolf Eichmann. And the prosecution asked for a life sentence.

Okamoto had pleaded guilty in court and before the trial signed a confession admitting that he and two other Japanese attacked the crowd in Israel's international airport on May 30 with machine guns and grenades, acting on behalf of a Palestinian guerrilla organization. Twenty-eight persons were killed, including the other two terrorists, and 70 were wounded.

In a statement Thursday at the end of the four-day trial, Okamoto said his organization in Japan, the United Red Army, would continue its attacks in the cause of world revolution.

The president of the court, Lt. Col. Abraham Frisch, said Okamoto's declaration was "a mixture of unrepented ideas... concerning his and his friends' frustration" with the modern world, its social structure and regimes.

He said Okamoto had taken on the massacre "willingly and in full consciousness."

"The deeds attributed to the accused have been proven beyond all reasonable doubt," the judge added. "They represent the offenses with which he has been charged. We therefore find the accused guilty of these offenses."

In the early stages of his interrogation before the trial, Okamoto asked repeatedly to be executed or to be allowed to commit suicide. The military commander for the Lod area, Maj. Gen. Rehavam Zeevi signed an agreement with Okamoto promising him the general.

Blast Damages Montreal Forum

MONTREAL (AP) — An explosion early today heavily damaged the north side of the Montreal Forum. The Rolling Stones, a British rock group, were scheduled to perform in the arena tonight.

No injuries were reported. Police said they did not know whether the explosion took place inside or outside the building, which covers an entire block and is also the home of the Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League. Authorities said the cause of the blast was not known.

A couple living on the street where the explosion occurred said, "This is definitely a bomb."

However, no police spokesman would confirm this. Mr. and Mrs. Robert McClellan said they were sitting on their front porch when they heard the blast.

McClellan said the explosion took place just in front of a truck parked at the back entrance of the Forum. The truck had brought in equipment for the rock concert.

"I went down to the sidewalk and all I could see was a cloud of smoke and glass lying all over the street," Mrs. McClellan said. "I phoned a friend down the street and she said all the windows in her apartment were broken."

Violence has occurred in other cities where the Stones have held concerts as part of their current six-week North American tour.

In San Diego, Calif., several persons were arrested June 14 when rioting broke out after holders of counterfeit tickets to a Stones' concert were turned away.

The next night, police in Tucson, Ariz., used tear gas to disperse a crowd of 200 to 300 window-breaking youths who tried to crash a concert.

Nominee Takes to the Hills Campaign Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee, flew today to the Black Hills of his native South Dakota for two weeks of rest, staff reshuffling and strategic planning for the fall campaign against President Nixon.

He left National Airport at 10:30 a.m. EDT on a chartered plane for Rapid City.

The vacation spot picked out weeks ago in anticipation of McGovern's victory in last week's Miami Beach convention is a lodge at Sylvan Lake in Custer State Park, near the gold rush town of Custer, south of famous Mount Rushmore.

The South Dakota senator will be accompanied by a small personal staff. Starting later this week, his top political advisers, financial planners, and his running mate, Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, of Missouri, will come to the lodge for conferences.

The shape of McGovern's campaign organization is largely settled.

Gary Hart, the 35-year-old Denver lawyer who managed the senator's drive for the Democratic presidential nomination, will head the organization, with George Cunningham, a McGovern aide for 17 years and now his administrative assistant, as deputy.

The three regional coordinators are expected to be Eli Segal, who managed McGovern's California campaign; Harold Himmelman, number two man in the Ohio primary; and Rick Stearns, who supervised the While Nixon was at the Western White House in California, Chairman Clark MacGregor of the Committee for the Re-election of the President and Sen. Robert Dole, GOP national chairman, took over the politicking.

Eagleton said Sunday that a McGovern administration would probably grant draft resisters amnesty on a case-by-case basis, and he added on taxes:

"I think at some time in the future, perhaps in the year '74 or so... if we are going to accomplish some of the things we must do domestically... we must have the added revenue to do it."

"THE WAY I HEARD IT"

Today I'm going to talk about modern music which modern music. Concert and opera goers find it very confusing and generally try to avoid it. Make no mistake about it, I work on a symphonic program. Right off the bat you have to know that it's not the same as the music you hear on the radio, or at least more performance of a given work.

The complexities of modern music make it impossible to evaluate or assimilate them on the same level as the music you hear on the radio, or at least more performance of a given work.

That Great Big Conjecture

At the risk of disappointing both prevalent interpretations of Candidate McGovern's acceptance speech...

And within 90 days of my inauguration every American soldier and every American prisoner will be out of the jungle and out of their cells and back home in America where they belong.

This statement is being interpreted two ways, neither of which admits what it really said.

One can be sure, however, that Senator McGovern and his writers knew precisely the importance of the particular way that sentence was constructed.

To the more reckless doves, who say they just want to pull out, period, without any conditions of any kind, the McGovern statement sounded as if it was what they want. They have been saying we can be sure that the content of our soldiers and prisoners would be "back home in America," a statement which, for this moment at least, removes the possibility that our troops would merely be moved to Thailand, as the candidate himself, in what he himself later seemed to consider an unguarded moment, had suggested earlier in the week.

While the doves may covet what they may interpret as their candidate's return to the coté, the hawks, and all those Republican campaigners who are going to specialize in trying to catch McGovern in ignominious surrender poses, are also willing to take the McGovern statement at face value. In order to attack it, they accept it as a reckless proclamation of total withdrawal in 90 days, without conditions.

Actually, despite the willingness of both doves and hawks to agree on what the candidate said, both are wrong.

They both overlook the significance of the word "and" as employed in the passage "every American soldier and every American prisoner."

The candidate promised that, but not merely either one, would be "back home in America."

Obviously, then, he has to get the prisoners on the way home before he can get the soldiers on the way home.

What this means, then, is that he will be compelled to leave soldiers on the scene until the prisoners are also leaving the scene.

This also happens to be precisely what President Nixon has been planning and promising to do.

The blunt fact is that this is all any American President in this situation would be able to do.

If Candidate McGovern had really wanted and had really dared to take a position really different from that of President Nixon, he could have said: "Within 90 days of my inauguration I will bring home every American soldier in Vietnam back home, treating the North Vietnamese to reward me by freeing the American prisoners."

That he did not choose to say that Candidate McGovern, if elected, could not attain his objective. He could and would have the power to halt the bombing on his Inaugural Day. That action might speedily lead to other developments.

But that great big "and" in the acceptance speech statement deserves more importance than it has been receiving. He had to promise to bring home both soldiers and prisoners because he knew very well he dared not and would not choose to bring home the one without the other.

The Historic Give-Away Gambit

One doesn't need to know a thing about chess in order to understand what happened in the first game at Reykjavik.

Bobby Fischer, faced with a play which required him, by all the rules in the book, to play a bunt and throw to first base, suddenly had the whimsical impulse to throw the ball to a nice looking blonde in the stands, and did.

Or Bobby Fischer, on the 20 yard line with one inch to go for a first-down, decided to use tricky signal-calling to tempt the opposition offside, and wound up losing five yards for taking too much time.

Or Bobby Fischer, confronted with an easy lay-up shot, decided it was too easy and handed the ball to the other team in order to get it back again and then score.

Or Bobby Fischer, having hooked a 30 pound bass on a 10-pound line, cut the line so he could have the distinction of trying to get the same fish to bite on a 5-pound line.

Or any one of us comes to some moment when we can be sure enough if we just follow the prescribed rules of the game, but when we suddenly develop some irresistible urge to tempt the fates and deliberately tilt the odds hopelessly against ourselves. Somehow we do all these things, but not really, that our opponent is going to be so completely disconcerted he will throw the game too.

It really happens, to almost anybody, almost all the time.

The only thing new about its happening the other day at Reykjavik was that it happened in a game of chess, in a match being played for $250,000.

Argument Concerning Anthems

We are indebted to the education television stations in Connecticut for a flow of good things. They regularly bring us excellent fare. But they did us an exceptional favor this week in the form of program calculated to convince us that the new official State song may not be the atrocious which some critics have pronounced it.

This was subtly done, in an indirect way which commercial television is too cheap to attempt. We were not bludgeoned, we can be sure, that the content of our soldiers and prisoners would be "back home in America," a statement which, for this moment at least, removes the possibility that our troops would merely be moved to Thailand, as the candidate himself, in what he himself later seemed to consider an unguarded moment, had suggested earlier in the week.

While the doves may covet what they may interpret as their candidate's return to the coté, the hawks, and all those Republican campaigners who are going to specialize in trying to catch McGovern in ignominious surrender poses, are also willing to take the McGovern statement at face value. In order to attack it, they accept it as a reckless proclamation of total withdrawal in 90 days, without conditions.

Actually, despite the willingness of both doves and hawks to agree on what the candidate said, both are wrong.

They both overlook the significance of the word "and" as employed in the passage "every American soldier and every American prisoner."

The candidate promised that, but not merely either one, would be "back home in America."

Obviously, then, he has to get the prisoners on the way home before he can get the soldiers on the way home.

What this means, then, is that he will be compelled to leave soldiers on the scene until the prisoners are also leaving the scene.

This also happens to be precisely what President Nixon has been planning and promising to do.

The blunt fact is that this is all any American President in this situation would be able to do.

If Candidate McGovern had really wanted and had really dared to take a position really different from that of President Nixon, he could have said: "Within 90 days of my inauguration I will bring home every American soldier in Vietnam back home, treating the North Vietnamese to reward me by freeing the American prisoners."

That he did not choose to say that Candidate McGovern, if elected, could not attain his objective. He could and would have the power to halt the bombing on his Inaugural Day. That action might speedily lead to other developments.

But that great big "and" in the acceptance speech statement deserves more importance than it has been receiving. He had to promise to bring home both soldiers and prisoners because he knew very well he dared not and would not choose to bring home the one without the other.

But Key undoubtedly was not depending on the naked eye. He had, and used, a spyglass. And the flag at Fort Mifflin, supplied by Mrs. Fischetti, was no ordinary flag. It was 40 feet long and 30 feet wide. Four hundred yards of bunting went into it. Its manufacture required several weeks' work, which, because of the flag's size, took place in a restaurant near the fort. The Englishman and eleven men were required to raise the completed flag when it went up over the fort.

The Englishman is unimpressed by these statistics. Remember, he says, it was raining that night. This means that the flag, if it had been made, became sodden. And this, in turn, means that it was not, it could not be, streaming, gaily or otherwise. What he seems not to realize is that Mrs. Pickersell actually supplied two flags, one of them a storm flag. Key may have caught a glimpse of that during the blazing bombardment, and then have seen the great flag raised in triumph as, by the dawn's early light, the thwarted British fleet began to sink away.

We doubt that, a century and a half from now, there will be any comparable scholarly controversy over Connecticut's official State song. But if there is, someone may be arguing that, in the 1970's, Connecticut must have been overgrown with corn. — CATHOLIC TRANSCRIPT

McGovern Vs. Tax Reform

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

MIAMI BEACH—Sen. George McGovern's forces used odd-pollster muscle at last week's Democratic National Convention to crush a proposed radical tax reform plank to the platform that would have dried up what little money McGovern hopes to raise in the business community.

The plank, pushed by Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, embodied in extreme form the tax reforms McGovern has been preaching all year. Abolition of absolutely all tax deductions and exemptions.

Earlier, the convention management tried to prevent Harris from speaking for his plank on grounds he was neither a delegate nor a member of the Platform Committee. But McGovern delegate Wes Watkins, a fire-brand liberal lawyer from Greenville, Miss., threatened to change a convention speech denouncing McGovern. Harris was permitted to deliver a populist stemwinder, one of the best of his kind.

More Than One Declined Two weeks before the Democratic National Convention started, Sen. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois quietly informed McGovern aide Frank Manolovics that under no circumstances did he want to be considered for Vice President.

Stevenson's decision, uncharacteristic for any ambitious politician, was not unique at this party-splitting convention. At least two other prospective vice presidential nominees — Gov. Reubin Askew of Florida and Sen. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut—also ruled out any

Tax Bills Late?

Due to the inefficiency of the Democratic town management, we people who have recently bought into Northfield Green Condominiums will probably have to pay a fine on our town taxes. This is due to the fact that they haven't bothered to record our deeds (which they have been sitting on for a month) therefore, we were not sent tax bills which are due August 1, and which we should have received on or before July 1. So far, the bills are only about two weeks late. Of course we don't rate an excuse, we will have to pay the penalty, but what about them? Just another reason to vote them out of office.

Very truly yours, Helen C. Mitchell

"A Wonderful Year" To the Editor, Since the Miss Connecticut Pageant is only a short week away I would like to take this opportunity to thank you and the members of your staff for being so kind throughout my year as Miss Connecticut.

Mr. William Coe especially deserves my thanks for his wonderful support in my quest for the Miss America crown. The support given to me by your paper will forever remain in my scrapbook of memories. Thank you again for a wonderful year.

Warmly, Friedella Anne Doyle "Miss Connecticut 1971"

Commuter Busing Appears a Success

First week tests for the Manchester - Hartford express commuter bus show that an average of 107 returned on the bus each afternoon.

The week's total of one-way passengers was 1,028, with 402 taking the buses to Hartford and 626 making the return trip.

The express bus project, planned by the Connecticut Department of Transportation, started last Monday for a 90-day experiment. Buses leave Burr Corners every 10 minutes from 7 to 9 a.m., and return from downtown Hartford every 10 minutes between 4 and 6 p.m. One way fare is 50 cents.

The first week's results compare favorably with a similar commuter service from Corbin Corner in West Hartford to downtown Hartford. That project, which started in January, carried an average of 100 passengers daily in its first week of operation.

Operation Identification

Transportation Department officials are pleased with results of the Manchester bus service, although ridership is slightly less than that of Corbin Corner's first week. The department's first week. To summarize the week: 1. The State Police Department has launched an anti-theft program called "Operation Identification." It is designed to help protect your valuables against theft by having you:

- 1. engrave your motor vehicle operator's license number on your valuables; 2. keep a list of the items in a safe place; 3. place "Operation Identification" stickers on your home as a deterrent to burglars.

The Hartford thinks so highly of the program that it is granting a 10% reduction in its basic Homeowners Policy premiums to those who participate. You can secure the necessary engraving tool, inventory forms and stickers from either the State Police or our agency. Ask us for details!

Hebron Schools End Year With $5,654 Surplus

The Board of Education has ended its 1971-1972 fiscal year showing an operating surplus of $5,654.88, money which will remain in the town's general fund for current expenditures.

Unexpended funds in the amount of $17,610.69 offset deficits appearing in 17 of the 38 budgeted items amounting to $11,956.61.

Included in unexpended funds was $7,180.03 for teachers salaries, $4,678.01 for special education transportation, $2,140 for special education tuition, and $1,309.29 for the special education mental related class.

Among the large deficits were $2,786.45 for insurance, $2,370.84 for utilities, $2,075.08 for contracted services, and $1,141.19 for administrative expenses.

The board at its Thursday evening meeting, unanimously commended the administration for its fine control of funds in keeping within the budget.

Requests

The board approved a request from principal Paul A. White for reimbursement for one-half of the workshop fee for six Hebron Elementary School staff members to attend the "Open Classroom and Individualization of School Programs" workshop to be held at the University of New Hampshire, Aug. 14-18.

The cost will be $100 each for the five days. The present professional agreement only authorizes $30 each for such workshops.

Those planning to attend are Mrs. Evelyn Rowley, Mrs. Patricia Perry, Mrs. Virginia Holt, Mrs. Gay Farmer, Michael Klapp and White.

A request from Mrs. Clyde Fox, president of the Hebron Football League for permission to continue using the athletic field at the Gilead Hill School from August through November was also approved.

However, the board stipulated that there shall be no on-field parking of automobiles.

Permission was granted to George McLeod, recreational and cultural director of the town, to use the Gilead field and case of the University of New Hampshire for movies for residents.

The board waived the normal $50 fee for such use in consideration that the movie showings will benefit the newly organized Gilead Recreation, Cultural and Cultural Director of the town, to use the Gilead field and case of the University of New Hampshire for movies for residents.

The board accepted the bid of Richard DeGroot for the construction of ground swales and an outdoor basketball court at Gilead Hill.

The board budgeted $1,200 for this construction, based on the statements from contractor. However, this sum will be insufficient.

According to Ralph Succuzzo, principal at Gilead, First Sectionarian Ron Reid, has offered the use of town equipment to enable the board to keep within the $1,200 budget.

Knudson Brothers low bid of $636 per one-half pint was accepted by the board. The only other bidder, Deary Brothers, submitted a price of $680.

The board considered bids for fuel for the two schools but did not award the contract pending further information.

Although Dahl Oil Company's bid was $696 per gallon higher than Briggs Oil Company, there was some confusion as to Briggs' service contract.

White will be asked to check with the companies and report back to the board.

White was also authorized to grant a contract to Industrial

Two underwater explosions heavily damaged the U.S. destroyer Warrington on Monday in the Tonkin Gulf where it was trying to intercept cargo from three Chinese freighters. U.S. military sources reported today.

The Navy said the cause of the explosions was under investigation. Spokesmen declined to speculate whether the 300-foot Warrington might have been hit by U.S. mines that had broken loose from the fields U.S. Navy planes planted around South Vietnamese harbors.

No enemy fire was reported at the time of the explosions. One sailor among the destroyer's 270 crewmen suffered minor injuries, was treated on board and returned to duty, the Navy said.

The 3,400-ton Warrington sustained heavy shock damage and there was flooding in engineering spaces, which was quickly brought under control, a spokesman said.

The Warrington left the Tonkin Gulf on her own power for the Philippines but later was taken under tow by the U.S. Navy ship Reclaimer because of full extent of the damage was not known, spokesman said.

Sources said the Warrington was part of a 7th Fleet task force posted off Hanoi island about 80 miles north of the demilitarized zone to fire on barges and craft attempting to transport war materials ashore to North Vietnam from three Chinese Communist freighters.

The Chinese freighters, in the 4,000-ton class, had been transferring cargo to North Vietnamese craft to transport the U.S. mining of major North Vietnamese ports, including Dong Hoi.

The explosions occurred several hours after the three-ship task force consisting of the destroyers Warrington, Robinson and Hull, sank two barges or sampans as they attempted to ferry supplies ashore from one of the freighters, sources said.

The Warrington was about 20 miles off Dong Hoi at the time of the blasts, they said.

The sources said none of the freighters had ever been attacked.

An enthusiastic greeter from several hundred supporters in Rapid City, he drove south 27 miles to the Sylvan Lake resort area near here.

He cited this as the reason why he feels the Democrats have no real interest in reaching a compromise agreement on a new reapportionment plan that would keep the elections take place Nov. 7, general election day.

Gatney said no further Democratic-Republican talks are scheduled. He charged the Democrats would keep stalling in hopes of postponing the legislative elections beyond Nov. 7 or have them canceled, which would keep the present Democratic-controlled assembly in office.

Action Follows Visit to Moscow

CAIRO (AP)—President Anwar Sadat has asked the Soviet Union to withdraw its military advisers from Egypt, informed sources said today.

Several were seen leaving on Sunday and Monday, shortly after Premier Anwar Sadat returned from a one-day visit to Moscow.

Estimates of the number of Soviet military advisers in Egypt range from 10,000 to 20,000.

They came after President Gamal Abdel Nasser's secret visit to Moscow in January 1959 in which he agreed to Soviet military presence. He went to the Soviet capital during the Israeli deep penetration bombing runs against Egypt.

Two months later badly needed surface to air SAM missiles, named by Sadat, began arriving in Egypt.

The withdrawal of military advisers, perhaps because they have finished their job and trained the 500,000-man Egyptian army, was expected to be popular among the masses.

The British army said advisers hit eight guerrillas in London last night and several in Cairo.

Truce Called By IRA

BELFAST (AP)—New feelings for a cease-fire in Northern Ireland were reported today after guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army halted their attacks in the bullet-scattered Londonderry district of Belfast.

David O'Connell, chief strategist of the IRA's Provisional wing, said in Dublin that British forces were being made popular among the masses.

O'Connell, who led negotiations for the cease-fire that collapsed nine days ago, declined to elaborate.

British authorities would not confirm his statement.

Despite the hint of peace, 100 shootings and gunights were reported across the province between midnight Monday and 8 a.m. Tuesday.

McGovern Counts Campaign Funds

CUSTER, S.D. (AP)—Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern in the Black Hills of South Dakota for two weeks of rest and strategy sessions, has before him three alternative schedules and a detailed proposal for media spending in the fall campaign against President Nixon.

The outlines, far more detailed than anything the Democrats had four years ago even for a campaign aimed at all 50 states, and a third for an attempt to combine the two approaches.

In addition, the sides said, a detailed plan covering media expenditures, both allocating amounts per area and specifying type of advertisements to be used.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—The Soviet Union is budgeting two spacecraft for a Russian-American rendezvous and docking space mission in 1975, officials here said today.
