Mrs. Ubert Dies, Physical Therapist

BOLTON — Mrs. Elizabeth S. Ubert, 71, of Bolton Center Rd., who founded the Physical Therapy Department at Manchester Memorial Hospital in 1955 and was its chief physical therapist until her retirement in 1963, died yesterday at Manchester Memorial Hospital. She was the wife of Charles E. Ubert.

She was member and chairman for the Center Society. Mrs. Ubert was born in Hartford, daughter of Mrs. Edna Conklin Sumner and the late Charles F. Sumner, and had lived in the Manchester-Bolton area all her life. She and her husband would have observed their 45th wedding anniversary on Oct. 6.

Survivors, besides her husband and mother, are two daughters, Mrs. Samuel Robb of Manchester and Mrs. Richard Jarvis of South Windsor, two sisters, Miss Ella Sumner and Miss Jeannette Sumner, both of Bolton; eight grandchildren, and a great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be tomorrow at 2 p.m. at Watkins Memorial Church, 22 E. Center St., Manchester. The Rev. J. Stanton Conover, pastor of the Bolton Congregational Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Bolton Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 9 p.m. The family suggests that any memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society, 237 E. Center St., Manchester.

Mrs. Charles E. Ubert
She also was the first president and director of the Manchester Homeaker Service and had been a member of the Manchester Chapter of the American Center Society for more than 25 years, serving as chairman of volunteers and as Manchester district campaign

Mrs. Anna W. Kaplan
COLUMBIA Mrs. Anna Weiner Kaplan, 53, of Malverne, N.Y., formerly of Chestnut Hill, died yesterday at Windham Community Memorial Hospital, Willimantic.

Mrs. Anna W. Kaplan
Mrs. Kaplan and her husband, the late Lewis Kaplan, donated the land on which the Congregation Agudas Achim synagogue is located.

Survivors are four sons, Morris Kaplan of Chestnut Hill, Joseph Kaplan of Willimantic, Hyman Kaplan of Passaic, N.J., and Samuel Kaplan of Hollywood, Fla.; two daughters, Mrs. Milton Kasowitz of Chestnut Hill and Mrs. Jack Furman of Malverne; nine grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. at the Congregation Agudas Achim, Chestnut Hill. Burial will be in the Temple B'nai Israel, Parkers Corner, Mansfield.

Memorial week will be observed at the home of Joseph Morris Kaplan in Chestnut Hill. The Weinstein Mortuary, 640 Farmington Ave., Hartford, is in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Winifred Fish Piper
ELLINGTON Mrs. Winifred Fish Piper, 82, of 8 Walnut St., died yesterday at a South Windsor convalescent home.

Bolt Strikes Home in Town

The home of John Baker of 19 Lewis St. was slightly damaged during last night's storm when it was struck by lightning. Town firemen were called to the scene at 7:05 p.m. by a passerby who alerted them to the fire. The fire was quickly brought under control and the house was not damaged.

Firemen arrived and quickly brought the situation under control. Fire was confined to a two to three square foot area of the roof. The roof caught fire after being struck by lightning during last night's storm. Chimney at left also was damaged.

Day Care Center Opens
Vernon's first public Day Care Center opened yesterday under sponsorship of the Hookman Valley Community Services Council with registrations still being accepted. The center can accommodate 30 children, three to five years of age.

Police said she walked into the path of a car driven by Joseph Whalen of 16 Lorton Rd. The Whalen car skidded 26 feet, police said and couldn't avoid the pedestrian.

Rotary Raffle
The center opens at 7 a.m. and is open until 5:30 p.m. State and federal regulations require that 80 percent of the children must come from disadvantaged homes where the mother would like job training or a job. Mrs. Abaza said other children may be accepted where special circumstances exist. Fees are set on a sliding scale, based on the family's ability to pay.

Pinchoc Club
Winners in the tournament session of the Vernon Senior Citizens' Pinchoc Club last Tuesday were: Gertrude Edwards 633, Elsie Miller 627.

Oscar Levant, Pianist, Dies

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Oscar Levant, the slouching figure in the dark baggy suit, would play a few flawless measures of George Gershwin's piano concerto in F. Then he might insult his audience, another performer or the television sponsor. "I'll show you how unbreakable it is!" he shouted once as he smashed the sponsor's "unbreakable" radio against a wall.

That was Oscar Levant, pianist, with, composer, author, eccentric, actor and television host who is dead at 65. Levant had been professionally inactive for nearly a decade when he died in his sleep Monday afternoon. Authorities said he apparently died of natural causes and ordered an autopsy. In recent years he complained of edema, arthritis, insomnia and a host of other ailments.

GOP-Link Break-In Breaks Out

Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern says President Nixon is at least indirectly responsible for the break-in and attempted bugging at Democratic national headquarters in June.

Bombs Rattle North
Rep. Paul N. McCloskey told fellow Republicans preparing for next week's GOP convention in Miami Beach, Fla., that failure to make a clean break of the incident could doom GOP chances in November's election.

Sheinwold on Bridge
DETROIT (AP) — As Harris Olsen went to the police station only to find that the Internal Affairs section of the police station had been robbed of the money.
The Detroit Common Council voted to reimburse Olsen by taking $600 from the police department's year budget and giving it to him.

DAY OF RECKONING MAY NEVER COME
BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD
When you are given the chance to flee in your weakest suit don't be in a hurry to accept. If you postpone the day of reckoning, you may never have to take it. Whenever possible, put off the day of reckoning; luck may be with you, and the day may never actually come.

TRAD LEADER RETIRES
LONDON (AP) — Ken Colyer, 45, one of Britain's most influential but old-fashioned jazz musicians, is retiring from the music business.
Colyer, a cornet player who leads a New Orleans-style band, says his health is failing and he doesn't feel well enough to go on playing the one-night stands that British jazz demands.
Colyer blew his way to prominence about 1950 with the Crane River Jazz Band, then joined the Merchant Marine so he could work his way to New Orleans and listen to the early musicians who inspired him.
The British call New Orleans music trad for traditional, and Colyer has led the trad movement here for 20 years, playing in pubs and clubs around the country.

WITH INTEREST
NORTON, Kan. (AP) — Fred Scheetz, a motor car dealer here, was surprised the other day to receive a check for a 40-year-old bill. The account was originally $35 but the sender figured "compound interest" and sent his check for $240 explaining that in the 1930s he was terribly short of money but the debt had worried him hence he wished to "clear his conscience."

Conservation District Appealing for Support

The Tolland County Soil and Water Conservation District is again appealing to residents of the county for support to keep its office going. The district has set a goal of $1,500 to raise to accomplish the wide variety of services the district provides.

The money to be collected will be used to hire a part-time secretary to allow the technicians to devote more time to problems of a more serious nature. It will also be used for stationary, postage, travel expenses, educational material for schools, soil stewardship material, supplies for the technicians and state and national dues.

Memorial Tree Plantings

The Manchester Chamber of Commerce is preparing a map showing tree plantings throughout town done under the tree planting program begun in 1965 by the Chamber's City Beautiful Committee and the Manchester Garden Club.

When the map is completed it will be displayed in public buildings. The program was begun to establish a townwide flowering tree trail to beautify Manchester and to memorialize those who have passed away.

Since the program began, 500 people have contributed to plantings in 17 locations throughout town. A list of recent contributors include:

McNamara, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Treymbal, and Dr. and Mrs. Charles Jacobson Jr. (3 trees) all in memory of Miss Evaline Pentland.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Hutchinson, Mrs. Joseph F. Miller (2 trees), Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Fuller, and Mrs. Elizabeth Bowers all in memory of Mrs. Earl G. Seaman.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lillian B. Copeland, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Puskas, Perennial Planters Garden Club (2 trees in memory of loved ones of members).

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Coffin in memory of Royce C. Palmer. Mrs. J. Oscar LaPointe in memory of her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vaughn in memory of Mrs. Jeanie Koch in memory of Mrs. Myrtle H. Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Monahan (7 trees) in memory of Mrs. Martha MacDonald, John P. Hutchinson, Norman Spector, Herbert C. Hutchinson, Robert S. Binkerd, Mrs. Ryland L. Lackwood, and Mrs. Bertha H. Binkerd.

Bowers School Students (10 trees) in memory of Ruth Lacy and Seth Gorman.

The Class of 1932, Manchester High School (2 trees) in memory of Mrs. Alice Goodstone.

Miss Raymond R. Reid (2 trees), Miss Marjorie McMeremy, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas K. Mitchell, and Chaplain and Mrs. Russell E. Camp, Mr. and Mrs. John Sandy Cochran of Vernon will continue to coach the horse judging teams. Several more sessions are being planned for September.

The 30th annual Tolland County 4-H Fair will open Friday and continue through Sunday at the Tolland County Agricultural Center, Rt. 30, Vernon.

The Tolland County participants in the program are Mrs. Orra Strickland, Belton; Jonathan Trask and Mr. and Mrs. Owen Trask, Coventry; Mrs. Anne Rathwell, Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Stearns and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Palmadge, Mansfield; and Sharon Tromley, Coventry.

Members and friends are now traveling in Ireland as part of the 4-H Irish Exchange program. The group will return early in September.

In Silence Is Safety

NEW YORK (AP) — Nothing could improve the human race more than to have every baby born with a button in its lower lip and a buttonhole in its upper lip.

As it is now, the average infant is born not with a silver spoon in its mouth — but one of its own feet. And throughout the rest of its life it keeps putting that foot back in its mouth.

That's why it can't keep its mouth shut. And it isn't our brains or our fists that get us in the most trouble in this world. It's that old innate hood-in-the-mouth reflex.

So if you want to live real peacefully, learn to turn off the lip flap when you don't know exactly what you're talking about. Silence is more than golden; silence is safety.

Here are a few remarks to avoid if you don't want to put your foot in your mouth, shoe and all.

"Why did you ever stop to think that if you didn't live the way you do, you wouldn't feel the way you do?"

"If I bail you out of this, it'll only get you into the habit of expecting someone else to solve your problems for you."

"I wouldn't have told you I hated the necktie if I thought you were buying the necktie for me. I thought you were getting it for someone else."

"Of course, I don't doubt your word, but if you've lost all that much weight, I don't understand why it doesn't get to you."

"What I need, Doc, is a prescription for a pill that will stop the pain when I get your bill."

"I did think you had more sense than to want to waste your vote on that political quack."

"No, I can't tell what it is, but it tastes like something I had once and didn't like. Who cooked it?"

"Are you sure you aren't just feeling sorry for yourself?"

"I'm not exactly sure I should tell an off-color joke like this to my own mother-in-law, but here goes—"

"Do you want me to tell you what I really think is wrong with you?"

"Tell me something, will you? Why is it when a guy like me takes a girl like you out to dinner, she always feels like she has to order the most expensive steak on the menu? Don't you girls ever get steak at home?"

"You've got nobody to blame but yourself!"

"Did you ever stop to think that if you didn't live the way you do, you wouldn't feel the way you do?"

West Side Rec To Get Cleaning

The West Side Rec will be completely closed Aug. 19 through Sept. 10 for maintenance and cleaning. Registration for women's fall programs will begin Sept. 11 when the rec reopens.

Tentative plans call for new classes in sewing and tailoring, shirret rug making, knitted glass, ceramics for beginners, French 1 and 2, block printing, and beginning homemaking. Other popular classes in crewel, needlepoint, crafts, and crochet will also be on the schedule.

John Schoell, volunteer art director, plans a special art program for women. Anyone interested in more information may contact Bea Sheffel at the West Side Rec, 643-6795. All other information is available at the Nike Site Office, 646-6010.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Bad Guy" on Trial

Investigating the forgery of several checks, police uncovered enough evidence to bring a corporation official to trial. But they also discovered something else: he had been living with another man's wife.

Could this evidence be used against him in court? The judge said no, because it could easily turn the defendant into a "bad guy" in the minds of the jurors.

"The deep tendency of human nature," warned the judge, "is to punish not because the defendant is guilty but because he is a bad man and may as well be condemned now that he is caught."

This is why evidence of bad character usually cannot be used against the defendant in a criminal trial. Unless it has a direct bearing on the issues in the case, it is considered too inflammatory to be trusted.

On the other hand, if the defendant tries to prove that his character is good, that "opens the door" to rebuttal by the prosecution. For example:

A woman was accused of the fatal shooting of her husband. During the trial, she took the witness stand and swore she had always been a loyal wife to the deceased.

But two men were promptly summoned by the prosecution to give testimony about her extramarital escapades. The court held that their evidence was admissible, since she had already opened the subject by claiming to be virtuous.

What about proof by the defendant that his victim was a "bad guy"? In a murder case, the defendant tried to bring in evidence that the man he had allegedly killed was a rogue and a trouble-maker. He said he wanted to prove that the man's death was no great loss.

But the court refused to allow this evidence, because it had nothing to do with the question of guilt or innocence.

"It is just as serious in the eyes of the law," said the court, "to murder a bad man as a good man."

Inside Report McGovern's New York Snakepit

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

NEW YORK — Sen. George McGovern's decision, after weeks of temporizing, to pick Robert F. Wagner from the obscurity of an ex-mayor to run his make-or-buy campaign was a desperate compromise move to prevent the already dangerous split between party regulars and McGovernites from sinking the campaign before it had been launched.

Snap Beans Cherry Tomatoes
Canadian Snow Pudding with Sliced Fresh Peaches and Custard Sauce

CANADIAN SNOW PUDDING
Adapted from a Nova Scotia
cookbook.
3/4 cup sugar
1/3 cup cornstarch
2 cups water
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/4 cup lemon juice
3 egg whites

In a medium saucepan thoroughly stir together the sugar, cornstarch and salt. Gradually stir in water keeping smooth. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly, and boil 2 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in lemon rind and juice; set aside to cool slightly while you beat the egg whites. Beat egg whites until stiff; fold into cornstarch mixture. Pour into a quart mold. Chill. Unmold. Serve with sliced fresh peaches and a custard sauce (made from the 3 leftover egg yolks.) Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Drop quarter slices of bread into the blender for a few seconds when your recipe calls for fine bread crumbs.

Tolland County Superior Court

Bruce C. Blakeslee, 24, of 66 Helaine Rd., Manchester, was allowed by the state's attorney in Tolland County Superior Court yesterday to plead guilty to a lesser charge, thereby making him eligible for drug treatment.

Blakeslee was originally charged with two counts of larceny, first degree, one in Hartford County and the other in Tolland County. The Tolland charge was in connection with the Dec. 5 robbery of the Cumberland Farms Store on Rt. 83 in Vernon. This charge had been substituted with one for larceny, second degree, but was again substituted with larceny, third degree, to which he pleaded guilty and was committed to the custody of the commissioner of mental health for treatment at the drug rehabilitation facility at Norwich State Hospital, from 90 days to 24 months.

Twin Theaters Going Up In Talcottville

The Vernon Building Department has issued a permit for construction of twin theaters on Rt. 83 in Talcottville. To be called Vernon Cine 1 & 2, the theaters were designed by Arnold Lawrence Associates of Manchester and will be operated by Greater Hartford Cine, Inc. Principals in the operation are Bernard and Sy Menschell and John Calvoicrossi. The Talcottville Development Corp. will construct the two 348-seat theaters which will feature first run movies. A mid-December opening is planned.

Vernon ZBA Defers Liquor Store Bid

New information heard at a public hearing of the Zoning Board of Appeals last night led that board to defer action on a request for a variance to allow the opening of a liquor store in the redevelopment area. It was the second time the request was heard. It was turned down a month ago by the zoning board on indefinite sentences which had been suspended when he was put on probation on two separate occasions.

A charge of rape against Michael S. Smith, 20, of Buff Cap Rd., Tolland, was notified after he pleaded guilty to the charge of lascivious carriage which was a misdemeanor before the new penal code and no crime at all after the new code as Smith was under 19 and the girl under 16 at the time of the offense in 1971. Smith was fined $100 by Judge William P. Barber.

The request for the variance was made by Leo Ad of Rockville, Inc. and Peter Lyga who owned a package store in the area demarcated to make way for the redevelopment project. The board voted to defer action until it hears an opinion of the Town Attorney, Abbott Schoedel as to whether or not the town has an obligation to Lyga and whether or not the federal government can withhold its final loan payment to the town if the request for the liquor store is not granted.

Mrs. Bettylou Williams, executive director of the Redevelopment Agency, read a letter from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) in which it was indicated that the condition of the federal contract for financial assistance was the establishment of a relocation program and it indicated the final payment on the grant might be withheld if the agency fails to resolve totally the relocation projects. The amount of money involved is $209,013.

Irving St. Onge, vice president of Leo Ad, owners of a supermarket which was to be the anchor store in the commercial portion of the renewal project, told the board that if the package store cannot open it would not be profitable for the company to open the supermarket. He said the market will employ about 50 local persons. The granting of the variance would mean the liquor store would be closer to a church and school than the zoning laws allow and also closer to other liquor outlets than allowed.

Atty. Leo B. Flaherty acting for Lyga, explained his client would be permitted and operator of the Shopping Bag Cordial Shoppe. Atty. Flaherty explained that the previous appeal relied primarily on moral commitment to Lyga but not as fundamentally on the legal obligation as on the damaging effect a denial would have on the redevelopment and growth of the center of Rockville. He said the second appeal was based on the fact the food store would not open and also mentioned the priority which should be given to persons who were displaced when the area was demolished. He turned back to 1963 when the then Council of the City of Rockville approved the urban renewal program by adoption of a resolution and created legal obligations including one that the government would provide for changes in zoning in order to implement and facilitate the urban renewal plan. About two years later the town's governments consolidated and inherited all of the obligations of the former City, Flaherty said.

The ZBA was cautioned that the denial of the application may cause the town to be in jeopardy of breaking a contractual obligation to Lyga and that the town's obligation to Lyga is not as fundamentally on the legal obligation as on the damaging effect a denial would have on the redevelopment and growth of the center of Rockville. He said the second appeal was based on the fact the food store would not open and also mentioned the priority which should be given to persons who were displaced when the area was demolished. Canadians Watching U.S. Trade Warfare

OTTAWA (AP) — Canadians are afraid they may become innocent casualties of the war the United States is waging against an invasion of foreign-made goods.

The United States wants Canada to do its share to reduce the American balance of trade deficit, but Ottawa says Canada isn't to blame for Uncle Sam's problems.

These disputes make the road rocky for U.S.-Canadian trade talks, which broke off in February with each side publicly refusing to change its position. Negotiations probably will resume after the American election. Some businessmen and officials in Ottawa think that without real agreement the talks could sour relations and intensify the current wave of Canadian nationalism.

The stakes are great. Canada is the biggest United States trading partner, and 70 per cent of Canada's two-way foreign trade is across the border.

Officials in Ottawa say the U.S. negotiators want, among other things:

- Changes in the joint defense production-sharing arrangement, which the United States claims benefits Canadian suppliers more than American defense plants.
- Removal of clauses in the joint automobile free trade agreement that guarantees minimum Canadian content in cars built for the Canadian market.
- Higher allowances to Canadian tourists for duty-free goods from the United States.
- Abolition of trade regulations that U.S. negotiators feel contribute to a Canadian drain on the American balance of payments.

Canadian officials grant that the United States has a serious balance of trade problem. They cite Canadian government statistics showing Canadians have been helping the United States by the flow of dollars from north to south. Washington disputes the figures and says more dollars are going the other way, thus making things more difficult for the United States.

J.G. Stevens, chairman of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, says, "In only 11 of the 104 years since Canadian confederation has Canada achieved a consistently favorable balance of merchandise trade with the United States and in all cases this has been accomplished by an unfavorable balance on nonmerchandise account."

The Canadians feel they hold a number of cards in the second round of trade talks. The $750-million order for Argus long-range maritime patrol aircraft.

If that order goes to a U.S. defense firm, it will be hard for the U.S. government to claim Canada is not doing enough to help out the trade problem, Canadian officials claim.

But Ottawa has some gripes of its own, which it wants to present to Uncle Sam. They include:

- Recognition in something more than philosophical terms that Washington's policies can cripple Canada. Officials point out that 15 per cent of Canada's gross national product is sold to the United States, while only 1 per cent of the U.S. GNP is sold to Canada.
- Removal of an American embargo against Canadian uranium and easier entry of Canadian agricultural machinery and aircraft to the U.S. market.
- Simpler import regulations. Some Canadian firms report they can be delayed for months or years awaiting rulings on duties for imports to the United States.
- A sensitive issue is the domestic international sales corporations, DISC, being set up in the United States by many firms, which allow American companies to export products with certain tax advantages.

Washington says DISCs are needed to keep American business from setting up factories

TCL Plan Cathedral Service

George P. Leigh Jr., of Virginia Beach, Supreme Tall Cedar of North America, will be the guest speaker Sunday at the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart in Rindge, N.H. during the 8th Annual New England Tall Cedars Sunday services beginning at 11 a.m.

Dean W. Cronkite, Past Grand Tall Cedar of Natick Sunday in Manchester, originated the event and is this year's general chairman.

Giving the memorial tributes at Sunday's service will be Stewart H. Mausemheier of Silver Spring, Md., Supreme Tall Cedar-elect for 1973.

Cronkite will give the welcoming address and Earle B. Miles, Chaplain of Laurel Forest 130 in Williamstown, will conduct the service.

Leigh is an insurance executive for the Pyramid Life Insurance Co., is the regional director of agencies for that company, and is a member in the Norfolk, Va. Life Underwriters' General Agents and Management Association, Sales and Marketing Executive Club. He is a member of many masonic organizations.

Sunday's service is open to all. Those attending are invited to go to Amert Park near the cathedral for a family picnic after the service. People are asked to bring their own food.

NEVER TOO OLD (PUEBLO), Colo. (AP) — Antonio Sanchez of Mexico was sworn in as an American citizen recently. He is 84 years old.

Man May Shout

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Albert Richardson has been named by a judge that he is free to yell at apes in the Cincinnati Zoo, but only when other humans aren't around.

Richardson, 41, was arrested in the zoo's ape house Monday afternoon. A zoo security guard said Richardson "was using bad language to apes and started drinking wine."

On Tuesday Richardson told Hamilton County Criminal Court Judge Peter Outcall, however, that he was yelling at the apes, not people.

In dismissing the case, Outcall said Richardson has a constitutional right to talk to the apes whenever he wishes as long as other humans aren't within earshot.

"The statutes say you shall not conduct yourself in a disorderly manner in the presence of other people," Outcall said of his ruling. "There's nothing about being in the presence of apes."

Manchester Man Joins AL Post No. 1 at Paris

Thoughts of bygone days and lost comrades stirred the memory of a Manchester man recently when he became the seventh man in Connecticut to be made a member of the American Legion, Post No. 1 in Paris, France.

Warren Anderson of 25 Congress St. received his membership card and his hat bearing the insignia "American Legion, Post No. 1, Paris, France" to which he affixed the American flag emblem to make it official.

Richard B. Davis Sr., adjutant of the French post, knowledge that he was eligible for membership came to light when he was hospitalized recently at the Veterans Hospital in Rocky Hill. "Someone called my attention to the Herald's column '25 Years Ago' in which some of my war experiences were noted," Anderson said.

The hospital's publication "Target" picked up the story and published it in their magazine," he added.

After conferring with several of the patients, he wrote to the Post in France, and after several letters, he was informed that he was eligible for membership.

Anderson, whose service record reads like a World War II movie, was affectionately named "Gunner" by his fellow patients, and rightfully so, since he served as a tailgunner on a B26 in World War II.

"We were sheltered in the home of the Sauvage family in Clameont and were especially aided by their 18-year-old son, Edmund," he added.

They hid us, along with three other crew members of an American bomber group from the searching Germans. We stayed with them 1 1/2 months.

"Eventually, we were taken to Paris where we spent an additional eight weeks in quarters furnished by the French underground," Anderson said.

Edmund was 18 when he arrived in New York in January, 1947, and when he was ready to leave I purchased a ticket for him to Lewiston, Pa. where another airman was waiting to meet him," Anderson said.

Although renewing old acquaintances and talking over old times was a memorable experience for both the airman and the young man who had saved their lives, for Edmund the greatest thrill was yet to come.

Engineers Start Building Dulcimers

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The dulcimer, like so much and so many before it, has come West and in a small way is already bringing sweet sound to ears bludgeoned by today's series of bong bong.

The dulcimer just tinkles like

It did for the Appalachian mountain men generations ago. Now it is being exposed to the Northwest thanks to the interest and ingenuity of two men who can make airplanes and all sorts of much noisier contributions to modern society.

The dulcimer is a three-stringed mountain zither and it gets its name from that gentle word "dulcet" which of course means "sweet to the ear."

That is what attracted Dick Hacker, an engineer at the Boeing Co., and he started to make the instruments. Carl Ulmshneider, a fellow engineer, joined in and they formed the Puget Sound Dulcimer Co.

Their work made its bow in the form of 15 various kinds of mandolin-like dulcimers put on display at a fair.

Now you don't have to be rich to get a good return on your investment.

Back in U.S.

He was awarded the Medal of Freedom with Bronze Palm and a citation presented to him by the late President and former General of the Armed Forces Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The citation read: "Edmund Sauvage, French civilian, for exceptionally meritorious achievement which aided the United States in the prosecution of the war against the enemy in Continental Europe from May 1943 to August 1944. He distinguished himself by his great courage and determination and resourcefulness in the performance of hazardous missions. Although in constant danger of capture by the Gestapo, he completely disregarding his personal safety, assisted directly in the evacuation of 30 allied airmen and through his unselfish devotion to the allied cause, contributed materially to the success of the war effort, meriting the praise and recognition of the United States."

And so it was a few weeks ago when a large manila envelope addressed to F. Warren Anderson arrived containing his Legion hat and his membership card from the American Legion, Post No. 1, Paris, France, that memory spanned an ocean and an old friend was recalled.

Just a short while ago our CBT Premium Passbook was designed for the heavy investor. With a minimum deposit of $500 it wasn't everyone who could take advantage of it.

Now we've changed all that. For only $25 you can open up a Premium Passbook Savings Account. And you can continue to add to it in any amount over $25.

What is our investor's savings plan like? Well, it pays a high 5 3/4% rate of interest, compounded daily and paid quarterly. It can be paid by check if your account is $1,000

Mexico Seeks To Halt Historic Relics Loss

By VICENTE MORALES — MEXICO CITY (AP) — Preserving the evidence of Mexico's past has become a doubly difficult task due to the frequent loss of important relics of cultures that lived here up to 22,000 years ago.

The present government recently passed a law to try to reduce these losses and ordered a substantial increase in the budget for investigation, conservation and restoration of the pre-Columbian legacy.

Mexican authorities doubt that clandestine looters of archeology and dealers in contraband of the artifacts will abandon the gold mine of pieces buried in Mexican soil.

Officials of the Institute of Anthropology and History (INAH) say more than 11,000 archeological zones, containing ruins from the civilizations of Aztecs, Mayas and many other Indian tribes, ancestors of today's Mexicans, are registered in this country. They believe many more exist and say the vastness of the remains places Mexico fifth in archeological importance in the world.

But the wealth of past cultures has created its share of problems. Only 2000 of the zones have been studied so far and just placing a guard at each site has been a difficult task for the government.

Until 1971 the anthropology and history budget was less than $3 million but President Luis Echeverria has authorized an increase this year because 30 per cent of the budget had gone for the salaries of the 4,000 employees of the INAH, the only organization charged with preserving Mexico's past.

The lack of adequate protection at many of the archeological sites often facilitates theft. One of the most recent thefts occurred during the Mexican Revolution in 1910, but add here up to 22,000 years ago.

Space Shuttle Uses Dry Base

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The names have as much glamor as a mud fence—dry, flatland, lifting body, flying bathtub. They reflect little of the excitement of man's conquest of space.

Ditto for the shapes—a dumpy cross between a sleek rocket and a graceful fighter plane.

But a small band of engineers and test pilots in the Mojave Desert here are using the strange craft to prove that the space shuttle—the United States' manned space spectacular of the 1980s—will work.

Piloting their wingless birds of space from 10 miles above earth down to powerless, 200-mile-per-hour landings on the shimmering dry lake beds here, the pilots have shown that man doesn't have to encase himself in a metal can to return from space.

Soon, the dangling parachute return followed by an undignified splash in the ocean will be outdated. Instead, the nation's astronauts will gently ease their earth-orbiting rocket ship into the atmosphere and begin a 100-mile spiral descent to a landing at an airfield, almost like a normal jetliner.

"I think our work here with the wingless aircraft definitely had an effect on the decision to go ahead with the space shuttle," said Mill Thompson, assistant chief of research at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's flight research center here.

"We showed that these hypersonic shapes were feasible, that they could be controlled in flight and that we could guide them to powerless landings at near-normal landing speeds," he said.

The "hypersonic shapes" that Thompson, a former test pilot, talks about are the wingless lifting bodies. The curious research aircraft have written an important chapter in aerospace history here in the last decade.

Safe re-entry into the earth's atmosphere is a major problem. The United States and Russia both use "ballistic" reentry, plunging a blunt-nosed spacecraft with a heat shield into the atmosphere like a rock sinking in water.

Friction with the air slows the spacecraft to subsonic speeds and a parachute completes the slowing. The re-entry forces could tear an ordinary airplane apart.

The Soviets bring their craft down on land in this manner, but U.S. astronauts still must step into a liferaft and be hoisted aboard a hovering helicopter, the crudest portion of their journey.

In "lifting" re-entry, a wingless spaceship or one with very small wings gets its aerodynamic "lift" from the shape of its body. It gently eases into the atmosphere, gradually slows down, and then flies to a landing like an airplane. Its shape allows it both to survive re-entry and fly in the atmosphere.

NASA experts flew their first lifting body in 1961—a 25-mch-long model towed behind a radio-controlled model airplane. A manish plywood lifting body, the M2, made its first flight in 1963. The wedge-shaped, wingless craft, flat on top, rounded on the bottom with two vertical tail fins, was towed by another aircraft.

Then came a second generation M2, made of metal and rocket-powered. It was followed by the HL10, another wedge-shaped lifting body, but rounded on top with a flat bottom.

The HL10 reached 90,000 feet and flew almost twice the speed of sound before being retired. But the M2 crashed during a landing in 1967, seriously injuring the pilot and showing that a third vertical tail fin is needed to control dangerous rolling forces.

Now the third generation M2, a 22-foot-long craft with the critical tail fin added, is being flown by NASA test pilot Bill Dana who is making more checks of a computerized flight control system that might be used in the space shuttle.

Undergoing modifications is the X24A, the flying bathtub, which completed a 28-flight, two-year test program last year.

The modifications will produce the X24B, expected to begin an 18-month series of test flights next spring. It resembles most closely the concepts now under study for the reusable shuttle orbiter, which will ride into space piggyback aboard a large rocket and then return to earth like an airplane.

It has a long pointed nose and small "delta" wings that protrude slightly from the aft end of the aircraft.

There still are some space frontiers to probe with both craft, Dana said.

"We'd like to look at the blending of the rocket reaction controls used to maneuver in space with the aerodynamic controls used in the atmosphere," he said.

John Manke, another NASA test pilot, will put the X24B through its paces. The series of flights will look more closely at the problem of flying at low speeds and landing.

Like its pioneering cousin, the X24B will be dropped from beneath the wing of a B52 mother ship flying at about 45,000 feet before the orbiter is ejected. The rocket engines will be ignited, kicking the craft up to 60,000 to 70,000 feet before the fuel is exhausted. Then the dizzying, spiraling deadstick descent will begin, ending a few minutes later in the straining landing on the sandy lake bed.

After that, NASA officials here talk of building a three-tennis-court scale model of the shuttle craft and perfecting the approach and landing techniques before the first shuttle flights, perhaps late in this decade. These plans await approval.

"With that we'd be able to provide the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston with control data for the shuttle pilots," Dana said.

Social Security

Q. I'll be 65 near the end of this year and I'm planning to retire then. Since my earnings up to the time I retire will be well over $1,680, should I delay applying for retirement payments until early next year?

A. Definitely not. You should apply for payments about three months before your 65th birthday. Regardless of your earnings for the year, you can still get a Social Security payment for any month in which you neither earn $140 in wages nor perform substantial services in self-employment. You can also apply for Medicare protection at that time.

Q. I'm looking ahead and trying to figure my retirement income. Is it possible for me to find out how much my monthly Social Security payments will be?

A. Yes. Any Social Security office can give you an estimate of your social security payments. It's a good idea to talk to a representative when you're beginning to think about retirement. In addition to giving you an estimate of what your payments will be when you retire, he can also tell you what papers and other information you'll need when you apply.

Book Review

World History Wrapped Up

THE COLUMBIA HISTORY OF THE WORLD. Editors John A. Garraty and Peter Gay. Harper & Row. 1,237 pages. $20.

In these days when so many occurrences, ranging from the disturbing to the terrifying, spring from events going back for centuries and even millennia, a book that tries bravely to wrap up the story of man, his world and the universe in a little over 1,200 pages should be helpful to us all.

Columbia University has launched such a vessel, freighted with a cargo of countless facts. The two editors and nearly 40 other contributors have in general performed their Herculean labor of picking and choosing courageously.

The editors, John A. Garraty is professor of American history at Columbia, Peter Gay, formerly at Columbia, now teaches at Yale. On the whole there is a fair balance between narrative, inevitable though somewhat put down by sophisticated today, and interpretation for clarification. This must have presented some problems, particularly for Gay, identified for some time as one of the more "analytical" historians.

The book puts mere man properly in his place, beginning with some discussion of the creation of the world, solar system and even the universe, according to modern views.

Most of the main epochs, ages and periods in man's story are well-covered. The chapters dealing with Asia and Africa — on which most of us Americans are dimly informed — are most instructive. We learn of the tides of both invasion and expansion that have swept across China, for instance, from the earliest times of man's political history. Hindu and Moslem have been having at each other in India since long before the Mogul — or Mughal if you prefer — Empire contemporary with Tudors and Stuarts in England. And the tides of ancient invasion rolling over Indochina help explain some of today's bloody events.

In such a massive work, the assignment of precious space is bound to arouse controversy.

The American Civil War, for example, as such gets only a paragraph and a half — neither Gen. Grant nor Gen. Lee is mentioned.

And when neurologists, neurosurgeons and biochemists are finding scientific explanations of mental illness — schizophrenia for instance — it is difficult to justify assigning six pages to Sigmund Freud. On the other hand, Albert Einstein, who has revolutionized physics, gets two widely separated sentences.

Ronald C. Hood, Associated Press

THE HELIX FILE. By William D. Blankenship. Walker. 231 Pages. $4.95.

A combination of murder mystery and suspense, this novel has as its chief protagonist a young man named Grant Hardy, who is a natural crook and con man. But then, his father before him was an even greater crook who would do anything for money.

So young Hardy comes home to a small Arizona town to avenge his father's death six months earlier, knowing that there were plenty of people in town who would have had a motive.

And he finds that an FBI agent already is on the scene, nosing around to see what had become of a secret report on a missile test, missing from a nearby Air Force base, and known as the Helix File — with the idea that Hardy's father may have been mixed up in the affair. Hardy and the FBI agent become somewhat reluctant allies in the investigation.

There are several more murders and sex gets a work-out when Hardy takes time out for some bedroom scenes with Lois, an enigmatic young woman who works for the local newspaper, and with Mely, who runs a gambling joint that is paying protection money to the local authorities.

Appropriately, the story has a snapper at the end, in which the true villain is exposed. The narrative is a bit too contrived, and the mayhem a bit too over-emphasized, but that seems to be the formula nowadays.

It is the author's first novel, he has caught on to a good many tricks of the trade and he writes with a fast pace. With a little more sophistication he might come up with something that would rise above mere entertainment the next time around.

Miles A. Smith, Associated Press

Henry Parker, an officer in the U.S. Information Service, is the hero. His enthusiasm for his job has cost him the loss of his wife, who returns to the conveniences and comforts of her native United States. Henry is as right for his job as a person should be who holds such a sensitive position. He is assigned to the backwater area of Gamalia, a mythical country in Asia, now, after several years he is to be reassigned. How difficult for him to leave these wonderful people, whose philosophy of life teaches them to live in quiet contentment.

The story tells of the frustrations of the government staff who are puzzled about the true worth of their efforts on foreign soil. "In this business you lose a lot more than you win. But once in a while, you can actually make something happen."

Henry is told by his superior, the American ambassador, "Watch Sloth and Heathan Folly. Bring all your hope to naught."

SLOTH AND HEATHEN FOLLY By Edward L. Robinson. Macmillan. 373 Pages. $5.95.

We are well aware of the duties of servicemen, ranging from heroics in combat to K-1 duty. But we know less about that special group of government workers whose purpose is to help keep the peace by squashing international rumbungs and to offer assistance in various ways.

Here is an interesting novel, by a former Foreign Service Information Officer, explaining the operations of these government career people who usually remain in the shadows of obscurity. Character study and the importance of personality and temperament in communicating with others of foreign background — religion, culture, language — seems to be the main thought in the story.

Flat Grants Cool Welfare Families

NORWALK, Conn. (AP) — As the thermometer goes down, the number of welfare families being evicted or deprived of utilities will go up, legal-aid spokesmen predict.

Legal services agencies here and in Bridgeport base their prediction on the newly instituted "flat grant" form of welfare assistance. They claim many welfare families will get less under the plan, which substitutes a lump-sum payment for separate payments covering rent, utilities, special needs and emergency expenses.

Norwalk Legal Services, which is now fighting about 40 eviction cases, said Monday it expected that figure to grow to about 215 families in the next month or two.

A survey of 120 of the 800 local welfare families living in private homes here showed that 30 of them are receiving assistance at an average reduction of $48.17 per family, the agency said. At that rate, about 490 of the 800 families will get less money under the new system.

With less money coming in, especially as dropping fall temperatures result in larger utility bills, many of the recipients will be unable to make ends meet, legal services said in a statement.

Welfare Reform Doubtful

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Tuesday chances for enactment of welfare reform this year are fading.

"It looks like H.R. 1, the House-passed welfare bill, is rapidly sliding down hill," he told reporters.

Previously Mansfield had insisted the Senate should vote on the measure since President Nixon has described it as his top domestic recommendation to the 92nd Congress.

But, with Congress beginning a two-week recess Friday and then trying to adjourn finally by Sept. 30, prospects for highly controversial legislation such as the welfare reform bill appear dim.

However, Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Finance Committee, insists that his panel still will act on the bill and that it will be brought up in the Senate.

The Finance Committee has had the measure since the House passed it in June last year. A majority of the Senate group opposes Nixon's new family assistance plan for welfare recipients and has voted to amend the measure to impose tough work requirements on persons receiving welfare.

Network To Gamble On 'Midnight Show'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Will enough television viewers stay up in the early yawning hours to watch a network variety show? NBC is experimenting this weekend with a program which is called "The Midnight Special," even though it airs Saturday morning after the Friday night Johnny Carson Show.

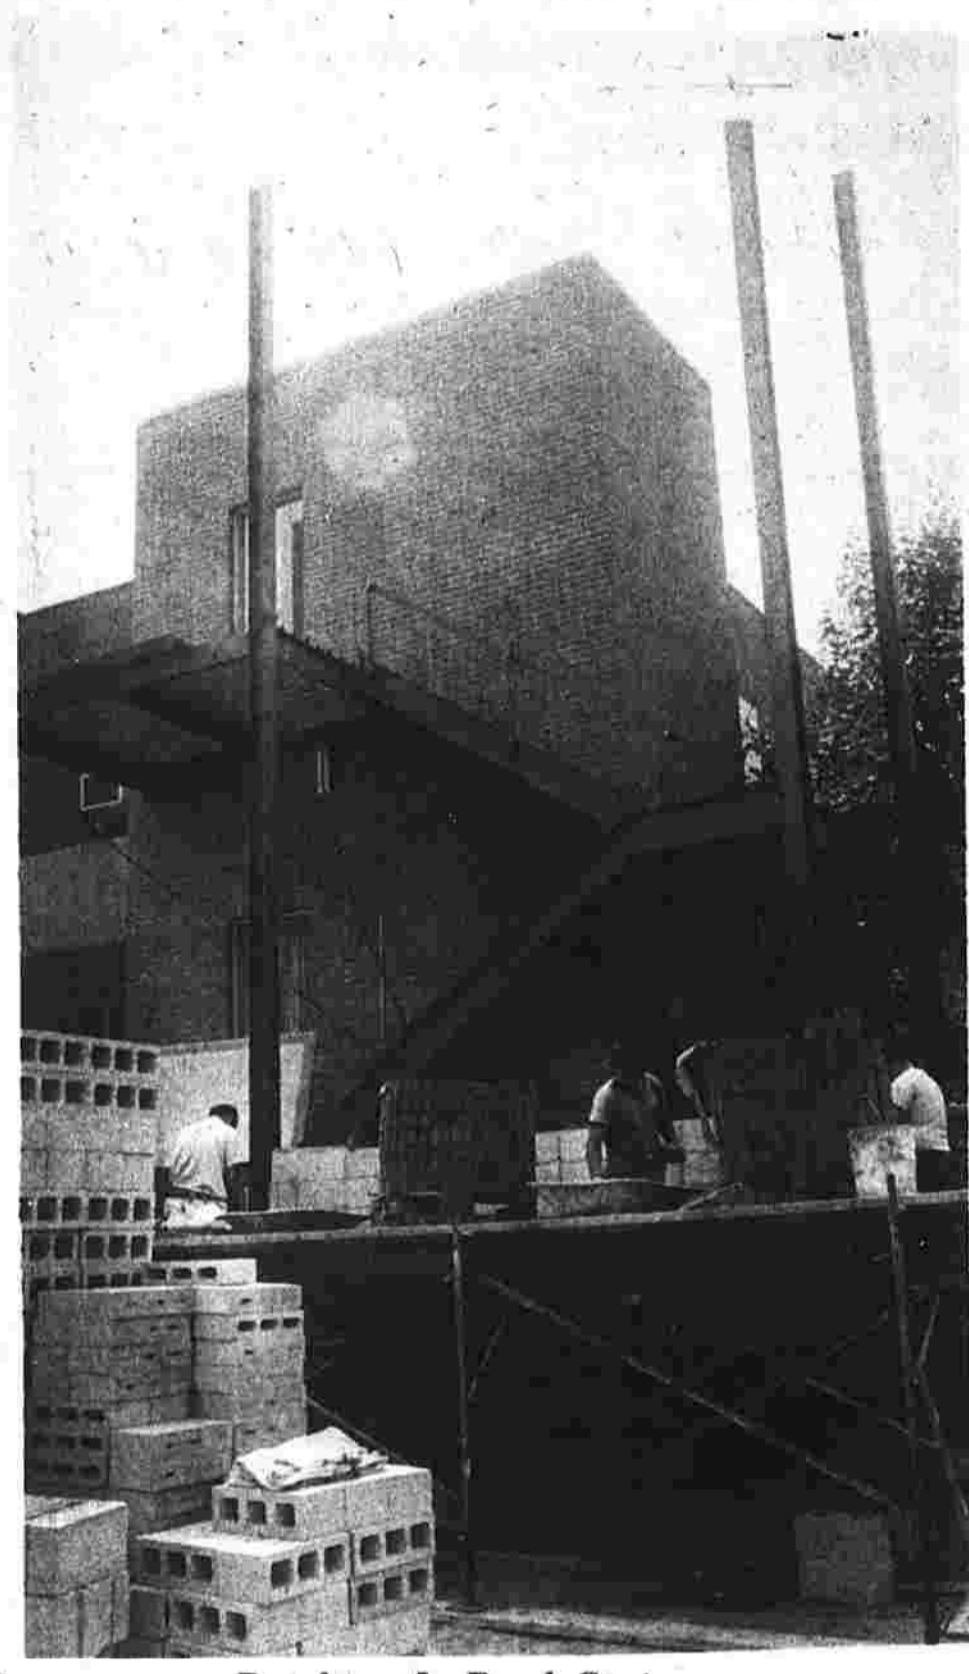

The one-shot special will air on most NBC stations from 1 a.m. to 2:30. If any regularly scheduled network show has ever appeared at such an hour, nobody can remember it.

The man behind "The Midnight Special" is television package man Bart Sugarman. He told how the show originated: "For a couple of years, Syd Venable of Grey Advertising in New York had been talking to me about it. Finally I decided to look into it."

NBC in New York puts on a movie after the Johnny Carson Show, and some of the other affiliates do. NBC in Los Angeles and most other cities go black. But NBC research has discovered that there is a potential audience at that hour of 3.4 million homes.

Bricking In Bank Staircase

Exterior work is progressing on renovations and additions to the Savings Bank of Manchester's Downtown Main St. building. Bricklayers are shown constructing a stairway tower at the rear of the bank, to permit customers entering from the parking area to reach all three floors of the bank. The steel stairways and platforms already are in place. In addition to extensive inside renovations and additions, the front entrance on Main St. will get an entire new face. Bank officials say the project will cost about $400,000 and add that the bank's officers and board of directors have great confidence in the future of Downtown Main St. Herald photo by Becker

Passengers Eavesdrop On Pilots

HONOLULU (AP) — Passengers on flights to Hawaii piloted by Capt. Percy Cunningham get something extra in the way of entertainment.

Cunningham invented a device which enables the passengers to listen in on his conversations with control tower operators, weather stations and tracking stations.

"Anything I can tune into in the cockpit, I can give them in the cabin," he said.

Cunningham began the extra service in 1947 when he was flying a tour group to the World Series. The passengers wanted to know the baseball scores, so he taped his headset to the microphone of the plane's public address system to let his passengers listen in on the game.

Last year, Cunningham developed an electronic patching device that enables him to keep his headset on and also allows him to make volume adjustments to be sure everything is "just right for the passengers."

The invention is actually an improvement on a patching device from an old DC-7.

He said the device would work in any plane with a public address system.

On one flight last year, Cunningham's passengers heard firsthand accounts of the Los Angeles earthquake.

Jacobs Nominated

In Ron Jacobs," he continued, "we have a candidate of proven ability. He is respected by all who have come in contact with him."

Peck, never at a loss for words, was at no loss for words when called upon last night.

After thanking the town committee for its confidence in him and for voting for the best man, he remarked, "Even though I'm large in stature and carry a lot of weight, I can't do it all."

Noting the 1200 plus lead in registrations by Manchester Democrats, he said, "You all can read the figures. No matter what we do, we still aren't registering enough Republicans. I'm open to suggestions, and I'll welcome all the help I can get."

Dobkin agreed. "We can't depend on the polls. We must depend on the votes. The polls show President Nixon ahead, and that scares me. Folks always make me want to work harder, as though we were behind."

Peck announced that the CBS network will set up telephones in voting districts 1, 2, 7 and 10, to report early results to its New York election headquarters.

The registrar is 45 years old, a native of Hartford, he is a graduate of Trinity College and the University of Connecticut School of Law. He holds a master's degree in taxation from Boston University Law School. He has been practicing law since 1938.

He is also on the council and is acting president with the formal election of officers. The commission considered, as it has been considering for many months, the situation in Center Springs Park. Most of the discussion centered on what might be done next year to prevent youths congregating in and near the park from becoming a problem.

Praxedis, liaison with the Youth Commission, reported on his investigation of possible sources of funds for toilet facilities in the park and for a brochure.

Freeway Litter Strains Imagination

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mooey, livestock, false teeth, barbittus, wigs and even the kitchen sink — you can find them all on the Los Angeles freeways.

Take money. An armored truck once dumped 8,000 nickels, dimes and quarters on the Ventura Freeway.

Or livestock. Practically every highway patrolman has ridden herd on stray cattle or horses in the freeway traffic and in 1968 an accident involving a truck hauling live chickens and a cattle truck transformed the San Bernardino Freeway into a barnyard.

Wigs occasionally blow off motorists' heads onto the roads and clothing, piggy banks, furniture, beer, sponges and virtually everything else that's ever been carried in or on a vehicle has wound up amid the traffic.

It took men from the California Highway Patrol and the state Division of Highways two hours to gather the money in the 1968 Ventura coin spill, dodging traffic with pockets bulging, picking up coins one by one.

The recovery of 800 in checks and money orders on the San Diego Freeway this year took considerably longer. It wasn't really the money that mattered, but two sound tapes, without which a segment of the CBS TV series, "Gunsmoke," would have been lost. A 30-hour search ended when maintenance men found the tapes, worth $30,000. Each of the finders got a $500 check.

The chicken-cattle truck crash on the Santa Ana Freeway was too much for officers alone. Passing motorists joined in, waving arms and flapping coats transformed the San Bernardino Freeway into a barnyard.

A horse intended for a food canner charged down the Golden State Freeway several years ago. Police finally corralled him after he almost knocked several motorcycle officers off their machines.

Highway patrolmen have developed special techniques to handle obstructions on the freeways. They call for a "break in traffic" when fast legs and a quick hand will not suffice. Behind the officer, the motorist explains he was fortunate damage had been so slight.

The man pointed to a hill by the roadside. One hundred feet up the slope rested a hydroplane motorboat. Not tied down, without craft had flown up the grade at 60 miles per hour — perhaps the first hydroplane to sustain hull damage climbing a hill.

Valuable items usually are claimed immediately, but those that are not are held by police pending a claim. Ultimately they are auctioned off in Sacramento.

There are dangerous aspects to freeway litter beyond the traffic hazard element. Some litter is dropped intentionally and maliciously.

A fad of bombarding passing cars with big rocks from bridges and overpasses led to several motorists' deaths and the prosecution of at least one minor.

A lighter — but still dangerous — version of rock dropping was a bombs-away game which required at least two hits for a good show. One, the "caller," would stand on the upstream side of a bridge, the other, or "bomber," would hold a wad of milk carton full of water. On signal the bomber would release. Below, a passing motorist was terrified by an inundated windshield or thump on the roof of his car which could send him swerving for the next several hundred yards.

The new fences have successfully discouraged this game too.

Double For Butcher Shop

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—Not even James Bond would have thought of it: killing a cow in a public toilet.

Uruguayan police report, describing a raid on a men's room in the nearby town of Nuevo Paris.

The would-be butchers had tied, abandoned a 400-pound cow and the tools they were about to use to prepare the meat for the black market.

The raiding patrolmen "became nauseous," the official police report continued.

"The filth, the smell which inundated the place, the incredible sanitary conditions, would have killed the cow anyway, without the tools."

Similar reports—enraged to drive home the health hazard of black-market meat—appear daily in the Uruguayan press as the government tries to enforce a four-month ban on consumption of beef. It's a traumatic experience for 2.8 million people whose per capita meat consumption has been 150 pounds a year, almost twice the U.S. figure.

Cattle have been so easy and cheap to raise in Uruguay's broad grasslands that people for generations depended on little else for their daily diet. For 500 pesos—59 cents—a housewife could buy two pounds of good beef to serve broiled for lunch, with the leftovers boiled with pasta dishes. Ravioli stuffed with spinach is a favorite. Newspapers publish suggestions for corn pie, stuffed eggs, spaghetti sauces, fish and cheese dishes and, for Sunday evening, frankfurters with ketchup.

There's a cooking problem. The Uruguayan housewife's culinary skills are limited to meat, simply prepared in little time. The substitutes require more time and skill.

"People used to buy fish for their cats," says Milton de Los Antos, 38, who operates a fish stall in the port area. "Now I'm getting 200 serious customers a day and 150 of them ask me to prepare the fish."

"I've absolutely prohibited my wife from buying black-market meat," says Ruben Arata, 54, who runs a car rental business. "The other day the police seized a truck full of dogs' heads. Where were the bodies? I'm sure they were in those packages of meat you get on the black market. They're selling dogs, cats, anything."

The Aratas and thousands of other families have turned principally to spaghetti and other

Tolland Constables Issue First Report

In issuing its first police activity report, the constable force recorded two arrests for motor vehicle violations, and the issuance of three warnings for moving violations.

In addition there were three warnings issued in the Grant Hill Rd. area for stop sign violations and one arrest was made.

The constables discovered a house break at a vacationers home, calling in the state police to investigate. The State Police also assisted the constables on five complaints during the constable patrol hours which begin about 7 p.m. and last until the early morning hours.

The log covered the period from Aug. 5 until Aug. 12.

Hilsmans Campaign

Saturday will be the kickoff day for the start of the local campaign on behalf of Democratic Congressional candidate Roger Hilsmans, according to coordinators Kevin Cavanagh and Stanley Bink.

The campaign will begin with a "Roger Hilsmans Bumper Sticker Day," during which members of the Democratic Town Committee, Young Democrats and other interested Democrats will be at the various shopping centers in town to distribute Hilsmans material.

In addition, Hilsmans literature distribution centers will open at the homes of Cavanagh and Bink, serving as the focus of local Hilsmans activity. Anyone interested in working in the Hilsmans campaign can contact either of the campaign coordinators.

A bit of campaign irony: The budget adoption problems delayed the tax bills and the levy of a 46-mill rate. The mill rate was set by the Finance Board June 29, and the tax bills were in the mail by July 12, with taxpayers subsequently having to pay their tax bills in a two-week period rather than the usually allotted one month.

Taxes not paid during July are now delinquent and interest is due and payable. The interest charge may be obtained by contacting Beebe. Anyone not receiving a tax bill is still liable to pay the taxes. Motor vehicle registrations will not be issued for cars on which the taxes have not been paid.

Beebe urged persons owning 25 or more acres of open land to apply to the assessors under Public Act 600, to fill out the required applications before the Sept. 30 inspection deadline.

Columbia Building Inspector's Job Seen Conflict of Interest

The Columbia building inspector should not be a resident building contractor, according to State Building Inspector B.R. Cabelus.

Cabelus told the first selectman if a complaint he received from Peter Beckish, owner of the Landmark, is correct, Building Inspector Sam Pescatello should either resign or stop his business.

The letter to Howard Bates, first selectman, said, "If Mr. Beckish's statement is true, I would direct your attention to Section 107.7 of the Connecticut basic building code, which is a restriction placed on the building official preventing him from engaging in this type of activity."

"I would suggest that you ask your building inspector to immediately cease the furnishing of labor for construction in your town, or, as an alternative, I would advise you to take action to remove said official from office and replace him with a building official meeting with the requirements of Sections 19-387 and 19-387A of the Connecticut General Statutes."

Beckish had sent a letter also to the first Selectman, questioning the validity and legality of the town inspector practicing his trade in town.

Pescatello was appointed to the post nearly two years ago. At that time a group of residents questioned the appointment.

Town Counsel Robert Haggerty ruled Pescatello could be appointed as long as an outside inspector did the inspection work on Pescatello's buildings.

Questions Raised

Among the questions raised in Beckish's letter were, "When Mr. Pescatello practices his trade as contractor in Columbia, who inspects his work?"

"Does this inspector drop in unexpectedly or is he only available when Mr. Pescatello invites him to inspect?"

"Who pays this other inspec-

Curtis Gets Boost From Reggie Smith

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Boston rookie John Curtis found just the boost he needed Tuesday night to get back on the winning track: hot weather and the anemic Texas Rangers batters.

Curtis pitched a three-hitter and Reggie Smith bled him with two homers as the Red Sox blanked the Rangers 3-0 and moved within four games of idle Baltimore in the American League East.

Yankee Relievers Fail As Sparky Lyle Rests

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Manager Ralph Houk of the New York Yankees sat there nibbling on a sandwich while he anticipated the obvious question.

It came from a half dozen mouths almost in unison — "Why didn't you use Sparky Lyle?"
