C. R. BURR & CO., INC.
C. R. Burr & Co., Inc., 420 North Main St. is one of Manchester's oldest businesses. The company was founded by Clifford R. Burr in 1888 and has grown into a million dollar a year business. It is now among the top six businesses having the largest nursery operations in the northeast.

C. R. Burr & Co. has pioneered many "firsts" in the nursery business. Among them was the introduction of a patented plant container that is self-sustaining for months. The Burr people have pioneered in packaging nursery products, from the standpoint of adding sales appeal and providing maximum protection during storage, en route and on display. The company was also a pioneer in the growing of the multi-flora rose which is being used extensively in the states of Washington, Michigan and Minnesota for windbreaks and snow fences.

A memorable event in the history of C. R. Burr & Co. was

Town Resident Chosen Aide to Shelton Mayor

Miss Linda S. Capozzi, 23, of 75 Farm Dr., has been named city administrative and liaison officer for Shelton at a salary of $13,565. The appointment was made yesterday by Mayor Vincent P. Tisi from a list of 136 candidates. She will start work Sept. 7.

Miss Capozzi's major responsibilities will be to represent the mayor at city meetings, prepare applications for state and federal grants, prepare the annual city report, and assist the mayor in preparing the annual budget.

She has been employed by the State Department of Community Affairs in the Division of Rental Housing and Support and the Office of Management Information. Before that, she was controller of the District 5 Office of Management Information for Fairfield County.

Miss Capozzi is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Capozzi of Trumbull and a graduate of Trumbull High School. She received her BA in political science, cum laude, from the University of Connecticut in 1971; studied at the UConn Hartford branch last summer; and is currently enrolled in the graduate program at the University of Hartford toward a master's in business administration.

Baptist Youths Elect at Party

The Baptist Youth Fellowship of Community Baptist Church, 565 E. Center St., held a Big Splash Sunday at the home of Carol Corcoran and Cary Corcoran of South Windsor. Events of the day included swimming, volleyball, badminton, croquet, picnic supper and election of officers.

Electing for the 1972-1973 term were: Linda Robert and Lori Booth, co-presidents; Carol Derewianska, secretary; and Cary Corcoran, treasurer. The fourteen members present planned a program for the fall retreat to be held at Camp Wightman, North Stonington, Sept. 22-24.

Carol Corcoran and Carol Derewianska were two of the seventeen Connecticut delegates to the National Gathering of

REAL ESTATE APPRAISAL I

Manchester Community College offers a 12-week, non-credit course in which students will learn the basic philosophy of the art of real estate appraisal, the application of principles and techniques of residential appraisal to specific cases, and the use of these principles and techniques to improve their performance as real estate salesmen, brokers and appraisers. Students may choose to attend classes Monday nights from 7-9 P.M., starting September 11, in Room 207 of the 146 Hartford Road building (Mr. Mulane), or Saturday mornings from 10-12 noon, beginning September 16, in Room 8 on the Bidwell Street main campus (Mr. Werber). Enrollment fee is $50. For a registration form or further information, call 646-4900, extension 341.

Hitchhikers Beat Marine Recruiter

Manchester Police are searching for two unidentified hitchhikers who assaulted and seriously injured a motorist who picked them up early this morning at Center and W. Center Sts.

The motorist, Bryant C. Collins, 27, of Plainville, was reported in satisfactory condition today in the intensive care unit of Manchester Memorial Hospital. Collins, a Marine recruiter, was taken to the hospital by ambulance shortly before 2 a.m. today.

Police, responding to a call of a motor vehicle accident at the 186 exit ramp to W. Middle Tpk., found Collins suffering from head wounds apparently received by a beating with an iron pipe.

Two iron pipes were found in his station wagon. One had blood and hair on it, police said.

Two other motorists who witnessed the incident said the hitchhiker as a white male in his late teens or early twenties, about 5-foot-7, of medium build, with shoulder-length dark hair.

Hospital authorities said Collins will probably remain in the intensive care unit today although his condition is satisfactory.

Collins, a sergeant in the U.S. Marine Corps, is a former resident of Manchester who has served two tours of duty in Vietnam. He is now a recruiter in New Britain.

A past commander of the Marine Corps League at Manchester, Collins was honorary marshal of the 1967 Memorial Day Parade in town.

Ammo Depot Blasted

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy pilots destroyed a giant ammunition depot in North Vietnam Wednesday, the U.S. Command reported today. Flares from the carrier Kitty Hawk said their bombs caused 100 secondary explosions and seven large fires at the Dong Ngan depot 13 miles northeast of Vinh.

Pilots from the carrier Oriskany hit a major ammo depot a mile west of Vinh, while other Oriskany fliers attacked a storage area 39 miles to the south. The Command said they caused five explosions and a huge fire at the fuel depot, and at the storage area destroyed more than 100 supply crates and damaged another 100.

A third target was the Cam Pha fuel depot 37 miles northeast of Haiphong. The Command said pilots from the Midway destroyed four supply buildings there and touched off a large explosion and a fire.

In South Vietnam, Communist forces rained rockets into the big air base at Bien Hoa during the night and carried out a series of air supply building there and scattered points.

The Saigon command said 15 Vietnamese were killed and 51 were wounded in the attacks. One American also was wounded, and eight U.S. and South Vietnamese planes were destroyed or damaged at Bien Hoa. Two-thirds

Nixon Luring Japan Trade

HONOLULU (AP) — President Nixon, beginning a round of mid-Pacific conferences today, put Vietnam first on the agenda, then a bid for a billion-dollar economic transaction from Japan.

Before opening formal summit talks with visiting Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, Nixon set aside the morning for a Vietnam review with Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. Ambassador to Saigon.

The President and Mrs. Nixon were on hand at Hickam Air Force base — a major target of Japan's 1941 attack that brought the United States into World War II — to welcome the stocky Tanaka, who was installed as prime minister only last month.

The President and his advisers hope two days of sessions with Tanaka will produce a formal agreement by Japan to place an extra billion dollars on orders for American goods ranging from jet aircraft to feed grain.

Actually, the U.S. government would like Japan to up the ante to $2 billion, but preliminary talks in Tokyo indicated the lesser amount was more likely.

Americans currently are buying Japanese goods worth $3.8 billion more than they are selling to the Japanese each year. This imbalance is one factor behind the weakness of the dollar in international money markets.

Nixon and Tanaka will also talk about developing ties between their two countries and China.

White House officials, the President and Mrs. Nixon are scheduling some activities that presumably could benefit the chief executive's campaign for a second term. Mrs. Nixon, for example, was to spend more than seven hours today on the island of Hawaii, visiting good-works projects and being feted at an evening luncheon.

Democrats Delaying Lawsuit

HARTFORD (AP) — Still tinkering Wednesday with their latest repositioning lawsuit, Democrats lawyers postponed until today the filing of the suit in U.S. District Court.

The goal of the suit is to prevent, by a federal court injunction, the holding of General Assembly elections on the constitutional date of Nov. 7.

The Democrats claim the time is too short to give the candidates "due process." Republicans claim the Democrats just don't want to be on the same ballot with their presidential nominee, Sen. George McGovern.

Is Meskill Developing A GOP Dynasty?

(Editor's Note: This is the first of two articles about Gov. Thomas J. Meskill's efforts to force the Grand Old Party of Connecticut into a new machine capable of bringing in another era of Republican dominance.)

BY DON MEKKE
HARTFORD (AP) — With a new cog here and a new gear there, Gov. Thomas J. Meskill is building an organization he hopes will keep the Republican party in power in Connecticut for a long time.

The Meskill machine will not be in the battleship class with that of Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago, but it may be a lot tougher than anything the Connecticut GOP has had since the palmy days of boss J. Henry Roraback.

Much of the building is going on at the town and city level where Meskill Republicans are being promoted into positions of local party leadership. It's being done quietly for the most part.

In Hartford, however, the process broke into public view with the election of Anthony DiFabio, a law partner of GOP state Chairman J. Brian Gaffney, as the new Republican town chairman.

"Until there are better results, there will be no jobs, promotions, pay raises or appointments to boards and commissions" on the state level, said the Gaffney letter.

Some old-line Republicans throughout the state have referred to the building of the machine as a "purge," because they see it taking away their influence.

After 16 years of drought under Democratic governors—Abraham Ribicoff and John Dempsey—many a staunch Republican hoped for recognition and reward from Meskill—only to find that a new breed was taking over the reins that he'd itched so long to hold.

"They figured they had stuck by the party in the lean years," says one Republican officeholder. "But you might also say that they had to be partly to blame for the lean years. Still, you can understand how they feel now."

Gaffney concedes "there is some flak" from his fellow Republicans. "Not everybody can be happy," says Gaffney. "But that's part of building an organization."

"It isn't a 'purge,'" says the chairman. "At least, I don't think of it as being that."

"We're concerned with voter registration. We have been working on it for months. I need the town committees," Gaffney said in an interview. "I need voter registration drives. And a good, active registrar is an important part of any party structure. We need someone who shows some action."

Will there be party unity at the end of the rebuilding process? "If we show some pluses, if we win some elections, I believe there'll be unity," said Gaffney.

In his quest for a more efficient, harder-working and loyal party apparatus, Gaffney has the wield. It's not just jobs and contracts; it's the power to boost loyal soldiers into nomination they want. And the stronger the organization gets, the more elections it can expect to win, the more it has to offer and the more workers it attracts. Once the process gets under way, it builds on itself.

Town Bans 'X' Movies

BERLIN, Conn. (AP) — A town meeting unanimously voted Tuesday night to vote on an ordinance regarding the showing of X-rated movies at a drive-in theater in Berlin.

The amendment enlarges the ordinance, which originally prohibited the showing of X-rated movies at the drive-in unless the screen is blocked from the view of passersby on the Berlin Turnpike, to include any X-rated or "Adults Only" film. Town officials said the theatre circumvented the ordinance, which was passed early in July, by showing films designated for "Adults Only" and which never have actually been rated.

The amendment takes effect 15 days following publication, expected later this week.

There were about 50 residents at the town meeting.

EVEN GOOD KIBBITZER MAY MAKE MISTAKES

As a sort of professional kibbitzer I don't mind admitting that a good kibbitzer has 30-30 hindsight and makes very few errors in bidding or play. That's why it's so pleasant to catch the daily bulletin of the national bridge tournament in an error. See if you can spot it in the discussion of today's hand.

West dealer

Declarer is forced to win in dummy with the queen.

South could still make the contract, the tournament bulletin observed, by ruffing three top diamonds and discarding the king of clubs. Even if East ruffed the third diamond with the ace of spades, South would be able to ruff the next club in his own hand and would then be able to draw trumps by finessing through West for the jack.

Daily Question

As dealer, you hold: SPADES, A-3; HEARTS, A-10-9-8-7; DIAMONDS, 2-5; CLUBS, J-8-6-5. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. You might open the bidding if the two jacks were in suits headed by the ace, but a pair of lousy jacks are not really worth very much for the purpose of opening the bidding. Don't strain to open a borderline

Hebron 825 Students Expected At Elementary Schools

An enrollment of 825 students is expected at the two elementary schools on opening day, Sept. 6, according to principals.

The increase over last year of 35 students will be absorbed at the Gilead Hill School where 375 youngsters are expected. The Hebron Elementary School registration is expected to remain at the 450 level reached at the close of last year.

Neither principal anticipates that it will be necessary to shift students once school starts, as was the case last year.

Instructions

Both schools will continue with open education or individualized school programs for children with many classrooms operating under this philosophy.

Paul A. White, principal at the Hebron school, along with five teachers from that school, attended a conference this month in New Hampshire dealing with British primary open education.

The conference centered around movement education, language, arts and democracy within the classrooms and the general philosophy of open education.

Teachers in both schools will be participating in several in-staff programs during the year, constantly bringing their programs of open education up to date.

A new mathematics program will be instituted with a switch to the Addison-Wesley math series as well as several individualized math programs.

There will be two kindergarten sessions (morning and afternoon) at the Hebron school with the children switching at mid-term.

At the Gilead Hill School, there will be three sessions which the principal hopes to attract more birds, giving each child an opportunity to attend both morning and afternoon sessions.

Hot lunches will be available at the schools on opening day, which will be a full day's menu. The cost will be the same as last year, 40 cents for students and 70 cents for adults.

Students should bring money the first day, and starting the following week collections will be made on a weekly basis for the lunches.

Forms

Both principals reported that transportation regulations.

Jane Fonda Bomb Pinup

TAKHLI AIRBASE, Thailand (AP) — Jane Fonda is no pin-up girl among American pilots. They write nude things about her on bombs they drop over North Vietnam.

The pilots at bases in Thailand are angry about claims made by the actress and other critics that American pilots are deliberately bombing dikes in North Vietnam.

"You want to know what I think of that?" said Col. George W. Rutter, commander of the 36th Tactical Fighter Wing, which has been bombing North Vietnam since 1966.

"I think it's a four-letter function in Anglo-Saxon."

"We are not and we have not struck dikes. We have not and are not targeted to hit dams, dikes or other flood-control systems."

Maj. Gary L. Alden, 37, of Grants Pass, Ore., an F4 Phantom pilot with 300 combat missions including 100 over North Vietnam, put it this way:

"I'm very irritated about the dike charges because it's far from true. I've never seen a dike targeted and I've never seen one hit."

Alden flew a raid on an army barracks Sunday and one on a storage area near Hanoi Monday. He said there was no need to bomb the dikes — "there's enough water around there at the moment without bombing the dikes."

Capt. Richard Hardy, 28, of Chicago, an F4 pilot who shot down a MIG21 July 28, said, "It's all a bunch of baloney."

Dixie Returning to Public Schools

Attendance in private all-white schools in the South — which mushroomed to a 500,000 enrollment this past school year — will continue to rise this fall, but school officials believe the trend is leveling off.

Record numbers of parents in Florida, South Carolina and Texas will put their children in private schools this fall, but even officials in several of those states believe the rate is slowing.

And in states such as Virginia and Mississippi, where white virtually abandoned public schools in some areas several years ago, officials say there is a slight trend toward returning to public schools.

"We've been getting 10 to 15 telephone calls a week from white parents who withdrew their kids last year and put them in Johnny-comelately private schools," said Robert Hilldrup of the Richmond, Va., city school system's public information office.

"We believe there will be some returns this season but whether it will exceed the normal outgo, we just don't know," Hilldrup added.

State departments of education often do not keep count of the growth of private schools and information about them is often fragmentary.

Hilldrup said school officials believe the segregation

Not a Requirement American Indians do not have to live on reserved land

Not a Requirement American Indians do not have to live on reserved land in either the United States or Canada, but they usually do so because the land is tax-free.

"Every time we talk to groups of parents," he said, "we tell them how important it is for their children not to be shifted around. Some private schools do not meet the standards of public schools, and later when the pupils attempt to re-enter the public school system, we find they may be a grade or more behind in actual classwork."

Gifts to Indians

Long before the first official inaugural medal was issued to commemorate a president, the U.S. Mint struck Indian Peace Medals, now known as the Presidential Series, and early presidents gave these medals to Indian chiefs as tokens of friendship.

Neither the state education department nor the Florida Council of Independent Schools could give an estimate of anticipated enrollment for the coming school year.

Both said, however, that they expected small increases.

"It's easy to see that many parents are taking their children out of public schools because they are unhappy with court-ordered busing," said Education Commissioner Floyd Christian.

Christian said he and other state education officials have been making frequent attempts to persuade parents to keep

Adult Evening School Classes

Fall semester Manchester Adult Evening School classes will start during the week of Sept. 18 and will end Nov. 27. Brochures listing class offerings and containing forms for mail registration are available in banks, libraries, the Municipal Building, and Manchester High School office.

Mail registration for all classes except automobile maintenance 1 and 2 and chair caning, which are filled, will continue through this week. In-person registration will be held at MHS Sept. 12 from 7 to 9 p.m.

Courses are non-credit and open to Manchester residents who are 18 years old or over and not attending public school during the day. Except for high school equivalency courses, residents are charged a registration fee per course. For non-residents, there is a tuition fee per course in addition to the registration fee.

Unless otherwise stated, classes are held at MHS. High school equivalency classes, to prepare students to earn a state high school diploma by taking a battery of tests, are scheduled as follows: Social studies, Monday, 6:30-8; English, Monday, 8-9:30; Room 211; mathematics, Thursday, 6:30-8; Room 114; science, Thursday, 8-9:30; Room 241.

Reading improvement, to develop flexibility in rates of comprehension, read with purpose, develop critical reading power and wider interest, and evaluate literature will be held Tuesdays from 7 to 9 in Room 240.

The following are class offerings by area:

South Windsor They Built a Football Field

"People were doubtful about relying on volunteers to do the job," Mrs. C. Decker, Board of Education member said, "but they came through for us and did a fantastic job."

The praise is for students, fathers and members of the South Windsor Boosters Club who worked hard and long to build a football field for South Windsor High School's first varsity games this year.

For three years the team has played only scrimmage games with other schools on a practice field in front of the high school.

Concerned for the morale of the athletes on not having a "real" place to play against out of town schools, Mrs. Decker, who is also the board's liaison for the 1972 school year. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Silway of 45 Ridgewood St.

The new president has been an instructor in the program for three years. At MHS, he is a member of the swimming and soccer teams. Round Table Singers, Student Council, and Scouting.

Outside school, he is an Eagle Scout and junior assistant scoutmaster of Troop 25. This summer, he participated in the Washington Internship Program sponsored by Sen. Lowell Weicker.

Other incoming IOH officers are Karen Magnuson, vice president; Kathy Blazau, corresponding secretary; Donna Anderson, business secretary; James Sulick, treasurer; Ellen Shalpin, public relations; and Gary Carlson and Jennifer Malone, sergeants-at-arms.

IOH, an organization of about 80 teenage volunteers, has worked with physically and mentally handicapped children. Every Sunday afternoon, September through May, the young people conduct a swimming program at the MHS pool for about 100 children from Manchester and area towns. Five classes, each 40 minutes long, are held from 1 to 4.

IOH has been conducting a fund-raising campaign for several years to build its own specially designed pool.

Columbia Students To Register

Mrs. Grace Pringle, GOP registrar and chairman of the Absentee Voter's Committee, is urging students who will enter college to fill out an absentee ballot application before leaving for school.

She said the simplest method is to make out the application at the town clerk's office. Tom Clerk Mrs. Rita Cloutier will mail the absentee ballots at the proper time.

Mrs. Pringle said the civilian ballots cannot be mailed or distributed personally before Sept. 22. However, the applications can be made out anytime.

Mrs. Pringle added that young people who have not been made voters and will be leaving for college should enroll before departing.

Undraged Drivers

Head Constable Guy Beck wishes to remind parents that they are responsible for undraged operators of any type of vehicle on public roads.

According to Beck, there has been an increase of undraged operators of mini-bikes, motorcycles and go-carts.

He said it is illegal to drive a motorized vehicle on the public roads unless licensed.

Swim Lessons

Swimming lessons, co-sponsored by the Red Cross and the Recreation Council, have ended for the season, according to Mrs. Robert Tuttle, program chairman.

She said 211 youngsters were registered. Red Cross camps were used to 114 youngsters for completing a particular course in the program. The other children were given certificates.

Racing Season Ends

According to Mrs. Nancy Nuhler, secretary-treasurer for the racing races, Martha Turek was in first place; Hank Burton, second; and Chick Shifrin, third.

In the novice seasonal races, first place went to Noreen Nuhler, second place to Dave Burgess, and third was a tie between Sandy Turek and Bob Ferrigno.

The regatta races for novices will begin at 11 a.m. Saturday with the second race following immediately. The third race will be Sunday at 3 p.m.

The senior regatta races will be Sunday at 11:30 a.m. and the third race will be Labor Day at 11:30 a.m.

Nearing A Repetition Point?

The New York Times the other day carried a news story, illustrated by a map, which presented the amazing scope of present day Japan's economic penetration of all the non-Communist nations in East and South Asia. The map spoke for itself. The words of the story described Japan's economic drive as one whose "speed and intensity has sent chills through her neighbors," as one which has spun a "web of economic dependency so strong that it would be difficult for the nations arching China to extricate themselves even if they wanted to" and as one which finds that "her steel builds virtually all the buildings, her cars and motorcycles dominate the roads, her ships fill the ports, her radios bring the news, and her advertising keeps both the region's press afloat and its cities lit up at night."

All this presents a picture which asks everybody, including the leadership of both the United States and Japan, whether history is compelled to repeat itself. Does mankind, do nations, ever learn?

Here we have Japan in practical possession, with the crucial exception, of course, of China, of all that economic empire which it was on its way to gaining once before, when it decided that a resort to arms was the only way it could continue an economic march which it saw the United States determined to prevent.

This time, Japan's progress has been by economic drive alone, without that accompanying military threat which began in 1931. We here in this country know that what this must be like in Asia, because we ourselves are submitting to the appeal, the economy, and the quality of various Japanese products.

History tells us that many of its wars had their origin in rivalries of an economic nature.

The questions, today, are these: Is the United States, fearful of Japanese domination of other markets, jealous of Japanese success inside our own domestic market, going to slip into a "yellow peril" syndrome again?

Is Japan, finding its economic advances being resented and challenged, going to decide that it must be ready to protect its economic empire with a military shield?

It would be pleasant to be able to give an assured answer that neither of these things could possibly happen with such wiser and more civilized nations as the United States and Japan have now become.

But a much smaller, less sweeping kind of answer would be more encouraging. It would tell us there is not now, in this country, the beginning of resentment against those Japs and their economic success, and that there is not now, in Japan, the beginning of a feeling that Japan must begin to consider rearming, after all.

The Nixonian Year

The anniversary of President Nixon's surprise adoption of what had hitherto been Democratic formulas for dealing with the two perils of inflation and unemployment finds the actual situation with regard to these two problems fairly satisfactory.

Inflation has slowed down. Employment has picked up.

The atmosphere is no longer that of threatening recession, but one of a strong, but moderate recovery.

This has to be considered good for President Nixon politically.

The actual conditions existing today behind the efforts of the political challenger, Senator McGovern, is making to awake the country to its economic misery. The country just doesn't feel miserable. The percentage of the population to which inflation is a vital problem is still the relatively small percentage of those retired or disabled with fixed incomes. The raw bite of the unemployment issue is still limited to those individuals who are actually suffering from it, and their number is not increasing.

If that is the economic, and the political reading, at the end of the year of the new Nixon policies, there is something much less clear.

That is the question of whether the conditions we now see have been created by the policies the President switched to a year ago. There is no provable answer to that question, and that leaves one imaginative option open.

It is quite possible that our economic conditions would have been about the same today, or possibly even better, if the President had done nothing extraordinary a year ago, or any time since, and had merely let the natural course of the economy develop itself, without attempts at extraordinary controls or extraordinary stimulants of any kind.

But if this is a possibility, if it could be argued that President Nixon had no real need, a year ago, to reach at last for those remedies the Democrats had been talking up for so long, then surely it is still a rather strange development for Senator McGovern now to be giving out with promises that he will be the one to remove all controls.

One has to assume, of course, that he is bidding for the ear of labor, which doesn't like the idea of controls when they happen to include control of annual wage increases.

But whether it was by White House policy, or by natural economic laws, that inflation and unemployment have become more bearable as problems during the past year, one thing deserves, we think, to be rated close to a certainty. That is that the condition of some slow down in the rate of income increase needed to take place in order for business recovery to begin. If we are now going to witness the metamorphosis of the New Dealer McGovern into the total free enterpriser, while President Nixon is still wearing the borrowed theories of Keynes and Galbraith, what can we say, except that this continues to be the age of wonders?

The New Scoring System

This is the week in which a famous golfer received world wide headlines for a new record he established.

It was not, however, a record which involved the number of strokes he had taken to complete an assigned round of play.

Nor was it a record reflecting his margin of victory over an opponent.

He set the record, this famous golfer, by getting to the point where he had won more dollars playing competition golf this year than he did last year.

Last year, he surpassed all previous records for "earnings" by a golfer in a single year.

Now he has established a new record, at $280,481 for the year to date.

Whether or not he would be able to establish such a record in the matter of dollars, and when he would do it, have been the prime questions about his progress through the tournaments this year.

Inside Report

What Kind Of Campaign?

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

Utica, Mich. — With White House aides still struggling to find the right formula in a campaign wholly unique for Richard M. Nixon, the President for the most part steered a bland and cautious course last Thursday in his first day on the stump following the euphoria of Miami Beach.

In contrast to all his previous eight campaigns for office, Mr. Nixon's grand design, this fall looks relatively simple: preserve the huge lead over Sen. George McGovern that, were the election held tomorrow, might conceivably result in a 50-state sweep with only the District of Columbia three electoral votes secure for McGovern.

To some of his advisers, the prohibitive odds now riding on the President rule out anything approaching the rock-'em-sock-'em campaign style that Mr. Nixon has made his trademark. That's why Vice President Spiro Agnew has been ordered to sheathe his sword. To these advisers the course is obvious: go slow on the curves, because McGovern is so far behind, and say nothing that would return Nixon-leaning dissident Democrats to the McGovern banner.

But some other advisers, including White House staff chief H. R. (Bob) Haldean and political aide Charles Colson, worry that a bland Nixon campaign might feel already dangerous over-optimism and lead the President down the fatal 1948 path of Thomas E. Dewey. Dewey's say-nothing campaign snatched defeat from the jaws of victory against Harry S. Truman. Mr. Nixon well remembers Dewey's collapse, but he is still ambivalent about his own campaign this year under somewhat similar circumstances.

Typical of the Haldean-Colson theory, which calls for only slight moderation of the traditional rock-'em-sock-'em Nixon style, was the way the White House sought to bar Democratic Rep. James O'Hara from the platform here in the gymnasium of the spanking new Dwight D. Eisenhower High School.

Utica is O'Hara's hometown. Consequently, the school board invited him to share the platform with Republican Sen. Robert Griffin when Mr. Nixon came to town to dedicate the school to Gen. Eisenhower.

But the White House staff, long conditioned to press every partisan advantage and ignoring the fact that barring the popular O'Hara could cost Mr. Nixon votes here, pressured the school superintendent. In the end, O'Hara was seated on the platform.

It is doubtful that the President himself knew anything of this alteration or would have countenanced the insult to O'Hara. In his talk to the children and parents of Utica, he generously gave O'Hara several friendly mentions.

Moreover, Mr. Nixon's apparent disposition to keep his campaign bland was clearly evident in what he said here. He rambled on for half an hour about his own school days, expounding the importance of such old American virtues as patriotism and hard work. The busing issue, by far the most explosive political factor in these parts, he never mentioned once.

But a formidable busing student demanding that Congress impose an immediate

Some or later, there ought to be some judicial decision on the issue of legislative redistricting in Connecticut which does not originate in whatever happened to be the political allegiance of the judge before he was appointed to the bench.

Superior Court Judge Walter Sidor is not, in our opinion at least, any special culprit in this regard, even though his ruling on the reapportionment angle has come in favor of the Republicans after procedures in which the Republicans made it clear they were maneuvering to have their case heard by him because he was a Republican, and after public comment which had predicted that his former party affiliation would prove a guide to his decision.

We note Judge Sidor no more responsible for happening to rule the way his own personal politics might indicate than we hold the original judicial panel which drew up the so-called Saden plan responsible for voting according to its political persuasions. Nor do we consider his verdict more controversial, because of political background, than the verdict of the three Democratic federal judges who once threw out the Saden plan.

For that matter, having court decisions follow political lines is nothing new. When we began covering Connecticut politics, the general appearance of the Connecticut judiciary was that it had been selected by Henry Roraback for the special purpose of protecting certain corporate interests in the state, and it was only after Wilbur L. Cross began to put a few Democrats on the state bench that the atmosphere changed a little.

Yet the important thing to remember, from that age, was that there were always judges developing who favored their own minds and their own sense of duty, and who, on occasion, did not hesitate to find the law something not at all written for the special benefit of Roraback. In such case, he could and sometimes did have the law rewritten, but at least he had to go to that trouble.

In this present era, the thing which seems to be forcing judges of all levels back toward their own original political origins is the nature of the business being pushed toward them.

To this layman's mind, at least, none of the judges involved have really had very much trouble finding the language and the argument for the rulings which happened to comport with their own one-time political allegiances.

They ought to be careful about what kind of stuff the judges are asked to deal with. In the present instance, the first and most crucial piece of carelessness in this regard came from the Supreme Court itself when, Justice Frankfurter, it volunteered itself, and therefore all subsidiary court jurisdictions, apparently, into the relatively detailed, mental, and almost administrative business of trying to run the election system of the country.

In this "thicket" which Frankfurter foresaw, there is a twig of legal premise for any position anybody wants to take, a branch upon which any weaver of argument can be hung, and through upon which any legislative branch point, at least, have not yet found the public interest a gainer in any respect.

So far, from this great one-man-one-vote reform business, both the legislative and judicial branches of government have suffered loss of reputation and dignity, and we, from the Connecticut vantage point at least, have not yet found the public interest a gainer in any respect.

Boyle Says: Women Hold Grudges Better Than Men

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK AP - Jumping to conclusions: Women are better than men at holding grudges. Partly, it's because they are not as lazy as men; partly it's because fewer things generally happen to women than to men. Because they lead more varied lives, men find it too much trouble to big a grievance to their bosom very long. Women, who get more mileage out of any situation, have more time to spend on either hate or love.

A lady reader writes in and wants to know what she can do with leftover braided veal cutlets. Personally, I've never had to face this problem. I've always made it an iron rule of life never to let lamb or braided veal cutlets enter my front door. They were still alive, it would certainly be the only possible thing I can think of to do with leftover braided veal cutlets would be to use them as ship ballast, but I doubt if you could wear them out no matter how many times you sailed them around the world.

Have you ever had a pair of handkerchiefs around your wrists? I never have, and never want to. That may not be much of a claim to fame—the mere fact a fellow's never been in jail—but if they were still alive, it would certainly surprise a lot of my old neighbors who were sure I'd wind up in the penitentiary.

Every knowledge has its limits. For example, I've met many men who learned in the army that to sew on a button—some even felt this relieved them of any need to get married—but I have never met a man who could make and sew a buttonhole.

You can bet that the guy who is so stiffless his wife has to take in washing usually wears dirty socks himself.

Two of the distances in this world hardest to bridge is the gap between an unemployed man and one with a job, and the gap between a millionaire and a multimillionaire.

If we all had our lives to live over again, we'd still probably do the same things—but at least we'd be looking for an easier way to get them done, and without so much wear and tear on the system.

When old people unexpectedly develop a greater love and appreciation of followers, this is an unconscious sign that they are becoming more reconciled to the approach of death to themselves. They recognize in the brevity of a flower's beauty the transience of their own being in the universal scheme.

Few things make a man feel more important over nothing than the preparing of his last will and testament. And isn't it a commentary on human nature that he gets more relish figuring who he wants to leave out of it than who he wants to put in?

A master thief is one who can steal an office clock off the wall 15 minutes before quitting time without being seen.

Hi Neighbor!

Last week was one of those weeks I'd like to forget. First our newspaper ad omitted the last paragraph which contained the list of items we were featuring our stalwart customers, tho not to be thwarted, bought lots of stuff that wasn't listed, or they bought things they didn't think we had . . . well, you get the idea. Secondly, the power company reduced power in the area and our air conditioners weren't working at full efficiency. Third, someone sold an item twice that we only had once and I was very embarrassed. Anyway, it was a good weekend for the Exceedin' people . . . they learned lots of colorful situations requiring the use of their product.

In this "thicket" which Frankfurter foresaw, there is a twig of legal premise for any position anybody wants to take, a branch upon which any weaver of argument can be hung, and through upon which any legislative branch point, at least, have not yet found the public interest a gainer in any respect.

A Thought for Today

"When the plants grew and the heads of grain began to form, then the weeds showed up. The man's servants came to him and said, 'It was good seed you sowed in your fields, where did the weeds come from?'"

Matthew 13:27

The garden had been planted very carefully with good seed, yet now there were weeds among the plants. Our Christian gardens, our spiritual lives, should contain weeds of faith, hope and love. But there are often the weeds of distrust, jealousy, backbiting, and, yes, even hatred.

Our job is to look over our gardens and see which are growing the better, the weeds or the plants. Then we can start to pull out the weeds one by one so that the rain, the air and the sun can reach the good plants. Then we will bloom into beautiful Christians!

From Your Neighbor's Kitchen

By Vivian F. Ferguson

Rudolph L. Libby of 420 Hilliard St. and his wife Alma like fresh vegetables from their own garden. Last year, Rudy put in yellow summer squash. To his surprise, he harvested zucchini squash. The Libbys liked the zucchini so much that this year they bought a packet of zucchini seeds. Only two zucchini plants have come up — the rest are all acorn squash.

Last year, the Libbys devised two recipes as a result of their zucchini crop so Rudy put his thinking cap on with regard to the acorn squash. Of course, it is quite small and green at the moment. He knew what to do with it when fully ripe but how about now?

Taking the small green acorn squash, he sliced it thinly and fried it in safflower oil with onions. This can only be done when the skin is tender.

Fried Raw Green Acorn Squash

Use small tender, unripened acorn squash. Leave skin on. Slightly about 1/2 inch thick. Place small amount safflower oil in frying pan, add cut-up onions. Fry onions until golden, add acorn squash. Cook until golden brown. Season to taste.

The Libby's are highly imaginative in their cooking. Both hold forth in the kitchen though Alma maintains Rudy doesn't clean up as well as she does. The happy give-and-take of a 40-year marriage is apparent in the good-natured kidding and loving glances.

Rudy is retired from the Fuller Brush Co. where he was employed for 45 years. He was supervisor of office supplies. "His is just an all trades job he can't do. Rudy does all the handwork about the house and grounds. He concealed all the open piping, fuse boxes, etc. in the basement so that an electrician who repairs man couldn't find the furnace. Rudy had concealed it behind sliding doors."

Outside the kitchen window is a plum tree lush with fruit protected with netting. The Libbys discovered they could keep 20 birds out but not the squirrels who would climb up the tree trunk and happily munch on the fruit. Rudy solved the problem by adding a cone shield to the trunk—a device used by sailors from the fruit. Rudy solved the problem by adding a cone shield to the trunk—a device used by sailors from the fruit.

"I don't have enough time to do all the things I want to do," says Rudy. "I like to putter and I've always cooked. I used to bother my mother when I was a kid. Alma and I try all kinds of dishes. If we hear of a recipe, we try it."

The Libbys celebrated their 40th anniversary in June of this year with a European trip. Alma's two sisters and their husbands went along to celebrate their 38th and 40th anniversaries as well. They were present when the exquisite Pieta was attacked and damaged.

"It was frightening," Alma recalls. "Outside, in the square thousands of people had gathered to see the Pope. We wondered what would have happened if a panic had occurred."

"The couple has three daughters, all married. Their youngest, Gail, lives at 41 Croft Dr. is the wife of John Banavigne. Jeanne lives in West Virginia and Barbara in Broad Brook. There are 10 grandchildren.

"Rudy is a hot dog lover. 'I'd rather have hot dogs than steak. I'm crazy about them.' The first recipe combines his favorite meat with zucchini. The second rice dish utilizes any left-over juice from the first recipe.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph L. Libby

One-Dish Zucchini with Hot Dogs
1 medium to large zucchini
2 onions
2 green peppers
2 large tomatoes, peeled
2 stalks celery
3 or more hot dogs
small amount cooking oil
Cut zucchini in cubes leaving skin on. Cut up onions, peppers and celery; add peeled tomatoes and sliced celery. Place small amount cooking oil in frying pan and add all of above; simmer until tender. Do not allow to stick to bottom of pan. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Utilize surplus juice in rice recipe below.

Rice Casserole
1 can condensed vegetable soup
1 plum tree lush with fruit
1 cup through blender (use un-diluted)
2 cups cut-up turkey or chicken
1-1 1/2 cups minute rice
1/4 cups cooked peas and carrots.
Canned, without juice
Place all ingredients in casserole. Add left-over juice from One-Dish Zucchini. Preheat oven to 400. Cover casserole and bake 15-20 minutes.
With apples and peaches abundant right now, here are two Libby suggestions. Rudy's mother would sometimes place pieces of American cheese under the top crust of apple pie before baking. Old-fashioned "store" or cheddar cheese is good too.

The peach dumplings are a little different and constitute an entire meal.

Peach Dumplings
5 fresh free-stone peaches, with stone in
1 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 cup cold water as needed
Sift dry ingredients and gradually add cold water, mixing with fork. Dough should be as soft as can be handled without sticking. Turn out on lightly floured board, rolling to about 1/4" thickness and cut into live equal pieces. Wrap a piece peach into each piece of dough. Drop dumplings into rapidly boiling water and let boil 10 minutes.
Use deep pan to avoid boiling over. If peaches are ripe, they will be well-cooked in this time. Remove from water and cut each dumpling in half.
To serve: over each dumpling, 1/2 cup of sauce.

Fashion Tips

Long for Evening
Long sweaters are being made for evening wear. They're cut in the traditional casual styles, but with fabrics like cashmere and angora and the new stretch length, a touch of sophisticated elegance is added.

Hold Onto Halters
Don't pack away those halter tops too soon. The halter motif will leave you with summer. The new flowing palazzo pants look great topped with halters and bare tops.

Blazer Interest
Cotton blazers in bright summery prints add a bit of interest to plain sleeveless dresses. The suppressed waist looks best on women with trim waists. Puff sleeves and shoulders should only be worn by smaller women.

Tolland Schools Expect An Enrollment of 2,822

Tolland's school enrollment is expected to reach 2,822 students when school opens Sept. 6, representing an increase of 150 students over last year.

The enrollment increase will be particularly noticeable at the Middle School and the high school, where incoming classes are larger than graduating classes. Last June, according to Dr. Kenneth MacKenzie, superintendent of schools, there were 2,672 students in the district.

Parents of kindergarten students are requested to pin labels with all other grades during the first three days of school next week, the school day will be shortened by one hour, to permit adjustments in the school bus routes, particularly those for kindergarten children.

Beginning Sept. 11, the morning and afternoon kindergarten classes will be dismissed one-half hour later than the above schedule, while all other grades will be dismissed one hour later.

Hot Lunches
Hot lunches will be served beginning the first day of school. Milk and ice cream will be sold in all four schools. The high school will also have the a la carte line of lunches, started last year, as well as the regular "Type A" lunch.

Milk prices will increase from four cents a carton to five cents, due to the increase in the price of milk and handling and labor costs. Adult milk will cost 10 cents.

Students lunches at Meadowbrook will cost 35 cents; at Hicks 40 cents; Middle School 45 cents and high school 50 cents. The hot lunches include the cost of a half pint of milk.

The Tolland school lunch program continues to be one of the most successful in the state, continuing to operate at a profit, without subsidy from the town, despite increases in labor costs and food prices in addition to the upkeep of equipment.

The Board of Education and Dr. MacKenzie have praised lunch director Evelyn O'Brien for her success, which the director attributes to the help of the staff.

How To Be A Nielsen Family For Token Pay

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — If Dinah Shore's morning television program had a jump in its Nielsen rating a few weeks ago, she may have a five-year-old daughter to thank.

For one week—Thursday—For one week—Thursday—we were one of the 1,200 families coast-to-coast keeping track of the television programs we were watching. The Nielsen people could tell us how many million people were watching their shows.

It started with a telephone call a week or two before our important week. "This is the Vee Corley residence," a man's voice asked. "This is long distance from Peoria," the voice said.

I looked up at the 12-inch portable my wife and I had spigared $100 on shortly after we were married eight years ago and said "Certainly."

"Do you have more than one set?" he asked. "No," I replied, beginning to feel a little embarrassed about being a one-set family.

He asked if we were willing to be a Nielsen family for a week and faithfully keep track of all television programs we watched in our family and report them without fail.

I vowed we would, on our sacred honor. Our Nielsen diary came in the mail a week later. The family home until shortly after 10:30 p.m.

When I work late, my wife, Carol usually adjusts her schedule to mine—going to bed late and sleeping late in the morning.

It took a bit of thinking, but we finally worked that out—as best we could. When Carol and I wrote record of television viewing in our home by all members of the family.

For most families, that might not be a problem. But many of Associated Press newsmen do not work the most regular hours. And most of that week I was assigned on an evening shift, not arriving home until shortly after 10:30 p.m.

With the diary were instructions saying, "your diary is important." Another section that told how we were "computer-selected from a list of households" in our community made us feel only a little less important.

However, Suzanne, our five-year-old, stays on a regular day schedule. She gets up, wakes someone up to fix her breakfast, and once breakfast is done and the parents are back in bed, she either takes out a toy and plays or watches television.

And there lay the problem. Suzanne, being pre-school-only writes a few words—Suzzy, stop, school, and a few others she learned from traffic signs.

Best of Days for One Sharpshooter As U.S. Wins Second Shooting Medal

MUNICH (AP)—It was the best of days for one sharpshooter. It was very nearly the worst of days for 10 others. It was the bitterest of days for one high flyer. It was the sweetest of days for another.

"I don't spend 30 hours a week at a hobby," John Wright said Wednesday after winning the three-position small-bore rifle and setting a bit of American Olympic history. "This is a sport I love."

By winning the gold medal at the 27th Olympic Games, the 27-year-old Chicago marksman gave the United States its second shooting medal, the first time the United States has won more than one in the traditionally European-dominated sport.

Wright scored a world and Olympic record 1,166 points out of a possible 1,200 in the prone, kneeling and standing positions. And the United States got its first shooting medal when Larry Rashman of Comanche, Tex., an Army marksmanship instructor at Ft. Benning, Ga., got the silver, finishing behind Wright with 1,157 points. The pole, with a newer weave of fiberglass than the old ones, came out last year and Seagren, rebounding from knee surgery, used it to set his world record of 18 feet 5 1/2 inches.

"After he set the record last month, the IAAF banned the pole saying it hadn't been available for world-wide use. On Monday, the IAAF reversed itself, reinstating the pole. On Wednesday the federation reversed itself again. It's a personal vendetta against me and against America," said the angry coach of Monterey Park, Calif. Seagren got a bit of good news—and Sweden a bit of disappointment—when it was announced that his stiffest competitor for the gold, Kjell Hakanson, would not compete because of groin and leg injuries.

Walkers Take Spotlight Track Athletes Ready for Test

MUNICH (AP)—The splendorous, $100-million Olympic Stadium here welcomes the world's greatest track athletes today in what the games' organizers hope will be the most accurate if not the most electric of running, jumping and throwing competitions.

The electricity will be provided by a plethora of computer-linked gadgets designed to more easily and accurately determine winners and their marks and speed the answers to the world.

Additional electricity on the first of nine days will be generated by what world record holder Dave Henry, Eddie Hart, Dave Wottle, Heide Rosenbach, Hildegard Falck and Paul Nihill.

The two final events on the card—the women's long jump and the men's 400-meter relay—will be the first day of track events that also enter the stadium from their 11.4-mile stroll through the streets, the 52-year-old Miss Rosenbach of West Germany may have the gold medal in the long jump.

Nihill, England's newest sensation, set the world record for the 20-kilometer walk at 1 hour 24 minutes 50 seconds, as he shared the mark of 1:25:19 set by East Germany's Peter Frenkel earlier this year.

Nihill is favored to win here but Frenkel and teammate Hans Reimann and Russia's Nikolay Smaga fill out a tough field. Before the walkers enter the stadium from their 11.4-mile stroll through the streets, the 52-year-old Miss Rosenbach of West Germany may have the gold medal in the long jump.

Meanwhile, the runners take the Reaktor track for the first time with Henry hoping to begin successful defense of his 400-meter intermediate hurdle crown. Henry is expected to meet America's Ralph Mann and Uganda's John Akai-Bus in the final next Saturday.

Then the sprinters take the track for the first round of the 100-meter dash featuring the two newest world record holders, Hart and Rey Robinson of the United States.

Smith Extended In U.S. Net Play

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—The spectators got more than their money's worth when play began in the U.S. Open Tennis Championships. No. 1 seed Stan Smith of Sea Pine, S.C. was put on the ropes by the 19-year-old Martin of Palo Verde, Calif. Smith, the 1971 and 1969 winner here, rebounded, however, for a 5-7, 6-1, 7-5, 6-3 triumph. But from the time young Martin, a national junior champion, reeled off 11 straight points in the first set until Smith got the necessary break in the fourth set, the match had the fans looking for an upset.

Matlack Asked for Help, McRae Fouled Up Strategy

MATLACK ASKED FOR HELP, McRAE FOUL UP STRATEGY. The New York Mets leftfielder had a 2-1 lead over the Cincinnati Reds Wednesday night when such a stranger — pinch-hitter Hal McRae — stroled to the plate in the seventh with none out and Reds at first and third. "I hadn't faced him since last year," Matlack recalled, "so I asked around the infield about him (shortstop Bud Harrelson) and he thought McRae was a high fast ball hitter who liked them away."

Olympic Jottings

MUNICH (AP)—Special high holiday services for Jewish competitors in the Olympic Games have been arranged at the Olympic Village chapel. Services are scheduled for the night of Sept. 8 and for the morning of Sept. 9 by the Israeli delegation. No competition involving Israelis is scheduled to last beyond Sunday Sept. 8 when the eight-day religious period for Jews begins.

MUNICH (AP)—"All kids are hard to coach now days," U.S. Olympic basketball coach Henry Bibb says. The 68-year-old Bibb, coaching in his third consecutive Olympics, had been asked if younger players — this is the youngest U.S. Olympic team ever — are harder to coach than older athletes.

MUNICH (AP) Lt. Col. Bill McMillan keeps having trouble with name mixups as a member of U.S. Olympic Teams. He won a gold medal for rapid fire pistol shooting in 1960, and now is taking part in his fifth Olympics. At one time, people kept knocking on his door when trying to find Bob McMillan, a middle distance runner.

Super Bowl Wins Hambletonian

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP)—Stanley Dancer won $20,000 into a $1,384,000 in two years without did it with Super Bowl. Super Bowl became the fastest 3-year-old trotter in history Wednesday by winning the Hambletonian in straight heats (1:57.25 and 1:56.25) and was sold to Hanover Shoe Farms in Pennsylvania for $1 million.

Balesano Hopeful

Jim Balesano, holder of the most touchdown records, points scored and total rushing yardage records, at Manchester High, began practice with the Trinity College varsity yesterday morning. Balesano, a three sport letterman while attending MHS, noted, "I'm probably in the best shape of my life. I have a real good shot at starting," the little but explosive running back added.

R Sox Staff Sharp

BOSTON (AP)—"I'll tell you something," said White Sox Manager Chuck Tanner. "That was as good pitching as we've seen all year in any series."

The comment was significant because Tanner was referring to the pitching staff of the Boston Red Sox, whose earned run average of 3.69 has not exactly struck terror into the hearts of enemy batters throughout the American League. Lately, though, things have been different. Luis Tiant pitched a five-hit shutout Tuesday night. On Wednesday, it was rookie Lynn McGlothen who hit the ball in a breaking ball in the dirt, then a fast ball. It got him into a bit of a snafu. It was coming to him that he was coming.

Yaz Trying to Shake Worst Slump of His Career

BOSTON (AP)—Carl Yastrzemski was talking to himself in the batting cage. "Just relax and be quick, that's the secret of this game. Relax and wait until the ball gets right on top of you. Just wait, and then explode." Yastrzemski waited, then tried exploding. Ground ball to second. Line drive to right. Pop-up. Yastrzemski swears. He is in the midst of the worst slump of his career while his team is in the midst of a pennant fight while the Red Sox defeated Chicago 4-2 Wednesday. Yastrzemski went 0-for-4, popping up twice, striking out three times and to short right. His average is now .251.

but he was looking for the fast ball and just waved at it. "He looked pretty good," Allen said. "That was as good pitching as we've seen all year in any series." He takes one more swing and hits a fly ball to right. "That's enough," he tells Kaslo. Kaslo nods. The Red Sox had the day off after a three-game series against Kansas City Friday night at Fenway Park. He takes one more swing and hits a fly ball to right. "That's enough," he tells Kaslo. Coventry Abatement Order Reissued by DEP

The Department of Environmental Protection has reissued a pollution abatement order to the Town of Coventry. The original order, first handed down a year and a half ago, had been held in abeyance at the town's request to see if solutions could be found to solve pollution problems, primarily in the lake and village area.

But yesterday, adhering to a Sept. 1 deadline to the town, the DEP reissued the order, citing sewers as the only answer to the affected areas.

The order was apparently released to a Hartford television reporter yesterday, according to Town Manager Dennis Moore who said last night he had not received official notification of the order, but expected it would be in today's mail. Members of the Town Council had not received official word, either.

Moore said the reporter was investigating background on Coventry's pollution problems and was apparently researching the DEP role when the order was released.

Town officials had expected some word from DEP on the status of the order early in September.

DEP is calling for sewers in affected lake and village areas to be operational by 1976, with funding methods all in order by next August.

The order means the town will probably have to take a revised sewer program currently under study to referendum. An earlier referendum in March of 1971 went down to overwhelming defeat.

Since the first abatement order in 1971, town officials have studied sewers, as well as other means of clearing up the pollution difficulties. Sanitary code enforcement has been under way for several months, and

Tolland Town Democrats Meet Saturday

Local Democrats "are doing the best they can to comply" with recent redistricting changes in the short amount of time in which they have to work, according to Democratic Town Chairman Charles Thifault.

Thifault pointed to the problems of the lack of time in a press release yesterday. "With the long Labor Day weekend, I am canvassing all town committee members to see if it is possible to get a quorum to hold a legal meeting." He has slated the town committee meeting for 9 a.m. Saturday in the hopes of avoiding disturbing too many holiday plans.

Thifault is a candidate for the General Assembly in the 53rd district of Tolland, Willington and Coventry, announcing his intent to seek election to the post several months ago, on the same date as the district's other Democratic candidate, Richard Crombie of Coventry.

Republican State Rep. Robert Kind of Tolland still has not publicly announced his intention to seek re-election, and some overtures have been made to First Selectman Erwin Stoetzer, asking him to seek the GOP nomination for the General Assembly.

Coventry's GOP Town Councilman Jesse Brainard had announced his intent to seek election to the General Assembly, but later withdrew from the race.

Both political parties are rushing the election process under the election calendar established by Superior Court Judge Walter J. Sidor, which puts the "Saden Plan" of reapportionment into effect, despite federal court rulings that the plan was unconstitutional.

South Windsor Nursery School Has Open House

Parents interested in sending pre-schoolers to a nursery school this year are invited to attend an open house at the "Learning Place" in the professional square at 1700 Ellington Rd. tonight from 7 to 9.

The new school will be under the direction of Mrs. Philip Choma of 65 Tumblebrook Dr. Classes will be taught by Mrs. Allan Crittenden who is a child development graduate of Purdue University.

Sessions will be held in the morning and afternoon for three- and four-year-olds and for four-year-olds who are not going to kindergarten this year.

For further information, Mrs. Choma may be reached at her home.

FISH Film

The South Windsor FISH organization will make available to any local clubs or organizations interested in the activities of FISH a film and speaker who will explain what the organization is pursuing in the town.

South Windsor FISH has 100 volunteers who contribute 1,000 hours of their time to local residents who are in urgent need of special services.

Mrs. Roger Cottle, Clinton Dr., chairman of FISH; or Mrs. Charles Carter of 451 Rye St., may be contacted for speaker and film reservations.

The group is also looking for persons interested in joining the group who can donate one day a month as a volunteer. They are asked to contact Mrs. Cottle or the FISH "Hotline" number 643-1055.

Bolton Schools Open Wednesday

Bolton schools will open Wednesday with a full day's schedule, according to Dr. Joseph Castagna, superintendent.

Teachers will meet elementary school buses as they arrive and will direct children to their respective classrooms. Parents of kindergarten students are asked to provide children with name tags and to label articles of clothing such as hats, sweaters, raincoats and rubbers.

Hot lunches will be served for Grades 1 through 8 at a cost of 45 cents. Students are asked to purchase tickets for the entire week on the first day of class.

The following is the menu for next week (all lunches include milk and bread):
Wednesday, juice, hot dog on roll, tossed salad and chocolate cake.

Thursday, punch, meat grinder, carrots and celery sticks, jello.

Friday, batter fried fish, cole slaw, applesauce.

Milk and cookies are available for kindergarten students at a cost of 50 cents per week. Cost for the first three days will be 30 cents.

High School

Since there are no hot lunch facilities at the high school,

Firemen Elect John Mordavsky

John Mordavsky has been elected president of the Health and Welfare Organization of the Town Fire Department. He succeeds Raymond Thompson, who was acting fire chief at the time of his recent death and who had been president since 1959.

Walter Scadden was elected vice president. Re-elected were William Whitaker, secretary since 1964; and Richard Paul, treasurer.
