Wallace Beating Therapy Schedule

He recommended changes at the executive mansion and the Capitol in Montgomery to make it easier for the government and the handicapped public to get around.

Much of the work has been done on the mansion, Traugh said. He hopes Wallace can take a therapeutic weekend off to return to Montgomery and get used to getting around outside the State Center.

The therapy program itself utilizes techniques developed by the late Dr. William F. Floyd, a physical therapist.

Some persons were coming back from the war with injuries and, too, we had quite a bit of polio then," she said.

The aim of the program is simply to get from one place to another. "There is very little you can't do with a wheelchair," Traugh said.

Jackson might also be directing the program as well as the President to seek equality of numbers in the next round of the SALT negotiations with the Soviets.

Foreign Relations Committee Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and other Democrats expressed surprise and dismay when the Jackson amendment had the backing of Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott.

Administration witnesses asked for no such provision when testifying on the agreement. Fulbright said.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., also expressed concern that the agreement might be approved in an atmosphere of renewed distrust.

Jackson contended the United States must put the Soviets on notice it will insist on the principle of equality emerging from the new SALT negotiations which may begin as early as next month.

As it stands now, he said, the agreement gives the Soviets an advantage in offensive weapons on the order of 50 per cent.

"In no area covered by the agreement is the United States permitted to maintain parity with the Soviet Union," he said.

The agreement limits the number of Soviet nuclear warheads, but allows the Soviets 1,618. It restricts the number of Polaris submarines with 16 missiles each, and the Soviets to 62 Y-class subs with a maximum of 10 missiles each.

There is no limit on the number of warheads for each missile, or on modernized ICBMs and the weapons covered. The United States is considered to have the defense of multiple-warhead technology.

Most senators praised both the agreement and the agreement, although on the second count, many echoed Jackson's not questioning about his son, except to identify him.

The prosecution in its rebuttal said that before the jury more psychiatric testimony in efforts to prove that the defendant is legally sane.

The six-man, six-woman jury heard conflicting testimony on the sanity issue from psychiatrists and psychologists put on the stand by Marshall and Benjamin Lipitz, the defense lawyer.

Sharp Increase Noted In Wholesale Prices

The jobs rate in June and July was substantially below the rate of around 8 per cent which had prevailed since the close of 1970," the report said.

It added that average hourly earnings of some 80 million rank-and-file workers rose one cent per hour to $3.6 and were up $1.99 per week to $136.47.

Average earnings were up $3.53 weekly or 6.7 per cent over the past year, and after deduction for the 2.9 per cent rise in living costs, the average paycheck was $43.88 per week above a year earlier, the report said.

The report on wholesale prices said food prices rose 2.2 per cent in July; finished goods ready for retail sale went up 1.9 per cent; and industrial raw materials rose two-tenths of one per cent.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the food price increase was 1.8 per cent, finished manufactured goods eight-tenths of one per cent and industrial raw materials two-tenths of one per cent, the report said.

The bureau said wholesale prices in the past six months rose at a seasonal rate of 2.2 per cent, but the pace of the increase has slowed in the latter half of the year.

"This acceleration was due entirely to stable increases in the prices of farm products and processed foods and feeds in May and June and the partial offset by a drop in July," it said.

While the pace of the increases was softer than before Phase 2 controls, the report said, it was not as fast as the 4 per cent annual rate of rise in the combined Phase 1 freeze and Phase 2 controls.

July wholesale price increases included 3.2 per cent for farm products with sharp increases of 15.1 per cent for live poultry and 11.2 per cent for eggs. Processed foods and other goods rose 1.2 per cent with larger increases including 3.3 per cent for meats, poultry and leather.

Textile products rose four-tenths of one per cent, leather 1.1 per cent.

Warfare Ban Works

HARTFORD (AP)—Connecticut's ban on aerial warfare against gypsy moths and elm spanworms has paid off this summer.

By protecting the natural enemies of the pest-eating worms and caterpillars, nature has been allowed to take its course and the moth eggs have fallen prey to parasites, Lufkin said.

In the Waterbury and Plainville areas, 80 to 90 per cent of the spanworm eggs laid this year have been devoured by parasites, Lufkin said.

Overall, defoliation of trees in Connecticut this year amounted to 141,227 acres less than last year, when the elm spanworms were unusually numerous, Lufkin said.

Lufkin's department has imposed a ban on aerial spraying of trees with broad-spectrum pesticides which kill insect allies along with insect foes.

News for Senior Citizens

By WALLY FORTIN

Hello! Well, how is this month of August going for you? At least we had a good start, didn't we? You may have picked up your own copy of the paper for free here at the Center for more before long.

Our activities came to a halt this past Tuesday, and it didn't take long for the fun and games to start again. You must pay up the remainder of the cost on or before Aug. 15.

As we end our season, I'd like to say once again sincerely thank you all for the help and support you have given us throughout this past season.

We're looking forward to seeing you all again in September, and hope to have a few new members for you as we try to reach out for more of you members to participate. This reminds me to ask you to send me a card or note to let me know you're still around.

So on behalf of the Senior Center's staff, and myself, we extend to you our sincerest wishes for a pleasant and restful month away from the Center, and the best of health so you will all be back with us in September.

DON'T WARN ENEMY WITH POOR DOUBLE

Contract bridge is a game of doubles. You wait for the opponents to bid themselves into a silly contract, and then you double. One word of caution, however: Don't double the opponents out of a bad contract into a good one. The point is illustrated in a hand played in the recent World Bridge Olympiad.

Both sides vulnerable. Opening lead - King of Clubs. Nobody can quarrel with the opening bid of one spade made by Miguel Reygadas, of the Mexican bridge team. At his second turn, however, Reygadas should have retd the spades instead of showing the hearts.

North, Dr. George Rosenkrantz naturally bid two hearts, but he should have preferred that suit to spades. East doubled with the ace of hearts, and North sniffed out what was going on. He scrambled back to spades, and East doubled again.

West opened the king of clubs and then shifted to the ace of diamonds. He continued with the king, and then declarer needed the rest of the tricks.

Different story

If South were playing the hand at four hearts undoubled, he would have had no chance for his contract. Four spades would have been a sure thing.

Reygadas cashed the ace of spades, extracting a singleton trump. Then declarer led a heart to the king, returned a heart to win a finesse with the ten, cashed the ace of hearts and ruffed his last heart in dummy. Then he could double take a winning finesse with the jack of spades. The king of spades drew the last trump, and Reygadas claimed his doubled contract.

It was much better to score 70 points for making four spades doubled than to lose 200 points for making four hearts undoubled.

Police Hold Rock Concert

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (AP) — A rock concert here next week should get more than adequate protection: The police are sponsoring it.

"We have found that through mutual cooperation, police and young people have been able to understand each other better," said Chief Russell F. Chiodo. "That's what we're trying to do here."

Chiodo said the rockfest, free and open to the public, would be held next month at Geneva College. Local rock groups will provide the music.

Disaster Relief Increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spurred by the fresh memory of tropical storm Agnes and her ravages, the Senate has sharply increased the relief available to homeowners and small business owners who fall victim to natural disasters.

The Senate voted 76-2 Friday for the legislation which reaches back to Jan. 1, 1971 in order to still-uncontrolled fire victims of last year.

The bill would allow a write-off of the first $5,000 of a Small Business Administration loan if the applicant earned no more than $10,000 a year. And persons receiving SBA loans would pay only 1 per cent interest rather than the present 5 1/2 per cent.

Town Quizzing Industry About Aims for Future

Letters signed by Mayor John Thompson and Town Manager Robert Weiss and containing 100 questions were sent out this week to all Manchester industrial firms.

The firms are told in the letter that the town is interested in once again conducting its survey of local industry, to ascertain how the town can best serve its needs as well as to determine what future plans these firms have for expansion, modernization, etc. so they can plan to expand on their present site or a new site; need, do you have a preference regarding a location; do you wish assistance from the town; do you wish to own or lease the property; and do you have any problems you would like to discuss with a representative of the Development Commission?

What mode of transportation does your firm require to transport your product, what utilities are required in your manufacturing other than for domestic needs, and what special facilities are required for processing your product?

When the questionnaires have been returned to the Municipal Building, they will be analyzed and will be available to the Board of Directors for study and discussion.

Ribicoff Marries Florida Divorcee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., a member of the House of Representatives, was married Friday to Mrs. Lois Mathes, a Miami Beach divorcee.

Ribicoff, 42, said the two were married Friday morning at the Adva Israel Synagogue in Washington by Rabbi Stanley Rabinowitz.

The new Mrs. Ribicoff is 30 years old, a member of the board of trustees of the Mt. Sinai Medical Center in Miami, and has two sons, Robert, 25, and Peter, 19.

Ribicoff returned to the Senate after the wedding ceremony at his home in Washington, D.C., on Thursday.

He had a son, Peter, 25, and a daughter, Mrs. Jane Bishop, 30.

Ribicoff's wife of 40 years died April 12 after a prolonged illness.

Big Sur Fire Corralled But Lines Appear Shaky

BIG SUR, Calif. (AP) — Good but if it get a strong and steady wind, firefighters using handtools to clear a 4,100-acre brush and timber fire that streaked across the coastal redwood region and forced evacuation of 2,000 residents and vacationers.

Although the blaze was surrounded, forestry officials said it was still-uncontrolled fire.

Many of the nearly 2,000 firefighters were injured in falls, and three children were injured in the fire. The fire was contained today.

Managers of the fire said they were holding it in check, but they were not sure if it would be contained today.

Spock Says He's Running To Promote People's Party

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — about 125 showed up for the Portland State University audience Friday night the purpose of the presidential candidacy is not election but "calling attention to a party which can be elected, in ordering the bombing of North Vietnam and the escalation of the war in southeast Asia."

He said it was not long after that a talk with Johnson in order to get his name on the Oregon ballot, it would be "monthly binding on any necessary for Spock and the one who cannot in conscience party to at least a public meeting against a war to resist — to ob- of at least 1,000 people. Executions As A Policy

The extent and nature of the executions being attributed to the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong during their three month control of Binh Dinh Province is uncertain. It may be in the hundreds, as now reported, or in the thousands.

But one thing comes through loud and clear. These executions were a part of official policy. They were carried out not in the heat of battle, and not in the course of any military operation...

They were not M.I.A. They were policy. This does not excuse M.I.A., or atone for M.I.A. that was, and remains, solely our responsibility.

But there is a difference between having executions take place in violation of codes and orders and having them part of official policy.

There is still, of course, something much more important than the difference. It is to end the climate and situation in which the executions, both kinds, take place.

Traffic Separation A Safety Key

There is one vein of traffic thinking which looks at the problem from the point of view of the weight of the vehicles involved.

The danger of a collision increases, the theory holds, in proportion of the difference in weights between the two vehicles involved.

The kind of collision which might do the least damage would, by this theory, occur between two 3,000 pound cars, which would at least have the power to resist each other equally.

The likelihood of dangerous result would go up if the collision were between a 2,000 pound car and a 4,000 pound car, and be higher still if one of the cars involved went up to 6,000 pounds.

But there is absolutely no way you can safely collide a 2,000 pound car into a 40,000 pound truck.

All of us, as we think over accidents we have seen or read about, concede the logic of such calculations.

The simplest, and most expensive key to safety — assuming we are not going to begin building all vehicles to the same weight, so they can crush against one another with equal chances — is a separation of traffic.

One separation, which we already have developed on all major roads, and which all of us would like to see extended to every road, is the separation of directions, so that the head-on collision is rendered physically impossible.

In addition to that, we are going to need separation of traffic which is heading in the same direction. One separation would be that of speed, which we now try to achieve, on some of our major highways, by advising slow traffic to keep to the right lane, and by posting signs which establish, according to the state, either a five or a ten mile an hour differential between the speed allowed passenger cars and that allowed to trucks. In Connecticut, at least, this sign commanding the trucks to stay at 55 on 60 m.p.h. passenger highways is the most disregarded and the least enforced traffic sign in all history.

The ultimate separation, and one which traffic safety experts believe must be inevitable in time, would solve the question of any differential of speed between passenger cars and trucks by putting the trucks all by themselves on separate lanes of their own, where those 40,000 pound bodies could cut in and out on each other.

Always, it seems obvious, the factors that bring automatic bodies, of whatever weight, together will be speed and direction. Both separated, they would be separated from driving, by steeper laws and steeper enforcement, along with as much separation of traffic itself as we can buy.

There is one cheerful thing about modern science. It can usually escape from the predicament it creates for itself. Sometimes the escape from one problem, into a remedy for that problem, involves the acquisition of some new difficulty. That must be solved in its turn, and in this new solution there may be, too, the fetus of a new complication.

But, at least, science keeps moving. Our science is moving, at the present, out of the corner it put in with its development of the indestructible plastic.

A number of laboratories are now in the process of offering, or being about to offer, a variety of plastic which will be "degradable," meaning that it will dissolve into invisibility, of its own accord and time.

The new "self-destruct" plastic, if it proves workable, will eliminate the present worry about the plastic litter we are now accumulating in the country side and in our municipal dumps.

The new plastics may lead themselves to the development of containers of various kinds which will dissolve themselves, and of agricultural weed controllers which will also melt away at the end of their service.

One of the new problems in the new plastics may be the element of cost. They will, at the start at least, be more expensive.

There will have to be some assurance they will not be disintegrating themselves before they are used, or in the middle of their use.

And there will have to be some check into the possibility that, when degraded, plastic plastics are breaking down into environment, they will remain chemically active, with the possibility of influencing on any of the natural cycles they may enter.

Well, settle, at the moment, for the premise that the indestructible plastic can be retired from its dominance of the American scene almost as quickly as it entered it. There is, then, no inevitability about our having to deal with it forever. We don't have to worry about our lives, or the lives of our children, or the lives of anybody, or anything, or side plastic bags which will outlast the pyramids. We may not want to worry about the omnipresent glut of plastic litter. We may reduce one more thing from mastery over us back to what it was intended to give—service to us.

Protect State Civil Service

Maintaining the integrity of the civil service system in the state is necessary to insure that the taxpayer and the state employees — are properly protected against the politicians whose concern about rewarding the party faithful do not always coincide with efficient government.

The appointment by the Meskill Administration of a politician to a major job which had previously been under civil service endangers the civil service system. It must be examined most carefully by those who have been given a few dollars are spent in the wisest fashion.

When the Republicans held their recent nominating convention in the 6th Congressional District, there were three major candidates. The winner was Atty. John F. Walsh of New Britain, who is in the law firm with which Meskill had previously been associated.

The two other candidates, who won 20 percent of the delegate votes, thereby leaving the field clear for Walsh. The two were Atty. Robert St. John and Atty. Russell Post, who said he would resign as deputy personnel commissioner. Post still holds the political appointment.

Staten has just been appointed to an $18,000 a year job as a "special assistant" in the Transportation Department. The political appointment is outside of civil service and Staten did not take any examination for the appointment.

It is significant that Staten is replacing a career civil service employee, who had retired not too long ago. Atty. Adam Kruek held the classified service position which was eliminated after he retired.

It is intriguing that the congressional nominee who is expected to be re-elected when a new convention is held in the revised 6th District — is affiliated with the "Transportation" Department. That one leading opponent was the politically appointed deputy personnel commissioner.

Isn't it time to start wondering about the status of the state's personnel system under the Meskill Administration? — WATERBURY REPUBLICAN.

Inside Report Connecticut Yankee Diplomacy, Navy-Style

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon selected Athens for a new home port of the U.S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean without even bothering to survey alternative possibilities until prodded by the State Department six months later into a quick study of Italian harbors.

This most revealing information, contradicting public testimony by Navy brass that Greece was picked after exhaustive surveys, was reluctantly submitted to the House Foreign Affairs Committee June 15 and appears in a committee document published this weekend.

Six months later, in July 1971, the State Department was establishing a Navy home port in the Italian harbors of La Spezia, Livorno, Augusta Bay and Tarento. The suggestion on Capitol Hill is that the Navy could be persuaded to lease part of the territory of Greece which belongs in fact to the Greek people and not their government.

In other words, you are making the Greek people your enemy in order to gain the dubious endorsement of a deceitful regime," the Democratic spokesman said.

Under that banner, either the pro-Republican and possibly intentional gerrymandering of the so-called Saden plan, or the pro-Democratic and possibly intentional gerrymandering of the so-called Hork plan would be equally acceptable, although each would seem to inflict a grave injustice, a severely unfair loss of political power, on one party or the other.

At this writing, it has happened that Republican State Chairman Brian Jeffrey has offered to seek and accept a state election this fall under the existing districting, even though he concedes its slight tilt against his party, and it has also happened that Democratic State Chairman John Bailey has indicated his possible willingness to join in seeking the court's approval for such a solution of the districting problem.

Something went wrong with this formula when it came to the 1970 state election. One factor, which did not help the Democrats, was that the successful Republican candidate for governor ran substantially ahead of all the rest of his ticket, two members of which actually failed of election. But it also happened that, although the Republicans secured a narrow victory in the total vote for governor, both House and Senate, they wound up in control of neither.

We have a theory that something happened in the state's population between 1960 and 1969 which threw the Parkey-McAllister calculations out of kilter. We would guess that enough Democratic votes moved out of the districts, and the con-

Bill Whitaker AND YOUR HERBIE

A political cartoon by Bill Whitaker. It depicts a man in a suit (likely a politician) talking to a young boy. The man says, "THAT BOY IS A TYRANT! HE'LL NEVER HAVE ANY FRIENDS! — PUSHED MY FREDDIE HERE, AND FREDDIE? FRED DEER WHERE ARE YOU?" The boy replies, "ALL I WANT IS TO PLAY TRUCKS IN THE GARAGE WITH HERBIE — DO I HAVE TO GO HOME SOON?" The cartoon is signed "Bill Whitaker" at the bottom.

Water Tests Show Gain In Safety

Results of water testing at Coventry Lake on Thursday show coliform levels to be considerably lower than those taken on Tuesday...

One official at the Mansfield office did say, however, that the counts were greatly reduced and that the department would be watching Coventry Lake carefully.

A count of 200 at Sandy Shores on Tuesday was also lower on Thursday.

Confom levels above 1,000 per cubic milliliter are one factor used in considering safety for recreational use.

Bus Kills Girl, Injures Another

WATERFORD, Conn. (AP)—Fay Mourning, 16, of Danbury was killed and another Danbury girl was critically injured early this morning when they were struck by a burning bus that they had just gotten off, state police said.

Police said that the bus was transporting students from New London to Danbury when a fire broke out underneath the bus, the bus stopped, and the passengers were told to leave the vehicle.

According to police, just after Miss Mourning and Tresa Harrison, 13, climbed out of the rear emergency door, the bus began to roll and struck the two girls.

Miss Harrison was reported in critical condition at Lawrence Memorial Hospital in New London.

Police said the bus belonged to the state and was being used by the Henry Abott Technical School of Danbury.

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP)—Paul Kepcke, 44, of Stamford died Friday at St. Joseph's Hospital as a result of injuries received when he was struck by an auto Thursday night, police said.

Kepcke received serious head injuries and was hurled 28 feet after the auto hit him, according to police.

Police said Kepcke was giving directions to a motorist when he was hit.

DANBURY, Conn. (AP)—An eight-month-old Danbury girl was pronounced dead Friday at Danbury Hospital after choking on a plastic toy, hospital officials said. They identified the girl as Kristian Thurmond, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Thurmond.

DANBURY, Conn. (AP)—William Hudson, 19, was killed early today in an apparent motorcycle accident, police said.

Police said Hudson was dead on arrival at Danbury Hospital and that the accident was still under investigation.

GOLDENS BRIDGE, N.Y. (AP)—Arnold Anderson, 32, of Ridgefield, Conn., died early this morning when his automobile struck another on Rt 22 here, police said.

Police said Anderson's car was travelling south in the north bound lanes of the divided, four-lane highway, but they could give no explanation.

According to Town Council procedures for filling vacancies, anyone wishing to serve on the RC should notify the Town Clerk in writing. The council has 30 days before filling the vacancy.

The Town Council has given the RC approval to construct a 28-by 48-foot pavilion at Lisleck Memorial Park. The slab foundation will be put in by Diehl, and the RC welcomes volunteers for other construction work on the project, in order to keep the cost as low as possible.

A total of $3,500 had been budgeted last year for construction of permanent toilets at the beach, and it was carried over to the current year, with toilets in the pavilion to be considered in the future.

A teen dance, sponsored by the RC, has been tentatively scheduled for Aug 16 at the high school. Live music by a Rockville band will be provided.

The subject of the ice cream vendor came up at Wednesday night's RC meeting, with Mrs. Louise Ryan, director of the swimming program, suggesting it would be safer for the vendor to park inside the lot than on Rt. 31 just outside the lot as he is doing now.

The meeting will conclude with a tape recording, allegedly of voices and sounds from the American Civil War. It was made last month on the Gettysburg battlefield by the Rt. Rev. Canon John Pearce-Higgins of Warwick Cathedral, England.

He received some notice a few years ago when he assisted the late Bishop James Pike to communicate with his deceased son "on the other side."

Bus Firm Won't Pay Cost of Higher Wages

HARTFORD (AP)—The financially plagued Connecticut Co. has told the state that the company will not absorb the cost of wage increases when its contract with the Amalgamated Transit Union expires Sept. 30.

The company said it absorbed the costs of a new contract last year to avert a strike but that it "cannot and will not undertake a similar obligation this fall."

In a letter to Department of Transportation Commissioner A. Earl Wood, ConnCo Executive Vice President C. W. Abell said that when a one-year contract was signed last year, it "was done in reliance upon the state's representation that financial assistance would be immediately forthcoming."

The bus company has received "no financial assistance whatsoever from the state or any other source," Abell reported.

Abell's letter, dated Aug. 3 and made public today, said that the company has received new demands from the union but did not reveal any specifics.

Abell did say, however, that the situation is the same this fall as it was last year when ConnCo signed a pact to avert a drivers' strike. The only difference, said Abell, is that the company won't absorb the costs of a new contract.

Gov. Thomas J. Meskill has said the state would add its own money to federal funds to purchase new equipment and renovate a number of buses for the company but that no state funds would be put toward operating expenses.

The Transportation Department, accordingly, has filed for $3.4 million in federal funds to be matched with $1.7 in state funds. The buses would be leased to a transit district which, in turn, would lease them to ConnCo or another firm.

Several committees, including New Haven, have balked at the transit district approach, saying the state should provide some of its money to help ailing bus service.

Bremer Guilty, Gets 63 Years

fore handing down the sentence.

He gave Bremer 15 years for assault with intent to murder Wallace, 15 years for illegal use and three years for illegal transportation of a gun, the sentences to run consecutively.

He also handed down consecutive 10-year sentences on assault charges involving the three other persons wounded.

Judge Powers also gave Bremer 10 years each on charges of illegally using a gun in the shooting of Secret Service Agent Nicholas Zarvas, Capt. E. C. Dohard of the Alabama State Police and Dora Thompson, a Wallace volunteer worker from Hyattsville, Md. Those sentences were set to run concurrently with the others and do not add to the total of 63 years.

The quick verdict came as a surprise to virtually everyone involved in the case, including Marshall.

Tell, the 49-year-old foreman, said the jury members were unanimous from the start about the guilt of Bremer and about his sanity.

"I polled them twice to make sure. No one was hesitant at all," he said.

On the key question of psychiatric testimony, Tell said "there were so many big words, medical witnesses couldn't agree themselves. In some cases...they were so evasive you had to use your horse sense."

In closing arguments, Lipsitz urged jurors to accept testimony from defense psychiatrists that Bremer was a legally insane man who understands right and wrong on an intellectual level but not on an emotional level.

Muskie Refuses McGovern Offer

but declined to say whether he had been offered the spot. A candidate's withdrawal after first accepting a spot on a major party ticket is unique in American history and it made for an unusual situation this weekend: A presidential nominee presumably waiting by the telephone as his choice for a running mate talks to friends, family and advisers while making up his mind whether to accept.

The traditional method involves the new presidential nominee meeting in a convention city hotel suite with groups of advisers as they decide whom to choose, while a handful of vice presidential aspirants sit near their telephones and wait for the call.

McGovern's offer to Muskie came during a two-hour meeting at Muskie's home Thursday night. Earlier in the week McGovern had asked three of his colleagues to take the job but they declined. They are Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota.

In addition, others eyed by McGovern such as Florida Gov. Reubin Askew, Idaho Sen. Frank Church and Wisconsin Sen. Gaylord Nelson have made it clear to McGovern they are either not interested or think they would not be an asset to the ticket.

Communist Party Almost On Connecticut Ballot

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP)—Gus Hall, general secretary of the Communist Party in America, told newsmen Friday that he is about two-thirds of the way toward his petition goal to get on the Connecticut ballot as a presidential candidate.

Hall said during a news conference at the University of Bridgeport that his workers had collected about 10,000 petition signatures of people who want his name on the ballot. A total of 12,700 signatures are needed, according to state law, but Hall wants 15,000 to make sure the petition effort isn't invalidated by rejected signatures.

Hall, who is trying to get his name on the ballot in 30 states, admitted that he doesn't hope to be elected president this year. "The time will come when that will be a realistic possibility, but it will not be in '72," he said.

He added that if he wins significant support in the election, both major parties "will have to keep saying that there are this many Americans who feel so sharply about the issue that they vote for a party that is a revolutionary party."

The news conference was organized by the Bridgeport chapter of the Young Workers Liberation League and the Youth Committee for Hall and Tyner. Jarvis Tyner is Hall's running mate.

Banacek: He's Polish And He's Proud Of It

By JERRY BUCK

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Television has come up with an antidote to all those Polish jokes: "Banacek."

T. Banacek, as portrayed by George Peppard in this new NBC television series, is Polish and proud of it.

People mispronounce his name so often—it's Ban-a-check—that his chauffeur suggests he change it. The driver says, "You don't look Polish. Nobody'd know it." Banacek answers: "I would."

Banacek is a Boston-based modern day bounty hunter, a man who specializes in "restorations." He recovers people and things that are lost for a cut of the insurance money. He lives in a Beacon Hill townhouse, collects antiques and drives a 1941 Packard Darrin.

At the Los Angeles Coliseum, where a football sequence was being filmed, Peppard said, "The Poles are a minority and when you do something on a minority you represent all minorities in a way. I don't think we should forget we're a land of immigrants." "Banacek" is a twist upon the traditional whodunit. The essence of each episode is how-did-it-happen. In the football episode a pro ball carrier disappears on the field under a pile of tacklers. When they get up only the carrier's helmet and the ball are in sight.

In another show, an experimental automobile is on a train en route from Pittsburgh to Boston. The train does not stop, but both the automobile and the freight car vanish.

"We give no clues because if we gave just one you could figure out the solution," he said. "It can be figured out. It's absolutely logical and feasible."

"The thing that pleases me most is the individualism Banacek displays," he said. "The fact that he likes older things rather than new things. The objects we surround ourselves with reveal a great deal about a man."

"Banacek is a n individual. Call him a loner, a bounty hunter, he's still individual and independent and distinct. He's warm and humorous. I'm drawn to that because of all the cold-eyed men of steel I've played."

"Producers tend to typecast an actor," he said. They go looking for someone they think is most like the role they want to cast. Most people don't remember, or don't think about it, but I played a relaxed character in 'Breakfast at Tiffany's.' But after the success of 'The Carpetbaggers' I haven't played a character with much warmth. 'The Blue Max' was not exactly a jokester."

Lighting a cigarette, Peppard said, "The thing that most annoys me about acting is the lack of creativity unless you're a character actor. Acting is probably the least creative thing in films. What you see on the screen has to do more with the contributions of the writer, the cameraman and the composer than the actors."

"You can create as an actor, if you're given the material. But it has to be something different from yourself. What George C. Scott did in 'Patton' was really creative acting. But few pictures are centered around one vibrant character and of those few I haven't had an opportunity to play any. They just haven't been offered to me."

Peppard said he was intrigued by his first opportunity to play a continuing character. When you do a character in a picture that's the end of the character," he said. "He doesn't die but the story ends. As an actor it's fascinating that this character goes on, to meet other people and do other things."

"Once you're into a series you don't need the introduction and exposition you do in a picture," Peppard said. "The people who watch will know what he's about so in a way you can play differently, you can play upon their knowledge. They will know about the proverbs and they will anticipate what happens when you talk to Banacek about being Polish."

What is the term for a guy who makes music with nothing but his bare hands?
"I call myself a manualist," says John Twomey, who makes music with nothing but his bare hands and is, so far as he knows, the only person in the world who does it.
Twomey's tune technique is to clasp the palms of his hands capture a pocket of air between them and then to apply manual pressure, producing a musical note each time. He has perfected the art to a point where he has a range of three octaves.
Twomey, who is also a practicing lawyer in Grand Rapids, Mich., and who squeezes out palm palms just as a sideline, learned the trick while he was in grade school and just kept on improving his style over the years. He says it's just like whistling a tune, in that he knows instinctively how to hit a desired note without resorting to trial and error.
Twomey and his musical mitts can be seen and heard regularly this summer on "The Jerry Reed When You're Hot You're Hot Hour," the comedy-variety series Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. on CBS.

Like Aunt, Like Niece
Shelley Fabares, who will star in NBC's new comedy series, "The Little People," says that her name is pronounced Fabray, just like that of her aunt, actress Nanette Fabray.

Forces' Favorite
NBC star Bob Hope recently was named "the favorite entertainer of the military" by the National Non-Commissioned Officers Association in ceremonies at California's March Air Force Base.

Her role as Dick Van Dyke's daughter on CBS is the first professional credit for 9-year-old Angela Powell.

Jackie Joseph of "The Doris Day Show" on CBS appeared with Miss Day in the film "With Six You Get Eggroll."

TV Notes

Glenn Ford of "Cade's County" on CBS was born Gwyllyn Ford in Quebec. He took his screen name from Glenford, a Canadian town where his father owned a paper mill.
When the psychiatrist urges him to face reality, Dowd replies: "Doctor, I wrestled with reality for 40 years and I am happy to state that I finally won out over it."

Milburn Stone, Doc Adams of "Gunsmoke" on CBS is an honorary member of the National Coroners Association.

When Ted Knight of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" on CBS arrived in Hollywood in 1957, he sent out 400 brochures to producers. "I got exactly three replies," he says.

Jackie Joseph of "The Doris Day Show" on CBS is the wife of Ken Berry. They met as fellow cast members in "The Billy Barnes Revue" in Los Angeles and New York.

Favorite spare time diversion of Peter Graves, star of "Mission: Impossible" on CBS, is water skiing at his Lake Arrowhead mountain retreat.

Extortionist Gets Maximum Jail Sentence
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - A judge has sentenced a convicted airline extortionist to 30 years in prison with the words, "If the maximum was 30 years, I'd give you 30 years."
Alan A. Pain, 67, of Hayward, received the maximum term Friday after being convicted in a bank break case last April in which $280,000 was obtained from United Air Lines. Pain's accomplice, Judith Wilstron, 27, was sentenced to five years in prison pending outcome of a psychiatric examination.
FBI agents arrested the couple when Miss Wilstron went to a shopping center telephone booth where an anonymous male caller had instructed the scheme to deposit $25,000.
Investigators subsequently found capsules where the caller said they would be - on a United Air Lines plane in Seattle.

TV Notes

Guy Stockwell, who plays Dr. Michael Bond on NBC's daytime drama, "Return to Peyton Place," is the brother of actor Dean Stockwell.

Chris Leachman of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" on CBS shares her unusual name with her mother.

Ann Williams played a leading role in "Appaloosa" while continuing her current featured role on "Search for Tomorrow" on CBS.

Chad Everett, star of "Medical Center" on CBS, was the first non-medical speaker invited to address the annual staff seminar banquet of California Hospital Medical Center.

Bob Hope's first broadcast for the military originated at March AFB, Riverside, California, about 21 years ago.

"Chief," a made-for-TV movie, has been chosen best TV mystery by the Mystery Writers of America.

Conrad and Bets In 'Impossible' Drama

Robert Conrad, who starred in "The Wild, Wild West" series, and Carl Betz, who won an Emmy as the star of "Judd for the Defense," will portray the organizers of a large, illegal gambling operation that is a target for the Impossible Missions Force in an episode of "Mission: Impossible" being produced for next season on CBS.

Club Dancer

Nipsey Russell, recently signed as a regular for the 1972-73 season on NBC's "The Dean Cain Show," is being upped through the University of Cincinnati by dancing in local clubs.

Elizabeth Baur, officer Fran Belding on NBC's "Ironside" series, writes and eats left-handed but uses her right hand in sports.

Mary Stuart of "Search for Tomorrow" on CBS was a camera girl in a New York hotel grill when Joe Pasternak saw her and offered her an MGM contract.

News of The New Season

"Goldfinger," one of the most popular of the fantastic adventures in the James Bond series of movies, is coming to television this fall. The film will be the premiere presentation of the ABC Sunday Night Movie. Other movies coming on ABC next season will be "True Grit," "Lawrence of Arabia," "The Odd Couple," and "Z."

"Search" is the new title for the NBC series formerly called "Probe," which is scheduled to debut Sept. 18. The program, which has undergone a name change due to a title conflict with a syndicated show, stars Hugh O'Brian, Tony Franciosa, and Doug McClure.
